Wm Speer

THE SAN FRANCISCO THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY
Stack ....
Case ....
Shelf..........
San Anselmo

PRESBYTERIAN HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF CALIFORNIA
ORGANIZED 1909
NO. ....

DONATED BY REV. WM. SPEER

The Christian

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.] [REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER.

No. 779.] THURSDAY, JANUARY 1, 1885. [ONE PENNY, POST FREE, 1½d.

PRESBYTERIAN HIST. SOC. OF CALIFORNIA

CONTENTS.

A New Period: its Dangers.
REV. W. GUEST 7
Opportunity is Responsibility.
MR. JAMES BOWKER 8
Work among Neglected Youth 9
"In the Beginning, God."
PASTEUR MONOD 10
Notes on Scripture.—22 11
For the Young 12
When Disaster means Defeat 12
Shipwrecked Mariners 13
New Zealand Notes 13
Central African Mission 13
Poetry—The Past Year 13
Young Men at Breakfast 14
Dr. Somerville in Corinth 14
Rev. E. P. Hammond at Liverpool 15
Notes and Comments 16
Poetry—At the Old Year's Grave 18
Arabs and Kroumirs 18
The False and the True in Italy 19
The Women of India 19
Messrs. Fullerton and Smith 20
English Governesses in Paris 20
West-End Misery 21
Mr. Murphy and the Prisoners 21
The Children's Cry 22
Events in Madagascar 22

FRIENDLESS AND FALLEN.

See Psalm cxv. verse 1:—

> "Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy name give glory, for thy mercy and for thy truth's sake."

Summary of the work of the HOMES and the OPEN-ALL-NIGHT REFUGE during 1884. Admitted to the Homes about 420; to the OPEN-ALL-NIGHT REFUGE, 690.

THE PRIMARY OBJECT sought is to bring young women and girls to the knowledge of THE TRUTH AS IT IS IN JESUS. More than 1,000 Gospel Services have been held in the Homes during 1884, with many tokens of blessing.

The Reclaimed are provided with SITUATIONS and SUPPLIED with OUTFITS, or otherwise assisted. As far as possible, supervision is exercised over former inmates.

The Committee GRATEFULLY thank every donor who contributed during the past year. The work of 1885 will be entered upon the same lines as in the past, viz.:—TO WELCOME all suitable applicants, irrespective of any fluctuations of income.

Contributions will be thankfully received by Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT, Office of THE CHRISTIAN, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.; Bankers, LLOYDS, BARNETT, BOSANQUET BANK (Limited), 73, Lombard-street, E.C.; or Office: 200, Euston Road, N.W. EDWARD W. THOMAS, SEC.

SADLER'S WELLS THEATRE SERVICES.

TO FRIENDS OF GOSPEL WORK,—

Really we had so many cases of manifest blessing here last winter that I felt constrained, on my own responsibility, to re-open the Theatre in October last for another six months' Sunday Evening Gospel Services. Hitherto the funds have come in, but are now quite exhausted. Our Congregation goes on ncreasing (we have now an average attendance of 1,200), and anxious souls at every meeting. Only £30 s required to carry us through the remainder of the season. Must we give up? Nay, rather who will help?

Yours obediently,

WILLIAM CATLIN,

17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London.

Or Office of THE CHRISTIAN.

The following are interested in this work, and have taken part in the Services:—

Alderman R. N. FOWLER, M.P.
Mr. GAWIN KIRKHAM.
Major SETON CHURCHILL.
Mr. FREDERICK NEWTH.
W. HAIG MILLER, Esq.
Miss S. C. WATTS.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

George Holland thankfully acknowledges receiving from Winifred, 2s. 6d.; Anonymous, 2s. 6d.; 15s.; £2; £5. For work among factory girls, £2; Parcels from A. O. B.; C. O. J.; Anonymous.

The Infant Day Nursery. Mutual Industrial Classes for Lads. Classes and Meetings for Rough Boys and Girls. Mission to Inebriate Women. Poor Women's Sewing Class. Rations of Food to Hungry Children. Clothing lent to Ragged Children, and other Missionary Agencies in operation.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to George Holland, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

IRISH CHURCH MISSIONS TO ROMAN CATHOLICS.

JAN. 16, 1885.

The 36th Anniversary Prayer Meeting will be held in Exeter Hall on Friday, January 16, at 3.30 p.m. The Committee earnestly invite the co-operation of their friends in observance of this anniversary, and ask that prayer may be made for their guidance in the promotion and extension of this love and mercy throughout Ireland.

Horace W. Townsend,
Clerical Secretary.
11, Buckingham-street, London, W.C.

REDUCED GENTLEWOMEN.

To the Editor of The Christian.

Sir,—As Hon. Sec. to the Luther Memorial Home, I shall feel very grateful if you will allow me through your columns, which are ever advocating the claims of suffering humanity, to plead for a share of the pecuniary aid so liberally forthcoming at this season. I will not distress your readers by dwelling on the numerous cases of poverty, and consequent privation, brought before me, by those who have "seen better days." Since the above Home was proposed, a year since, two hundred pounds have been received. This sum being insufficient, I hopefully appeal for a shilling donation from each of your readers, none of whom would be poorer for the small gift. A few thousand shillings would soon realize the sum required, and cheer many a lonely heart with a ray of hope, that their last days will not be spent within the dreaded portals of a Workhouse. A little of the sympathy which was the burden and passion of our blessed Lord's existence, "I will not send them away empty, lest they faint by the way," would speedily supply the small sum needed to establish this great want.

Contributions thankfully received by the Treasurer, Miss Julia Fox, 54, Kensington-park-road, Ladbroke-square, London; or by the Hon. Sec., Miss Corke, 120, Ledbury-road, Bayswater, London.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society of the National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, 25, Queen-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for contributions in aid of the poorer patients and their families. The smallest gifts in money or clothing will be thankfully acknowledged by the Committee. Flannel is much needed.

BETHESDA MISSION, Portsmouth, with which is incorporated the Portsea Island Town Mission. Established 1856.—Objects:—1. House-to-house visitation in the poorest districts for instruction in the Word of God. 2. The distribution of the Scriptures and simple Gospel Tracts. 3. To hold Mission Services, Cottage Meetings, and Sunday Schools. 4. To assist deserving poor and sick persons. 5. To give occasional free teas to the poorest classes, as a help to the ministry of the Gospel. The Mission is Evangelical and Unsectarian. Superintendent—Commander B. H. Key, Downham, St. Edward's-road, Southsea, who will gladly receive contributions for the work.

THE HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN, Soho-square. President, the Earl of Shaftesbury, K.G.

The Committee appeal to the benevolent for Contributions in aid of the funds of this important and useful Institution, which includes, in addition to a large Out-patient Department,—

(a) Free Wards.
(b) Wards for patients able to pay a small weekly sum.
(c) A commodious wing for gentlewomen unable to command at home the attention they require.

N.B.—All the beds in each department are in use, and the current expenses are very heavy.

Bankers: Messrs. Barclay, Bevan & Co.; Messrs. Ransom, Bouverie & Co.

David Cannon, Secretary.

COW CROSS MISSION.—Gospel Services, Sadlers' Wells Theatre.—Glo'ster Hall. Clerkenwell, "Ragged London in centre." Dinners to destitute children, &c. Funds urgently needed.—William Catlin, General Superintendent, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville.

FAITH-HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. John Allen or his helpers. Sundays, 3 p.m., and Mondays, 7 p.m., Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney, London, E. Thursdays, 7 p.m., The Hall, 110, High-street, Shoreditch. Addresses, Testimony, and Anointing. Special: Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney. Fridays, 7 p.m., Baptism of the Holy Ghost and Power for Service. No meeting at Horsley-street, Camberwell, on Tuesday, Jan. 6, 1885.

CHRISTIAN MISSION AND RAGGED SCHOOLS, Pontymoil, near Pontypool, Mon. President, R. Cory, Esq., J.P., Cardiff.—Funds are urgently needed to carry on this Mission. The operations consist of Village Missions; Evangelistic Services; Open-air Meetings; Ragged School; Night School (for men employed at collieries, ironworks, &c.); Shorthand Classes; Temperance Meetings; Bible Readings; Cottage Meetings; Children's Services; House to House Visitation; Young Men's Meeting; Relief of Food and Clothing to the well-known deserving Poor.—P.O.O. made payable at Pontypool, Cheques crossed Bristol and West of England Bank, to Thomas M. Wintle, Hon. Supt.

UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF

H.R.H. THE PRINCESS CHRISTIAN.

MRS. HILTON'S CRECHE,

Infant Infirmary & Orphan's Home,

12, 14 & 16, STEPNEY CAUSEWAY,

Commercial Road, E.,

AND

TRAINING AND CONVALESCENT HOME, THE LIMES, FELTHAM.

Dear Friends,

The present is a time of extreme need. I therefore most earnestly solicit contributions, feeling sure that I have only to make our position known, to enlist your aid and sympathy; especially as I plead for the helpless little ones who fill our homes, and who but for the shelter afforded would be in circumstances too sad to contemplate. May He to whom the silver and the gold belong, incline your hearts to send speedy and liberal aid, so that we may, as in former times, realise that the Lord is our help in time of trouble. Yours in the Master's service,

MARIE HILTON.

Clothing and Toys for Christmas will be gladly received, and may be sent to the above address.

Cheques and postal orders may be sent, addressed to
Mrs. MARIE HILTON,
Langveld House, 234, Burdett-road, Limehouse, E.

YOUNG LADIES' WESLEYAN COLLEGE

(PENSIONNAT EVANGELIQUE),

NIMES, SOUTH OF FRANCE.

This establishment, situated in one of the finest towns of the South of France, has been in existence for forty years, and has deservedly obtained a high reputation for its scholastic efficiency. It has trained 800 pupils, 200 of whom, before leaving, obtained the Government diploma. The premises, comprising an extensive garden, are the property of the French Methodist Conference. The moral and spiritual direction of the school is entrusted by the Conference to a minister who resides on the spot. The sanitary condition of France is now as good as ever, and the climate of Nimes is remarkably dry and healthy, the winter being always short, and the spring and autumn long and pleasant. Many delicate young ladies have found a residence at Nimes the means of invigorating their constitutions for life. Terms: Board and tuition for the scholastic year (10 months), £40, or with a separate bed-room, £50. The next term will commence at the beginning of January, 1885. Application for admission should be made to Paster O. Prunier, Principal and Chaplain, 1, Rue de Sauve, Nimes, France. Pastor Jules Guiton, Rue Thiers, St. Pierre lés Calais, and Pastor J. P. Cook, 16, Rue Demours, Paris, would be disposed to meet the young ladies at the station in Calais and in Paris, the two only places where they have to stop, so as to relieve them from any difficulty in travelling from Calais to Nimes.

FIVE SCHOLARSHIPS.

CAMDEN SCHOOL, BRIGHTON,

Principal:

MR. WILLIAM OLDING.

MR. B. W. NEWTON will (D.V.) Lecture at Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, at 11 o'clock, on Thursday, Jan. 1; and also on Thursday, Jan. 8, after which the Lectures will be discontinued for a season.

EARNEST APPEAL FOR HELP.—A Clergyman who has the charge of one of the poorest and most scattered parishes in South Wales, asks for help to assist in relieving and comforting many destitute and poor families at this Christmas season. He has two Mission districts, for which he needs help, and many he wishes to relieve, whom he is not himself in a position to assist. He will be very thankful for any help.—Rev. Arthur Griffiths, Gilwern, near Abergavenny.

GEE-STREET Christian Mission and Ragged School, Goswell-road, earnestly solicits donations to continue the good work of preaching, teaching the Gospel, temperance, and relieving deserving poor.—Bankers, Barclay & Co., 54, Lombard-street; Treasurer, Robert Baxter, Esq., 6, Victoria-street, Westminster; Hon. Secretary, Rudgley, 82, Wood-street, Cheapside.

PRAISE MEETING, 12 NOON, JANUARY 5, CENTENARY HALL, 17, Bishopgate Within, E.C. (see page 28), Members Evangelistic Choirs invited, also to subsequent meetings, week of prayer. Bayswater, Bow, and Stratford omnibuses. Trains to Broad-street or Monument.

BETHSHAN.—Faith Healing Home, 161, Islington, Liverpool. For particulars apply to Miss Gibbs.

LIVERPOOL. BETHSHAN Faith Healing Home, 161, Islington. Meetings for Holiness, Healing, and Testimony, Tuesdays, 3 p.m.; Thursdays, 7.30 p.m.

For furtherpar ticulars, apply Miss Gibbs.

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, Alderman R. N. Fowler, M.P. (Ex-Lord Mayor); J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman; Mr. Ex-Sheriff Clarence Smith, Hon. Secretary.

For ninety-nine years this Institution has visited and relieved the destitute sick, by an entirely unpaid agency, consisting of over 250 Christian men and women. Many sad cases have constantly to be passed over from want of funds.

The Committee will be thankful for the Society being remembered in the testamentary arrangements of the benevolent.—Office of the Society, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

B. H. Gerrans, Secretary.

PRIVATE HOME-HOSPITAL, 9, Lupus-street, St. George's-square, South Belgravia, for Ladies and Children (medical, surgical, and obstetrical cases). Situation most healthful.—For terms, apply to the Lady Superintendent at the Hospital, enclosing stamped envelope.

£200 URGENTLY REQUIRED to complete the building of Mission Chapel and School, in very promising rural district near Enniskillen, Ireland. An appeal is now made to the readers of The Christian for assistance, local resources being exhausted. Contributions will be gratefully received and acknowledged by Mr. S. B. Humphreys, Fair View, Enniskillen, Ireland.

CRIPPLED BOYS' HOME, Kensington, W. President, the Earl of Shaftesbury.—This charity was instituted in 1865 to feed, clothe, educate on Christian principles, and teach a trade to crippled boys between 12 and 18 years of age, so that they may be able to support themselves on leaving the Home. Trades taught: Carpentering, tailoring, relief stamping, saddlery and harness work. 80 boys now in the Home; 100 boys can be accommodated, if funds allow. 300, after three years' training, are now gaining their own livelihood. Several friendless crippled boys waiting admission. Contributions urgently needed to pay £4,500 for building expenses.

H. R. Knipe, Hon. Sec

RESCUE WORK IN POPLAR.—Manor Cottage, Kersey-street, Poplar, E. Founded by Mrs. Wilkes, 1878. Treasurer, Henry Green, Esq., Blackwall, E. Miss Cooke, 68, Mildmay-park, will also receive contributions for this work of mercy. Mrs. Wilkes at home Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, to see friends and give information respecting this effort to seek and save the lost.

Educational.

TO GODLY PARENTS.—The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, DELIGHTFULLY SITUATED FACING THE SEA on the South Coast, a short run from London, in which a thorough and first-class Education is given, based upon the teaching of the Holy Scriptures.

It is one of the few remaining schools in which the power of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ influences the hearts and conduct of the pupils.

The success, happiness, and training of the Boys have been so remarkable in this school that a BOOK OF TESTIMONIALS GIVEN BY THE PARENTS, together with the papers of Examinations passed and Honours gained, should be read to appreciate results so unusual. Two Vice-Chancellors have placed their wards as pupils in the school. Reference kindly permitted to Dr. Thorn, Paddington, London.

WATERLOO HOUSE SCHOOL, Leamington.—Principal, the Rev. Arthur Sewell, M.A. (Author of "Daily Thoughts for Schoolboys"). Preparatory for public schools. Terms moderate.

EASTBOURNE OLD SCHOOL, The Gables, Eastbourne.—Head Master, D. Stroud, M.C.P.; Second Master, J. C. Morton, Esq., B.A. (Oxon.); Music Master, E. Redhead, Esq., Mus. Bac. (Oxon.); Art Master, S. Shelton, Esq., Royal Academy Exhibitor. Terms moderate and inclusive. References given to Christian parents. The next term will (D.V.) commence January 20th. A Christian Gentleman required as Junior Master.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES, Larkbeare, Exeter, Devon (for Resident Pupils only). Established 25 years. Miss Bamber and Miss Churton, assisted by an efficient staff of resident certificated teachers and visiting professors, offer every educational advantage to parents seeking a Christian training for their daughters. Pupils always accompanied to and from London. Unexceptionable references to parents of present pupils. In association with the above is Clarendon House, Topsham, offering the same educational advantages, with pure, bracing sea-air, especially adapted for girls of delicate habit.

CLARENCE HOUSE, Pellatt-grove, Wood-green.—Mrs. Silvester, assisted by efficient teachers and visiting professors, receives a few Boarders, to whom she offers educational advantages, with the comforts of a home and very careful training. References kindly permitted to Mr. R. C. Morgan, 12, Paternoster-buildings, and parents of pupils.

SEASIDE, Southport.—Superior School for Young Ladies. Conducted by a member of the Church of England (Evangelical), assisted by English and foreign governesses, and eminent visiting professors. Pupils prepared for Trinity College examinations.—Miss Poole, Eagley Bank, Southport. Referees, Rev. Canon Clarke, Southport, and Rev. John Burbidge, Everton-road, Liverpool.

BRISTOL BIBLICAL INSTITUTE. For Young Men desirous of being trained as Candidates for the Ministry or Town Missionaries.—Send a stamped envelope to Rev. P. Prescott, Coronation-road, Bristol.

CLAPHAM COMMON.—A Lady of much educational experience receives a limited number of young Ladies as Resident Pupils. Christian and refined influences, with careful mental culture. Special advantages for Modern Languages and accomplishments. High-class professors attend. Prospectus on application.—Alpha, care of Mr. Bachhoffner, Bookseller, High-street, Clapham, S.W.

MONTREUX, Switzerland.—Madame Dolmatoff. Christian home for young Ladies. French and German taught. Other branches of education if required. Reference, Rev. Denham Smith, 38, York-terrace, Regent's-park, London.

BATH.—Grosvenor College.—(Ladies.) Healthy suburban situation. English and foreign Governesses. Ten masters. Since 1879 two hundred and forty-five certificates gained. All candidates passed Cambridge Local, 1883. Four in Honours. Moderate inclusive terms. Vacancy for Governess-Student.

EDUCATION.—Fraulein von Grieshiem, Diez a.d. Lahn, near Ems, receives a limited number of pupils. Resident French and German governesses. Music, piano, violin, singing, painting. Lawn tennis. Highest references.

SOUTHDENE, Ramsgate.—Splendidly situated Home for delicate children requiring sea and country air, combined with educational advantages. Under the personal supervision of experienced Christian Lady. Prospectus on application. Terms moderate.

A LADY, who has taught in the family of Sir Joseph Fayrer for six years, is open to an engagement as Governess, Lady-Housekeeper, or Companion, or in any post of trust in a Christian family. Excellent references.—B. A., J. Rivolta, Esq., The Manor Way, Blackheath-park, S.E.

KILBURN COLLEGE.—A Christian home for a few Boarders, to join the Principal's family. Boys from 12 years of age successful at the Cambridge Local and other exams. References to India, &c., and to Very Rev. Dr. Vaughan, Rev. Grattan Guinness, &c. Fees moderate and inclusive.—Henry Carvill, 9, Somerset-terrace, Carlton-road, Maida-vale.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL for Little Boys, near Brighton. Locality healthy. Home comforts, Christian training. Special attention to delicate, backward boys. Separate beds. Visiting masters. Twenty guineas.—Lady Principal, Hamilton Lodge, Hurstpierpoint, Sussex.

THE OLD HALL SCHOOL,
WELLINGTON, SHROPSHIRE.
Principal: Dr. Cranage.

EDUCATION.—High-class School for Young Ladies desiring the advantage of Finishing Masters, certificated Governesses, and personal supervision, with home comforts. Terms moderate and inclusive. Highly recommended by parents and pupils, and Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.—Prospectus on application to Mrs. Hale, 1, Carlton-mansions, Clapham-rise, S.W.

"Balham, May 29, 1880.

"I am very reluctant to recommend schools, because I am not always able to judge of the interior arrangements; but in this case I have the utmost pleasure in standing as reference. I can highly commend Mrs. Hale, and have the greatest confidence in her capacity, management, and character, having known her for many years.
"C. H. Spurgeon."

EDUCATIONAL HOME for the Daughters of Gentlemen, Fair View, 89, Cazenove-road, Stamford-hill, London, N.—Miss Brown and Miss Good (who for ten years conducted Mrs. Pennefather's Educational Institute at Clapton House) receive about 20 Resident Pupils. First-class education, with careful Christian training, and home comforts. Preparation for the University Local Examinations. Children from India and the Colonies received, and lovingly cared for. References kindly permitted to Mrs. Pennefather, J. E. Mathieson, Esq., and others. Prospectuses on application.

LADIES' COLLEGE, Goudhurst, near Tunbridge Wells.—Conducted by the Misses Kendon, daughters of the Rev. J. J. Kendon.—A happy home and School for Girls. The situation is exceedingly healthy and beautiful, being on the range of hills near Tunbridge Wells, and about four hundred feet above sea level. Pupils prepared for the College of Preceptors' and the Cambridge Local Examinations.—For prospectus, with references, apply to Miss R. Kendon, M.C.P. Terms, 27 guineas per annum.

SOUTHPORT. — First-class Girls' School. Conducted by members of the Society of Friends. Special educational advantages. Masters and Lecturers of acknowledged merit. Watchful care and home comforts. Situation particularly open and healthy.—Mrs. Wallis, Brighthelmston, Birkdale, Southport.

HASTINGS. —Wellington College for Ladies, 4, Wellington-square. Head Mistress, Miss De la Mare. Honours in the L.L.A. Examination for women. Science and other certificates. Pupils prepared for the local and higher examinations. Kindergarten department for young children. Vacancies for two boarders.—Prospectus on application to the Secretary, Rev. F. Leaver.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY TRAINING for Holy Orders at Theological College rates. Ayerst Hall, Cambridge, opened by the Vice-Chancellor, April 21, 1884. Principal—Rev. W. Ayerst, M.A., Hulsean and Norrisian Prizeman. Chaplain—Rev. J. Mayo, B.D. Assistant Tutor—W. H. Smith, B.A. Fee, £25 a term, for board, lodging (furnished), tuition, and University charges. Theological course, six terms.—Address, Principal.

SOUTHSEA.—A Clergyman is anxious to recommend a first-class School for a few girls, exclusively Gentlemen's Daughters, where his own daughters finished. Thorough teaching. Sound Christian training. Terms to fill one vacancy at Christmas, forty guineas per annum. —Rev. J. Johnson, Britwell Rectory, Watlington, Oxon.

HOLLAND HOUSE, Clarence-parade, Southsea.—School for the Daughters of Gentlemen. Special educational advantages, with home comforts and care. Indian charges received. References kindly permitted to the parents of present and former pupils. Prospectus on application to the Principal.

EDUCATION.—Two young Ladies can be received in a first-class School in London, on greatly reduced terms, to fill vacancies. Home comforts, good masters, and careful supervision. Most highly recommended by parents of pupils.—For address and prospectus apply to
G. A. N., 69, Southwark-bridge-road, S.E.

EDUCATION.—A Governess-Pupil required in a first-class School in London. Small premium required. Advantages: languages, and music.
Alpha, Dudley Library, 228, Clapham-road, S.W.

KREUZNACH.—Fräulein Amalie Bechtel offers a Christian Home for young Ladies who wish to learn German and French. She is assisted by two nieces, both born at Paris. Terms moderate. Best references. — For information apply to Mr. H. Borckenstein, 13, Moorgate-street, E.C.

A WELL-EDUCATED GERMAN LADY seeks an engagement in family or school, to teach German or music; or as Housekeeper. Has good experience in taking charge of children.
Dr. H. P. Ziemann, Lorne-villas, Margate.

A GENTLEMAN, aged 24, seeks a Private Tutorship. Good English; also Latin and French. A year and a half's experience in teaching.
E. J. T., 31, Mornington-road, London, N.W.

RICHMOND PARK SCHOOL for Boys, Kingston-on-Thames. — Careful Christian training. Sound commercial education. Abundant diet. Beautiful and healthy locality. Inclusive terms, 20 to 25 guineas.
Apply Principal, Mr. W. Dixon.

MT. RADFORD SCHOOL, Exeter. —During the last ten years pupils have obtained upwards of 150 certificates in the Oxford, Cambridge, College of Preceptors', and London University Examinations. Of these, twenty-two passed in honours, and twelve obtained prizes. The Word of God is made the sole basis of a careful Christian training. References to parents of past and present pupils.
Principal, E. H. Vine.

CAPTAIN MORETON has much pleasure in recommending Mr. Foster, as an educator, to those parents who value a judicious training for their sons.—Kelvedon School, Essex.

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL in Highgate.—The Rev. G. D. Bartlet, M.A. (late Head Master of Mill Hill School), receives twelve Boarded Pupils. Able assistant masters, superior home, individual attention, thorough grounding, and careful religious training. Highgate is strongly recommended by the medical profession. — Reference permitted to the Rev. W. E. Boardman, 3, Highbury-park.

WESTON - SUPER - MARE.— The Misses Rodham, assisted by good Masters and Resident Governesses, receive the daughters of Gentlemen as Resident Pupils, whose training and education they personally superintend. For delicate girls the climate has proved most beneficial. Reference is kindly permitted to Mrs. Pennefather, Mildmay-park, London, and to the relatives of pupils.—For terms, address
Misses Rodham, Weston-super-Mare.

A RESIDENT MASTER wanted, in a Preparatory School for young gentlemen, age 20 to 25. Earnest Christian, good disciplinarian. Able to teach English, Latin, and French to junior boys.
Miss Rich, Sandringham House, Margate.

HOME AND EDUCATION for delicate and Indian children. Reference kindly permitted to Rev. Horace Newton, Vicar of Driffield, and parents of former pupils.—Mrs. Dawson, Lockwood-street, Driffield, East Yorks.

SWISS BONNE, Protestant Christian, wanted, firm but kind, for two boys, seven and six. Teach and speak French. Good needlewoman. Well mannered.
Mrs. Law, 48, Stephen's-green, Dublin.

EDUCATION.—Vacancy in a good Ladies' School for three Boarders. Home comforts. Motherly care. Young Governess Student can be received. Terms most advantageous.
Principal, 41, Lewisham High-road, S.E.

A LADY wishes to arrange with a Governess (Church of England), not under twenty-seven years of age, for Junior Classes. English, music, and French. Small stipend. Comfortable home.—Beta, care of Messrs. Davies, Stationers, Weston-super-Mare.

AN ENGLISH WIDOW LADY, recently returned from Persia, having decided upon taking up her residence in Zurich, Switzerland, is desirous of taking charge of six boys to board and lodge, and attend to with a mother's care, and send to the best schools, in which are taught German, French, and English.—Particulars to be obtained on application to Mrs. Meyer, 15, Ventnor-villas, West Brighton, Sussex.

WANTED, in a select high-class School for Young Gentlemen, an Assistant Teacher. One studying for a degree not objected to.—Address, stating age, qualifications, &c., &c., Rev. A. C. Todd, The Manse, Tattenhall, Cheshire.

COMPANION OR GOVERNESS.—Experienced Young Lady requires re-engagement. Children under twelve, take entire charge and instruct. Good English, music, singing, drawing, painting, rudimental French, Latin, needlework.
F., 127, Long-street, Sparkbrook, Birmingham.

THE DAUGHTER of a widow lady in reduced circumstances, wishes for an engagement in a good Christian family in the country as Governess to two or three children under 12 years of age, where she would be treated as one of the family.
B., care of Bookstall, West Kensington, W.

A LADY can recommend a good Governess for little girls. Thorough English, very good music, first-rate (conversational) French. Her home is in Chichester.
Mrs. S. W., West Lea, Ripon.

DECIDED CHRISTIAN GOVERNESS wanted, in Clergyman's family, to instruct two daughters. Would be treated as one of the family. Only small salary can be given.
E. W., Wotton Vicarage, Aylesbury.

A CHRISTIAN SWISS GOVERNESS wanted, knowing German, English, painting, and music, for the holidays. State age and salary required.
M., Bwlch Trenza, near Abergavenny.

REQUIRED, by a French Lady, an engagement as Governess. Acquirements, French, English, German, music. Reference, Pasteur Cerisier, Sauveterre de Béarn.
H., 4, South-terrace, Eastbourne, Sussex.

GOVERNESS. — A young Lady (21) desires an engagement in a School or Gentleman's family. English in all its branches (advanced arithmetic), French, German, music (theoretical and practical), drawing, and elementary Latin. First-class, College of Preceptors, and Edinburgh and Glasgow University certificates. Good references.—M. M., 13, Berlin-terrace, Pollokshields, Glasgow.

DAILY OR MORNING Engagement desired by experienced Governess. Little boys preferred. Good references.
P. R., Mrs. Mardon's 2, Park-street, Islington, N.

A YOUNG LADY required in a small high-class School, to qualify as Pupil Teacher, and succeed the lady leaving at Midsummer. Preparation for Senior Oxford, or Matriculation if desired. Terms moderate and inclusive.
Frau., care of Mr. Swan, Kirkdale, Sydenham.

EDUCATION.—A Lady in South Hampstead (whose Daughters have a Preparatory School for Little Boys) will after Christmas have vacancies for two in the house, boarders or weekly. Numbers being limited, watchful care and home comforts are assured. Term commences January 26th.—T., 166, Belsize-road, N.W.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

SECRETARYSHIP, Clerkship, position of trust, or other similar employment wanted, by an ex-minister of the Gospel, aged 48. Willing to serve without remuneration until duly qualified.—H. C. L., 6, Anstey-terrace, Alkham-road, Stamford-hill, London.

CHRISTIAN GENTLEMAN, 34, thorough Accountant, knowledge of shorthand, best of references, desires responsible engagement. £200 per annum.—Fides, care of Messrs. Street & Co., 30, Cornhill, London.

A SCHOOLMASTER, suffering from overwork in teaching, desires light employment for two or three months. Age 40. Active. Clerical references.
School-house, Nonington, Wingham, Kent.

AS COACHMAN (thorough).—Age 39 years. Total abstainer and decided Christian. Married, one son age 14. Leaving through death. Four years' good character present place, twelve previous place.
C. W., Finches Lodge, Lindfield, Sussex.

A GENTLEMAN will be glad to recommend his Butler. A Christian man.
W., 34, Brunswick-square, Brighton.

AS COOK - HOUSEKEEPER, or working, to a gentleman, or in quiet family, good Cook. In present place four months. 2½ years in place before. Disengaged January 7. Age 42.
H. Bishop, 7, Broomfield-road, Sheffield.

AS INDOOR SERVANT, or any place of trust, by a respectable Christian man, where he could make himself useful. Town or country. Age 43; not tall. Total abstainer. Good English and foreign references.
Charles Bisschop, 28, Finsbury-square, E.C.

SUPERIOR ELDERLY PERSON, well connected, whose home through death is broken up, desires position of usefulness. Thorough housekeeper, careful manager; valuable to invalid lady or quiet gentleman.
Delta, 23, Clarendon-street, S.W.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, a situation as Mother's Help, Nursery Governess, or Housekeeper. Salary not so much an object as a comfortable home in a Christian family. Good references from clergy of Irish Church, to which Advertiser belongs. She would go as Biblewoman to the poor.
N. G. H. S., 12, D'Olier-street, Dublin.

A LADY strongly recommends a young lady who has lived with her four years as Housekeeper and general helper.
A. B. C., 23, Horsham-road, Dorking.

HOUSEKEEPER.—A Lady would be glad to hear of a situation as above, or of some place of trust, for a person age 36, who has lived in her family 14 years.—L. S., Welburn, York.

SEWING MATRON in an Institution or family. Understands millinery. Decided Christian. Age 38. Recommended by Mrs. Stephen Menzies, Croxteth-road, Liverpool, to whom apply.

WILL SOME CHRISTIAN LADY engage an orphan girl, aged 15, not very strong, trained in the Hebrew School, Palestine-place.—Rev. J. B. Barraclough, 46, King Edward-road, Hackney.

AS SEWING or School - room Maid, by a young woman of 23. Well recommended from clergyman's family. First-rate needlewoman and machinist.
Mrs. R. Shann, Chenies, Rickmansworth.

UNDER-HOUSEMAID.—A Lady wishes to hear of a situation under a good upper servant, for a respectable girl (17), who has been out before.
Miss Susette Ashby, Colne House, Staines.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

AS RESIDENT LAUNDRY MAID. —Wanted, a strong young countrywoman, about 24 years of age; she must be a Christian and an abstainer, of good moral character, and high respectability. Salary, £12 per annum. — Apply, personally or by letter, to The Superintendent, Brixton Orphanage, Barrington-road, Brixton, Surrey.

MOTHER'S HELP wanted.—One with some experience and fond of children, to assist mother with infant, and generally. Christian desired; and must be good needlewoman.
Mrs. Barrett, Grove, Slough, Bucks.

BIBLEWOMAN NURSE required for North of London. Board, lodging, and good salary.—A. P., Kingsland Institute, Ridley-road, Dalston, E.

SCRIPTURE READER.—Can anyone recommend a thoroughly good man. Deeply pious, devoted Churchman. Evangelical, refined, sympathetic. London, suburban parish.—Rev. Henderson, Burnside, Vicar St. Saviour's, Forest Gate.

MANSERVANT wanted, single-handed. Must be an earnest Christian and total abstainer. Must have a perfect knowledge of his duties. Country, and unsectarian Christian privileges.—C. A., Delrow House, near Watford, Herts.

BIBLE-WOMAN wanted, for a London Suburban parish. Earnest, devoted Churchwoman. Refined, active, sympathetic. Age not exceeding 40.—Rev. Henderson, Burnside, Vicar St. Saviour's, Forest Gate.

ORGANIST. — Wanted, for St. James' Church, Forest-gate, an Organist. Christian young man would find this a good opening.—Rev. W. H. Denovan, St. James' Vicarage, Forest-gate.

SHOEMAKER. — Single. Abstainer. Member of Evangelical Church, and decided Christian. To work at trade, and teach a number of boys; also assist manage.
The "Carter" Home, Clapham, S.W.

AN EDUCATED and devoted Christian Lady wanted, between 30 and 50, as head of a small Training Home for young (women) missionaries. Must be strong and active, experienced in home mission work and in teaching.—Address, with full particulars as to age, antecedents, qualifications, salary, &c., and enclosing copies of testimonials and "carte," to
P. K., 51, Bow-road, E.

MISS WESTON will be very glad to hear from any Christian Ladies desiring to help her in her work. They must be earnest Christians and total abstainers, active, and energetic.
Miss Weston, Sailors' Rest, Portsmouth.

A CAPABLE NURSE wanted, to take charge of two little children, aged 3¼ years and ten months, respectively.—Mrs. Carter, Harpenden Lodge, Weston-super-Mare.

A TRAINED NURSE wanted for the parish of Benwell, two miles from Newcastle-on-Tyne.—Mrs. Hodgkin, Benwell Dene, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

MOTHER'S HELP wanted to assist in small family (near London). Must be well educated and domesticated. Between 20 and 25 years of age, and abstainer preferred.—S., care of Housekeeper, 27, Chancery-lane, London, W.C.

WANTED, near Orpington, thoroughly trustworthy Nurse, decided Christian, able take baby from month. Healthy, good temper, good needlewoman. Early riser, no beer. —Mrs. S., Woodlands, Farquhar-road, Upper Norwood, Surrey.

WANTED, end of January, trustworthy young person as Nurse and School-room Maid. Must be well accustomed to children, and willing to make herself generally useful.
Mrs. Poyntz, Springfield Court, Chelmsford.

NURSE WANTED, to take entire charge of a baby (18 months). Must be trustworthy and experienced. Age not under 25. Abstainer preferred.
Mrs. Gibson, 26, Kidbrook-park-road, Blackheath.

AS PARLOUR MAID in Ladies' School. A young person wanted, not under 25. Member of the Church of England. Good references required. Wages £17.—Apply, by letter only, to Z., Mr. Farncombe, Bookseller, Eastern-road, Brighton.

GOOD PLAIN COOK, not objecting to housework, wanted immediately. Also HOUSE AND PARLOUR-MAID. Christians. Abstainers. Neither under 25. Small, quiet family.
M., 2, East Ascent, St. Leonards-on-Sea.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted, for one Lady. Must know plain cooking. Clean and trustworthy. Total abstainer. Christian much valued. Comfortable home. Light work. Wages moderate.—Miss Collis, 1, Clarence-villas, Palmerston-road, Buckhurst-hill, Essex.

GOOD HOUSE - PARLOURMAID wanted. Able to wait table well. Housemaid kept.—Croom's Hill House, Greenwich.

SERVANT WANTED for general work, immediately. — Mrs. Coombes, Wellesley College, West Green, Tottenham.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, in a quiet Christian family, a House and Parlour maid, strong, active, and early riser. Three servants kept.
Mrs. Wilkins, Alstone Lodge, Cheltenham.

COOK WANTED.—Can any Lady recommend a respectable person as good Plain Cook in a Gentleman's family (not large). She must be strong, of cleanly and orderly habits, and a careful manager. Assistance given in kitchen latter half of the day.
A. P., Shelton, Sydenham-hill, S.E.

GOOD PLAIN COOK (used to dairy) wanted immediately. No beer. Thoroughly trustworthy.—Apply, stating age, wages, and length of character, to Mrs. M. Ashby, Virginia Water, Staines.

GOOD PLAIN COOK AND HOUSE-PARLOUR - MAID required. Housemaid kept. Gardener cleans knives, boots, windows.
Crooms Hill House, Greenwich.

A HOUSE AND PARLOUR-MAID wanted, for a small family in the North of London (near Barnet). Age about 21. No beer.—Apply, first by letter, to K. T., 31, Devonshire-road, Hackney, E.

A LADY wanted, to take the post of Superintendent of the Derbyshire Nurses' Training Institution. There is a staff of about 70 nurses (most of them abstainers), who are employed in private families, at the homes of the sick poor, and also in hospitals. A competent knowledge of nursing and of the management of a large establishment, combined with decided Christian principle, is essential. A liberal salary and a comfortable home are offered.—Apply, on or before Jan. 12, 1885, stating age, previous occupation, and giving references, to Dr. Ogle, The Elms, Derby.

WANTED, as Head of a small hospital and dispensary, a Lady with hospital training and housekeeping experience. — For further particulars apply to Mrs. Balgarine, Scarborough.

AGENTS (male and female) required in every town and village to sell our pure Teas and Coffees. Our Ceylon and Darjeeling Teas show extraordinary value. We allow 6d. per lb. commission, and deliver free. Special terms for cash. Agents can earn between 20s. and 30s. weekly.—Write for samples free to The United Tea Growers' Association, 9, Union-court, E.C.

£6 MONTHLY may be added to income by selling our celebrated Teas in packets, French Coffees, and Cocoa. Write for particulars to Oliver, Oliver & Co, 332, Southgate-road, London.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.

40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

This First-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of The Christian from all parts of the world. The Bishop of Algoma writes: "The comfort, perfect order, and attendance at Percy's Hotel, render it all that can be desired as a central place of sojourn in this great city." Beds from 1s. 6d. Tea, 1s. 3d. Tariff on application.

LONDON. — Insull's Temperance Hotel, 20, 21, Burton-crescent, Tavistock-square, W.C.—Five minutes' walk or 1s. cab fare from Euston, St. Pancras, King's Cross Railways; easily reached from other stations. Patronised by readers of The Christian.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Clairville, Chine-road.—Superior Boarding House, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Jackson. Visitors will meet with an excellent family home. Charming sea views. Near church and sea. Most liberal table.

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA Boarding Establishment. The home of a Minister's daughter. Established 11 years. Mansion replete with every comfort. Fine sea view.
Miss Newbury, Cavendish House, Warrior-square.

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine, having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers. Liberal table, with every home comfort.—Mr. & Mrs. Box, 58, Old Steine.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Board and Residence, with home comforts and every attention. House pleasantly situated in one of the healthiest parts. Terms moderate.—Miss Searl, or Miss Hutteman, Loughtonhurst, West Cliff-gardens.

HASTINGS HYDROPATHIC ESTABLISHMENT.—For Christmas Holidays. Beautifully situated. Purest air. Abundant sunshine. Turkish baths, with sea-water plunge. Droitwich, Ozone, and all other baths, with skilled attendants. Moderate charges.
For prospectus, apply to the Secretary.

DIPSOMANIA. — A successfully established private Home at the seaside for six, suffering from excess of morphia, chloral, absinthe, stimulants, or Nervous Debility. Christian care and influence. Judicious supervision and home comforts.
Medicus, 9, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

HOME FOR GOVERNESSES and Reduced Gentlewomen, on exceptionally moderate terms, from 3s. 6d., board, 7s. Comfortable bed and sitting-room, 8s. 6d. Home comforts.—36, Compton - terrace, opposite Highbury - station, London, N.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Sitting-room, and three bed-rooms, well furnished, near the Pines, short distance from the sea. Terms moderate, for winter months especially. Christian home.—F. A. W., Essex House, Bournemouth.

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA.—Boarding Establishment, close to sea and Warrior-square station. Every attention to home comforts. Smoking room. Moderate and inclusive terms.
Renneck, Hartington House, Church-road.

BRUSSELS. — Good Situation.—A Lady is anxious to recommend the Pension kept by Madame Merlier, of 1, Rue Veydt, as being comfortable, with excellent table. Suitable for a lengthened stay.

ST. MILDRED'S Medical Hotel.—A comfortable home in illness. Trained nurses' electric and other baths, a good cuisine, &c Visitors can make arrangements with their own medical attendants. No infectious cases taken. Friends of patients boarded by arrangement if desired. Terms 10s. 6d. a day, or three guineas a week.

COMFORTABLE HOME for two or three boys going to business or college (friends preferred). Or lodgings for two gentlemen. Terms moderate. Frequent trains and trams to City. Reference, Mrs. Moysey, Leytonstone.—Mrs. Whitwell, 4, Leyspring-terrace, Cowley-road, Leytonstone.

ILFRACOMBE. — Refined Christian Home for girls and little boys, with widow Lady and family. Piano. Good schools available. Bracing air. House on hill. Terms moderate.
A., 18, Oxford-grove.

BOARD, or Partial Board and Residence offered to a Lady or two sisters, in a quiet Christian family. References exchanged. —L. E., care of Mrs. Mardon, 2, Park-street, Islington.

AN EXPERIENCED LADY, whose home is known to the Commissioners in Lunacy, receives one Lady patient. Will M. M., Eastbourne, communicate with the Advertiser?
M. F, 143, Hampton-road, Clifton, Bristol.

A WIDOW LADY, with a larger house than she requires, desires to meet with a Lady (Church) who would board with her. Terms moderate. Recommended by a Clergyman as a comfortable home.—T., 12, Highbury Grange, N.

CHESTER.—A comfortable Home offered to a Lady in a small family.—A., Messrs, Philipson & Golder, Publishers, Eastgate-row. Chester.

APARTMENTS for a Gentleman, or two friends, close to Blackheath station. Bathroom, piano. No children. Board if required.
Beta, care of Mr. Burnside, Blackheath.

TO PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS, &c.—A large well-built double-fronted house, near Harrow-road, Paddington (erected by owner). Five bed-rooms, bath-room, fitted with bath and lavatory, hot and cold water, w.c. same floor. Ground floor, dining-room, drawing-room, conservatory with hot and cold water, library lavatory, w.c. Basement, kitchen, breakfast-room, laundry fitted with every convenience, together with the usual offices. Large garden. The house is well drained, and fitted with hot and cold water throughout, Title from Ecclesiastical Commissioners. Lease about 80 years. Price £1,050, with low ground rent of £4.—W. J. M., care of May's, 159, Piccadilly, London, W.

HOME OF REST AND HEALING FOR CHRISTIANS, near the sea, with garden. Arrangements made for winter residence. Terms, one to two guineas.—Lady Superintendent, Rutherford Lodge, Worthing.

HASTINGS.—A Lady, residing in Wellington-square, offers a most comfortable home to a few Ladies and Gentlemen. Terms moderate. Good table. For particulars,
E. M. P., Observer Office, Hastings.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS are again earnestly invited to write to Evangelist, Clapham, S.W. Rom. v. 8; 2 Cor. v. 20.

DISSOLVING VIEWS, LANTERNS, &c. — Buy of the maker, William Catlin, original slide producer, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London. Monthly catalogue gratis. Exhibitions (Gospel) town or country. Slides on hire, 1½d. each.

CLOTHING AT S. LONDON'S.—In consequence of the mildness of the season, we are now clearing our Winter Stock of Clothing at an enormous reduction. Boys' Suits and Overcoats, lined, 3 to 9 years, 5s.; 9 to 12 years, 7s 6d. Men's Suits and Overcoats at a guaranteed saving of at least 35 per cent. Goods exchanged or money returned. Parcels carriage paid.—S. London, 135, Tottenham-court-road, London, W.

IRON CHURCHES, &c., erected at lowest possible cost, by A. Chopping, Derby-road, West Croydon, Surrey. Illustrated designs and estimates free.

ASTHMA. — Persons suffering from Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, &c., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.
C., Mr. G. A. Keyworth, Hastings.

FOR SALE. — A bright chestnut Gelding, 15.2. Quiet to ride or drive. Has been ridden as a charger; has carried a lady. Also Phaetonette and Harness, in excellent condition, or to sell separately. A great bargain. Propeyrt of Lieut.-Col. Clarke, R.A., sailed for Mauritius. —Holt Skinner, Esq., care of Mrs. Clarke, 6, Berkley-terrace, Wimbledon.

FURNISH on Norman & Stacey's Hire-Purchase System. Deposit not necessary. True economy on sound commercial principles. Strictly private. 1, 2, or 3 years. 60 wholesale firms. Ordinary selling prices.—Offices, 79, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., and 121, Pall Mall, S.W.

A CHRISTIAN LADY, married, resident in Scotland, and in good circumstances, wishes to adopt a healthy orphan female child, not over nine or ten years of age, where both parents are dead. The daughter of a minister or missionary preferred. — Particulars may be addressed, Orphan, care of Messrs. Castle & Lamb, 133, Salisbury-square, Fleet-street, London, E.C.

Publications.

Twelfth Edition. Post-free, 1s.

DR. WATTS ON ASTHMA AND BRONCHITIS. A Treatise on the only successful Method of Curing these Diseases. By Robert G. Watts, M.D., F.R.S.L., F.C.S., &c.
London: C. Mitchell & Co., Red Lion-court, Fleet-street.—Simpkin Marshall.

MRS. GRIMKE having now printed 50 languages, wishes to send out one million Text Cards to Missionaries this year, cost about £400, proposing to double all gifts sent by Christians, whose aid she asks. Many varieties of English (some very beautiful), F. M. sheets, tracts, quilt texts on calico, &c., always on sale.—For list, send stamped addressed envelope to Mrs. Grimke, Prestwich, Manchester.

GOSPEL ADDRESSES by HEYMAN WREFORD. Nos. 1 to 6 now ready, 1d. each. Delivered in Victoria Hall, Exeter, to between 2,000 and 3,000 people. The Publisher, A. Goodere, 141, Sidwell-street, Exeter, specially commends these Addresses to Christians for free distribution at reduced rates: 7 for 6d.; 14, 1s.; 25, 1s. 9d.; 50, 3s. 3d.; 100, 6s.; 250, 14s. Postage extra.

THE "MOUNTAINS OF BREAD" Series of little Books and Leaflets, by the late Georgiana Thompson, are copyright. Profits for poor aged, suffering Christians. Are still supplied by addressing, Miss A. Thompson, care of Dr. Cranage, Old Hall, Wellington, Salop.

FLOWER MISSION and Text Cards. New and convenient design. Gold blue words, green red words, crimson gold words, 1s. 9d. per 100; 500, 7s. 6d. Assorted, 100, 1s. 9d.
Only of F. V. Hadlon, Lithographer, Brighton.

Price 1s. 6d., 2s., up to 7s. 6d.

HYMNS FOR SERVICE OF THE KING.—"A very capital hymn-book."—Christian. "Best hymn-book extant."—Prot. Times.
London: Marlborough, 51, Old Bailey, E.C.

THE TIME OF THE END.—Jerusalem, Tyre, Babylon, Return of Jews, Unparalleled Prosperity, Antichrist, The Coming of the Lord. By D. Apperly, Cheltenham. Post free on receipt of thirteen pence.

WHAT IS SPIRITUALISM?

A Paperr read at the Annual Conference of the Christian Women's Union, held in Glasgow, November 12, 1884. By Mrs. E. M'Hardie (Author of the Midnight Cry; James Turner, or How to Reach the Masses; Braemar Highlands, &c.) And Published by Resolution of the Committee for General Circulation. Price One Penny. London: S. W. Partridge & Co.; Glasgow: Morison Brothers; and all the Booksellers.

THE HOUSE OF REST MONTHLY, price, post free, One Penny. December No. contains Paper by Miss Mason on "The Preparation and Training of Women for Medical and other Missions." Read at the Conference of the C. W. U., Glasgow.

"FOGLIETTI EVANGELICI."—Sixteen two-page Italian Tracts, illustrated. By Cheyne Brady. Packet of 100, 6d.—Drummond's Tract Depôt, Stirling; S. W. Partridge & Co., London.

ABOUT JESUS. 100 Poems, Large Type. By Wm. Luff. Cr. 8vo. limp, 1s. ex. cloth, gilt edges, 1s. 6d.

The Riches of His Grace. By Cheyne Brady. 192 pp., cloth, 1s.

Plenteous Redemption. By the Same. 192 pp., cloth, 1s.

Gospel Leaves. Thirty-two 2-page Tracts. Illustrated. By Cheyne Brady. Packets 1 and 2 (each 100 assorted of 16 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

Words of Life. Sixteen 4-page Tracts, Illustrated. Packet of 75 assorted, 6d.

Acorn Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By Rev. A. A. Ramsey. Packets 1 and 2 (each 50 copies assorted of 12 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

Salem Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By H. K. Wood ("A Glasgow Merchant.") Packets 1 and 2 (each 50 assorted of 8 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

St. Mark's Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By Rev. G. Everard, M.A. Packet of 50 copies assorted of 12 Numbers, 6d.

With Our Cards. Seasonable Poems for enclosure with New Year Cards. By Wm. Luff. Extra satin paper. 6d. per packet.

Books with Chromo Covers, suitable for enclosure in letters.

The Master's Knock.. By Rev. George Everard, M.A.

Consecrated Influence. By Rev. A. R. M. Finlayson.

Be Wise. (For the Young). By J. F. Moncrieff.

Can you say "My?" By Rev. George Everard, M.A.

No Refuge but Jesus. By the Same.

"Bruised for our Iniquities." By Rev. H. Bonar, D.D.

Saving Faith. By Rev. A. R. M. Finlayson.

Inconsistency. By Rev. E. Herber Evans.

The above 8 Books, 32 pp., 1d. each, or 1s. per dozen.

Drummond's Tracts Depot, Stirling, N.B.
London: S. W. Partridge & Co.

Just Published.

REMARKS on a book entitled "Natural Law in the Spiritual World," by Henry Drummond, F.R.S.E., F.G.S., by Benjamin Wills Newton. Price 1s. 9d.—Houlston & Sons.

"PAINFUL, BUT NEEDFUL."—A word in season to sufferers. By Frank H. White. S. W. Partridge. One Penny, 6 copies 6d., post free.—Shears, 21, Marne-street, Queen's-park, London, W.

MUSIC FOR THE SABBATH.

ELI.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Piano.

ELI.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Harmonium.

NAAMAN.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Piano.

NAAMAN.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Harmonium.

The above 1s. 6d. nett each book.

TE DEUM in D. By Farmer, 8vo., 6d.

SELECT VOLUNTARIES,—By Henry Farmer. A Collection of short, easy Classical (ancient and modern) Pieces. Suitable for piano, organ, or harmonium. New edition, in 12 books, 1s. 6d. nett each book. (Lists gratis.)

London: Joseph Williams, 24, Berners-street, W

BAGSTER'S BIBLES.

Extra flexible, silk sewed, in best Bagster morocco, kid-lined, elastic band. With full helps. Prices from 20s.

In French morocco, projecting edges, elastic band. From 4s.

DAILY LIGHT ON THE DAILY PATH. A Text-book in the very words of the Scripture. From 1s. Lists on application.
"A very precious little book."—The Christian.

Samuel Bagster & Sons, Limited, 15, Paternoster-row London.

Terms for Advertisements.

(PREPAID.)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words	3	0
„ 39 „	3	9
„ 48 „	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

Scale for larger Advertisements sent on application.

Advertisements sent by Post must be accompanied by Post-office Order, not by Stamps, as the risk in transit is very considerable.

☞ In order to secure insertion of Advertisements in the following number of The Christian they should reach this office on or before Friday, and at the latest by Saturday Morning's first post.

Price Sixpence. Post free.

An Appropriate Wedding Gift.

BE LOVERS STILL.

Friendly Hints to a Bride and Bridegroom.

By Rev. G. PETTITT.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Just Published. Price One Penny, 7s. per 100.

HOW TO FEED UPON THE WORD.

An Address to Young Christians.

By JOHN MONRO GIBSON, D.D.

Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Just Published. Pice One Penny, 1s. per dozen.

A GLANCE AT THE GREAT WORK.

An Incident of Messrs. Moody and Sankey's Meetings in London.

By LADY HOPE.

Reprinted from The Christian.

Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings
And may be orderedof any Bookseller.

Just Ready, Four Pages 4to. Price 2s. per 100 ; 18s. 6d. per 1000.

A NEW YEAR'S GIFT FOR 1885.

CONTAINING

"TIT FOR TAT." An excellent Story by Rev. C. J. WHITMORE. With full-page Illustration.

POEM: "Begin with the New Year."

"Honour thy Father and thy Mother." By D. L. MOODY.

"DON'T SWEAR." An Incident from the life of Howard the Philanthropist.

"Cut off by the Tide." A New Year's Warning.

"REMEMBER THE SABBATH DAY;" or, Does Sunday Labour Pay?

With several Engravings, and an appropriate selection of Scripture Texts.

Christians will find the NEW YEAR'S GIFT an excellent medium for sending to unconverted friends a few seasonable words of Gospel truth and exhortation; and very attractive for gratuitous distribution.

☞ 1,00's of 4 sorts may be had if desired.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Price One Penny. 7s. 6d. per 100. Twelve copies and upwards sent post free.

The Christian Sheet Almanac for 1885.

Attractively printed in Red and Black, on a large sheet, 21 in. by 31 in.

Containing selected Scripture Texts for every day in the year, Postal Information, &c.

FIVE EXCELLENT ILLUSTRATIONS.

"The Christian" Sheet Almanac is admirably suited for the walls of the Cottage or the Mission Hall. Quantities of not less than 500 copies, with special matter, may be had for localization; terms for which will be forwarded on application to the Publishers.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND IN ENGLAND.

THE CONVERSION OF CHILDREN.

BY REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND, M.A.,

Author of
"Gathered Lambs," "Jesus' Lambs," "The Better Life," "Little Ones in the Fold," "Familiar Talks with the Children," "Tracts for the Children," &c.

Tinted Covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Limp, 2s.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 2s. 6d.

REVIEWS.

"Many remarkable facts are here given, which deserve the attention of those especially who are incredulous as to the early age at which children may begin to live consciously a Christian life."
Evangelical Christendom.

"We commend the book very heartily to the prayerful attention of all parents and teachers.—The Freeman.

"We are quite sure that this book is well calculated to encourage effort and stimulate the Church to diligence in this direction."—The Methodist.

"This book is written for adults, and specially for those who are engaged in Sabbath-school teaching, or other work for the soul's good of children. . . . . Wise and precious counsels are presented to parents and guardians of youth for the goodly up-bringing of the children committed to their care."—Christian Week.

"We devoutly wish that by some means or other a copy could be placed in the hands of every Sunday-school superintendent and every pastor of a church."
Penuel.

"A careful perusal of the testimony here given must convince every unprejudiced mind that in our days, as in the days of old, God perfects praise out of the mouths of babes and sucklings."
Woman's Work.

"A most useful book, dealing with a most important subject in a masterly way. The whole subject of the early conversion of children is carefully considered by one whose experience in this special line entitles him to speak with authority. We heartily commend it to our readers, and especially to parents, Sunday-school teachers, and all who have to do with children."—Christian Progress.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Small Books suitable for the New Year.

A REAL CHRIST.

A NEW YEAR'S ADDRESS

BY REV. C. H. SPURGEON.

Price 1s. per dozen.

"And if I weep for sin, shall I not also rejoice that I am without spot or wrinkle, or any such thing, through the Blood and Righteousness of Jesus Christ? Sin is real; let the Christ be real."—EXTRACT.

EVERLASTING FLOWERS;

OR,

MY NEW YEAR'S GIFT.

BY ANNA SHIPTON, Author of "Tell Jesus," &c.

Price 1s. per dozen.

"I said, 'Lord, give me a New Year's gift. Give Thou!' My thoughts ran over the spiritual gifts I needed, but did not pause there. 'Give me a soul, Lord; give me H——'s soul for my New Year's gift. I was desirous of everlasting flowers for my Saviour's crown."—Extract.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

JUST PUBLISHED.

Two Small Books suitable for the New Year.

BY REV. W. HASLAM, M.A.

PEACE, BLESSING, AND POWER.

32 pages, Crown 16mo. Price One Penny.

"PEACE we shall have if we will cease from self-effort! BLESSING, if we will fall in with God's will! and POWER, if we will let the Lord use us for His own purpose, and for His glory!"—EXTRACT.

A PERSONAL CHRIST.

32 pages, Crown 16mo. Price One Penny.

"Is Christ Himself the object of my heart's first and deepest love? If He had not been the Object of faith above all, I could not have been saved. Is He, then, in like manner, the Object of my heart's devotion now? And is His name to me a name above every other? There is nothing else that can or will unite souls, or give such power or testimony before the world for Christ."—EXTRACT.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Tinted Covers, 6d.; Cloth Covers, 1s.

SPIRITUAL POWER FOR MISSIONARY WORK,

By REV. GRIFFITH JOHN,
Missionary to China.

With Preface by Rev. HENRY SIMON, of Westminster Chapel.

"If any one wants to have his soul stirred within him for his work at home, let him read 'Spiritual Power for Missionary Work.'"—Lay Preacher.

"This is an eloquent discourse upon the need of the Holy Spirit's influence in work for Christ; and is followed by a powerful plea for increased help to the missionary cause."—The Baptist.

"Let missionary students read this short essay; and let its reasoning be laid to heart by those also who have to work at home. If the Churches were baptized with the missionary spirit, how rapidly the Gospel would now spread in the world!"—Methodist.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

"CHOICE SAYINGS" LEAFLETS
And Small Books.

BY ROBERT C. CHAPMAN.

Suitable for Enclosing in Letters.

Extracted from "CHOICE SAYINGS."

Assorted Packets, price 9d.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE TREATMENT OF NEURALGIA.

Where diseases have been induced by an abnormal condition of the nerves, no medical compound or agent—together or separate—can so potentially affect the restorative powers towards an equilibrium, or harmony of the physical economy, as the unseen and imperceptible influence supplied by the close proximity of the Odo-Magnetic force. Magnetism supplies the surest, simplest, and most effective method of preparing the nervous system for refreshment at night.

It is necessary, first, to conform to those rules of life whereby good may come unto us. Having in Magnetism one of the most natural, as well as one of the most subtle energies known, acting upon the involuntary organs just as it acts throughout all nature (whether we are conscious of the act or not), we believe it is calculated to control the imperceptible causes of our unrest: it affords a direct means of soothing the excitability of the brain, and so allowing nerve matter to contract and repair the mischief already done, or to counteract the tendency to derangements of the nervous system.

Mrs. Ireland wrote us some time since to the effect that she had been suffering for eleven years under the severest and most acute form of neuralgia, which on one occasion affected her heart to such an extent that her recovery was rendered very doubtful.

Mrs. Ireland had consulted the best professional men of the day, both in England and abroad, but did not derive any permanent benefit or appreciable alleviation of her sufferings, one of the doctors even saying there was no hope of cure; and several giving it as their opinion that only opiates would afford relief.

Having during the last three years endured more excruciating pain than ever, and feeling it useless to anticipate relief, the patient had become hopeless and despondent, when she was induced to try an Electric Battery, which, benefiting her somewhat, gave her a desire for more constant help, and that was obtained by using our Magnetic appliances; the annexed report coming to hand after a short time.

"Inglewood, Bowden, Cheshire,

December 6, 1884.

"Mr. B. C. Garratt.

"Dear Sir,

"I continue to gain the greatest benefit from your appliances. I have not lost one hour's sleep since I was treated by Electricity, and though at times an attack of pain sets in, it yields to the Friction Gloves, and is, in fact, no longer a deadly and desperate enemy. I am quite losing the nervous tension under which I have struggled along for years past. I have lost also that exaggerated sensitiveness of hearing which had made sleep a fiction during the past two years.

"My powers of walking are quite restored, and my alertness of mind also. I have learned to lay my head on my pillow without the dread which innumerable nights of suffering and wretchedness had inspired in me.

"I do not, in truth, desire to be in better health, and I cannot say more; I take no medicine whatever, have good appetite and digestion, and excellent spirits.

"Pray make any use you like of my testimony, which I give with the deepest sense of gratefulness to heaven.—Yours very sincerely,

"(Mrs.) Annie E. Ireland.

"P.S.—To the people who affect disbelief in the Curative powers of Magnetism, I would simply say, my recovery is due to either Magnetism or miracle. Perhaps the terms are almost synonymous."

Letters commendatory of Mr. Garratt's treatment by Magneto-Electricity have been received from hundreds of persons, in all classes of society. A private list of 950 names as referees can be had on application. Consultation free, personally or by letter. B. Corson Garratt, Medical Electrician, 16, Finsbury-square, London, E.C

The Ruby Illuminations.

SUNNY SKIES. Six Italian Views with Texts. Price 1s. New Year (36). Birthday (37). Texts only (38).

GOLDEN TREASURE. Twelve Cards with Novel Designs and Texts. Price 1s. New Year (27). Birthday (28). Texts only (29).

IMMANUEL. Twelve New Year Cards in Blue and Gold, and Blue and Silver, with Texts. Price 1s.

GOLD. Twelve Cards similar to "Rubies" and "Silver." Price 6d. Texts only (30). New Year (32).

SPARKLING DEWDROPS. Six Designs, 4⅝ by 3¼, Flowers and Leaves interspersed with Gold; very pretty and cheap Packet for New Year. Twelve Cards, 6d.

THE RUBY MOTTOES FOR 1885. No. 3. "Kept by the Power of God," with Lines by N. E. R., and part of 1 Sam. ii. 9. No. 4. "God hath Given to us Eternal Life," &c. Price 1d. each, or 7s. the 100.

THE CHOICE SELECTION. On receipt of One Shilling in Stamps or Postal Order, a choice selection from various Series will be sent—SPECIALLY GOOD VALUE. These packets in previous years have given great satisfaction.

These Cards are not only exceedingly rich in colour, but chaste and artistic in design. The Scripture Texts also are admirably chosen.—Fireside News.

SPECIAL.

The wonderfully cheap Packets advertised in "The Christian" of Dec. 18, page 28, are now to be had with New Year Cards only.

THE RUBY ILLUSTRATED ALMANACK AND TEXT BOOK, for 1885. Court Envelope Size, 32 pp. In Coloured Wrapper. Price One Penny. Roan, Gilt Edges, Interleaved, One Shilling.

London: John G. Wheeler, 88, Mildmay-park, N.

WORKS BY J. DENHAM SMITH.
Cloth, 4s. 6d.; Cloth Gilt, 5s. 6d.; Morocco Elegant, 12s. 6d.

THE BRIDES OF SCRIPTURE; or, FORESHADOWS OF THE COMING GLORY.

"A volume of great interest, great freshness, and great beauty."—Dr. Bonar, in Christian Treasury.

Crown 8vo., Cloth plain, 3s.; Cloth gilt, 3s. 6d.

GREEN PASTURES and STILL WATERS.

"We revel instead of reviewing—there is unction, beauty, mellowness, and freshness of treatment here that fairly wins us." It has our best commendation.—C. H. Spurgeon in Sword and Trowel.

Just Published, Price 5s.

THE GOSPEL IN HOSEA.

"Singularly interesting and suggestive, flinging a flood of light on Hosea's prophecies in reference to the present dispensation and things shortly to come to pass. Present-day truth, bearing pointedly on the heart and life of the believer, abounds on every page."

Word and Work.

London:
JAMES E. HAWKINS, 36, Baker Street, W.
and 21, Paternoster Square, E.C.
PARTRIDGE & CO., Paternoster Row.

This day, 8vo., sewed price, 1s.

THE BISHOP'S VETO. A Correspondence between the Rt. Rev. the Lord Bishop of Oxford and Mr. James Girdlestone (Member of the Incorporated Law Society).

Hatchards, 187, Piccadilly, London.

BOOKS FOR YOUNG MEN BEGINNING LIFE.

TALKS WITH YOUNG MEN. By J. Thain Davidson, D.D. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.
"Fine manly advice, full of grace and truth. Enlivened by story and proverb, fresh with sympathy, and on fire with zeal."—Sword and Trowel.

OUR BROTHERS and SONS. By Mrs. G. S. Reaney, Author of "Our Daughters," &c. New Edition. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.
"One of her best books, written in excellent English, and with a racy, earnest pen."—Evangelical Magazine.

GUIDES AND GUARDS IN CHARACTER BUILDING. By C. H. Payne, D.D., LL.D. Handsomely bound, 5s.
"Admirably done. A capital book to put into a young man's hand."—British Quarterly Review.

TACT, PUSH, AND PRINCIPLE. By W. M. Thayer, Author of "Log Cabin to White House." Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.
"Will stimulate many a young man to steady and determined exertion."—Daily Telegraph.

LIFE, FUNCTION, HEALTH: Studies for Young Men. By H. Sinclair Paterson, M.D. Complete in one Vol., pp. 600, 3s. 6d.
"Dr. Paterson's excellent book might be studied with profit and advantage by every young man in the kingdom."—Knowledge.

A YOUNG MAN'S SAFEGUARD IN THE PERILS OF THE AGE. By W. Guest, F.G.S. Thirteenth Thousand. Handsomely bound, 2s. 6d.
Sir Wm. M'Arthur says:—"I have circulated many of your 'Safeguards.' I know no book like it for young men."
Mr. Spurgeon: "It has rarely been our lot to read a book which we have so much enjoyed, and could so unhesitatingly recommend."

CAPITAL FOR WORKING BOYS. Chapters on Character Building. By J. E. M'Conaughy. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.
"The amount of good solid advice crowded into this handsome volume and interspersed with illustrative living examples is simply wonderful."—Christian.

THE JUNIOR CLERK. A Tale of City Life. By Edwin Hodder. 14th Edition. Handsomely bound, 2s. 6d.
"An excellent little book to place in the hands of young lads just entering into the world."—Spectator.

London: Hodder & Stoughton, 27, Paternoster-row.

ELEVENTH THOUSAND, Royal 16mo., price 2s. 6d.

THOUGHTS ON HOLINESS.

By MARK GUY PEARSE.

"An instructive and suggestive book . . . fitted to carry with it a perennial stream of blessing to the soul."—The Christian.
"Brimful of deep teaching, put in crystal form."
Sword and Trowel.

T. Woolmer, 66, Paternoster-row, E.C.
and all Booksellers.

WORKS BY THE REV. ADOLPH SAPHIR, D.D.

LECTURES on the LORD'S PRAYER. Ninth Edition, 5s.

CHRIST CRUCIFIED. Fourth Edition, 3s. 6d.

CHRIST and the CHURCH. Lectures on the Apostolic Commission. New Edition, Crown 8vo. 6s.

FOUND by the GOOD SHEPHERD. Bible Records of Conversion. Tenth Edition, cloth, 3s. 6d.

OUR LIFE DAY. Thoughts on John ix. 4. New Edition, 3s. 6d.

The HIDDEN LIFE. Thoughts on Communion with God. New Edition, 5s.

EXPOSITORY LECTURES on the Epistle to the Hebrews. New Edition, Two Vols., 13s. 6d.

The LIFE of FAITH. Small 8vo., 2s. 6d.

CHRIST and the SCRIPTURES. New Edition, 3s., gilt edges, 3s. 6d.; Cheap Edition, 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

The COMPASSION of JESUS. Cloth, 1s.

MARTIN LUTHER. Third Edition, 6d., &c.

J. F. Shaw & Co., 48, Paternoster-row, E.C.

NOW READY. PRICE FOURPENCE QUARTERLY.
The First Number for the Year 1885, being No. 17 of

EXPERIENCE,

A CHEAP QUARTERLY JOURNAL FOR THE THOUGHTFUL MILLION.
Designed to revive the Testimony of England's Chief Evangelists and to promote Mission Work.
ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, ONE SHILLING AND FOURPENCE.

Every number is Crown 4to., double columns, and contains as much matter as a small volume.

The articles in the number for January, 1885, have been selected to enforce the motto, "SALVATION IN EVERY HOUSE IN 1885."

"EXPERIENCE" contains Aids to Bible Readings and Experience Meetings. Brief Treatises and Testimonies on the deep things of God. Solutions of doubts by writers who were not ignorant of Satan's devices. Cautions and Counsels to young converts. Records of Grace and Providence. Articles on Revivals, Biographies of Noble Martyrs and Earnest Workers, and aids to all saved souls to toil hard in rescuing the perishing, &c., &c., &c. All fiction is carefully excluded.

"EXPERIENCE" may be had of all Booksellers. It will be sent by Post for One Year, to all who send their addresses and 16 penny stamps to Experience, 3, Newton-villas, Finsbury-park, London, N.

London: Published by T. Woolmer, 66, Paternoster-row, London, E.C.

The Christian.

A NEW PERIOD: ITS DANGERS.

By Rev. WILLIAM GUEST.

THE year opens with signs of the kingdoms of light, and of darkness, contending hand to hand with intense antagonisms. The problem of deciding between the two, in some of their aspects, is becoming one of exceeding complexity. The working of Satan is with "all deceivableness of unrighteousness." On this new period the prayer should ascend for a wise spirit of discernment, and for the quick understanding in the fear of the Lord. The opportunity of fidelity to Christ was never grander, because never more difficult.

Above all things there should be prayer for perfect unity with the Infinite Father, in sympathy and patience. The waiting of Immortal Love prolongs the time when by the testimony of the sufferings of Christ the race is not forced but persuaded out of its sins. How long the "acceptable" time is to be continued is not for us to know. We are not great enough to understand the Most High. He who has eternity to work in, works slowly according to our thoughts. It is ours to be steadfast in relation to that which He has revealed, and to be strong in duty.

"We cannot see the secret things
In this our dark abode;
We may not reach with earthly wings
The heights and depths of God."

Never before, as in these closing years of this nineteenth century, did such a song of praise ascend from men of all tongues to Christ, and never was the Gospel preached more clearly and lovingly by lay and ministerial lips. At the same time, as the first of these papers pointed out, learning and science, as never before, are becoming handmaids of the truth. But a serious danger threatens. Refluent waves of error follow close upon periods of promise. I do not refer to the growing tendency to magnify the externals of religion. The chronic disposition of men to rest on forms is being alarmingly fostered, and deserves a separate paper. I refer to the danger of

AN ACCOMMODATIVE MUTILATED GOSPEL.

There have ever been two forces in the world; one impelling man forward, another dragging him backward. Since the introduction of Christianity into Europe the greatest event was the Reformation in the sixteenth century, but that was immediately followed by the origination of the order of the Jesuits, with their lax morality, consummate subtlety, and unscrupulous ambition on behalf of the Papacy. In England spiritual Nonconformity was betrayed into the fatal sleep of Arianism, and chapels, where Doddridge and Matthew Henry preached, became mausoleums of moveless death. In the Established Church a magnificent period of evangelical revival, which had touched the springs of national life, and had aided to form the great Missionary, Tract, and Bible Societies, was arrested by a vigorous and attractive combination to induce a powerful Church that had a free Gospel in its hands to throw itself into the arms of Tractarian priests. Since that time most promising movements have been arrested by puerile divisions, by the entering among them of a dictatorial exclusiveness, by contending schools of "perfectionism," and by those who "run their own ways, and give liking unto nothing but what is framed by themselves." Why these unceasing retro-actions, and counterminings? Did not our Divine Master tell us that "when men sleep" the "enemy" comes to sow tares among the wheat? Truly they throw away the key to the strange mystery of time who deny the powers of the Arch-Adversary.

The marked danger of our times, and which appears in unlooked for quarters, is a "denuded" Christianity. This danger is one of a most ensnaring character. It is not found among avowed enemies of the faith, but among men in pews, in pulpits, and in literature, who are supposed to be its friends. I do not speak of those who have the candour to deny openly the supreme authority of the New Testament, nor of those who, by fair interpretation of the words of the Lord or of Apostles, dispute the teaching of Protestant creeds; but I refer to those who publicly read the New Testament, as men who hold it to be an inspired volume, who favour this notion respecting themselves, and who, instead of bowing to its plain, direct, and natural teaching, throw off belief after belief, as if there were no dread responsibility in such action. According to them, the final judge of doctrine in an inspired book is modern thought, which is an absurdity. This emasculated, untenable, nerveless gospel, is a distorted shadow of Christianity. It varies with individual tastes. It cannot be formulated. Tabulated into a system it would be ludicrous for its meagreness, unscripturalness, and logical contradictions. It beguiles the unwary; bewilders the earnest; misleads the young; perplexes the inquiring; unutterably grieves the devout; and is working mischief beyond all conception. Its injury to souls lies in its vagueness. But vagueness for that which in the Scriptures is not vague; incertitude for that which is not indeterminate; omission of fundamental truths, go to plunge an age into a bottomless gulf of uncertainty and helplessness.

DISLOYALTY TO THE MESSAGE.

The opponents of this negativism are called "old-fashioned," "without culture," "weak pietistics,"—which have been epithets applied of olden time to Apostolic men, who were not ashamed of the "offence of the Cross"—while its advocates are called the men who are "coming to the front." In a very painful sense this military metaphor is true. These men who bring in a gospel without a "dogmatic (i.e. settled) form of the message," and who would "have men speak out of their own heart and nature," are as soldiers who, instead of loyally obeying, sit in judgment on the commands of their General, accommodate his orders to their tastes and "nature," and make advances of sympathy with the pastimes and disposition of the enemy.

Surely to poison springs for men dying of thirst could scarcely be a deeper wrong than to rob men of the very message of the Gospel. Sad is it that when on Sabbath days there go into congregations men and women bowed down with remorse, and bewailing the fetters of temptation, there should be such a hazy setting forth of the work of Christ. Men say they do not like the phrase "the blood of Jesus." To Bible students the objection is shallow; it may even be treacherous. But if congregations never hear an equivalent for the phrase, there will be one of these two results: Those who have "received of the anointing that teacheth of all things," will not endure preaching where the doctrine of a real propitiation is left out; and among those who remain a deadly reign of Unitarianism will prevail.

Let me set forth

A FEW ARTICLES OF BELIEF.

of those who object to a veiled indefiniteness of Christian teaching.

1. The Gospel has this as its distinctive character—it is remedial. It emphasises the tempted and lost condition of men, and it reveals the deep love of God. Christ constantly demanded faith in himself as "sent from the Father." The incarnation, which has been followed by Christ's perpetual life on behalf of humanity, and the atonement of his death, are truths of fathomless and transcendent power and consolation.

2. Notwithstanding heresies, there has been an unbroken continuity of faith and confession throughout the Christian centuries. Since Pentecost the one Spirit hath remained with believers as the glorifier of Christ. "There is one faith."

3. The truth of our religion was foreshadowed by prophets; taught by the Incarnate Son; brought to the remembrance of evangelists; disclosed to John by the august majesty of the risen Christ; and made known to Paul by immediate and altogether exceptional revelation.* It was not in spiritual pride, therefore, but with a just, legitimate, and permanent obligation, the Apostles solemnly asserted,—"We are of God: he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us."

4. It is an empty boast, an intolerable conceit, that there has been given to writers and preachers of our days a higher revelation. Christianity, as taught at the first, has justified its divineness. It has been a fountain never failing; a medicine always curing; a power beyond all other moral forces; a food of the soul, enriching it with fortitude, endurance, and hope; and a foundation of felt and inviolable security.

5. Questionings and doubts as to this Christian revelation open a descending pathway to a region of utter negation. The Spirit ceases to guide when a man will not

---

* Let us hear the words of an early Father respecting the Apostle. In a letter to the Philippians Polycarp says: "Neither I nor any one else can equal the wisdom of the blessed and glorious Paul." Quoted (under 2 Peter iii. 15) from the N.T. Commentary for English Readers.

bow implicitly to the authority of the Divine Son's revelation, and maintain loyalty to Him. In that atmosphere of negations into which many nowadays enter, a truly Christian life can no more live than physical life can help being choked in the stagnant damps of a lead mine.

6. There are pastors and officers of churches at this present hour whose hearts are wrung with anguish as they hear of the utter worldliness which these negations encourage; and as they behold young communicants, who have imbibed the poison, standing aloof from energetic agencies for the salvation of men, but very eager to extend unbecoming church entertainments; never coming to pray with the devout, but active to join hands with the worldly in doubtful consortship.

7. The Socialism and Freethinking tendencies that confront our epoch have not their main strength in intellectual difficulties. For one man who has literary doubts there are ten who find a stumbling-block either in the frequent and glaring self-considerateness of official teachers of religion, or in the dubious lives of professing Christians.

8. It is fitting to demand credentials from preachers who make profession of outgrowing the Apostles, and use high-sounding phrases of "liberal," and "advanced thought." The test of true preaching is to turn to light out of darkness. Paul could say: "Christ hath wrought by me for the obedience of the Gentiles, in the power of the Holy Ghost."

9. As the day follows the sun, so the past ages have one standing lesson: That works of love and righteousness follow the fervent unambiguous teaching of the whole plan of salvation.

10. The highest and most convincing proof for the Gospel is in what it is. It is a mistake, therefore, to act on the supposition that truly literary persons and intelligent artisans want half-truths. The doubts of such men are not, as once, with levity, but with earnestness; and should they be asked what kind of sermons they want they would reply, "Such as are honest to the teaching of the New Testament." The attempt to conciliate by compromise has been a total failure except with the superficial.

I say these things as we begin fifteen years that will, undoubtedly, while they last, be the greatest and most momentous years of this great century. What those years will be will depend, under God, on this: Whether the essential truths of Protestantism shall maintain ascendency in this nation. There are thousands of laymen who are profoundly distressed because, under a plea of intellectual preaching, they miss those terms of Evangelical Protestantism which imply stupendous facts, and for which the language has no adequate equivalents.

ANOTHER DANGER.

And may I here refer to a grave danger in another direction which assails the truest of Christian men. Social and political questions are, just now, very prominent. Indifference in regard to them is impossible; but the order in which these questions are looked at may be a false one. They may come to be primary in attention and claim, which is indeed the disastrous mistake that threatens us.

It was said last year on an occasion that gave the phrase emphasis—"Sewers before churches." If by this is meant sanitary and material improvements before the conversion of men to God, the reply is obvious. If the Apostles had acted on this rule there would have been no Christianity wherewith to improve the world. In Paul's time the evils of society were such as to raise everywhere a cry of absolute despair. He, however, did not urge upon Christians attention to social questions and material improvements. He knew that the new life of the Kingdom he preached would touch, with healing, society at its very roots. The race is in awful revolt from its Maker, and no effectual service is done for man until his conscience is awakened and there is a living dealing with God.

It is argued that the Lord Jesus cured the bodies of men. But who can forget that He refused to cure the body when the spirit was dead as to faith in a Divine Healer? "Make the tree good, and its fruit good," was his word. He uttered that fearful rebuke, "Thou blind Pharisee, cleanse first that which is within the cup and platter that the outside may be clean also." To Him that man was the pharisee who attended first to the superficial and passed over the inner-plague spot whence the outward evils sprang.

Even a sceptic may be quoted here. "The social mechanism," says Mr. Herbert Spencer, "does not rest on opinions, but almost wholly on character." Woe to an age that forgets that moral causes lie at the root of the condition of peoples. Let me not be misunderstood. External and social reformations must be pursued by Christians. John Wesley reprobated the horrors of the slave-trade, and made efforts to put down political corruption; but as a heralding angel, passing with untiring wing through two hemispheres, he preached the utter depravity of human nature and the necessity of the new birth through the Spirit; and Mr. Leeky, with his wonted impartiality, says, in his "England in the Eighteenth Century," "The Methodist Revival exercised a profound and lasting impression upon the moral forces of the country, and even upon the course of its political history. The vehement religious enthusiasm which passed through the middle and lower classes, opened a new spring of moral energy among the poor, and gave a powerful impulse to the philanthropy of the rich."

The denial of the supernatural was to be a sign of the last days. And just now the palpable does not appeal as of old. But that silent striving of the Spirit, which precedes times of judgment, is the mark of our era. Throughout the East, and in Europe, there are those human outreachings after God which have gone before the greatest events of history. Even the children of Abraham in Russian Bessarabia are spontaneously moved to see that there is only One who can heal them—Jesus of Nazareth. In England there are vast numbers among the poor and rich who are the subjects of a vague and aimless longing to be in right relations with God. The responsibility lying on the professing Christian Church to give a right direction to these movements is beyond all thought. Oh, to be in sympathy with God! May He give grace to listen to the silent voice which is speaking in the hearts of men, and especially of those who love Him.

In closing, I quote from a Transatlantic Review four lines by the poet Whittier, which will express the firm purpose of those who say with Bernard of Clairvaux, "Thy truth, unchanged, hath ever stood," and accept the commanding authority of the last of the Apostles: "Let that abide in you, which ye heard from the beginning"—

Therefore I trust, although to outward sense
  Both true and false seem threatened: I will hold
  With newer light my reverence for the old,
And calmly wait the births of Providence.

OPPORTUNITY IS RESPONSIBILITY.

ONE of the most terrible facts of the present day is that of the existence, in every large city, of great multitudes of people, constantly increasing in numbers, whose helplessness and misery are being intensified in proportion as they are pushed further away from even the possibility of contentment and happiness. With no assured future, those who are most anxious and best fitted for work not being certain of even one day's labour, however poorly remunerated, they rest upon the slippery brink of hunger and starvation, a day's rain or a night's frost throwing hundreds of the best and most industrious of them into the gulf of famine.

Under the present state of things they cannot possibly make any provision for the morrow. Could they do so, or could they even depend upon a day's toil, we might be more justified in closing our eyes to the sight of these rank and file in the battle of life, and in resting our neglect of them upon the political economist's assertions that as the supernumerary poor, the surplus population, they are simply shadows cast upon our national life by the very brightness and brilliancy of our prosperity, and that they are merely machines, for which we have no use, hands for which Society has no employment, people for whom Society, with its waste lands and unpopulated colonies, has no bread, people with souls for which Society has no message, save one of hopelessness and despair.

Unfortunately, the Divine teaching and example of Christ have not yet succeeded in reconciling the world with destitution. The intimation of Jesus that the poor shall be with us alway is still regarded rather as a statement of an unpleasant and deplorable fact, than as a precious assurance of the existence of opportunities of imitating in all humility the love and pity of the Master who, Himself poor, not only declared that the poor had the Gospel preached unto them, but also asked, "Children, have ye any meat?" and of following the example of the compassionate Lord, to whom the world gave scarcely sufficient bread to support his sacred life.

It is useless to say that widespread poverty is a necessary and inevitable adjunct of our civilisation and progress. The history of the world shows clearly that wealth and not poverty has been the ruin of states; the progress of which of late years it has been the custom to boast requiring devotion to objects and pursuits plainly and sternly condemned in God's Word, and being built upon a foundation of specious principles diametrically opposed to the simple teachings of Christ.

Hence comes the noteworthy and painful fact that as our wealth increases the numbers of our poor increase in proportion, and hence, too, the necessity for political economy which, not content with its one-sided attempts to explain the existence of such opposite conditions, cruelly endeavours to justify them by urging that the chief object of the individual, as of the community, being based upon selfishness, must necessarily be the acquisition of wealth, and that in the struggle the weakest must go to the wall, and only the fittest survive.

This economistic gospel of laissez-faire stands out in all its naked and coarse brutality before the searching words of Him who became poor for our sakes, and the professed follower of Christ must determine upon which teaching he is to build up the structure of his daily life.

That matters cannot long continue as they are without involving the nation in decay and dissolution is only too evident to all who have studied the history of those once influential States the very existence of which seems now only a dream, destroyed as they were by the weight of their wealth, choked by their civilisation, with its attendant luxury and Godlessness. The inexorable laws which condemned them to decline and destruction apply as equally to England as they did to Rome, and it is the solemn duty of every thoughtful man or woman who acknowledges the Christ to consider to what extent and in what degree he or she is responsible for the condition into which we have drifted.

Political economy bids men make themselves rich by following its precepts of supply and demand, regardless of any other or higher consideration than that of buying in the cheapest and selling in the dearest market, even at the cost of the bodies and souls of men whom it seems a bitter mockery to call our brethren; but God says, in plain and unmistakable words, that there are four transgressions the punishment of which He has sworn by his holiness He will not turn away from, and all the four are sins based upon unrighteousness towards the poor, the offences of those who in the burning, inspired words of the prophet-herdsman, Amos, have "sold the poor for a pair of shoes."

Political Economy sets forth competition and cheapness as sufficient justification of the present system under which starving and dying women are paid threepence for making a boy's suit, or twopence farthing for making a gross of matchboxes; and, professing to be dazzled by the glitter and the glare of the increased capital of the employer and the middleman, closes its eyes to the consequent sorrows and tears of the lost. Before a single utterance of Christ, however, these miserable sophistries sink into their native slime, the only true solution of the questions of capital and labour, and profit and wages, being found in subjection to that holy law with which Jesus faced all possible political economy, "As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye also so to them."

In the face of this the Christian employer of labour, the Christian capitalist, cannot shelter himself behind economic maxims. His opportunities are responsibilities, and his responsibilities are instruments of the Divine discipline. If he neglects them and fails to fulfil them the temporal loss may be that of the dependent and suffering poor round about him, but the eternal loss will be his own.

JAMES BOWKER.

◆

SHELTERING HOMES, LIVERPOOL.

WRITING from 1, Sugnall-street, Liverpool, Mrs. Birt says:—

"We have a band of boys and of girls in training now, and are amazed at the rapid improvement they make. Our Caxton Brigade succeeds well. By its means a band of boys are earning an honest living and a good character, and are watching for advancement. These lads, by steady employment, good discipline, and some kindly looking after, are going through a capital testing time, which is fitting them for more important positions.

"Our Widows' Sewing Class is in full working order, with 400 on the books, all visited and reported. Three hundred of them listened attentively to the earnest Gospel addresses given, two successive weeks, by their good friend, Mr. Samuel Smith, our M.P. for Liverpool. Every week there is some-one missing; therefore the opportunities of speaking to them are most important, and full of real solemnity.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for the ensuing week:—Jan. 4, Psalms iv. 1—8; Jan. 5, v. 1—12; Jan. 6, vi. 1—10; Jan. 7, vii. 1—17; Jan. 8, viii. 1—9; Jan. 9, ix. 1—20; Jan. 10, x. 1—18.

WORK AMONG NEGLECTED YOUTH.

BY A PRESBYTERIAN ELDER.

THERE being at the outset of our operations no regular or stated religious services for the children, unless on the Sabbath evenings, the want of some means by which they might be kept from misspending the Lord's Day was not long in being painfully felt. It was also felt that admirable as the school services in many respects were, they did not sufficiently answer the purpose of giving the children such religious training as might enable them readily to profit by attendance at the regular services of the sanctuary. It was therefore resolved to commence meetings on the Sabbath forenoons.

From the very commencement a considerable number attended with great regularity, and it was evident from the decorum and attention manifested that the services were appreciated, and that religious instruction suited to their capacities was imparted. A special feature of the services was their pleasing variety. That the children might be early led to take an interest in the regular services of the sanctuary, arrangements were made for their attendance once a month at the afternoon service in the church. Some of the teachers were also successful in inducing their senior scholars to attend church with them every Sabbath afternoon, and it was gratifying to observe that after a time they became in not a few instances seatholders and regular attenders.

Of the spiritual fruits of our labours in connection with the Sabbath forenoon services, the following may be given as one example out of many. Amongst those most regular in their attendance was a family consisting of a boy and three girls. One after another was brought under deep spiritual concern, until at last they all professed to have undergone a saving change. The writer had occasion to see their widowed mother a few weeks ago, and was much pleased to learn that they all continue to act in a manner befitting their Christian profession, and are to her a great source of comfort and support.

Arrangements were made from time to time for holding special meetings, the immediate design of which was to bring careless and hesitating souls to thorough decision for Christ. These meetings were generally continued for a week or fortnight, and were frequently preceded by a series of meetings for prayer. The sympathy and prayers of the congregation were also specially solicited through our esteemed pastor, and the hands of the workers thereby greatly upheld and strengthened. The services usually lasted about an hour, two brief, pointed addresses being delivered each evening. An opportunity was always given to those who wished for converation with the workers to remain after the others had retired, and tracts specially prepared for young people were distributed at the close of each meeting. When necessary, the names and addresses of the anxious were taken, and their cases followed up and inquired into. By this means a number who might have again fallen back into carelessness or indifference were got hold of, and ultimately led to give themselves to the Saviour. Altogether, the success which invariably attended these aggressive efforts was such as to attest unmistakably to the gracious presence and power of the Spirit of God.

Recognising the dangers incident to bringing young people too prominently forward in connection with Christian work, it was not without considerable misgivings that sanction was given to the holding of meetings for united prayer among the senior boys and girls. However, as the scholars themselves were the first to move in the matter, and as similar meetings had previously been conducted on the other side of the Atlantic with considerable success, it was resolved to place no obstacle in the way of their having a fair trial. The following case may be regarded as being, to a certain extent, the fruit of these meetings. John E—— was employed as a carpenter in one of the large ship-building yards, and lived in one of the lowest districts of the town. He was a man of fierce and ungovernable passions, and utterly indifferent to Divine things. When invited by the lady visitor to accompany her to the meetings held in the district, he was in the habit of behaving towards her with marked disrespect. On one occasion, however, to get rid of her importunity, he said, "I will not come myself, but you can get the bairns." The offer was gladly accepted, and the children were accordingly got hold of, and became very regular in their attendance at the Sabbath school. One of them, a bright, promising girl, was, after a time, brought to the Saviour, and ultimately became a member of the children's prayer-meeting.

After a season it pleased the Lord to cal her to Himself. She was frequently visited during her last illness by Christian friends. At a visit paid by her teacher the father was present, and during a conversation between them, the little sufferer said, "Father, there has been many a prayer put up on your behalf." Further on, when he was trying to defend his indifference to religion, and make excuses for his conduct, she broke in, and, with much solemnity, said, "Father, you must be born again." The death of his girl, which he evidently took to heart, was followed by a lengthened illness, during which he manifested signs of deep contrition. On his recovery the change effected on his character and disposition was most marked, and he has since, by his walk and conversation, given evidence of having been with Jesus.

◆

SPITALFIELDS, SHOREDITCH, BETHNAL GREEN.

THOUSANDS of the readers of THE CHRISTIAN have heard over and over again the names of these districts of London; but probably scarcely one in a hundred has personally visited them, or has any distinct idea of what they are like. Suffice it to say that they are amongst the poorest, the most needy, and the most dark of the many poor and dark places of this great metropolis. The "Bitter Cry of Outcast London" was heard here a quarter of a century before the phrase became a household word, and has been heard ever since.

For well-nigh that space of time the Mission with which I am identified has been carried on in the heart of this district. The "Sunday Bird-Fair" is an established institution, and to the streets and lanes of this neighbourhood many hundreds of the working classes, with not a few loafers and wasters to boot, wend their way on Sunday morning for the sole purpose of trafficking, either as sellers or buyers, in singing birds, poultry, game birds, rabbits, guinea-pigs, and such-like small creatures. These people never dream of entering a place of worship; and it is to this motley crowd of godless beings that it is the work of our lives to declare the unsearchable riches of Christ. And from this unpromising congregation, and this unlikely field of labour, we are graciously permitted to reach a number who find the Word preached a "savour of life unto life."

In our iron room we gather as a church those who, through grace, have made a good confession. The removal and rebuilding of this iron room has entailed upon us a heavy outlay; and, furthermore, as the converts are very poor, assistance for some of them is from time to time needed, especially in times of distress and in the winter season. Who will help us in this work?

JOSEPH KNOWLES, Superintendent
21, Benthal-road, Stoke Newington, N.

"The Christian" Pulpit.

"IN THE BEGINNING, GOD."

A WORD FOR THE NEW YEAR.

By Pasteur THEODORE MONOD.

"In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."

I DO not think that the fact of creation occupies anything like the place it ought to occupy in our mind. It is a grand and fruitful thought this, that if anything exists it exists because God made it, because God willed it. For Him to will a thing is to do it. "He spake and it was done."

Further, we are told in the New Testament that "if any man be in Christ he is a new creature," or (probably the more correct rendering) "it is a new creation." "Old things are passed away; behold all things are become new." And again, "Let them that suffer according to the will of God commit the keeping of their souls to Him in well doing, as unto a faithful Creator."

Oh, what wonderful words are these. Were it only as a Creator, God is faithful—faithful to the work of his own hands. The faithful Creator is a faithful Redeemer, a faithful Father, a faithful Comforter, a faithful God. Consider what a storehouse of strength lies in the thought that the God who upholds the heavens is our God. The further we go in the study of the material universe, of which we barely see the boundaries, the more we should rejoice to say to ourselves, "Our help is in the name of the Lord who made heaven and earth;" and also to say to others, "The Lord who made heaven and earth bless thee out of Zion." When we lift up our eyes and behold the hosts of heaven, it is sweet, it is comforting, to repeat to ourselves, it may be in the simple words we teach our little ones—

"The stars are shining in the sky;
They all are His, and so am I."

He keeps them; He will surely not forget me.

Again, at the present stage of human inquiry, it is good that we should be very clear and steadfast as to the elementary truth, that God created the heavens and the earth. As far as I have opportunity to ascertain, our men of science, those who are not bound by prejudice, and are willing to bow before established facts, are coming more and more to this very point. They have said: At the beginning there was matter. Very well. Then they said: At the beginning there was force. Be it so. They will have to go, and are now going, a little further, as they enter more minutely into the study of first beginnings, and many of them are ready to say: At the beginning there was mind—there was a will, there was a purpose, there was a spirit. Then there will only be a word to change, and they will come to this: "In the beginning there was God." You cannot explain the existence of a man or of a fly, unless in the beginning there was God. As a child once was overheard saying to another: "If there was no God, it seems to me there would not be anything." That is quite true: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."

What is true of creation is true of everything good: God is at the beginning of it.

He is of course at the beginning of the work of Redemption. In fact, the beginning of redemption lies far behind the beginning of creation. So the Apostle says in the Epistle to the Ephesians, "Blessed be God, the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ Jesus, according as He hath chosen us in Him before the foundation of the world."

What constitutes the work of grace? Simply this: that God makes a new beginning. In the same Epistle to the Ephesians the Apostle says, "We all had our conversation in times past in the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind, and were by nature the children of wrath even as others." There he stops, and, as it were, begins anew: "But God"—that is it, "But God." When we have done speaking of ourselves, our goodness or our badness, our desires or lack of desire, our strength or our weakness, and begin to speak about God, then we are sure to come to a satisfactory conclusion—"But God, who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith He hath loved us, even when we were dead in sins hath quickened us together with Christ."

Then, as to Christ Himself, what do we read in the first Epistle of John? "That which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled of the Word of Life; (for the life was manifested and we have seen it, and bear witness, and show unto you that eternal life, which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us) . . . . declare we unto you." Eternal life was from the beginning. The Saviour is from the beginning; the work of redemption is from the beginning.

Look again at what the Apostle Paul says in that central passage of the Epistle to the Romans, in that great passage where he proves both Jew and Gentile to be under sin, "that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become guilty before God. Therefore," he goes on to say, "by the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified in his sight, for by the law is the knowledge of sin. But now," he continues, "But now"—what? Anything further about us? No, but about God—"the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the law and the prophets, even the righteousness of God, which is by faith of Jesus Christ." Such, then, is the beginning of our salvation—not our own righteousness, but "the righteousness of God;" not our longing, but the bowels of the mercy of our God.

Therefore, the peace that we obtain is "the peace of God that passeth all understanding." The strength that we receive is the strength of God. The whole work of our sanctification—what is it? It has sometimes been represented as our action in response to God's action. But hear what the Apostle says: "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling." Why? and how? "For it is God which worketh in you to will and to do of his good pleasure." Sanctification, your work, is it? It is the work of God. Just as redemption is the work of God in his purpose, and is the work Christ accomplished for us on the cross, so sanctification is the work of the Holy Ghost in our hearts. Put yourself into his hands, and He will work. Then, indeed, you will work. How can you help working, since you yourself are his workmanship, "created"—there it is again—"in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them."

Now, let us apply this to everything. Let us, in all the details of life, put it to the test of practice and in all things begin with God.

Do you want wisdom? Are you called upon to take a decision, perhaps an important one? Or, it may be an unimportant one, as you ca but you never know beforehand whether it is unimportant. A very trifling thing, as it seems to you, may have great and far-reaching consequences. So if we would make sure of consulting God about the "important things," we should consult Him about everything.

If, I say, we have a decision to take, let us put God in the beginning. Do not ask yourself whether you will prefer this or that, whether it will be for your interest or your comfort, or your good, or what others will think about it. Look to God and say to Him, "O God, be Thou at the beginning of this undertaking; if Thou art not at the beginning of it I will have nothing to do with it; if Thou dost not plant the tree, let it be rooted up." It is best to let God plant his own trees, is it not? Unless the Lord build the house they labour in vain that build it. We had better not enter a building that is sure to fall about our head. Let us rather chose to ourselves a habitation of which the Maker and Builder is God. Let God be the foundation stone of your house, and let Him build it through and through. He will lay the top-stone by and by.

In every undertaking begin with God. Have you, for instance, to judge whether you will go upon a journey, whether you will accept or refuse an offer of business, or a proposed marriage, or an invitation of any kind? Take it to God. Put God at the beginning of it. Oh, what stability, what power it will give you! You will find it easy to say "No," or to say "Yes," as the case may be. You will have the courage that comes when you are conscious that you are doing the will of God. Of course you must be honest about it. You must distrust your own heart. You must be careful not to put your own will in the place of God's will. Even if you are not doing so, you will find plenty of people to tell you that you are only pleasing yourself; and perhaps you cannot prove the contrary to their satisfaction. When you do a thing joyfully they will object: "Oh, well you see you are delighted, therefore you are doing your own will." Let them object. God does make his yoke easy, his burden light, and his service happiness. But if you are conscious that you are seeking only his will, go on at all costs and whatever others may say.

At the beginning of every work you undertake for Him, God is not there only to show you the work and tell you that it is the right work: He is there to do it in you and through you. You have a task before you, and you feel it is too great. Remember: "In the beginning, God." As your Bible begins you must begin; then the task shall be done well and joyfully.

Here is a trial coming. Remember that trials do not come by chance. They often come through the evil will of men. It is a great mystery, and we do not pretend to solve it, how, when men crucified Christ, they were only doing the will of God. The will of men was all wrong: yet God could make use of the wrong will of these wicked men to accomplish his purpose of love. Is not that a marvellous thing? You may have to suffer from the folly and wickedness and carelessness of men. They will be to blame for it, but still you can say to your soul: "In the beginning, God." That trouble comes from Him. Have you not seen some who have been suffering for years in silence—nay, not in silence, but praising and magnifying God in the furnace for his love to them? They could say in their heart of hearts, "In the beginning, God."

So with everything—with every joy, for instance. Life is full of joy. God has made ever so many things pleasant, "for us richly to enjoy." The Bible says so. Perhaps some of us would be afraid to say it is so if it was not in the Bible. If He has given us so many things to enjoy, let us enjoy them richly—"whatsoever things are honest and pure and of good report." Everything that can properly be said to be pleasant to us, God hath made. He did not make sin; but it should not be pleasant to us, and if we have God we shall find sin loathsome and hate sin. Whatever is truly enjoyable comes to us from our Father's hand. He is at the source of every good thing.

Then, if God is at the beginning, God will be at the end. As He is the source from which the stream is flowing, so He is the ocean towards which and into which it is flowing. At the beginning of the Bible we are told that all things are from God. At the end of the Bible, almost the last verse, we read: "I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last." If our life flows from Him, it will flow to Him, to his glory and his joy. Then, of course, it will flow through Him. Do you imagine He will be the beginning and the end, and not the middle? How absurd! Will He be the Alpha and the Omega, and not the whole alphabet? If He is everything to you on the day of your conversion, and if He is to be everything to you on the day of your death, is He not to be everything to you to-day and to-morrow and the day after to-morrow. How absurd, I say, and how dishonouring to God! Take Him as He is—beginning, middle, and end. In that great work that has brought us together here—in the work of separation from the world and from sin, He is going to do that. Is your will wrong? Make a new beginning. Open your Bible again, and read, "In the beginning, God." Then let Him inspire your purposes and your actions; to will and to do; or rather, let Him work in you—"doing" as well as "willing."

Doubtless some who read these lines are strangers to the love of God. Have you ever said to yourself, "Oh, that I could begin again—that those years that are now behind me might be before me yet! I would spend them otherwise. I would not fill them with folly, with error, with selfishness, with vanity. I would turn them to some good purpose. But I cannot make myself again." No, you cannot make yourself again, but Somebody can. He who made you once can make you a second time. He says, "Ye must be born again." Nicodemus could not understand what He meant. Christ said to Him, "You, a doctor in Israel, and not know these things!" A new beginning from God: such was in the eyes of Christ the first step.

Then from regeneration — the second generation, the second birth—of course there comes the second life, the new life. Is not that obvious enough? It is not essential that you should understand all about it; what you have to do is to take hold of it. God, by an act of will, can make that to be which is not.

You say, "I am not a Christian." Well, but God can make a Christian out of you—make you into the image of Christ. That is what He is willing, and what He is able, to do for you—enable you to make a new beginning this very day, so that you may write down against this date—that will be something worth putting down in your diary—"A new beginning."

Then, I have no doubt there are many Christians wishing to turn over a new leaf, to take a new start. To them also I would say, "In the beginning, God." You want to take a new start; but you must also take a right start. Not a start from your own resolves, or your own desires, or from outward addresses, or even from your prayers. You must start from God only. You must come back to Him, and say to Him that you want Him, you want to serve Him, to belong to Him.

Perhaps there is something in your circumstances that is wrong. You have done such and such a thing you ought not to have done, and there you are. Well, of course, there are circumstances that cannot be altered, and that will affect the whole of life. But recollect what Paul said to those who were with him in the ship when they were battling with the storm. He said they ought not to have left the port, after the warning he had given them; but even now, he added, "Be of good cheer." So I say to you: even now, God will make a new beginning. Very often your circumstances just depend upon your own decision. You are in a certain rut, and you think you cannot get out of it. But God can get you out of it. You feel that the years are passing away one after another with a speed that seems increasing, and you feel that you are doing but little for the Lord. Some are going to Africa, and China, and India, and others are very busy at work in England, perhaps in the back lane behind your house. You say you would like to do something too, if you were free; but you are not free.

Well, Christ has come to make you free, to remove everything that is wrong and needs to be changed. If you are not quite clear that you are in the place where you ought to be, then ask God to make a new beginning for you. He will make it, and will open up a new path. Or, perhaps, God will show you that it is his will you should stay where you are. Then you are just as much a missionary attending to your daily household duties as if you were in Egypt or anywhere else. God wants missionaries everywhere. Only be sure that you are in the right path; and if you are not sure, I say again: Ask God to make a new beginning for you.

Finally, apply this to the spiritual life—the life of God in you. Do we not all feel that we need to go on; that we need to know far more than we do of what God is willing to do—and able to do—to set us free for his service, not free for ourselves, but for Him. As long as we are bound and fettered and encumbered with burdens, what can we do? A man cannot run a race if he has weights attached to him. Christ does not mean us to run such a race as that. He wants us to be free. How? By abiding in Him and by his abiding in us, and not otherwise. There is no freedom but what we have from Him, through Him, in Him. If we lose sight of Him for an instant our freedom is gone; but as long as we abide in Him we are free.

I am sure there are many who are afraid of the freedom that is in Christ for them. They say, "If I really give myself up for Him to make a new beginning in my inward life, what is it going to be? where is He going to lead me? What difficult things is He going to ask of me?" Do you think He is such a hard task-master? The Father is love. The Saviour is love. The Holy Spirit is love. God is love. His will is the will of love. If we dwell in God, we dwell in the very atmosphere of love.

Well, then, if we feel there is something wrong, something that keeps us back from serving Him, let us ask God now to make a new beginning for us, and He will do it. And by and by we shall be able to say with the Apostle, looking back to the creation, and remembering what the Lord has done for us: "God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness." It was all dark, without form or void. Yes, but the Spirit of God moved on the face of the waters. So now, looking to Him to speak the word of creative power, you will go on to say with the Apostle: "God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God, in the face of Jesus Christ."

NOTES ON SCRIPTURE.—22.

ACTS XIX. 2.

BOTH the question and the answer, of which this verse consists, are too often misunderstood, and no little mischief results from the misunderstanding. It will not be a waste of time, therefore, if we bring out their real meaning by comparing this verse with certain other scriptures. The revised version clears the way for this by representing Paul's question to mean, "Did ye receive the Holy Ghost when ye believed?" and the disciples' reply to mean, "We did not so much as hear whether the Holy Ghost was given." We have an important clue to the true sense of the passage in what speedily followed. For the sixth verse tells us that "when Paul had laid his hands on them the Holy Ghost came on them, and they spake with tongues and prophesied."

Let us now go back to Peter's statement on the day of Pentecost, and this will give us further light. He began his wondrous sermon by declaring that the gift of tongues which had so amazed the multitude was in fulfilment of Joel's prophecy of the outpouring of the Spirit on God's servants and handmaidens, by virtue of which they should prophesy. Somewhat later on he spoke of the shedding forth of the Holy Ghost as something which they saw and heard.

This does not suffice to connect and identify what took place at Ephesus with what had taken place at Jerusalem. Let us go on to notice what occurred at Samaria, when Peter and John went down to the converts there. We are first told that the Holy Ghost had not yet "fallen" on these converts, and then informed that when Peter and John laid their hands on them "they received the Holy Ghost."

And then one thing more is stated, namely, that Simon Magus saw that they had received the Holy Ghost. Must it not, then, have been a miraculous gift or gifts which they received, since grace is a thing invisible?

There remains, however, another passage, which throws a yet stronger light on the question, for in Acts x. 44, 45, we read that it was by hearing the Gentiles speak with tongues that they of the circumcision were convinced that they had received the Holy Ghost.

Can we be wrong in drawing the conclusion that when the verse from which we started is quoted, as, alas! it sometimes is, to prove that priestly hands can confer grace, its real force is misapprehended? The Apostles knew well that they could impart spiritual gifts (Rom. i. 11), but they never attributed to themselves the power of conferring or transmitting grace. This they regarded as a thing peculiar to the Spirit of God.

W. S.

CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS GIFTS TO HOSPITALS.—For many months past the readers of "Little Folks' Magazine" have been working assiduously for their poor brothers and sisters in hospitals, and last week the Editor distributed to the children's hospitals and kindred institutions throughout the kingdom, their gifts consisting of a very large quantity of dressed dolls of various kinds, scrap albums, toys, illuminated texts, needlework, &c., together with a number of story books written and illustrated entirely by themselves.

For the Young.

FIVE NEW THINGS.

A HAPPY New Year, dear young friends! You and I are standing to-day with our feet upon the grave of a dead year, waiting with glad hearts to welcome the young New Year, which comes to us like some fair, day-petalled flower, fresh from the garden of God, and still gemmed with the dews of paradise.

And is it really going to be a "Happy" New Year to you?

My little four-year-old girlie says to me: "Oh, mother, I wish it was Krismuses and New Years every day! I like them so."

"Why, darling?"

"Because I have such a lot of new things, you know." And then the fat fingers are solemnly counted one by one.

"My new dolly; my horse; that beautiful picture book; Aunt Carrie's puzzle; and grandpa's tea things — five new things mother! five new things!" And the big eyes open wider, and a sungleam of delight bursts over her dimpled face.

And God, the great New Year Giver, has five new things to give to every one that wants them—to every boy and girl who longs to have "A happy New Year."

What are they?

"A New Heart" (Ezek. xviii. 31).

Why, God must have guessed just what you wanted! Ah! no one knows better than He does the right kind of New Year's gift for a little sinful child.

"What makes you look so miserable, Ethel?" asked a mother of her little girl.

"I can't help it," sobbed the child; "I feel as if I'd got a thorn in my heart, and I don't know how to take it out."

What Ethel was feeling so sorely was the bitter sting of sin, which rankles in and irritates the sinner's soul, until the tender hand of Jesus takes out the great thorn, and applies his own precious blood as a healing balm. Then the wound heals, and the sad heart sings for joy.

Is your old, hard, sinful heart a trouble and a grief to you? Don't carry it with you into the New Year, but lay it at the feet of Jesus, and take from his royal hand the blessed New Year gift of "A New Heart."

"A New Name" (Rev. ii. 17).

Your old name is an ugly one. I suppose you know what your name is? If you have forgotten, let me remind you that your name is entered in God's book as "sinner."

I do not think you will be sorry to exchange that bad name for a better. I knew a lady once who had a very ugly name, and she could not bear to be called by it. She got all her friends to promise never to use it, and she always signed herself by a pretty name which she selected for herself out of many others. But, of course, that never altered the fact that her real name was the old and ugly one.

Just so, you may not like the name "sinner," and you may call yourself by anything else, and persuade everybody that it does not belong to you; but that never alters the fact that you are a "sinner." God gave you the name, and God alone can change it. But oh! if you long for a "new name," tell Him so. He has one ready for you; and such a splendid, beautiful, adorable name! "I will write on Him My New Name."

What do you think of that? Jesus took our old name, the bad, ugly name of "sinner," and was known to God, angels and devils, by it (2 Cor. v. 21), and now gives to "whosoever will" his own name—"The Righteousness of God." Blessed exchange! Who will take it?

"A New Nature" (2 Cor. v. 17).

We are glad to get that. The old nature, which you and I have so long tried to teach to love and serve God, may stand aside, useless and hopeless. We will give up trying to improve it, or to make it yield obedience, or any of the fruits of the Spirit. It is barren ground. And we will take from God the gift, the welcome gift, of a new nature, ready to do his will, glad to serve Him, willing to please Him. Oh! we shall have soul-rest and happiness this new year; now the old nature is thrown aside as hopeless, and the new nature with which to "please Him perfectly" is ours for ever.

"A New Song" (Ps. xl. 3).

I don't wonder. Do you? With new hearts, new names, and new natures, how can we keep from singing? It would be hard work to be silent. Songs always rise to our lips when we are happy, and children at this joyous season are carolling all over the house. It is called a "New Song." Why? Ah! perhaps because only a very little while ago we could not sing it. It may be that we are only just learning it. It is "new," because it is not like any song of earth. It is the only song that tells of redeeming love, because Jesus is the subject of it, and there is no other Saviour. It is "new," because as Jesus is its theme there is always some fresh bit of his love to find out and to sing about. It could never grow old, though it took eternity to sing it.

"A New Home" (Rev. xxi. 1). How much interest children take in moving to a new home!

"Has it got a large garden? Does the schoolroom look out on it? Is there a pond, a field, a greenhouse, &c.?" We all know the thousand and one questions that are asked and asked over and over again, if children leave the old for a new home. We feel a great longing to know more of our "new" home, don't we? We are never tired of listening to the description of its pearly gates, jewelled walls, and golden streets; and we smile as we think of the "boys and girls playing in the streets thereof," and believe our little ones will cluster round us there, as here. Still, how little we know, and how content we are with the old home! How sorry when God sends a shining messenger to earth to touch us and to say, "Arise, and come up higher. The many mansions await thy coming." May this New Year bring us closer to our new home!

Have you got these five new things, dear children? Do let me ask you the question. It will not be a "Happy New Year" to you without them. Will you do as you have done already to many pretty New Year gifts—take them, and thank the kind Giver? He is so willing to give, and only wants your thanks in return.

Do you tell me tremblingly that you have taken these precious gifts from the hands of God, but that you fear to lose them? Well, do as my little child does. When I say, "Give mother those pretty toys to keep for her pet till to-morrow," the little one clasps them tight, and says, roguishly—

"If you take them, take me too;" and mother takes baby and toys in her arms at once. So say to God this New Year—

"Father, take me, and take all thy gifts to me, and keep us until the great by and by—the "to-morrow" of eternity. God will gather you in his arms, and from this day you will be "kept by the power of God, through faith, unto salvation."

Eva Travers Evered Poole.

BIBLE ACROSTIC.

The initials give the name of two men—namesakes—one mentioned in the Old, the other in the New Testament.

(1) A Chief Priest who had seven sons.

(2) One of David's sons.

(3) A son of a prophetess, whom the Lord named.

(4) A believing Jewess who married a Greek.

(5) One who was not ashamed to befriend a prisoner.

(6) One who was destroyed for direct disobedience to God.

B.

ANSWERS TO LAST ACROSTIC.

Bdellium.—Gen. ii. 12.

Bethel	1 Kings xiii. 11.
Daniel	Dan. viii. 15.
Eliada	2 Chron. xvii. 17.
Lebanon	2 Chron. ii. 8.
Libnah	Num. xxxiii. 20.
Ichabod	1 Sam. iv. 21.
Uzza	1 Chron. xiii. 7.
Melita	Acts xxviii. 8, 9.

Answers received from M. Shand, Ellen Llewelyn, J. Harris, H. Kinns.

Additional answers to the Acrostic Jonah have been received from the following young readers the number of answers has increased so much that we can only find space for initials:—A. C.—B. F.—E. C.—M. L. H. B.—E. L.—A. H.—R. W. H.—D. H.—H. K.—M. H.—E. M.—R. A. S.—M. O.—E. K.—A. E. V.—J. and M. C.—C. McK.—G. B.—H. C.—C. J. C.—A. E. H.—R. M. S.—W. S.—C. S.—J. E. A.—M. B.—S. B.—J. N. G.—C. E. G.—E. T.—C. C. M.—B. M.—F. A.—J. M.—H. C. A.—S. P. A.—A. U. S.—G.—E. S.—W. G.—E. M. S.—P. H.—H. B.—T. F.—H. S.—J. E.—A. B.—J. D.—J. W.—J. C.—M. E. L.—J. J.—A. C. J.—F. E. V. H.—S. D. H.—G. C.—A. J. C. C.

◆

WHEN DISASTER MEANS DEFEAT.

DISASTER comes from without; defeat comes from within. Let the enemy batter down the walls, silence the guns, storm the defences, even shoot away the colours—that is only disaster. It becomes defeat when the garrison, of its own choice, upon its own responsibility, makes the sign of surrender. Not the surrounding colours of the enemy, though they be thick as autumn leaves, but the white flag on its own ramparts shows that the fort has fallen. There remains a possibility of victory to those who will fight, a hope for all save the hopeless, possible salvation for him who admits the possibility.

Yet despite this fact, many a one at some point or another will insist on practically giving up the contest. This happens in little things and in larger. From the use of tobacco, for example, a friend's advice, a physician's warning, or a pastor's counsel will never dissuade a man who persists in urging that because he tried to break the habit last year and failed, it would be useless for him to try again. No drinking man but will drink till he dies, and probably die of drink, who is ready to concede that the drink-demon is stronger than he is. He has already hung out the white flag of absolute surrender. Disaster has become defeat. Whoever has a besetting sin—and who has not?—may never get out out of reach of its assaults. It may work disaster to his peace of mind, he may even be once and again worsted by it, and yet finally conquer. But the instant he acknowledges its supremacy, he is in the enemy's hands. Not failure as a fact, not failure as a confession, but failure as an excuse, brings hopelessness.—American Sunday School Times.

MESSRS. MOODY AND SANKEY IN TORONTO.

A FRIEND in this Canadian city sends to Miss Macpherson an interesting account of the recent Convention, from which we make the following extracts:—

"We had a grand time. The Convention lasted three days. Each morning practical subjects were discussed, many of the ministers in town taking part, and Mr. Moody speaking once on each subject. Each afternoon there was also an address from him. In the evening he further gave an address to men only. Three times each day the Metropolitan Church was crowded; hundreds had to be turned away, and there was an overflow meeting each evening. There was a choir, trained and led by Mr. Whelpton, of Buffalo; they sang very sweetly some of the best of the Gospel hymns. Mr. and Mrs. McGranahan also assisted in the singing.

"The men's meetings were a great success; about two hundred men stood up to be prayed for the first night. Our city has been stirred in a way that I have never seen before. One very pleasing feature of the meetings has been the unanimity of opinion about Mr. Moody and his great work. People who are much opposed in general to revival meetings could not help liking the evangelist."

◆

SHIPWRECKED MARINERS.

THE quarterly number of the magazine of the Shipwrecked Fishermen and Mariners' Society is always of the most engrossing interest. Mention is made in the latest issue of the continued prosperity and widespread usefulness vouchsafed to the Society. The publication of the 45th Annual Report, bound up with the present number, reveals the sad fact that there is every reason to fear that so far from there being any diminution of loss of life at sea during the previous year, the number of wrecks and maritime casualties has been considerably greater, and the loss of life considerably increased. It seems that the Trade Return of the House of Commons makes the number of lives lost during 1883 to be no less than 2416, and this is exclusive of all lives lost in barges, fishing-smacks, lighters, and tug-steamers, simply comprising losses occurring in British cargo and passenger vessels. The number of shipwrecked fishermen and mariners who have in various ways been helped during the same period, including also the succouring of widows, and orphans, and aged parents, in their sudden bereavement, amounts to more than 12,000. For saving life at sea, thirteen silver medals have been awarded, besides presentation barometers and pecuniary rewards.

In an appendix to the Report, Capt. Maude, R.N., says: I was appealed to many years ago by a set of supposed shipwrecked men, who described all the horrors of being cast ashore without a penny, and obliged to beg their way home. When they told me they were wrecked at Swansea (150 miles off), I inquired, 'What did the Shipwrecked Mariners' Society's local agent do for you?' 'Nothing at all.' 'Then,' said I, 'you are imposters, and ought to be prosecuted,' wherupon they all took to their heels." The article on "Great Gales" is one of historic value, while "The Sea and its Perils," "The Storms of the Past Quarter," and "Quiet Thoughts," all serve to make this number of The Shipwrecked Mariner well worth perusing. It can be obtained for 6d. at the office of the Society, Hibernia-chambers, London-bridge.

MELBOURNE HALL, LEICESTER.—On Saturday, Dec. 20, the Robert Walker Memorial Schools, standing on land adjacent to Melbourne Hall, were formally opened and presented to Rev. F. B. Meyer and his people. This munificent gift of three brothers, in memory of their beloved father, consists of a most tasteful and spacious building, and provides separate classroom accommodation for 500 scholars, a large central hall, coffee room, &c., furnished with the necessary appliances. The entire block of buildings is now worth £13,000, of which only £3,000 remains to be cleared off. The whole of the money has been given without being begged, and in answer to prayer.

NEW ZEALAND NOTES.

WE subjoin some extracts from a letter recently received from Wellington, New Zealand, by a correspondent in London:—

"You see nothing like signs of poverty about; although I suppose it must exist to some extent. I have seen two or three children without shoes and stockings, but their very looks tell you that it is not poverty that has so placed them. The precocity and impudence of the children surprise me, and have made me rather shrink from taking up Sunday-school work [The writer, however, was well accustomed to work of this sort among the children of the London poor]. Drunkenness doubtless exists, though I have seen none, and the Blue Ribbon is very common; perhaps one in every six is a wearer. This may be owing to a Mission held some few months back.

The Salvation Army is very strong, and as at home, is causing strong opposition. They have a building to seat I should say some 1500 or 2000 people. Most of the Christian bodies are doing a good and at the same time an aggressive work.

The Young Men's Christian Association is doing a splendid work. They gave us a most warm welcome, and it seemed as if they could not do too much for us. They have open-air work and indoor Gospel meetings. One of these is held at 7.45 on Sunday evenings, so that they can get hold of non-churchgoers, and it is very successful, numbers being won for the Lord by this means. In addition, there are workers' prayer-meetings (the one I have been to, on Sunday morning before church, is well attended, and a very earnest spirit pervades it), a Bible-class, to provide recruits for the Sunday-school at the Association rooms, and a Sunday-school for the roughest boys they can get.

◆

CENTRAL AFRICAN MISSION.

DEAR SIR,—Your readers will be interested to hear that letters have come from my son, F. S. Arnot, in which he gives details of his leaving the Barotsi valley (see THE CHRISTIAN of 6th November), and of his journey to the West Coast at Benquella, where he arrived after he had got the American missionaries re-established at Bailandu. He acted at the request of both parties. He undertook a journey of ninety miles to see the King, and get his permission and invitation for them to return.

He gives many details of the manners and customs of the Barotsi people—as well as their cruelty. On great occasions they cut off the toes and fingers of a child, and sprinkle its blood on any boat or building intended for the King, after which they toss the child into the Zambesi! They have a "City of Refuge," where anyone who may have incurred the King's wrath or been guilty of a serious crime may flee to and be safe; and if the head man of that village pleads for him he may return to his own home and live in peace. Their laws for the cleansing of houses that have been defiled with dead bodies are very much the same as the laws of Moses, and other defilements in like manner.

Their mode of naming children is very like what is found in Scripture, viz., "Child of sorrow," "child of joy," "born by the river," &c., &c. When a man of property dies, his nearest kinsman takes his brother's wives, and children born of them inherit the dead man's property, as in Deut. xxv. 5, 6. It is a regular custom, when a man returns to his house, for a servant to wait with water to pour on his hands, and as it was said of Elisha in 2 Kings iii. 11, "which poured water on the hands of Elijah," so, in the Barotsi valley, the same expression is used to denote a servant or slave. These manners and customs, found in the dark centre of heathenism in Africa, must be deeply interesting to the student of the Word.

While my son found the negro in the centre of Africa to be far from moral, he found, as he got nearer the West Coast, the state of morals was much lower in very many respects, including the bad effects of drinking rum and brandy. He intends to return again into the interior if the Lord will, after recruiting and getting supplies, &c., but will go to the north of the Barotsi, where no missionary has ever been yet.

Yours faithfully, WILLIAM ARNOT.

54, York-street, Glasgow.

THE PAST YEAR.

BY REV. THORNLEY SMITH.

SWIFTLY has passed another year,
And at its close we stand and see,
With mingled views of hope and fear,
The prospect of eternity.

What has it been? a year of change?
Changes are common to us all:
We cannot go beyond their range,
On youth and age alike they fall.

What has it been? a year of loss?
Have riches taken wings and fled?
Learn we to count them all but dross,
And trust the more in Christ our Head.

What has it been? a year of gain?
With lapse of time does wealth increase?
Set not your heart on what is vain;
From earthly things for ever cease.

What has it been? a year of toil?
Of blessed service for your Lord?
Withdrawn from all the world's turmoil,
You know the sweetness of his Word.

What has it been? a year of pain?
Of suffering for the Master's sake?
The Master ever doth remain,
When from his hands the cup we take.

What has it been? a year of grief,
Beside the graves of those we love?
This is our comfort and relief,
That they have gained the rest above.

The year has gone, another comes,
But tells us not what it shall be;
Whatever in the distance looms,
Trustful in God, we wait to see.

We wait to see, for nothing comes
But in accordance with his will;
Peaceful the minds, and blest the homes,
Which, with his presence, God doth fill.

Come ease, come pain, come life, come death,
Our Father orders all things well;
And we will with our latest breath,
The praises of his goodness tell.

◆

THE RESCUE OF DESTITUTE CHILDREN.

SIR,—We venture to plead for help on behalf of the Children's Aid and Refuge Fund connected with the Reformatory and Refuge Union. By its means grants are made towards the maintenance of 5000 children in various Homes. Three officers are also constantly employed in putting in force the laws relative to the rescue of destitute children, and in assisting those cases that can only be reached by a voluntary agency. It is only by such efforts as are made in connection with this Fund that neglected children, under six or over fourteen years of age, can be rescued from physical and moral danger, and prevented from entering upon a criminal career.

The work of the Fund has much increased during the past year, in consequence of the special effort that has been made, with considerable success, to rescue children under the Industrial Schools Amendment Act of 1880. Some details of this work have been published in a small pamphlet for private circulation, entitled, "Save the Children," and will be forwarded upon application to the Secretary of the Fund. We earnestly ask for liberal help to meet the extra expenditure incurred by this extension of our work. It will be gratefully acknowledged by Mr. Arthur J. S. Maddison, the Secretary of the Children's Aid Fund.—Yours faithfully,

GEORGE HANBURY, } Hon. Secs.
W. E. HUBBARD, }

32, Charing-cross, S.W.

A MESSAGE FROM AFAR.—SIR,—Will you kindly allow me to thank, through your columns, an unknown friend who has long continued to send me copies of THE CHRISTIAN? I value the paper very much. It is good to have one's sympathies enlarged by reading of the vast amount of work which is being done for Christ by other organisations than that to which one belongs. Will the kind sender please to address all future favours as under? Truly yours,

Waitara, Taranaki, N.Z. F. THOS. BAKER.

FEEDING THE HUNGRY.

UPWARDS of 1200 distressed dock labourers have received a free breakfast through the kindness of those who responded to the recent appeal. Still, morning by morning, the poor men crowd round the door, begging for "only a crust." "Ah! they only come for the loaves and fishes," said a cynical bystander to the missionary. "I'll test them, then," thought the latter, and he forthwith announced that there would be no Gospel service that morning, but he would be glad to see any of them in the evening, "when," he added, "there will of course be no food given away." When evening came the Sailors' Rest was crammed, and, thank God, it has been full night after night ever since.

A poor fellow, an avowed Atheist, had often jeered at the missionary in the Docks. One day, when passing near, he shouted, "Well, how's Jesus Christ to-day?" "Come here, and I'll tell you," was the reply. He came, and the missionary, laying his hand on the young man's shoulder, said, lovingly and solemnly, "He is 'the same yesterday, to-day, and for ever.' He loves you, and gave Himself for you." That reply reached the Atheist's conscience, God wrought with him, and to-day he is one of the most regular and earnest attendants at the services.

Let us count upon your prayers, that very much blessing may result from this effort, to mitigate in some measure the prevailing distress, while seeking to win for Christ all those to whom the kindness of your readers has enabled us to minister.

Thames Church Mission, E. J. MATHER,
31, New Bridge-street, E.C. Secretary.

◆

YOUNG MEN AT BREAKFAST.

THE usual Christmas Morning Breakfast of young men and their friends at the Aldersgate-street Y.M.C.A. attracted a large company last Thursday. The Aldersgate-street Gospel Choir lent the charm of their musical voices to the occasion. Mr. George Williams, the worthy President of the Institution, was there of course, and looked as happy and pleased as ever. The past year, he said, had been in all respects the happiest year of his life. Among the various elements that had contributed to make it so, were his association with Messrs. Moody and Sankey's work, his visit to the Conference at Berlin, the extent to which God had used him in helping others, and the rich blessing that had come into his own heart. Referring to the Association and the progress being made by the various branches at Brighton, Newcastle, Reading, and in Ireland, Mr. Williams said that in every way the past had been the most prosperous year of its existence; and that, under these circumstances, nothing less than a whole burnt-offering should be presented by each one to God.

The proceedings of the meeting were of deep interest throughout. "Hark! the herald angels sing" was sung with vigour; a chapter was read by Mr. Williams' son; a prayer, breathing intense gratitude to God, was offered by the popular secretary, Mr. Burn; and the note of fervent praise, already struck, continued to resound throughout the meeting. Another prayer was offered by Mr. Hind Smith, whose brief address told of its being the happiest Christmas time he had ever spent. He expressed his thankfulness that the Association was founded on such sound principles, and firmly believed that God would continue to bless it.

Short addresses followed from Mr. Stanley Smith, Mr. C. T. Studd, Rev. W. Cassel, Rev. T. C. Udall, Mr. Hayward, Mr. Mills, and last of all, Mr. Burn, who hoped that the practical outcome of this unusually happy and successful meeting would be seen in large attendances during the coming weeks. He hoped all would try and bring young men in; he was looking for a great blessing.

SICK AND DISTRESSED IN BRIGHTON.—At the recent annual meeting of the Brighton Relief Fund for the Sick and Distressed, a good report of work done was presented by Mr. G. Beal, Hon. Sec. During the year over 500 needy persons had been visited and granted substantial relief in various forms. Rev. J. B. Figgis and others heartily commended the work done by the fund.

DR. SOMERVILLE IN CORINTH.

AFTER leaving Athens, Dr. Somerville arrived in Corinth on the evening of Tuesday, the 16th of December, having travelled by Nauplia, Argos, and Mycenæ. Old Corinth is a straggling village, the fields about which were green with sprouting corn. New Corinth is a gradually rising town about five miles from the ancient site, situated on the western side of the Isthmus.

On the evening of Dr. Somerville's arrival, a professor in the gymnasium called and consulted with him, on which he telegraphed to Dr. Moschou, asking if he could join him as interpreter at Corinth for three days. An answer came that Dr. Moschou would be at Corinth the next day.

In the morning Dr. Somerville called on the Demarch (Mayor), who kindly offered the Boys' Public School (a larger hall than that which had been thought of), and granted the use of it for three evenings. He also suggested the propriety of a visit to the Archbishop of Corinth.

Although the bills were not posted till four o'clock, two hours before the meeting, the school was over-crowded, and many were unable to gain admission. Among those present were a few ladies, the Colonel commanding the regiment stationed at Corinth, and the Prefect of Police. The meeting went on thoroughly well, although the weakness of the lighting prevented the hymn sheets being used.

The people listened attentively to the preacher, who gave an outline of the relation which Corinth bore to the Christian world at large, as having been the scene of one of our Lord's appearances to the Apostle of the Gentiles, the place to which two epistles had been addressed, and that from which many important ones had been written. He especially emphasized St. Paul's resolution, made at Corinth: "not to know anything . . . save Jesus Christ, and Him crucified" (1 Cor. ii. 2). He intimated that he would, God willing, hold similar meetings the next evening, and the following one. The people loudly expressed their pleasure at what they had heard.

On Thursday Dr. Somerville tried to make arrangements for a choir, and again visited the Demarch, who regretted that he (Dr. Somerville) had not yet called on the Archbishop, and urged him to do so. This Dr. Somerville did in the afternoon, but his Reverence could not receive the visit, because of indisposition.

That same evening, little more than an hour before the advertised time of the meeting, Dr. Somerville was met in the street by the Prefect of Police, who had been very friendly and had volunteered his services in the lighting of the hall. He informed Dr. Somerville that the Archbishop would be obliged if the meeting were not held that night. This message had been sent before Dr. Somerville's visit to his reverence, and as Dr. Somerville did not wish the responsibility of interfering with the meeting to rest with him, the Prefect was requested to return to the Archbishop to inform him that no disrespect had been intended by the call not having been made sooner, and also that it was already within an hour of the meeting, which was announced by bills over all the town. The Prefect brought back the answer that the Archbishop prohibited the meeting, and said that he (the Prefect) had, on his way, locked the door of the school, and told a few, who were gathered there, that the meeting would not take place that evening. It was now almost six o'clock, the advertised time for the meeting, so, to prevent any misunderstanding, Dr. Somerville went, in company with the Prefect, to the school. The door was closed, the lamps were not lighted, but about one hundred people were already gathered there. Dr. Somerville stood upon the steps, and addressed them through his interpreter, telling them shortly that the authorities other than the Demarch and Prefect had prevented the meeting; and, that so, the meetings, which he had hoped to hold that evening and the next, would not take place. He said that he, being a stranger, had not thought himself to be doing anything at variance with the spirit of the Constitution of Greece. He then thanked the Demarch, Prefect, and those who had listened to him, and prayed for God's blessing on those gathered there. The people warmly cheered him, and he then went to his hotel, amicably leaning on the arm of the kindly Prefect, who expressed his regret at having been obliged to act under constraint of duty.

This is the first instance of direct opposition that Dr. Somerville has met with in Greece.

In conversation afterwards with a leading citizen of Corinth, who asked if Dr. Somerville intended to inform the English Ambassador, Dr. Somerville replied that it was for others rather than foreigners to vindicate the liberties of Greece.

Dr. Somerville held ten publicly placarded meetings in Athens and three in Piræus without its being considered necessary to obtain the permission of the ecclesiastical authorities at either of those places.

The whole incident is interesting as recalling the story of the introduction of the Gospel into Corinth (Acts xviii. 1—17).

◆

A MISSION IN HANTS.

A VERY successful Mission conducted at Bishop's Sutton, Alresford, Hants, under the auspices of the Church of England Parochial Mission Society, came to a close on Monday, December 15. The Mission proper was commenced on November 29, and was conducted by Rev. W. E. Cleworth, who spared himself no pains, holding as many as three services daily (Saturdays excepted). The greatest attention and most sustained interest were always manifest; it was evident throughout that the preacher's aim and the desire of his heart were to lead souls to Christ. In this he was greatly used of God. Many were brought from "darkness into light," not only from the village, but from the neighbouring town of Alresford and villages near.

Both the Vicar and Mission preacher were much encouraged by the sympathy and occasional attendance of their brother clergymen.

◆

ORPHAN AND FRIENDLESS GIRLS.

SIR,—Will you allow me space to bring before your readers the claims of a "Home for Orphan and Friendless Girls," which, although comparatively unknown, has none the less been the means of rescuing many little children from the lowest depths, and training them in habits of usefulness and industry, placing them when fitted for it in domestic service. To the value of this kind of "Family Home" the Secretary of the "Reformatory and Refuge Union" to which it is affiliated bears strong testimony.

Founded by one who chose in this way to employ her small earnings first as village schoolmistress, and after as matron of another institution, it is still superintended by her, in spite of the infirmities of old age, at present with the assistance of a recently formed committee, but her anxieties are at this time greatly increased, owing to the scarcity of funds. If any of your readers could help, however little, this humble but useful "Home," they may be quite sure it is money well spent, and in behalf of one of the most crying needs of our great cities. All information can be obtained on application to the Hon. K. Pluntset (member of committee), 64, Eaton-place, S.W., or the Lady Victoria Campbell (M.C.), Argyll Lodge, Kensington, by either of whom contributions will be thankfully received.

Yours faithfully, V. C.

YOUNG WOMEN AT CLAPHAM.—The Young Women's Christian Institute at 355, Clapham-road, was formally opened on December 16, by the Rev. Allen Edwards, jun., B.A., Vicar of All Saint's Church, South Lambeth. The room was quite filled with the young ladies for whose benefit the house has been taken, and they received a hearty welcome from Mr. Edwards and the members of the Committee. Miss Macleod, who gave an account of the work carried on in similar institutes in Great Britain and Ireland, begged all present to take advantage of this new home, where a hearty welcome was offered to them, and where she trusted many of them would be helped on in their spiritual life. Upwards of twenty young women joined at the end, seventeen next day, and it is hoped that after the busy season is over more may have leisure to join the Institute.

REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND IN LIVERPOOL.

THE Liverpool friends have been the first to secure the presence and labours of this evangelist for any lengthened period. Mr. Hammond is fond of marking the indications of God's guiding hand in connection with his mission work; the chain of events that culminated in this visit to Liverpool were alluded to by him on Sunday last, and may be briefly mentioned. Several years ago he received a letter from Mr. William Patterson, who was then secretary of the Liverpool Y.M.C.A. In this letter, among other matters, Mr. Patterson stated that in 1862, when a boy in Montreal, he, with many young people, was led to trust in Christ for salvation, through attending the children's meetings being held there by Mr. Hammond. After communicating this cheering fact, he proceeded to say that he was commissioned on behalf of the Liverpool Y.M.C.A. to invite the evangelist to conduct a series of Gospel services in that important city. Mr. Hammond could not at that time accept the invitation, but he promised that whenever he should again visit Great Britain he would most assuredly see Mr. Patterson and talk the matter over.

As we have stated, some years have passed since then. Mr. Patterson by and by left the scene of his labours in Liverpool, being compelled by failing health again to seek a residence on the other side of the Atlantic. His mantle, however, has fallen on worthy shoulders. Mr. Joseph Hales is now the Secretary of the Liverpool Y.M.C.A.; and when he saw it announced that Mr. Hammond was again about to enter on a season of evangelistic work in these lands, he was moved to resolve, if possible, to engage the efforts of the evangelist. When Mr. Hammond was on the point of landing at Liverpool, a telegram was handed in at the office of the Y.M.C.A., from a friend in London, to await his arrival. Mr. Hammond called at the office of the Association, and was welcomed by Mr. Hales, with the intimation that he believed the Lord had work for him to do in that city. He introduced Mr. Hammond to various friends at the daily prayer-meeting, and finally, after some correspondence, the invitation to commence his evangelistic campaign in Liverpool was accepted.

Though the notice of Mr. Hammond's visit was short, and the season not very favourable, these circumstances did not prevent large audiences gathering to his opening meetings. On the afternoon of Saturday week a Children's Service was held in the Gordon Hall of the Liverpool Y.W.C.A. The children of the district were invited. Rev. E. A. Barnes-Lawrence, of St. Luke's Church, attended with the school, and took an earnest part in the service. In the evening there was a reception of workers at the Y.M.C.A.

On the following Sunday morning Mr. Hammond, at the invitation of Rev. Canon Woodward, addressed the school children in connection with St. Silas, Toxteth-park, and was assisted by the Rev. T. Griffith. Several professed to have found the Saviour.

On Sunday afternoon, by arrangement with the Boys' and Girls' Religious Services, a large meeting was held in Brunswick Wesleyan Chapel, of which Rev. Robert Morton is the pastor. The schools assembled from the district, and filled the large building with an immense audience of children.

At seven in the evening Mr. Hammond conducted an evangelistic service at St. James' Hall, Lime-street; the building was crowded with an audience such as can be found in few towns or cities—almost every nation, colour, and class being represented. Mr. Reginald Radcliffe and his son, Mr. Heber Radcliffe, were present and took part in the service; the Y.M.C.A. Evangelistic Choir led the singing, and Mr. W. P. Roberts sang solos with much power. A very large force of Christian workers from the Y.M.C.A. was present, one company taking charge of the main entrance of the hall from the street, singing Gospel hymns to the crowds in this great thoroughfare, while Mr. Radcliffe and Mr. Hales gave brief addresses from the steps.

In the Children's Services Mr. Hammond was able to reach the hearts of boys and girls in a marked manner, as was testified by the deep feeling among those who remained for conversation. At the close of the service at St. James' Hall, a large number stayed behind for an inquiry meeting, and were taken in hand by the workers, who afterwards reported many cases of chains broken and the fetters of sin loosed.

The engagements of the Christmas week in a large city like Liverpool do not allow of any systematic effort at general evangelistic work in the evenings. Mr. Hammond, therefore, confined himself to addresses at the daily noon prayer meetings, and children's services in the afternoon in Gordon Hall. These meetings have been abundantly blessed, and have shown that the remarkable power of the evangelist in reaching and influencing youthful hearts is as great as many in this country have proved it to be in the days of yore. The following incident of the work, related by Mr. Hammond at one of the noon meetings, will serve as a single example of this.

On the Monday afternoon, said the evangelist, I observed in the front seat at the second meeting a little girl weeping bitterly. When I passed her a gentleman was earnestly conversing with her, so I did not then speak to her. Towards the close of the meeting, as we were singing a hymn of praise, I noticed that the little girl's tears had disappeared, and she was singing as heartily as any, with a smiling countenance. Approaching her, I said: "What made you weep so bitterly in the earlier part of the service?" She burst into tears again, and sobbed out: "Oh, it was because I felt I was so wicked not to love the dear Saviour of whom you were speaking, who suffered so much for me." When she left the meeting she seemed to go away rejoicing in the assurance of pardon.

Next day she came again to the children's meeting, and sang during the service with great earnestness. When the inquiry-meeting began, her countenance was lit up with a radiant joy. When I spoke to her again she told me with great confidence that on the previous afternoon she believed she had truly learned to love the Saviour. I led her to Mr. Hales, that he might have some further conversation with her. Seeing another little girl somewhat older sitting by her side, I asked who she was. "That is my sister; she also gave her heart to Jesus last night." A gentleman was sitting near by, and she said, in answer to another inquiry, "That is our father." As he approached us, I asked him if his children were Christians. He replied very emphatically that he fully believed they were; he said they had decided at the meeting the day before, and it had been evident all day; the change in their whole conduct was so marked, and their young hearts were filled with joy. He pointed to his little boy, who, when spoken with, also gave decided evidence of an intelligent trust in Christ as his Saviour. The father proceeded to say that he himself was converted through attending the meetings held by Mr. Hammond in Dumfries, Scotland, in 1861. When he saw it announced that the evangelist was to hold these meetings for children, he resolved that his children should attend, though they lived at some considerable distance. He had done so, with the very gratifying result that they were now trusting in the Lord in their tender years, and were showing it by their changed tempers and lives. Such cases, of which the one we give is only a sample, are full of the deepest encouragement both to the evangelist, at the outset of his Mission, and to Christian parents who may be able to place their children within the scope of its influence.

At one of the noon prayer-meetings Mr. Reginald Radcliffe spoke at some length of his early acquaintance with Mr. Hammond, when he was a divinity student in Edinburgh. Of all the evangelists he knew, none had been more largely blessed of God in the conversion of sinners in Scotland. The work he began there spread over a great part of the central and western districts of the country. Mr. Radcliffe, we deeply regret to say, caught a severe cold, while assisting Mr. Hammond at the St. James' Hall service on Sunday week, and is now closely confined to his house; we trust he may speedily be restored to his usual measure of health.

As another instance of the good resulting from the meetings already held, the following may be cited. At one of the daily prayer-meetings a young minister testified that he had attended the children's service in Brunswick on Sunday week; the impression made on him by what he saw and heard was very great, and its influence went with him to a meeting he had to conduct that same evening, and when he believed some thirty souls were led to make profession of faith in Christ.

One of our representatives spent the whole of last Sunday with Mr. Hammond, who took part in no less than five services. The day was one of intense and truly remarkable interest. A detailed account would, we are sure, be welcomed by our readers, but this we must postpone to our next issue. In the morning the evangelist preached a sermon of singularly pathetic power on the conversion of children, to the congregation of which Rev. Simeon Macphail is pastor; this was introductory to some services which Mr. Hammond will conduct in the church this week. In the afternoon he had a children's service in Gordon Hall. Three meetings filled up the evening hours—one, for the poorest of poor children picked off the streets of Liverpool, held in the Coliseum, another in St. James' Hall, and a third in the premises of the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Hammond is conducting services for children every afternoon this week, and general evangelistic meetings in the evenings. Great things are looked for, and we doubt not the faith of God's servants will be amply rewarded.

BIRMINGHAM MEDICAL MISSION.—The recently-issued Report of this Mission, of which Dr. Crabbe is the medical superintendent, rejoices in the continued blessing of God which has rested on the work of the Institution. The total number of consultations for the year amounted to nearly 17,000; many of those who came for bodily healing received spiritual blessing as well. One patient said, "Doctor, ever since I came here I've taken a turn, and I mean to live a different life to what I have done." Another said, "Doctor, I have to thank you for the great change I find in me since coming here; I feel a different woman in body and spirit; I believe I have given myself to Jesus, and I feel so happy." A fortnight's Gospel Temperance Mission was recently held, conducted by working men and their wives.

Notes and Comments.

WITH this number we enter upon the New Year. We therefore greet our readers with earnest and hearty Christian salutation, and prayerful expression of desire for their spiritual and temporal welfare throughout its course. Christian faith and hope face the unknown future with confidence and courage, well assured that whatever its issues may be, they can but bring to all who trust in God the favour and blessing He promises to his people. But there are many indications of growing need on the part of believers for patience, boldness in the faith, and endurance for Christ's sake. The path of Christian fidelity is not smoother than of yore, and as we enter upon 1885 it is well to prepare for the battle, and afresh to gird up our loins, and trim our lamps. Blessed shall it be for those who spend the year in devotion and consecration to the claims of our coming Lord. May great grace rest upon us all to this end!

Mr. Joseph Cook, says an American contemporary, is preparing to resume his Monday Lectureship this season, but he will not probably begin the lectures before February. No announcement of his plans has as yet been made.

A friend makes the following suggestion. It comes too late for Christmas, but it may yet have a message for some in connection with New Year customs:—

> "Would it not be pleasing to God, were the time-honoured manifestations of love and kindness which are on New Year and Christmas day exchanged in families for once diverted into another channel? Instead of presents to relatives, friends, children, and grandchildren, might not the sums they represent be sent to our starving brothers and sisters? Your own appeals alone will give full scope for every donor. Whether for dock labourers, orphanages, widows, penny dinners, or any other need there are thousands of applicants. I believe the children of Christian households would be among the first to forego treats and presents to help their suffering neighbours."

One of Mr. McAll's Mission staff writes to us as follows:—

> "We have been finding the times difficult, like so many others, and next year shall have again to economise to the utmost possible extent. This will prevent us being able to respond to the many calls continually being made. One such appeal comes before the committee, and they do not know how to accede or how to refuse. It is to open work in three towns, linked together, and all that the friends there ask for is some £120 to £140 per annum; they will do all the rest, and personally conduct the work."

We trust the generous sympathy of British Christians will spare our brother and his fellow-workers the painful necessity of refusing. The address of the Mission is 32, Rue Pierre Guérin, Auteuil, Paris.

The providing of suitable and remunerative occupation for women is one of the subjects the altered circumstances of our times forces upon public attention. The Exhibition of Women's Industries, to be held in Bristol in February, may be reasonably looked forward to as helping to throw light on this difficult subject. By affording proof of what the female portion of the community can do, it will open the way for wider employment of their talents and capabilities. It is said that from all parts of the country women who have to depend on their own energies for a livelihood are responding to the invitations of the committee to send exhibits of their work.

A telegram was received on Friday by Rev. J. Hudson Taylor from Mr. McCarthy, who had just arrived at Shanghai.

A new religious weekly journal is announced, under the editorship of Rev. Hugh Price Hughes; it will be entitled The Methodist Times, and the first number appears on this date (January 1). The published programme is a very thoroughgoing one. With such a gifted and enterprising gentleman as Mr. Price Hughes at the head of a large staff of eminent contributors, the new venture is an assured success.

In our recent note as to the testimonial being raised for Rev. Francis Tucker, of Camden Town, the sum already subscribed by the congregation was stated at £300, instead of £1300. We gladly take this renewed opportunity of commending to our readers this movement for providing for the declining years of an aged and faithful servant of God. The hon. treasurer of the fund, as already mentioned, is Mr. W. C. Parkinson, 18, Carlton-road, Tufnell-park, N.W.

The Archbishopric of Dublin, vacant by the resignation of Dr. Trench, has been filled by the election of the Right Rev. Lord Plunket, late Bishop of Meath. It being the first episcopal election in the United dioceses since the disestablishment of the Irish Church, great interest was felt in the proceedings. The joint Synods of Dublin, Glendalough, and Kildare met for the purpose, under the presidency of the Bishop of Limerick. The result of the first scrutiny was that Lord Plunket and Dr. Pakenham Walsh, Bishop of Ossory, were placed on the select list as candidates, the final result giving 470 votes to the former, and 82 to the latter.

The Church Missionary Society has, by deputation, interviewed the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs at the Foreign Office, for the purpose of calling the attention of the Government to the immense importance of their retaining control over the liquor traffic on the Niger. It appears that proposals have been made at the Berlin Conference that England should abandon its right to levy Customs and Excise duties on spirits on the great Western river. The result of this would be to irreparably injure the cause of Missions, and to neutralise all efforts to elevate the condition of the African races in that region. Lord Fitzmaurice replied in terms of sympathy with the object of the Society, and spoke hopefully of the issue of the Conference being the endorsement of its views.

The arrangements for the Week of Prayer, commencing January 4, include daily meetings in several parts of London, as will be seen from the programme given on another page. There is reason to believe that the invitation of the Evangelical Alliance will be more widely adopted throughout the country, and indeed the world, than in any previous year. Union at the Throne of Grace ought not to be difficult to obtain among Christians, inseparably united as they are in Christ, if really branches of the True Vine. There assuredly all differences may be lost sight of, one common need blending all hearts in supplication to the one God and Father of us all. May the opening week of this new year witness the welding together of multitudes of hearts hitherto divided and alone.

In acknowledging a recent communication, Mr. George Smith, of Coalville, writes to us:—

> "Allow me to thank you for the help you are lending to The Pall Mall Gazette Fund. One of the most touching acts of kindness I have ever received is the 'little girl's' letter which appears in last week's CHRISTIAN. God bless her for it. It has cheered our hearts much."

The Rev. Chauncy Maples, speaking recently at Westminster Abbey, gave some intensely interesting particulars about the Universities Mission in Zanzibar. Referring to its work in connection with slavery, he said that—

> "At their printing-office the released slaves had printed the whole of the New Testament and a large portion of the Old in Swahili, a language understood throughout the Interior. With regard to the slave trade at Zanzibar, although much had been done to suppress it, that pernicious traffic still flourished, and large caravans of slaves passing through the streets were frequently to be seen. One feature of the Mission was that its members were only supplied with necessaries, and the rich and poor worked together as brethren. They now had thirty-five natives, formerly slaves, employed in the direct work of evangelisation, and amongst their converts was a youth formerly page to the Sultan of Zanzibar, who would eventually be a missionary, and who was a most earnest Christian."

Mr. Ruskin, in the Christmas Number (which by the way, is to be the last) of Fors Clavigera, makes some touching allusions to his own experiences in connection with spiritual life. They indicate a defect many beside himself have realised:—

> "Looking back upon my efforts for the last twenty years, I believe that their failure has been in very great part owing to my compromise with the infidelity of the outer world, and my endeavour to base my pleading upon motives of ordinary prudence and kindness, instead of on the primary duty of loving God—foundation other than which no man can lay. I thought myself speaking to a crowd which could only be influenced by visible utility; nor was I the least aware how many entirely good and holy persons were living in the faith and love of God as vividly and practically now as ever in the early enthusiasm of Christendom, until, chiefly in consequence of the great illnesses which, for some time after 1878, forbade my accustomed literary labour, I was brought into closer personal relations with the friends in America, Scotland, Ireland, and Italy, to whom, if I am spared to write any record of my life, it will be seen that I owe the best hopes and highest thoughts which have supported and guided the force of my matured mind. These have shown me, with lovely initiation, in how many secret places the prayer was made which I had foolishly listened for at the corners of the streets; and on how many hills, which I had thought left desolate, the hosts of heaven still moved in chariots of fire."

There is, doubtless, much more devotion and true piety in the world than the eye sees, or man takes cognizance of. But Mr. Ruskin is right when he pleads for the putting forth of all the energies such devotion can inspire. Secret discipleship may not rest content while the summons comes from far and near for all lovers of righteousness to engage in the conflict, and go forth to the help of the Lord.

> "Surely the time is come when all these faithful armies should lift up the standard of their Lord—not by might, nor by power, but by His Spirit, bringing forth judgment unto victory; that they should no more be hidden, nor overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good. If the enemy cometh in like a flood, how much more may the rivers of Paradise? Are there not fountains of the great deep that open to bless, not destroy?
>
> "And the beginning of blessing, if you will think of it, is in that promise, 'Great shall be the peace of thy children.' All the world is but as one orphanage, so long as its children know not God their Father; and all wisdom and knowledge is only more bewildered darkness, so long as you have not taught them the fear of the Lord. Not to be taken out of the world in monastic sorrow, but to be kept from its evil in shepherded peace, should be the real aim."

The Queen has presented a copy of each of her books, with Her Majesty's autograph, to the London Temperance Hospital, Hampstead-road, for the use of the patients.

The Society for Promoting Industrial Villages, having for its Vice-Presidents the Earl of Shaftesbury, the Earl of Aberdeen, and Mr. S. Morley, M.P., is pushing on its scheme for providing occupation in rural districts for those who are suffering from the overcrowded condition of London and other large cities and towns. A co-operative farm has just been started near Farnham, Surrey, to be called Craig Farm, which is to be devoted to market-gardening, fruit, and dairy farming, the labourers to be paid by sharing the profits instead of receiving wages. Other industries are to be introduced, such as stocking and jersey-weaving, knitting, and dressmaking. The creation of peasant proprietaries of this kind seems to have in it an idea of great practical utility, and its result, in this trial of its success, will be watched with much interest. The Society is busily employed collecting information with the purpose of widely developing the plan.

The Church of England, as represented in the metropolis by the London Diocesan Council, is about to make a new effort on behalf of young men, with a view to their moral and social welfare. Central offices have been obtained at Charing-cross, and a Fund started to carry out plans for forming local institutions in different localities. The importance of zeal and earnestness in such directions as this cannot be over-estimated; it is true, as the Duke of Westminster says in a letter published in various journals last week, that "in our youth lie the nation's strength or weakness to-day, and its hope or fear for to-morrow." Too much cannot be done in town or country to win the young for Christ, and to help them to escape the vices and allurements which beset them on every hand.

A religious service was held in the Literary Institute, Edinburgh, on the evening of Sunday, the 21st ult., at which, after singing, reading the Scriptures, and prayer, a sermon or lecture was delivered by Mr. Henry George on "Moses." After asserting the Divine inspiration of the great lawgiver's teaching, the lecturer proceeded to show that not the protection of property, but the protection of humanity, was the aim of the Mosaic law. Its sanctions, he said, were not given to securing the strong in heaping up wealth, so much as preventing the weak from being crowded to the wall. There is an important element of truth in this way of looking at the subject, and one which Christian ministers and teachers must not leave in the hands of political agitators to expound.

The cause of the poor and the support of the weak always evoked the sympathy of the Lord Jesus in his ministry among men. He looked upon rich and poor with impartial eye, and vindicated the just rights of both, but He made the former feel that considerate regard of the latter was essential to his service and discipleship. No lesson is more needful now to be learned by the Church which bears his name, than that of dealing with the destitute and unprotected classes of society in his spirit and as taught by his precepts. The political side of such questions is not the first one for Christian men and women to consider; there are higher considerations, based, not upon needed reforms in human laws, but upon Divine laws at once perfect and irrevocable, and needing no reform.

A brief memoir of the late Mr. Daniel Cooper, for many years well known as the devoted secretary of the Rescue Society, has been written by Mr. J. M. Weylland, with an introduction by Mr. George Williams. It is published at this office, price 1s.

A correspondent writes on the great prevalence of the sin of lying, urging the need for its more faithful rebuke. There is a tendency among many even who profess to be Christians to condone or excuse the practice; lies are called stories, fibs, &c., while in trade a terrible lack of truthfulness prevails, and is pleaded for as essential to success. It is needful to call attention to the Word of Truth, which asserts that "lying lips are an abomination to the Lord," and that the devil is "the father of lies." In days when there is strong temptation to depart from the law of truth, we have cause to pray to God that He would "keep the door of our lips."

The latest issue of the White Cross series of tracts, written for men only, is entitled "Damaged Pearls," and forms a most powerful appeal to working men on the subject of purity. It presents the Scriptural as well as the social aspects of the question in strong and forcible terms, and ought to be circulated broadcast among the class to whom it is addressed. Ministers, in rural districts especially, should read Miss Hopkins' racy and vigorous tractate, and then do their utmost to distribute it to all who come within their reach. It is published at one penny, but fifty or more copies may be had of Messrs. Hatchard's, Piccadilly, at half price.

Religious liberty in Turkey is again threatened, and treaties guaranteeing freedom to worship God according to conscience are being broken by some of the authorities. A letter has appeared in The Times and other journals within the last few days calling attention to the imprisonment of a Turkish teacher, with his family and pupils, fifteen in all, on account of their intention to openly profess Christianity, and seek instruction in a Christian land. The Turkish Branch of the Evangelical Alliance has taken up the matter, and the Secretary of the British Branch has done well to give publicity to the facts, so that the authorities in Constantinople may know that any infringement of rights secured to Christians within their jurisdiction will call down general censure, and lead to strict inquiry. The facts in this case go far to show that a bitter hostility still prevails to the cause of religious freedom, and that there is need for carefully watching over its interests in the East.

We hear a great deal of the stern necessities of the poor and uneducated classes, but what shall we say to the following appeal "for larger means to alleviate the distress which too widely prevails amongst the clergy and their families":—

> "There are not less than 4000 beneficed clergymen with incomes varying from £100 to £200 a year, and 5000 curates whose annual stipend averages about £135. When it is considered that most of these gentlemen are married, and have children to bring up and educate as ladies and gentlemen, the miseries entailed on those who have not ample private means can better be imagined than described, and it is quite impossible for such to make any adequate provision for the widows and children whom, at their death, they may leave behind."

If these clergymen and curates are necessary, they ought to be adequately paid out of the funds of the Establishment; such appeals are surely unworthy of those for whose benefit their services are required.

The Daily Telegraph on Christmas Day commented on this subject, suggesting that the principle of Redistribution, the settlement of which has given us such a quiet political Christmas, might also be applied to remedy the inequality of position prevalent in the clerical and other professions. Our contemporary says:—

> "There is not any room for doubt as to the comfort and joy which would be brought to the starveling curate of a densely-populated mushroom city in our manufacturing districts if he received tidings that his stipend of a hundred and twenty pounds a year, without board or lodging, was to be supplemented by a further hundred or two cut off the fat living enjoyed by one of the country clergymen of the district. There are said to be twelve thousand livings in the possession of the Church of England, of which more than a quarter are the private property of various noblemen, gentlemen, and ladies scattered over the country. Some of them, however, are only 'livings' in a figurative sense of the word, as it would require a man to be either a bachelor, a miser, or a millionaire to live in them and off them."

The writer further hints that Nonconformity, in some of its branches, might also follow suit in starting a scheme for equalising ministerial incomes. In all sections of the Church "the labourer is worthy of his hire," and by some means all who faithfully toil in the vineyard should at least be placed beyond indigence and the need of public appeals on their behalf.

A great evil, productive of serious harm to the spirituality and moral influence of the churches, is that of bazaars conducted on principles of carnal policy and worldly show. Dr. Blaikie, at the Tron Church, Glasgow, a few weeks ago, read a paper on "Current Modes of Raising Money for Church Objects," in which he pleaded strongly against this practice, as involving trouble, expense, and greater evils associated with it. It is well that the employment of lotteries and raffles in connection with these sales should be put down by law. But it is passing strange that Christian principle should not be sufficiently strong to banish them from circles in which it should surely be paramount.

In the course of the discussion raised on Dr. Blaikie's paper, Mr. Howie said it was scandalous that there should be so little sense of the duty of Christian giving that the Church should have to resort so much to the ways of the world in raising money. It is here that one great secret of the mischief is found, the duty and privilege of laying money at the Saviour's feet is not realised by the bulk of his professing people. The spirit of David, and those who responded so heartily to his appeal in preparing for the Temple, needs to be awakened in the Church of to-day. Money is too much loved for its own sake; and the principle of trust in God for temporal things requires fresh assertion and wider development. Happy is it for all who have learned to say, as they give freely of their substance, whether it be little or much, "All things come of Thee, and of thine own have we given Thee."

ST. JOHN'S MISSION, SOUTH SHIELDS.—A fortnight's Gospel services have been held in connection with this Mission by Mr. C. E. Davidson, with blessed results. Not only have the workers been quickened and refreshed, but many have professed their acceptance of Christ, and their desire to be his.

MR. CHARLES INGLIS has been holding most successful meetings in Brockenhurst and Portsmouth. The Bible lectures in the afternoons have been attended by Christians of all denominations, and have proved seasons of great spiritual profit. The meetings for the unsaved have been wonderfully owned of God in the salvation of souls.

AT THE OLD YEAR'S GRAVE.

THERE'S a wail on the wind coming in from the sea,
  There's a drapery of death on the sky,
While we follow the hearse of the old dead year
  To the grave where his fathers lie.
There's a whisper "O bury him deep, deep, deep—
  Though the old man is not to blame—
We would have his bones nevermore unearthed;
  They would speak of our sin and shame."

But no sepulchre hewn in the rocks of time
  Can be locked on the sins of a soul,
Which are written above in the books of heaven
  And recorded in memory's scroll;
Yet a grave has been opened for human sin—
  And this hour, by the dust of years,
Our God shall inter, in the Saviour's tomb,
  All our black soul-stains and our tears.

There's a swell on the ocean of love to-night,
  And, upborne by the healing tide,
Our dissolving hearts are laid low to weep
  At the feet of the Crucified.
Unto Thee who hast borne with us through the past,
  Who now buries our guilt and fears,
We commit our souls to be purified
  And be guided through future years.

Donemana, Ireland. J. K.

◆

IRISH EVANGELISATION SOCIETY.

YOUR readers will be interested to hear that in the midst of so much that is sad and distressing with regard to Ireland, it has pleased God, during the past summer, to move in the mightiness of his grace in many places, and by the power of the Gospel preached by our Evangelists, to bring out clearly for Himself a great number of precious souls.

At Monaghan, Glasslough, and Newbliss, in the county Monaghan; at Caledon, Hintona, and Cookstown, in the county Tyrone; at Glarryford and Ahogill, in the county Antrim; at Maheralin, Warrenpoint, and Mourne, in the county Down, remarkable awakenings have taken place, and in each of these places a very considerable number have found Christ, and, as a result, in many of them Christian Unions, Young Men's and Young Women's Associations, Union Prayer-meetings, and Bible-classes amongst the converts have been formed, and attest a great and real change.

A few of those who have received the Truth were Roman Catholics who were known to us; many other Roman Catholics attended the meetings.

Besides these, Missions have been held in more than one hundred other places with more or less result of conversions in each, but in these places meetings have continued from six weeks to two months in each, and with crowded attendances to the close, varying up to 1200 people, and the whole locality has seemed to be moved.

We have been induced by the number of open doors to increase our work this year and the number of our evangelists, and we have had five tents busy all the summer; the result is, as we reach the end of the year, that we find our means very far short. We were enabled to begin our work in 1884 with a small balance. We need nearly £500 to balance our accounts for last year, and think it right to tell your Christian readers of the fact. Those who have looked into our accounts will see that the money goes entirely to the work with a minimum amount of establishment charges. As long as it pleases the Lord to use our agency as He has done, and is doing at present, we can confidently say that this work is a good investment of money in the Lord's cause. We need, besides the above, about £200 for tents for this year's work.

Yours faithfully,
Dundalk. JAMES BARTON, Hon. Sec.

MORAVIAN MISSIONS.—The London Association in aid of Moravian Missions (29, Ely-place, Holborn, E.C.), are circulating an earnest plea for help in the varied branches of their excellent work. We hope many of our readers will send to the Secretary, Rev. J. Henry, for a copy of the appeal, and give it their prayerful consideration.

ARABS AND KROUMIRS.

ON leaving Batna some startling reflections were forced upon us, for we were rapidly proceeding by the force of steam on iron rails, whilst coming from an opposite direction were caravans, passing in succession, and at intervals camels, horses, asses, goats, identical with scenes in the Book of Genesis: the unchanging customs of nearly 4000 years, side by side with our modern civilisation. At a short distance from the snorting engines, those patient camels wended their way, plodding slowly, a principal feature in the forty caravans we passed.

The old folks and delicate women rode the camels, seated on abundant furniture; some ladies, more distinguished, in scarlet, or other coloured palanquins, with young children and household stores. Children, lambs, and young goats packed together promiscuously, with their various heads peering over the paniers slung on camels' backs. Fine, swarthy men, and frisking boys marched by their side, as well as some of the women unveiled, their hair in enormous black plaits at the side of the face, earrings as large as saucers, dressed in thick, coloured muslin. Quick-witted women! they perfectly understood my wife's sisterly salute, in waving her handkerchief from the carriage window. They smiled, showing their ivory teeth, and waved their hands in return.

How all the minute details of nomad life in the Bible are reproduced here, for the flocks went at a slow pace for the reason given by Jacob to his brother Esau, "My lord knoweth that the children are tender, and the flocks and herds with young are with me: and if men should over-drive them one day, all the flock will die. Let my lord, I pray thee, pass over before his servant: and I will lead on softly, according as the cattle that goeth before me and the children be able to endure, until I come unto my lord unto Seir."—Gen. xxxiii. 13, 14. They were on their way to the Sahara to gather in their harvest of dates, whilst some of their number were left behind in their black tents, and their camels at pasture, in order to sow seed corn on their lands in the Province of Constantine: thus sowing and reaping go on at the same time.

How to bring these multitudes of nomads het light of salvation has occupied our thoughts, and we resolve it in this way. It is possible to visit them in their gourbis and tents when sedentary, spending the summer on Algerian plains, and for a young man, with the enterprise of Borrow in Spain, it would be possible to mix with them there, and then with his camel and tent to accompany the caravan in its migrations, and set up his tent when it rests, adopt the bournous, learn their Arabic, and in fact identify himself entirely with them. His medicine chest and an accordion would work wonders. Mr. Ogle has set the example, and had pleasant intercourse in this way, camping with tribes on the Satavouri mountains of the Atlas in the Province of Oran.

He says, "It is sunrise, and the orb of day here looks upon a scene such as the world scarcely furnishes in more striking characters. In the evening I had pitched my tent at a distance from an encampment which I descried in the valley, when the Arab sheik, dressed as for a visit of State, accompanied by the elders of his tribe, visited my little camp. He begged me to come to his tent and to put myself under his protection, assuring me it was dangerous to remain solitary and unguarded; or offered me, if I refused this, to send two of his tribe as guards during the night. I assured them I had no fear to remain alone, and preferred my solitary bivouac. Were they not, in fact, the very persons against whom all had so emphatically warned me? At last, however, I yielded to their pressing and truly courteous entreaties, suffered them to carry my goods into their douair, and pitched my little tent with my own hand in the place indicated—the centre of their circle. It was a beautiful sight that douair among the mountains of Algeria. The circle of large black tents around the numerous herds of many-coloured cattle with sheep and goats; the tall Arabs walking about like sheeted ghosts folded in their bournous—some black, some white. My little tent in the midst of their encampment with a bright light shining through its white canvas. I often wished a Landseer pencil could picture in panorama the scenes I for the first time now witnessed. It is still the mode of life adopted by a large portion of the family of man."*

Proceeding on our journey eastward, we rested at Souk Ahras, or Jebeste, the birthplace of St. Augustin, and the Railway being now finished to Tunis, we passed through a lovely country with a succession of abrupt, well-wooded hills, till we came to Sidi-el-Hemessi, in Kroumerie. The Kroumers occupy the N.W. angle of Tunisie, from La Calle and the Island of Tabarca, in the Mediterranean, to near Roumel-Souk, a French fort on the west border, Fernana on the south; on the east, extending to the Tunis tribes of Makna, Amdoune, and Chekia. They are of Arab and Berber origin, for the Berber tribes, Masmouda and Auriba, became mingled with their Arab conquerors, who compelled them to admit them into their midst. The Arabs imposed on the conquered race their customs, language, and laws, whilst on the other hand they adopted the Berbers' sedentary mode of life, but their language has now become a rude patois, a mixture of Arabic and Berber. Few know how to read and write, most live in tents and gourbes, in the immense cork and oak forests of their mountains. They have some magnificent rivers, with water in nearly every season. There is a very famous market at Fernana, on their southern side, another at Tabarca, and two on Algerian soil, at the mine of Oum Teboul and at Roumel-Souk.

The Europeans who penetrated Kroumerie before the war, in order to traffic in cork, preserved a favourable souvenir of their intercourse with the people; their savagery has been greatly overrated; they can turn their hands to almost any kind of employment—some are engaged on the railway, keeping it in order, holding a flag, and even taking charge of a small station, and an employé told us of abounding hospitality he had received from them since the war, and he is much attached to them. Before 1830 both the Turks and the Bey of Tunis had successively endeavoured to make the Kroumers submit to their authority, but their troops were completely defeated, and they never attempted another encounter. If they dared pass Fernana they paid the taxes with powder and lead, whilst the French lately have only succeeded in doing so with great difficulty. Their country extends 35 kilos by 20.

It is earnestly to be wished that something could be done for these nineteen fractions of the Kroumirs, to evangelise them, approaching them from La Calle and Tabarca on the north, by Oum Teboul and El Aioun on the West, and by the important market of Fernana on the east.

I have before me the notes of a distinguished English traveller who this year passed from La Calle and Tabarca through the Kroumir country to the Marble Quarry of Oued Melez on the railway. He says: "For picturesque beauty the country to Ain Draham can hardly be surpassed. All the Kromairs seemed to have a kindly word or a salutation for us as we passed. It is impossible not to be struck by the extraordinary results which have followed the French Protectorate in this once inaccesible region; admirable roads have been made, or are in course of construction, in all directions." There is an hotel at Tabarca, and an old Castle of Charles V. very picturesque, resembling one of the finest castles on the Rhine; and Roman ruins abound on every side.

After leaving the Kroumir country the vicinity of the railway becomes flat, with hills at some distance on each side, till we arrive at Tunis.

Yours in Christ,
Tunis. GEO. PEARSE.

CIVIL SERVICE PRAYER UNION.—The annual Report of this Mission shows that the number of members is now upwards of 600. Meetings are held at regular intervals in London and in several other towns. Weekly union in private prayer is the backbone of the Society. It is open to all ranks of the service, and both sexes.

---

* "LIFE OF REV. J. F. OGLE," by DR. J. A. WYLIE. Longmans, 1873 p. 47.

THE FALSE AND THE TRUE IN ITALY.

THE FALSE.

TO-DAY is the Festa of the Immaculate Conception, and the great cathedral of St. Petronio, Belogna, is crowded. The altar is ablaze with candles, the apse is filled with orchestra and chorus. Multitudes of priests flit here and there, while the Archbishop sits solemnly on his throne. The image of the Virgin Mary (life size) has been removed from its place at the side chapel, and now stands high above the high altar. But after about an hour of orchestra, and chanting, and bowing, a movement is apparent among the priests. At last the image is seen to shake, and then to move, slowly at first, down, down, till it is on the shoulders of four stalwart bearers.

The procession is formed, every one with great lighted candle; hundreds of priests first, then the image, carried shoulder-high, slowly, and the Archbishop following, and distributing benediction to the kneeling people. The procession moves down one side of the dark cathedral, the tapers now casting a glare of light all round, for an almost endless troop of laymen join, each with a candle six feet long in hand. After making the passage down the church, the image returns up the centre, to its place on the high altar. After a little more orchestration and bowing, it is again carried through the kneeling thousands to its own side shrine, where it is raised to its pedestal by a theatrical arrangement of moveable platforms. And so amidst these deluded thousands, this great idolatry was unblushingly promoted by the Church of Rome in this year of our Lord, 1884.

THE TRUE.

What a contrast, to find myself in the Evangelical Church in the evening. Signor Girola, the evangelist of the Free Italian Church, preached a most earnest sermon to a very attentive audience, alluding to the festa of the day, and proclaiming Jesus as the sole name whereby we must be saved. The cause of Gospel light has met with strenuous opposition from the priests; the Bible introduced into families is denounced, and frequently burned. But a strong and united Church has been formed, every stone dug out of the rubbish of Popery. There is also a good Sabbath-school. It is a sample of many similar "lighthouses" which the Free Italian Church has established in Italy, where the light of the true Gospel is held aloft, and where its gracious invitations are proclaimed and lovingly pressed by converted Italians on their own fellow-countrymen.

This good work is probably soon to be further strengthened by a cordial union between the Free Italian Church and the ancient Waldensian Church; a union which will probably absorb all that is good in the numerous English and American missions, and thus present to Italians one Church to which they can point when confronted by their opponents' assertion of the unity of Popery. Under the earnest and judicious councils of such tried friends of Italy as Rev. John R. McDougall, of Florence, and Rev. Signor Gavazzi, along with other sincere and able Italian ministers (not so well known in Britain as their merits deserve), there is much cause for hope in the future of evangelical work in Italy. WM. MARTIN (of Glasgow).

Bologna.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM IN THE RURAL DISTRICTS.—The Echo recently describes the following, as having happened in a village in the Midlands close to one of the great lines of railway:—On a certain Sunday in the late autumn two young men went over from a neighbouring village to hold an open-air service, and at its conclusion a man who happened to belong to the Labourers' Union opened his cottage for a prayer-meeting. The village publicans set on their customers to interrupt the meeting, and the man who offered hospitality to the preachers received notice to quit. Twice subsequently meetings were held and were put down. The man who opened his cottage informs us that the rector of the parish himself went to his landlord and asked him to evict the tenant, and promised to pay the rent if no other tenant was forthcoming. Even eviction is not sufficient punishment. The daring criminal in question gets his living as a coal agent. Accordingly his enemies have taken to sending for coal, and selling it retail at cost price.

THE WOMEN OF INDIA.

IN a recent address in St. Andrews, N.B., Rev. Dr. C. VALENTINE, of the Agra Medical Training College, spoke of the difficulties of the mission work among women in India. It is the fashion now-a-days, he said, in some quarters, for would-be wise men to exalt the religious systems of the East, and hold them up to us for our imitation. Wading through cesspools of nonsense and impurity, a few bright gems may be found in the teaching of these systems, but they are all the more apparently bright by reason of their dark surroundings.

Hindu and Mahommedan ideas concerning women are very low and degrading, while their treatment of the weaker sex is most insulting and barbarous. Amongst the Hindus the birth of a female child is looked upon as a misfortune and disgrace. One of the most common forms of abuse among the natives of India is, "You father of a daughter!"

Among some of the difficulties arising from custom, that obstruct the path of the philanthropist and the Christian, Dr. Valentine first referred to early marriages. The terrible Zenana system is another of the obstacles that stand in the way. It is calculated that out of the 130 millions of women in India, fully one-third of them are shut up in Zenanas. The late Maharajah of Jeypore was one of the most intelligent of men and enlightened of rulers amongst the princes of Rajpatanee. Yet it was a boast at his Court that no European had ever looked upon the face of a Queen of the house of Jeypore. I was at one time very hopeful that the custom would be broken through, but that hope passed away; and in point of fact, no Eastern lady, up to the time I remained in that State, ever looked upon the face of a Queen of Jeypore. The custom of the Court ruled the Zenanas of the noblemen of the State. On more than one occasion ladies have been taken into what was said to be the Zenanas of some of the noblemen, and interesting accounts of such visits have reached this country, to tickle the ears of the inexperienced; but, to my certain knowledge, these ladies were actually never admitted into the Zenana proper, nor did they see the wives of the chiefs, but a very different class of women indeed.

Very many of the Zenanas of the high caste Hindus, and aristocratic Mahommedan families in the North-west Provinces of India and the Punjab, are as closely shut against the ordinary Zenana visitor as ever they were. While we are profoundly thankful for the openings vouchsafed in so many instances, we must remember that there are still many shut against us. I should look upon this state of matters as particularly distressing, but for one circumstance, that medicine, through Medical Missionary Women, has been the means of opening the very closest and most exclusive Zenanas in India.

Another obstacle to mission work is caste. When a lady does get entrance into a Zenana of a high caste family she is very forcibly reminded that she is looked upon as an unclean one. Another obstacle is that the people do not wish to have their females educated. Even the intelligent portion of the native community in Northern India look upon the education of girls with indifference and distrust. Some of them object to it because there are no suitable books for them to read. The indigenous literature of Hindustan is full of the most objectionable matter, both in poetry and in prose. This is an objection which the Christian Vernacular Education Society will soon make impossible, as it is preparing most suitable books for Zenana reading. Deprived of all intellectual pursuits, the times of the Zenana women are painfully monotonous. In the higher classes they spend their time in the veriest trifles, or worse. They are perfectly ignorant of the commonest objects with which our children are familiar.

All of these poor creatures are intensely ignorant of everything that is necessary to their own comfort and that of their families, in health; they are totally ignorant of everything relating to sanitary matters. To these Zenanas can oftentimes be traced the origin of epidemics that annually set whole cities and tracts of country in a blaze, and result in the death of thousands upon thousands of individuals.

Dr. Valentine related some cases that had come under his own cognizance, as showing the fearful suffering and neglect that arise from the absence of any proper medical skill and treatment in the Zenana arrangements. He then described the work of the Agra Medical Missionary Training Institution, for the training of native Christian women in medicine.

The condition of our suffering sisters in India, as described by Dr. Valentine and other earnest workers, is more than sufficient to call out the sympathy, prayers, and assistance of Christians in this highly-favoured land. We most heartily recommend the Institution, of which Dr. Valentine is the founder and head, to our readers. Mr. White-Millar, 16, Regent-terrace, Edinburgh, is the hon. secretary and treasurer in this country.

◆

MISSION WORK IN WEST AFRICA.

SIR,—You will be glad to know that THE CHRISTIAN has been read with much profit in Lagos, one of the Church Missionary Society's stations on the West Coast of Africa. I have, during the pass twelve months, been sending it to my long-known friend, the Rev. James Johnson, who is a native educated in Sierra Leone in connection with the Church Missionary Society, the pastor of the Breadfruit Church, Lagos. In acknowledgement he writes to me, and says:—

"You will, I am persuaded, be pleased to know that the paper, THE CHRISTIAN, which you have sent to me, has been very helpful. Besides the good I get from it for myself, it was very serviceable during the revival meetings I had in connection with the Breadfruit Church, between January and June 5, when we had our thanksgiving meeting. Several copies supplied me with ideas as to the way such meetings might be conducted. The people were addressed in numbers large or small according to their sexes and ages; sometimes we had combined meetings.

"The result of all our efforts was that about 270 men, women, and children came up at our thanksgiving meeting to return thanks to God for the blessing vouchsafed to them during the meetings held for conversion and revival. Several confessed they had been, although communicants, entire strangers to forgiveness (or a conscious sense of it), conversion, and regeneration. Their testimonies, and those from many of our school children, were satisfactory. We, however, look more to the testimony of a walk with God in our daily life amidst the temptations and difficulties to which our spiritual life is subjected. God be praised for what he has done! Our meetings were limited to the Breadfruit Church, though members of other Churches, uninvited by us, sometimes attended."

There is a letter in the Church Missionary Intelligencer for December (page 762) from Rev. C. H. V. Gollmer, an English missionary, who gives particulars of the work of grace at Lagos. I quote one remark from it: "You have no doubt heard of the blessings resting upon the Rev. J. Johnson's work, and I feel it is like a wave of blessing passing over from Breadfruit.

Yours sincerely, H. TOWNSEND.

5, Friars'-walk, Exeter.

THE BRISTOL NURSERY for HOMELESS INFANTS is in urgent need of help to enable the Committee to pay for altering and furnishing the large and suitable house to which it was removed in January of this year. The work has grown so rapidly that it has been impossible to secure regular public support. The present household numbers fifty-one, and includes thirty-two children and thirteen mothers; thirty of the latter, who have been befriended, are known to be doing really well in service, or employed in the Nursery of the Home, where a real spiritual work is going on. The blessing which God has given to the work in little more than two years has been marvellous, and the Committee look to Him now for help, that they may enter on the work of the year owing no man anything; £150 is needed.

MISS MARRIOTT, Secretary and Treasurer.
Oldbury House, St. Michael's-hill, Bristol.

Messrs. FULLERTON & SMITH in IRELAND.

(From our Correspondents.)

BALLYMENA.

SMALL towns in the North of Ireland are hard to move at any time, and yet of late the almost impossible has been accomplished by Messrs. Fullerton and Smith. Two Sundays ago I saw people tramping their way at eight in the morning through several inches of snow to hear them sing and speak in an old deserted Unitarian Church. I was glad to find these two devoted men inside such a place, for we know quite enough of them to assure us that Jesus would be lifted up as the Saviour of sinners.

We feel sorry, when such a foothold as this has been obtained in a country where the priests have such influence over the people, that these dear brethren could only stay in our midst two weeks. The Protestant Hall was used for the evening meetings, being much larger than the Unitarian Church, which is now being used by the Y.M.C.A. of Ballymena. The power of God was very manifest in the hall, and many among these large audiences were led to trust Christ.

One influential lady opened her drawing-room for the upper classes, and in response to her invitation the room was quite filled. Mr. Fullerton spoke with great power, while Mr. Smith's solos, accompanied by Mrs. Fullerton on the piano, were much enjoyed and appreciated, especially that sweet Gospel song by Miss Havergal, "Nothing to pay."

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Fullerton held a special meeting for mill girls, and it is most cheering to record that several of them found the Saviour at that meeting.

LONDONDERRY.

Though business is dull, Derry has been quite a scene of activity of late, for this has been the week for celebrating the siege of the city. Lundy, the traitor, has been suspended by a chain from Walker's Monument, and the effigy publicly burnt on the city wall. But though Derry resisted the siege 200 years ago, it is a hopeful sign to find the hearts of the inhabitants all not closed against the Gospel when preached in the language of the people, for I can speak as a spectator at the meetings being conducted in the largest hall in Londonderry by Messrs. Smith and Fullerton, that what was true of the Master Himself is also true of the evangelists, viz., the common people hear them gladly. The hall has been crowded to hear them, and that on a Saturday night.

Of the good accomplished by these men I cannot do better than give the experience of a traveller as related by himself. He said:- "I was doing business a few weeks ago in Belfast, and spent an evening in St. George's Hall, hearing Messrs. Fullerton and Smith. I received such a blessing to my soul that it was like a new conversion. Two weeks ago I was in Ireland again. I heard the evangelists had gone to Ballymena. Determined on a second blessing, I posted off to spend a Sunday with them. My disappointment was great to find they had gone to Derry. During the week I worked up that way, and arranged to spend the following Sunday in Londonderry. With a heart full of joy I entered the city, for during the week I had a narrow escape from death. Standing on the platform at a railway-station, just as a goods train was passing through, my foot slipped and I fell across the line. Two powerful workmen who saw my danger made a rush at me, and both grabbed me by the neck just as the wheels were about to sever my head from my body. I cannot tell how thankful I felt to God for the sake of wife and family in England for the miraculous escape.

"In Derry I commenced to work amongst the travellers. I found one man who had during the week proved the drink to be to him a temptation and snare. I spoke of the Mission going on then in Derby, and he with two others gave me their promise to attend the meetings. My friend renounced the drink, and put on the Blue Ribbon, and, best of all, while he and his companion listened to Messrs. Fullerton and Smith, their hearts were opened to receive God's truth, and I have every reason to believe they left Londonderry having fully decided for Christ."

JAFFA MEDICAL MISSION.

MOST of our readers have probably heard of the very blessed work begun and carried on at Jaffa by Miss Mangan and other Mildmay Deaconesses. It comprises a Medical Mission, attended weekly by an average of nearly 300 patients, and a hospital where eighteen sick and dying ones are constantly under Christian care. To all these —in-patients and out-patients, Jews, Turks, and Christians alike—the truth of God is plainly and lovingly spoken in the Arabic, which is the common tongue of most of them

Much blessing, both to bodies and souls, has been vouchsafed; but the hospital, mission-room, and dwelling, all comprised in one crazy native building, are far too small for the work, besides entailing endless expense for repairs. Miss Mangan has therefore decided to build, and has purchased an adjacent plot of ground for the purpose. Her recent visit to England was partly on account of ill-health, partly with the hope of collecting funds for the building. Since her return, she writes, overwhelmed with thankfulness and joy, that contrary to all expectations and predictions, full permission has been granted by the Turkish authorities to build. To any one who knows anything of the ordinary course of business among Turkish officials, the whole matter is indeed an astonishing instance of God's overruling power, and an earnest of his future blessing. We trust that many of our readers will contribute towards the building and maintenance of the new hospital, which, instead of the present eighteen, is designed for fifty beds.

Help towards the building fund or general Mission expenses will be thankfully received by Mr. J. E. Mathieson, Conference Hall, Mildmay-park.

ENGLISH GOVERNESSES IN PARIS.

A MEETING of those interested in Miss Pryde's Institute and Home for Governesses in Paris was held recently in the hall of St. George's Church, Edinburgh. Lord M'Laren presided. In opening the proceedings, he made special reference to the good such a Home was likely to serve in a city like Paris. Fluency in French—and in French acquired in France—was increasingly demanded as a qualification in governesses. To the ladies who went to Paris to acquire such knowledge, and who had not too much money to spare, Miss Pryde's institution was a valued home.

Miss Pryde next spoke, and gave an interesting account of her work. She had gone, she said, to the French capital after the war, and had seen the difficulties which governesses and girls had to encounter, and the struggle they often had to educate themselves. She opened the Home about four years ago with only one Scotch girl; there were now forty girls in it. There were two branches of the work—the Institute, at which was kept a free registry for governesses seeking situations, and through which pecuniary aid was afforded in special cases; while at the Home was provided, at a cheap rate, board and lodging, combined with family life and home care, with French lessons gratis.

The high rents and price of food in Paris, and the moderate charge made at the Home, with the varying number of inmates, as yet rendered it impossible for the Home to be self-supporting, though it was to be hoped it would soon be so. Governesses who had studied for some time in the home were now obtaining much larger remuneration in England, and from the girls scattered over every part of the world they had many grateful tokens of remembrance. She regretted that among the classes in this country who employed governesses such work as they were doing in Paris was so little understood.

By the extension of their work the Home and Institute had got into debt, and it was that fact which had brought her to Scotland at this time. She was anxious to clear off a debt of £500, and she trusted that her efforts to do so would not be disappointed. Rev. Dr. Gray spoke from his own personal knowledge of the Institution, and moved a resolution expressing approval of the objects of the Home, and of the way in which these had been carried out, and hoped that it might receive the support of the ladies of Scotland, and especially of this city. Professor Blaikie seconded the motion, which was cordially adopted.—Daily Review.

In a paper on "The Effects of Inebriety on the Local and Respiratory Organs," in the rooms of the Medical Society of London, Chandos-street, Cavendish-square, on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 6, at four o'clock, Mr. Lennox Browne will relate the experience as to alcohol of over three hundred professional vocalists.

FORGETTING—REACHING FORTH.

"Forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."—Phil. iii. 13, 14.

SLOWLY, silently, one by one
The stately years pass ever on;
Sweeping along in their solemn train
Hours that can ne'er be mine again.

See how their spectral forms are clad
In robes of memories sweet and sad;
Shining gems and glittering gold,
Sparkling amidst each sable fold.

Have ye no story, O solemn years?
Tell ye no tale of repentant tears,
Shed o'er shortcomings that God knows best?
Ceaseless heart-longings for sinless rest?

Have ye dark records of work begun,
At the world's bidding left all undone?
The sacred banner of God laid low
At the scornful feet of his bitter foe?

Years!—sad years! your averted eyes
Half veil the story that in them lies;
For this dark mystery read aright
Would startle my soul into wild affright.

. . . . . .

Sweeping down, like a sun-lit flood,
Streams the glory of Jesus' blood;
And scattered before its resistless roll
Are the dim, dark spectres that haunt my soul.

Never again shall those misspent years
Darken my life with their shadowing fears;
For, blotted out by the precious blood,
My soul is at peace with the past and God.

Henceforth the years are God-lent wings,
To lift my soul to the King of kings;
Folded for ever in timeless rest,
When I nestle for aye on his Father-breast.

Eva Travers Evered Poole.

OBITUARY.

MRS. DR. MACLAREN.

THE death is recorded of Mrs. Marion Maclaren, wife of Rev. Dr. Maclaren, of Union Chapel, Manchester. Having caught cold, feverish symptoms were manifested; her condition became rapidly worse, pleurisy in a dangerous form having set in, which terminated fatally on Sunday week. Her loss will be greatly felt by the members of Union Chapel, as she was an active and hearty worker in nearly all of its departments. She was especially interested in the ladies' missionary societies, and in the different branches of Temperance work, notably the Band of Kindness.

REV. W. LINDSAY ALEXANDER, D.D.

On Saturday week Rev. William Lindsay Alexander, D.D., died at his residence at Pinkieburn, near Edinburgh, at the age of seventy-six. He had held pastorates in Liverpool, in North College-street, Edinburgh, and afterwards of Augustine Church, of the same city. He was principal of the Theological Hall of the Scottish Congregational Churches, an examiner in philosophy at St. Andrew's University, and a member of the Old Testament Revision Company. He was author of a large number of theological works.

REV. W. COOKE, D.D.

On Christmas Day, at his residence, Burslem House, Forest-hill, London, this celebrated minister of the Methodist New Connexion passed peacefully away, in his seventy-ninth year. Up to the middle of the present year he continued in labours more abundant, both literary and ministerial. While from home on a preaching tour in August he was seized with illness which completely prostrated him. He so far rallied, that after six weeks he was able to return home, only, however, to seclusion, feebleness, and gradual decay, ending in death. With intellectual powers of uncommon force and breadth, holding firmly all the great principles of evangelical truth, with a fine presence and commanding oratorical abilities, he gave himself with enthusiastic fervour to the defence and proclamation of the Gospel, and has exerted an ever-growing influence upon Methodism in all lands, and upon the Church at large.

WEST-END MISERY.

MANY persons suppose that almost all the poverty and misery of London life are to be found in the East-end. Such ideas would quickly be dispelled were these persons to wend their way on some leisure Sunday to the Gray's-yard Ragged Church and Schools situated in James'-street, Oxford-street. There every Lord's-day afternoon from 300 to 500 tramps and casuals, both men and women, are gathered together to a Gospel service. Visitors on such occasions would witness a scene that could not fail to evoke in their hearts feelings of mingled surprise and compassion; may be they would return to their homes with a rekindled zeal, and a holier determination than ever to "work while it is called to-day."

On a recent Sunday a larger number than usual were assembled for the appointed service. One could not but be struck with the perfect order and quiet in a meeting composed of such rough characters. They sang the hymns from Sacred Songs and Solos with manifest pleasure. Painful indeed was it to learn that among those assembled were to be found, in no way distinguishable from the rest, a former physician, an army officer, an undergraduate, and even a preacher. Whether the truth or the tea attracted them, all listened with hushed attention to the Gospel message.

Much interest is imported into the service by getting the men themselves to read verse by verse the selected chapters. Well-worn Bibles are distributed among them, and thus they both see and hear the wonderful works of God. Mr. Gough, who chiefly conducts the service, has the right knack of dealing with his audience, and evidently believes that there is a latent power in God's Word which will do its own work. While tea was preparing a Gospel solo was effectively sung by Miss Habershon, and a brief address given by a friend present.

Cups of tea and hunches of bread were then handed round to the poor creatures. It did not seem a luxurious meal for such hungry people, and we heartily wished they could have had twice as much. So they might if the good friends who provide the refreshments were more liberally supported in their beneficent work. But the treasurer is already £200 out of pocket, and the half-starved casuals must be content with a limited supply even of tea and bread, because of the lack of funds.

But see these ladies and gentlemen who come "from the squares," as one of the men told us: what are they doing? They are going among the throng, and speaking to them one by one about the Saviour. In this way the tea-meeting becomes a kind of after-meeting, where cases are tenderly dealt with by personal converse; in these quiet seasons many a hard heart is broken, and many a broken heart is healed. Mr. Gough and his helpers rejoice in knowing that many real conversions to God have resulted.

A service is likewise held each Sabbath morning at 11.30, attended by "a hundred of the most destitute poor to be found in London;" at the close, a pound of bread and some coffee are given them. This, we are told, is the only meal that many of them get during the whole day. A meeting for parents is held in the evening, conducted by Dr. Habershon. On the occasion of our visit we had the pleasure of looking in at the several classes, infant school, men's overflow meeting, &c., and found the teachers all hard at work, and evidently delighting in it.

Many cases of blessing are told by Mr. Gough, some of them being of an extraordinary character. A man sitting close by us, looking calm and peaceful, was a little time ago all in rags and misery. Another, on coming out of prison, found himself so utterly ruined and hopeless that he resolved on self-destruction. He found his way, however, to one of the meetings at Gray's-yard; the Word went home to his heart, he was completely broken down, and at length found the Saviour, in whom both himself and wife have ever since rejoiced.

Such is the nature of the work carried on at Gray's-yard Ragged Church and Schools. The great majority of those who attend the former have no homes. Some of them seek shelter for the night in carts or sheds; others wander about the streets from place to place all night long, as the sound of the policeman's tramp warns them to "move on." For such the Sunday afternoon meeting, to which we have mainly alluded, is specially provided, and rich indeed is the blessing that has attended it. Strong drink, says Mr. Gough, is the chief cause of the abject misery into which many of the regular comers have sunk, while dishonesty and indolence have been the procuring cause in others. For the maintenance and further developement of the work, not only more funds, but a better meeting-place is needed. The present low-ceiled and badly-shaped building is overcrowded and unhealthy, and is never able to accommodate all who seek admission to the service.

The annual breakfast to about 800 destitute persons will take place next Sunday morning, January 4, the chair to be taken at a quarter past ten, by Mr. F. A. Bevan. These who are so disposed can obtain visitors' tickets, and will thus be able to see for themselves.

THE BIBLE ON THE RAILWAY.

SOME months since it was suggested by two or three Christian men who travel by the 5.57 early morning train from Enfield that they should read and study the Bible while riding to town. The result is that from fifteen to twenty (all working men) may be seen every morning reading and conversing on God's Word, and much good has already resulted therefrom. Other Christian men up the line at Edmonton and Tottenham, who were hitherto strangers, have been glad to join themselves to this movement, and have acknowledged blessings received.

On Saturday evening, Dec. 20, ten or twelve of the members of what is now called the "Enfield and Tottenham Travelling Bible Class" met at the house of one of the friends at Bush Hill Park (near Enfield), for tea, and to acknowledge to God blessings received. Several suggestions were made for the further development of the class. Any reader who may be desirous of establishing a similar class on the railway they use, may obtain information by sending a stamped directed envelope to Mr. H. Cook, 23, Fourth-avenue, Bush Hill Park, N.

SCHOOLS IN UPPER EGYPT.

SIR,—The following passage in a recent letter from my friend Dr. Hogg, of Assiout, needs no introduction :—

"All the schools south of Sohag have been closed for nearly two years, owing to the hard times. We hope to get them all re-opened gradually, as the prospects brighten for the poor Fellaheen. We have already made arrangements to assist the people at Sutor to have theirs re-opened at once. Unhappily, our Mission Board in America are finding it above their power to meet the increasing liabilities caused by the yearly growth of this and their other Missions, and we have been ordered to reduce our expenditure ten per cent. below our estimates for the current year. We have told them that the thing is impossible, but the reply is, 'It must be done.'

"I find it very hard to see doors unentered, and specially hard to see doors now closed after an effectual entrance had been made. I may be excused the liberty of adding that I can hardly conceive of a better way of investing a few pounds of the Lord's money in Egypt at the present time than in helping the poor Fellaheen of Upper Egypt to resuscitate their schools. A subsidy of £1 per month until the crisis is past, when they will be able to support them without extraneous aid, will be quite enough to put many of these schools on their feet.

"I have seen these schools, and can testify to their value as already a power for great good in Egypt. Help may be sent, on behalf of American Mission Schools in Upper Egypt, to Rev. Dr. Hogg, Assiout, Upper Egypt, or to Mrs. Hogg, 39, Leamington-terrace, Edinburgh.

"I am, Sir, yours faithfully,
"W. BURTON ALEXANDER.
"36, Bloomsbury-square, W.C."

Requests for Praise and Prayer.

PRAISE.—For many who have received distinct blessing at the Emigrants' Home, Blackwall, and are now on their way to Queensland.

PRAYER.—The news has been received of Lord Radstock's arrival in India; he desires that much prayer may be made for him during his stay in that country.——For the conversion of a husband who is being ruined by drink.——For the conversion of a brother who is living at enmity with his parents.——For much blessing on meetings at Forest-Gate and at Stratford, Jan. 4 to 25, by F. E. Marsh.——For much blessing on New Year's letters to be given to nurses and patients at several hospitals.——For a father, whose mental affliction is causing he greatest anxiety to his family.

MR. MURPHY AND THE PRISONERS.

IN a recent issue the Pittsburg Dispatch describes a very interesting Gospel Temperance meeting held for convicts in that city. The account says :—

"When Mr. Francis Murphy spoke to those men and women of their fathers and mothers and families, and reminded them of the good they yet might do, their eyes moistened and sadness and deep concern were written on every upturned countenance. In a touching manner Mr. Murphy dissected that chapter about the prodigal son, and explained it in a way that went straight to the hearts of his hearers. He spoke as a man who had experienced all the bitterness of shame and regret, and his audience understood him, their understandings being keen and made plain by their own experiences.

"At the conclusion of the reading Rev. A. H. Miller offered up an eloquent petition to God for the help of the Spirit that the prodigals gathered together in that room might be saved. The faces of the prisoners became flushed and a new light seemed to shine from their eyes, which in many cases were fixed on the floor or on the ceiling. Hands became clenched and fingers tightly entwined. There were battles in their breasts. The tears in their eyes indicated that.

"In his subsequent address Mr. Murphy told, in his peculiarly pathetic and graphic way, the downward courses of a young man away from home who has fallen among evil companions. He related the touching story of his own conversion. Strong men, with the hard lines softened and disappearing from their faces, leaned eagerly forward from their seats, anxious to catch every word, while their lips trembled and the tears flowed from their eyes in streams. His own sad home life, the death of his wife from a broken heart, and the taking away from him of his own children, were told in words that sank deep into the hearts of all who heard him. He coaxed them to be men and women, and after inviting all to sign the pledge, he sat down amid a wild storm of applause from the convicts.

"He then read the pledge, and asked all who would sign the pledge to hold up their hands. Promptly about one hundred hands shot into the air. After that the signers moved forward and crowded about the tables, and while this offertory of resolutions was being made by men, tired of the drunkard's life of misery and anxiety, their steps forward were accompanied with singing by the choir. Mr. Murphy circulated amongst the prisoners. His powers to move them had a test out of which he came with a wonderful victory. There were not 100 out of the 600 men and women there assembled but were crying, and before the meeting adjourned 270 of them, including seventy women, had signed the pledge.

"Superintendent Warner stood in the back part of the chapel, and during this work leaned against the wall rubbing his hands, while the tears trembled under his eyelids. It was a glorious triumph. The 275 pledges were not the only ones signed, for Mr. Murphy and party had to leave to catch a train. A great many more of the prisoners were eager to sign, and 700 pledges were left there. It is supposed that about five hundred were signed."

THE CHILDREN'S CRY.

AN illustrated article, under this heading, appeared in The Pall Mall Gazette of Dec. 23. Says the writer:—

"In company with Rev. Andrew Mearns, we have visited some of the Board Schools of the metropolis, not with the object of inquiring into the question of over-pressure, but with the view of ascertaining how much of under-nourishment existed, producing a state of sheer inability to meet the ordinary requirements of school life. We enter a school in—well, it doesn't matter where. By the courtesy of the head master and mistress we are able to gain some insight into the surroundings of the little people. Here, in the First Standard, there are sixty-two children. 'How many of you came to school this morning without breakfast?' Twenty-three little hands are held up in answer to the question. 'How many had a piece of bread?' Twenty-eight responses. No butter or other pleasant addition to the bread, yet many of the little ones consider this 'a nice breakfast.' In the next Standard we find a slightly improved condition of things, but still painfully sad. There are sixty-six children present. The same questions are asked. 'How many are there here who have had no breakfast this morning?' Fifteen hands are held up. Ten have had dry bread. Twenty-seven have enjoyed the luxury of coffee or tea. We go through as many classes as time will permit, noting as we go the large number of children who are actually or practically bootless, and also the numerous signs of poverty in their other garments.

"We leave the school, but while we are talking over the scenes we have witnessed, a probable field for our inquiries seems to open up in another direction. A number of children are moving about the neighbourhood, and among them we recognise some of those with whom we have become acquainted in the school. We have spent more time than we intended, but we are curious to follow that little mite who is scudding along unburdened with a weight of flesh, although not a stranger to the burden of care and want. We follow the child up a road. Amidst malodorous smells and accumulations of rubbish we make our way, and lose sight of our little guide as she turns into a doorway. The door is open, and by its appearance it is not often shut. One hinge attaches it to the side post. Panels are conspicuous by their absence. The broken windows have a weird look about them. Two panes of glass for twelve spaces are certainly not too much for comfort. It is a windy day, and the apology for a blind cannot hold its own much longer. As we approach we catch sight of a lonesome-looking wee thing sitting on the stairs at the back of the room, but she quickly passes to the region above, and we are left free to make our quiet observations. Opposite the front door is a still more feeble semblance of a door. The lower part has long since taken its departure, and a few rough boards do duty instead. We open this door, but the sight is not an inviting one, and we quietly close it again.

"Shall we ascend the stairs? They are narrow and rickety, but probably we may find our little guide again. We venture up, and—can we picture the scene? There sits the mother, looking weary, and worn, and sad. An infant at the breast is trying to get some little nourishment. There on the floor are five other children having their first meal between one and two o'clock. Surely it is a substantial meal now. Substantial! The half of a two-pound loaf, and two onions, at a total cost of twopence, have to suffice for five children and the mother. The mother, however, is waiting for her portion, and father doesn't come home in the middle of the day. The window-blind serves as a signal of distress, and invites attention to eight open spaces, where glass should have been. We hurriedly take in the scene, and apologising for our intrusion, we are glad to find that our act is immediately condoned, and the anxious look of the mother gives place to a brighter expression.

"We have stated enough to give a little insight into the everyday life of many thousands of young children. In one school which we visited the master informed us that on inquiring one morning of the children in the First Standard he found that over 70 per cent. had come to school without breakfast! If we take this as an exceptional instance, and imagine only 25 per cent., or even 10 per cent., what does it mean? That at the lowest estimate—far below the actual facts as they have come to our knowledge—there would be for every thousand children a hundred breakfastless ones, compelled to take their places in the race for knowledge, and by reason of lack of food physically unfitted for the strain. The effort made twelve months ago by the friends of the London Congregational Union to lessen the bitterness of the cry of the poor, is now being supplemented by a variety of efforts of a kindred character. The Rev. Andrew Mearns, of the Memorial Hall, Farringdon-street, will gladly furnish the fullest information in relation to this and other movements in operation for helping the truly needy ones."

◆

DUBLIN VISITING MISSION.

DEAR SIR,—At the beginning of the year, I wish to remind your readers of our Irish Church Mission in Dublin in all in its various branches, the Visiting Mission being the keystone from which all the homes and schools for boys, girls, and little ones spring. I am thankful to say we have abundant blessing on every department, in the face of bitter opposition from Rome, and steady effort to shut out God's Word from the poor and ignorant. I am thankful to say the Homes are all more than full, day-schools well attended, a welcome almost everywhere for the daily visitors, meetings every evening, and many old and young turned to the Lord.

As an illustration of the way in which the different departments work together, I would give the following. A respectable-looking woman called at our Elliott Home one afternoon to ask us to take her children into our Home, as she was quite unable to support them; she had two boys and two girls. On inquiry, we found she was a Roman Catholic, and had with her husband seen good days. We asked her why she thought of putting her children into a Protestant institution. The tears coursed down her cheeks as she related the following: "My husband was very ill; one day a gentleman came to the house where we lived to visit; he failed in finding the one he sought. One said to him, 'There is a man very ill upstairs, won't you see him?' Mr. M. came up, sat down beside my husband, opened to him the plan of salvation, told him of Jesus, the only Saviour, and of his precious blood that cleanseth from all sin; he prayed with him, and left him in peace; he died trusting in the one only Saviour."

The poor widow, left with four helpless children, sad and lonely, recalled the visit of Mr. M. She inquired where he lived, sought him out, and heard that he was one of the visitors belonging to the Dublin Mission. He told her of the "Home" for boys and girls; she went home and thought it over. Considering all, she made up her mind that her husband would not object to his children being taught in schools connected with the good man who had been the means of bringing light to his soul, and peace in his dying hour. We admitted the boys, but said the girls would stay with their mother, and attend the day-schools for a while, until we could make room for them in the Elliott Home.

All seemed well for a time, but the weather became exceedingly cold. Snow covered the ground. We missed the children from the school; on going to the house we found the poor mother with the child lying on her lap quite exhausted. She had caught cold going to school with broken boots, got bronchitis; all in the room was gone. The child crying for milk, I sent out for some, and the poor thing drank it greedily. We sent the other little girl at once to the Home, supplied the wants of the little dying one; afterwards we got a situation as nurse for the mother, where she was much valued. The two sons are now in comfortable situations, earning well for themselves. We have good reason to believe that the family are all truly converted to God. This is one of many most interesting cases.

Faithfully yours, Ellen Smyly.

35, Upper Fitzwilliam-street, Dublin.

EVENTS IN MADAGASCAR.

MY DEAR SIR,—The French continue in their insane and immoral conduct towards Madagascar, although we are thankful to say they have been prevented again and again by Providence from carrying out their intentions to the extent they had intended. They have blockaded some more of the ports, but that does little harm; and as to their marching on the Capital, they could not do that now with an army of less than 20,000 men, so that you friends at home need not take it quite for granted that it is all over with poor Madagascar. Prayer is not being made in vain, either here or at home, although the answers are coming in ways we little expected.

In a letter from a friend in the south of the island, he says:—"My greatest difficulty is that many who would like to join the Bible and Prayer Union have no Bibles, and I have none to sell them. It seems sad that there should be such a dearth of Bibles and Testaments." This want of Bibles is being felt very much by us here in Imerina, as well as by our friends in the South. Many of the soldiers, who have been sent to the coast to resist the French, have taken their Bibles or Testaments with them, and thus, in many cases, their wives and families have been left without, there being none for sale. Why the new edition of the partly revised Bible has not been sent out, we cannot understand; they were ready a year ago. We have had 1000 of them, and have been expecting the rest ever since, and told our people they were coming.

"The traders are getting in goods, and out produce by the shiploads, and are making a very good thing of it, and why we cannot get Bibles in, when there is such a demand for them, is more than we can explain. A ship has just run the blockade with a cargo of arms for the Malagasy; and if the blockade can be run with a cargo of arms, I do not see why it could not be run with a cargo of Bibles. But there is no need to run the blockade with them; they are not 'contraband of war,' and there are several ports at which they could be landed. I think I could dispose of a thousand copies in a month, if I had them, and I think most of my brethren could do the same.

"Our services keep up well, and the weekly prayer meeting, which was started when the war began, still goes on. The Malagasy took to prayer when they were forced by the French to take to arms. They have now an army of 100,000 men ready, some 60,000 of these armed with rifles. These, with God and right on their side, which they certainly have, may make it more difficult for the French to work their will here than they expected. The difficulties the French have experienced in China, we sincerely hope may lead them to withdraw from the disgraceful situation they have got into here; but if not, then it must be war to the bitter end, as the Malagasy never will give in.

Yours sincerely, T. T. Matthews.

Antananarivo, Madagascar, Oct. 10.

MISSION WORK AT NORWOOD.—Mr. Rosenzweig, of the Evangelisation Society, has closed a series of special services at the Hall, Lower Norwood, which have been greatly owned of God. The preacher, with intense earnestness and singleness of aim, applied heart and soul to the work. His forcible, direct, and searching appeals to the unsaved were very impressive. Some were deeply convinced of sin, and were enabled with the heart to believe unto salvation. At a meeting held afterwards for praise and testimony it filled one with gratitude to see one after another rise and declare what God had done for their souls. A few of those who had received blessing at Messrs. Moody and Sankey's meetings, in Croydon, were induced to come over to Norwood and give their testimony. As a result, a band of young men have now a meeting for themselves, to which they invite young men who are to be found in the streets or outside the public-houses, and others from the neighbouring shops, to listen to Gospel addresses. Of the young men who attended a Bible-class held at the Hall for many years, two are now earnest and devoted clergymen, and three others are superintendents of various Sunday-schools in the neighbourhood.

MESSRS. MATEER AND PARKER.

THE fortnight's Mission conducted by these brethren of Ramsgate has been the means of much blessing. Before, and during the Mission, "the spirit of grace and of supplication" rested on many of God's people, and much prayer had been offered. "The faithful God" has answered. Every evening (except Saturday) evangelistic meetings were conducted in the Cavendish Baptist Chapel, and prayer-meetings and Bible-readings were held in the schoolroom.

All the services were well attended, and the spirit of the gatherings testified to the presence of the Lord. On the second night of the Mission several remained to the inquiry-meeting, and were pointed to the Lamb of God by faithful Christian workers. Each night the same blessed work has been engaged in, and sin-burdened souls have found peace through believing in Jesus.

The Sunday services will be especially remembered. In addition to services in the chapel at the ordinary hours of worship, two large meetings were held in Sanger's Amphitheatre, which was hired for the purpose of reaching the people. The crowds attended from the first, and the theatre became a "Bethel" as the large audience, numbering nearly 3000, sang the hymn of praise, "All hail the power of Jesu's Name." In each of these crowded meetings Mr. Parker sang with much acceptance, and Mr. Mateer ably preached the Word. But there was more than human power: "The arm of the Lord was with them." Especially at the last meeting was this felt to be the case, and many were blessed for eternity. Robert Wood.

CONTINENTAL AND FOREIGN NOTES.

Major Cole has been holding evangelistic meetings in Farwell Hall, Chicago, for some weeks, with most excellent success.

Jerry McAuley's Cremorne Mission has been conducted since his death by Mrs. McAuley, who is spoken of as very successful in her work.

Mr. Henry Varley has been labouring in St. Louis. He has received an invitation to conduct Gospel meetings in Mr. Moody's church in Chicago at the close of the St. Louis work.

Kansas, U.S.A.—Your paper comes to us out here with an ever fresh interest. A good work is going on here, though very quietly, among the coloured population. I gather the children and all the adults that like to come in with us every Sabbath morning for Sunday-school. Sometimes the attendance is small, but if God's blessing will rest upon us, much good may be accomplished. Pray for us. If any Christian friends could forward me by mail some illustrated tracts and almanacks to be put up in the houses, it would help the work along. Some kind friends have now and again sent me some in reply to my request of two years ago.

Joseph Baker.

Newberry, Wabaunsee, co. Kansas.

Pastor Chiniquy, writing from Montreal, Canada, December 9, says, that notwithstanding the persecution to which he has been subjected in that city, he has experienced joy in meeting with remarkable cases of conversion. He mentions one case of a young lady, of one of the best London families. Having been enticed and deceived by Roman Catholic literature, she left the Episcopal Church, and came to Canada, some months ago, to be more free to follow the ways and practices of Rome. Having come to hear what he had to say against Rome, by the great mercy of God she has understood the errors and idolatries of that false system of Christianity; she has broken the chains of Popery, and accepted Christ for her "only hope and Saviour."

BRIGHTON.—Dear Sir,—Permit me to call the attention of your readers, especially of those who purpose spending the winter in Brighton, to the removal of the United Daily Prayer-meeting from the Royal Pavilion, in which it has been held for so many years, to the Hall of the Y.M.C.A., 55, Old Steine. The first meeting will be held on Monday, January 12, 1885, from twelve to one o'clock. Friends from a distance are cordially invited to attend.—Yours very truly, Josiah Ellis, 39, Preston-road, Brighton. Hon. Sec.

ANOTHER EGYPTIAN EXPEDITION.

DEAR SIR,—Your readers will be glad to know that we are now fitting out our "Egyptian Expedition." The Institute at Alexandria can be opened for the men's use next month, and although the ladies' apartments will not be ready for some time yet, they have decided to go out now and "rough it" so that the work may not be delayed. Two men sailed on December 23, in s.s. Egypt; and on January 5, two ladies, and our missionary and his wife, will start by overland route. I am hoping to send out a third lady in February.

It is our wish that this house shall be "a witness for the Lord of Hosts in the land of Egypt," and that our helpers shall go out with the distinct object of working for Christ. Will friends remember us in prayer at this time, and will those who are able also help us with money? Little more than half the sum required has yet been given, and I am wanting it very much. Workers, ladies, to fill the place of those leaving Portsmouth, are also needed. I shall be glad to hear from such as are wholehearted for Christ.—Faithfully yours, Sarah Robinson.

Soldiers' Institute, Portsmouth.

BISHOP TAYLOR IN THE CITY.

A NUMBER of friends gathered at the Central Noon Prayer-meeting, at 186, Aldersgate-street, on Monday last, to hear an address by Bishop Taylor, of California, who is shortly going to Central Africa with forty missionaries. After singing and the usual requests for prayer, a brief address was delivered by Rev. Mr. Clark, of Leith, based on the words of our Saviour, "Let your light so shine," &c.

Bishop Taylor commenced his address by remarking upon the true nature of a witness for God. The Word of God and the testimony of Jesus forms the basis of our faith for the salvation of the world. The believer is to bear a witness to something he knows. While preserving the written Word, and giving it all honour, our testimony must also be a verbal one, in order that others may see and hear, and learn from us how the spiritual healing has been effected. The patient who simply hopes he is cured will be of little value in recommending his doctor. In the matter of soul-healing it is the same. Such words as hoping, thinking, supposing, &c., are very well in their place, but they will not do in a witness-box. The Bishop then narrated a striking case taken from his own experience. Meeting a Roman Catholic in a railway train he avoided everything in conversation bearing on Catholicism, and simply requested to be allowed to tell him something. He simply narrated the account of his conversion to God—how, when, and where it was effected. The result was marvellous. "I do feel so thankful that I should have met with you to-day," said the listener. "I really never heard anything like it before in my whole life, and it has made a deep impression on my mind." The man became an avowed Protestant and a genuine Christian, and is now an earnest worker for God.

In order to receive power for this testimony, there must be unreserved surrender to Christ. We must receive Christ as our great Physician, giving up all hope of healing from any other source. There must also be entire obedience, and absolute separation from known sin. Let God have his own way with us as the angel had with Jacob. Then He will put his hand of power upon us, and offer his priestly intercession on our behalf.

Prayer was offered at the close, that God might grant the speaker his heart's desire—namely, twenty-five years' service in Central Africa. It was announced that Bishop Taylor would be present again in the evening, and give another address.

CLAPHAM CONFERENCE HALL.—There was a meeting on Christmas Eve, of Christians seeking power and consecration to the Lord's service. Messrs. Cassel, Studd, and Stanley Smith gave stirring addresses. Some remarks from Mr. Warrand Haughton were very solemnising as to coming events. When twelve o'clock came round, the whole company rose and sang, "All hail the power of Jesu's name," and parted with joyful anticipation that the same Jesus will "come quickly."

A PROMISE FOR 1885.

"Ask, and it shall be given you."—Luke xi. 9.

SHALL we not daily need an inward might
Wherein to fight against our souls' strong Foe,
And light upon our path whereby to know
How best to turn this deadly foe to flight,
And grace withal to love and do the right,
To look above e'en while we dwell below—
Abundant grace whose fruits the world may show
That we are truly saints and sons of light?
Blest is it, then, from Jesu's lips to learn
That if we "ask" the threefold boon we need
And would be wise and strong and pure indeed,
The light of Truth within our souls shall burn,
The Spirit's might within our hearts reside,
And Righteousness our daily footsteps guide.

W. S.

YOUNG WOMEN IN LONDON.

A SOCIAL gathering, the eighth of its kind, was lately held at 33, Cavendish-square, the residence of Dr. Symes Thompson, for young women employed in railway refreshment rooms and restaurants. Fifty-five accepted the very kind invitation. The gathering was a great success, the young women thoroughly enjoying the evening. Addresses were given by the Hon. and Rev. Canon Leigh, and Dr. Symes Thompson, the host. Music was contributed by lady friends, and the young women themselves. Many thanks were expressed to Dr. and Mrs. Symes Thompson for their kind and generous hospitality. The Sunday afternoon meetings at Lady Brabazon's residence are being continued, and are greatly appreciated by those who attend on this their only leisure day.

This effort among a tried and deserving class of young women in our great city is one that merits the hearty recognition and support of all Christians. Miss C. M. Gough (5, Theberton-street, Islington, N.) continually meets in her visitations many instances of blessing in connection with the work. One who decided for Christ has been the means of leading two others to a knowledge of salvation. Miss Gough has as many as 500 names of young women on her books, over all of whom she exercises a kindly and wise oversight, giving them counsel when needed, and providing them with good literature, according to the means at her disposal. She would be exceedingly thankful for gifts of interesting narrative books to add to her scanty library, as well as any other help that friends can render. When we think of the numberless temptations and trials of different kinds to which these young women are subjected—any who are ignorant of their surroundings can have little idea of these—we cannot be too thankful for the influences that Miss Gough is able to exercise on them, and for the responses that meet her earnest efforts for their best welfare.

Random Jottings.

The total sum realised by the last Hospital Sunday Fund Collection was nearly £40,000.

The Salters' Company have kindly given a donation of ten guineas to the Homes for Working Girls in London.

Mr. Gladstone has written to the secretary of the Anti-Slavery Society, expressing his deep interest in the proceedings of the late Jubilee.

At the Christmas Festival, in Exeter Hall, of Dr. Stephenson's Children's Home, it was stated that a special fund of £10,000 is being raised to clear the Homes of debt.

Mr. John Mackenzie, late British Resident in Bechuanaland, has proposed the appointment of a South African Representative Commission to assist in the settlement of the native question.

Mr. Wilfrid Blunt, a well-known friend of the Egyptian fellaheen, proposes to proceed to the camp of the Madhi, and treat with him for a peaceful evacuation of the Soudan by General Gordon and the Egyptian garrisons.

Elder Jabez Swan, a famous evangelist, of whom it is said that his preaching had resulted, under God, in the conversion of 15,000 souls, died lately at New London, Conn., at eighty-five years of age. In one of his early pastorates of three years' duration he baptized 1800 persons.

A scheme is now being promoted by the Blind Pension Society of the United Kingdom, to establish a fund, which shall provide pensions for deserving blind poor, without subjecting them to the usual course of election by vote. The society intends to call the fund the "Fawcett Memorial Pensions."

Notices of Books, &c.

Peaceable Fruits. By Effie. 1s. Williamson, Edinburgh. A neatly got-up little volume of the heart-breathings of one who, if not a poetess, is a Christian with some earnest things to say.

Just as it Ought to Be. By J. M. Conklin. 5s. J. F. Shaw & Co. An American story for girls. The leading characters are sketched with much freshness, and the lessons of the tale are not overlooked in the telling of it.

The Home Friend. Macniven & Wallace. As a magazine for young women this annual volume presents many features of interest and value. It may be highly commended for its Gospel teaching, and general adaptation to the class for whom it is intended.

Hand and Heart. 7, Paternoster-square. This illustrated monthly journal is too well known to need many words of commendation. The annual volume is well got up, is copiously illustrated, and full of information and pleasant reading. In the homes of the working classes it is specially suitable.

Thoughts on the Canticles. By M. E. H. Marlborough & Co. The author gives some very helpful and pleasing reflections on the Song of Songs, regarding it as portraying the united love of Christ for his Church and the close union subsisting between them. Spiritual minds will find here much to aid their profitable study of this portion of Holy Writ.

Three annual volumes come to us from Mr. Elliot Stock. The Teachers' Storehouse is a treasury of good things in relation to the work of the Sunday-School.—After Work furnishes good home reading for the family circle. History, incidents, poetry, &c., make a very attractive volume.—In The Church discourses and Bible studies are still among the chief attractions.

The Sentinel for January (1d. Dyer Brothers, Paternoster-square) enters upon the New Year in a slightly enlarged form. Its contents afford gratifying proof of the rapid progress of the movement for the promotion of social purity. The address by the Bishop of Melbourne in this number is one of the most eloquent and powerful deliverances that we have seen upon the subject.

St. Paul's Epistles in Modern English. By Farrar Fenton. 3s. 6d. E. Stock. The translator has reproduced these epistles from the original Greek texts, and restored the Apostle's own division of the subject-matter. While greatly preferring the authorised version to any other yet published, we can yet imagine this attempt to modernise it may be useful to some people in the way of leading to thought and inquiry.

"The Mountains of Bread" Series of small books and leaflets. S. W. Partridge & Co. In this series, in which are some of the "precious things" of the late F. R. Havergal, there is something to meet nearly every phase of soul-life. They are useful for enclosing in letters either to young or old. "Links in the Chain," 4d.; "Ruth and Naomi; or, The Two Spitalfields Widows," 3d.; and "The Park-gate Fisherman's Rest," 2d.—truly beautiful little books—are also in this now well-known series.

Expository Sermons and Outlines on the Old Testament. 6s. Hodder & Stoughton. "The Clerical Library," all through, forms a most useful series of aids to pulpit work, but none of the volumes is better than this. It consists of expositions on important, and in some cases difficult subjects, gathered from fugitive or unpublished sources. They are full of fresh and valuable matter for use in the study, and indeed for the profit of all thoughtful readers. Among the authors whose contributions are included are men of varied shades of opinion, but all well known in the literary and theological world.

England's Training: An Historical Sketch. By the Author of "Essays on the Church." Seeley & Co. A calm, dispassionate, and comprehensive review of the various stages and phases of England's religious training. The author begins with Britain as a Roman province; skilfully touches on the influence of the Papacy; leads us through the Reformation of Wycliffe; marks its progress during the Tudor dynasty; its decline under the Stuarts, to the Revival, in which Whitefield, the two Wesleys, and some half dozen more bore so prominent a part. He is on the evangelical side of truth, and puts his readers in possession of facts, figures, and features, which should be at the command of every English man and woman who is loyal to God and country. The eight chapters on Wycliffe are especially appropriate and valuable just now. This concise work, owing much of its completeness to the researches of its author among some of the highest available authorities, is a worthy addition to our historical literature.

The Messenger for the Children. (1s. 6d., 18, Paternoster-square) is the Presbyterian magazine for the lambs of the flock. In many respects it is of a superior order.

Rev. J. T. Wrenford's little book, The Bugle-call of the Army of God (Partridge & Co., 1d.) is a stirring message for the beginning of another year. We trust many will hear the call, and obey.

The Methodist Family (61, Paternoster-row) contains, among other things, sixty brief articles, almost exclusively on spiritual topics, thoroughly practical, instructive, and helpful.

Daily Bread Almanack. 1d. In addition to the daily text are a few Biblical articles, short and full of marrow. It may be had of the compiler, Rev. James Smith, Glenbucket, Aberdeenshire, N.B.

The Educational Almanack (6d., published by the National Educational Union) gives much valuable information, compiled from official sources, relating to elementary education in its various aspects. An excellent woodcut of the statue of Robert Raikes is given on the title-page.

Evans' Temperance Annual for 1885 (6d. 337, Strand) contains 101 pages of original readings on various aspects of the Temperance question, viewed both from a scientific and a practical standpoint. Among the more intelligent class of readers it would be productive of much good.

Through the Bible (published by the Grosvenor Library, W., 6d.) is a Biblical Calendar, arranging a course of Family Readings for every week-day in the current year. The selections are judiciously made, and comprise almost the entire New Testament, with half the Old.

The Star-lit Crown. 1s. Nisbet & Co. This brief memoir of Rev. G. A. Rogers will be read with mournful interest by the members of his sorrowing flock at Dover, and many others, by whom he was held in deepest affection. Discouraged preachers may here see how much may be accomplished by a fully consecrated man after reaching middle life.

The Precious Promises. By Rev. Cunningham Geikie, D.D. Hodder & Stoughton. 3s. 6d. A series of brief meditations on Bible themes, of practical and experimental importance. There are thirty-one chapters, and all are full of spiritual teaching, conveyed in choice language, and marked by spiritual depth and fervour. Choice selections of poetry are interspersed.

Loveday's History. By L. E. Guernsey. Shaw & Co. 5s. This is a very interesting record of one of the most anxious periods of English history. The authoress has admirably succeeded in her endeavour "to illustrate and make real the wonderful change which passed over England between the year 1538 and the reign of Elizabeth." The writer holds the attention and sympathy of the reader throughout.

Isaac Marsden, of Doncaster. T. Woolmer. This volume records the life and ministry of one who for nearly half a century was a laborious and successful preacher among the Wesleyan Methodists. The book takes the form of an autobiography, compiled by Mr. W. B. Carter, of Nottingham, from correspondence extending over a period of nearly forty years. No one can read it without being stirred in some degree to emulate the extraordinary fervour of this devoted and faithful preacher.

The Two Homes: A Story of Life Discipline. By Emma Marshall. Home Words Office. An eminently wise and valuable book, and one that bears the stamp of fidelity to truth. It purports to set forth the daily life and vicissitudes of several typical households in a southern county town. The motive of the tale is a defence of step-mothers and removal of prejudices which they too often have to encounter. The good genius of the book is herself a "second mother," who utilises her own experience in promoting the happiness of her neighbours. The authoress deserves the thanks of many of her sadly tried and misjudged sisters, and we hope her book will prosper in its mission.

Edward Nangle, the Apostle of Achill. By Rev. Henry Seddall, LL.D. Hatchards. A well-written book, telling the noble work of a most noble spirit. The state of this little island fifty years ago must be read to be believed. The vast difference of Achill to-day is due, under God, to the prayers, tears, and labours of the gallant little band of Protestants who set up the standard of the Cross, led by Edward Nangle. No missionary amongst savages ever had more need of courage, tact, and true love to sinners than those first teachers of the benighted Irish. Edward Nangle had not only to raise the debased, but to contend with the cultured enemies of Gospel truth. Those who doubt that Roman Catholic priests prefer persecution to argument, and that even they can be softened by Christian love and made by grace able ministers of the Gospel, should study these pages.

Old Testament Characters. By Rev. Cunningham Geikie, D.D. 6s. Hodder & Stoughton. The preface states that this book may be regarded as a condensed epitome of some prominent portions of the six volumes of "Hours with the Bible," written by the same author. It is not, however, an abridgment, but an entirely new work. One object in view in its publication has been adaptation for use as a reading book of Scripture history in the senior classes of our higher educational institutions. It will be found well suited for this, and we hope will be widely adopted. It abounds with valuable information, vivid portraitures, and some moral instruction, and should be in the hands of all Bible students and readers. Dr. Geikie excels in this class of literature, and cannot be too highly praised for his efforts to popularise such Bible studies.

The Joys of the Ministry. By Rev. F. R. Wynne, M.A. 3s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. For a book like this, ministers of all denominations, old and young, cannot be too thankful. Ordination lectures, however faithful, are not unfrequently ponderous, if not depressing. The very titles of these brief addresses deliver them from these defects. The key-note is struck in Ch. 1. The joy of the Ministry rings through all. Specially helpful are the chapters entitled "The Warrior Spirit," "The Labourer," "Hints for the Study," "On the Knees," and "From house to house." Those who remember Mr. Wynne's memoir of Achilles Daunt ("Spent in the Service") will welcome a new sheaf from so gifted a gleaner. Irish vivacity, ministerial experience, and spiritual health, are visible on every page. For a seasonable gift to young men preparing for the ministry, or to those who are weary, jaded, or perplexed, in the Lord's vineyard, we strongly suggest this little book.

John Wycliffe and his English Precursors. Translated by Professor Lorimer, from the German of Lechler. 8s. Religious Tract Society. The proverb, "No prophet is without honour save in his own country," certainly applies to England as regards John Wycliffe. Till within the last fifty years, Wycliffe had no monument even in his native place, and his MSS. were better known in Vienna than Oxford or London. The year 1884, quincentenary of his death, has produced a happy change. Of writings on Wycliffe it may now be truly said, it never rains but it pours. The present book is the last, but by no means the least drop of this shower. As Dr. Lechler has at leisure studied the copious Wycliffe MSS. in the Imperial Library at Vienna, he can throw light on many contested points. At the end of the book is a full and clear index of Wycliffe's works, which scholars will appreciate. Side notes added by Professor Lorimer greatly aid the general reader, and the seven beautiful wood engravings give a pictorial history of the Great Reformer. Those who would like to warm their hearts and kindle their gratitude will find this German-English book an excellent stove.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION.

The Sunday Scholar's Hymn-book. New and enlarged edition, with tunes. A handsome volume of 500 hymns, among which are many new favourites.

A Primer of Bible Geography. By C. R. Conder, R.E. Captain Conder is an explorer of high repute, and of wide experience. His description of Jerusalem, chronologically considered, will be invaluable to all studying and teaching the geography of the Bible—a much neglected and little understood subject among even those who otherwise possess a good knowledge of the Scriptures. The work ought to be a popular one, as supplying a felt want.

The Biblical Treasury: An Illustrative Companion to the Bible. Vol. II. Exodus to Deuteronomy. 2s. This book is even more than it professes to be; it is not only illustrative, but what is of greater value in the elucidation of truth and its contemporaries, it is suggestive. The names of Professor Sayce and Captains Palmer and Condor are sufficient to show that the highest authorities have been laid under tribute. It is a cheap and exhaustive store of good "things new and old."

The Blackboard in the Sunday-school. By Benjamin Clarke and Frank Beard. This useful little work is sent forth as a plea for the adoption of the blackboard in all schools, and especially in those where instruction is sought to be given in Scripture truth. We endorse the plea—there is nothing like that teaching which goes straight "from the eye to the heart," for children understand and never forget it. With a few turns of the chalk an attractive appeal is made which secures the attention, draws out the thoughts, and makes the pupil a conscious sharer in what is not so much a lesson as a pleasure of the highest kind. The blackboard lessons and examples given are very good, and the book will no doubt have, as it deserves to do, a large circulation among those interested in the true education of the young.

ZOOLOGICAL PHOTOGRAPHS. By JOSEPH HASSELL. Handsomely got up and beautifully illustrated, this book would charm at first sight. When we turn to its pages we are more than charmed; we are spell-bound by the wonders of nature, and Mr. Hassell's way of treating them. Now in the caves of the ocean, and anon transported by fairy-like creatures on wings to the regions of the upper air, we live in a wonderland of delights and marvels. It is better than a barrow-load of story-books, and we are sure that the young people for whom it has been so cleverly written will think so.

Letters to the Editor.

CONGO BAPTIST MISSION.

SIR,—Will any of your numerous readers join me in sending out to each of the Mission Stations on the Congo an "Ambulance Basket"? These useful packages contain one set of splints, one tourniquet, sponges, wool, lint, plaister, bandages, &c. Isolated as our missionaries are, and exposed to many dangers, the want of a few necessary but simple surgical appliances such as the above, suggested by that excellent society "The St. John Ambulance Association," may at times be severely felt; while the fact of there being one at each station may prove of great service. I am about to send out one to my son on the Congo, and I entertain the hope that friends interested in this Mission will be pleased to unite with me to supply a similar basket to each station. The expense of each basket, with Handbook of Instructions, will be about 30s.

Donations sent either to the address below, or to me at Bycullah-park, Enfield, will be thankfully acknowledged. THOMAS WHITLEY.

46, Newgate-street, London, E.C.

THE DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH.

DEAR SIR,—I have been deeply interested in your articles entitled "Law, Labour, and Prayer," "Starvation Wages," and "Cheapness and Competition." The questions discussed in them are undoubtedly the most pressing of the day, and claim the earnest consideration specially of Christians. The evil state of things existing, growing, and intensifying under our present social system, has been strikingly portrayed by you, and the truthfulness of the picture is indisputable, although, touching the cause of the evil, differences of opinion may and do exist.

As a student of political economy, I am unable to agree on a fundamental point with the views expressed in your important articles, and also in The Daily News articles quoted by you. Kindly permit me to offer some remarks on the point of difference.

Can that be a scientific truth which does not accord with or denies moral truth? Is it not a proof of error or incompleteness in the statement of a scientific law, when it appears out of harmony with obedience to the commandments of God?

The laws of political economy which refer to the production of wealth would seem to result, when carried out to their full extent, in the oppression, want, and misery of the labourers. Free competition among the workers tends to make their labour increasingly effective by forcing it to seek the most profitable channels, but free competition apparently also tends to lower wages to starvation point and to throw the workers idle when at times their labour becomes comparatively unprofitable. Interference with natural laws in the shape of Trades Unionism and Factory Acts, tends, by artificially reducing competition, to keep up wages—to the gain of the labourers, but at the same time to hamper and lessen the production of wealth—to the loss of the community as a whole. Now, the increased production of wealth (or cheapness of the products of labour aided by capital) cannot in itself be an evil. It ought to mean greater leisure and comfort for those who produce. There arises, therefore, the question of the distribution of wealth.

The laws which operate to increase wealth are not the laws which determine the distribution of that increase. Political economy does not assert that an increase of wealth benefits the producers in more than an indirect manner and very disproportionate degree. It has clearly pointed out and advocated the removal of impediments to production, but has not laid sufficient stress upon the obstacles which prevent the producers freely appropriating the results of their toil or abstinence. The law of industrial freedom has its complement in the law of distributive freedom, and without it cannot work beneficially. Yours sincerely,

Belfast. EMILY LINDSAY.

HOMES FOR INEBRIATES.

SIR,—I think Dr. N. Kerr is a little too hard (CHRISTIAN, No. 777, p. 16) on abstainers who do not subscribe to Inebriate Homes. We are a poor lot, taken all round, in worldly means, and we cannot do everything. If our means were unlimited we would subscribe to such a home in every county, but being very much the reverse, and thinking prevention better than cure, we believe our work to be the former rather than the latter.

Your moderate drinkers, who don't seem to recognise the evil till it has reached the acute stage, seem in the present state of affairs the natural supporters of Inebriate Homes, in which we heartily bid them God-speed, and trust that their attention once turned to the subject, they will in many cases go further, and recognise that the best way to stop drunkenness is to stop drinking—moderate or immoderate. ANDREW JOHNSON.

Woodford.

POPERY IN THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

SIR,—The quotations from "The English Catholic's Vade Mecum," by "An English Protestant," are revolting enough. But why does he not give his own name as well as that of the parish and the Romanising clergyman?

Every honest man will agree with him that the detestable dishonesty of a minister paid to teach one set of doctrines and systematically subverting them by others should be stopped; but the best person to do it is the writer of the letter. Let him first send a copy of the book to the Bishop of the diocese, appealing for his authority to stop its distribution by the offending clergyman. Failing this, let him communicate with the Secretary of the Church Association, Buckingham-street, Strand.

But there is little use in anonymous letters, especially if not followed up by action. Paul withstood Peter to the face because he was to be blamed. So should we. I am, yours truly,

Durham, Dec. 23. H. E. FOX.

THE MAORIES AND CHRISTIANITY.

SIR,—The letter of Mr. Gordon Forlong, and that of Major-General Haig in your issue of August 28, are both likely to give a mistaken idea as to the position of the Maories with reference to Christianity. The report of Archdeacon Clarke quoted by Major-General Haig, instead of having reference to the whole of the North Island, refers to the Archdeaconry of Waimate only, i.e., from Whangarei northwards. In the diocese of Waiapu, i.e., from Tauranga to Kidnappers, there are thirteen Maori and four English clergy ministering exclusively to natives. In the diocese of Wellington there are four Maori and three English clergy, whose work is amongst the Maories only.

The greater number of the Maories live in what is known as the King Country, Waikato and Whanganui. These after the war isolated themselves, threw off the white man's religion, laws, and customs, and till very recently no white men were permitted to enter or pass through their territory. These Maories therefore have not been open to receive the Gospel, not from apathy on the part of the Church Missionary Society, but simply because they refused to receive missionaries. They have not been neglected, but have turned a deaf ear to instruction.

Since Tawhiao's return things are brighter. The following extract from an account of an interview between Tawhiao, the natives assembled to welcome him on his return, and Archdeacon Clarke, will interest your readers. The Archdeacon said: "You, Tawhiao, have come back determined to abolish drinking habits; but the Blue Ribbon movement, without religion to back it, is like a motherless child—it will soon come to an end. The Ngapuhi members of the church are going to send a fighting party into Waihato, not to fight against you, but to help to destroy the great enemy of your bodies and souls. Two of our Maori clergy from the north are coming, and I want you to take them under your care, and to tell your people to receive them kindly."

Tawhiao said: "It is good, very good. Let your children come, let them come. As I told the Bishop, it is not my fault that we are separated by a river, you on one side, I on the other. Let your sons come, and they shall have my protection and countenance. With their help and the help of God, we will work together and put down all that is evil."

The Archdeacon answered: "Tawhiao, you have made my heart very glad to-day. It is the custom among Pakehas (white men), when two people are engaged to be married, that they should seal their covenant with a kiss. I take this as a promise that you will ally yourself with the Gospel cause as represented by me; if it is so, will you rub noses with me before all these people, who shall be witnesses of our compact?" Tawhiao stood up at once, and amidst great applause gave the required pledge.

Tawhiao has told the natives to receive the missionaries, and hear the Gospel. Archdeacon Clarke and the two Maori clergy start for the Waikato to-morrow.—Yours faithfully,

Shaftesbury, Te Ardha, EDWARD Y. COX.
New Zealand, Nov. 10.

CHRISTIANITY AND COMMERCE.

SIR,—I cannot tell you how greatly interested I have been in reading your articles on Christianity, Competition, and Cheapness, and how earnestly I hope that you will continue to discuss this subject. It has been daily before my mind for a long time, but I have as yet failed to find a satisfactory reply to the question—how to be a good man of business and a true Christian at the same time. Indeed, the more I think about it, the more difficult, the more hopeless, it appears to become.

I know that the question is engaging the attention of not a few City men. Might I, therefore, suggest that the forthcoming week of prayer in January should be utilised, at least in the City, for conference and prayer on this subject; not instead of, but in addition to the topics already proposed.

We men of business appear to have a conscience of our own; our views of right and wrong are more in harmony with the supposed necessities of trade than with the standard of God's Word. We are quick enough to notice the wrong-doings of those in other walks of life, but in commercial matters our conscience is blunted and often perverted. I have almost come to the conclusion that a Christian wishing to compete in business with a man of the world, can only do so at the expense either of his pocket or of his conscience.

What we require is to have God's standard of right and wrong clearly set before us, by persons not in business, but who understand its difficulties and temptations, and then to have the courage of our convictions. As far as I can see, the result is likely to be that many Christians will be driven out of their business, and will endeavour to find a country abroad, not so highly civilised, perhaps, but where they can make a living by following simpler and more natural occupations, without being fettered by a state of society so highly artificial as the one we are living in. But is such a country to be found?

Help us to see clearly and to act rightly in this matter, and may God's blessing rest on those who teach and those who seek the truth.

13, Moorgate-street, E.C. W. H. FELDMANN.

THE PSALMS OF DAVID AND OF ASAPH.

SIR,—I have read with much interest the carefully prepared papers on the Book of Psalms that have appeared in THE CHRISTIAN. While recognising their value, yet may I be permitted to take exception to a position taken by the writer, which, it seems to me, involves a negation which ought not to be conceded. Referring to certain Psalms which in their ancient Hebrew titles are attributed to David, the writer says: "It is necessary to say that the allusions in many of them proves that they could not have been composed as early as the age in which David lived." A similar doubt is brought forward as to the date and authorship of other Psalms which are in our Bibles attributed to Asaph.

Having met with these questions before, during a somewhat close study of the subject, may I venture to say that this supposed necessity to regard the book wrong proceeds either from a defective understanding, on the part of those authors whom your esteemed correspondent has followed, of the actual events of David's history, and of the great tribulations of his early reign—the conclusion of which is briefly epitomised in 2 Sam. viii.; or, again, these authors have failed to appreciate the fact that David and Asaph did not so much "compose" the Psalms as utter the revelations of inspiration.

Jupiter could not have prophesied to Venus of the later fortunes of Æneas' house, and of the eastern conquests of Julius Cæsar, unless Virgil had lived in the age of Augustus; but no such necessity exists in the case of Bible prophecies. One need not point out how utterly void of consolation to captive Judah these prophecies would have been, had they been written by some later Asaph who lived posterior to the ravages described. I could easily show how inseparably the psalms of Asaph, in which the destruction of the temple is described, are connected with others, which, by internal proof, may be shown to be written by David's contemporary, Asaph, the precentor and seer; but I will not further prolong this letter. I have not the leisure, and you would not have the space that this would require Yours truly,

G. W. B.

AMONG THE SCOTTISH FISHER-FOLK.

ONE of the most charming little books we have lately read comes to us, clad in bright scarlet attire, from a northern publishing firm.* Its great charm lies in the transparent faithfulness, and the simple grace of language, with which the story is told. We see the quiet, homely life of the fishing village; its peaceful monotony broken in upon now and then by some terrible tragedy of the sea, that brings sorrow and bereavement to many a humble home, and sends many a stalwart toiler to an untimely grave. There is some very fine character sketching, notably that of Jeanie, one of Nature's heroines, and of her grandmother Elsie, who has had to drink her full cup of life's sorrows, but who cherishes through them all a calm and restful trust in her God.

We will not spoil the anticipations of the reader by sketching the course of the narrative, but, as an indication of its genuine interest, we may quote this graphic and touching story of

WRECK AND RESCUE.

"It was an awfu' time. We stuck by oor nets till midnicht; but then we found that oor lives as well as oor nets wad be lost, and we ran north afore the wind, hopin' to mak' some port in the Moray Firth; for ye ken yon Aberdeen coast is a cruel ane, and there's nae place o' refuge for sixty mile and mair. I never was oot in sic a nicht. For the roarin' o' the win' we couldna' hear each ither's voices, and in the darkness and the drivin' spray we couldna discern ane anither's faces. We clung thegither on deck, and waited for death, for we had nae langer a richt command ower the boat.

"There wasna a heart amang us that wasna cryin' to God for mercy. Oor skipper was a God-fearin' man, and a' on boord were dacent well-livin' men. There wasna a nicht that he hadna worship wi' us, and noo the words of Scriptur' cam back to oor minds. When there was a lull I could hear words o' prayer rising frae ane and anither wi' an earnestness I had never kent the like o' afore. My heart was wae for Johnnie Grieve, the youngest aboord. He was a wild laddie, fu' o' fun an' mischief, and aye at some nonsense; but we a' liket him, for he had nae ill in him, and was aye ready to dae a guid turn to onybody that needed it. He was a gran' han' at the hymns, and whiles he was fit to deave us [tire us out] wi' them, I thocht he only cared for the tune, and no for the sense, but I did him wrang.

"At last the warst we dreeded cam true, and a muckle wave swept ower us. I mind nathing mair till I found mysel' grippin' the keel o' oor capsized boat, and Johnnie Grieve haudin' on to me, and anither man, Jock Imrie, aside me. We saw naething but the white waves roarin' aroun' us, and lashin' the lives oot o' oor wearied bodies and sinkin' hearts. But the bitterness o' death wasna sae sair as ye wud think. My thochts were mair wi' them at hame than wi' mysel'.

"The laddie had ae han' on my shouther, and the ither on the keel. He was near spent, and I could scarce keep him up. After a while he opened his een and said, 'Wullie, if ye wun back hame bid my mither nae mourn over muckle for me. Tell her I wasna feart tae dee, and we'll meet beyond the river.' A wee while after I saw his lips movin', and I bent doon my ear to listen. Ye mind the hymn beginnin'

'Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Safe on his gentle breast.'

Well those were the last words that passed his lips, and then I saw a change come ower his face, his grip on my neck loosed, and I kent his speerit had gane hame. I held him up a good while; but his deid wecht was ower muckle for me to bear, and I was forced to lat him drop into the waters, where I expected to follow him sune.

"I grew a kin' o' dazed like after that. I min' coontin' the waves as they cam lashin' ower us, and watchin' for the muckle ninth ane. But I maistly lost coont afore I got to it. Then I fell into a kin o' dream—and Jeanie and me was comin' doon the road frae the schule thegither, an' I saw her fair hair fleein' in the win', and her bonny blue een, an' she was swingin her bag o' books an' lauchin—when a' o' a suddent I heard the soun' o' voices, an' I looked up an' saw a boat near at han' an' the men in her cryin' to us. They had muckle ado wi' the sea rinnin' sae high to get near aneuch to fling us a rope. Time after time it missed us, but at last I caught it. We were that numb wi' cauld we could scarce mak' oorsel's fast to it, but we did succeed at last, an we were hauled aboord."

◆

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Wednesday Morning, December 24, 1884.

◆

⁂ In consequence of the Christmas Holidays our Donation List is made up three days earlier. Any amounts received after midday on Wednesday, December 24, will appear in next week's number.

◆

	£	s.	d.
Mr. George Smith, of Coalville—H. A. D. 5s.; W. M. C. £5; H. B. 10s.; A. S. A. 5s.; C. A. T. 5s.; C. E. Y. 5s.; M. I. H. 10s.; J. J. W. £1; D. McL. £2	10	0	0
St. Giles's Christian Mission—H. A. D. 2s. 6d.; N. L. B. 2s. 6d.; S. S. 2s. 6d.; J. M. B. £2; R. B. £1; J. J. W. £1; W. P. R. £1; H. R. V. £5; J. P. I. 10s.; T. P. £1; E. S. L. £10; E. S., Paris, £1; E. C. and E. C. 4s. 6d.; West Hyde, £2; M. E. R. 2s. 6d.; A. F. W. £2; Anon. 10s.; C. W. 1s.; Mrs. G. H. £2; (Prison Mission) J. T. 10s.; Werneth, £1; West Hyde. £2; (Christmas Relief) A. M. B. 10s.; Mrs. and Miss P. 12s.; E. M. T. 3s.	34	19	6
Friendless and Fallen—J. N. M. £1; Miss B. 3s.; W. G. 2s. 6d.; E. A. M. 2s.; Marah W. 5s.; N. L. B. 2s. 6d.; C. B. 3s.; J. M. £1; M. A. M. 10s.; S. J. K. £1; E. M. 10s.; E. M., Dundee, 10s; H. R. V. £3; D. McL. £2; J. P. I. 10s.; T. P. £1; Werneth, £1; J. J. W. £1; R. B. W. £1; C. H. £2; Anon. 10s...	17	8	0
National Life Boat Institution—M. J. F.	0	7	6
Bridge of Hope, Ratcliff—Y.W.C.A., Leigh, 10s.; R. B. £1; Anon. £1	2	10	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—Mrs. G. H. £2; J. N. M. £1; T. B. W. 5s.; W. G. 2s. 6d.; M. A. M. 10s.; C. D. 5s.; F. A. H. £1; R. H. £2; T. P. £1; E. L. L. £10; F. G. 5s.; E. H. £2; E. S., Paris, £1; J. J. W. £1; C. H. £2; E. M., Dundee, 17s. 6d.; H. B. £1; J. M. £1; E. W. 2s.	27	7	0
Cow-cross Mission—E. W. 2s.; W. G. 2s. 6d.; T. P. 10s 6d.; E. S. L. £10; F. G. 5s.; S. K. Y. 1s.; C. B. £1; J. N. M. £1; A. F. W. £2; (Children's Dinners) S. S. 2s. 6d.; J. T. 10s.; Alpha, 5s.; Werneth, £1; L. O. 5s.; Luke vi. 38, 2s. 6d.; E. A. and H. G. A. 4s.; Mrs. G. H. £2	19	10	0
Bristol Orphan Houses—C. L. M. T. £1; J. J. W. £2; (Missions) C. L. M. T. £1	4	0	0
Religious Tract Society—C. L. M. T.	1	0	0
Gratuitous Circulation of THE CHRISTIAN—C. W. R. St. J.	0	11	0
Christmas Dinners, &c., for the Poor—T. Y. £1; H. R. V. £3; Mrs. P. £1 10s.; Mrs. R. G. £5; M. N. O. £5; B. T. S. £1; J. M. B. £2	18	10	0
London Medical Mission—M. A. M..	0	10	0
Home of Industry—R. B. £1; H. R. V. £3; E. S. L. £10; E. S., Paris, £1; J. N. M. £1; (Widows) S. A. R. £2 2s.; M. E. R. 2s. 6d.	18	4	6
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—R. B. £1; W. P. R. £1; E. M. £1; J. P. I. 10s.; T. P. £1; E. H. £1; E. S., Paris, £1; C. H. £2; West Hyde, £2; S. L. R. 10s.; A. F. W. £2; (Christmas Dinners) S. A. R. £1 1s.; D. E. O'C. 2s.; J. N. M. £2; T. B. W. 5s.; E. W. 2s.	16	10	0
Mr. Archibald Brown's Work—R. B. £1; H. B. 10s.; T. B. £5	6	10	0
Strangers' Rest, 163, St. George's-street—R. B.	1	0	0
Miss Leigh's Home, Paris—W. M. C. £3; Werneth, £1	4	0	0
Thames Church Mission—W. M. C. £3; A. S. A. 10s.; H. B. £1; (Feeding the Hungry) C. E. Y. 5s.; L. E. 10s.	5	5	0
Miss Weston's Work in Royal Navy—W. M. C.. ..	3	0	0
Miss Robinson's Work among Soldiers—W. M. C. ..	3	0	0
China Inland Mission—W. M. C. £10; Mrs. A. W. £4 2s. 6d.	14	2	6
Dock Labourers' Mission—A. S. A. 10s.; (Christmas Dinners) H. F. 5s.; S. A. R. £1 1s; L. E. 10s. ..	2	6	0
George-yard Ragged Schools—S. A. R. £2 2s.; E. S. L. £10; C. H. £2; J. N. M. £1; C. W. 10s.	15	12	0
Indigent Blind Visiting Society—Mrs. G. H. £1; (Christmas Dinners and Coals) S. A. R. £1 1s. ..	2	1	0
Field-lane Refuges—S. A. R. £2 2s.; H. P. 5s.; H. R. V. £3; L. E. 10s.; J. J. W. £1	6	17	0
Latymer-road Mission—S. A. R. £1 1s.; B. S. 5s.; R. H. 2s. 6d.; Luke vi. 38, 2s. 6d.	1	11	0
Female Mission to the Fallen—W. P. R..	1	0	0
Mothers' Lying-in Hospital, Shadwell—W. P. R. ..	0	10	0
Christian Community—(Free Breakfasts) W. P. R. ..	1	0	0
Mr. E. Wright's Work—(Tricycle) W. P. R.	0	10	0
King Edward Ragged School and Mission—W. P. R. £1; C. H. £2	3	0	0
Home for Aged Blind Christian Women—W. P. R. 10s.; Luke vi. 38, 2s. 6d.	0	12	6
Rescue Society—W. P. R.	1	0	0
Mrs. Hilton's Crèche and Orphan Home—W. P. R..	0	10	0
North-West London Hospital—W. P. R.	0	10	0
Ragged School Union—W. P. R. £1; H. R. V. £3; H. B. 10s..	4	10	0
Mrs. Meredith's Nine Elms Mission—W. P. R... ..	0	10	0
Clapton-park Tabernacle—(Poor) M. S..	3	0	0
Commercial Travellers' Christian Association—M. S.	2	2	0
Destitute Children's Dinner Society—E. M. 10s.; H. R. V. £5; B. S. 5s.; R. H. 5s.; Alpha, 5s.; Mrs and Miss P. 5s.; E. A. M. 3s.; Mrs. S. 3s.; West Hyde, £1; McL. 10s.	8	6	0
Distress in Sunderland—S. A. A. 5s.; T. H. H. 2s. 6d.	0	7	6
Evangelistic Mission—A. M. B 10s.; T. P. £1; J. J. W. £1; (Free Meals) Mrs. G. H. £1	3	10	0
Mr. Mowotny's Work, Bohemia—H. B...	0	10	0
Mr. Pascoe's Work in Mexico—M. L. H. 10s.; (Family of Nicanor Gomez) H. B. £1; Mrs. and Miss P. 12s.; (Personal Expenses) Mrs. and Miss P. 12s.	[illegible]	14	[illegible]
Homerton Mission—B. S. 5s.; Werneth, £1; Mrs. and Miss P. 10s.; J. N. M. £1; A. F. W. £2; (Free Breakfasts) L. E. 10s.; W. E. 5s.; Miss T. 5s.	5	15	0
East London Training Institute and Missions (Rev. H. G. Guinness)—T. P.	1	0	0
Irish Church Mission—T. P. £1; H. B. £1..	2	0	0
London City Mission—H. R. V. £5; J. N. M. £1; M. E. R. 2s. 6d.; A. F. W. £2	8	2	6
Distressed Jews in Jerusalem (Mrs. Finn)—Werneth, £1; E. H. £2	3	0	0
Robin Dinners—Werneth	1	0	0
Rev. C. J. Whitmore's Work—E. S., Paris	1	0	0
Army Scripture Readers' Society—Mrs. and Miss P...	0	5	0
Stockwell Orphanage (Mr. Spurgeon)—J. J. W... ..	2	0	0
Rev. G. Reaney's Work (Dinners to Poor)—W. E. ..	0	5	0
Homes of Hope, Regent-square—R. B. W. £1; J. B. 10s.	1	10	0
Free Distribution of the Scriptures—E. A. M. 2s.; H. B. 10s..	0	12	0
The Bitter Cry—(Breakfasts for Poor) F. D.	1	0	0
Syrian Colonisation Fund—D. E. O'C...	0	2	6
Miss Mittendorff's Orphans' Home—J. M. B.	1	0	0
Mildmay Missions—H. B.	3	0	0
Special Services in Theatres, &c.—H. B.	3	0	0
Leicester-square Soup Kitchen—H. B.	3	0	0
Cripples' Home, Marylebone—B. B.	1	0	0
Christian Colportage Society—H. B..	1	0	0
Tower Hamlets Mission—H. B. £2; M. E. R. 2s. 6d..	2	2	6
Marylebone Medical Mission—H. B.	2	0	0
Mr. Cohen's Work amongst Jews—H. B..	0	10	0
CHRISTIAN Tract Fund—H. B.	0	10	0
Railway Mission, 186, Aldersgate-street—H. B... ..	0	10	0
Irish Evangelisation Society—H. B..	1	0	0
Breakfasts for Destitute—Mrs. S.	0	3	0
Christmas Dinners for Destitute Children—Miss C..	0	7	6
Gray's-yard Mission—(Breakfasts)—S. E. C.	0	5	0
Homes for Aged Poor, Notting-hill, &c.—S. L. R. ..	0	10	0
British Society for Propagating the Gospel among the Jews—Luke vi. 38	0	1	6
Zenana Medical Mission (Dr. Griffiths)—J. N. M...	1	0	0
Miss De Broen's Work, Paris—C. P., Clifton	1	10	0
Rev. McAll's Work, Paris—Mrs. H. W.	1	1	0
Home for Crippled Boys, Kensington—Anon.	0	5	0
Drury-lane Christian Mission—H. B.	1	0	0
	£323	1	6

◆

[ADVERTISEMENT.]

St. Giles's Christian Mission—L. C. 16s.

◆

Mission and other Appeals.

WORKING MEN'S MISSION (Collingwood-street, New cut).—Mr. Thomas Young, 16, Queen-street, Blackfriars, earnestly appeals for help, to relieve some of the many distressed and deserving poor that abound in the neighbourhood of this Mission.

FOX-COURT RAGGED SCHOOLS.—The Committee appeal for funds for the relief of the poor and sick in the neighbourhood of Gray's-inn-road. They are often unable to afford any adequate relief for lack of funds. —HENRY ALLEN, Treasurer to the Fund, 264, St. Paul's-road, Canonbury, N.

HOUSE OF REST FOR CHRISTIAN WORKERS IN SCOTLAND. —Will the readers of THE CHRISTIAN kindly send a little help towards the completion of this scheme? £30 is all that is now required for the start. Mrs. NORMAN MACLEOD, of 20, Coates-gardens, Edinburgh, will be happy to receive contributions.

EVANGELISTIC MISSION, HOLLOWAY-ROAD, N.—Free breakfasts were given in this hall on Sunday mornings for three months last winter. We have again commenced this good work. Any help to carry on and extend this work will be thankfully received by Mr. H. PUITERIL, Superintendent of Mission, 94, Frederick-street, Caledonian-road, N.

HOMES FOR LITTLE BOYS (Farningham and Swanley). —Mr. A. O. Charles, Secretary, says in a recent public appeal: "Our liabilities this Christmas are heavier than they were last. What are we to do? We can only throw ourselves on the liberality of our many friends, while looking up to Him who all these years has helped us, while we have sought to help the little ones in his name." The office of the Homes is at Ludgate-circus, E.C.

CRIPPLED BOYS' NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL HOME, KENSINGTON, W.—The Committee earnestly solicit further aid, to discharge the building debt of £4500. There is accommodation for 100 boys, but only eighty can be maintained with the present income. A large number of crippled boys, formerly in the Home, are now earning their own livelihood. Orders for saddlery, relief-stamping, carpentering, and tailoring are also solicited.—H. R. KNIPE, Hon. Secretary.

THE MISSIONS TO SEAMEN.—The hazardous and trying work of the agents of The Missions to Seamen, in boarding ships at the exposed anchorages around our stormy coasts every day, all the year round, is full of peril to health and limb. To meet cases of illness and death The Missions to Seamen Agents, Widows and Orphans' Assistance Fund, 11, Buckingham-street, Strand, London, W.C., has been formed, and it appeals for funds at this stormy season of the year.

AN appeal is issued on behalf the London Temperance Hospital in Hampstead-road, two new wings of which are now being erected. The appeal is endorsed by Mr. S. Morley, M.P.

---

* FISHER-FOLK. By J. S. CADELL. Macniven & Wallace, Edinburgh.

MIDNIGHT MEETING MOVEMENT. Progress!!!

The Committee desire to express their VERY GRATEFUL THANKS for the practical expressions of sympathy recently received to carry out the proposed MIDNIGHT and AFTERNOON MISSION to the Fallen, both in London and the Provinces.

10,000 Portions of HOLY SCRIPTURE and GOSPEL TRACTS have been DISTRIBUTED amongst the Fallen Women of London. In view of the New Year a SERIES of MIDNIGHT and AFTERNOON MEETINGS will be held in the METROPOLIS, also in NORTHERN MANUFACTURING and SEAPORT TOWNS.

£5 WILL MISSION A DISTRICT AND PROVIDE TEA FOR A MIDNIGHT MEETING.

WILL 3 FRIENDS NOW KINDLY CONTRIBUTE £5 EACH, 21 having done so.

Christian Friends desirous of co-operating by contributing toward the expenses of a Meeting (or helping by prayer), are invited to communicate with Mr. J. H. L. CHRISTIEN, Organising Secretary, at the Office. Donations may be sent to MESSRS. MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C., or to

C. WILSON McCREE,
Financial Secretary.

Office—8A, Red Lion Square, W.C.

The Anchorage.

HEBREWS vi. 19.

To shelter respectable Young Women in Trouble.

FOR rules of admission to the Anchorage House, and full particulars of the work of the Anchorage Mission, and for trained servants, apply (by letter only) to Mrs. H. STUART-WORTLEY, Rosslyn House, Grove End-road, N.W., London.

Many of the young women admitted being mothers or about to become so, the extra care they require, and (when friendless) the help that the Mission must give towards paying for their infants at nurse during the first few months of the mother's return to service or other occupation, causes the work to be unusually costly, and subscriptions are much required, sent either to Mrs. H. Stuart-Wortley (President of the Ladies' Committee) at her private address as above, or to Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

UNIVERSAL WEEK OF PRAYER.—The Council of the EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE have arranged for MEETINGS in the West End daily during the week commencing January 5, at Steinway Hall, Lower Seymour-street, Portman-square, each morning at 11.30. The Addresses will be given respectively by the Revs. H. W. Webb-Peploe, Donald MacLeod, Archibald G. Brown, Dr. Frederick Greeves, E. A Stuart, and Bishop Taylor. Programmes of these Meetings, and other papers relating to the Week of Prayer, may be had on application to the Secretaries of the Alliance, 7, Adam-street, Strand, W.C.

BIBLE LIGHT

For Truth Seekers & Christian Workers.

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path" Ps. cxix. 105.

"The entrance of thy words giveth light."—Ps. cxix. 130.

THE OBJECT of "BIBLE LIGHT" is to interest its readers in the written Word, and to lead them through the latter to the Living Word, for the salvation of the unsaved, and the strengthening of the believer's faith. Monthly, One Penny. Strongly recommended by the Press. The Vol. for 1883, price 1s. 6d.

London: JOHN F. SHAW & Co., 48, Paternoster-row, E.C.;
And of all Booksellers and Newsagents.

FEMALE ORPHANS' HOME,

HAMPTON.

FOR SIXTY GIRLS.

UNENDOWED. UNDENOMINATIONAL.

This Home has been in existence 29 years. Was founded by the late Mr. JOSEPH STEVENSON, and continued by the late Mr. DANIEL COOPER. The Home continues, by God's goodness, in full working order.

FUNDS ARE AT PRESENT URGENTLY NEEDED.

Hon. Sec., JOHN D. COOPER.

Please Note Change of Offices—

79, FINSBURY PAVEMENT, E.C.
(Late 85, Queen-street, Cheapside.)

Appeal on behalf of the Paralysed Children.

West End Hospital

FOR DISEASES OF THE
NERVOUS SYSTEM, PARALYSIS, AND EPILEPSY,
73, WELBECK STREET, W.

WITH A SPECIAL WARD FOR PARALYSED CHILDREN.

Patroness—H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.
Hon. Secretary and Treasurer—H. ALEX. DOWELL, Esq.
TOTALLY UNENDOWED.

Annual Subscriptions and Donations are much needed. Little Children are asked to make special collections.

Illuminated Collecting Cards forwarded on application.

Contributions are earnestly requested for the purposes of extension of premises, which is urgently needed.

FRANK IAGO, Secretary.

FOR THE NEW YEAR.

The Bugle-Call of the Army of God.
(By J. T. WRENFORD, Newport.)
8d. per dozen.

New Year's Bells. By the Same.
8d. per dozen.

London: S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co., Paternoster-row.

Turkish Missions' Aid Society.

For the Promotion of Christian Work within the Lands of the Bible.

THE operations of this Society under its new management are not sufficiently known. It is undenominational, and distributes its funds impartially Last year forty separate agencies were aided, mostly American, but many of British origin. Contributions are earnestly invited. With a larger revenue a vast amount of solid good might, under the Divine blessing, be accomplished.

President—THE EARL OF SHAFTESBURY, K.G.

Treasurer—THE HON. A. F. KINNAIRD.

Secretary—REV. T. W. BROWN, M.A.

OFFICES: 7, Adam-street, Strand, W.C.

GREAT DISTRESS

STILL prevails among the unemployed Dock Labourers. Funds are greatly needed to assist them with food and lodgings.—C. H. COLEMAN, Hon. Sec., Children's Home, Boleyn-road, Upton-park, E.

IRISH EVANGELIZATION SOCIETY.

GENERAL COMMITTEE.

Chairman—Lord FARNHAM, Farnham, Cavan.
Earl of CAVAN, The Lodge, Weston-super-Mare.
Sir R. S. HUTCHINSON, Bart., Stratford, Rathgar.
Col. the Hon. HERCULES ROWLEY, Marley Grange, Rathfarnham, Dublin.
*Major H. E. WARREN, Leeson-st., Dublin.
Col. W. HATT NOBLE, R.E., Ardmore, Bray.
*R. WADE THOMPSON, Clonskeagh Castle, Co. Dublin.
Rev. G. A. P. ARBUTHNOT, 5, Gordon-square, London.
Rev. J. G. RAINSFORD, Dundalk.
Rev. F. HEWSON, Dunganstown, Wicklow.
Rev. CHARLES L. MORELL, Dungannon.
Rev. JAMES STEVENSON, Leith.
Rev. JAMES WILSON, Belfast.
Major-Gen. DOBBS, Greystones.
General B. STONEY, 72, Waterloo-road, Dublin.
*Major E. J. SAUNDERSON, Castle Saunderson, Belturbet.
JOHN BOYD, Esq., Ballymacool, Letterkenny.
*SAMUEL LAW, Esq., Kilbarrack, Raheny, Co. Dublin.
*JOHN R. FOWLER, Esq., Duncairn-terrace, Bray.
J. MURPHY, Esq., Castletown, Dundalk.
J. A. HAIG, Esq., Regency-square, Brighton.
*J. H. SWANTON, Esq., 6, Orwell-park, Rathgar, Dublin.
*NUGENT T. EVERARD, Esq., Randalstown, Navan.
T. T. CHAPMAN, Esq., Clonhugh, Mullingar.
*T. P. LAW, Esq., Q.C., 48, Stephen's-green, Dublin (Treasurer).
*JAMES BARTON, Esq., Farndreg, Dundalk (Hon. Sec.).

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE (Marked thus*).

The Irish Evangelization Society has now been at work over ten years, and has had very great lessing. It has pleased God to use their Evangelists in the proclamation of the Gospel to bring a ery large number into the fold of Christ. The Society's work is extending, and the Committee feel t to be right that the Church of God should more widely know of, and be invited to aid more largely n, this work.

EVANGELISTS.

The Evangelists of this Society may belong, as individuals, to many denominations, but as its Evangelists they represent none. They go out for this Society, not as members of any particular ody of Christians, and without in any way taking part, publicly or privately, in questions relating o denominational differences, but only as Evangelists, to preach the glorious Gospel of Christ to erishing sinners, in its fulness and freeness, and to seek, under the constraining power of the love f Christ, to win souls to Him.

The Evangelists sent out by the Society are always anxious to co-operate heartily with the godly ministers of any locality in which they are called to labour.

MEETINGS.

The Society is prepared to receive applications for Evangelistic meetings, in any locality, from clergymen or laymen.

MEANS.

The work of the Society is maintained by voluntary contributions, and Christians are invited to share the privilege of this work for Christ. Those who are disposed to help are requested to do so at once. Contributions will be received by this paper, by the Hon. Sec., or by the Treasurer.

PAST WORK.

The Report of the year 1883 can be had upon application to the Hon. Sec., and will repay perusal.

Dundalk, 12th, Dec., 1884. JAMES BARTON, Hon. Sec.

[21]

CUMBERED.

OUR Lord asks not that we should be
For ever "busy here and there"—
No time to calm the soul in pray'r,
But work and rush eternally.

He asks of us the listening ear;
The simple waiting at his feet,
"Apart" from all, in union sweet,
Is "rest awhile" from every fear.

He sees the eager, restless heart,
So cumbered with its load of earth:
He yearns to give its hopes new birth,
And bids it choose the "better part."

"Be still and know that I am God"—
How hard, how useless to be still,
To suffer and to wait his will
While worlds of woe are yet untrod!

And is it so? His love renews
Our strength in stillness. While we sup
The balm of leisure from his cup,
He waters us with heavenly dews.

He loves our service, but He loves
More than all else the humble soul
Content to take from Him its dole
Of meekness, patience—sister doves.

And will He not accept the meed
Of service from a lowly heart?
Ah, yes, the Saviour knew the smart
Of cold rejection, and the deed

Of love performed for Jesus' sake
Is treasured in the Master's love;
So faithful hands, their wealth to prove,
The box of alabaster break.

Not cumbered about serving, we—
Nor looking on with idle hands,
But following our Lord's commands,
"Go work," and still "Abide in Me"—

Shall one day meet Him face to face,
When faith and love, both "turned to sight,"
Shall praise Him for his wondrous might,
And sing for aye his boundless grace.

MARGARET BUTLER GERDS.

Notices.

COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED WITH THANKS.—H.C. C.M.H.H. E.B. H.W.E. B.C. W.E.H. W.C. E.M. J.R.V. A.J. J.M. A.McP. E.T. H.J.P. B. W.H. J.A. C.M. S.S. H.B. J.G. A.O.G. M.S.M. R.C. A.H.F. E.J.M. N.R.H. E.H.G. W.S.W. W.H.A. C.I. A.E.V. W.F. R.J.L. S.R. M.W. W.G. J.W.T. J.C. B.M. J.K. W.D. J.D. A.W. M.D. S.F. W.E.H. C.C. C.B. A.C. A.J.B. T.F. F.A. M.P. V.C. S.B. A.C.J. E.J.P. J.A.D. W.H.S. R.W. S.T.P. B.E. G.S. W.E.D. S.H. J.I. Hebrew Christian. E.H.H. T.E.B. W.L. T.B. H.F.B. E.P.H. H.S. W.A. G.W.B. P.P. H.E.F. J.C.D. G.S.W. J.E.L. P.D.W. S.M. A.C.P.C. W.H.D. E.B. A.C.M. W.S. R.N. W.McG. J. de B. C.M. J.E. A.J.A. H.G. C.H. E.M. and A.W. K.H.G. T.W.S. J.E.C.

APPLICANTS FOR TRACTS.—Mrs. Barre, 23, Grovedale-road, Upper Holloway, N.; Miss Barre, 23, Grovedale-road, Upper Holloway, N.; Miss M. Vickers, 18, Balfour-road, Highbury New-park; Eliza Roberts, 14, Trafalgar-row, Truro, Cornwall; R. Sidebottom, care of W. Lymson, Winton-street, Ashton-under-Lyne; W. White, 20, Petter-street, Gravesend, Kent; Miss A. E. Biggs, Tunstall Rectory, Hull; J. Jackson, Ottringham, Hull;

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most important that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

MR. W. FORBES has concluded a Gospel Temperance Mission in Stirling. Although the weather was most unfavourable, good audiences assembled, and a number of notorious drunkards were induced to take the pledge.

A TEMPERANCE movement is on foot in New England among the proprietors of mills and factories, taking the ground which some have long occupied, namely, to employ no operatives or labourers except total abstainers.

WEEK OF UNIVERSAL PRAYER,

JANUARY 5—10, 1885.

STEINWAY HALL, PORTMAN SQUARE, W.

Evangelical Alliance Meetings at Steinway Hall, Lower Seymour-street, Portman-square; 11.30 each morning.

Monday, Jan. 5.—"Praise and Thanksgiving." Chairman—Sir W. Muir; Address by Rev. H. W. Webb-Peploe, St. Paul's, Onslow-square.

Tuesday, Jan. 6.—"Humiliation and Confession." Chairman—Mr. Donald Matheson; Address by Rev. Donald Macleod, Scotch Church, Pond-street, S.W.

Wednesday, Jan. 7.—"Prayer for the Church of Christ." Chairman—Colonel Puget; Address by Rev. Archibald G. Brown, East London Tabernacle.

Thursday, Jan. 8.—"Prayer for Families and Instructors of Youth." Chairman—Mr. George Williams; Address by Rev. Frederic Greeves, President of Wesleyan Conference.

Friday, Jan. 9.—"For the Nations." Chairman—Sir W. McArthur; Address by Rev. E. A. Stuart, St. James', Holloway.

Saturday, Jan. 10.—"For Missions, Home and Foreign." Chairman—Mr. J. H. Fordham; Address by Rev. Bishop Taylor, of the Moravian Church.

SOUTH LONDON MEETINGS.

The South London Branch of the Alliance have arranged for meetings daily during the week:—

Monday, at 7, Metropolitan Tabernacle, Rev. J. A. Spurgeon; Tuesday, at 7.30, Lecture Hall, Wesleyan Chapel, Brixton-hill, Rev. Hugh Price Hughes; Wednesday, at 7.30, Lecture Hall, Presbyterian Church, Clapham-road, Rev. D. McEwan, D.D.; Thursday, at 7.30, Lecture Hall, Denmark-place Chapel, Cold Harbour-lane, Rev. J. Reid Howatt to preside; Address by Mr. A. J. Arnold; Friday, at 7.30, the Schoolroom, St. Matthew's, Church-road, Brixton, Rev. N. A. Garland, M.A.; Saturday, 7.30, the Schoolroom, York-street Chapel, Walworth, Rev. P. J. Turquand.

CENTENARY HALL, BISHOPSGATE STREET, E.C.

Twelve to two (with interval of five minutes between hours).

Monday, 12 to 1, Praise Meeting, Mr. J. H. Tritton; 1 to 2, Rev. W. H. Aitken.

Tuesday, 12 to 1, Rev. R. Roberts, City-road; 1 to 2, Rev. W. Wright, D.D.

Wednesday, 12 to 1, Rev. Charles Graham; 1 to 2, Rev. Hugh Price Hughes.

Thursday, 12 to 1, Rev. E. A. Stuart; 1 to 2, Rev. Archibald G. Brown.

Friday, 12 to 1, Foreign Missions, Rev. H. Grattan Guinness, Messrs. Stanley Smith, C. T. Studd, &c.; 1 to 2, Mr. Eugene Stock and Rev. A. D. Shaw.

Saturday, 12 to 1, Home Missions, Mr. Hugh Matheson and Rev. T. J. Madden; 1 to 2, Rev. R. Dawson, Mr. George Holland, &c.

Among the numerous other meetings to be held in various parts of the Metropolis, the following may be specially mentioned:—

Exeter Hall (arranged by the Young Men's Christian Association), daily (Saturday excepted) at 1 p.m.

Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, daily. Mornings at 11, and evenings at 7 o'clock.

St. Paul's, Onslow-square (Church-room), daily at 5 p.m., but on Saturday at 7.30 p.m.

Conference Hall, Eccleston-square, daily (Saturday excepted) at 11.30 and 8.

Powis Hall, Powis-gardens, Talbot-road, Westbourne-park, Thursday, Jan. 8, at 7.30. Rev. Henry E. Brooke.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR CARDS.—Sir,—May I ask the favour of some of your readers sending me their spare Christmas and New Year cards, with which I make scrap-books for the children of the Medical Missions and the Jewish refuges.

EDITH BINSTEED.

60, Shooters-hill-road, Blackheath, S.E.

Forthcoming Meetings.

EVANGELISTIC.

THE EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send Evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

THE IRISH EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send Evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

THE METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE EVANGELISTS' ASSOCIATION will send lay preachers and Evangelists to any chapel or hall of any Evangelical denomination in London. Apply Hon. Sec., 30, Surrey-square, S.E.

THE CHILDREN'S EVANGELISTIC MISSION will send evangelists to any part of Great Britain to conduct Missions for children and young people No charge. Apply T. Eyres, Hon. Sec., 253, Southampton-street, Camberwell, S.E.

THE EVANGELISTIC VILLAGE MISSION sends evangelists to country towns and villages to conduct Missions or to take charge of chapels during illness or change of pastor. Address Mr. G. D. Shipley, The Manse, Breachwood-green, Welwyn, Herts.

REV. W. H. AITKEN.—January 4—11, Stagsden, near Bedford; 18th to February 2, St. Bride's, Manchester; 8th to 20th, St. Stephen's, Hampstead; 22nd to March 9, Parish Church, Marylebone; 15th to 30, St. Paul's, Burslem; April 12 to 27, Eaton Chapel, S.W.

MESSRS. FULLERTON AND SMITH.—January 11, and onwards, Weston-super-Mare; February 1, and onwards, Exeter and district; March, Folkestone; April, Southampton; May, Huddersfield.

MESSRS. EDWARD HURDITCH AND F. C. SPURR.—January 4 to 9, Chippenham; 11th to 25th, Melksham; 28th to February 6, Bishop's Teignton; 8th to 22nd, Gunnislake, Cornwall; 24th to March 8, St. Ives; 10th to 23rd, St. Agnes; 24th to April 5, Wadebridge, Cornwall; 12th to 26th, Falmouth.

MR. W. SPENCER WALTON.—January 1, Chislehurst; 2nd to 7th, Godalming; 8th, Hampstead; 9th, Brixton-hill; 12th to 27th, Portsea; 28th, Beckenham.

MR. J. M. SCROGGIE.—January, Edinburgh; February, Greenock; March, Dunfermline; April, Blackheath.

MR. JAS. J. SCROGGIE.—January 4—9, Watford; 11—16, Bushey; Sunday, 18, Drill Hall, South Norwood.

MR. F. E. MARSH.—January 4 to 25, Forest Gate, E.; 12th to 16th, Exeter Hall (noon meeting); Sunday afternoons in January, at 3 o'clock, Theatre, Stratford, E.; February 1 to 22, Whithorn, N.B.; March 22 to April 12, Kilbarchan, N.B.

CORNELIUS SMITH, converted Gipsy, of Leytonstone, Essex, and his wife, are open to receive invitations to conduct Missions or special services.

STEPNEY MEETING HOUSE.—Mrs. G. S. Reaney gives an address every Sunday at 3 p.m.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.—Mr. G. Banaster, Greenwich, December 29 to January 5; Edgbaston, 12th to 19th; Mr. W. F. Seagrove, Barnsbury Chapel, January 12 to 26.

SOUTH LONDON EVANGELISTIC CHOIR.—Mondays, Jan. 5 and 19, practice at Lothian-road Chapel, Camberwell New-road, 7.30 p.m.; Jan. 6, 7, 8, and 9, Pear-street Mission Hall (Mr. Owen's), Strutton-ground, Westminster, 7.30 p.m.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DR. ADOLPH SAPHIR.—Lectures on "Philippians," Belgrave Presbyterian Church, Halkin-street West, Belgrave-square, on Sundays, at 11 a.m.

KINGSLAND INSTITUTE FOR WORKING GIRLS, Ridley-road, Dalston.—Workers' meeting, Friday, January 2, at 3 p.m. Tea and coffee.

Y.W.C.A., 19, PATSHULL-ROAD, Kentish Town, N.W.—Evening classes every night (except Saturday), at 8.30; and Sunday, Bible class at 3.30.

UPPER NORWOOD, Stafford House, Tudor-road.—Drawing-room meeting, at 3 p.m., every Thursday. A young women's meeting on the same day at 8 p.m.

HOUSE OF REST, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn-park, N.W. Friday, January 2, All-day meetings, from 10.30 a.m. to 9 p.m. At 3 p.m., Rev. J. Denham Smith on "The Day-Dawn." Refreshments at 1 and 5 p.m.

MEETINGS FOR THE DEEPENING OF SPIRITUAL LIFE, Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road.—Jan. 2, "Set your hearts . . . this day" (Deut. xxxii. 46; Dan x. 12), Rev. J. Gosset Tanner; 9th, "How doubt is solved" (Ps. lxxiii.), Rev. S. D. Fox.

STRANGERS' REST, 163, St. George-street, Ratcliff-highway E.—Monthly meeting for workers, Friday, January 2. Tea at 6; meeting at 6.45. Addresses by Messrs. R. J. Landale, Stanley P. Smith, and C. T. Studd, of the China Inland Mission. Subject, "China and its Missions."

MILDMAY MISSION TO THE JEWS.—Annual meeting for praise and prayer, Monday, January 5, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, N., and brief accounts of the Mission will be given at both meetings. Rev. Frank H. White, Rev. Dr. Rosedale, Mr. Denham Smith, and Dr. Laseron are expected to address the meetings.

Y.M.C. ASSOCIATIONS.

61, GRACECHURCH-STREET, E.C.—New Year's reception by Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Tritton, Centenary Hall, postponed to Friday, January 6, at 6 p.m. Daily prayer meeting, 1.15 to 2 p.m. (Sat. excepted). Bible study in Isaiah each Tuesday, at 6.15 p.m. Youths, Wednesday, 31st inst., 6.30 p.m. Soldiers, each Friday, 7 p.m.

THE PRIORY, 198, Upper-street, Islington, N.—Thursday, January 1, 8.30 p.m., New Year's prayer meeting; Saturday, 3rd, 8 o'clock, Bible study; Sunday, 4th, 9.30 a.m., fellowship meeting; 3.15 p.m., special New Year's address, Mr. W. Edwyn Shipton; 8.15 p.m., evangelistic meeting; Wednesday, 6 to 10, anxious inquirers and strangers.

BURLINGTON HALL, 23, Savile-row, W.—New Year's services, Thursday evening, January 1, at 8.30, a short address by the Secretary, New Year's greetings by the members; Sunday, 4th, 3.15 p.m., evangelistic service, address by Rev. W. R. Mowll, M.A. Mission service, 7.30 p.m. Prayer meetings and classes as usual.

EXETER HALL.—Prayer meeting (Saturday excepted), 1 to 2 p.m. Meeting for Strangers, Monday, 8 p.m. Evangelistic meeting, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, 8 p.m. Bible readings by Rev. Dr. Morris (Church of England Parochial Mission), at the mid-day prayer meeting, from 1 to 2 o'clock; Thursday, January 1, "The Believer's Motto for 1885;" Friday, 2nd "The Believer's Home." Colonel Puget gives a Bible reading every Saturday night at 8. Valedictory meeting in connection with the departure of Messrs. Stanley Smith, C. Studd, and M. Beauchamp for China, January 8, 8 p.m.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

President, The Rt. Hon. the Earl of SHAFTESBURY, K.G.

ESTABLISHED 1822.

For the purpose of employing humble Christian men well versed in the Scriptures to visit and read the Bible from house to house throughout the country. The Scripture Readers are invariably placed under carefully selected Christian Superintendents, and are also employed by the Society in the large towns and cities, such as Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, &c., as City Missionaries, and visit all classes and denominations, where permitted so to do. Irish-speaking Readers are sent to Irish-speaking districts when required, but are now seldom or ever asked for. The work is carried on in a spirit of love, and not of controversy.

The Scripture Readers also visit amongst the Sailors in seaports and hold Bethel Meetings on board Ships, at hours not to interfere with the usual Public Services. The Society is supported by voluntary contributions.

OFFICES:

27, LOWER PEMBROKE STREET, DUBLIN;
AND 9, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

Full particulars, reports, &c., can be obtained post free on application to the Secretary, Capt. JAMES KEARNEY WHITE, or by the Proprietors of this paper.

NOTE.—Subscriptions or Donations may be sent to the above addresses, or will be received by the Proprietors of "THE CHRISTIAN."

Friends will please notice the exact title "Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland," and not "Irish Scripture Readers' Society."

JUST READY. PRICE ONE HALFPENNY.

THE JANUARY NUMBER OF

The Herald of Mercy.

A Monthly Messenger for Humble Homes.

With Full-Page Illustration and several smaller Engravings.

"A periodical which must contribute largely to the making of happy homes."—Edinburgh Daily Review.

"Originated by the late Duncan Matheson, it maintains all the characteristics imparted to it by that devoted evangelist."—Christian Leader.

"Especially well adapted to district visitors, and others engaged in religious work among the poor."
Literary World.

"Bright, cheerful, and instructive monthly for young or old."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

CONTENTS OF JANUARY NUMBER.

Brace, the Sailor Boy.
With full-page Illustration.

Forth into the Unknown Future.
A New Year's Poem. By FAIRLIE THORNTON, Author of "Work for Jesus."

Our Father's Care.

The Children's Page. (With Illustration.)
"STEER STRAIGHT FOR ME!"
"WHO WILL TAKE CARE OF ME?" A Poem. By FRANCES RIDLEY HAVERGAL.
A COMPANION'S PRAYER.

"Five for Two Farthings." By JAMES BOWKER. (With Illustration).

"Towards God's Gate." A Poem. By WM. LUFF.

Paddling and Praying.

Plain Questions. No. 1.

"WHAT THINK YE OF CHRIST?"

The Blood of Christ can do Everything!
Or, The Conversion of a Romish Priest. A True Story. Translated from the French. With Illustration.

Eight Copies Monthly (post free), for One Year 4s.;
Twelve Copies, 6s.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Price 1s. per dozen, post free; or 7s. 6d. per 100.

FAITH-HEALING:

TRUTH AND EXTRAVAGANCE.

BY J. F. B. TINLING, B.A.,

Minister of the Congregational Church, Eastbourne.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

VERY SUITABLE FOR A NEW YEAR'S GIFT.

THE SCHOOL OF LIFE:

LIFE PICTURES FROM THE BOOK OF JONAH.

BY REV. OTTO FUNCKE.

Handsomely bound, Crown 8vo., 3s.; or sent Post Free from the Publishers to any address for 2s. 4d.

"The author is one of the thoroughly evangelical school, and writes in a vivacious, suggestive, and telling style. The volume does not profess to be a 'scholarly exposition' of the Book of Jonah, but only a series of experimental and practical lessons drawn from its historical parts, and applied to everyday life. Read from this standpoint it will be found to be a helpful and original book, well worthy of careful reading and prayerful consideration."—The Christian.

"One of the very best books on Jonah yet published. We are not surprised to learn that his work has passed through six large editions in the original—he is so fresh, vigorous, experimental, and practical in his treatment of the subject. He is most successful in showing how much teaching there is the old world story for us to whom the ends of the world have come."
Literary World.

KINGSLEY & CO., 49, BEDFORD-STREET, W.C.

"The Bitter Cry of Outcast London."
"The Housing of the Working Classes."

AN EFFECTUAL REMEDY.

MEMORIAL BUILDING SOCIETY.

The Oldest English Church Building Society.

ESTABLISHED 1881.

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

The Church of England Temperance Permanent Benefit Building Society,

Promoted by some of the Speakers at the 21st Anniversary Festival of the Church of England Temperance Society to commemorate that important event, and to provide an effectual remedy for the alleviation, without pauperization, of the Working Classes, thus aiding in providing them with their own dwelling-houses, and, at the same time, permanently consolidating the labours of the Temperance Reformer.

The terms are exceptionally reasonable—for example, £100 may be borrowed, and re-paid by instalments of from 14s. 9d. to £1 18s. 8d. per month (equivalent, in the first case, to about 3s. only per week).

Shares £25 each, payable, either in one sum, or by instalments of 5s. per month, carrying interest at £4 per cent. per annum.

Deposits of any amount (from 5s. upwards) received, and interest at £4 per cent. paid thereon.

Prospectuses on application to the Head Offices, 50, Bedford-row; or to the Solicitors, Messrs. Todd, Dennes, & Lamb, 22, Chancery-lane, London, W.C.

WEAVER'S LEAFLETS.

A Series of 64 Two-page Tracts neatly printed on coloured paper.

Price 6d. per packet of 96, post-free.

1,000 Copies of "RICHARD WEAVER'S LEAFLETS" may be had for 4s. on application, direct to the Publishers, not carriage paid.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Tinted Covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s.

BIBLE READINGS ON THE GOSPEL OF MARK.

Suitable as a Handbook and Help for Bible Classes, Lay Preachers, and Evangelists.

BY

HENRY THORNE,

Travelling Secretary for the English National Committee of the Y.C.M.A.

With beautiful Map of Palestine, showing the localities referred to.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

IN CLOTH, ONE SHILLING.

A BRIEF MEMOIR

OF THE LATE

DANIEL COOPER,

WITH SOME ACCOUNT OF

HIS LIFE WORK.

BY J. M. WEYLLAND,

Author of "The Man with the Book."

With Introduction by George Williams, Esq.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEW METHODIST WEEKLY JOURNAL.

On 1st January, 1885, will appear

THE METHODIST TIMES.

A Journal of Religious and Social Movement.

EDITED BY THE

REV. HUGH PRICE HUGHES, M.A.

EVERY THURSDAY. ONE PENNY

Publishing Office: 125, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C

The Spectator says:—

"We observe that with the New Year the Wesleyans are to issue a weekly penny paper, which is to be edited by the Rev. Hugh Price Hughes. and to be called the Methodist Times. From the programme which has been put forth, we should expect it to take very comprehensive ground, and not to be likely to fulfil Mr. Disraeli's hopes of Wesleyanism as a great Conservative force. The paper will be, we suppose, in the main, a religious organ, but will 'unhesitatingly recognise the vast and inevitable results of the constitutional revolution which Mr. Gladstone and Lord Salisbury have combined to carry out.' 'The relation of Methodism to the new Democracy,' it says, 'is a question of incalculable importance.' 'While hostile, like John Wesley, to the political establishment of religion, and prompt to expose and condemn all ecclesiastical oppression, it [the new paper] will be ever ready to applaud all that is spiritual and Christian in the Established Churches of England and Scotland.' That is a programme which promises some breadth of view, though, for our own parts, we hope the Methodist Times will 'applaud' Christian work of any kind as little as possible, however much it may enter into it, and however much it may learn from it. Already in the Press we have too much 'applause' and too little sympathy. The staff of the Methodist Times promises well in culture, learning, and high purpose."

An EASY BOOT the BEST PROMOTER of HEALTH.

This Desideratum is attained in

HALL & SONS' "PANNUS CORIUM,"

which, having none of the Drawing Qualities of Leather, and always preserving their softness, stamp them as the EASIEST BOOT in the WORLD.—HALL & SONS, Patentees, 57, Bishopsgate, E.C., 6, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.; 5, Stoke Newington-road, N.

ANNUAL SALE OF OVER HALF A MILLION.

McCALL'S

PAYSANDU OX TONGUES.

A DELICACY FOR BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, OR SUPPER,

TO BE HAD AT ALL GROCERS.

GIFT BOOKS SUITABLE FOR THE PRESENT SEASON.

THE LARGE TYPE QUARTO EDITION OF

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS. Containing 441 Pieces. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 16s. 6d. In Morocco, gilt edges, 30s.

"Would form a nice present for a musical friend. Every organist should have it."—Christian Progress.

FOXE'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. Handsomely bound, 1,083 pages. With Twelve full-page Illustrations. Price 10s. 6d.

"A noble edition of a noble book."—Christian Leader.

THE TABERNACLE, THE PRIESTHOOD, AND THE OFFERINGS. By Henry W. Soltau. With Four Beautiful Coloured Illustrations and numerous smaller Engravings. Cloth boards, 5s.; Presentation Edition, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 6s.; Cheap Edition, without coloured plates, tinted covers, 3s.

"Of this work we can speak very highly. . . . Rich in evangelical teaching."
Christian Age.

FORTY-FIFTH THOUSAND.

DUNCAN MATHESON. The Scottish Evangelist. By Rev. J. Macpherson. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We are right glad to see so worthy a memorial of so worthy a man."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, in The Sword and Trowel.

SECOND EDITION.

HENRY MOORHOUSE. The English Evangelist. By Rev. J. Macpherson. With lithographic portrait. Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"A well-written account of a fruitful life, which we commend to the earnest study of all."—Footsteps of Truth.

BIBLE READINGS. By Henry Moorhouse. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"Every page is full of thought, expressed in words that tell of the Author's earnest and devout spirit."—Lay Preacher.

NOTES FOR BIBLE READINGS. A collection of over Six Hundred Subjects, carefully compiled and arranged. By S. R. Briggs and John H. Elliott. Suitable for Bible Readings, Sabbath School Lessons, &c. Tinted covers, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.

"This is a book which every Bible student should possess."—Christian Progress.

P. P. BLISS: His Life and Work. Edited by Major Whittle and Rev. W. Guest. Cloth extra, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"A most interesting and invaluable book, both for the young and the aged."
Midland Gazette.

CHRIST LIFTED UP. Meditations on the Death, Resurrection, and Ascension of our Lord Jesus Christ. By Rev. Robert Gilchrist. Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"It is quite refreshing to turn to Mr. Gilchrist's profitable meditations on the crucifixion."—The Record.

CHRIST AND THE SCRIPTURES. The Living Word and the Written Word. By Rev. Adolph Saphir, D.D., B.A. Cloth extra, 3s.; with gilt edges, 3s. 6d. Cheap edition, tinted covers, 1s.; cloth neat, 1s. 6d.

"It is the old truths to which we listen; but the old truths clothed in a living language, set in new lights, and drawn out in fresh applications."—Weekly Review.

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES. In order to Abiding Communion with God. Also Suggestions for Bible Readings and Study. By Dr. J. Anderson, Graduate of King's College, Aberdeen, and M.R.C.S. London. Second Edition. Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.

"A very valuable work, in which attention is drawn to the necessity for quiet, thoughtful Bible reading, as a means of promoting abiding communion with God."
The Rock.

◆

BY D. L. MOODY.

GRACE, PRAYER, AND WORK. A Volume suitable for Presentation or for the Library, containing

SOVEREIGN GRACE,
PREVAILING PRAYER, and
"TO THE WORK! TO THE WORK!"

Specially printed and bound together in one volume, Roxburgh binding, 5s.

CONVERSION, SERVICE, AND GLORY. A Volume suitable for Presentation or for the Library, containing

THE WAY TO GOD,
POWER FROM ON HIGH, and HEAVEN.

Specially printed and bound together in one volume, Roxburgh binding, 5s.

BY ANNA SHIPTON.

THE BROOK IN THE WAY. Hymns and Poems illustrative of the Christian Life. Elegantly bound in cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"A string of pearls such as a true Christian only could give us."
Evangelical Christendom.

WHISPERS IN THE PALMS. A Volume of Hymns and Poetic Meditations. Elegantly bound in cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"The pieces are more than a hundred in number; and many of them are very touching and beautiful."—Christian World.

WAYMARKS OF MY PILGRIMAGE. A Volume of 79 Original Poems. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"Those who prize Anna Shipton's writings will be glad to obtain this volume. A trustful, loving spirit breathes through the verses."—The Friend.

THE SURE MERCIES OF DAVID; or, God's Dealings in the Sanctuary. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 4s. 6d.

"The 'Sure Mercies of David' is a very valuable book. It sets forth most beautifully the rich blessings which are treasured up in Christ for the believer."
Christian Era.

Cheap Edition, cloth, 2s. 6d.

◆

Just Published. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

BIRDS OF THE BIBLE. Chats with the Children about Bible Birds. By James Bowker, F.R.G.S.I. With very attractive Coloured Frontispiece, and Twenty-nine other Illustrations. Beautifully printed on toned paper, with carmine Borders. An elegant Gift Book.

THE 5S. EDITION OF CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE to the Old and New Testaments. The special feature of this Edition, in addition to its extreme cheapness, is the New Translation of the Proper Names in the Old and New Testaments, with their meanings in the Original Languages. By A Competent Scholar. This portion is strictly copyright, and confined to Morgan and Scott's Edition.

PRESENTATION EDITION, handsomely bound in cloth, 7s. 6d.
LIBRARY EDITION, half bound in leather, 10s. 6d.
ILLUSTRATED EDITION, with Twelve exquisite Steel-plate Engravings, and Six Beautiful Coloured Maps, 10s. 6d.

THE HERALD OF MERCY. Volume for 1884. Attractively bound. Price 1s. Contains telling articles, stirring narratives, choice extracts, poetry, children's pages, &c. With Eighty-nine Illustrations.

"We have been both surprised and delighted with the wealth of its attractive pages."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

◆

BY REV. DR. PENTECOST.

"OUT OF EGYPT." A Series of Addresses and Bible Readings on the Exodus of Israel, and its Spiritual Lessons. Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth limp, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

Parchment binding (suitable for Presents), 5s.

"Dr. Pentecost's power as a teacher and expositor of the Word is anew displayed in these Addresses."—Word and Work.

EIGHTH EDITION.

"IN THE VOLUME OF THE BOOK;" or, The Profit and Pleasure of Bible Study. With Introduction by Revs. Joseph Cook and J. H. Vincent, D.D. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth limp, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We have read this work with unusual pleasure. It is full of healthy thinking."
Baptist Magazine.

◆

CHOICE SAYINGS. Being Notes of Exposition of the Scriptures. By Robert C. Chapman. Cloth limp, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.; morocco, gilt edges, 3s.

"We expect to gather many discourses while studying this little book. A dew from heaven rests upon Mr. Chapman's expositions."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon in The Sword and Trowel.

THE CHRISTIAN CHOIR. A Quarto Volume of Sacred Choruses and Duets. By Ira D. Sankey and James McGranahan. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"It is as fine a collection of Sacred Airs as can anywhere be found."
Oldham Chronicle.

Either in Old Notation or Tonic Sol-fa.

THE GOSPEL MALE CHORUS BOOK. A collection of New Sacred Part Songs, Choruses and Anthems, written and arranged expressly for Male Voices. By James McGranahan. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth limp, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We can testify from personal hearing that these choruses are well harmonized and excellently adapted for the rich effect of men's concerted voices."
Literary World.

Either in Old Notation or Tonic Sol-fa.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

GIFT BOOKS SUITABLE for the PRESENT SEASON.

JOHN WESLEY: His Life and Times. By JOHN W. KIRTON, LL.D., author of "Buy Your Own Cherries," &c. With Portrait. 128 pages, crown 8vo., cloth, limp, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"The spirit of a great reformer's life has seldom been presented in a form at once so brief and lively. Every page sparkles with edifying anecdote. . . . Ought to have a sale of many thousands."—Christian Leader.

GEORGE WHITEFIELD: His Life and Times. By J. R. ANDREWS, author of "The Life of Oliver Cromwell." With Portrait. 128 pages, crown 8vo., cloth, limp, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"A well-pointed and well-told life of this extraordinary man of God; deserves a world-wide circulation, and will probably be read by thousands."

Baptist Messenger.

The above two books are also published in One Volume under the following title:—

WESLEY AND WHITEFIELD. The two great Evangelists of the last century. 256 pages, crown 8vo. With portraits of Wesley and Whitefield. Cloth, limp, 1s. 6d.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

◆

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS. Presentation Editions in Morocco binding.

MUSIC AND WORDS.

	Old Notation.	s.	d.
5f.	Morocco, gilt edges	8	6
6f.	,, flexible, kid-lined, gilt edges	12	6
	Smaller Type.
4h.	Morocco, gilt edges	5	6
5h.	,, flexible, kid-lined, gilt edges	8	6
	Tonic Sol-fa.
5g.	Morocco, gilt edges	8	6

WORDS ONLY.

	Medium Type.	s.	d.
3c.	Morocco, gilt edges	2	6
4c.	,, yapped, kid-lined, gilt edges	4	6
	Extra Large Type.
4e.	Morocco, gilt edges	5	6
5e.	,, flexible, kid-lined, gilt edges	8	6
	Without rule round pages.
9e.	Morocco, gilt edges	4	6

A COMPLETE LIST of all the Editions of "SONGS OF SOLOS," with specimens of the various sizes of type, sent free, on application.

THE GOSPEL IN LEVITICUS: Types and Foreshadowings of the Great Redemption. By Rev. JAMES FLEMING, D.D. Cloth bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"There is much wholesome spiritual food in this book, and no Christian can read it without being greatly refreshed in soul."—Fountain.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MOSES AS SEEN IN THE TABERNACLE AND ITS VARIOUS OFFERINGS. By Rev. G. RODGERS. With Frontispiece. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

"A very spiritual as well as instructive little book."

Churchman s Monthly Penny Magazine.

LITTLE BUTTERCUP AND JENNY WREN. A Book for Children. Cloth extra, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

By means of this attractive little story, the Authoress conveys to her youthful readers most impressive and precious lessons of contentment.

JOE WITLESS. A Book for Boys. By E. J. HUNTER. With Seven Illustrations. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.: cloth extra, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

We can cordially recommend the book as calculated to arrest the attention and impress the conscience of the most thoughtless of our youth."

Sword and Trowel.

THE BRISTOL ORPHAN HOUSES. The rise and progress of the Orphan Homes, Ashley Down, Bristol, under the direction of Mr. George Müller. With Five Illustrations of the Homes. By W. ELFE TAYLER. Paper covers, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"A most full and complete narrative is given of the great work, which has been in itself and in its results the reward of Mr. Müller's faith, and the answer to his prayers."—The Record.

LIFE, WARFARE, AND VICTORY. Specially written for the Help and Guidance of Young Christians. By Major D. W. WHITTLE. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"A valuable aid to Bible study and to Christian living."—Word and Work.

PUNROOTY; or, The Gospel winning its way among the Women of India. By CLARA M. S. LOW. Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

"A deeply interesting account of Mission work among the women of India."

Fountain.

BOGATZKY'S GOLDEN TREASURY OF TEXTS FOR THE CHILDREN OF GOD. A Series of Scripture Texts and Meditations for every Day in the Year. Cheap Edition. Cloth back, 2s.; Toned Paper, Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d. Presentation Editions.—Leather Back, Leatherette Sides, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d. Whole bound in Leather, Gilt Edges, 5s.

"BOGATZKY'S GOLDEN TREASURY" has been translated into nearly all European languages, and has obtained an enormous circulation in Germany and Great Britain. In this country very few books except the 'Pilgrim's Progress' have been so largely circulated or so widely read."

BY REV. J. CULROSS, D.D., M.A.

"BEHOLD, I STAND AT THE DOOR AND KNOCK." Christ's Message to the Church at Laodicea. With Chromo-Lithographic Frontispiece. Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d. CHEAP EDITION. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.

"All who admire Dr. Culross' insight, his delicacy of perception, his curious felicity of language, his broad and tender sympathies, his grasp of great truths, will welcome this volume, and hope for like expositions of the preceding six Epistles."—The Freeman.

"THY FIRST LOVE." Christ's Message to the Church at Ephesus. With Chromo-Lithographic Frontispiece. Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 2s. 6d.

"This work is instructive, suggestive, full of spiritual force, and at the same time strong and manly."—Sunday School Chronicle.

JOHN, WHOM JESUS LOVED. A Sketch of the Character, Writing, Theology, and Influence of the Beloved Disciple. Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 3s. 6d.

"It is altogether without reserve that we commend the work before us. It is not a bottle of milk for babes, but a portion of meat for men. A half-dozen readings will only make it more interesting to those who meditate upon what they read."—Rev. C. H. SPURGEON, in The Sword and Trowel.

◆

REVIVAL AND REVIVAL WORK. A Record of the Labours of D. L. Moody and I. D. Sankey, and other Evangelists. By Rev. JOHN MACPHERSON. Cloth, bevelled boards, 4s. 6d.; cloth limp, 2s. 6d.

"We have no hesitation in speaking approvingly of this work. It is a calm and thoughtful history of a great movement. Some of these stories of answers to prayer, of individual conversions, of churches aroused and made fruitful, are indeed wonderful."—The King's Highway.

READINGS FOR THE SICK ROOM. For Instruction, Counsel, and Comfort, in the Hours of Weakness and Sufferings. By ALEXANDER W. WALLACE, M.D. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; cloth, antique, bevelled boards, 2s.

"There is no human composition better adapted than this for giving to the afflicted, and we believe it will be circulated by tens of thousands."

British Herald.

BIBLE READINGS ON THE GOSPEL OF MARK. Suitable as a handbook and help for Bible-classes, Lay-preachers, and Evangelists. By HENRY THORNE, Travelling Secretary for the English National Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; with a coloured Map of Palestine, cloth boards, 2s.

"An admirable series of outline lessons, which cannot fail to prove of great service to Sunday-school teachers."—Rock.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF JOHN B. GOUGH. Revised by himself. With Portrait, View of his Residence in Massachusetts, and two other Illustrations. Best Edition, on toned paper, cloth boards, 3s. 6d. Cheap Edition, tinted covers, 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

"One of the most interesting and instructive biographies ever written."

Christian Week.

DOROTHEA TRÜDEL; OR, THE PRAYER OF FAITH. A Record of the Faith-Healing at Männedorf, from 1851 to 1881. WITH ENGRAVED PORTRAIT. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; cloth extra, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"A touching narrative of simple faith and devoted piety."

Christian World.

MARY LYON. Recollections of a Noble Woman. By FIDELIA FISKE. Tinted Covers, 1s. Cloth Boards, 1s. 6d.

"It is a book well fitted to stir up to greater zeal and activity in the Christian cause in whatever sphere God enables us to work."—Christian Work.

FIDELIA FISKE. The Story of a Consecrated Life. By Rev. W. GUEST. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Elegant suitable for presentation, 3s. 6d.

"Here is truth stranger and more thrilling than fiction, the incidents of a missionary career which are to the glory of God and of His truth."

Sword and Trowel.

THE CONVERSION OF CHILDREN. By Rev. E. P. HAMMOND, M.A. Tinted Covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"We devoutly wish that by some means or other a copy could be placed in the hands of every Sunday-school superintendent and every pastor of a church."

Penuel.

◆

BY D. L. MOODY.

HEAVEN, (42nd Thousand.) Its Hopes; Its Inhabitants; Its Riches; Its Rewards. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

"Practical, full of anecdotes and point, and in many circles calculated to be of much service."—The Friend.

THE FAITHFUL SAYING. A Series of Addresses. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

"Vigorous, piquant, terribly earnest appeals to the conscience."

The Fountain.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

ON

CONSUMPTION,

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS,

AND ALL OTHER

CHEST DISEASES.

READ

MR. CONGREVE'S NEW WORK,

SIXPENCE, POST FREE,

Or Large Edition (cloth), for 1s. 3d.

TWELFTH SERIES

OF WEEKLY CASES.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "The Christian," WHO MAY BE personally or relatively INTERESTED IN THIS MATTER.

Mr. Congreve will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED BEFORE, in this Journal EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

BRONCHO-PHTHISIS—CASE of Mrs. EMILY NAISH, PECKHAM.

This patient came to me first in June of last year. Notes of the case:—"Two brothers and cousins had died of consumption. She had never gathered strength since her last child was born (two and a half years ago), but gradually failed and lost flesh. Constant sore throat, severe cough and expectoration, pains in the chest and short breathing were urgent symptoms now. (It should be mentioned that the doctors who had attended her for two years had pronounced "one lung diseased.")

The patient derived much benefit, but for some reason unexplained went to the Brompton Hospital. Attended there for some time, until she became much worse. She then returned to me, and was seen by Dr. Brown in March of this year. The case pronounced to be broncho-phthisis, especially the right lung affected.

After this I saw her April 10, and found her a great deal better,—not like the same person. At a consultation in May she was found to be nearly well.

In August Mrs. N. called to thank me, and afterwards wrote me a letter, dated Aug. 30, in which she says:—

"When I came to you a few months ago I was very ill; all my friends thought I should never be well again, but, under God's blessing, your medicine has restored me to perfect health. I took it for some time before I felt much better, but suddenly I took a turn, and soon felt like a new creature. I daily gained health and strength; my baby, too [born since her last visit in May], which I hardly had hoped would live, is, through your means, strong and healthy.—Yours very gratefully, E. Naish, Woodbine-terrace, Copeland-road, Peckham."

NOTE.—Days of Consultation.—TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY MORNINGS ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days.

AN ATTRACTIVE WEDDING GIFT.

Marriage and Home.

A Volume of Kindly Counsels to the Newly-Married.

Beautifully bound in White and Gold, 2s. 6d.

"One of the daintiest little volumes we have seen for a long time; done up in white, crimson, and gold, most tastefully printed, and full of wise counsel and Christian teaching."—Freeman.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Gold Medal, Calcutta Exhibition, 1884.

VIEW OF THE MANUFACTORY. BRISTOL.

Fry's Cocoa

ASK FOR

FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT

absolutely Pure Cocoa only.

NINETEEN PRIZE MEDALS awarded to J. S. FRY & SONS.

Allen & Hanburys' "Perfected" COD-LIVER OIL

"Is as nearly tasteless as Cod Liver Oil can be."—Lancet.

"No nauseous eructations follow after it is swallowed."—Medical Press.

It can be borne and digested by the most delicate; is the only oil which does not "repeat," and for these reasons the most efficacious kind in use. In capsuled bottles only, at 1s. 4d., 2s. 6d., 4s. 9d., and 9s. Sold everywhere.

Allen & Hanburys, Plough-ct., Lombard-st., London.

JUST PUBLISHED. Price 1d.; 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE GOSPEL:

AS VARIOUSLY VIEWED

By New Testament Writers.

By G. F. TRENCH.

Reprinted from "The Christian."

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BOOKS FOR ENQUIRERS AND CONVERTS.

The Way of Life.

A Book for Enquirers. By Rev. Robert Boyd, D.D. Tinted Covers, 6d.; Cloth Boards, 1s.

"About fifteen years ago this little book attracted my notice. I read it with interest, and felt so much profited that I re-read it several times, and then circulated hundreds of copies among the soldiers during the American war. The number that then seemed blessed through reading the book has induced me to ask Messrs. Morgan & Scott to republish it, hoping that it may be the means of good in this country, as it has been in America."

D L Moody

All About Jesus.

Thoughts and Reflections on the Person and Work of Christ. By Alexander Dickson. This book was printed at the express desire of Mr. D. L. Moody. Tinted Covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, 2s. 6d.

"The volume sets forth Jesus very much in Scriptural language, for we have counted over 1340 passages of Holy Writ, chastely and lovingly interwoven in the discourses. Throughout, Jesus is the subject of delightful meditation, affection, and adoration."

The Methodist.

Addresses to Young Men.

By Rev. Daniel Baker. With Preface by D. L. Moody. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth neat, 1s. 6d.

"These discourses were designed to be of an awakening character. They were preached (in substance) in numerous revivals, and were blessed to the hopeful conversion of many precious souls, of whom some fifty or more have become ministers of the Gospel. May He who was pleased to bless these discourses when they came from the pulpit, bless them also now." Author's Preface.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WRIGHT & BUTLER'S LIMITED.

PATENT

OIL HEATING STOVES

13 YEARS CONTINUOUS AND INCREASING SALE

ABSOLUTELY WITHOUT SMOKE OR SMELL. THEY ARE FREE FROM DIRT AND ARE MANAGED WITH THE LEAST POSSIBLE TROUBLE. THEY ARE PERFECTLY PORTABLE. CAN BE MOVED FROM ONE ROOM TO ANOTHER. THEY GIVE OFF NO VAPOUR INJURIOUS TO EITHER VEGETABLE OR ANIMAL LIFE. THEY ARE THE BEST DESIGNED, MOST SUBSTANTIAL AND THOROUGHLY EFFICIENT, AND ECONOMICAL OIL STOVES MADE CAN BE HAD AT PRICES RANGING FROM 3/9 TO 7 POUNDS

INVALUABLE FOR HEATING GREENHOUSES BEDROOMS ETC

PARTICULARS AND PRICE LISTS FROM ANY IRONMONGER OR LAMP DEALER

"The Christian" will be sent by the Publishers post-free to any address in the United Kingdom, for 12 months, for 6s. 10d., including Double Numbers.
"The Christian" (weekly) and the HERALD OF MERCY (monthly) will be sent to the United States or Canada, for 12 months, for $2, which may be remitted by a Two-Dollar Bill.

The Christian:

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.] [REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER.

No. 780.] THURSDAY, JANUARY 8, 1885. [ONE PENNY, POST FREE, 1½d.

CONTENTS.

Signs of the Times 7
Poetry—Caleb at Gilgal 8
General Christian Service 8
A Striking Conversion 9
Conscience and Confession 9
Cheap Charity 10
More Lessons Learned in Italy 10
Mr. S. Smith on Social Reform 11
The "New Theology" 11
Poetry—Safe Home 11
For the Young 12
The City Mission 13
Religious Persecution in Germany .. 13
Christmas in the East-End 14
Proposed Christo-Jewish Conference 15
The New Year in Ratcliffe Highway .15
Notes and Comments 16
Mr. Denham Smith at Clapton Hall .18
True, Alas! 19
Evangelizing "On the Road" 19
An Apostolic Bishop 20
Episode of the Hampstead Mission .21
Mr. Moody in Toronto 21
A Sunday with Rev. E. P. Hammond .22
Music—Gathering Home 23
Poetry—In German Land 24
Workers at the Strangers' Rest 28

DISTRESS IN LONDON.

Special Notice during the Inclement Season of Winter.

MR. W. CATLIN, OF CLERKENWELL,

Is prepared to arrange for Exhibitions in Town or Country of

40 DISSOLVING VIEWS, "THE BITTER CRY OF OUTCAST LONDON,"

(Will send Collecting Cards or attend "Drawing-room Meetings")

TO ADVOCATE THE CLAIMS OF THE COW CROSS MISSION.

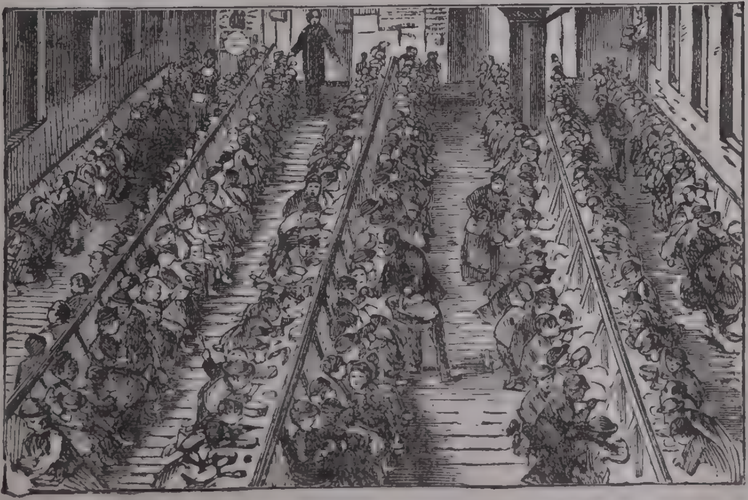
HALFPENNY DINNERS TO POOR CHILDREN IN CLERKENWELL.



Starving School Children.

The report of the Medical Officer of Health for Clerkenwell, just issued, states that: "30 per cent. of the parents in this parish are out of work, and that 40 per cent. of the children are sent to school without breakfast or dinner."

FUNDS ARE URGENTLY NEEDED.

Address WILLIAM CATLIN, Gen. Supt., 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, N.; or Office of THE CHRISTIAN.

N.B.—ANY ARTICLE OF FOOD OR CLOTHING THANKFULLY RECEIVED.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS,
&c., Whitechapel, E.

George Holland thankfully acknowledges receiving from India, £5; A. B., Clothing; F. M., £1; "Anonymous," a Parcel; A Friend, Warm Woollen things

The Infant Day Nursery. Free Ragged Day Schools. Toy Classes for Cheerless Children. Week Evening Classes for Big Boys and Girls. Classes and Meetings for Elder Girls and Young Women. Industrial Classes for Lads. Mission to Inebriate Women. Mothers' Meetings. Bible Classes for Men. Children's Services. Gospel Meetings in the Lodging Houses. Evangelistic Services. Feeding Hungry Children. Clothing the naked, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to George Holland, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

IRISH CHURCH MISSIONS TO ROMAN CATHOLICS.
JAN. 16, 1885.

The 36th Anniversary Prayer Meeting will be held in Exeter Hall on Friday, January 16, at 3.30 p.m. The Committee earnestly invite the co-operation of their friends in observance of this anniversary, and ask that prayer may be made for their guidance in the promotion and extension of this love and mercy throughout Ireland.

Horace W. Townsend,
Clerical Secretary.
11, Buckingham-street, London, W.C.

BETHESDA MISSION, Portsmouth, with which is incorporated the Portsea Island Town Mission. Established 1856.—Objects:—1. House-to-house visitation in the poorest districts for instruction in the Word of God. 2. The distribution of the Scriptures and simple Gospel Tracts. 3. To hold Mission Services, Cottage Meetings, and Sunday Schools. 4. To assist deserving poor and sick persons. 5. To give occasional free teas to the poorest classes, as a help to the ministry of the Gospel. The Mission is Evangelical and Unsectarian. Superintendent —Commander B. H. Key, Downham, St. Edward's-road, Southsea, who will gladly receive contributions for the work.

COW CROSS MISSION.—Gospel Services, Sadlers' Wells Theatre.—Glo'ster Hall, Clerkenwell, "Ragged London in centre." Dinners to destitute children, &c. Funds urgently needed.—William Catlin, General Superintendent, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville.

FAITH-HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. John Allen or his helpers. Sundays, 3 p.m., and Mondays, 7 p.m., Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney, London, E. Thursdays, 7 p.m., The Hall, 110, High-street, Shoreditch. Addresses, Testimony, and Anointing. Special: Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney. Fridays, 7 p.m., Baptism of the Holy Ghost and Power for Service.

CHRISTIAN MISSION AND RAGGED SCHOOLS, Pontymoil, near Pontypool, Mon. President, R. Cory, Esq., J.P., Cardiff.—Funds are urgently needed to carry on this Mission. The operations consist of Village Missions; Evangelistic Services; Open-air Meetings; Ragged School; Night School (for men employed at collieries, ironworks, &c.); Shorthand Classes; Temperance Meetings; Bible Readings; Cottage Meetings; Children's Services; House to House Visitation; Young Men's Meeting; Relief of Food and Clothing to the well-known deserving Poor.—P.O.O. made payable at Pontypool, Cheques crossed Bristol and West of England Bank, to Thomas M. Wintle, Hon. Supt.

GEE-STREET Christian Mission and Ragged School, Goswell-road, earnestly solicits donations to continue the good work of preaching, teaching the Gospel, temperance, and relieving deserving poor.—Bankers, Barclay & Co., 54, Lombard-street; Treasurer. Robert Baxter, Esq., 6, Victoria-street, Westminster; Hon. Secretary, Rudgley, 82, Wood-street, Cheapside.

£200 URGENTLY REQUIRED to complete the building of Mission Chapel and School, in very promising rural district near Enniskillen, Ireland. An appeal is now made to the readers of The Christian for assistance, local resources being exhausted. Contributions will be gratefully received and acknowledged by Mr. S. B. Humphreys, Fair View, Enniskillen, Ireland.

CRIPPLED BOYS' HOME, Kensington, W. President, the Earl of Shaftesbury. —This charity was instituted in 1865 to feed, clothe, educate on Christian principles, and teach a trade to crippled boys between 12 and 18 years of age, so that they may be able to support themselves on leaving the Home. Trades taught: Carpentering, tailoring, relief stamping, saddlery and harness work. 80 boys now in the Home; 100 boys can be accommodated, if funds allow. 300, after three years' training, are now gaining their own livelihood. Several friendless crippled boys waiting admission. Contributions urgently needed to pay £4,500 for building expenses.

H. R. Knipe, Hon. Sec

CAMDEN-ROAD CHAPEL.—Retirement of Rev. Francis Tucker, B.A.—The Farewell Meeting will be held on Thursday, January 15, 1885, when a Testimonial will be presented to Mr. Tucker. Several ministers and friends are expected to take part in the proceedings. Chair to be taken at 7 p.m.

THE DEEPENING of Spiritual Life.—Meetings will be held at Sunderland, the Lord willing, Feb. 3rd to 6th inclusive.—All information from J. W. Mounsey, Esq., The Limes, Sunderland.

LIVERPOOL. BETHSHAN Faith Healing Home, 161, Islington. Meetings for Holiness, Healing, and Testimony, Tuesdays, 3 p.m.; Thursdays, 7.30 p.m.

For further particulars, apply Miss Gibbs.

YOUNG LADIES' WESLEYAN COLLEGE
(PENSIONNAT EVANGELIQUE),
NIMES, SOUTH OF FRANCE.

This establishment, situated in one of the finest towns of the South of France, has been in existence for forty years, and has deservedly obtained a high reputation for its scholastic efficiency. It has trained 800 pupils, 200 of whom, before leaving, obtained the Government diploma. The premises, comprising an extensive garden, are the property of the French Methodist Conference. The moral and spiritual direction of the school is entrusted by the Conference to a minister who resides on the spot. The sanitary condition of France is now as good as ever, and the climate of Nimes is remarkably dry and healthy, the winter being always short, and the spring and autumn long and pleasant. Many delicate young ladies have found a residence at Nimes the means of invigorating their constitutions for life. Terms: Board and tuition for the scholastic year (10 months), £40, or with a separate bed-room, £50. The next term will commence at the beginning of January, 1885. Application for admission should be made to Paster O. Prunier, Principal and Chaplain, 1, Rue de Sauve, Nimes, France. Pastor Jules Guiton, Rue Thiers, St. Pierre lés Calais, and Pastor J. P. Cook, 16, Rue Demours, Paris, would be disposed to meet the young ladies at the station in Calais and in Paris, the two only places where they have to stop, so as to relieve them from any difficulty in travelling from Calais to Nimes.

FIVE SCHOLARSHIPS.

CAMDEN SCHOOL, BRIGHTON.

Principal:

MR. WILLIAM OLDING.

Erdington College,

Near Birmingham and Sutton Park. Most healthy position. Careful Biblical training. Resident Masters all Christian men. Number of Boarders doubled in about two years. The highest position in Birmingham or suburbs gained at the last Midsummer Examination, held by the College of Preceptors, besides many other successes in the Oxford Local Science and Art Department, October. Reference kindly allowed W. A. Southwell, Esq., Y.M.C.A., Cardiff.

FREDERICK W. W. HOWELL, Principal.

RESCUE WORK IN POPLAR.—Manor Cottage, Kersey-street, Poplar, E. Founded by Mrs. Wilkes, 1878. Treasurer, Henry Green, Esq., Blackwall, E. Miss Cooke, 68, Mildmay-park, will also receive contributions for this work of mercy. Mrs. Wilkes at home Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, to see friends and give information respecting this effort to seek and save the lost.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society of the National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, 25, Queen-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for help in aid of the poorer patients and their families. The smallest gifts in money or clothing will be thankfully acknowledged by the Committee.

THE UNITED DAILY PRAYER MEETING, hitherto held in the Royal Pavilion, Brighton, will be suspended during the Week of Prayer, and resumed at noon on Monday, the 12th January, in the Hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, 55, Old Steine. Visitors to Brighton are cordially invited.

SPECIAL PRAYER FOREIGN MISSIONS, Friday, 9th inst., 12 to 2, Centenary Hall, 17, Bishopsgate-street Within. Rev. Grattan Guinness, Messrs. Stanley Smith, C. T. Studd, Eugene Stock, Rev. A. D. Shaw, &c., will take part; also SPECIAL PRAYER HOME MISSIONS, Saturday, 10th inst., 12 to 2. Mr. Hugh Matheson (late Chairman, Messrs. Moody and Sankey's Committee), Rev. T. J. Madden (Church Pastoral Aid Society), Rev. Robert Dawson (Secretary, London City Mission), Mr. George Holland (George Yard Mission), &c., will take part. Friends interested in these Missions are earnestly requested to attend.—W. R. Hughman.

Educational.

WATERLOO HOUSE SCHOOL, Leamington.—Principal, the Rev. Arthur Sewell, M.A. (Author of "Daily Thoughts for Schoolboys"). Preparatory for public schools. Terms moderate.

EASTBOURNE OLD SCHOOL, The Gables, Eastbourne.—Head Master, D. Stroud, M.C.P.; Second Master, J. C. Morton, Esq., B.A. (Oxon.); Music Master, E. Redhead, Esq., Mus. Bac. (Oxon.); Art Master, S. Shelton, Esq., Royal Academy Exhibitor. Terms moderate and inclusive. References given to Christian parents. The next term will (D.V.) commence January 20th. A Christian Gentleman required as Junior Master.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES, Larkbeare, Exeter, Devon (for Resident Pupils only). Established 25 years. Miss Bamber and Miss Churton, assisted by an efficient staff of resident certificated teachers and visiting professors, offer every educational advantage to parents seeking a Christian training for their daughters. Pupils always accompanied to and from London. Unexceptionable references to parents of present pupils. In association with the above is Clarendon House, Topsham, offering the same educational advantages, with pure, bracing sea-air, especially adapted for girls of delicate habit.

CLARENCE HOUSE, Pellatt-grove, Wood-green.—Mrs. Silvester, assisted by efficient teachers and visiting professors, receives a few Boarders, to whom she offers educational advantages, with the comforts of a home and very careful training. References kindly permitted to Mr. R. C. Morgan, 12, Paternoster-buildings, and parents of pupils.

SEASIDE, Southport.—Superior School for Young Ladies. Conducted by a member of the Church of England (Evangelical), assisted by English and foreign governesses, and eminent visiting professors. Pupils prepared for Trinity College examinations.—Miss Poole, Eagley Bank, Southport. Referees, Rev. Canon Clarke, Southport, and Rev. John Burbidge, Everton-road, Liverpool.

BRISTOL BIBLICAL INSTITUTE. For Young Men desirous of being trained as Candidates for the Ministry or Town Missionaries.—Send a stamped envelope to Rev. P. Prescott, Coronation-road, Bristol.

CLAPHAM COMMON.—A Lady of much educational experience receives a limited number of young Ladies as Resident Pupils. Christian and refined influences, with careful mental culture. Special advantages for Modern Languages and accomplishments. High-class professors attend. Prospectus on application.—Alpha, care of Mr. Bachhoffner, Bookseller, High-street, Clapham, S.W.

MONTREUX, Switzerland.—Madame Dolmatoff. Christian home for young Ladies. French and German taught. Other branches of education if required. Reference, Rev. Denham Smith, 38, York-terrace, Regent's-park, London.

BATH.—Grosvenor College.—(Ladies.) Healthy suburban situation. English and foreign Governesses. Ten masters. Since 1879 two hundred and forty-five certificates gained. All candidates passed Cambridge Local, 1883. Four in Honours. Moderate inclusive terms. Vacancy for Governess-Student.

EDUCATION.—Fraulein von Grieshiem, Diez a.d. Lahn, near Ems, receives a limited number of pupils. Resident French and German governesses. Music, piano, violin, singing, painting. Lawn tennis. Highest references.

SOUTHDENE, Ramsgate.—Splendidly situated Home for delicate children requiring sea and country air, combined with educational advantages. Under the personal supervision of experienced Christian Lady. Prospectus on application. Terms moderate.

EDUCATION.—High-class School for Young Ladies desiring the advantage of Finishing Masters, certificated Governesses, and personal supervision, with home comforts. Terms moderate and inclusive. Highly recommended by parents and pupils, and Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.—Prospectus on application to Mrs. Hale, 1, Carlton-mansions, Clapham-rise, S.W.

"Balham, May 29, 1880.

"I am very reluctant to recommend schools, because I am not always able to judge of the interior arrangements; but in this case I have the utmost pleasure in standing as reference. I can highly commend Mrs. Hale, and have the greatest confidence in her capacity, management, and character, having known her for many years.

"C. H. Spurgeon."

SOUTHSEA.—A Clergyman is anxious to recommend a first-class School for a few girls, exclusively Gentlemen's Daughters, where his own daughters finished. Thorough teaching. Sound Christian training. Terms to fill one vacancy at Christmas, forty guineas per annum. —Rev. J. Johnson, Britwell Rectory, Watlington, Oxon.

HOLLAND HOUSE, Clarence-parade, Southsea.—School for the Daughters of Gentlemen. Special educational advantages, with home comforts and care. Indian charges received. References kindly permitted to the parents of present and former pupils. Prospectus on application to the Principal.

EDUCATION.—Two young Ladies can be received in a first-class School in London, on greatly reduced terms, to fill vacancies. Home comforts, good masters, and careful supervision. Most highly recommended by parents of pupils.—For address and prospectus apply to

G. A. N., 69, Southwark-bridge-road, S.E.

EDUCATION.—A Governess-Pupil required in a first-class School in London. Small premium required. Advantages: languages, and music.

Alpha, Dudley Library, 228, Clapham-road, S.W.

TO GODLY PARENTS.—The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, DELIGHTFULLY SITUATED FACING THE SEA on the South Coast, a short run from London, in which a thorough and first-class Education is given, based upon the teaching of the Holy Scriptures.

It is one of the few remaining schools in which the power of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ influences the hearts and conduct of the pupils.

The success, happiness, and training of the Boys have been so remarkable in this school that a BOOK OF TESTIMONIALS GIVEN BY THE PARENTS, together with the papers of Examinations passed and Honours gained, should be read to appreciate results so unusual. Two Vice-Chancellors have placed their wards as pupils in the school. Reference kindly permitted to Dr. Thorn, Paddington, London.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL for Little Boys, near Brighton. Locality healthy. Home comforts, Christian training. Special attention to delicate, backward boys. Separate beds. Visiting masters. Twenty guineas.—Lady Principal, Hamilton Lodge, Hurstpierpoint, Sussex.

THE OLD HALL SCHOOL,
WELLINGTON, SHROPSHIRE.
Principal: Dr. Cranage.

HASTINGS.—Wellington College for Ladies, 4, Wellington-square. Head Mistress, Miss De la Mare. Honours in the L.L.A. Examination for women. Science and other certificates. Pupils prepared for the local and higher examinations. Kindergarten department for young children. Vacancies for two boarders.—Prospectus on application to the Secretary, Rev. F. Leaver.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY TRAINING for Holy Orders at Theological College rates. Ayerst Hall, Cambridge, opened by the Vice-Chancellor, April 21, 1884. Principal—Rev. W. Ayerst, M.A., Hulsean and Norrisian Prizeman. Chaplain—Rev. J. Mayo, B.D. Assistant Tutor—W. H. Smith, B.A. Fee, £25 a term, for board, lodging (furnished), tuition, and University charges. Theological course, six terms.—Address, Principal.

RICHMOND PARK SCHOOL for Boys, Kingston-on-Thames.—Careful Christian training. Sound commercial education. Abundant diet. Beautiful and healthy locality. Inclusive terms, 20 to 25 guineas.

Apply Principal, Mr. W. Dixon.

MT. RADFORD SCHOOL, Exeter. —During the last ten years pupils have obtained upwards of 150 certificates in the Oxford, Cambridge, College of Preceptors', and London University Examinations. Of these, twenty-two passed in honours, and twelve obtained prizes. The Word of God is made the sole basis of a careful Christian training. References to parents of past and present pupils.

Principal, E. H. Vine.

CAPTAIN MORETON has much pleasure in recommending Mr. Foster, as an educator, to those parents who value a judicious training for their sons.—Kelvedon School, Essex.

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL in Highgate.—The Rev. G. D. Bartlet, M.A. (late Head Master of Mill Hill School), receives twelve Boarded Pupils. Able assistant masters, superior home, individual attention, thorough grounding, and careful religious training. Highgate is strongly recommended by the medical profession.—Reference permitted to the Rev. W. E. Boardman, 3, Highbury-park.

OAK HOUSE SCHOOL, Bexleyheath, Kent (12 miles from London). Principal—George E. Oxley, M.A., assisted by first-class Masters (Graduates). A thorough education, with every comfort and careful supervision. Five acres of meadow land for cricket, football, &c. Prospectuses on application.

BETHANY HOUSE SCHOOL, Goudhurst, Kent, near Tunbridge Wells.—The object of the Principal is to thoroughly educate his pupils, and to carefully train them up in the love and service of Jesus. For prospectus, together with the testimony of the late Sir George Jessel, address, Rev. J. J. Kendon.

CROMARTIE HOUSE SCHOOL, The Avenue, Acton, W. Boys and youths received from 6 to 14 years of age. Only a few boarders are taken. One or two can be entered. Term commencing shortly. Careful Christian and personal supervision. Personal reference to parents of pupils. Terms moderate and inclusive.

Principal, Chas. Miller.

TEIGNMOUTH HOUSE GIRLS' SCHOOL.—Thorough education, with home comforts. Entire charge taken of children whose parents are abroad. Pupils prepared for the Local Examinations. Next term January 20.—Prospectuses on application to the Misses Whitall, Teignmouth.

A LADY living in a country town wishes to hear of a little Girl of about nine years old, from a Christian home, to be educated with her little daughter.—E. S., J. B. Eldridge, Esq., Solicitor, 15, Parliament-street, Westminster, London, S.W.

EDUCATION.—A Lady in South Hampstead (whose Daughters have a Preparatory School for Little Boys) will after Christmas have vacancies for two in the house, boarders or weekly. Numbers being limited, watchful care and home comforts are assured. Term commences January 26th.—T., 166, Belsize-road, N.W.

A LADY, who has taught in the family of Sir Joseph Fayrer for six years, is open to an engagement as Governess, Lady-Housekeeper, or Companion, or in any post of trust in a Christian family. Excellent references.—B. A., J. Rivolta, Esq., The Manor Way, Blackheath-park, S.E.

HIGHBURY HOUSE, St. Leonards-on-Sea.—Boys prepared for commerce, public schools, or the Universities. Upper, middle, and preparatory departments. Seven resident Masters. The junior division taught by Ladies. Delicate boys requiring a mild climate receive every kindness and constant care.—For prospectus, apply to Mrs. DUFF, the Lady Principal. The Easter term will commence on Wednesday, Jan. 21.

DURBAN-HOUSE SCHOOL, Lansdowne-road, Lee, Blackheath, S.E.—An old-established Preparatory School for the Sons of Gentlemen, conducted by a Lady, assisted by Masters and Governesses. Careful training. Home comforts. References to clergymen and parents.—THE PRINCIPAL.

EDUCATION.—Mr. HERBERT W. TAYLOR has vacancies for two boys to receive into his family, to be educated by his tutor with his own son, eleven years of age. Inclusive terms, £60 per annum.—Hadley Grove, High Barnet.

MOUNT HOUSE, Braintree, Ladies' School. Principal, Miss WOODGATE.—Sound education on modern principles. Preparation for Camb. Local and C. P. Exams. Home comforts and personal supervision. Highest references. Prospectus and particulars on application. Spring term commences January 19 and 20.

SEASIDE.—In a first-class Ladies' School, taking high honours in Oxford and Cambridge Examinations, and strongly recommended by a London clergyman for delicate girls requiring special care and attention, a Pupil can be received at half terms (45 guineas). Careful, religious teaching, and home comforts.—MILLICENT, Relfe Brothers, Charterhouse - buildings, Aldersgate, London.

LADIES' SCHOOL, Hampden House, Brill, near Oxford. Established 1854 by the Misses CLARKE, daughters of the Rev. P. Clarke. Terms strictly inclusive; £26 for English in all its branches, pianoforte, singing, French, and laundress. In addition to the above-named subjects, the course of instruction includes drawing, painting, leather-work, and drilling. The house is delightfully situated on a hill, commanding an extensive scenery, and the locality is exceedingly healthy. Within one mile is Dorton Chalybeate Spa. Resident English and French governesses. Masters in attendance.—Prospectuses, with references to parents of pupils, forwarded on application to the Principals.

FRANCE.—Rheims (Marne).—Protestant Institution for Young Ladies. Sciences. Arts. French spoken only. Home comforts. Moderate terms. Lady boarder received. References. Prospectus on application. Principal, Mdlle. BENECH. (Two diplomées.)

NEGLECTED EDUCATION.—Persons suffering from this defect may receive weekly lessons by post, at small cost.—Send stamped envelope to Rev. V. TRIMMING, 11, Willow-street, Girlington, Bradford.

THE PRINCIPALS of a Ladies' School, London, will be happy to receive two Christian Girls, daughters of Gentlemen, requiring good advantages. Ages 16 to 18. References exchanged.—Apply to L. Z., 22, Leinster-terrace, W.

BEDFORD.—Howard College.—Principal—Mrs. J. C. BURNETT. A Boarding School for Girls. Modern methods. Very superior education. Careful Christian training. Report and full particulars sent by return of post.

AS GOVERNESS.—Required by Young Lady after Christmas. School or family. Two years' experience. Good English, elementary French, music, and drawing. Good references.
Miss B., Trevose, Padstow, Cornwall.

CHARD, SOMERSET. — Wanted, two Christian young ladies as Governess-pupils. Senior received on reciprocal terms. Small premium required with junior. — The Misses PEARCE, 2, Claremont-villas, Trowbridge, Wilts.

A CHRISTIAN LADY, residing at Dover, would receive a Gentleman's daughter as finishing pupil or otherwise, on easy terms. Superior advantages. Healthy situation. Highest references.—71, Newmarket-road, Norwich.

DAILY GOVERNESS. — A Lady desires re-engagement. Thorough English, German (acquired by nearly two years' residence in Germany), French, drawing, and painting in oils and water-colours, needlework and music. Salary £40 to £50.—L. B., Fisher's Subscription Library, Clapham, S.W.

WANTED TO PLACE a Youth, aged 18, as Junior Teacher in a good school. Well able to give substantial help in all the requirements of a commercial education, including the French language. A Christian and comfortable home indispensable. References exchanged.
Major MOURANT, 10, Bond-street, Jersey.

A LADY RECOMMENDS a Young Lady as Governess to children under 14. Certificated, College of Preceptors, Trinity College. Music (first-class honours). Age 21. Three years' experience. Country preferred. Salary £20.—Box, care of Mr. Bachhoffner, Stationer, Clapham.

RE-ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED by young Lady, aged 23, as Music Teacher in a school, Companion to a lady, or Governess to children under 12. Fully competent to undertake the musical culture of young pupils; also to teach thorough English, drawing, and rudiments of French. Comfortable home in Christian family indispensable. Excellent references.
ANNIE, 30, London-road, Leicester

PROSPECT HOUSE, St. Neots.—The object of this School is to impart a sound English education, combined with religious training. Home comforts carefully attended to. Vacancy for a Governess-Pupil. — Terms, very moderate, on application to the PRINCIPAL. Studies resumed January 22.

EDUCATION for Young Ladies, near Torquay. Masters, certificated Governess. Every care. Home comforts. Pupils prepared for Local examinations. Highest references. Terms inclusive. — Mrs. BRENTON-CAREY, Tramore, Brixham, Devon.

GOOD EDUCATION offered, on very moderate terms, to young Lady willing to render some assistance with Junior Pupils in a Ladies' School. Healthy situation. Domestic comforts. Careful training. Good references. Stating age.—Miss HENSON, Petersfield.

A LADYLIKE GIRL, about 12, could be received in a small high-class school on half terms. Thirty guineas, inclusive, per annum. —MADAM, care of Mr. Swan, Music-seller, Kirkdale, Sydenham.

AS GOVERNESS. — Wanted, an earnest Christian Lady, experienced, certificated, able to train for University Examinations.—State age, height, acquirements, salary required, with references, Marlborough College for Ladies, Exeter.

A YOUNG GERMAN LADY is anxious to meet with an engagement in Christian family or school. Acquirements, German, French (grammatically and conversationally), music. Good references.—Frl. ELLEN, Kornthal, near Stuttgart.

A LADY WISHES highly to recommend her Christian Governess, of foreign birth and education. Teaches thorough German, English, French (Paris), music, and some drawing. Age 27. Protestant. £60 to £70.
Mrs. DE C., Brook Lodge, Holmwood, Dorking.

GOVERNESS.—Wanted, by a Lady just returned from Germany, a situation as Governess in a family. Acquirements, thorough English, French, German, music, and needlework, also drawing and painting. A good disciplinarian. —A. J. M., Post-office, Swanley Junction, St. Mary Cray, Kent.

A YOUNG GERMAN LADY desires a re-engagement as Governess in a quiet family. Terms moderate. She teaches German, French, and music; also the usual English instruction.—Address, during January, Fraulein OSTERLOFF, care of Mrs. White, Dutton House, Leominster, Hereford.

LADY OFFERS Christian home, combining educational advantages, to girls under 16, as Companion-Pupils. Healthy situation. Personal supervision.—For particulars address, "PRINCIPAL," care of Miss Jefferies, 135, White Ladies-road, Clifton.

FRENCH LADY, young, Protestant, diplomée, speaking no English, required teach French in family till beginning March. State age, where educated, fullest particulars.—CHARLES, 1, Clifton-terrace, Church-street, Shirley, Southampton.

GOVERNESS, certificated, Honours. Re-engagement. Young Lady just returned from France. Teaches thorough English, French, advanced arithmetic, music, drawing, and elementary Latin. — M. E. B., 26, Coventry-road, Hinckley, Leicestershire.

A YOUNG LADY seeks an engagement as Nursery Governess or Mother's Help. Has held similar situation. Active, and fond of children.—M., Peterwell, Lampeter.

OLD NEUWIEDERS.—Society of O. N. and of pupils of other Moravian Schools. The Annual Conversazione at Memorial Hall, Farringdon-street, E.C., on Thursday, January 15, 1885. For membership, cards of admission, &c., apply to HON. SECRETARY, 28, Finsbury-square, E.C.

AN ENGLISH WIDOW LADY, recently returned from Persia, having decided upon taking up her residence in Zurich, Switzerland, is desirous of taking charge of six boys to board and lodge, and attend to with a mother's care, and send to the best schools, in which are taught German, French, and English.—Particulars to be obtained on application to Mrs. MEYER, 15, Ventnor-villas, West Brighton, Sussex.

A GENTLEMAN, aged 24, seeks a Private Tutorship. Good English; also Latin and French. A year and a half's experience in teaching.
E. J. T., 31, Mornington-road, London, N.W.

GOVERNESS. — A young Lady (21) desires an engagement in a School or Gentleman's family. English in all its branches (advanced arithmetic), French, German, music (theoretical and practical), drawing, and elementary Latin. First-class, College of Preceptors, and Edinburgh and Glasgow University certificates. Good references.—M. M., 13, Berlin-terrace, Pollokshields, Glasgow.

FRENCH PROTESTANT GOVERNESS.—A Lady desires to recommend one who for three years has conducted the education of her four children, girls and boys. Previously, she had held for several years, situations in first-class schools. A true Christian. Diplomée. No accomplishments.—F. B., Messrs. Painter, 102, Richmond-road, London, S.W.

AIGLE, SWITZERLAND.—Boys' School. French, German, English, and usual branches. Christian home, good table, and separate bed-room. £60 per annum. Professeur TAUXE-DUFOUR, Aigle. References, D. Jewsbury, Esq., 2 Mincing-lane, London, and Mdme. de Segundo, 2 Aldridge-road-villas, Westbourne-park, London.

MORAVIAN EDUCATION.—Fulneck, near Leeds. Established 1750. Terms for Boys' School, apply to the Rev. W. T. TITTERINGTON; for Ladies' School, to Miss SHAWE. School re-opens January 21.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

A YOUNG LADY, having had four years' experience as housekeeper in a school, is anxious to enter a large school or institution as Under Matron or Under Housekeeper. Desiring to gain further experience, a nominal salary would be taken.
O. B. Q., 23, Horsham-road, Dorking.

HOUSEKEEPER - COMPANION (39), Lady by birth, manners, appearance, highly recommended by a lady, desires a similar position. Tuition combined, under 15. Christian influence. English, music, good linguist, drawing.—Miss BAYLEY, Ivanhoe, Eastbourne.

AS SECRETARY CORRESPONDENT, by a Gentleman of long experience in Christian work amongst soldiers, and able to conduct meetings, classes, &c. Can give highedt references.—Address by letter only, to Z., care of Bates, Hendy & Co., 37, Walbrook, London.

STEPHEN THOMAS CROCKER, of Bristol (late Headquarters Special of Salvation Army), having resigned, after three years and a half service, is open for Evangelistic work in connection with any Christian body. Accredited references.—85, Somerset-street, Cathay, Bristol.

MISSIONARY seeks re-engagement. Anxious for Master's glory. Can conduct services. Visitor. Apt with anxious ones. Can come at once. Wife can assist. Good references.
F. B. RAYMOND, 13, Chelsea-road, Southsea.

LAY READER wishes for a sphere of work under an earnest Clergyman. Nine years' experience. Accustomed to Mission services, Bible classes, Sunday and night schools.
READER, 8, Verney-place, Exeter.

TO MASTER PLUMBERS. — A Christian young man, 22 years of age, member of a Church and a total abstainer, desires a situation. Is thoroughly acquainted with the business. Would be found both useful and trustworthy. Most satisfactory references.—For full particulars address S. C., 90, Bartholomew-close, E.C.

A GENTLEMAN will be glad to recommend his Butler, a Christian man.
W., 34, Brunswick-square, Brighton.

NEW ZEALAND or Australia.—As useful Maid to Lady or children. Experienced in household duties. Good needlewoman. Would give services for passage, or part of passage.—A. W., 1, Newington-green, London, N.

A LADY is anxious to recommend a certificated Ladies' Nurse, who is experienced, kind, attentive, and obliging.—Mrs. A. D. C., 8, Sheffield-gardens, Campden-hill, London, W.

AS UNDER LADY'S MAID or Schoolroom Maid.—Situation wanted by a young girl who would make herself useful. Not out before. Age 18. Good dressmaker.
A. BARNES, Lower Bourne, Farnham, Surrey.

AS UNDER MATRON or Assistant Housekeeper. Good references.
F. G., 66, Queen's-road, St. John's-wood.

AS PLAIN COOK in a small, quiet family, near London.—A. B., Mrs. Harris, 168, Boyson-road, Camberwell.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a Christian Girl as third nurse, to do all the nursery housework, and wait on the elder children, and do needlework? Age not under 18. Wages £16 to £18. Country.—M., care of Mr. Robbins, 31, Chapel-street, Edgware-road.

ADVERTISER, aged 28, requires a Situation at once as Housekeeper or Assistant Matron. She is thoroughly domesticated, cheerful, experienced, and can give good references.
ELIZA, 80, Lodge-road, Hackney, Birmingham.

A LADY, DOMESTICATED, requires a situation in London as Companion, to assist in housekeeping. Willing to make herself useful; or Housekeeper.
L. W., 18, Mayfield-road, Manchester.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a young person, age 25, as Young Ladies'-maid, or Sewing-maid. She is thoroughly conscientious and trustworthy, and an excellent needlewoman. —A. S., care of Mr. Shaw, Bookseller, 18, High-street, Wimbledon.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a fairly good plain Cook, aged 34. Economical, clean, and thoroughly honest. A total abstainer, but rather deaf.
E. H., 1, Maygrove-road, Kilburn, N.

SHORTHAND WRITER, with a knowledge of French, and writing 120 words per minute, desires engagement. Good testimonials.
PHONO, 67, Talfourd-road, Camberwell.

WILL ANY CHRISTIAN Gentleman give a fresh start to a young man (aged 21) who had given way to temptation? His former masters believe him to be thoroughly penitent, and wish to recommend him.
E. L., 70, Fleet-street, London.

AS PLAIN NEEDLEWOMAN, or Maid to one or two young Ladies. Please address C., care of Mrs. Hawley, Ash, near Aldershot.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a thoroughly efficient Matron or Housekeeper, who is experienced and trustworthy in illness.
Y., Clewer House, Windsor, Berks.

WANTED TO PLACE a young girl (18) in a Christian home where she would be taught a trade. She is slightly a cripple. Has no mother. Her father an invalid. A small premium would be paid. References exchanged. LUCY, care of Mr. Portcous, Rodden Lake, Frome

TO HEADS OF FIRMS or otherwise. — Advertiser, aged 40, unmarried, very earnestly seeks work of any kind. Good writer and correspondent. Low salary accepted to commence with, or time given.
Mr. H., 91, Mildmay-park, N.

WANTED, by a Christian Man and Wife, the management of Coffee-house. Fifteen years' experience. Total abstainers. Or care of Offices. Good testimonials.—MANAGER, Welcome Coffee-house, Hampton, Middlesex.

AS GROOM AND GARDENER, or Gardener, single-handed. Willing to be useful. Wanted by a Christian. Good character. —H. L., 12, Queen's-road, Crown-hill, Upper Norwood.

AS CARETAKER, Messenger, or any place of trust; 28 years' good character. Age 40. Married. No family. Abstainer.
T. P., 40, Palmerston-street, Battersea Park.

CAN ANYONE HELP a Christian Man, aged 35, holding good testimonials, to Evangelistic work? Has a desire for preaching the Word. Salary required. Married, has small family. Urgent need.—L. W. S., care of Mr. Smith, 25, Chapel-street, Handsworth, Birmingham.

AS LADIES-MAID in a Christian family. Good dressmaker and hairdresser.
M. F., Edgarley House, Glastonbury.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

ORGANIST. — Wanted, for St. James' Church, Forest-gate, an Organist. Christian young man would find this a good opening.—Rev. W. H. DENOVAN, St. James' Vicarage, Forest-gate.

MAN AND WIFE wanted, for two Gentlemen, near Bristol. Wife to cook, &c., man to keep garden. Must be abstainers, and highly recommended.
Mrs. S., 4, Vanbrugh-park-road, Blackheath.

A BUTLER wanted (thorough), where a page is kept. Must be an abstainer. Good character.—Apply by letter, with all particulars, to E. C., 4, Eastern-terrace, Brighton.

MATRON. — Wanted, strong, bright, active, Christian worker, for working girls' club, and Mission work in poor district.—Apply to A. P., personally, on Friday, Jan. 9, at 3, at the Kingsland Institute, Ridley-road, Dalston, or by letter.

MISS WESTON will be very glad to hear from any Christian Ladies desiring to help her in her work. They must be earnest Christians and total abstainers, active, and energetic.
Miss WESTON, Sailors' Rest, Portsmouth.

ANCHORAGE MISSION. — There is a vacancy for a young person to be trained in the Anchorage House, for work among the more respectable class of the fallen. The one whose training is finished is now in a good situation. It is also desired to appoint a young person to duties mainly Secretarial, in which it will be desirable for her to have a knowledge of accounts and correspondence. Application to be made by letter only, stating age, present employment, of what church a member, and salary desired, to Mrs. H. STUART-WORTLEY (president of the Ladies' Committee), Rosslyn House, Grove End-road, N.W. London.

MAN AND WIFE wanted, without children. Christians and abstainers, as Chapel Keepers.—Apply by letter, to 17, Askew-crescent, Shepherds-bush, W.

AN ARCHITECT, in one of the most healthy inland watering-places in England, is open to receive a young gentleman as Pupil. Practical building, construction, and quantity-surveying. Premium moderate. Could board with family if desired. References exchanged.—F. T. 3, Maitland-park-villas, London, N.W.

CAN ANY LADY recommend an experienced Laundress, to take charge of the laundry in large boarding school for young ladies? She must be an early riser, active, quick, and methodical. Wages £20, all found.—HOUSEKEEPER, T. Farncombe, Eastern-road, Brighton.

WANTED, IN SMALL FAMILY, Man and Wife as Cook-Housekeeper and Indoor Servant. Good wages to thoroughly competent persons. Abstainers preferred. No beer found. Must have exceptional personal characters.
Mrs. G. P. MOODIE, 10, Wilbury-road, Brighton.

UNDER MATRON or Kitchen Superintendent, for general domestic work in small Girls' Home, Clifton. Should also understand plain sewing. Age about 30.
Mrs. WHITWILL, Sneyd Park, Bristol.

A CHRISTIAN LADY wanted immediately, to superintend a well-ordered Crèche in the West of England. Abundant scope for Christian work among the parents and elder children.—Apply, stating particulars, experience, &c., to A. D., 19, Kensington, Bath.

MIDDLE-AGED, USEFUL ATTENDANT, wanted, for elderly Invalid Lady. Must be in good health, pleasant, and obliging, a Churchwoman, abstainer and good needlewoman. Wages £20 and washing.
E., St. John's Vicarage, Hollington, Hastings.

COOK. — Wanted, a middle-aged, experienced Cook, with a knowledge of housekeeping, able to help to train for service three or four young girls. Must be a decided Christian, total abstainer, and early riser. Wages £16 per annum, washing, and medical attendance.—Rev. F. C. Burrough, Girls' Village Home, Ilford, Essex.

MISSION WOMAN.—An East-end incumbent would be glad to meet with a Christian woman to fill the above office in his parish. Would have to reside in or near the District, and work in connection with the Bishop of London's Fund. Would suit a person with small means. Salary £26 per annum.
Vicar, St. Stephen's Vicarage, Spitalfields.

LADY REQUIRED, for Visiting and Bible-work in a poor parish. Evangelical Churchwoman. Small stipend.—State age and full particulars, F. S., 63, Lee-road, Lee, S.E.

LAUNDRESS.—Wanted, a Christian woman, abstainer, as Laundress in a small Rescue Home, near Manchester.—Address, stating age, wages, &c.
Box 24, Post-office, Ashton-under-Lyne.

A RESPECTABLE WOMAN wanted, to do the work of a small house, with plain cooking. Wages small, but comfortable home.—Mrs. Nairn, 72, The Avenue, Bruce-grove, Tottenham.

THOROUGH HOUSE AND PARLOURMAID wanted, for private family in Brighton. Must be strong, willing, and well recommended. Wages £16, no beer.
Mrs. Griffith 3, Lansdowne-place, Brighton.

A GOOD LAUNDRESS wanted, for an Institution. One who has had experience in a Home preferred.
Miss C. A. Parker, North Hill House, Plymouth.

GOOD PLAIN COOK AND HOUSE-PARLOUR-MAID required. Housemaid kept. Gardener cleans knives, boots, windows.
Apply, Crooms Hill House, Greenwich.

GOOD HOUSE-PARLOURMAID wanted. Able to wait table well. Housemaid kept.—Apply, Crooms Hill House, Greenwich.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, a House and Parlourmaid. Wages £14.
Mrs. Savage, Vicarage, Spring-grove, Isleworth.

HOUSEMAID wanted, in a quiet, family, age not under 20. Parlourmaid kept.—Apply to W., 6, Warwick-road, Upper Clapton, E., by letter; or personally between 6 and 8 in the evening.

HOUSEMAID. — A Clergyman's Wife would thank any Lady who could recommend her a steady, respectable girl for above situation. Age from 17 to 20. Another servant kept. Small family. Good home.—A. L. W., St. Stephen's Vicarage, Spitalfields, London, E.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted; active, experienced, and good plain cook. Age about 25. Good character indispensable. Only two in family.—Apply by letter, or personally, to 214, Malpas-road, Brockley, London.

UNDER HOUSEMAID.—Wanted, in a Dissenter's family, a respectable young Girl, strong and willing, about 18 years of age.—Apply personally, or by letter, Bathurst House, The Grove, Highgate-road, N.W.

NURSE or Mother's Help wanted, for one little boy and a baby. One who really loves children. Must be good needlewoman, and able to wash and iron nicely.—Mrs. Hutchinson, 1, Primrose-villa, Overhill-road, Dulwich, S.E.

AGENTS (male and female) required in every town and village to sell our pure Teas and Coffees. Our Ceylon and Darjeeling Teas show extraordinary value. We allow 6d. per lb. commission, and deliver free. Special terms for cash. Agents can earn between 20s. and 30s. weekly.—Write for samples free to The United Tea Growers' Association, 3, Union-court, E.C.

£6 MONTHLY may be added to income by selling our celebrated Teas in packets, French Coffees, and Cocoa. Write for particulars to Oliver, Oliver & Co, 332, Southgate-road, London.

APPRENTICE to Drapery and Fancy Trade wanted. Small premium required. Board and lodging provided for the youth.—Trewby Brothers, Coburg House, 129, Waterloo-road, London.

DRAPER'S ASSISTANT wanted.—A Junior Assistant wanted for a pushing trade.—Trewby Brothers, Coburg House, 129, Waterloo-road, London, S.E.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.

40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

This First-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of The Christian from all parts of the world. The Bishop of Algoma writes: "The comfort, perfect order, and attendance at Percy's Hotel, render it all that can be desired as a central place of sojourn in this great city." Beds from 1s. 6d. Tea, 1s. 3d. Tariff on application.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Clairville, Chine-road.—Superior Boarding House, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Jackson. Visitors will meet with an excellent family home. Charming sea views. Near church and sea. Most liberal table.

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA Boarding Establishment. The home of a Minister's daughter. Established 11 years. Mansion replete with every comfort. Fine sea view.
Miss Newbury, Cavendish House, Warrior-square.

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine, having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers. Liberal table, with every home comfort.—Mr. & Mrs. Box, 58, Old Steine.

LONDON, central situation.—Family spending March in London requires comfortable furnished house, moderate terms; or exchange large sunny country house, sheltered garden.—Charles, 1, Clifton-terrace, Church-street, Shirley, Southampton.

HUTCHINSON'S PRIVATE HOTEL, 24, Guilford-street, Russell-square, the most central position for all parts of London. Extensively patronised and strongly recommended. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

BOARD IN BLACKHEATH. Gravel soil, fine air.—A Lady, residing close to the Heath, offers a comfortable and decided Christian home to a Lady; or to Gentleman's Daughters to attend the High School, close by. Terms £70 to £80 per annum.
S. M., 30, Wemyss-road, Blackheath, S.E.

MENTON.—South of France.—Pension des Oliviers, kept by M. et Madame Gervaix. Pension charge from 7 francs a day (south room), service included. Madame Gervaix speaks English well, and has been a trained sick-nurse. Reference, Frank Warner, Esq., The Cottage, Hoddesdon, Herts.

EASTBOURNE.—A Widow Lady offers comfortable Apartments, near the sea, with board if required, on very moderate terms, with drawing, dining, and good bedrooms, let together or separately. Excellent references.
E. H. A., Handel House, Compton-street.

HOME OF REST AND HEALING FOR CHRISTIANS, near the sea, with garden. Arrangements made for winter residence. Terms, one to two guineas.—Lady Superintendent, Rutherford Lodge, Worthing.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Comfortable Furnished Apartments to Let, near Pine walks and within easy distance of sea. South aspect. Home comforts. Piano. Terms very moderat and inclusive.—A. P., Brooklyn, Southcote-road. e

---

A WIDOW LADY, with young daughter, offers Board and Residence to a Lady requiring a quiet, refined home and companionship. Invalid not objected to; or would let two rooms to a gentleman, or take charge of children. House semi-detached, south aspect, on a level with sea. Near Evangelical church. Good references.
Cleveland Villa, Valley, Scarborough.

A CHRISTIAN LADY, Wife of a Medical Man, would be be glad to receive delicate or invalid children, requiring motherly care combined with the advantages of a warm, genial climate.—Mrs. F. K. Bell, The Pines, Budleigh Salterton, South Devon.

TO CHRISTIAN FAMILIES of refinement.—A Gentleman seeks a Home with the Lord's people. Near a living ministry of the Word. Musical tastes. Elevated suburb preferred.—Medicus, May's, 159, Piccadilly.

A CHRISTIAN LADY, engaged during the day, seeks furnished bed and sitting-room, combined or separate, in the house of widow or single lady, within ten minutes of King's-cross. No other lodgers. Terms moderate. References exchanged.
E., 18, Wells-street, Jewin-street, E.C.

A CHRISTIAN LADY wishes to Let, furnished or unfurnished, a Sitting-room and two Bed-rooms, with use of stable, &c., if required. A healthy situation, commanding pretty hill views. A quiet home for invalids.—A. B., 8, St. Catherine's-terrace, Portsmouth-road, Guildford, Surrey.

A WIDOW LADY, with superior Furnished House, conveniently situated, is desirous of meeting with Ladies or Gentlemen seeking comfortable home. Would let the whole or part furnished.
Woodlands, 39, Clissold-road, Mildmay, N.

TWO LADIES wish to let Sitting-room and two bed-rooms, comfortably furnished, with attendance. Cheerful, healthy locality, in the suburbs of Devizes. Ten minutes' walk from the town.—References and terms on application, L. J., Eversley, Devizes.

WANTED in Town, about February, by a Gentleman much away, a good-sized unfurnished room, for Sitting and Bed-room, with attendance. Christian family desired. References exchanged.—Address, stating terms, Delta, Mr. Woodley, Stationer, 30, Fore-street, City.

EASTBOURNE.—A Lady wishes to receive a Lady Boarder. Invalid not objected to. Good references. Near sea.
Beta, 17, Cornfield-terrace.

DIPSOMANIA. — A successfully established private Home at the seaside for six, suffering from excess of morphia, chloral, absinthe, stimulants, or Nervous Debility. Christian care and influence. Judicious supervision and home comforts.
Medicus, 9, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

A LADY LIVING in an educational centre, one hour from London, wishes for companionship in a lady, or lady and child, and to share expenses.—S. R. O., Dawe's Library, 44, Baker street, Portman-square.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS are again earnestly invited to write to Evangelist, Clapham, S.W. Rom. v. 8; 2 Cor. v. 20.

DISSOLVING VIEWS, LANTERNS, &c.—Buy of the maker, William Catlin, original slide producer, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London. Monthly catalogue gratis. Exhibitions (Gospel) town or country. Slides on hire, 1½d. each.

IRON CHURCHES, &c., erected at lowest possible cost, by A. Chopping, Derby-road, West Croydon, Surrey. Illustrated designs and estimates free.

ASTHMA. — Persons suffering from Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, &c., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.
C., Mr. G. A. Keyworth, Hastings.

CHEAP PRINTING. — Send full particulars and stamped addressed envelope, and estimate will be returned. 5,000 2 pp. tracts, 17s. 6d.; 5,000 4 pp., 30s.; 5,000 8 pp. (folded and stitched), 75s.; 10,000, £7.
W. R. King, Crown Printing Works, Luton.

VISITING CARDS. — 50 ladies' best for 1s. 6d., 100 for 2s. 3d.; 50 gents' best 1s. 3d., 100 2s. Post free. 250 tea tickets, 2s. 6d.
W. R. King, Crown Printing Works, Luton.

AMERICAN ORGAN. — Magnificent, genuine 35-guinea Instrument, 12 stops, sub-bass, octave coupler, full organ and grand organ knee swells. Warranted as new. £17 17s. Approval.
A., 96, Wynford-road, Islington, London.

ORGAN-HARMONIUM.—Elegantly finished, 5-octave, solid walnut panelled and polished gothic case, fret-cut book rest, perfect, beautiful, rich full tone. Price only £6. Exceptionally rare bargain.
Musica, 58, Bickerton-road, London, N.

NEEDLEWORK FOR LADIES, for Pleasure and Profit. All the New Art Work. Directions for lovely things in knitting and crochet. Useful articles and wearable things, saleable bazaar articles. How to Dispose of Work, and List of Work Societies. New and enlarged edition, price 1s. 7½d., post free.
Ringrose, Malvern Link.

FURNISH on Norman & Stacey's Hire-Purchase System. Deposit not necessary. True economy on sound commercial principles. Strictly private. 1, 2, or 3 years. 60 wholesale firms. Ordinary selling prices.—Offices, 79, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., and 121, Pall Mall, S.W.

HUNDRED GLADIOLI; Tulips, Anemones, Crocus, Snowdrops, Sparaxis, Narcissus, 50 of each; Jonquils, Iris, Anemones choice, 24 of each; 4 Lilium, 12s. 9d.; half 6s. 9d. Satisfaction guaranteed.
Simcox, 158, Severn-road, Cardiff.

Publications.

MRS. GRIMKE having now printed 50 languages, wishes to send out one million Text Cards to Missionaries this year, cost about £400, proposing to double all gifts sent by Christians, whose aid she asks. Many varieties of English (some very beautiful), F. M. sheets, tracts, quilt texts on calico, &c., always on sale.—For list, send stamped addressed envelope to Mrs. Grimke, Prestwich, Manchester.

GOSPEL ADDRESSES by HEYMAN WREFORD. Nos. 1 to 6 now ready, 1d. each. Delivered in Victoria Hall, Exeter, to between 2,000 and 3,000 people. The Publisher, A. Goodere, 1½, Sidwell-street, Exeter, specially commends these Addresses to Christians for free distribution at reduced rates: 7 for 6d.; 14, 1s.; 25, 1s. 9d.; 50, 3s. 3d.; 100, 6s.; 250, 14s. Postage extra.

THE "MOUNTAINS OF BREAD" Series of little Books and Leaflets, by the late Georgiana Thompson, are copyright. Profits for poor aged, suffering Christians. Are still supplied by addressing, Miss A. Thompson, care of Dr. Cranage, Old Hall, Wellington, Salop.

MUSIC FOR THE SABBATH.

ELI.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Piano.

ELI.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Harmonium.

NAAMAN.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Piano.

NAAMAN.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Harmonium.

The above 1s. 6d. nett each book.

TE DEUM in D. By Farmer, 8vo., 6d.

SELECT VOLUNTARIES.—By Henry Farmer. A Collection of short, easy Classical (ancient and modern) Pieces. Suitable for piano, organ, or harmonium. New edition, in 12 books, 1s. 6d. nett each book. (Lists gratis.)

London: Joseph Williams, 24, Berners-street, W.

FLOWER MISSION and TEXT CARDS. New and convenient design. Gold blue words, green red words, crimson gold words, 1s. 9d. per 100; 500, 7s. 6d. Assorted, 100, 1s. 9d. Only of P. V. Hadlow, Lithographer, Brighton.

"HOJAS EVANGELICAS."—Sixteen Spanish Tracts, illustrated. By Cheyne Brady. Sixpence per 100. Drummond's Tract Depôt, Stirling; S. W. Partridge & Co., London.

ABOUT JESUS. 100 Poems, Large Type. By Wm. Luff. Cr. 8vo. limp, 1s. ex. cloth, gilt edges, 1s. 6d.

The Riches of His Grace. By Cheyne Brady. 192 pp., cloth, 1s.

Plenteous Redemption. By the Same. 192 pp., cloth, 1s.

Gospel Leaves. Thirty-two 2-page Tracts. Illustrated. By Cheyne Brady. Packets 1 and 2 (each 100 assorted of 16 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

Words of Life. Sixteen 4-page Tracts, Illustrated. Packet of 75 assorted, 6d.

Acorn Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By Rev. A. A. Ramsey. Packets 1 and 2 (each 50 copies assorted of 12 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

Salem Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklet, tinted paper. By H. K. Wood ("A Glasgow Merchant.") Packets 1 and 2 (each 50 assorted of 8 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

St. Mark's Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By Rev. G. Everard, M.A. Packet of 50 copies assorted of 12 Numbers, 6d.

With Our Cards. Seasonable Poems for enclosure with New Year Cards. By Wm. Luff. Extra satin paper. 6d. per packet.

Books with Chromo Covers, suitable for enclosure in letters.

The Master's Knock. By Rev. George Everard, M.A.

Consecrated Influence. By Rev. A. R. M. Finlayson.

Be Wise. (For the Young). By J. F. Moncrieff.

Can you say "My"? By Rev. George Everard, M.A.

No Refuge but Jesus. By the Same.

"Bruised for our Iniquities." By Rev H. Bonar, D.D.

Saving Faith. By Rev. A. R. M. Finlayson.

Inconsistency. By Rev. E. Herber Evans.

The above 8 Books, 32 pp., 1d. each, or 1s. per dozen.

Drummond's Tracts Depot, Stirling, N.B.
London: S. W. Partridge & Co.

Just Published.

REMARKS on a book entitled "Natural Law in the Spiritual World," by Henry Drummond, F.R.S.E., F.G.S., by Benjamin Wills Newton. Price 1s. 9d.—Houlston & Sons.

"PAINFUL, BUT NEEDFUL."—A word in season to sufferers. By Frank H. White. S. W. Partridge. One Penny, 6 copies 6d., post free.—Shears, 21, Marne-street, Queen's-park, London, W.

THE HOUSE OF REST MONTHLY, price, post free, One Penny. December No. contains Paper by Miss Mason on "The Preparation and Training of Women for Medical and other Missions." Read at the Conference of the C. W. U., Glasgow.

Ready. Price 6d., or Post-free, 7d.

THROUGH THE BIBLE.—An Almanack, Calendar, and Lectionary for 1885; a Guide for the Daily Reading of the entire New Testament and half of the Old Testament in one year; expressly prepared for reading aloud in families, schools, &c., on a new six-day system; and approved by Reviewers and the Clergy.—London: The Grosvenor Library, 35, Chapel-street, Belgrave-square; Hamilton & Co., Paternoster-row; and of all Booksellers.

Price 1s. 6d., 2s., up to 7s. 6d.

HYMNS FOR SERVICE OF THE KING.—"A very capital hymn-book."—Christian. "Best hymn-book extant."—Prot. Times.
London: Marlborough, 51, Old Bailey, E.C.

Just published, Small Crown 8vo., 2s.

FISHER FOLK, by J. S. Cadell.

"Its great charm lies in the transparent faithfulness and the simple grace of language with which the story is told. There is some very fine character sketching in it."—Christian. "May be placed on the same shelf with the gems of Dr. John Brown, and lose little by comparison with the best of them."—Christian Leader.

Edinburgh: Macniven & Wallace.
London: Simpkin & Co., Hamilton & Co.

SCIENTIFIC STUDY.—Just published, New Catalogue of Chemical and Physical Apparatus, 1,500 Articles, and 600 Chemicals. Prices much reduced. Full discount to Schools, &c. Price 4d., postage 1d.—Henry Lipscombe, 4, Cochrane-street, Circus-road, N.W.

LATE ABODE OF FAITH.—Mrs. Dalby receives Young Ladies who are unmanageable at home; also cases of brain deficiency, not insanity.
Bethel, 21, Norfolk-road, St. John's-wood.

BAGSTER'S BIBLES.

Extra flexible, silk sewed, in best Bagster morocco, kid-lined, elastic band. With full helps. Prices from 20s.

In French morocco, projecting edges, elastic band. From 4s.

DAILY LIGHT ON THE DAILY PATH. A Text-book in the very words of the Scripture. From 1s. Lists on application.

"A very precious little book."—The Christian.

Samuel Bagster & Sons, Limited, 15, Paternoster-row London.

GIFT BOOKS SUITABLE for the PRESENT SEASON.

JOHN WESLEY: His Life and Times. By JOHN W. KIRTON, LL.D., author of "Buy Your Own Cherries," &c. With Portrait. 128 pages, Crown 8vo., cloth limp, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"The spirit of a great reformer's life has seldom been presented in a form at once so brief and lively. Every page sparkles with edifying anecdote. . . . Ought to have a sale of many thousands."—Christian Leader.

GEORGE WHITEFIELD: His Life and Times. By J. R. ANDREWS, author of "The Life of Oliver Cromwell." With Portrait. 128 pages, crown 8vo., cloth limp, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"A well-printed and well-told life of this extraordinary man of God; deserves a world-wide circulation, and will probably be read by thousands."

Baptist Messenger.

The above two books are also published in One Volume under the following title:—

WESLEY AND WHITEFIELD. THE TWO GREAT EVANGELISTS OF THE LAST CENTURY. 256 pages, Crown 8vo. With Portraits of Weslev and Whitefield. Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

◆

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS. Presentation Editions in Morocco binding.

MUSIC AND WORDS.

	Old Notation.	s.	d.
5F.	Morocco, gilt edges	8	6
6F	,, flexible, kid lined, gilt edges	12	6
	Smaller Type.
4H.	Morocco, gilt edges	5	6
5H.	,, flexible, kid-lined, gilt edges	8	6
	Tonic Sol-fa.
5G.	Morocco, gilt edges	8	6

WORDS ONLY.

	Medium Type.	s.	d.
3C.	Morocco, gilt edges	2	6
4C.	,, yapped, kid-lined, gilt edges	4	6
	Extra Large Type.
4E.	Morocco, gilt edges	5	6
5E.	,, flexible, kid-lined, gilt edges	8	6
	Without rule round pages.
9E.	Morocco, gilt edges	4	6

A COMPLETE LIST of all the Editions of "SONGS OF SOLOS," with specimens of the various sizes of type, sent free, on application.

THE GOSPEL IN LEVITICUS: Types and Foreshadowings of the Great Redemption. By Rev. JAMES FLEMING, D.D. Cloth bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"There is much wholesome spiritual food in this book, and no Christian can read it without being greatly refreshed in soul."—Fountain.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MOSES AS SEEN IN THE TABERNACLE AND ITS VARIOUS OFFERINGS. By Rev. G. RODGERS. With Frontispiece. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

"A very spiritual as well as instructive little book."

Churchman's Monthly Penny Magazine.

LITTLE BUTTERCUP AND JENNY WREN. A Book for Children. Cloth extra, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

By means of this attractive little story, the Authoress conveys to her youthful readers most impressive and precious lessons of contentment.

JOE WITLESS. A Book for Boys. By E. J. HUNTER. With Seven Illustrations. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; cloth extra, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

We can cordially recommend the book as calculated to arrest the attention and impress the conscience of the most thoughtless of our youth."

Sword and Trowel.

THE BRISTOL ORPHAN HOUSES. The rise and progress of the Orphan Homes, Ashley Down, Bristol, under the direction of Mr. George Müller. With Five Illustrations of the Homes. By W. ELFE TAYLER. Paper covers, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"A most full and complete narrative is given of the great work, which has been in itself and in its results the reward of Mr. Müller's faith, and the answer to his prayers."—The Record.

LIFE, WARFARE, AND VICTORY. Specially written for the Help and Guidance of Young Christians. By Major D. W. WHITTLE. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"A valuable aid to Bible study and to Christian living."—Word and Work.

PUNROOTY; or, The Gospel winning its way among the Women of India. By CLARA M. S. LOWE. Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"A deeply interesting account of Mission work among the women of India."

Fountain.

BOGATZKY'S GOLDEN TREASURY OF TEXTS FOR THE CHILDREN OF GOD. A Series of Scripture Texts and Meditations for every Day in the Year. Cheap Edition. Cloth back, 2s.; Toned Paper, Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d. Presentation Editions.—Leather Back, Leatherette Sides, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d. Whole bound in Leather, Gilt Edges, 5s.

"BOGATZKY'S GOLDEN TREASURY" has been translated into nearly all European languages, and has obtained an enormous circulation in Germany and Great Britain. In this country very few books except the 'Pilgrim's Progress' have been so largely circulated or so widely read."

BY REV. J. CULROSS, D.D., M.A.

"BEHOLD, I STAND AT THE DOOR AND KNOCK." Christ's Message to the Church at Laodicea. With Chromo-Lithographic Frontispiece. Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d. CHEAP EDITION. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.

"All who admire Dr. Culross' insight, his delicacy of perception, his curious felicity of language, his broad and tender sympathies, his grasp of great truths, will welcome this volume, and hope for like expositions of the preceding six Epistles."—The Freeman.

"THY FIRST LOVE." Christ's Message to the Church at Ephesus. With Chromo-Lithographic Frontispiece. Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 2s. 6d.

"This work is instructive, suggestive, full of spiritual force, and at the same time strong and manly."—Sunday School Chronicle.

JOHN, WHOM JESUS LOVED. A Sketch of the Character, Writings, Theology, and Influence, of the Beloved Disciple. Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 3s. 6d.

"It is altogether without reserve that we commend the work before us. It is not a bottle of milk for babes, but a portion of meat for men. A half-dozen readings will only make it more interesting to those who meditate upon what they read."—Rev. C. H. SPURGEON, in The Sword and Trowel.

◆

REVIVAL and REVIVAL WORK. A Record of the Labours of D. L. Moody and I. D. Sankey, and other Evangelists. By Rev. JOHN MACPHERSON. Cloth, bevelled boards, 4s. 6d.; cloth limp, 2s. 6d.

"We have no hesitation in speaking approvingly of this work. It is a calm and thoughtful history of a great movement. Some of these stories of answers to prayer, of individual conversions, of churches aroused and made fruitful, are indeed wonderful."—The King's Highway.

READINGS FOR THE SICK ROOM. For Instruction, Counsel, and Comfort, in the Hours of Weakness and Sufferings. By ALEXANDER W. WALLACE, M.D. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; cloth, antique, bevelled boards, 2s. FIFTH EDITION.

"There is no human composition better adapted than this for giving to the afflicted, and we believe it will be circulated by tens of thousands."

British Herald.

BIBLE READINGS ON THE GOSPEL OF MARK. Suitable as a handbook and help for Bible-classes, Lay-preachers, and Evangelists. By HENRY THORNE, Travelling Secretary for the English National Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; with a coloured Map of Palestine, cloth boards, 2s.

"An admirable series of outline lessons, which cannot fail to prove of great service to Sunday-school teachers."—Rock.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF JOHN B. GOUGH. Revised by himself. With Portrait, View of his Residence in Massachusetts, and two other Illustrations. Best Edition, on toned paper, cloth boards, 3s. 6d. Cheap Edition, tinted covers, 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

"One of the most interesting and instructive biographies ever written"

Christian Week.

DOROTHEA TRÜDEL; OR, THE PRAYER OF FAITH. A Record of the Faith-Healing at Männedorf, from 1851 to 1881. WITH ENGRAVED PORTRAIT. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; cloth extra, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"A touching narrative of simple faith and devoted piety."

Christian World.

MARY LYON. Recollections of a Noble Woman. By FIDELIA FISKE. Tinted Covers, 1s. Cloth Boards, 1s. 6d.

"It is a book well fitted to stir up to greater zeal and activity in the Christian cause in whatever sphere God enables us to work."—Christian Work.

FIDELIA FISKE. The Story of a Consecrated Life. By Rev. W. GUEST. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Elegant, suitable for presentation, 3s. 6d.

"Here is truth stranger and more thrilling than fiction, the incidents of a missionary career which are to the glory of God and of His truth."

Sword and Trowel.

THE CONVERSION OF CHILDREN. By Rev. E. P. HAMMOND, M.A. Tinted Covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards. 2s. 6d.

"We devoutly wish that by some means or other a copy could be placed in the hands of every Sunday-school superintendent and every pastor of a church."

Penuel.

◆

BY D. L. MOODY.

HEAVEN. (42nd Thousand.) Its Hopes; Its Inhabitants; Its Riches; Its Rewards. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

"Practical, full of anecdotes and point, and in many circles calculated to be of much service."—The Friend.

THE FAITHFUL SAYING. A Series of Addresses. By D. L. MOODY. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

"Vigorous, piquant, terribly earnest appeals to the conscience."

The Fountain.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE QUIVER.

New Volume now commencing, affording a favourable opportunity for new Subscribers.

THE QUIVER. The Magazine for Sunday and General Reading.

THE QUIVER.

THE QUIVER. Illustrated throughout.

THE QUIVER. The Magazine for Sunday and General Reading.

"A safer and more interesting magazine we do not know than THE QUIVER."—Standard.

THE QUIVER. Monthly, 6d.

"THE QUIVER is best of all the Magazines devoted to Sunday reading."—Saturday Review.

THE QUIVER. Illustrated throughout.

"THE QUIVER has a good supply of good reading, well mixed."—Christian.

THE QUIVER. Magazine for Sunday and General Reading.

"THE QUIVER contains a rare variety of tales, essays, poems, and sketches. A volume of THE QUIVER is a library in itself."—Nonconformist.

THE QUIVER. Monthly, 6d.

The sermons are generally sensible, practical, and liberal, and the tales are really well written. The illustrations are still a feature deserving a word of praise. THE QUIVER contains, in short, a library of good reading."—Scotsman.

Now Ready, price 6d.

THE QUIVER for JANUARY.

Containing:—

THOUGHTS for the NEW YEAR. By the Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells.
POPULAR AMERICAN PREACHERS. By the Rev. Ll. D. Bevan, LL.B., D.D., New York.
NEW PARABLES from NATURE. By Lady L. Hampton.
LESSONS on the COMMANDMENTS.
GRETCHEN. By the Author of "What She Could," &c.
WHEN I SURVEY the WONDROUS CROSS. Music by C. L. Williams, Mus.B., Organist of Gloucester Cathedral.
The CEDARS and the CANDLESTICKS. By the Rev. Hugh Macmillan, D.D., LL.D., &c.
LITTLE ONES that CANNOT be CURED. By Anne Beale.
SUNDAY in HUDSON'S BAY.
BESIDE the SEA.
The WORLD and CHRIST. By Rev. W. M. Johnston, M.A.
FAITH.
SCOTLAND in 1684-5. (Bicentenary Glimpses.) By the Rev. Professor W. G. Blaikie, D.D., LL.D.
The MOUNT of FORGIVENESS. By Rev. M. Guy Pearse.
MISTAKEN. A Story in Three Chapters.
"OUR FATHER." By J. Huie.
A BIBLE GIANT STORY. By Rev. Gordon Calthrop, M.A.
IN WYCLIFFE'S LAND.
The MARKS of the LORD JESUS. In Two Papers. By the Rev. Horatius Bonar, D.D.
A STARLIGHT STORY. By the Author of "Doddlekins."
SHORT ARROWS.
"THE QUIVER" HEROES FUND. For particulars see this Number.
"THE QUIVER" BIBLE CLASS.

SERIAL STORIES.

MOLLIE'S MAIDENS. By Louisa Crow, Author of "For Conscience's Sake," "Whither Drifting?" &c.
A POOR MAN'S WIFE. By the Author of "Too Dearly Bought," "Down in the World," &c.
With numerous High-class Illustrations.

THE QUIVER HEROES FUND.—See THE QUIVER for January for the interesting particulars of the movement in connection with "The Quiver" to raise a fund for the permanent provision of a number of Gold and Silver Medals of Honour, to be awarded for special heroism in the rescue of human life.

CASSELL & CO., Limited, Ludgate Hill, London.

"The Bitter Cry of Outcast London."
"The Housing of the Working Classes."

AN EFFECTUAL REMEDY.

MEMORIAL BUILDING SOCIETY.

The Oldest English Church Building Society.
ESTABLISHED 1881.
Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

The Church of England Temperance Permanent Benefit Building Society,

Promoted by some of the Speakers at the 21st Anniversary Festival of the Church of England Temperance Society to commemorate that important event, and to provide an effectual remedy for the alleviation, without pauperization, of the Working Classes, thus aiding in providing them with their own dwelling-houses, and, at the same time, permanently consolidating the labours of the Temperance Reformer.

The terms are exceptionally reasonable—for example, £100 may be borrowed, and re-paid by instalments of from 14s. 9d. to £1 18s. 8d. per month (equivalent, in the first case, to about 3s. only per week).

Shares £25 each, payable, either in one sum, or by instalments of 5s. per month, carrying interest at £4 per cent. per annum.

Deposits of any amount (from 5s. upwards) received, and interest at £4 per cent. paid thereon.

Prospectuses on application to the Head Offices, 50, Bedford-row; or to the Solicitors, Messrs. Todd, Dennes, & Lamb, 22, Chancery-lane, London, W.C.

ELEVENTH THOUSAND, Royal 16mo., price 2s. 6d.

THOUGHTS ON HOLINESS.

By MARK GUY PEARSE.

"An instructive and suggestive book . . . fitted to carry with it a perennial stream of blessing to the soul."—The Christian.

"Brimful of deep teaching, put in crystal form."
Sword and Trowel.

T. WOOLMER, 66, Paternoster-row, E.C.
And all Booksellers.

Gospel Text Motto, 1885.

"God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He that hath the Son hath life.
1 JOHN v. 11, 12.

On Beautiful Floral Card, 6 in. by 4 in. Price One Penny, or Six Shillings the Hundred.

London: JOHN G. WHEELER, 88, Mildmay-park, N.

JANUARY QUARTERLY PAPER, in connection with the DAILY PRAYER UNION Double Number. Price 1½d. by post. Apply to the Rev. HENRY LAW HARKNESS, St. Swithin's Rectory, Worcester.

BOOKS FOR YOUNG MEN
BEGINNING LIFE.

TALKS WITH YOUNG MEN. By J. THAIN DAVIDSON, D.D. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.
"Fine manly advice, full of grace and truth. Enlivened by story and proverb, fresh with sympathy, and on fire with zeal."—Sword and Trowel.

OUR BROTHERS and SONS. By Mrs. G. S. REANEY, Author of "Our Daughters," &c. New Edition. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.
"One of her best books, written in excellent English, and with a racy, earnest pen."—Evangelical Magazine.

GUIDES AND GUARDS IN CHARACTER BUILDING. By C. H. PAYNE, D.D., LL.D. Handsomely bound, 5s.
"Admirably done. A capital book to put into a young man's hand."—British Quarterly Review.

TACT, PUSH, AND PRINCIPLE. By W. M. THAYER, Author of "Log Cabin to White House." Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.
"Will stimulate many a young man to steady and determined exertion."—Daily Telegraph.

LIFE, FUNCTION, HEALTH: Studies for Young Men. By H. SINCLAIR PATERSON, M.D. Complete in one Vol., pp. 600, 3s. 6d.
"Dr. Paterson's excellent book might be studied with profit and advantage by every young man in the kingdom."—Knowledge.

A YOUNG MAN'S SAFEGUARD IN THE PERILS OF THE AGE. By W. GUEST, F.G.S. Thirteenth Thousand. Handsomely bound, 2s. 6d.
Sir Wm. M'Arthur says:—"I have circulated many of your 'Safeguards.' I know no book like it for young men."
Mr. Spurgeon: "It has rarely been our lot to read a book which we have so much enjoyed, and could so unhesitatingly recommend."

CAPITAL FOR WORKING BOYS. Chapters on Character Building. By J. E. M'CONAUGHY. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.
"The amount of good solid advice crowded into this handsome volume and interspersed with illustrative living examples is simply wonderful."—Christian.

THE JUNIOR CLERK. A Tale of City Life. By EDWIN HODDER. 14th Edition. Handsomely bound, 2s. 6d.
"An excellent little book to place in the hands of young lads just entering into the world."—Spectator.

London: HODDER & STOUGHTON, 27, Paternoster-row.
New and Enlarged Edition. Post Free, 2s. 6d.

"UNEQUALLED AMONG DEVOTIONAL BOOKS."
THE PRECIOUS PROMISES. Cloth, 2s. 6d. New Ed. By CUNNINGHAM GEIKIE, D.D., Vicar of St. Mary's, Barnstaple. "Has been a great comfort to my aged mother."—BISHOP OF MANCHESTER.

HODDER & STOUGHTON, London.

Just Ready, Four Pages 4to. Price 2s. per 100; 18s. 6d. per 1000.

A NEW YEAR'S GIFT FOR 1885.

CONTAINING

"TIT FOR TAT." An excellent Story by Rev. C. J. WHITMORE. With full-page Illustration.

POEM: "Begin with the New Year."

"Honour thy Father and thy Mother." By D. L. MOODY.

"DON'T SWEAR." An Incident from the life of Howard the Philanthropist.

"Cut off by the Tide." A New Year's Warning.

"REMEMBER THE SABBATH DAY;" or, Does Sunday Labour Pay?

With several Engravings, and an appropriate selection of Scripture Texts.

Four Pages 4to. Price 2s. per 100; 18s. 6d. per 1000.

A NEW YEAR'S GIFT. ASSORTED PACKET.

FOUR DIFFERENT SORTS (in One Packet).

THE THREE HEBREW CAPTIVES. With Full-Page Illustration. By D. L. MOODY.
A DREAM. Poetry.
TOO GREAT A SINNER.
"DO YOU WANT TO BE FREE?"
JESUS Poetry.

THE EMPEROR'S PROCLAMATION. With Full-Page Illustration.
TIME SPEEDS AWAY. Illustrated.
JOHNNY MORRISON, the Scotchman. Illustrated. By Major WHITTLE.
A NEW YEAR'S RESOLVE. Illustrated. Poetry.
A COLLISION AVERTED. Illustrated.

BRAVE JOHN MAYNARD. With Full-Page and other Illustrations.
"I BELONG TO DEATH'S MASTER!"
WHY PEOPLE DRINK. Illustrated.
THE REJECTED LIFE-BELT.
WHAT WILL YOU DO WITH CHRIST? Illustrated.
BEGIN WITH NEW YEAR'S DAY. Illustrated.

WHAT ARE YOU GOOD FOR? A Question for the New Year. With Full-Page Illustration.
A NEW YEAR'S HYMN.
REST ON THE SABBATH. Illustrated.
CALL ON CHRIST! Illustrated.
COME. Poetry.
THE KNOWLEDGE OF GOD. Illustrated.
CARVING A NAME. Illustrated.

Either sort may be obtained separately.

Christians will find the NEW YEAR'S GIFT an excellent medium for sending to unconverted friends a few seasonable words of Gospel truth and exhortation; and very attractive for gratuitous distribution.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

The Christian.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

THIS age, whatever be its characteristics, would indignantly repudiate the charge of being superstitious. Yet the Times, which at once leads and follows current opinion, closes with "Absit omen," its article on the second day of the year respecting the long series of recent railway accidents which culminated on New Year's Day with the terrible disaster near Penistone.

The following are its concluding paragraphs: "Our great national holidays seldom go by without some such gloomy records as those with which our columns have lately been crowded. The present season has brought no exception to the rule. Its disasters, however, appeal in one way to the imagination with more than customary force. A serious railway accident on the evening of the last day of the old year has been followed immediately by a new and more terrible catastrophe on the first morning of the year which we have just entered upon. Absit omen!"

And yet it is not mere superstition, nor mere imagination, which recognises an other-world voice in the events with which the old year closed and the new year has begun. The awful earthquakes in Spain remind us of others which have taken place in the recent past, and point with no uncertain finger to the Lord's forewarning of "earthquakes in divers places," as among the signs of the last times.

One of God's ways of dealing with a nation is to withhold men of wisdom and power, so that "there is none to guide her among all the sons whom she has brought forth; neither is there any to take her by the hand of all the sons that she hath brought up." And, on the other hand, when He has purged away the dross, one of the first tokens of his returning favour is, "I will restore thy judges as at the first, and thy counsellors as at the beginning, and thou shalt be called The city of righteousness, the faithful city."

These words of God are brought to mind by a leader in the Pall Mall Gazette on the illness of Mr. Gladstone, in which it says: "There is no reason to be dismayed if only Mr. Gladstone were well, but if Mr. Gladstone's indisposition continues the outlook may well appal the stoutest heart. For in that case England at one of the most critical epochs in her history will practically have no guidance, but will be left to drift in the trough of the sea towards the inevitable catastrophe."

We make no comment on the want of grasp in the conduct of our foreign politics. But the obvious fact that the present Government is not master of the situation, and the equally patent absence of any other men able to take the helm, should lead those who fear God to ask how it comes to pass that England "will have no guidance" if the life already prolonged to seventy-five years should now be brought to a close.

In another column we have noted the gratulations of a contemporary on the progress of the new theology. But among the happiest signs of the times we recognise the vigour of the doctrines of the Cross. We look in vain for any notable work of the Spirit on the souls of men, where the theology which our forefathers preached, and for which they suffered unto blood, has been replaced by the invertebrate school of modern thought. But in London and the country there is a perpetual revival going on, and souls are daily and nightly being gathered in where the Gospel of the Kingdom, its grace and its penalties, is still preached as in the days of old.

◆

CALEB AT GILGAL.

Joshua i. 11; xiv. 6—15.

SIT we in the tent door,
In the fading light,
Thoughts of many years ago
Come to me to-night.
Children, I have seen the land
Whither soon we go,
Will ye hear again the tale
Which so well ye know?

From the camp at Kadesh
Moses sent us forth,
Twelve strong men of Israel,
Started for the north;
Safe we crossed the Jordan,
Stemmed its torrent flow,
When we went to spy the land
Forty years ago.

Oh, the wondrous journey!
Kept by God's own hand,
Forty days we wandered
Through the promised land;
North where lofty Lebanon,
With its peaks of snow,
Guards his mighty cedars
On the slopes below.

South to ancient Hebron,
Where the oak trees wave
O'er our father's sepulchre,
In Machpelah's cave:
Oh, it is a goodly land,
Milk and honey flow,
And that goodly land is ours,
God's Word made it so!

I have seen it, children,
Hebron's lofty wall;
Gates of brass, and guardians bold,
Sons of Anak tall.
How the giants scorned us!
Saw but to despise—
Small as summer grasshoppers,
Seemed we in their eyes.

So we passed to Eshcol,
Rested by the brook,
Thence a mighty cluster
Of its grapes we took.
How the figs were ripening
In the sun that day!
How the heavy pomegranates
Bowed their slender spray!

Children, ye shall taste them,
There for you they grow,
Fresh and luscious as they hung
Forty years ago.
Back we came to Kadesh,
With our burden sweet,
Grapes, and figs, and pomegranates
Laid at Moses' feet.

Yet ten spies, faint-hearted,
Spake against the Lord,
Spake against the land He gave,
Trusted not his word.
Vainly I and Joshua,
Their false words withstood,
Told them we had seen the land,
And the land was good.
Rent our garments, crying,
Wherefore murmur thus?
Wherefore fear the giant throng?
They are bread for us.
Israel in their madness
Heeded not our word,
Rose in wrath against us,
Rose against the Lord.

Till Jehovah smote them
For their sin that day,
And beside us, stretched in death,
Our ten comrades lay.
Yet, oh blessed moment,
After set of sun,
When I heard God's message,
Faithful one, well done!

Thou shalt see the land again,
Which thy feet have trod,
Hebron is the heritage,
Given thee of God.
Thus I won our heritage,
His word made it so,
And I knew that it was mine
Forty years ago.

How his hand has kept me
All these forty years,
Kept my feet from failing,
Kept my heart from fears.
And I go to taste again
Canaan's wine and corn,
Step unwearied, eye undimmed,
Even shoes unworn.*

Children, see this right hand,
Kept by power divine,
Othniel's arm is not more strong,
Aim more sure, than mine.
Sons and grandsons, gladly
I with you will go,
Fight as I would fain have fought
Forty years ago.

For the foes are mighty,
Sons of Anak strong,
Still they hold the fertile fields
Which to us belong.
Giants dwell in Hebron,
Giants guard its towers,
But our God is on our side,
And the land is ours.

Ofttimes in the evening,
'Neath the desert palm,
We have heard our Achsah sing
Miriam's lofty psalm;
Sung beside the waters
Of the parted sea,
We shall hear her sing again
After victory.

There was stormy music
In the gladsome shout,
Glory to the Lord of Hosts,
Who hath brought us out;
Calmer, sweeter music
After battle's din,
When we all shall sing at home,
"He hath brought us in."

He will do it. Children,
Are your weapons right,
Sword blades keen and hearts aglow,
Burning for the fight?
Hark, the trumpets warning,
In three days we go—
Yet we might have had the land
Forty years ago!

Sarah R. Geldard.

---

* Ex. xxix. 5.

MISSION WORK IN MARYLEBONE.—A new building in connection with the Bell-street Mission, attached to Rev. Dr. Donald Fraser's congregation, will be formally opened to-morrow (Friday). Mr. Samuel Morley will preside in the afternoon, and Dr. Fraser in the evening. We hope many friends of Mission work in the West-end will show their sympathy by attendance. For particulars, see List of "Forthcoming Meetings."

"The Christian" Pulpit.

GENERAL CHRISTIAN SERVICE.

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN OF PASTOR FUNCKE, Bremen.

I MIGHT tell you a great deal about the famous Castle of Windsor, towering proudly on the rock above the Thames. But I prefer to take the reader at once into the handsome Gothic chapel, and to stop with him before the most unimposing of all the monuments to be seen there. This is a marble statue of the last Hanoverian King, who first became blind and then lost his throne. Below this statue we read two texts from the Bible: "He has received an unchangeable kingdom," and "In thy light, O Lord, we see light."

As I read this I felt constrained to cry out aloud from joy at seeing once more (what I had seen so often before) how the Bible is an inexhaustible treasury, a mine filled with Divine comfort, where we find precious pearls for all occasions and conditions. Is it not as if both those texts were written expressly for that sorely afflicted prince, who for thirty years went about in darkness, and, besides, had to suffer the loss of his throne and his kingdom? We would willingly hope that those words out of God's Book have now been fulfilled unto him, that he has found an unchangeable kingdom, and in the light of God's uncreated light is seeing the light which illuminates body and soul. But even this must be the hope of every one of us.

Even though Jesus has been declared to us as the light of the world, there will still be a great deal of darkness left, while we are journeying through a world of death in this mortal body. As the light from an oil lamp looks dark against the gaslight, and as the gaslight throws a shadow across the electric light, even so all worldly light will appear as mere darkness, when the morning splendour of eternity bursts upon us, when the light from the uncreated light in its imperishable heavenly beauty for the first time strikes upon our sight. But the hope of this will only live within us as a quickening, blessed joy, when we daily seek in God's school here below to be anointed with "eye-salve." Nothing seems more natural than to understand oneself, and yet nothing is more rare than true self-knowledge, except with those who daily by their prayers are bringing down from heaven light, courage, and humility, by which to attain to this knowledge. And as to the holy counsels of God for the salvation of the world, they will never become known in their height and depth to the man who believes that he has exhausted and fathomed them once for all. Only he who with Paul is praying to have the "eyes of his understanding enlightened," and is daily sensible of this, that "now we see through a glass darkly," will experience the great joy that new stars are continually blazing forth on the horizon of grace before his delighted eyes.

But also with regard to our relation to the world, with regard to our work and our doings among our fellow-men, this prayer, "Give me to see," must never cease. Again and again the question of St. Paul—"Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?"—must be stirring within us. For truly a Christian is to do something in the world, because he is a Christian; that is to say, because he knows what God has done for him and within his soul. He who has experienced the power of the Gospel must not aim at anything less than the evangelisation of the world. He must become an evangelist, a witness, a worker, a soldier in the service of Jesus Christ. If you are saved you will partake of the mind of the Saviour, or you are not really saved.

Among English Christians great stress is put upon this point. Still we cannot but think it something of an error that the awakened souls are not sufficiently exhorted to ponder the great truths of the Gospel, and to commune with their own hearts in quietness and solitude, instead of being forced into eager and often ill-judged attempts to save souls, before they themselves have been firmly established in grace.

This "practical religion" will at times contain more of the "practical" than of the "religious" element; this "active faith" will often degenerate into a busy activity in which faith itself is wanting. On the other hand, it must be admitted that the Christian people of Germany err in the opposite direction. It is a trait of our national character that we are apt to lose ourselves in philosophical speculations and meditations, to occupy ourselves with theories, and dig into the depths of knowledge.

The chief thing in religion is, however, not knowledge, but the outcome thereof. It is said, "To love Christ is better than to possess wisdom;" but love cannot rest in itself. That love, which is nothing more nor less than the love of God shed abroad in our hearts, cannot but bear the mark and stamp of Divine love. And what is this but trying to seek and save that which is lost? If Jesus Christ has really made Himself known to us as the saving Shepherd in the wilderness, then the image of the Shepherd must ever be reflected in us. True love can never remain content in its own happiness. Being love, it is compelled to give unto others of that which it has itself received.

If you look through the Epistles you will everywhere find that the disciples of Christ, whether belonging to the male or female sex, whether clever or commonplace, poor or rich, are all, without any exceptions, designated as the fellow-workers and fellow-soldiers of the apostle. And when Jesus Himself describes his disciples He always emphasises how his image is to appear in them, his graces, his works, are to be revealed in them and through them. This will be shown partly in comforting, helping, saving work and willing service (with a view to the relieving of the inward and outward misery of the world), partly in fights and struggles (against the evil within ourselves and in the world around us).

Thus it is out of the question that the disciples of Christ should be weak, dull, inert people, always hanging their heads and moaning over their sins—out of the question that they should be star-gazers and dreamers, having neither eye nor heart for this world. On the contrary, God wants to stir up every nerve, every drop of blood in his children to do his holy work. He means them to use every power, every talent they possess, for his glory. And even this, that the Church of Christ consists of nothing but workers and soldiers, devoting themselves to his service, is to give the world a palpable proof of the truth of Christianity.

That time is past with us when all clerical work was done by the ordained clergyman, while the "laity" were reduced to hearing, obeying, and paying.* The great thought of primitive Christianity, viz., the universal priesthood, has been mightily revived through the terrible revolutions of modern times. That minister who does not within his church provide himself with a host of faithful men and women as his fellow-workers, is powerless, and will soon sink to the ground, tired and desponding.

From thousands and thousands of pulpits the Lord's people of the present day are entreated to enlist as active soldiers in his army. And not in vain. To be sure, there are still many who have kept their old views, and wonder, when told, that they have something to do as Christians. Such, who have remained behindhand of the time, injure themselves and are defrauding their heavenly King of time and power. But, on the whole, it is a fact that the idea of "general military service" is gaining more and more ground; and everywhere in this world, so full of selfishness, bright monuments to divine love are being raised, showing that the great Shepherd has found willing hands and hearts to carry on this work. Who can enumerate those countless benevolent institutions, those unwearying efforts to raise the fallen and comfort the afflicted, which have all originated in pitying, Christian love? Such things as these testify to the children of this world in a way that cannot be overlooked. The sincere unbeliever will not be able to pass them by. He must needs stop before them and acknowledge to himself, in spite of the seemingly conclusive arguments to the contrary, that what proves to be the saving and renewing spirit of humanity cannot be foolish or antiquated.

But now I would earnestly put the question to you, my reader: "Have you become a soldier of Jesus Christ, a worker for Him?" When we speak of work in the Lord's vineyard we are continually met by the objection, "Oh, I have no fitness for it! I am willing to give my mite toward some good purpose, but I am not able to undertake anything myself. Pray leave me alone!" He who talks thus is either of little faith, or he is sluggish and selfish, while excusing himself behind his alleged impotence. Sometimes the objection will take this form: "Alas, for me, poor wretch, I make so little progress in the spiritual life! I shall be glad if I can arrange to get safely into heaven myself! I dare not think of trying to get others saved." This may sound like humility, but it is nothing but senseless talk, for even through our work for them our Saviour will quicken our fainting souls, and stir us up to the pursuit of holiness. By loving, love becomes warm and active.

Those people are agreed that they have no power to do anything, and in a certain sense they speak truly. For, of course, no one can do what he does not himself believe he is able to, and what he does not earnestly wish to be able to. Despondency is like death. It paralyses every power, it stifles every good deed in its birth. But we are to combat this despondency as an inspiration of Satan, or everything is lost. A battle is lost when we lose heart and give in; every gift of God will be lost if we esteem it so little as not to make use of it. This is true in all the fields of life, and not least in the kingdom of God.

A Christian must believe that when he became a Christian he received gifts even for others. When the Saviour had been revealed to the world an abundance of heavenly gifts was shown in the Christian Church, of which the classical olden time knew nothing. For one possessed the gift of teaching, another the gift of prophecy, another the gift of healing, another the gift of nursing the sick and administering to the poor, another the gift of comforting the sorrowing, &c. &c. But every gift was used in the service of the heavenly King and permeated by the spirit of heavenly love.

Christ is the Head of the Church, the

---

* We wish it were so; but see the article on Religious Persecution in Germany, p. 13.—Ed.

Church being his body. Every Christian is a member of this body, or he is not a Christian at all. All the members are not of equal importance, but not the most insignificant one is superfluous. Not one can be left out, not one must remain inactive, if the whole system is not to be deranged. The tooth must no less be ready than the brain, the smallest finger-joint no less than the eye, which is "the light of the body." The apostles are always pointing out how a gift of God which is to serve the common good is slumbering within every Christian, a gift that has to be discovered and stirred up. But they could not speak of the universal duty of enlisting in Christ's service if there had not been a universal fitness for it.

It is different with regard to the temporal affairs of life. The female sex does not at all gather beneath the standard of war, and even a man is not accepted as a soldier if he suffer from some bodily defect. In the kingdom of God, on the contrary, it is said to the women as well as to the men, to the imbecile as to the highly gifted, to the sick no less than to those in good health: "Endure thou hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ."

A STRIKING CONVERSION.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

[In one of his addresses in Liverpool last week, Mr. Hammond related the following remarkable case of conversion.]

IN the year 1876, at the invitation of ministers in Washington, District of Columbia, I held a series of Gospel-meetings which lasted twelve weeks. Washington is called "the city of magnificent distances," and churches as well as individuals are much isolated. It was but slowly that the people came together in the daily prayer-meeting. In answer to many prayers, however, the Holy Spirit came down on the great evangelistic gatherings with mighty power, and many remarkable conversions resulted.

Amongst those converted was the well-known Major Hall. He was a popular man among his companions. He had frequently held offices of trust under the government of the city, and was a member of a fashionable club. He was confessedly addicted to the vices common among men of the world. One day, walking down Pennsylvania Avenue, he met his old friend General Crittenden, who said to him: "Major, I have been converted; if you come to Dr. Rankin's Church to-night you will hear me relate my experience." The Major at first thought his friend spoke in ridicule, but he soon discovered that General Crittenden was in dead earnest. After no small persuasion he consented to be present at the evening meeting.

General Crittenden related his spiritual experiences on that occasion in a manner which moved many hearts. He had been a leader in the Northern Army during the Civil War, and was a man of much ability. At the time of his conversion he was practising as a lawyer, and with his Christian wife attended Dr. Sunderland's church. He told how his son's conversion in the meetings had attracted him to them, and how, at last, his proud heart had yielded to Christ. As he spoke, not a few were moved to tears. Major Hall, however, instead of being softened, seemed to be greatly incensed. When the inquiry-meeting was announced, and his wife urged him to stay, he said, "No! The General has made a fool of himself. I will have nothing to do with such meetings." He went from the church straight to a place of fashionable resort, where he gambled all night. Next morning, instead of going home he went to a hotel to breakfast, and afterwards slept there till late in the afternoon. Then he returned to his evil associates.

Meantime his wife had set apart that day for fasting and prayer for the conversion of her husband. In her agony of prayer she cried out, "O Lord, if need be, take from us by death our darling and only daughter, if so my husband may be led to Christ." No assurance of an answer seemed to be vouchsafed, and she continued to plead: "O Lord, take from us our firstborn and only son, who, with his sister, has given his heart to Jesus in these meetings, if that is needed to lead my dear husband to thyself." Still no answer seemed to be given. Almost in an agony of despair, she cried out, "O God, lay my dead body across his pathway, if need be, to keep him from stumbling into hell. Thou didst give thy Son to die for him; if the sacrifice of my life is also needed, I freely give it." No sooner had these words fallen from her lips than she felt, like Daniel of old, that while she was yet speaking, God had heard and answered her prayer. She rose from her knees filled with joy, and ran across the street to the house of a Christian neighbour, to whom she said, "My husband is going to be converted, and he will join Dr. Black's Church on such and such a day." They said to her, "Why, you are beside yourself; where is your husband?" "I do not know," she replied; "but I know he is going to be converted; God has answered my prayer."

That same night Major Hall was among his companions, and had gambled till daybreak, when suddenly he threw down his cards, and saying, "I have played my last card," he turned upon his heel, and went to his office, under terrible conviction of sin. He hunted up a Bible, but he knew more of Blackstone than about God's law and Gospel, and he could find no comfort in turning over the leaves of the sacred book. He remained in his office, however, till five o'clock in the afternoon, having been there from daybreak, trembling all the time at the foot of Mount Sinai. At last he went to a friend's house, and told him of his distress. He at once brought Dr. Black, the pastor, who pointed him to Christ, explaining to him the Saviour's finished work, and urging him to pray God for mercy and forgiveness. He did so. His prayer was heard and answered; peace and joy filled his soul.

Major Hall came to the meeting that night. Some one said to me, "There is Major Hall, do you know he has been converted?" "Indeed," I replied. I left the platform, and said, "Major, I hear you have become a Christian; is it true?" "Yes, it is." "You are well known in Washington; if you would stand on that platform, and relate your experience to the great assemblage of people here to-night, it would do more good than any sermon I could preach." He said: "I am so weak, I can scarcely stand upon my feet. I have eaten nothing since yesterday at three o'clock, and I have been in terrible soul distress most of the time." "Well, if you will come up, and, after I have spoken, say a word or two, I am sure the Lord will help you, and it will do great good." I placed my arm in his and led him on to the platform. His utterances were broken, what he said was so indistinct that very few heard. But the tears fell from his eyes, and many in that great audience who knew him well as a man of pleasure, and could guess what a terrible soul-struggle he had passed through, were deeply moved by his testimony. His wife, scarcely realising what she was doing, sprang to her feet, and in a clear voice that rang through the building, exclaimed: "I am the happiest woman in Washington to-night!"

One week from that date Major Hall stood at my side on the steps of the Capitol, where for many years the American Presidents had been inaugurated, and in a clear, stentorian voice, in the presence of from 10,000 to 15,000 persons, related the story of his conversion. It had not been announced that he was to speak, but vast numbers were in the habit of gathering there Sabbath after Sabbath, to hear Gospel addresses.

These events occurred nine years ago, and Major Hall, from that day to this, has lived a consistent and earnest Christian life. Every year the church he attends, and whose membership he joined on the very day mentioned by his wife, celebrates the anniversary of his remarkable conversion. The building is decorated and great rejoicing is expressed that God has saved their friend and brother as one who was indeed "a brand plucked from the burning." I have received numerous letters from him, which always cheer my heart and lead me to thank God for his sovereign grace. Would that every Christian who reads this narrative might have his faith strengthened to pray for those who may seem to be far gone in sin. Would that every sinner might realise that Christ is indeed able to save to the uttermost all who come unto God by Him, "seeing that He ever liveth to make intercession for us."

CONSCIENCE AND CONFESSION.

CONSCIENCE is that part of man which corresponds to the judgment seat of God. It takes knowledge of the laws of right and wrong, and judges accordingly. It may be wrongly informed, or it may lose its full power, but it judges on, unless it is seared as with a hot iron, through sensuality as regards the body, or through resisting the Holy Spirit as regards the soul.

A believer in the Lord Jesus Christ should, after his conversion have—can it be said that he always has?—a greater sensitiveness concerning sin than he had previously. Before, it may be, he was only struck home on committing the first transgression of some known law, or by repeating some great offence. Now a glancing thought of evil dulls the spiritual life and calls for confession; a moment's wrong imagination should be abhorred; an unloving feeling is found to diminish the spiritual tone; a hasty word will call for repentance; an ambitious selfish desire will be felt to be contrary to the character of Christ; an unguarded yielding to disparaging remarks will be followed by bitter self reproach; the opening of a door to evil by a hair's breadth will be felt to be a departure from the life of holiness, needing confession, forgiveness, and restoration.

If we find that confession has little or no place, or that it is a mere generality, in our private prayers, let such a fact become a call to serious reflection.

May the dawning New Year's week of prayer be marked by more definite confession! Is there not a cause?

A READER.

OLD CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S CARDS.—The Secretary of the Children's Scrap Book Mission will be glad to receive any cards that friends may feel disposed to send for the purpose of making scrap-books for the poor and sick children of London. Since the establishment of this Mission over 2500 scrap-books have been distributed to the homes and hospitals of London, and over 5000 boxes of sea-shells have been sent out by the same agency. The address is 26, Tunstall-road, Brixton, London, S.W.

CHEAP CHARITY.

HOW long shall it be counted a virtue to be careful, in the sense of never giving full value for a purchase? Many good people consider it a sin to spend money, except very sparingly, even on daily necessaries; getting the most for the money that they can, and saving up "for the Lord," i.e., to give to different institutions and charities and organisations in connection with places of worship, &c. This is all done with so good a motive by many, that it would seem almost wicked to say we believe it is a mistake. But it is a most serious and deeply-wrought conviction in the mind of the writer of these notes, that if Christian people would be willing to pay a fair price for what they buy, and always to pay what they owe, or not owe at all, there would be a most wonderful lessening of the call for "charitable contributions." Poor people would then be paid for their work when shopkeepers and manufacturers were paid for their goods a fair price and with promptitude.

Which is better, to help "the masses" so to live by honest work, or to dole out a little help when they come to starvation point and can hold up no longer? Money certainly ought to be considered a trust, as everything else; but the natural purpose of money is to buy with, and the truest men and women would rather earn it than receive it as a gift of "charity."

The sooner we get the notion out of our minds that God loves to have us deal unjustly with our neighbour, in order to give to those who are impoverished thereby, the better. How often we hear the remark, "What a shame to spend so much money when so many are starving;" as if the withholding of money would feed them, when it is really this withholding, and saving, and hoarding, and doling out tenths and "widow's mites." (?), which is doing the mischief. Let us count all our money as the Lord's, given to us to use in this world in honest trading, and not as ours, from which we are to save out all we can to give to Him.

Suppose a man owe me £1, but, being charitably disposed, offers 15s., and gives the other 5s. to the poor, and believes he is doing the Lord service. I have had to pay, say, 14s. for the article I sell, and must get my daily bread and shelter, and pay my workpeople out of the 1s. I do not give a subscription to the free dinners, but in heaven I rather think the 5s. is as likely to go down to my account as to his.

Suppose, again, a parent sends a child to school; the fees are arranged after careful calculation of what will cover costs, and leave a margin for living at, say, £40. The parent calculates he could keep the child for less, and does not feel justified in spending so much for education when so many need help, but education he must have, and he offers £35, or less, and even then takes long credit, for at the beginning of the year he has many calls for charities which he dare not refuse. The instructor and feeder and care-taker of his child must do without the money spent upon him or her during the term ended, and must even possibly undertake to commence another before it comes. Meantime, the butcher, and baker, and grocer, and landlord, and servants, and teachers, &c., must be paid, or wait. And do none of these have calls upon them? Who gave those five guineas "to the Lord?" Not the man who saved it out of his school bill! He was mistaken. The Lord says, "I hate robbery for burnt offering." What was the charge against the Pharisees of old? "Ye tithe mint and anise and cummin, but neglect the weighter matters of the law, justice, mercy, and faith." "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" We must mind not to give away other people's goods, even to the most needy; this is neither just nor merciful, but dishonest!

But the sin of cheapness has come to be counted a blessing, and the sin of cheapening a virtue. It was only lately that the head of a certain institution was pleading for funds. To some who had objected that the objects of his care were too expensively clothed, and that the subscribers' money was not economically expended, he justified himself thus: "We buy cheap remnants, &c., out of season, when shopkeepers are glad to sell at a great reduction. And we get the garments made during the season of the year when work is slack and those who undertake it are glad to do it at a low figure." So this was a relief to the minds of those who desired to save all they could, to give away to poor people out of work or otherwise distressed.

Would it not be better to pay a fair price for the work done at once, and then perhaps the workpeople would not need the charitable gift? Is it better to pay little and make up with a basin of soup or a loan blanket, or to pay well and let a man buy his own provisions, &c.—which would you rather have? "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself." "If ye fulfil the royal law according to the Scriptures, ye do well."

◆

EN ROUTE FOR CHINA.

ONE of the lady missionaries who have lately left under the auspices of the China Inland Mission, writes from the ss. Rosetta, China Sea, Nov. 4, 1884:—

"We have been very much interested in going to see the different ports; everywhere there seems to be need of more missionaries. We spent the day at Singapore last Thursday. Mr. Haffenden, the agent of the British and Foreign Bible Society, had travelled in the ship with us from Penang; he took us round the town and told us about the people. There are 175,000 Malays in the different Straits Settlements, and there is not one missionary working among them. Mr. Macdonald, of Penang, does a little, but his work is mostly with Europeans and Chinese. I don't think there is any Christian worker of any sort besides for the Malays. Ever since we were there I have wanted to write to you about it, thinking perhaps you might be able to stir somebody up to go. If people could only see these places, and their need, they would long to come. Singapore would be a lovely place to live in (for anyone who likes heat), and the language is not difficult, Mr. Haffenden says; but the work would be difficult, because the Malays are such bigoted Mahommedans."

We are thankful to hear also from Rev. J. Hudson Taylor that the work of God on board this vessel, and the previous one which they left at Ceylon, has been very encouraging.

STRATFORD, CANADA.—The union revival meetings, says a local paper, are still conducted in Knox Church by Revs. Hunter and Crossley, who have returned for a week and perhaps longer. Since these special services have begun scores have been converted, and the work continues with unabated interest. On Friday night the Central Church was crowded to the doors by an eager and attentive multitude. At the close of the sermon about fifty held up their hands as desirous of being prayed for; many anxious ones (men, boys, women, and children) made their way to the altar and inquiry-rooms after the more public service was dismissed, and a number found joy and peace in believing that God, for Christ's sake, pardoned their sins. Such a work of grace as that at present going on in our midst has never been known in Stratford. Wherever you go the uppermost topic of conversation is the revival meetings, and nightly the people flock in hundreds to the church.

MORE LESSONS LEARNED IN ITALY.*

THE Christian mind cannot help being struck, on a visit to Italy, by the evil the Roman Catholic Church sustained when wealth, pomp and grandeur superseded the self-sacrificing spirit that ennobled the first centuries of the Christian church. One realises here that as riches flow in, so spirituality dies out. A good missionary once wrote how sadly he was impressed by the fact that when Christian men who were living comfortably on a fair income had their resources augmented, instead of giving the surplus to God, they "instantly started a carriage, put the Jack-of-all-trades into a livery, turned the buttons into a flunkey, and the village girl into a lady's-maid. When asked for something really demanding a sacrifice, they answer, 'We can't afford it.'" Without doubt there are duties owing to society, but a good man will take serious counsel as to what they are and how far they are militating against higher and holier claims.

Visitors to Italy are not only amazed at the pomp of the wealthy cardinals, bishops, &c., but vice versâ, at the extreme poverty and austerity of the Franciscan and other monks. May not these teach us that, whilst we should avoid neglecting the body to the detriment of mind and spirit, we should follow their spirit of self-sacrifice, and be willing to "take up the cross" for Jesus' sake? Alas! we are too selfish, too luxurious; we are not prepared to give up our own ease and self-gratification to benefit our fellow-beings, and to smooth their thorny paths at the expense of our personal comfort and interest. Yet we call ourselves followers of Him who "pleased not Himself."

Here, too, we witness how much the Roman Catholic Church owes to its sisterhoods. Almost all their works of charity are carried on through them. We travel back in mind, through ages of corruption, to the first centuries of the Christian Church when the deaconesses exercised so powerful and active an influence amongst the early converts. We think of Phebe, the deaconess, mentioned Rom. xvi. 1 (for the word there translated "servant" signifies "deaconess" in the Greek original), and we picture her carrying St. Paul's Epistle to Rome. The deaconesses were employed as doorkeepers at the women's entrance to the place of worship, to welcome and find seats for poor and rich. They were ever to accompany female converts to baptism, and to be "zealous to serve women;" they were to fulfil the duties of the deacon in those houses where, in consequence of unbelievers, the entrance of a man might give rise to vile slander and scandal; to them "pertained messages, foreign journeys, ministrations, services."

We think with pleasure on our Mildmay and other deaconesses serving the Lord in the happy liberty of his children, and ask the prayers of your readers for the poor Italian nuns, who with careworn faces and downcast eyes throng the streets of this city, that they too may be freed from all bondage, and rejoice in the marvellous light of the Sun of Righteousness. I. M.

Hotel Milano, Florence.

---

* See THE CHRISTIAN, Nov. 13, 1884.

HOME FOR GENTLEWOMEN.—Miss S. Strong-i'th'arm, 19, Sutherland-gardens, Harrow-road, W., earnestly asks for help in clearing off the debt on this Institution, which she now feels compelled to close for lack of adequate support. This is much to be regretted, as it has done good service in providing for those in deep necessity.

MR. SAMUEL SMITH ON SOCIAL REFORM.

AN important contribution has been added to the cause of Social Reform in an article by Mr. Samuel Smith, M.P. for Liverpool, in the current number of the Contemporary Review. It is devoted to the advocacy of a scheme for the industrial training of destitute children, of whom an ever-increasing number are rising up amongst us. The extraordinary rapidity with which the degraded portion of our population multiplies forms one of the gloomiest elements in the social aspects of the day. By utilising the Board School buildings for night instruction in handicrafts of various kinds, many thousands of children now roaming the streets and becoming hopelessly depraved by what they see and hear, might be reclaimed and put in the way of honest independence. It is estimated that at present not less than seventy thousand boys and girls are actually on the streets of London helpless and with nothing to do.

The eminently practical character of Mr. Smith's proposals will be seen from his own description of them. "It is an extension to all the destitute children of the land of the excellent system of industrial training which already obtains in the best of our district schools, in the reformatory and industrial schools, and in very many private institutions, such as Dr. Barnardo's admirable homes in the East of London. It is to give to the thousands what is now given to the tens and twenties of our youthful population—to give it them, not as a reward for juvenile crime, nor as a badge of pauperism; but as a necessary part of education, quite as necessary as 'the three R's.' It is to make the training of the hands no less than the training of the head a part of national education; it is to conceive of 'education' as the fitting of a child for the duties of after-life, and, above all, for earning an honest livelihood."

In connection with his argument on the subject, Mr. Smith suggests the desirableness of adopting manual training as a part of all school education in England. Eton as well as the Seven Dials should have industrial education. Why not? The upper classes furnish a large number of helpless and really indigent dependents upon the bounty of others. The Jewish rabbis taught that it was a sin for any man, whatever his wealth, not to teach his sons a trade. The contempt felt in aristocratic circles for hand-labour and for trade is as foolish and absurd as it is a fruitful source of mischief and misery. Many genteel families have been thrown upon the stream of charity, and their reverses made doubly hard to bear, through sons and daughters being unable to turn their hands to good account. No one would be the worse, and all would be the better, for being enabled, if need be, to earn their own living.

Mr. Smith estimates that the whole cost of training half a million children in this way would not exceed half a million sterling. Rural districts would not require the same appliances as large towns and cities, nor would manufacturing centres need them so much, many children entering the mills as half-timers, and so learning a craft. As to a market being found for all the labour thus provided, our Colonial resources are almost immeasurable, while the domestic servant difficulty would be much lessened by the now slatternly girls of the slums being transformed into neat and well-trained cooks and housemaids.

THE "NEW THEOLOGY."

NEW theology advocates are full of jubilation, and hail the New Year with protestations of faith in the growing power of modern thought to entirely overthrow orthodox belief. The Christian World, in its New Year's Editorial, speaks with enthusiastic fervour of the changes which have come, and are coming, over the religious spirit of the age:—

> "Multitudes," it says, "of the great sermons of fifty years since could not now be preached in any of our pulpits, except, perhaps, in a few of the most obscure and unenlightened; and some of those that are still acceptable in certain quarters will as surely be rejected by our children. Of such a time as ours it may surely more truly be said than of the period when it was first uttered: 'To be alive is paradise: and to be young is very heaven.'"

If the paradise of modern thought upon the oracles of God is all we have to anticipate or live for, the outlook is gloomier far than we had thought. Such a prospect can only fill spiritual minds with sorrow and alarm.

While declaring its own mission to be the breaking of the fetters and strangling the serpents of theological and ecclesiastical tyranny, our contemporary adds:—

> "There are still, of course, a considerable number of persons who lament that the ways of inquirers are not hedged in so strictly as aforetime, and whose self-imposed task it is to restore old barriers, or erect new ones; but their success is not encouraging, for the tide of the time is against them, and people have acquired self-reliance."

Believers of the type referred to in these words find only confirmation of their faith in the fact that the tide of human thought is against their efforts to uphold the authority and all-sufficiency of Revelation. Perilous times, and impatience of sound doctrine, as well as of those who teach it, are signs the Word of God has prepared them to expect in these latter days. The exhortation to "Hold fast the form of sound words," gains increasing force as the tendency to let it slip becomes greater and more widespread.

The words seem in strange contrast with those of the man of God, "Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, Where is the good way? and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls." The test of all doctrine, and practice too, is how far it exalts Christ, and nourishes a true spiritual life. The exaltation of human intellect, and the loosening of the bonds of allegiance to the inspired Word of God, are not fruits of "the Tree of Life whose leaves are for the healing of the nations." Dependence upon Divine teaching, and glad reception of the yoke of Christ, are far more healthy signs of spiritual life than the modern cry for freedom and self-reliance.

POOR IN LIVERPOOL.—Mr. Charles Black, Mission House, 47, David-street, Liverpool, who labours among the poorest of the poor in that city, and daily meets with cases of the most dire distress, earnestly aks for help, either in giving clothing, relief in food, or in securing employment for those among whom he labours.

CLEAR OUT THE LUMBER ROOMS.—Almost in every house there is a receptacle for old articles, a bottom drawer, or attic, or out-of-the-way corner, where lumber is collected; in libraries, also, there are shelves of old volumes, journals, prints, &c. All sorts of odds and ends are accumulated under the idea that if they are kept for a year or more they will be sure to come into use some time or another. These things are seldom available, and are hoarded up for years, a burden to the owner. Would it not be charitable and kind to turn out these receptacles once every six months, or once a year, and distribute them among our poorer neighbours, or send them to various charitable institutions, who sadly lack such help? C. B.

SAFE HOME.

JESUS, our Lord, for that blest day,
When Thou thy Church wilt call away
To meet Thee in the air:
To stand for ever in thy sight,
To shine for ever in thy light,
Do Thou our souls prepare.

We long to know as we are known,
We long to see Thee on thy throne,
In majesty Divine:
The travail of thy soul to see,
The glory of thy saints to be,
When ages have no time.

We'll praise Thee in the highest height,
With spirits gloriously bright,
For lovingkindness here:
The longing o'er, the waiting past,
We shall be satisfied at last,
With sight and knowledge there.

M. J. M.

◆

EVANGELISATION IN SICILY.

IN a brief report recently issued of the work done by Signori Varniera nd Scuderi, we read: There are tokens that times of refreshing from the Lord for this poor land are near at hand. A gradual change has taken place in public opinion as to the character and teaching of our evangelists, and they are now listened to everywhere with respect and deference. It begins to be felt that the Gospel alone can save the country from moral anarchy. As for the Church of Rome, it has lost its hold on the people in a way that it can never be recovered. Much blessing has attended the work among the sailors, who accept tracts and Scriptures for circulation on leaving the ports. Recently a band of forty converts emigrated to America, on account of the persecution they endured.

A new Mission Hall has been built at Nizza, and the priest ordered excommunication to be passed on any who dared to attend it. The people, however, have dared to go, and the evangelists quite believe the Holy Spirit is greatly working. The increased observance of the Lord's Day is a remarkable outcome. It is a new thing in Nizza to see the shops shut on that day. The evils of the Confessional are also being increasingly recognised by the people, many of whom refuse to continue the practice. A Popish festival, which has been held at Messina from time immemorial, has recently been abolished. Mr. D. Matheson, 120, Queen's-gate, S.W., is the Hon. Sec. of the Mission.

◆

CABMEN IN COPENHAGEN.

I AM much indebted to you for your kindness in giving our Court Yard Mission a place in your paper. I read the many good articles it contains with great interest, and hope to make them practically useful in our work.

We have in connection with the Court Yard Mission commenced tea-meetings for cabmen and their wives. We have good reason to rejoice, as the two meetings we have already held have proved that these dear men will gladly leave their cabs an hour or two to listen to the Word of God. Most of them are very ignorant of the free salvation in Christ, as they never come to church, and very few of them possess Testaments. Thanks, however, to Mrs. Robertson, of Hampstead, I am able to provide each of them with a copy, for which they are very thankful.

Johan Hansen, General Consul, and Olaf Hansen, Consul, both of the well-known firm of C. K. Hansen, have taken active part in these meetings, and have promised their help to promote this work.

I shall be glad of any good advice my English friends are able to give me, and I do not hesitate asking for this, having often experienced the great kindness and willing heart with which a Christian Englishman stretches out his hand to help a weaker brother. Your account of our mission states that my parents were English. I beg to correct this, as both my father and mother were born in Denmark. My grandfather was a Yorkshireman, and started business at Elsinore, 1778, where he married a Danish lady, and from him I have got my English name.—Most truly yours, WM. WRIGHT.

7, Enighedsvei, Copenhagen.

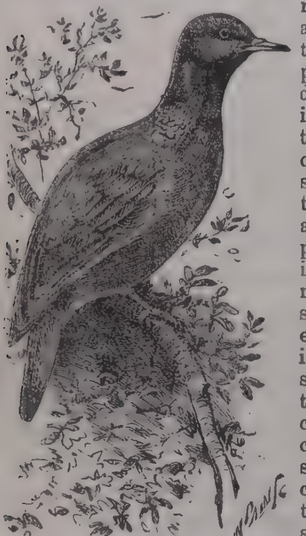
For the Young.

THE ARK AND THE DOVE.*

BY JAMES BOWKER.



SOME hundreds of years ago, a great preacher passed up and down Europe; and wherever his voice was heard the people rose up in arms and set out for the Holy Land, prepared to lay down their lives in defence of the Holy Sepulchre. It was a strange sight to see the vast and undisciplined army, influenced by a noble idea, surging along eastward; but it was more strange to see the army of children—the children's crusade—that came after, tired and footsore, along the dusty highways, beneath the blazing sun at noonday, over the frozen mountain paths in the pitiless sleet and snow, every little pilgrim looking forward hopefully and longingly for the first view of the Holy City, which so many thousands of them were destined never to see. And the old historians of the Crusades have told us that whenever the children saw in the far distance the towers or the walls of a town, their hearts throbbed with excitement and emotion; and they cried, "Is yonder Jerusalem?"

They were weary—weary of the heat, and dust, and hunger, and thirst; weary of the length of the way; and they longed for a quiet resting-place, where they could sleep in peace, their rest unbroken by any haunting visions of the toilsome march of the morrow.

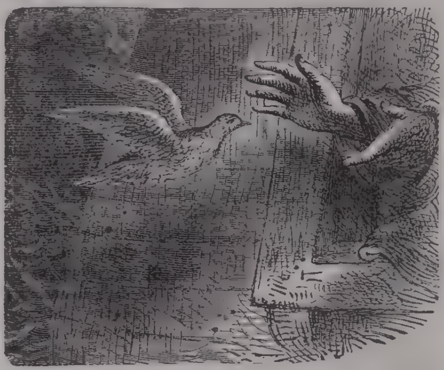
It is an old story—hundreds of years old; but the weariness it speaks of is older yet; for in the oldest book of all we have a narrative of one who over forty centuries ago sent forth a DOVE, which, finding no rest for the sole of her foot, and being weary, "came in to him in the evening." And the same sacred volume tells us of a great king, who many times was tired of his royal state; and being weary of the hollowness and emptiness of much that was about him, cried, "Oh that I had wings like a dove! then would I fly away and be at rest" (Ps. lv. 6).

We soon begin to know what weariness is. The tiny child wearies of its toys; the lad wearies of his play; and perhaps both enjoy their sleep all the more because they are tired, and fain would rest. But there are other kinds of weariness which come to us in after-life, and which are not followed by the sound sleep childhood enjoys; and then with King David we long for the power to fly away and be at rest; the weariness of sickness, and failure, and disappointment; the weariness of broken hope; the weariness of the burden of our sins.

Thank God, some of this comes to us not very early in life; but come it does to each of us. And it is a happy thing for us that in the evening, when the night is falling around us, and there are no stars, we have, like that first Dove spoken of in the Bible, an Ark to fly to; and a loving hand is outstretched to draw us in out of the darkness and the storm.

> "Happy birds that sing and fly
> Round thy altars, O most High!
> Happier souls who find a rest
> In a Heavenly Father's breast!
> Like the Wandering Dove that found
> No repose on earth around,
> They can to their Ark repair,
> And enjoy it ever there."

In Palestine to-day the doves may be seen in flocks of thousands: and in the olive groves about Damascus they are in such numbers that the groves seem to be filled with the sweet sad music of their notes. Such flocks of them, and such music there was in the days of the old writers of the Bible: hence the many references, like that of Isaiah lx. 8, "Who are these that fly as a cloud, and as the doves to their windows:" or, "We mourn sore like doves" (Isa. lix. 11): or, "her maids shall lead her as with the voice of doves" (Nahum ii. 7).



One Eastern traveller states that he tried to keep in his house at Damascus a dove like the one to which David refers (Ps. lxviii. 13), with wings "covered with silver, and her feathers with yellow gold:" but he could not tame it; and its notes, kept up all through the night as through the day, were so mournfully sad he could not bear to listen to them.

Like many other birds in the Holy Land, the doves know their appointed time, as the swallows do; and when the winter comes, most of them—rock, wood, and wild doves—fly away to other climes.

It is the same in our own land, where in some parts we have three or four different kinds of doves or pigeons, or cushats, as they are called; for at the approach of the dark days, and the frost, and the snow, most of them fly away across the sea and the continent to Africa, calling at Italy to rest for a day or two on the way. And those which remain with us either lose their voice, or make no use of it during the winter; for they are not heard again until the warm days come back, when the woods and coppices seem to be full of the soothing and pleasant sound of their notes.

In England their nests are generally somewhat roughly made; and the eggs frequently are visible through the openings, just as they are in Palestine: though sometimes in the Holy Land the rock-dove builds securely enough upon the ledges of the cliffs, and the entrances to caves, as Jeremiah (xlviii. 28) says, "like the dove that maketh her nest in the sides of the hole's mouth."

All the Bible references to doves are very interesting; but those of the New Testament are something beyond that. I always love all the more a plant or a bird of a kind to which Jesus made allusion; and the dove is one of them. "Be ye harmless as doves," Christ said to his disciples; and if each of us were to follow the Lord's words, simply in that one respect alone, the world would be very much quieter and happier to-day—so peaceful that we should begin to think we had been taken from it. All through God's Word the dove is the symbol of harmlessness, and gentleness, and love. And what a precious thing gentleness is, and how powerful it is! It is the gentle dew, and not the waterspout, that blesses the fields in springtime.

I remember to-day two masters I was under at school. One was a huge, burly fellow, with a sharp unkind word, and a sharper punishment, for every boy, big or little, who was guilty of an omission or a fault: and every lad, little or big, in the school hated him, and longed for the time when they would see him no more. The other was by no means a weakling, for he was a splendid fellow in the cricket-field; but he was as gentle as a child. And the roughest and wildest lads, who would have scorned to allow their faces to tell what they suffered under a cruel beating from the first, used to dread a quiet five minutes' talk with the second master, who in a sweet low voice always used to begin with "my dear boy." Few lads left the presence of that second master without having felt unable to repress the rising tears, and without a noble resolve to be better for the sake of the Christian gentleness with which the folly or the fault had been dealt with.

And in respect of harmlessness and gentleness, as of everything else noble and holy, the life of Jesus gives us the most perfect example. It is a hymn for little children which says—

> "Gentle Jesus, meek and mild:"

but it was written by one who had learned much of that great love, the height and depth of which no man knows; and the line contains a faithful portrait of that same Jesus, who on Calvary gave up his life for you and for me.

> "Thou didst live to God alone,
> Thou didst never seek thine own,
> Thou thyself didst never please."

In the New Testament, however, the dove was an emblem of the Holy Spirit; and at the baptism of Christ John saw "the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon Him" (Matt. iii. 16). And that same Spirit of God descends softly and silently as a dove into the heart of every weary one who asks God for the gift:—

> "A gracious willing Guest
> Where He can find one humble heart
> Wherein to rest.
> And his that gentle voice we hear,
> Soft as the breath of even,
> That checks each thought, and calms each fear,
> And speaks of heaven."

Let us then ask for the Holy Spirit, and for more of the Holy Spirit, if here below we would have peaceful rest after much weariness; and if we would hereafter have the unbroken rest of heaven.

> "Come, Gracious Spirit, Heavenly Dove,
> With light and comfort from above;
> Be Thou our Guardian, Thou our Guide,
> O'er every thought and step preside."

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for the ensuing week:—Jan. 11, Psalms xi. 1—7; Jan. 12, xii. 1—8; Jan. 13, xiii. 1—6; Jan. 14, xiv. 1—7; Jan. 15, xv. 1—5; Jan. 16, xvi. 1—11; Jan. 17, xvii. 1—15.

---

* From BIRDS OF THE BIBLE. 2s. Morgan & Scott.

BIBLE ACROSTIC.

The initials form the name of a king of a heathen land.

(1) A precious stone.
(2) The son of a great king.
(3) A god mentioned by Stephen.
(4) A poisonous herb.
(5) A province of Greece.
(6) A city of Judah.
(7) A king to whom David fled.
(8) A small insect.

ANSWER TO LAST ACROSTIC.

SIMEON—GEN. xxix. 33; LUKE ii. 25.

Sceva	Acts xix. 14.
Ibhar	2 Samuel v. 15.
Maher-sha-lal-hash-baz	Isaiah viii. 1—3.
Eunice	2 Tim. i. 5; Acts xvi. 1.
Onesiphorus	2 Tim. i. 16.
Nadab	Leviticus x. 1, 2.

Answers received from P.J.G. G.L. M.S. M.B. S.B. M.P. M.L.H.B. F.B. H.W. R.W.H. J.M. C.H. L.M. A.M. D.W.H. J.T. H.C. J.E.A.

Additional answers to Acrostic BDELLIUM received from L.C. N.P. J.M. A.H.D. H.H.S. C.B. G.A.W. H.W.M.

THE CITY MISSION.

THE usual New Year's meeting of the London City Mission was held last Thursday morning, and was presided over by Rev. T. S. Hutchinson, one of the secretaries. The large hall of the mission house was quite filled; very hearty was the singing, and fervent were the prayers that formed the prelude to the address to be delivered by Bishop TITCOMB.

Premising that the City Missionary meets with much opposition, and therefore needs strong consolation, the rev. gentleman took as the basis of his remarks the words of Jesus in Rev. iii., "Behold I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it." This was shown to be true in reference to divine grace, providence, and glory. They would often meet in their daily visitations with men apparently hopeless, but the door of mercy is open for the worst, and those who carry the message of grace must be as patient as is the loving Father in awaiting their return. This is equally true within the domain of Providence, in the pathway of which Jesus himself will lead his faithful servants, and will guard them too. A man once went up to Whitefield at the close of a sermon and showed him a large stone. "With this stone," said he, "I intended to break your head, but instead of that God has through your words broken my heart." Fear not, continued the preacher, to go even into dens of infamy if souls are thus to be won, for the Eternal God will be your refuge.

Mr. Joseph Hoare warmly thanked the Bishop for his address, and believed it would live in their memories throughout the year. He was thankful to God for his association with the City Mission. It had been to him one of the most helpful things in his religious history. Mr. George Williams also added a brief word. Rev. P. B. Power introduced to the meeting a copy of a pamphlet, which he has recently written, entitled, "The Further Proceedings of Mr. Truffle," the profits of the sale of which will go towards a fund for helping to provide for the aged and worn-out missionaries of this Society, and also their widows. The pamphlet is exceeding attractive and well illustrated with woodcuts, and may be obtained of Messrs. S. W. Partridge & Co., price 6d.

Two volumes of Mr. Moody's sermons were presented to each missionary on going out—the gift of Mr. Williams. Lord Shaftesbury also sent, as a small memorial of his affection for the missionaries and his abiding faith in the "good old Book," 1000 copies of a pamphlet on "The Inspiration of the Bible," by Mr. H. L. Hastings, of Boston, United States, published by Messrs. Bagster & Co.

RELIGIOUS PERSECUTION IN GERMANY.

THE persecution which the Salvation Army has met with in Switzerland may seem to us in some measure to be explained by the peculiarities accompanying that movement; but it may surprise Christian readers to learn that quiet and unobtrusive Christian work in the very heart of the German Empire is subjected to an opposition not far short of what our Salvationist brethren have to complain of. Thus, in Branderoda, the clergyman continues his opposition to the utmost of his power; he not only forbids the children to attend the Sunday-school, but has also succeeded in preventing the grown-up girls from coming to their evening class in my Home—a class which his predecessor in office had been particularly anxious I should succeed in forming, as the only means of keeping the girls off the street in the evenings.

The pastor's latest opposition is directed against the Y.M.C.A., which the two evangelist brothers have been the means of calling into life, and which is attended, not by the villagers only, but by a number of young men who come three English miles distance after working hours across bad country roads. On the evening previous to the opening meeting, the pastor sent a written prohibition from house to house, some of the people bèing called out of their beds to read it; and on the evening itself, at his instigation, the landed proprietor, who, according to the latest Prussian law, occupies the place of local police inspector, took his stand at the door of the Home, and prevented, as far as he could, the people from coming in. After the meeting had begun he entered the room himself, and created a great disturbance by loud and insolent remarks to the Chairman. Not long ago he also turned a whole family out of house and home, because the children attended Sunday-school in spite of the clergyman's prohibition.

It was these same men who, on Dr. Laseron's coming here last summer, took the law into their own hands, and forbade his holding meetings, and who denounced the twin-evangelists to Government as "members of the Salvation Army."

All this you may incline to think an exceptional case, owing to both these men being enemies of the cause of Christ, but I fear we must only consider them as rather extreme examples of their party, which is that of the German State Church. Hear the opinion of a man holding one of the highest offices in the Church—about equal to that of an English Bishop; being asked lately, as to lay agency, he most strongly asserted that, according to him, the words, "Go ye therefore and teach all nations," were intended for the clergy only, and that no layman has a right to consider himself "called" to work in the Lord's vineyard, unless a "Consistory" or Committee place him there.

A Professor of Theology the other day, in my hearing, compared the work of evangelists to the mere sending up of a rocket, or to a sudden showerbath, the effect of which could be of no lasting duration. I heard another clergyman, from the pulpit, warn his hearers against all "so-called evangelists and soul-savers" who, he thought, would do better to remain in their own secular calling. Yet another, in a town of this neighbourhood, whose church is notoriously empty, stood up at the close of an evangelistic meeting, and publicly protested against the simple Gospel address he had been listening to; he closed with the remark: "Here, in Germany, we have no sudden conversions!"

The "General Superintendent" (equal to Bishop or Archbishop) of East Prussia published a pastoral letter the other day, just after some of our most eminent German evangelists had held crowded meetings in that province, warning against them as "most dangerous persons," who, under the pretence of converting "Prussian heathens," merely draw the people away from the ordained ministry.

It is hardly necessary to add that there are many earnest, faithful men in the State Church, who deeply deplore such a state of matters, and who are thankful for any lay help that is offered them. The people on their part everywhere receive the Word gladly, and in this very part of the country, where persecution reigns so hot, and where daily new obstacles are thrown in our way, we can with thankful hearts give our testimony that souls are won for Christ.

Branderoda, Dec., 1884. A. DE WELING.

A REMINISCENCE.

IN a recent number of THE CHRISTIAN we made mention of Mr. Snelling and his work in Swansea. Many will be interested to know that in the earliest days of this work Joshua and Mary Poole took an active part. It was rather heavy work, both indoors and out. They were told if they went into a certain "Regent's-court" they would be insulted. After prayer, Mary and Joshua went. She carried the fiddle-box, he played the fiddle, and both sang, "Whither, pilgrims, are you going?" The outcast girls came to listen, and also the men who lived on the evil gains of those poor creatures.

Joshua began to speak to them, when one of the dwellers in the court brought out a chair for Mrs. Poole to sit on. When he had finished his address, his wife got up, and as she pleaded with them the tears rolled down the cheeks of those who it was said would insult them. The whole neighbourhood was aroused. When Joshua and Mary left Swansea hundreds went with them to the station, and Joshua gave them a few parting words from the cab. Mr. Snelling afterwards went from Cardiff to Swansea, and continued the work which had been so greatly blessed.

OUR VILLAGE READING ROOM.

THE following interesting story of work in an English village, which has been communicated to us at our request, may encourage others to go and do likewise:—

"Our village consists of about seventy households, almost entirely working people. It has troubled me for years that the men had no place where they could meet of an evening except the two public-houses, which have flourished sadly too well, perhaps as a natural consequence. Last summer, having a small cottage at liberty (only two rooms), I determined to try if the idea that had floated in my mind so long could not be realised, in part, at any rate. A meeting was called, to know if any one cared to have a reading-room and lending library. Twenty-seven gave in their names at it as members, a committee was appointed, and it was agreed that we should open Oct. 1.

"We had a very great hurry to get ready, but it was pleasant to see how hard some of the men worked from supper to bedtime, fitting up benches, &c. Part of the furniture was given, and friends and neighbours offered to give or lend newspapers, till we have actually twenty-five on the list, besides several magazines. The committee have not needed to buy one at all. It is the same with books; the little bookcase, four feet square, is full, since a friend in London kindly sent us thirty volumes. I hope that after a while the demand for them may be greater.

"I don't feel discouraged, though I hear that there is more demand for the comic papers than for good books. I think that tired men cannot be expected to study much, and I am so pleased to have them there instead of at the public-houses. I wish the landlords would turn them into coffee-houses, then I should not grudge them their customers. I expect the taste for more improving reading will grow. We have thirty-six members now. This first quarter end is rather an anxious time to know how many will continue, but I have heard of more waiting to join at the quarter.

"One of the committee kindly gave the first cartload of coal, and the cottage certainly affords me more pleasure than ever it did before. You can't think what a homely little place it is. I think you would certainly pass it by for an out-building. It is such a little place, but the walls look quite lively with pictures out of old Christmas Graphics, framed in Turkey red, two pretty texts, and at present Christmas decorations, and I believe the men are very pleased. Perhaps I ought to mention, in case any one did wish to try to do the same thing elsewhere, that I do not think we should have succeeded so well if we had done any begging. If any one offered anything it was gladly accepted; the rest I just provided myself, and it really all cost very little. I think begging puts people on the defensive. I could not enjoy an extracted gift."

Christmas in the East-end.

THE SCANDINAVIAN HOME.

IN a communication we have received from Miss Hedenstrom, Scandinavian Sailors' Home, Leman-street, Whitechapel, she says:—

Gifts came in for our Christmas tree, both from English and Scandinavian friends, far more plentifully than I ever suspected. The good Princess of Wales was among the generous givers; may the Lord bless them all. The tree was again sent us by our friend Mr. T. A. Denny. There were present about 200 seamen. After tea had been served a short address was given and a hymn sung. What a happy company they were as they passed by, each receiving his little parcel. They did behave themselves well. Dear friends, say a kind word to a seaman, show him a little interest, and you will soon find that there beats a warm heart under many a tarred sailor-jacket. At 9 o'clock we all gathered around the supper-tables. The 'Scandinavian National Christmas-dish,' rice-porridge with milk, gained general approval.

When I look back on the past year, I see so much that I have to thank my heavenly Father for. Trials and difficulties there have been, but when the need was the greatest He never failed me. He put my fears to shame; my heart overflows, when I think of all the mercies He has bestowed upon me. When my dear 'sea-boys' said 'Good-bye' on Christmas Eve, they thanked me for the happy hours they had spent with us.

THE WELCOME HOME.

ON Monday week the Sailors' Welcome Home, Ratcliff-highway, presented an unusually lively appearance both outside and in. Tea and coffee were provided at five o'clock, and partaken of by a large party of friends who had accepted Miss Child's invitation. The great event of the evening was the unfreighting of the Christmas boat—the distribution of the various gifts, consisting of warm cuffs, gloves, mufflers, &c., besides cards and mottos and books. The coming to the front of each sailor, in response to his number, to receive his Christmas-box, excited much interest, and afforded the visitors a good opportunity of seeing how their contributions had secured to these brave fellows a happy season.

The meeting that followed, in "the focsle," was of a character befitting the surroundings, lively enough as a Christmas gathering, and yet tempered by the memories which always associate themselves with the closing of the year. The addresses by Mrs. Morrison and Miss Tuck were conspicuous for their simple fervour and pathos. Incidents were related of brands snatched from the burning, who had become winners of souls; one among the seamen in France, another in the missionary field, and others are witnessing for God on board ship. One of those who testified said, "God picks up an old drunkard and fits him for the kingdom of heaven."

But it is now time for the soup supper. About seventy or eighty men, destitute and homeless, are seated in the coffee-room, receiving what the hand of benevolence has provided for them. The poor fellows can have two, or even three, basins of soup and bread if they wish. Out of work, and penniless as they are, they gladly come twice or thrice a week to have a good warm meal before betaking themselves to whatever resting-place for the night they can find. They seem in no hurry to go when supper is done. They wistfully linger on as though they would gladly stay where they are all night rather than face the bitter cold of a December night. While they tarry the Gospel message is proclaimed to them; all are invited to come to the Saviour and make no delay.

It is sad to hear others knocking at the door, for whom there is no room; this generous provision is, of course, limited by the funds in hand. Miss Child and her co-workers would be delighted to provide these soup suppers every night in the week if the means were forthcoming. The Lord Mayor recently said, after paying a visit to the Home and leaving a donation, "Everyone ought to help forward such a work." We only wish they would. A little book entitled "Light Shineth in Darkness," gives a good idea of the work done by this excellent Mission, and may be had (6d. per dozen) from Miss Child, The Welcome Home, Ratcliff-highway.

THE STRANGERS' REST.

HOW glad and joyous is Christmastide to many of us. In our happy homes, surrounded by those we love, with peace and plenty crowning our days, and the blessed consciousness of our Father's care brightening every step of life's journey, all things minister to our quietude and joy of soul. The family circle is once again complete; long lost voices again mingle with ours. The little ones in our home are exulting in their joyful anticipations, their hearts brimful of happiness and contentment. As evening settles down upon us, all fervently join the song of praise and thanksgiving to the Father of our spirits.

How sadly does the lot of hundreds around us contrast with this cheerful picture! Come to Ratcliff Highway with me and look for yourselves. There we see passing to and fro hundreds of poorly-clad, miserable, sinful creatures; so low and degraded are many of them that they seem driven to abject despair. Watch the poor children, too; so ragged and dirty, so cold and hungry they look, one only too truly surmises, that they know nothing of home comforts, of a mother's love, or a father's strong hand to guide. Do not pass these wretched ones by; stoop down to them with a heart of love and a hand of tender pity, for your Saviour's sake, and aid Him in leading these wandering sheep and lambs safe to the fold above.

Is no bright ray of sunshine to come into their dark lives even at Christmastide? Yes! thank God there is. Quietly and patiently pursuing their work are many little bands of Christ's devoted servants. In this Ratcliff-highway there is a "Rest" for the stranger, where any who will may freely turn in, and, doing so, meet with true friends, and find loving, practical sympathy. There is a "Welcome Home" where the weary wanderer may rest and obtain refuge from the storm and tempest of life.

Step into the "Strangers' Rest" with me, and let us see the Christmas doings there. 'Tis Thursday afternoon, and as we walk into the "Shop," as the front room is called, the one through which all have to pass to their several services; we find it filled with sailors of all sorts and conditions. The place is tastefully decorated with evergreens and flags, and already looks quite gay and festive. How comfortable the men look as there they sit singing from Sacred Songs and Solos, or listening to the speaker's voice. Lest we may disturb the meeting we pass through into a fine place, the enlarged hall, which was opened about six weeks since. This is the Scandinavian Room, where Miss Hedenstrom works so faithfully and successfully for her countrymen. A band of workers are still busy finishing the decorations here; Chinese lanterns have been introduced, and with a beautiful Christmas tree (the gift of Mr. T. A. Denny) the effect is really very pretty.

Passing from this room through the library and upstairs into the French room, we come upon the stores of provisions; standing in the centre of the apartment is a fine gift of biscuits from Messrs. Huntley & Palmer; close by are boxes of cake and jars of jam; in a corner is a large pile of loaves of bread. Even luxuries are provided for our good friends, for we notice, chocolates given by Messrs. Fry & Sons, sweets, the gift of Messrs. Badger & Co., and to crown all, a large box of fine oranges, also a gift.

Leaving this scene, we move along the landing, passing on our way the Bible-class room for Christian English sailors, and go upstairs, leaving the German room on our left, into one which appears very much like a bazaar; for surrounding the diligent workers, whose labour in this department is very heavy, we see heaps of toys of all descriptions, and books, Christmas letters and cards, mufflers, cuffs, bookmarkers, bags of sweets, &c. &c., all of which are the kind gifts of our friends for our men's and children's Christmas-trees. As one watches this busy hive, in the bustle and activity of preparation, the great motive power is easily traceable, for the cheerful and earnest way in which every detail is performed proclaims the outflowing of devoted Christian love.

Two o'clock arrives, the shop doors are thrown open, and the crowd of expectant men, who long have waited in patience, hurry in to take their places. The room is soon filled to excess, and so the Germans are drafted off to their own meeting, and their vacant seats are quickly occupied. When all is quiet the afternoon service of prayer and praise, with short address by various workers, commences. It did one good to hear the hearty singing, and to notice the earnest manner in which all present listened to the faithful words spoken. Five o'clock, the hour for tea, soon comes round. The men file off to the English sailors' room, where the good things are prepared for them. The blessing of God having been sought, they set to with a will upon the bread and butter, bread and jam, cake and tea, which had been amply provided for them. Tea over, the English sailors move off into another room for the meeting of the evening; the Germans retire to their room, and the shop again fills.

Not understanding much German, we will move on to the English meeting, which has just commenced. The quiet and order strike one forcibly as you enter, and one's heart is all aglow with praise and joy. After singing and prayer, three faithful and earnest appeals are made to the men to accept Christ, to leave off struggling to save themselves, and to make room for Jesus in their hearts. The Christians in the room are then asked to hold up their hands, and sixteen do so. Prayer is again offered, and after a verse of the hymn, 'Now just a word for Jesus,' some testimonies from Christian sailors are given; they shall speak for themselves.

A Blue-jacket comes forward and says: "Dear brother sailors, I was once careless and indifferent; I thought nothing of God or my Saviour, but through falling overboard from a gunboat, when on the West Coast of Africa, and nearly losing my life, thoughts of the awful future led me to seek Christ. I found Him, and now, dreadful as the lower deck of a man-o'-war is, I stand here to say that Christ is sufficient to keep even there. Where sin abounds, grace doth much more abound. Take Jesus on board, and He will make the hardest life happy."

Another Blue-jacket steps out and says: "Brother sailors, I have been converted within the last twelve months; I was 'as black as they make 'em.' For eight years I was a great drinker; drink was my curse, I would sell anything to get it. I tried to reform, and signed the pledge, but without Christ I found it a rotten stick. I heard some street preaching in Portsmouth, and through it was led to give my heart to Christ; thank God, Jesus has done it all, He said, 'It is finished.'"

A young English sailor speaks next; he says: "Fellow travellers to eternity, I was converted in the Welcome Home down in the 'focsle.' I was once careless and indifferent; indeed, I hated religion. Some good friends took me in there, and a good lady asked me to sign the pledge. She talked with me, and prayed with me until my stubborn heart was broken, and I gave myself to Christ, and He has proved able to keep me both on land and sea."

Another stands up and says: "I am a landsman, but yet I want to say a word for Christ. I came into the 'Strangers' Rest' wretched and miserable, for I had disgraced my family. A dear lady spoke to me and comforted me in all my sorrow, she begged me to turn to Christ, and prayed so earnestly with me that I gave in, and the Saviour took me as I was. He saves sinners, thank God."

Another speaks, who had been twenty-seven years at sea, four years of that time in the Navy; he says: "I spent all that time in the service of Satan. Many times I had come into the 'Rest.' Friends had prayed with me, even taken me home with them, and so pleaded with me that I wept bitter tears of repentance, but I broke loose again. At last I started on a voyage in 1880, and a lady promised to write to me; she did so, and a card she sent me was the means of my turning to God, after five months' hard struggle with Satan for liberty."

The last one said: "I am a sinner saved by grace. Fifty long years I served the devil faithfully. I have been everything that was bad, but blessed be God, He saved my soul, and is now using me for his glory."

After these wonderful testimonies to the power of God, the meeting is brought to a close. It was a solemn moment when twenty-two men held up their hands, asking the prayers of God's people.

The men go downstairs, where the many gifts are distributed amid much merriment and interest. The last man disappears, and now the weary, yet joyful workers, have time to greet each other. So great is the cause for thankfulness for the blessings and help vouchsafed during the day, that all, with one accord, kneel in praise and thanksgiving around their Father's throne. So ends the day's work for Jesus, each one turning homeward with happy, contented hearts.

BOXING DAY

dawns upon us with its many duties. "Plenty to do to-day" is heard on every hand, for the great supper and the dear children's treat have to be given. In the work among the children we have great cause for thankfulness. Four months ago we had one class only on Sundays, which numbered about fifty; now, on that day, we gather about eighty to the Junior Class held from 3 to 4 p.m., about ninety to the Senior Boys' Class held from 4 to 5.15 p.m., and over thirty to the Senior Girls' Class held from 6.30 to 7.45 p.m. To these classes we add two for boys and one for girls during the week, all of which are well attended. We earnestly ask your sympathy and aid in this most important branch of the work.

At 4 p.m. the doors are opened, and in come about 220 children. After a few words of cordial welcome and good wishes had been addressed to them, grace is said and tea begins. That interesting ceremony being over, short addresses are given, interspersed with hymns from the Christian Choir, which are beautifully rendered by the teachers; there are also occasional hymns for the children.

Then comes the tree. You can scarcely imagine the delight and almost uncontrollable joy of the children as they received their gifts; the dear friends who so kindly sent the presents would all have been grandly repaid by one glance at the joy they had helped to create. Receiving an orange all round, the children disperse with cheers and shouts of delight.

But a short time elapses, just long enough for the room to be put in order, and it is again filled by 200 hungry men, who have been invited to a beef and plum-pudding supper; in the shop, also, an overflow of 50 more are similarly entertained. Without the enlarged hall one cannot imagine where the numbers would have been put; it is most gladdening to see so many gathered together in it, drinking their coffee and taking their beef and plum-pudding. They seem truly grateful as one goes among them with a word of kindly greeting. Supper over, the meeting commences after a hymn and prayer; earnest appeals are made to the men to turn to Christ. It is a very solemn season, and many become anxious about their souls, and we trust that lasting blessing will be the result of the devoted labours of God's servants. The meeting was so hearty that it was carried on to a late hour. Pray with us, dear friends; work with us; reap with us the glorious reward.

G. E. W.

NATIONAL THRIFT SOCIETY.—The sixth annual meeting of the National Thrift Society was held on Tuesday, the 30th ult., at Stanhope House, Lancaster-gate, W.; Lord Byron presided. The report stated that the past year had been for the Society one of continuous effort and considerable progress. A letter from the hon. secretary of the "Association for Promoting the Return to Parliament of Candidates pledged to Economical and Social Reform," requesting the co-operation of the National Thrift Society, was referred to a Special Committee.

THE PROPOSED CHRISTO-JEWISH CONFERENCE.

THE Rev. James Davis writes to the Daily News, from Queen's-ride, Barnes:—The great controversy which for nearly 2000 years has divided Christendom from Judaism remains without any adequate effect on either side for the adjustment of the points on which the contention arose. Is ~~the enmity~~ which has been the bitter result to be everlasting, or "until the Lord come," or the Millennium arrive, or other miraculous event happen, on which theologians are at present by no means agreed?

I venture to think that the time has arrived for submitting a proposal, with the view of determining, or at least diminishing, the points of difference between the parties, and that the civilised world would hail with satisfaction a scheme offering reasonable probability of accomplishing the desired object. On the one hand, we have the Jews, descendants of Israel, numerous, wealthy, and influential, spread over all lands, but without nationality, and still deprived of their ancestral territory, their Temple, and that ecclesiastical polity which once gave distinction and grandeur to the favoured people of God.

This state of ~~things may well~~ excite wonder in the Hebrew mind, and suggest inquiry on their part into the cause. On the other hand, we have the Christian Church, composed in the beginning almost entirely of Jewish members, who accepted then, as all Christians do now, with religious veneration the Old Testament Scriptures. The Church, raised on Jewish foundations and propagated by Jewish apostles and evangelists, made its progress and won its triumphs among civilised and barbarian nations, introducing social revolutions, and carrying in its train the advancement of commerce, science, freedom, and justice, as well as the development of humane and benevolent principles, which favourably contrast with those of the nations outside its borders. Notwithstanding its divisions, its internecine wars, its corruptions, and its crimes, the Christian Church may fairly claim to ~~have regenerated~~ the nations among whom its Gospel has spread, and its institutions have taken root. It deserves, therefore, and is, I believe, receiving increasingly the respect of the intelligent and thoughtful among its Jewish opponents.

As, however, the whole structure of Christianity may be said to rest upon two grounds, viz., the credibility of certain historical records, whose authenticity is open to the same critical and crucial tests, as are all ancient manuscripts or modern theories; and upon one life, for which Messianic authority is asserted, it is not unreasonable to infer the possibility of finding some common basis for an investigation by competent scholars and scientists selected from both sides whose judgment would carry weight throughout the civilised world.

I propose that the parties, by their representatives, meet and consider the great question on purely historic and scientific grounds. A prominent feature of the present age is the holding of international conferences for the adjustment of social, scientific, and economic questions of importance to society in general. Unprecedented facilities are now afforded for bringing together the most cultured, practical, and profound minds for the investigation of the subjects submitted to them. The results have not disappointed the expectations of the Governments and communities that have promoted them.

Allow me space in your widespread columns for an appeal to Jew and Christian to consent and mutually aid in the arrangements for holding an International Council, composed of the ablest scholars in Europe and other lands, for a critical research into the chief points which ab initio separated the two great founders of our modern civilisation. The proposed Convention, undertaken in the interests of peace, would be a step in the right direction, and become probably the pioneer to further united investigations in the domain of Biblical truth.

The chief points to be submitted for critical investigation (and strictly limited to them) would be, first, the grounds on which the New Testament claims to be received as authentic, and its several books included in the canon of Holy Scripture, along with those of the Old Testament; and, second, the verification of historical facts justifying the belief of the Christian Church in the advent of the predicted Messiah, and consequent subjection to his teaching and authority. The council might consist of a septuagint of persons—thirty-five Jewish, thirty-five Christian delegates—selected from various countries, and meeting in a European city at a given time, to be determined by mutual consent.

The Christian Church, strong in her foundations, has nothing to fear, and the overture on her part would redound to her credit, and strengthen her Missions to those from whom she has derived her faith. Israel would be wise to agree to a Conference which offers an amicable rapprochement of parties for the elucidation of truth, and the possible settlement of questions which come fairly within the range of scientific investigation. The Conference itself would be the greatest and most important that this or any other age has witnessed, and could hardly fail to have results of lasting benefit to mankind.

◆

THE NEW YEAR in RATCLIFF HIGHWAY.

ALTHOUGH there was much of drunken vice and revelry in this notorious locality, many of the Lord's servants were earnestly at work, and had the joy of seeing their efforts crowned with much success. On New Year's Eve a special service was held at the Seaman's Chapel, and the building was well filled. Rev. G. J. Hill conducted the service, and was assisted by nearly twenty seamen, who briefly told what the Lord had done for them. Some said they had been brought to the Saviour in this chapel, some in other places, some on board ship, and others in distant lands. All united in declaring that the Lord had been faithful, and that their experience of his service had been by far the happiest portion of their lives.

A captain said that whilst he was in the devil's service he could never rise above a common sailor; after his conversion he rose to be master, and was still in command of a good ship. He had found Godliness to be "profitable unto all things." Many seamen and others were broken down, and some remained to be conversed and prayed with long after midnight.

A Sailors' Festival was held on New Year's Day in the same place, and about one hundred sailors were present. After tea a meeting was held in the chapel, and numbers of seamen and others, in addition to those at the tea, helped to fill the building. Many seamen, with overflowing hearts, told of the love of Christ, and exhorted their shipmates to begin the New Year by laying hold of the Saviour, and letting go of sin. Mr. J. McCaul, Mr. Lindsey, Mrs. Hill, and others, also took part in the meeting, and thus a most happy and profitable evening was spent. At the close of the meeting twenty-four sailors signed the pledge, and many were spiritually blessed.

It may be stated that in addition to the general work, relief is now being given to about thirty seamen daily, and funds are greatly needed to carry on the labours of this "Seamen's Christian Friend Society."

DOCK LABOURERS' MISSION.—It has been my happy privilege for over twenty years to show Christian sympathy with the sorrowing and sick mothers with children crowded into one small room near the docks. I have done this by relieving any family of three or more children, in times of special need, and placing them in our little Home, caring for them until the mothers were sufficiently recovered; this has been a great blessing to these poor women. A few months ago we were taken by surprise; a gentleman handed us a notice that the railway company were about to take down the Home. We carried the matter to the Lord in prayer, and He soon relieved us of our burden by sending us the needful help we required for a new Home in a more healthy part. We have it now in full working order, and several families have already been assisted during the nine months it has been open. May I ask for your prayerful sympathy? Our address will now be Children's Home, Boleyn-road, Upton Park, West Ham, E.

MARY COLEMAN.

Notes and Comments.

OUR next issue will be a DOUBLE NUMBER (price 2d.), and will contain reports of addresses delivered in London during the present "Week of Prayer." We shall be glad if our provincial readers will favour us with brief notices of the meetings held in their respective districts.

"He who puts a Bible into the hands of a child gives him more than a kingdom, for it gives him a key to the Kingdom of Heaven."

Among the fresh candidates for the suffrages of the reading public is a bright little halfpenny sheet called The Caravan. It is devoted to the interests of the "Travellers' National Total Abstainers' Union," and will appear monthly. Perhaps few classes of the community suffer more from the temptation to indulgence in strong drink than those who lead a nomadic life, in connection with markets, travelling shows, entertainments, &c. We wish The Caravan unqualified success in its excellent mission. The office of the paper is 15, Low Ousegate, York.

In giving the opening address on Monday last at the united meeting for prayer in the Parochial Hall, Southborough, the Rev. William Guest, while expressing warm approval of a service devoted to praise and thanksgiving, observed he could have wished that at the first of the united meetings the Council of the Evangelical Alliance had recommended and emphasised prayer for "the hallowing of the name of God" throughout the world, and for the "Coming of his Kingdom." The occasion of universal prayer was one whereon obedience to the authority of the Lord Jesus would be a befitting attitude for the redeemed Church. "After this manner pray ye," taught an order in our petitions, which even in private it was good to remember, but much more when Christian believers came together. Moreover, we were never in such a right position before the Infinite Father as when we were lifted above thoughts of our personal advantages, and had our yearning desires excited for the honouring of God and for the coming, in a revolted world, of that kingdom of righteousness for which holy men had longed throughout all the ages.

"No Christian has done enough so long as there remains anything he can do."

The formation of an Omnibus and Tramway-men's Benevolent Society will meet with general approval, the only wonder being that nothing should have been done before for this hard-worked and greatly neglected class. As a body they are well deserving of kindly regard, and contribute largely to public convenience. The objects of the society now being formed are to raise a fund for the benefit of its members during temporary disablement; to create annuities of from £25 to £30 per annum for aged and totally disabled men, and to form a widows and orphans' fund to assist those so left by members of the society. Great risks are incurred by these men in the public service, and to aid in providing thus for them and theirs is a duty incumbent on all who can do so. A committee of influential men has the matter in hand, and several names well known in philanthropic circles are also prominent among its supporters.

The Rev. E. H. Bickersteth, vicar of Christ Church, Hampstead, has been appointed by the Queen to the deanery of Gloucester. As an author, Mr. Bickersteth is best known by his poem, "Yesterday, To-day, and For Ever." For thirty years past he has held the post he now vacates, and his appointment to the higher office will be viewed with satisfaction by all lovers of evangelical truth.

The retirement of Dr. Robinson from the secretariat of the London Missionary Society was last week made the occasion of a special recognition of his worth on the part of the Directors of that institution. After their usual monthly meeting, they presented him with a cheque for 450 guineas, subscribed among themselves, in addition to a retiring pension suited to the long and valued services he has rendered to the Society. Dr. Robinson had won the affection of all his fellow-workers at the Mission House, a fact testified to by the officials presenting him at the same time with an address and a gold pencil-case as a mark of their esteem. The Rev. E. H. Jones succeeds the late secretary in his official post.

The Christmas season just past has been notable for its widespread manifestation of sympathy with the poor and suffering. Probably never before has so much energy and philanthropy been employed on behalf of the multitudes who are distressed as this season. Reports from all sides come in of happy work done by willing hands and glowing hearts to give some gleams of light and comfort to both young and old. Among those who have by these means been gladdened and refreshed, none will have found truer joy than those who have given their money time, and labour, in self-sacrificing endeavours for others' good.

"The strength of the Church lies not in the oratory of the pulpit, but in the oratory of the closet."

A letter appeared last week in The Daily News, reproduced on another page, which contains a remarkable proposal made by Rev. James Davis, of Barnes. It is to convene an International Conference of thirty-five Christians and thirty-five Jews, to be selected from among the ablest scholars of various countries, for the purpose of submitting the Messianic claims of Christ to an impartial and thorough investigation. The object aimed at is the breaking down of the division which has for 2000 years past separated Judaism from Christendom.

The Christian Church, it is argued, has nothing to fear from such a course, while her credit and strength would be increased in the eyes of the world by the inevitable result. It is true that many intelligent and thoughtful Jews admit the claims of the Christian faith to respect, and that a great awakening is to be seen among the race of Israel just now, and much good would be likely to result from such a concensus of thought and action if it can be obtained. Nothing less than the conversion of the Hebrew race to God can bring about their submission to Jesus of Nazareth as the true Messiah, and this is to be effected by other means than International Councils. Still, the suggestion is evidently made with earnest intent, and is full of interest in its aim and nature.

"Why should I fear? Is man stronger than God?"

The earthquakes which have visited Southern Spain have caused a fearful loss of life, and the greatest confusion and terror among the inhabitants. Andalusia, said to be the ancient Tarshish, is one of the fairest regions earth can boast, and contains within its borders some of the most renowned and romantic cities and towns known in history. Among these, Seville, Granada, and Cordova, have all more or less suffered from the shocks, while, in some cases, whole towns have been destroyed. In some districts the inhabitants have fled from their homes, and taken to camping out in the fields, so filled are they with fear and dread. Earthquakes are, of course, to be accounted for by natural causes; none the less are they reminders of prophetic times and events, shadows of which fall thickly on our own days.

The proclamation of the English Protectorate over a part of New Guinea has been made amid scenes which to the native mind at least appear to have been very imposing. Her Majesty's ship Nelson, with several other vessels, anchored off the coast, and a ceremonial was held on board, some forty or fifty of the chiefs being introduced by the Revs. Mr. Lawes and Mr. Chalmers, missionaries on the island. After refreshments, suited to the native taste, had been served, Commodore Erskine announced Her Majesty's purpose in taking the Protectorate to be their real welfare and prosperity. Henceforth, it was stated, "evil-disposed men would not be able to occupy their country, seize their lands, take them away from their homes, or introduce fire-arms, gunpowder, or intoxicating liquors. The Queen's officers would reside among them and administer justice, and all disputes must be referred to them." Boe Vagi, one of the chiefs, was then appointed head chief of the Motu tribes, an ebony staff being presented to him in the name of the Queen, in the presence of all the rest.

Subsequently a second demonstration was made on land, the Commodore and large detachments of officers and men marching to the mission station. The proclamation was translated into the Motu language, and read by the missionaries, after which the Union Jack was hoisted on the flag-staff at the mission house. The natives are said to have been terrified at the extraordinary sights and sounds which accompanied the demonstration, many of them clearing out into the bush. The inhabitants of New Guinea, or Papua, are among the least civilised and elevated dwellers in the Polynesian groups; it may be hoped the result of this assertion of British control and guardianship will be the giving of a new impetus to Mission work, and the advance of beneficent operations of every kind in their midst.

"The very worst and deadliest of all hindrances to sincerity of prayer is a bosom sin. If we pray with a secret determination to continue in sin, we pray false prayers, and cannot be heard."

A correspondent asks us to state that suitable books are much needed for the replenishment of the libraries of the London Young Women's Christian Associations.

> "The demand for loan boxes increases beyond our power to supply from General Y.W.C.A. funds. We have now some 500 (country) branches of the Y.W.C.A., and books are more and more appreciated. A few authors have promised us copies of their works, and more might do so if they knew of the need. Others might also send suitable books."

All information can be had from the Secretary, at the Central Office, Cavendish-st., W.

The Voice of Warning, published by the Monthly Tract Society, starts the year with a vigorous call to English Christians to resist the Romish attacks upon our land. Its statement of facts deserves earnest attention, and its summons to united action on the part of all who belong to the true Church of Christ claims a hearty response. There is far too much indifference to the subject, which is of the deepest moment :—

> "The enemy has come in like a flood. From 1841 to 1881 Romanists increased in Great Britain from 600,000 to 1,500,000, or 250 per cent ; compared with a Protestant increase of fifty-five and a half per cent. This is apart from the disguised Romanism of various shades, practically doing Rome's work. All over the country, monasteries and convents are springing up, with attendant schools and colleges—all centres of Romish influence. Costly churches and mission stations are being erected. Leaders of society like Lords Bute and Ripon become perverts. Romish ecclesiastics claim very largely the control of education, and the guidance of legislation. Hardly a family of note in the land but has found some secret influence at work, leading loved ones captive in the toils of Rome."

The Baptist Mission House, Castle-street, Holborn, was the scene of a happy and well-attended concert of prayer and praise on New Year's morning. Representatives of the Church and the London Missionary Societies, and other similar institutions, were present, and fervent united prayer for the success of Mission work throughout the world was offered. Mr. Joseph Tritton, the treasurer of the Baptist Missionary Society, presided, his restoration to health after long and severe affliction filling the hearts of the assembly with thankfulness and joy.

Bible-readers interested in the study of prophecy will find some useful hints for their guidance in a little pamphlet entitled, "The Future of Israel," written by the Rev. A. G. Ashwin, and published by Nisbet & Co., price threepence.

The chorus of congratulation that has gone out from the British press with respect to the betrothal of the Princess Beatrice is one more proof of the firm hold that our good Queen has on the affections of a loyal people. The Princess herself, both by native worth and filial conduct towards her widowed mother, merits the highest esteem and good wishes of her less exalted fellow subjects, and she may rest assured that she has them at this eventful period in her life. The coming of age, this day, of the eldest son of the Prince of Wales, is another circumstance that must unite peer and peasant in a common rejoicing. With heart and voice we say, "God bless them all."

Our much-esteemed friend, Rev. John Macpherson, of Hilltown Free Church, Dundee, has closed his twenty-fifth year of the Gospel ministry in connection with that congregation. His flock, reinforced by neighbours and friends from a distance, have signalised the event by a handsome gift of £400, and an illuminated address, expressive of their affection and their appreciation of his faithful service. Mr. Macpherson is eminently worthy of the honour that has thus been conferred upon him. Both by tongue and pen he has served his generation well. We desire to add our heartiest congratulations and good wishes to those of his many northern friends. One speaker at the social meeting, where the presentation was made, threw out the happy suggestion that Mr. Macpherson should take a trip to Palestine to reinvigorate himself for future work.

We shall be much obliged to any reader who can furnish us with a copy of THE REVIVAL for May 13, 1868.

The first number of The Expositor, under its new editorship, presents features of decided improvement and freshness. The articles are full of suggestiveness, and while generally of a more popular type than in the past, are not less thoughtful and able. The paper by Dr. Marcus Dods, on "Dives and Lazarus," contains teaching worthy of careful attention as to the responsibilities of wealth, and the solemnity of this life as a probationary prelude to eternity. The number all through is well sustained.

Professor Drummond makes a good point in his first article in the above named serial, entitled "The Contribution of Science to Christianity." He says : "There is one portion of the field of facts which is strangely neglected, and to which a scientific theologian may turn his next attention. The evidence for Christianity is not the evidences. The evidence for Christianity is a Christian." In every genuine child of God there is a proof of the supernatural and Divine which is palpable and clear, and one which it is impossible to refute or explain away. Facts are in such spheres more powerful than arguments, and admit of no denial

Confidence in the working of ships belonging to the Allan line will not be lessened, but on the contrary strengthened, by the fact that sixty of the employés have started a Temperance Society of their own, with the sympathy and help of the firm. The inaugural soirée was attended by several hundreds of the Company's men and their wives.

Mr. Burnand (the editor of Punch) contributes to the Fortnightly Review a paper on the theatrical profession, anent which "An Old Puritan" writes thus to the Pall Mall Gazette :—

> "Will you allow me to thank Mr. Burnand for his paper on the theatrical profession in the Fortnightly Review? It supplies, on the highest authority, the confirmation I have been seeking for my refusal never to set foot within a playhouse. For what does this able and accomplished dramatist tell us concerning the effect of the stage as a profession upon women who become actresses? He asserts, as I understand him, that unless a girl is bred and born on the boards, and is, so to speak, seasoned against the moral malaria of the theatre as Jews became proof against the malaria of the Ghetto, she cannot take to the stage without being demoralised. In other words, Mr. Burnand tells English mothers that unless they wish their daughters to lose their modesty, if not their virtue, they must not allow them to become actresses. That is my old Puritanic view, and I therefore never go to the play to purchase a pleasure at the price of female dishonour. It is true that Mr. Burnand writes plays, but that is merely a personal inconsistency not affecting the great principle, any more than the presence of a stray Catholic in a masonic lodge disproves the condemnation pronounced by the Pope on Freemasonry."

"A cheerful, happy home is the greatest safeguard against temptation for the young. Parents should spare no pains to make home a cheerful spot."

A West-end correspondent of The Daily News endorses an article in that journal on the evils of street begging by tramps with children. Untold misery, he asserts, is inflicted on the children, who are thus being trained for future vagrancy and crime. The practice is illegal, but the law is frequently not enforced. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is considering what steps can be taken to mitigate the evil.

There is reason to fear that a very serious injustice has been done by the sentence passed upon ex-Detective Williams in the Poole perjury prosecution. Those who know most about the case in Poole and its neighbourhood believe that perjury has indeed been committed, but on the other side. We are very glad to find the Press in London, as well as locally, takes this view of the matter, and urges the absolute necessity of a new, full, and independent inquiry. Alderman Norton, of Poole, deserves high praise for the stand he has taken on behalf of a righteous cause, and we trust the testimonial to be presented to him will be thoroughly representative of the Temperance party throughout the land.

The approaching departure for China, to engage in missionary work, of the University men—Messrs. Stanley Smith, Studd, Beauchamp, and Cassels—has awakened much interest in many quarters. The Pall Mall Gazette last week had a reference to Mr. Studd's testimony; and a writer in The Rock gives a lively "fireside talk" founded on the dedication to foreign service of "The University stroke and the cricketer," but dealing with the work of the China Inland Mission generally. We would draw attention to the meeting at Exeter Hall this (Thursday) evening, when all these young men, and also Mr. Hudson Taylor, will give addresses. It will probably be the last occasion on which Mr. Taylor will speak in public before returning to China. Messrs. Smith and Studd, before leaving, are to have another short campaign in Scotland, together with Mr. Radcliffe; they expect also to visit Leeds, Rochdale, Manchester, and Birmingham.

Mr. Price Hughes' new weekly, The Methodist Times, makes a promising start with a good and varied bill of fare. Perhaps the most remarkable and welcome of all its contents is the striking article by Mr. Henry Broadhurst, M.P., on the attitude of the working classes to religion. In view of current movements these words deserve the serious attention of all preachers of the Gospel —

> "The quick sympathies of our Saviour, and his unfailing succour to those who seek his friendship, should be kindly and affectionately impressed upon them. 'Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest,' is the sort of sermon which encourages and strengthens the oppressed and exhausted toilers. It should ever be pointed out to them that Christ was a worker Himself, personally acquainted with the difficulties and sufferings of the most abject of our race; that He is as full of love, and as ready to assist and comfort the needy as He ever was; that despotism and oppression are no part of the Gospel of Jesus; that the application of pseudo-political economy, which starves the poor to further enrich the wealthy, was never taught by this great Friend of all men. There should be strong and unhesitating approval of all legal and just attempts to secure a better and more equitable distribution of God's gifts to those whose labour produces and gathers them."

GIRLS' MISSION, STRATFORD.—The work of this Mission was commenced twelve years since in a small room in Leytonstone-road, and was afterwards removed to the iron building in Leyton-road. This was soon too small, and had to be enlarged, and now, after four years, it has been again enlarged by addition of side aisle and large class-room. The enlargement had been attended by a heavy and unexpected expense; it had been found necessary to renew all the iron of the old building, thus raising the total expenditure to £180, there remains £55 to be contributed. We are glad to hear that the work is progressing, and that so many young girls are being brought under its influence. The hon. superintendent is Mr. J. Dowding-Sansom, Oak Villa, 47, Hamfrith-road, Stratford, E.

MR. DENHAM SMITH AT CLAPTON HALL.

NOTES OF LECTURES TO CHRISTIANS.

IN your issue of November 6, your readers were informed that Mr. Denham Smith would be at Clapton Hall during that month. A larger concourse of persons came together than we have ever witnessed on similar occasions. The large halls were packed on a Sunday, and nearly full at the Friday evening lectures. For the benefit of your numerous readers, both at home and in all lands, to whom Mr. Denham Smith's name is known as a household word, I beg to furnish the following rough sketch of the lectures given to Christians on the Friday evenings.

FIRST LECTURE.

The subject was "Christianity in the Nineteenth Century contrasted with what it was in the early days of the Apostles." Mr. Smith referred us to Luke v. 1—11, where the fishermen were mending their nets. The Lord entering into one of the boats told them to let down their nets for a draught, and the effect the miraculous draught of fishes had upon those who witnessed it. Simon Peter, on seeing this miracle, had such an awful sense of himself as a sinner that he exclaimed, "Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord." But the word gave peace: "And Jesus said unto Simon, Fear not; from henceforth thou shalt catch men." It was shown how this was fulfilled on the day of Pentecost, when 3000 souls were caught in the Gospel net.

"And when they brought their ships to land, they forsook all, and followed Him." "They forsook all and followed Him." This was the commencement of Christianity — the Lord having a distinct people. They were about Him, gave up everything, were wholly given up to Him, and never left Him. When Christians really realise Christ they will do the same. He divided Christians into three classes: Face to face Christians, those who walk with God, as Enoch; some are profile Christians, half to the world and half to Christ; others, who began well, have turned right round, with their backs to God, like men seeing their own shadow, and not the sun—not Christ.

Luke viii. 1—4, showed how this little party of twelve fishermen grew. They, too, were characterised as being "with Him," several women (names mentioned) and "many others, which ministered unto Him of their substance." Then observe the promise made to such (Luke xxii. 28—30), "Ye are they which have continued with Me in my temptations." Note the word again, "with Me." "And I appoint unto you a kingdom as my Father hath appointed unto Me. That ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel."

Up to the time of our Saviour's death they were thus together, and after his ascension were in an upper room, and "all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication," &c. They were one corporate body. No Sects—High, Broad, or Low Church, no Plymouth Brethren, or Dissenters of any kind! How beautiful it was at the beginning. "And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers" (Acts ii. 42). Asked, "Whether this was so seen in the nineteenth century?"—all with "one accord;" all "abiding in the apostles' doctrine" There was no such thing, then, as anyone denying the cardinal truths of the Word, or disputing the books of the Bible. What was most abhorrent to God was a corrupt Christianity. To how many it will be said who have prophesied in his name, "I never knew you."

When the Lord gave Saul, at his conversion, that thorough moral breakdown out of Judaism into Himself he knew where to go. There was a party prepared for him (Acts ix. and xxvi.). If a New-Zealander, who had become a Christian, and not knowing anything about the thirty or forty different sects, came over to England, and tanding up in Fleet-street, said he wanted to join such as those he saw in the Acts of the Apostles, why, where would he be handed to? But Paul went straight to the people of God, a people in corporate union, no dissent, but disciples and friends of the Lord Jesus Christ. In those days it was the doctrine of Christ crucified, and Christ coming again, which had the power.

What did these early Christians every Lord's Day? They broke bread, or took the Lord's Supper. The Lord Jesus left the command—"Do this in remembrance of Me." There was no specific command given as to time; but, in its early condition, it was a habit with the Church of God to remember the Lord in the breaking of bread every Lord's Day.

SECOND LECTURE.

Mr. Smith showed how Christians were to be occupied, who were associated with Christ, during his absence. They were to be looking for His return, and to be fishers of men; and that the kingdom of God was, as a drag-net, to be drawn till the end of the age. And that when the Lord did return for his own (1 Thes. iv.), the world, he believed, may have no conception of it; but only those who are partakers of a Divine nature and indwelt by the Holy Spirit.

The following instances were give to show that only those immediately interested may be aware of it. "By faith Enoch was translated that he should not see death; and was not found, because God had translated him" (Heb. xi. 5). The translation of Elijah; fifty men of the sons of the prophets went to search for him, having no conception of what had occurred. Daniel had a remarkable sight—a supernatural appearance of the Son of Man (Dan. x. 7). Although others were with him, he alone saw the vision. Only Daniel had the "heavenly eye" to see it. Thus it may be only those who are Christ's who will see Him when He comes. Millions of Christians are unfaithful to God in this respect, i.e., they are not looking for his appearing. The transfiguration of Christ (Luke ix. 28, 36) may show us the same. None but the three disciples saw that glorious sight. It was night, and Christ's person was white and glistening. That mountain was brighter than noon-day. Yet the world saw it not. A still more remarkable case in Luke ii., where "God manifest in the flesh" was lying a babe in a manger, and where the angels, multitudes of the heavenly hosts (armies), shone round about the shepherds, told them of the good tidings, and burst out in songs, praising God. No one in all Bethlehem but the shepherds saw the angels, or heard their joyous songs. Again, Stephen said, "Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of Man standing on the right hand of God." The Jews gnashed on him with their teeth, and stoned him for what they considered blasphemy. They did not see what he saw. When the Lord appeared to Saul ("brighter than the sun") the people heard a voice, but saw no one. Thus may the Lord come to the air, and the world be utterly ignorant of the event.

The promise of the Lord to his disciples, "I will come again," was not to be confounded with his coming to the world. For when He comes to the world we come with Him, hence He must first take us to Him. Contrasted the hope of his return of the first century, with the ignorance and lukewarmness of the nineteenth century. How few there were who really believed and looked for it? Beautiful was the early bloom of Christianity—"they continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers." They were all dragging the net, and went everywhere preaching the Gospel of the grace of God.

THIRD LECTURE.

During the Lord's absence—our relation to Him and to the world—fishers of men. Observe the command, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature." The kingdom of heaven was to be like a net, a drag-net; to be drawn all through the waters right up to the end of the age. At first the disciples and even Paul were slow to do this. God had to scatter them in order that his Word should be obeyed. Paul was made prisoner and sent to Rome at Cæsar's expense. From that time to the present, how little had been done! Christians have forgotten that the net was to be drawn through the world (Matt. xiii. 47). Look over the past nearly 2000 years. It is a melancholy thing to see how little has been done. We see Christians acting by deputy, and giving money for others to go, but only a few going themselves. Millions upon millions are yet without the lamp of Divine truth. The whole thing has become enfeebled. And what is the secret? Matt. xiii. 33 has come to pass. "The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened." The Church has been leavened, and has done little with the net. Paul foresaw what would happen—Acts xx. 29. What we want is a revival as to the duty of the Church to the world. Here even Scriptures were given for our meditation.

1 Cor. xi. 23—26, "Do this in remembrance of Me." The early disciples did so on the first day of the week. 1 John iii. 1—3: Every child of God looking for the coming of the Lord is to purify himself. Rev. iii. 11: We are to "hold fast" what the apostles received—not to let go the Godhead of Christ; or the atonement of Christ; or the depravity of the human nature; or the personality of the Holy Spirit, the reality of future punishment of the wicked, or the personality of the devil. 1 Thess. iv. 13—18: To "comfort" one another, especially the weak and those who have fallen. A heart in true sympathy with Christ will show itself in this way. 1 John iii. 6: During his absence and in the prospect of his near approach, we are to "abide in Him," also to be serving. Good servants will watch and wait, and to be occupied with what He has entrusted to their care, and not be ashamed at his coming.

FOURTH LECTURE.

Our attention was directed to Col. iii. 8—17: Said it would take eternity to exhaust the 12th verse—the names by which we are known in heaven—"elect of God, holy and beloved." These names were as old as eternity. His purposes are eternal. Chosen of God for a specified end. Good Robert Chapman says: We not only taken out of our sinnership, but are creatureship as well. As one with Christ, we have far more than any creature not so associated ever could have had. "Far above all principality and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named," &c. "Heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ." Holy: every child of God, before God, is holy, and should be so in his life here. Beloved, or "being loved," like the being of God. Continuing, "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ?" These are the names given to God's redeemed people; and He knows them righteously in the Lord Jesus Christ. The garb and gait of a Christian are to appear corresponding to these names. God often sees us half-and-half Christians, and in that garb we profess to "put off." A Christian is to put off "anger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy communications out of your mouth, and not to lie one to another." What to put on? a beautiful exchange, "bowels of mercies." Let us be more like the blessed Incarnate One, as we see Him at Nain, or as He wept with Martha and Mary; also over Jerusalem. "Love:" Have it about us as a "binding robe." "Kindness:" How little it costs! It should be as natural as the flower that blooms. "Humbleness of mind," not assumed, but own all you have to come from God. "Meekness, longsuffering," &c. Jesus says, "Learn of Me, for I am meek and lowly in heart." "Forgiving one another," not seven times only, but seventy times seven!

How good of God to give us these precepts. It is only for a little while; by and by we shall be like his Son, in mind, will, appearance, and person. There will be only one Jesus; but millions like Him! How wonderful conversion is! "From the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same, the Lord's name is to be praised." Every moment that the sun shines is to be a moment of praise, under all circumstances; for all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called, according to his purpose."

After these lectures—so feebly described and curtailed on account of your limited space—one could not help feeling we ought to act as the apostles did, and what is there to prevent Christians of the nineteenth century from adopting the principles of the Christians of the first century? But to see these things as God wishes us to see them, we must have what Mr. Denham Smith calls "a heavenly eye." J. C. A.

◆

TRUE, ALAS!

By THE WIFE OF A MEDICAL MAN.

THESE two cases of which I write have happened this very Christmas, and speak in solemn, warning tones, first to those who have never thought about the matter before, and secondly to those who have thought, and are yet undecided. Is the occasional use of wine, spirits, ale, wrong? May we not on a festive occasion use them—moderately, of course? Just now, at Christmas time, shall we not indulge a little in them, and offer them to others? Oh, my friends, listen to what has happened this very Christmas-tide, and then ask yourselves the question. These two cases are real, happening under my own notice.

The first occurred on Monday afternoon, Dec. 22. A man and his wife attended the Christmas market of their little town, to buy what was necessary to keep this festive season, and make merry with their children and friends. A pleasant time is spent, the good wife busy marketing, anticipating the Christmas cheer; the husband, a kind and sober man as a rule, meets acquaintances (friends I cannot call them), joins them in a glass. He is urged to take another—"Christmas time, you know." He yields; another, and another, is taken, and he begins to feel the effect of them. "Well, never mind, it is rarely I ever take anything, and that is why I feel it." There is many a joke at his expense as the companions notice their usually sober friend decidedly the worse.

After a time the wife, having finished her purchases, seeks him; someone mentions that they saw him at the "Bull's Head" half an hour ago. There she goes, not expecting to find him drunk, or the worse for drink, because his habits are sober. What is her dismay to find him as she does. She gets her things hurriedly together, and persuades him to start. He, feeling ashamed, and the butt of the jeers, is only too glad to leave, and they commence their homeward journey. They have about two miles to go. How different is their return. The poor wife's heart is heavy; she has all her marketing to carry, and to assist her husband—the poor fellow is stumbling along in the middle of the road.

Presently, she hears something coming; it is a butcher's cart. She calls to him to get out of the way. He, not clearly understanding, turns round; the cart comes on, the driver does not see him, and he is knocked down. The horse is stopped, the occupants of the cart get out, and the poor frenzied wife rushes to him. He is lying in the road, the shaft of the cart having crushed in his chest. He breathes, but does not speak. They lift him into the cart and take him to the nearest cottage. In half an hour all is over; his wife is a widow, his children are fatherless. She returns to her home heart-broken, never to lift up her head or rejoice again. That her husband should die drunk! O God, it is too terrible!

How different is the Christmas Day to what had been planned and anticipated. Will the wail of that broken-hearted wife reach no heart? Will the doom of that usually sober man speak to none? It is written that "No drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of heaven." Solemn words: ye who have never thought before, reflect; and ye who have thought, and still use, and offer to others this deadly drink, stop! You may be a Christian man or woman, but reflect again more deeply, and resolve to put aside that which is slaying its thousands every year.

The second case happening under my notice is that of an old man, the inmate of the Union Workhouse in the town where I live. He goes out to see his friends and to make merry at Christmas. He is to return to the house on Friday night. He does not come in, so is searched for. He, too, has been treated to this deadly alcohol, the effect of which overpowered him. As he returns with tottering steps, his head swims, he sinks by the side of the road, and there through the cold frosty night he lies. He is found towards morning, and borne back, bruised by his fall, suffering from the ill effects of the drink and the cold. To-night he is dying, never having been conscious since his return. He goes down to his grave without a word of prayer, killed by the deadly drink which had been given him to enable him to spend a merry Christmas.

And yet many of Christ's followers use, and give to others, that which kills the body and soul also. Will not these facts startle you and lead you to say: "I will begin a new year in a new way, and banish from my table that which is slaying men for whom Christ died"?

◆

EVANGELIZING "ON THE ROAD."

THE annual meetings of the Christian Commercial Travellers' Association were held on Tuesday week at the Cannon-street Hotel. A largely-attended devotional service, from four to five, was presided over by Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, who gave a characteristically plain and pointed address on "Conversion." In the course of it he told some incidents that are worth reproducing. Speaking of the terror with which some people hear the word conversion, he said: "A highly-gifted lady of my acquaintance was travelling by train the other day. A young Cambridge man was in the same compartment. They entered into conversation, and the lady happened, casually, to use the word 'converted.' The young man started as if he had been touched by a hot coal, and said: 'Madam, you are the first intelligent person from whom I have ever heard the word. What in the world do you mean by conversion?' It was a very fortunate thing she could give an answer. Out of the abundance of her own experience she preached the Gospel to him, and he was much impressed by it."

Mr. Hughes related the conversion of the first commercial traveller, as far as he knew, who was brought to the Lord under his own ministry: "It was when I was quite a youth, and was stationed at Dover. It was a very wet Sunday night, and the congregation was small. I was a little discouraged to see so many empty pews, but I observed at the far end of the chapel a man dressed in the highest style of the fashion. The sermon had not long been begun when he put both his elbows on the pew in front of him, placed his head between his hands, and gazed at me as if he had been petrified. When we rose to sing the last hymn, instead of rising he sank on his knees, and remained there with his face buried in his hands. When I went into the vestry at the close of the service, this gentleman came down the aisle to see me. The tears were streaming down his cheeks, and he was under the deepest conviction of sin. It appeared that he had been walking along and had heard the singing of the opening hymn. It reminded him of one his mother had taught him, and he could not resist the inclination to enter. The sermon laid hold of him by the power of God's Spirit, and there he was, supremely miserable. He said it was no use for him to give his heart to Christ. He described his occupation as a commercial traveller; he was constantly living in hotels, and drink was his curse. He had no power to resist the temptations to it, and he was sure to fall again. I said the grace of God could save him now, at any rate, and urged him to trust in Christ.

"The prayer-meeting was to be held in the chapel, but I said I would stay in the vestry with him; I saw that his loud fashionable attire would make him rather conspicuous in a little meeting. I was much pleased, however, to hear him say he would go into the prayer-meeting. 'By all means,' said I. After the meeting had begun he suddenly burst out in prayer. O the agony of that man as he openly confessed to God that he was making his home a very hell, breaking the heart of his wife, and destroying the prospects of his children, and pleaded to God to have mercy upon him! The whole meeting was moved. By and by he began to pray the second time, breaking through all the rules of propriety; but how different was the second prayer. He poured out a flood of rejoicing for sins blotted out, and told of his unspeakable happiness in Christ. When he left he said to me he would write from Canterbury and tell me how he was getting on. He did not write, and unbelief was taking possession of me—I was afraid he had again fallen before temptation. Twelve months afterwards, however, he called upon me, and his whole appearance was so changed that he did not need to tell me that God had kept him. He has for years been an honoured office-bearer in our church."

Proceeding to dwell on the wonderful opportunities that Christian Commercials have to witness for Christ, the speaker said: "Only last week I met a friend of mine who is a partner in a large manufacturing firm in the North of England; he revealed to me a method of working for Christ which I had scarcely thought of before. He is often 'on the road,' and when he is, he turns the railway carriage into a sort of inquiry-room. Of course a man must be very discreet and careful, but my friend seems to be singularly successful in the work. He told me of a single journey he took from the Midland counties to Newcastle. The first person he encountered was a soldier who had returned from India. They entered into conversation, which led up to Christianity. My friend, with great courtesy and delicacy, began to bear his testimony. The soldier turned out to be a Methodist backslider. He had found peace of soul in that far-away land, but had lost his communion with God; now as he heard this Christian man testify of Christ he began to weep. My friend asked if he would like to come back to Christ, and he said he would. The result was that the man was restored to the favour of God before they reached the next station.

"The next to come into the carriage was a widow. She had just lost her husband, and my friend sought to point her for consolation to the God of all comfort. She burst into tears, and said she also longed to trust in Christ. Very soon she, too, found peace and joy in believing. The next who came was a prodigal boy who had run away from home. To make a long story short, he also was led back to Christ. Last of all a man and his wife turned up, and both of them yielded to the power of the Gospel. When they reached Newcastle my friend took them straight from the station to a Methodist class which he knew was meeting at that hour, in order to make assurance doubly sure."

◆

BOURNEMOUTH CITY MISSION.

A MEETING in connection with the Bournemouth Association of the London City Mission was lately held at Merrow, Wimborne-road, the residence of Mr. E. Futvoye, and was well attended. Reports were circulated, giving some details of the work done during the past year by the two missionaries supported by the Bournemouth Association, from which it appears that their labours have been attended by a considerable amount of success. The missionaries are Mr. Kettle, who has the Cannon-street-road District, with about 600 families; and Mr. McGovern, the Ratcliff District, with about 700 families.

Mr. Futvoye, who presided, made an appeal for help in raising the £40 still needed to provide the salary of the two missionaries for another year. He had been connected with the Mission for fifty years, and it would be impossible for him to tell a thousandth part of the good that had been done by its agency during that period.

Mr. James Dunn, District Secretary, said the Districts in which the two missionaries worked teemed with ignorance and vice; they had proved themselves wise and successful workers. The work was very difficult, sometimes dangerous, and it deserved the heartiest support.

We trust that the needed sum will soon be raised, and other towns follow the example of Bournemouth.

AN APOSTOLIC BISHOP.

BISHOP TAYLOR ON SELF-SUPPORTING MISSIONS.

THE famous, world-wide evangelist, William Taylor, seems to wear very lightly his lately bestowed ecclesiastical honours. As he appeared in the lecture-room at 186, Aldersgate-street, on Monday evening last week, no man could have looked less like the modern, conventionally-attired member of the Episcopal Bench. His tall, commanding presence, his massive and characteristic face, his full, flowing beard, whitening with the frosts of age, were all that indicated the man of mark among his fellows.

The early part of his address was a synopsis of his personal spiritual experiences. "I am a witness," he said, "to the fact that the Lord Jesus Christ is alive; that He is a person, and though invisible, accessible. I have been cultivating a personal acquaintance with the personal Saviour for more than forty-three years." He proceeded to tell how for some years after his conversion, through deficient teaching, his experience was very unsatisfactory. In due time however, he was led to see that in himself dwelt and could dwell no good thing; so he took Christ to be not only his justification but his sanctification, his wisdom, his righteousness—in fact, his complete redemption. He was enabled to receive the Holy Ghost, and in His power to give himself up to doing the will of God.

Passing from this, he continued: A number of friends have asked me to speak about self-supporting Missions. So I must turn aside from the direct spiritual line, and give you something on the same line, but with a different relation and a wider perception of things. We will take a brief outlook, if you please, on this great business of getting the world saved. The Lord has been long preparing the way, filling up the valleys, levelling the mountains, making the rough places plain. There are, no doubt, a great many things to discourage those who look sharply and critically into things; but that has always been so. There are many hindrances, much worldliness in the Church and in family life, much spiritual death and stagnation; nevertheless I believe that there is more intelligent holiness and a wider diffusion of it among men than ever before. There has been a wonderful preparation going on—by a minority it is true; but every great work has been done by a minority. In spite of the "dead wood" of organisations, there is a mighty force at work in the Church of God in all Christian countries; in foreign countries a wonderful preparation has been going on through missionary operations. There has been the translation of the Scriptures into so many languages, accomplished mainly through missionary agency, and the education of so many people in these heathen countries. All these things are now to be utilised. This preparatory work is worth a hundred times more than it cost. God, who makes the wrath of man to praise Him, and restrains the remainder thereof, has providentially worked through English conquest, English colonisation, English commerce, and the spread of the English language, as great factors in the universal spread of civilisation and Christianity. That is my thorough conviction. The grand possibility of preaching the Gospel to every creature on the face of the earth are now within reach of the Church as never before. I believe it is possible that if the Anglo-Saxon races alone would fall into line with God, discerning the signs of the times, and marching forward under the leading of the Holy Spirit, in less than thirty years they could preach the Gospel to every sinner on the face of the globe. I do not say it will be so, but it is my conviction that it ought to be so.

Bishop Taylor then graphically related some of his experiences in Caffraria in conjunction with missionaries who had long been resident there, of whom he singled out Mr. Lamplough for special mention. He said he urged these brethren to utilize the resources that had been accumulating during the past years.

With the aid of an interpreter—a Zulu Chief—he had preached first to a gathering of believers. The Holy Ghost fell on them, and they were mightily endued with power from on high. To a great congregation of heathens the same evening he again preached through the interpreter, and 137 well-authenticated conversions were the result. The work spread over a thousand miles of territory, and in four months there were 1200 conversions; at the end of some months longer it was reported that very few of the converts had proved unsatisfactory. As soon as they believed they set to work among their neighbours, and "recommended the Doctor who had healed them." Even the women and little children became evangelists. As an illustration of the influence of the children, Bishop Taylor related how two of them, having learned to love Jesus, walked home seven miles singing all the way. When they reached home their singing woke up their old grandfather, whose heart was wonderfully touched by the children's testimony. He started off at midnight, with the help of his crutches, to walk these seven miles in order to converse with the missionary about his own salvation. He had two wives, one old and worn out, the other young and muscular, and, therefore, of considerable value to him, according to the reckoning of the native customs. He came to consult the missionary next day with both wives; the result was that the younger wife was sent back with her children to her parents, and he retained his first wife, to the great joy of both. In the space of seven months no less than 7000 conversions were reported as the result of the simple declaration of the Gospel, without debate, and of the testimony of the converts themselves.

The last part of the Bishop's address was directed to an elucidation of the self-supporting principle. On the previous evening he had preached on this subject at Brixton Hill. His discourse then seems to have been somewhat more comprehensive than on this occasion; we therefore quote the following report of it as given in the first number of The Methodist Times:—

"For the last thirteen years he had been engaged in founding self-supporting Missions. He said that his system rested on three principles: (1) A pioneer principle—the founder of a Mission must support himself; (2) equivalence—value for value; those who benefit by the ministry must maintain it; (3) benevolence; those who are able must not only support their own ministers, but raise funds to send the Gospel to others unable to maintain self-supporting churches. During the first year he spent in India he conducted special services on behalf of nine different Societies. Then he turned to the Eurasians, the children of European fathers and native mothers. He thought these persons occupied in India a position analagous to that of the 'Grecians' (the Hellenized Jews) in the Roman Empire. They were an 'entering wedge,' by means of which direct missionary work among the natives might become possible. This organisation had already more than fifty travelling preachers, fifty-seven local preachers, and more than 2100 members. All these churches were self-supporting; and in the same way forty-five ministers were already at work in Central South America. Some races and classes were so poor that they could not maintain the work, but others did not care or need to live upon charity. Our Saviour sent forth his first great missionary corps without purse or scrip, but they lacked nothing.

"The Bishop next argued that Paul acted on the same principle, but as soon as the Churches were able they were required to support a 'Transit Fund,' to assist evangelists to travel from place to place. He worked on the same lines, and taught the native Churches to rely on indigenous resources. They had sent out more than 100 missionaries, but they had never borrowed a dollar, or kept a minister an hour in want of one. This year they were sending out eighty more.

"This principle was now to be worked in Africa. He and forty companions were on their way to a great central plateau between the Congo and the Zambesi, inhabited by at least 75,000,000 of people. These races, who had only just been discovered by the German African Exploration, were semi-civilised. They were not nomadic, but lived in large towns of stone houses. They worked in iron; they made boats. No Christian herald had ever appeared among them. Now, how were the native languages to be learnt? There were 428 languages in Africa, and it took twenty-five years to reduce any one of them to writing, and to become fully acquainted with it. 'If I had to learn all of these,' said the Bishop, with quaint American humour, 'I should have to get an extension of time.' Those of his companions who turned out to be linguistic geniuses were to be told off to learn native languages. He and the rest would teach the natives English. Mohamedanism was spreading all over Africa by means of the Arabic language; why not Christianity by means of English? They intended to employ the Pestalozzian method, and to use the phonetic alphabet. They hoped by this short cut to have numberless interpreters in three years.

"They did not ask anyone to accompany them, and he gave several touching stories of the way in which he had tried to discourage and frighten volunteers; but brave men and women, in spite of all the perils, were determined to risk life itself for Christ's sake. In their party they had three doctors, including one lady doctor, four printers, carpenters, smiths, &c. He could build a house himself. Their only book would be the Bible. That would be the Primer, and also the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th Reader. They would teach them no nonsense, no stories about Mother Goose, but begin with the glorious words, 'In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.' They had a phonetic Testament ready. There was one immense advantage in using the phonetic language. No fictions and no infidel works had been published in phonetic English.

"The Bishop then repeated what he had asserted twice before, that his system of self-supporting Missions was in no sense whatever antagonistic to the ordinary system of missionary operations. The two methods might be worked most harmoniously side by side. That was the case at home; why not use both methods in the same way abroad? For thirteen years his own Church had refused to adopt his method. But at the last General Conference the discipline had been amended, so that he was now free to carry out his method fully. He intended to employ both methods in Africa. Bishop Taylor, having spoken for an hour to a deeply-interested congregation, then closed the Bible, and leaning over the pulpit concluded as follows:—'I ask your prayers and your sympathy. Before I went to India no one in England had any faith in a self-supporting missionary system. But the Australians had faith. They said, 'Yes, Brother Taylor, the Lord will be with you, and we will pray for you.' Many believe in this apostolic method now. Your sympathy will increase our faith and courage. The Lord bless you."

◆

A MESSAGE FROM TENNESSEE.

DEAR SIR,—By your kindness in inserting my letter in your issue of October 30, I have received many copies of The Christian. I would have replied personally to all who sent me their addresses, but was waiting till our Conference; like all other Methodist ministers, I am liable to be moved every annual Conference, and I wanted to give my correct address. I have been returned to the same field of labour for another year. Our Conference closed last week.

Since then I have been at my old home, Jackson. I am assisting in a series of evangelistic services being conducted by Rev. S. P. Jones, of our North Georgia Conference. The services have been going on for about ten days, and about a hundred have professed to find peace with God, through faith in Christ. Mr. Jones begins services in Mr. Talmage's Tabernacle on January 1. Copies of The Christian, so kindly sent to me, have been widely distributed (after being read), especially at the services referred to.

On account of the number who gave me their addresses when sending papers, I am obliged to take this method of publicly thanking them. I shall be grateful to any friend who may send copies of the paper to me. They shall be read, then circulated as widely as possible.—Yours fraternally,

David Leith.

Memphis, Tennessee, U.S.A., Dec. 17.

EPISODE OF THE HAMPSTEAD MISSION.

A TICKET for one of Messrs. Moody and Sankey's Hampstead Meetings was handed to Mr. S—— B——, 69 years of age, a shoemaker by trade. His first thought was that this kind of thing was out of his line; but he had heard that Mr. Sankey's singing was worth hearing, and therefore he resolved to go. Well enough he might think that such meetings were not in his line, for his cast of mind was that of too many of his craft, viz., sceptical, and his habits were the reverse of sober.

On the evening on which he went to the meeting Mr. Sankey sang the hymn containing the solemn refrain "Eternity, Eternity." The thrilling strains of this hymn aroused thought in the sceptic's heart, and prevented his making his escape from the building the moment the preaching was over. A zealous steward, who recognised him, on seeing him linger, advanced to Mr. Moody, and pointing to S—— B——, said: "If you can get hold of that man, you will have the leading sceptic in our neighbourhood." Mr. Moody, with characteristic readiness, went up to him, and laying his hand on his shoulder, asked him, "Why are you not a Christian?" B—— had nothing to answer. Mr. Moody took him into the inquiry-room and introduced him to an intelligent worker, who for an hour, step by step, combated his infidel objections.

He departed with his curiosity aroused, and on retiring to rest sleep forsook his eyelids; for Mr. Sankey's solemn word, "Eternity," echoed through the chambers of his brain. He longed for the next evening to come that he might again hear the singing and satisfy the curiosity aroused by this contact with Revealed Truth. Nicodemus-like, however, he sought a seat close under the platform that he might be unobserved, but had scarcely got seated when his friend the steward, who had purposely secured a front seat for the old shoemaker, beckoned him. With thoughtful kindness the steward said, "Mr. B——, you'll not hear there; pray come and take this chair I have reserved for you." He assented. As he listened to Mr. Sankey's singing and to Mr. Moody's preaching he seemed to have risen into a higher atmosphere of life, and with keen interest he went again to the inquiry room. The citadel of his heart had been taken, and he came out saying he saw more than he had ever seen before. He also promised that he would search the Scriptures to see if these things were so.

His zealous friend the steward visited him, and on mentioning to a Christian tradesman how much B—— was interested, he sent him a large-type Bible. In the quiet reading of this large-type Bible B—— found Christ, and straightway confessed his name. At first he did not see that he should forsake his old habits, until one Saturday he found himself overcome by his old foe. This reached the ears of his friend the steward, who, on meeting him in the street on Monday morning, requested him to go home and read the first Psalm. B—— was only too glad to accept his friend's counsel. He read, "Nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful." Thereupon, he considered that his right course was to forsake the temptations of such company by becoming a pledged abstainer. At once he took his hat and made a call on a friend who had a pledge-book, and added his name. The friend on whom he called, who himself had learned the secret that without the help of the Lord it would be in vain, suggested prayer about it, and the two men solemnly prayed together.

From this time B—— witnessed a good confession among his friends, and at home read much of his large-type Bible. He testified that his enjoyment of communion with God, and his Saviour Jesus Christ, was intense and uninterrupted, as hour after hour he pursued his humble calling. He joined a band of open-air preachers, and loved to testify for his newly-found Saviour. His former companions in scepticism tried to confound him with apparent contradictions in Scripture. When a question of more than ordinary difficulty arose he consulted an older Christian, and was often strengthened and confirmed in the faith by the plain vindication of the consistency of one part of Scripture with another.

His pledge-book friend is a collector for the London Temperance Hospital. One day, B—— called with a small contribution, and quietly said, "Will you accept this from a saved old drunkard?" His days of testimony were to be few. His abstinence from beer caused him to crave larger quantities of solid food, and at his advanced age he experienced difficulty in digestion. This came on in an aggravated form, and he passed away with painful suddenness. On his dying bed he would say to his wife, "Please be quiet, and let me have a few minutes' communion with my Saviour."

Conversions are the living proofs of the enduring power of the Gospel. He had been a scoffer at and an open persecutor of open-air preachers; it was this band of workers he joined. He had been drunken in his habits; he became a zealous advocate of total abstinence. He had been an open sceptic; he became, like John Newton, a champion of the truth he once laboured to destroy.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

MR. GEORGE SOLTAU, after a season of work in Canada, has gone into the United States, where he has many invitations to engage in evangelistic services.

MR. AND MRS. FRED WILSON are conducting Gospel services at the Primitive Methodist Mission, Canning-road, Highbury-vale, N. This is their second visit within a short time.

YOUNG MEN IN THE CITY.—During the closing days of the old year and the opening days of the new Gospel meetings have been held at the Y.M.C.A., Aldersgate-street. The speakers included Messrs. Stanley Smith, Studd, J. R. Landale, Rev. Charles Moore, and Dr. Barnardo. Night by night there was manifest blessing through the testimony of these brethren; not only were there conversions, but the members of the Association received blessing and stimulus.

REV. H. KINGSTON, after an absence of five years, has just returned from America, where his labours have been greatly blessed. He was formerly connected with the Free Gospel Mission, and was one of the most useful and successful workers I ever had; one of his spiritual children is now the best worker in our Mission. He is very anxious, during the few months he may be here, to be employed in the Master's service, and for this purpose will gladly hold himself in readiness to enter any door the Lord in his providence may open for him. Letters for him may be addressed to 58, Nottingham-street, Waterloo Town, Mile-end, E. G. HAMILTON.

PROPOSED MISSION AT ABERDEEN.—An Aberdeen correspondent writes:—"The Committee of the Aberdeen Young Men's Christian Association having been deeply impressed with the thought that a visit from Rev. Hugh Price Hughes to this city for evangelistic work would be the means of great spiritual blessing, have unanimously and cordially resolved to invite Mr. Hughes to come at as early a date as he can find convenient. It is proposed that the visit should extend to a fortnight. The memorial to Mr. Hughes conveying this request is signed by ministers of all Churches." Our correspondent adds that this is one of the most remarkable memorials ever sent from Aberdeen to a Christian minister.—Methodist Times.

LIFE-BOAT SERVICES.—The work of the Life-boats of the Royal National Life-boat Institution during the past twelve months has resulted in the rescue of 596 lives, the greater part of whom must have perished had it not been for the promptness and the daring of the brave crews of the life-boats. During the year the Society also granted rewards for the rescue of 159 lives by means of shore-boats and fishing boats, so that a total of over 760 lives have been saved in the last twelve months through its instrumentality, bringing up the number of lives saved since the foundation of the Institution to 31,343. In order to carry on this great work, which is second to none in importance, and to maintain in efficiency their fleet of 284 boats, the Committee make a strong appeal to the public for help.

MR. MOODY IN TORONTO.

WE have already made several allusions to the three days' Conference held in this Canadian city on December 2—4. Some further details, sent to us by Mr. George Soltau, will be read with interest:—

There were but ten days to prepare for the Convention, and no time could be lost. Committees were formed at once for arranging the various details of the meetings, and for inviting and caring for the ministers from all the country towns and villages within a radius of 100 miles of Toronto. Expectation ran high, and earnest prayer was offered amongst all sections of the Church.

The noon hour was devoted to prayer, the first day for "Ourselves," the second day for "Our Children," the third day for "Our Work." These hours will remain long in the memory of those present, as being, perhaps, the most hallowed and solemn of the Convention. On the second day fully two-thirds of those present rose for prayer on behalf of their children. Subdued sobs were heard all over the building; it seemed as if every father and mother were getting very near to God with the one great burden, "Lord help me, on behalf of my children."

Perhaps one of the most important gatherings of the session was that of ministers and theological students at the close of the afternoon session of the last day. The church was cleared of all but these, and a noble body of 600 men they appeared; the aged fathers in Christ mingling with the young men proposing at no distant date to enter on their great work. Three-quarters of an hour were spent in dealing with the difficulties peculiar to ministers. Questions were freely put and as freely answered, and many were immensely helped by this opportunity of drawing out the great evangelist on various details in the arrangement and conduct of meetings. I overheard more than one minister declaring his intention of entirely remodelling his style of work as the result of the Convention. It is impossible to say how far the effect of these meetings will reach. For hundreds of miles the fire will be carried and the blessing will probably be deep and full.

At the afternoon meetings it seemed as if wave upon wave of power swept through the church. Repeatedly all heads were bowed, and strong men shook and trembled under deep emotion. To some few of us who had been through similar meetings and had heard these same addresses several times, there seemed no diminution, but rather an increase of power, as we listened to their re-delivery.

The evening meetings were reserved exclusively for men, to whom Gospel addresses were delivered. Hundreds rose for prayer; the after-meetings were crowded, and the workers kept busy till a late hour dealing with anxious souls.

The secret of all this blessing and power seemed to lie in the hearty union of the ministers. So soon as the arrangements had been made they came together as one man, and God has blessed them. Many are praying that this Convention may be the means of breaking in upon the formalism and routine that had settled down on hundreds of churches in Canada, quenching spiritual life and barring the way to more aggressive work for the Master.

Mr. and Mrs. McGranahan and Major Whittle were also present with us. The two former sang their sweet songs, so familiar to many in England, and the three had charge of the large overflow meetings in the evening at a neighbouring church.

The Lord has given much blessing at a series of meetings I have held in different parts of Toronto, and many have confessed Christ. I am now in the midst of a ten days' Mission at the Y.M.C.A., London, Ontario. The meetings are very small, but every night some are found coming into the light, and rejoicing in the Lord.

"THE CRY FOR CHRIST," a poem by Miss Backler, which appeared in our issue of December 4, has been printed by request, and may be purchased in leaflet form (3s. per 100, or 6d. per dozen) from the authoress, Young Women's Christian Association, 45, Grove-lane, Camberwell, S.E. The proceeds will be given to the Rescue Home, Fearnley-road, Camberwell.

A SUNDAY WITH REV. E. P. HAMMOND

IN LIVERPOOL.

(By our own Reporter.)

NO one who is privileged to pass a day in the company of this American evangelist will suffer from ennui Though he has seen much service, and is now well advanced in middle life, Mr. Hammond retains all the vivacity, enthusiasm, and hopefulness of youth. Moreover, he is gifted with the rare faculty of imparting these qualities to others ; in whatever company he may chance to be, that company is pretty sure to have a lively and interesting time.

Let me relate, as briefly as I can, my own experiences of Sunday week in the great city of Liverpool, which is at present the scene of Mr. Hammond's active labours. Quitting the hospitable residence of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Menzies, in Croxteth-road, I accompanied Mr. Hammond to the Canning-street Presbyterian Church. Here he preached on "The Conversion of Children," to Rev. S. R. Macphail's usual congregation, in which the Scotch element largely predominates. Mr. Macphail is himself a Scotchman, of whose evangelistic earnestness in his student days in the far North I have a pleasant recollection. In his sermon Mr. Hammond set himself to propound and answer several questions about the special subject in hand. This he did in such a way as not only to rivet the hushed attention of his hearers, but to awaken their sympathy in a most unmistakable manner. Scotch audiences are not of the gushing sort, but I may safely hazard the assertion that there were few dry eyes, and few hearts that did not beat more quickly than usual, in that congregation that forenoon

The questions that the preacher essayed to answer were these : Can children be converted ? At how early an age can they be led to an intelligent trust in Christ ? When converted will they hold out ? What are the means to be used for their conversion ? It is hardly needful for me to indicate the sense in which these questions were replied to. Mr. Hammond showed not only from the teaching of Scripture, but from his own wide experience and that of many other Gospel preachers, that children can become disciples of Christ at a very tender age. Indeed, he holds the ideal method of youthful training to be that which implants in their hearts the love of Christ so early that they are all unconscious of the time when they experienced the definite change we call conversion. Mr. Hammond fortified his successive positions by the recital of many touching incidents, illustrating the readiness with which very young children respond to the dying love of Jesus when it is sympathetically explained to them. The need for brevity in these observations prevents me from quoting any of the incidents, but I would advise any parental reader who is not familiar with the subject, to peruse Mr. Hammond's well-known book,* in which the whole subject is dealt with in a practical and conclusive fashion. As I took occasion to remark in last issue, there could have been no better preparation than this discourse, to the meetings for children held in the same church later in the week. It was not without immediate fruit as the sequel of this sketch will show.

Next on the programme for the day was a children's service in Gordon Hall (Y.W.C.A.), Blackburne-place, Catherine-street. On the way thither we chanced to pass Sugnall-street, where Mrs. Birt's Sheltering Homes are now situated. The mention to Mr. Hammond of this excellent lady's name at once suggested to him that we should pay her a flying visit, which we did. We found her taking some needed rest after the almost herculean labours of Christmas Day, when, as she informed us, no less than 7000 poor children were fed and otherwise entertained by herself and her helpers, at twelve different centres throughout the city. That must have been a day of happy memory, not only to the children who partook of the good things, but to those who provided them, and to those who had the privilege of seeing to their distribution. We saw some of Mrs. Birt's latest "rescues" gathering in the schoolroom for the afternoon lessons, but our visit and the mention of the meeting in Gordon Hall led to goodly contingents both of girls and boys being marched to that place, which is almost in the next street. Another link, as Mr. Hammond remarked, in the chain of providential arrangements. Some of those young people (whose good looks and healthy appearance surprised me not a little) may in coming years, in distant Canada, trace the beginnings of their Christian career to that afternoon service in Gordon Hall. I took the liberty of cross-questioning some of them in the inquiry-meeting and the ready, intelligent answers they gave spoke volumes for the training they are receiving at Sugnall-street, prior to their departure, in the sweet spring time, for the other shore of the Atlantic.

I cannot linger over this children's meeting, which, though not marked by any remarkable manifestation of power, was yet fraught with deep interest, and showed the wonderful influence that Mr. Hammond has over the minds and hearts of the young. One very definite case of blessing (out of several we met with) was that of a youth, just about to enter boarding school. He had heard Mr. Hammond preach in Mr. Macphail's church, in the morning, and had got sufficiently interested to attend the children's service in the afternoon. The impressions were deepened, and brought to a point ; before he left Gordon Hall he seemed to have lost his burden by a simple acceptance of salvation through Christ. One could not help rejoicing that in the spring-time of his years, and at such a critical stage of life, he should have made the acquaintance of the Great Friend who sticketh closer than a brother.

The shades of the long December night were now gathering about the city. After the evangelist had stolen "forty winks" of refreshing sleep, and we had partaken of tea, we hurried off to the Coliseum in the centre of the town. Here such a spectacle met our astonished gaze as I at any rate had never before looked upon, except perhaps at some of Dr. Barnardo's annual gatherings in the "Edinbro' Castle." The unpleasant sensation that found entrance through our nostrils, as we passed out of the sharp evening air into the crowded room, warned us that we had been introduced to a stratum of society where cleanliness, to say nothing of godliness, was sadly at a discount. Imagine a thousand or more of the dirtiest and most ragged-looking guttersnipes that the back slums of a great city can produce, all crowded into one apartment, and you have a mental picture of the remarkable congregation that is gathered inside the walls of the Coliseum Sunday after Sunday. Where they come from, and how they live, and what the School Board visitor is about in these parts, were questions that involuntarily presented themselves, though in vain. There they were anyhow, and whatever else they lacked, they were not deficient in lung power. As we entered they were singing a well-known children's hymn, printed in large type on a sheet-roll hanging over the platform ; every voice being about as shrill as a penny whistle, the general effect may be imagined. The commander-in-chief of this ragged crew, with the aid of a bell and a corps of young men and women subalterns, sought to maintain order and comparative quietude with but partial success, for the seething mass, some of them carrying children nearly as big as themselves, seemed as restless as the ocean after a storm.

Mr. Hammond addressed this strange congregation for a little while, doing his best by story, or snatch of song, or expressive gesture, to gain the ear of these young immortals. One could only hope that some seeds of truth were dropped into soil which looked anything but promising ; though the striking way in which they followed both the superintendent and Mr. Hammond in prayer, phrase by phrase, was a hopeful element in the case. Mr. Hales, who accompanied us, said—and we could well believe it—that the task of teaching in this extraordinary Sunday-school was one of no small self-denial. The risk of contagion from disease, fostered by filth and neglect and want, is considerable, but the teachers stick nobly to their posts, and strive from week to week to brighten these young lives as best they can.

I doubt if I have reached the point of self-sacrifice shown by these teachers, for it was with much relief that I emerged from the foul atmosphere within, into the frost-laden atmosphere without. Our next destination was St. James' Hall, which has been secured by the Y.M.C.A. for Gospel services during the winter season. Here, to a considerable company, Mr. Hammond again preached with great earnestness, relating, by way of illustration, some cases of remarkable conversion met with in his evangelistic career in America. One strange tale he told about the closing of a dancing and gambling hell in Denver, and the conversion of the proprietor ; it may, perchance, some day see the light in these pages.

An inquiry-meeting could not be held as the hour for the closing service of the day, at the rooms of the Y.M.C.A. in Mount-pleasant, had come. Forsaking Mr. Hammond, for the first time during the day, I made a detour to the Rotunda, accompanied by Mr. Hales, to get a glimpse of the gathering of destitute men and women of which that fine municipal structure is the scene week by week. There, on Sunday evenings, some 1200 to 1400 adults are convened, the only passport needed for admission being the outward and visible signs of poverty and want. The wearer of a good coat or shawl has no chance of getting inside the portals ; but Liverpool can evidently furnish overflowing audiences from the social residuum. This good work, sustained chiefly by one of the munificent business men of the city, is carried on in a quiet, unobtrusive way. Pressmen are rigorously excluded, and it was by special favour that I was able to look in for a brief space as the great sombre-looking congregation was dispersing, each male and female unit receiving a goodly loaf as they retired. Mr. Samuel Smith, M.P. for the city, sat at the President's desk on the platform, and I understood he had been the preacher for the evening. In some departments of the world's commerce and traffic Liverpool stands second to no city in the world, I suppose. For certain forms of wholesale and unblushing traffic in iniquity, there are some who say it holds the same proud pre-eminence. Whether that be so or not, there can be no doubt that for evangelistic and philanthropic zeal it holds high rank, as I can testify from the experience of this single day, and from other facts that are within my knowledge. Apart from the regular work of numerous pastors, one has only to mention such efforts as those of Mr. Drysdale at the Circus, Mr. Lockhart at Toxteth Tabernacle, the varied work of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., the Strangers' Rests, &c. &c., to prove that.

Leaving the Rotunda I reached Mount Pleasant in time to hear Mr. Hammond round off the abundant labours of the day, by some earnest and pointed exhortations to the workers, in view of the services of the succeeding fortnight. If he has but imbued them with a tithe of his own zeal and abandonment of spirit to the great end of securing the thorough conversion of their townsfolk, and the members of the rising generation, the future historian of religious Liverpool will have plenty to record.

The interest in the various meetings held last week steadily increased day by day. Those who have attended testify that at every meeting sinners have been found inquiring the way to salvation. The new hymns in Gems of Praise are becoming very popular. The children, as well as older persons, learn them very quickly.

AN INTERESTING LETTER.

At one of the meetings the following letter was read :—

Liverpool, New Year's Eve, 1884.

Dear Mr. Hammond,—Your visit to Liverpool calls to my mind very vividly an eventful period in my history. Under God, I owe you a debt of gratitude I can never repay. Twenty-two years ago, at the request of the ministers of the city, you visited Hamilton, in Western Canada. You were the guest of relatives of mine, with whom I was then living. I had steeled my heart to resist any Christian influences you might exert. I said to myself, "Others may be converted, but I will not be."

---

* The Conversion of Children. 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d. Morgan & Scott.

On the day of your arrival I had been engaged in business, as usual, and I shall never forget the kind greeting you gave me on my return home. You came forward and shook hands with me as if I had been an old friend, and calling me by my Christian name said, "Well, Robert, how do ye do? Have you been working hard?" The words were few, but they and your kindly manner quite broke down the feeling of dislike I had conceived for you. The next morning I was commissioned to show you the way to the church. You then spoke to me about my soul's salvation, and asked, "Would you not like to be a Christian?" I said "Yes," but did not mean it to be more than a passive assent. As the meetings continued, God, by his Holy Spirit, worked on my heart, and I was led to yield myself to Him as a lost and ruined sinner.

I have, in these twenty-two years, found how great a Saviour has in Christ been provided for us. . . . I am grateful, first of all to Him and then to you, for all the happiness that has since come to my life.

Some people think that revivals are mere religious excitement, and that they leave behind no lasting good. I know that, of the revivals of which I am now speaking, the contrary is the fact. Your coming was the occasion of great spiritual awakening. The whole city was astir, hundreds were hopefully converted to God, and a stream of Christian influence was started that has gone on increasing in breadth and volume ever since. Three young friends of mine became ministers of the Gospel, and numbers were added to the churches. I became a member of the C—— Church in Hamilton, and when I came to Liverpool I became a communicant of D—— Church. I have ever since been engaged in Sunday-school and Mission work.

Mr. Paterson, late Secretary of the Liverpool Y.M.C.A., was converted in the meetings you conducted in Montreal, and we frequently spoke of you. My earnest prayer to God is that you may be blessed in this great city of Liverpool as you were in Hamilton twenty-two years ago.

Very gratefully yours, R. L. D.

◆

Mr. REGINALD RADCLIFFE in SCOTLAND.

ONE of the most striking features of the recent revival of interest in Foreign Missions has been the visit of our friend and brother, Mr. Reginald Radcliffe, and his fellow workers, to many of the chief towns in Scotland. Everywhere he has met with a hearty reception, and with manifest tokens of the Lord's presence and blessing. He purposes to resume the series of meetings, in conjunction with Messrs. Stanley Smith and C. T. Studd, in accordance with the following programme. Our readers are desired to remember them in prayer during these visits :—

Friday, January 9th, Liverpool Y.M.C.A.; Sunday, th and 12th, Aberdeen; Tuesday, 13th, Banff; Wednesday, 14th, Huntly; Thursday, 15th, Montrose; Friday, 16, Perth; Saturday, 17 to 19, Edinburgh; Tuesday, 20, Glasgow; Wednesday, 21, Greenock; Thursday, 22 and 23, not yet fixed; Saturday, 24 and 25, Newcastle; Monday, 26, (probably) Leeds.

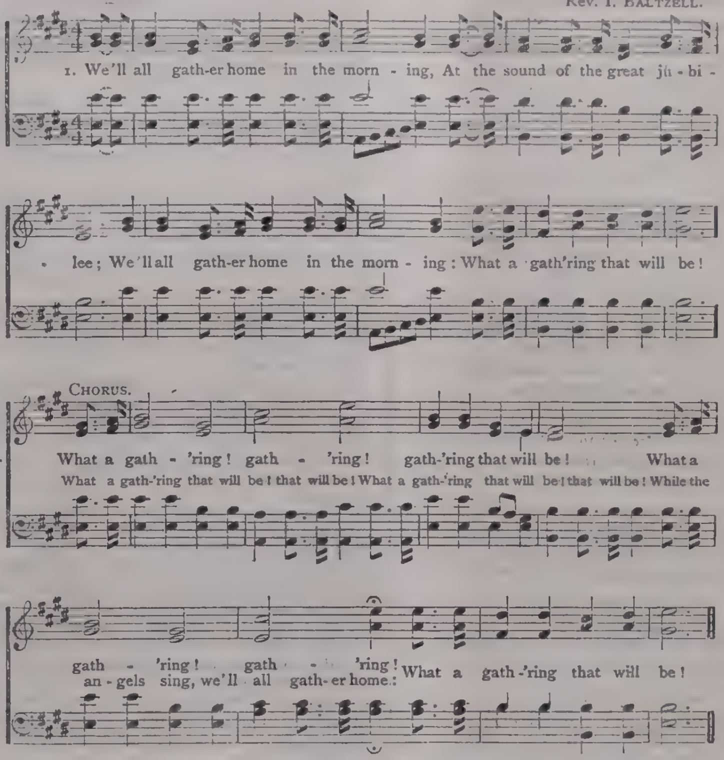
It is now arranged that Messrs. Stanley Smith and Studd will leave London for China on Feb. 4. This early departure will prevent their visiting many other towns, where they would have been welcomed.

MR. SPURGEON on Sunday morning preached the Metropolitan Tabernacle, for the last time prior to his departure for Mentone. He delivered a powerful sermon from the words, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee." He appeared throughout the service to be suffering severely. He was unable to preach in the evening, as he had intended to do, and his place was occupied by his brother, Rev. James Spurgeon. If his health permitted, Mr. Spurgeon was to leave for Mentone on Monday afternoon.

Gathering Home.

"They shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the Kingdom of God."—Luke xiii. 29.

Rev. I. Baltzell. Rev. I. Baltzell.



1. We'll all gath-er home in the morn - ing, At the sound of the great ju - bi - lee; We'll all gath-er home in the morn - ing: What a gath'ring that will be!
Chorus.
What a gath - 'ring! gath - 'ring! gath-'ring that will be! What a
What a gath-'ring that will be! that will be! What a gath-'ring that will be! that will be! While the gath - 'ring! gath - 'ring!
an - gels sing, we'll all gath - er home.
What a gath-'ring that will be!

2. We'll all gather home in the morning,
Our blessèd Redeemer to see;
We'll meet with the friends gone before us:
What a gath'ring that will be!

3. We'll all gather home in the morning,
On the banks of the bright jasper sea;
We'll meet all the good and the faithful:
What a gath'ring that will be!

[The above piece of music is from Gems of Praise, a new Hymn and Tune Book compiled by Rev. E. Payson Hammond, containing a large number of choice selections hitherto unpublished in this country.]

A "RAGGED CHURCH."

LAST Sunday morning the customary New Year's free breakfast to destitute men and women was given at Gray's-yard Ragged Church and School, James-street, Oxford-street. It was attended by about 800 men and women, besides babies in the arms of some of the latter; and there were very few among them whose appearance did not justify the description, "destitute." Before the meal a few simple hymns were sung, prayers offered, and addresses given.

The gathering took place in five different rooms, in the largest of which Mr. F. A. Bevan, president of the institution, took the chair. He said this was the fourteenth time that the ragged church had given a free breakfast to destitute people on the first Sunday of the year. That, of course, was only a small part of its work, and they knew from experience that their efforts had not been in vain. They could especially thank God for the work of the last year, many men and women having been blessed for the next world, and put into the way of earning their livelihood here. Having exhorted them to strive after a better life, he put a number of questions to his hearers, all of whom were men. The replies were given by holding up of hands, and they were to the effect that the guests, about 250 in number, were nearly all out of work, that about a dozen were at the breakfast last year, that there were as many countrymen as Londoners, that several had walked over four miles to this breakfast, one had walked over seven miles, and about twenty were out of doors all the previous night.

Mr. C. R. Hurditch having spoken, Miss Mary Davies sang with great feeling, "Oh! come unto Me," after which she left to sing in the other rooms, but returned and gave "Hark, my soul; it is the Lord." Dr. Gilbart Smith, speaking chiefly of the importance of abstaining from intoxicating drinks, asked how many of his hearers were teetotalers. About a dozen men held up their hands to show that they were. In reply to the question, how many had taken the pledge and broken it, 30 or 40 hands were raised.—Mr. R. C. Morgan, Mr. Gough, Dr. Habershon, Mr. S. Bevan, Mr. Clarke, Colonel Battye, Mr. Maynard, Mr. L. Collins, Mr. Henwood, Mr. G. H. Warry, Mr. Curtis, M. C. Hogg, Mr. Seton-Karr, and Mr. Tarn also took part in the proceedings. The breakfast, which consisted of meat pies, currant cake, and coffee, was consumed by the guests without the luxury of tables.

◆

MISSION WORK AT ERITH.

DEAR SIR,—As you kindly inserted some time ago a request for prayer on behalf of a Mission about to take place at Erith, it may encourage some to continue praying for others, to know that God very graciously answered those petitions in a manner quite beyond our expectations. The services at each of the churches were conducted quietly, but with great earnestness; very many of the poorer class, who never entered any place of worship, found their way night after night to the meetings, listening most attentively to the truths so plainly spoken.

The young people, too, have, since the Mission, shown greater interest in divine things, and it is very gratifying to feel that although there were not found wanting some who declared "it would not last," at the time, the results are still most genuinely satisfactory, proving that the Lord did indeed answer the prayers of those who pleaded that He would bless our neighbourhood.—Yours truly, A Grateful Worker.

IN GERMAN LAND.

THE sleet was borne upon the breeze,
The winter night was dark and wild,
And 'neath the snow-clad forest trees
There slowly tramped a little child.

The footpath led out through the gloom,
Up to a building lone and drear;
The shutters closed of every room,
As though the inmates were in fear

Of moaning wind, of storm and snow,
Of all the wild things of the wood;
And to the gate, with footsteps slow,
The wanderer crept, and timid stood.

The house within was warm and glad,
The cupboards with good food were stored,
And thirty lads, all stoutly clad,
Were seated at the supper board.

The master spake, all heads down bent,
One boy said grace for all the rest:
"Lord Jesus, bless what Thou hast sent;
Come, Jesus, be our welcome Guest."

And then a child in low tones said:
"We ask the Lord to come each day
To sup with us, to break our bread,
And yet He always stays away!"

"Dear lad," the master said, "our prayer
The Lord each night doth hear, be sure,
And He will come, the homely fare
To bless with love, our food to share."

"I'll place a plate, a knife, a chair,
Here at my side," soft said the child,
"That Christ may find them ready there."
The master scarce had sweetly smiled,

Rejoiced, indeed, the proof to see
That faith's small seed had taken root
With hidden strength, some day to bear
A burst of bloom, and ripened fruit;

When suddenly a knock was heard,
The child was first to hear the sound;
And then a second, and a third
Upon the oak-door, iron bound.

The master rose and quickly turned,
As one who had no time to spare
On bolts and bars; the child's faced burned,
"What if the Lord at last were there?"

And when the door was opened wide,
And snow went whirling through the room
Like foam cast by an angry tide,
They saw a boy there in the gloom:

An outcast in the dreary night,
A footsore, homeless, tiny lad,
With pinchèd face, wan, cold, and white,
Who shelter begged in low voice sad.

"Come in," the master said, "our meat
Is only bread, but in this nest
For weary little hands and feet
There is a sweet and peaceful rest."

The lad stepped in and stood, amazed
To see around the happy band;
And while the orphans sat and gazed,
The child arose and took his hand,

And led him to the vacant chair,
And seated him and gave him bread;
And turning to the master there,
With tearful eyes, in soft tones said:

"The Lord could not come here to-night,
And so He sent this lad instead,
With us to share the warmth, the light,
To share with us our milk and bread."

. . . .

Dear little child, long years have rolled
Since thy small hand the outcast's pressed;
An age has passed since sad bells tolled
When thou wert gently laid to rest

In German land across the sea:
But here to-night 'neath English skies,
Dreaming of thy sweet deed and thee,
A whisper fills with tears mine eyes,
"For if ye did it unto these,
Ye did it even unto Me."

JAMES BOWKER.

CONTINENTAL AND FOREIGN NOTES.

Dr. Lepsius, son of the late famous Egyptologist, has been appointed Assistant Pastor and Professor in the German parish of Jerusalem.

A number of influential Jews from Russia, Austria, and Germany, are about to meet at Kattowitz in Russia, to consult about colonising Palestine; about £10,000 has been subscribed towards this object.—Journal Religieux.

Lutheran Discipline. — In Mecklenburg-Schwerin any parent who takes a child who is in preparation for confirmation to a masked ball, is deprived of all church privilege, including Christian burial.

Japan.—Itagaki, the well-known leader of the Liberal Party, a man of great influence, was a strong opponent of Christianity. He went to Imabari, where a church of 285 members exists, in order to oppose the new faith. The native pastor spoke first, proving that faith in the Gospel of Jesus Christ brought true freedom and culture. Itagaki gave in his approval, and instead of opposing, publicly declared his agreement with the pastor.—Wahrheitszeuge.

Madeira.—Mr. W. G. Smart, writes from 12, Rue des Pretas, Funchal, Madeira, with respect to the work of the Sailors' Rest in that port:—"In consequence of the quarantine regulations there are only about one quarter of the usual number of visitors, many of these being Germans, and other foreigners. Under these circumstances I appeal to the generosity of English Christians, that our work may not have to be curtailed. In addition to the Rest we have a Mission afloat to sustain."

Germany has more volumes in its public libraries than any other nation in the world. Germany, Austria, and Switzerland together possess 1000 libraries, twenty of which contain more than 100,000 volumes each. The largest library in the world is in France, and contains 2,500,000 volumes and 170,000 pamphlets. The British Museum contains 1,500,000 volumes; the St. Petersburg Library, 1,000,000; that of Munich, 900,000; the Berlin Library, 750,000; and that at Washington contains 518,000 volumes.

Spa.—Those who knew the late Miss Esther Beamish, and who take an interest in the Mission at Spa, to which she devoted herself with so much energy and success, will be glad to hear that the Christmas Festival lately given to the children of the Sunday-school was a very happy one, and attended with much encouragement. The chapel was filled to overflowing with an attentive congregation of all ages and ranks, numbering about 300 persons. A very interesting example of God's converting grace has lately taken place among the visitors to Spa who have attended the ministry of Pastor Nicolet, but it would not be wise to relate the particulars.

The Roman Catholics are following in the footsteps of Protestants. They have established Women's and Y.W.C. Associations. One evening in the week is devoted to addresses on subjects specially important to women, e.g., the importance and sanctity of marriage; the position of father and mother; education and training of children; the authority of man; the worth and dignity of woman; matters connected with health, clothing, food, &c. One other evening is devoted to devotional exercises, especially to prayer for children. The duties of mothers are thus emphasised. Fenelon said, "Give me good mothers, and I will drive evil out of the world."—Wahrheitszeuge.

Persia.—It is almost as difficult to get access to Mussulmans in Persia as in Turkey. The missionaries are hedged about with restrictions which make it, says Rev. S. G. Wilson, of the American Presbyterian Mission in Tabriz, a practical prohibition to evangelise the followers of Mohammed. One Nestorian pastor, however, has made and baptized a number of converts from Islam, though much trouble has been made in consequence. Two missionaries at Hamadan have been arrested, and the right to purchase property denied to them, and it has been deemed wise for the present to exclude Moslems from both church and school. A pastor and his baptized convert have been driven out of Sanna. At Khoi the pastor has boldly disputed the claims of Islam, and has several inquirers, among them a Prince, who was awakened by reading the Scriptures. The reported conversion of this man so roused the people that the pastor had to flee, under threat of death. At Teheran a chapel has been built adjoining the premises of a Cabinet Minister, who did all he could to prevent it, and has been as annoying as possible; but Moslems often attend the services. At Ispahan the missionaries have been declared, by a circulated petition, to be worthy of death.

Cape Town.—At a meeting of the Bible Society here, Rev. Dr. Hole gave a report of his recent tour in South Africa on its behalf. He said fifty new branches had been established where the Scriptures could be obtained at reasonable prices. Dr. Hole spoke very highly of the Boers in the Transvaal, who he said were a hospitable and religious people.

Russia.—A correspondent of L'Evangeliste has met in the South of Russia with four priests belonging to the "Old Believers," who, having received Gospel light themselves, have been zealously preaching free salvation through Jesus only. Having refused to comply with their Archbishop's orders to be silent on Evangelical truth, they have been obliged to give up their livings. A revival has taken place in the West of Russia, near the Steppes, whose inhabitants are nomadic tribes. This work was begun by the distribution of a Russian translation of Dr. Ryle's "Come to Jesus." This tract is now prohibited by the authorities.

Notices of Books, &c.

The Baptism of the Holy Ghost. By Blanch A. Rowan. Partridge & Co. A halfpenny book for enclosure in letters, presenting a fivefold view of this subject, showing its nature, conditions, manner, permanence, and results. Rev. C. A. Fox endorses it.

Italy. By Annie R. Butler. 1d. W. Mack. This is No. 10 of the "Children's Medical Mission" stories. Adults as well as children may read these stories with advantage. Friends are asked to help in forwarding their circulation in schools and meetings.

Jersey Breezes, a new packet of four-page leaflets (6d., S. W. Partridge & Co.), are indeed "breezes" of the most refreshing kind. Appropriate to many of the most delicate of the soul's experiences, they will be welcomed as apt enclosures in letters.

School and Home, an Illustrated Companion to the "Systematic Bible Teacher." Vol. III. 67, Paternoster-row. We would suggest that all who adopt this useful and eminently simple work should read the two pages and a half addressed "Specially to Fathers." With such a book as this, no home need be without that most blessed of all instruction—true Bible teaching for our children.

Palestine, with Maps. By the Rev. Archibald Henderson, M.A. 2s. 6d. T. & T. Clark, Edinburgh. This is one of the series of Handbooks for Bible-classes and students, and is just the book one often wants at hand for reference. It is exhaustively and interestingly written, and the "Index" appended is not the least valuable part of this carefully-written and compactly-arranged little work.

Present Day Tracts: The Witness of Ancient Monuments to Old Testament Scriptures. By A. H. Sayce, M.A., Oxford. 4d. Religious Tract Society. This tract shows how the recent discovery and decipherment of ancient monuments has brought to light the fact that books and the art of writing were almost as well known in the age of Hezekiah as they are in the England of to-day. It is a valuable addition to the ever-accumulating evidence, of the Divine origin of the Sacred Scriptures.

A magnificent quarto edition of The Oxford Bible for Teachers has just been published by Mr. Henry Frowde, of the Oxford University Press. Its typography, binding, and arrangements leave nothing to be desired, and constitute it one of the most elegant copies of the Inspired Word we have seen. The Indices, Concordance, and Maps at the end of the volume are well-known to be of great service to Bible students; they are admirably compiled, and have lately been newly revised. Another advantage is, that its pages are identical with those of the small editions. The prices range from one guinea upwards, according to binding.

Some excellent little books for the young are issued by Messrs. J. F. Shaw & Co., in addition to those we have lately noticed. The Boy Martyr (1s.) records the heroic Christian life of an Italian page-boy in the sixteenth century, who sealed his testimony with his blood. Out of the Shadow (1s.) teaches, among other lessons, the evils of favouritism in the home circle. Little Pollie (1s.) tells the pretty story of one who, in youthful and humble life, was a real missionary in spirit and practice. Little Ted (9d.) is a somewhat romantic story, but it well illustrates the good influence that a boy may exert over elder folks. Christie's Gift (9d.) contains five short and well-told narratives about children, from the practised pen of Mrs. Haycraft. Manly and Brave (9d.), at once illustrates the ennobling character of true Christian principle, and shows the dangers to which young people are exposed.

We have received from Rev. T. Wrenford copies of several new leaflets and tracts, written by him for the "All for Jesus" Union Series. Those entitled Give it Up, Come, and Has He Spoken to You? are very suitable for evangelistic use, especially for enclosure in letters. They are published by Partridge & Co., at 3d. per dozen.

JANUARY MAGAZINES.

Home Friend (Partridge & Co., 1d.) is brimful of good things.

Old Jonathan (Collingridge, 1d.) is full of good papers and pictures.

Our Darlings (Shaw & Co., 3d) continues its many and varied attractions.

London City Mission Magazine (2d.) reads like fiction, so thrilling are many of its stories of the work.

Regions Beyond (Elliot Stock, 2d.) has interesting papers on Morocco, and much to cheer about Armenia.

Footsteps of Truth (J. Shaw & Co., 3d.) maintains its excellence as a servant and teacher of the truth of God.

Jewish Intelligencer (Nisbet, 1d.) is well illustrated, and contains much to arouse the interest of the friends of Israel.

Night and Day, edited by Dr. Barnardo (4d., Shaw & Co.), tells a wonderful story of rescue work, and the blessing of a faithful God.

China's Millions (Morgan & Scott, 1d.), always full of interest. is especially so this month. An appeal is made for more missionaries.

Sunshine (67, Paternoster-row, 1d.) is somewhat enlarged, and has some excellent things in its pages, but they are almost lost sight of in a mass of fiction.

On and off Duty, the monthly journal for policemen (3, Amen-corner, 1d.), besides much to interest "the force," contains a good portrait of Sir Moses Montefiore.

Indian Female Evangelist (3d., Nisbet & Co.) is a marvellous magazine at the price, and full of interest from end to end. The rising generation should read it, for India—our sister, India—is in need of the love and help of Christian England.

The Congregationalist (6d., Hodder & Stoughton), though halved in price, seems scarcely shorn of any of its former attractions. Dr. Dale eloquently upholds his view of "The Christian Sacraments and Christian Worship," about which so much stir has been made of late in some circles. The Editor is as vigorous as ever in his comments on passing topics.

The best thing in The Sunday Magazine is a striking and stimulating paper on "The Essentials of Prayer," by Archdeacon Farrar. In its way, Rev. Mark Guy Pearse's sketch, "The Man who Spoiled the Music," is equally good. In Good Words the editor writes with timeliness and force on "The Sins of Cheapness," and otherwise provides a groaning table of literary dishes. In both magazines there is plenty of fiction, of course, for those who love it.

S. W. Partridge & Co. The coloured frontispiece of The Welcome, "The Rival Grandfathers," deserves a word of warm commendation. From "Dervishes" to "Dynamite" is a wide jump, but it fairly represents the variety of the contents of this deservedly popular serial. The British Workman has a finely-illustrated story, by Rev. M. Guy Pearse, with a good portrait and capital sketch of the author. Our Irish friend, Mr. James Bowker, contributes the leading sketch to The Band of Hope Review. The other well-known issues of this house begin the year with ample attractions.

Messrs. Cassell & Co. are well to the front as usual, not only with their monthly magazines but their numerous serials representing so many branches of useful knowledge. The three famous "household magazines" might of themselves supply all the legitimate needs of an English home in the way of leisure reading. Cassell's Family Magazine (7d.) is certainly worthy of its name, and caters well for its constituency. Little Folks (6d.) is as good ever, and that is saying all that can be said. The Quiver can boast of productions from the pens of Dr. Bevan, the Bishop of Bath and Wells, Dr. Hugh Macmillan, Dr. Blaikie, Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, Dr. Horatius Bonar, besides attractive sketches, stories, poems, &c., not to mention the "Heroes' Fund"—good value for sixpence, surely. The Magazine of Art (1s.) keeps up to its high standard. We can only re-echo former commendations of the following: Great Industries of Great Britain, History of Protestantism, Household Guide, Countries of the World, Peoples of the World, Old and New London, Old Testament Commentary, Familiar Garden Flowers, and Imperial Dictionary.

Band of Hope Chronicle (Band of Hope Union. 1d.) contains, as usual, much to help and to cheer the friends of Temperance.

Spare Minutes (Hatchards, 1d.) is another candidate for public favour; it may be localised as a parish magazine. This first number is not over promising.

The Preacher's Analyst (6d., Elliot Stock) contains, as usual, a store of thoughtful help. "The Worker" is especially good in this first number of the New Series.

The English Illustrated Magazine (6d., Macmillan & Co.) has the first instalment of a serious paper, by Mr. H. A. Jones, on "The Present Condition of the English Stage."

Believer's Pathway, and The Evangelist (40, Sauchiehall-street, Glasgow), are two small monthlies suitable for general distribution. They are old friends, and need no recommendation.

The Monthly Interpreter (1s., Kegan Paul, Trench & Co.) contains a valuable paper on the "Anti-Christian Systems of the Nineteenth Century," and is altogether a good number.

The first number of a new monthly, Old Paths, and the Good Way, published by Messrs. Partridge at 2d., promises well. "A Vision of Life" is very good. We wish the new magazine success.

The Christian Worker (Cassell & Co., 2d.) is the organ of the Boys' and Girls' Refuges and Homes, Strangeways, Manchester, and contains the opening chapters of a new story, entitled "Our Joe."

Mr. Spurgeon's Sword and Trowel (Passmore and Alabaster) is an average number, in which the doctrinal, the didactic, and the experimental are well commingled. Mr. Fullerton's Home Evangel (same publishers) suffers nothing internally from the change of name, and certainly looks better outwardly than when it was called "The Postman."

⁂ In our recent notice of the Song Service, "Wee Davie," we unfortunately omitted to state the name of the publishers—Messrs. Bayley & Ferguson, 54, Queen-street, Glasgow.

We have also received the following books:—

- S. W. Partridge & Co.:
  - Daybreak till Nightfall. By Rev. W. and Mrs. Harvey-Jellie.
- Oliphant, Anderson & Fernier:
  - The Shadow of the Hand, and other Sermons. By Rev. W. Gray, Elgin.
- Hodder & Stoughton:
  - Egypt and Babylon, from Scripture and Profane Sources. By Rev. G. Rawlinson. 9s.
- T. & T. Clark, Edinburgh:
  - The Life of St. Paul. By Rev. Jas. Stalker. New Edition. 3s. 6d.
- T. Fisher Unwin:
  - Paying the Pastor, Unscriptural and Traditional. By James Beaty, Q.C., M.P., of Toronto, Canada.
- James Nisbet and Co.:
  - The Prophets of the Old Testament. By M. D. H. 5s.
- Hamilton, Adams & Co.:
  - Fifty Sermons By Rev. Aubrey Charles Price. Vol. 2.

Pamphlets Received.—A Remedy for the Bitter Cry of Outcast London (Nisbet & Co.)—Plain Questions, with Answers, for the use of Christians in the Last Days (2d. Bemrose & Sons)—Resurrection, Judgment, and Glory (1s. Mission Book-room, 29, Charing-cross)—Forty-five Years of Registration Statistics, Proving Vaccination to be both Useless and Dangerous, by A. R. Wallace, LL.D. (6d. E. W. Allen)—State Measures for the Direct Prevention of Poverty, War, and Pestilence (3d. E. Truelove)—The Story of the Scottish Reformation, by A. Wilmot, F.R.G.S.—Notes on Ingersoll, by Rev. L. A. Lambert (Burns & Oates).

DUBLIN MISSION SCHOOLS.—A sale of work for the Dublin Schools will be held at Rev. H. Webb-Peploe's Schoolroom, St. Paul's, Onslow-square, on March 20—21. Among the stall-holders are the Countess Cairns, 5, Cromwell Houses, and Mrs. A. Bevan, 59, Princes-gate, S.W. Gifts will be thankfully received by either of these.

FRIENDS' MEETING HOUSE, RATCLIFF.—On Monday week the friends and congregation worshipping at Ratcliff Meeting House had a social tea and a most interesting meeting. After some devotional exercises, Mr. John Hilton, who presided, addressed the company as "fellow worshippers," and pointed out the mutual interest that should be felt in one another by those who professed to follow the Saviour. He gave some interesting particulars of the Meeting Houses which had stood on the site where they were meeting. After he had completed his interesting address, Mr. Minchin (Consul-General of Servia) addressed the meeting, and expressed great interest in the speech to which they had just listened. He said in Servia there were no drunkards, and so they might expect no poor. Mr. John D. Appleton gave some particulars of the beginning of Mission work at that Meeting House about twenty years ago. Mrs. Hilton delivered a serious address, pointing out the grave import of preparing for the life to come, and gave a touching account of the peaceful death-bed of one of her nurses, which she had attended a few days ago. Mr. J. Reeves (on behalf of the Sunday-school), Mrs. Michael Moriarty, and two of the teachers who had been children in the school, delivered interesting addresses.

FOREIGNERS IN LONDON.

By GEO. R. COLE.

SCANDINAVIAN SEAMEN.

DURING a holiday spent in Norway some years ago, a company of mothers, when they heard I was working for Jesus among Scandinavian sailors, came to me about their sons, and I can never forget their earnestness. One said, "If ever you meet my son in London, give my love to him, and advise him for his good; tell him his dear mother has not forgotten to pray for him, and may God bring him home safely." "And my son also," said another; "And my husband," said a third.

Such warmth of feeling is not peculiar to the mothers of Norway, but is the expression of every Christian mother and wife on behalf of her sailor-son or husband; ay, and of fathers also.

The first man I encountered after stepping on board a Norwegian vessel was the captain. I told him who I was, and the errand I had come upon. He invited me into the cabin, where we had some further conversation. Before long I found out that he had for some time past been greatly exercised about salvation. He knew he was a sinner and in need of a Saviour. I pointed him to "Jesus the mighty to save," and as he cried I opened out to him God's love to sinners from John iii. 16. The light broke in upon his soul. We knelt together, and I prayed both with him and for him. I then asked him to pray. He began in a faltering voice to thank God for the light that had come to his soul.

Immediately after we had risen from our knees he asked me to speak to his men. He called them all to his cabin, and first spoke to them himself. He began by telling them that he had taken Christ as his Saviour; then told them that he intended to have prayer in the cabin every evening, and expressed his wish that they would all join him. I visited this ship very frequently during her stay in the docks, and had many joyful seasons with these men. Before they left port, two more were brought to a saving knowledge of Christ. This vessel has visited London since. Though the ship did not come to the same dock, the captain sought me out, and I found he had remained true to the Saviour. He told me that not only had the two sailors in his ship stood firm, but that during the voyage two more had been brought to Christ, and a marked change had been manifest in the lives of the whole crew.

My custom has always been to invite the seamen to my own residence, where they are made welcome by friendly greeting and a cup of tea or coffee. Many an evening my rooms have been filled with broad-shouldered Scandinavians from various vessels visited in the docks; God has greatly blessed his own Word read and expounded on these occasions.

An officer belonging to a Norwegian vessel, who had received me kindly, was invited to the Rest, and he was asked to bring some of the seamen with him. The invitation was accepted. With others he listened to the loving words of the Lord Jesus, and joined in the hymns that were sung. The Spirit of God was manifestly present with us, and it was indeed a time of blessing. A day or two afterward I called to have a talk with the officer on board his vessel, then lying in the West India Dock. I found him under deep anxiety of soul. He said, "Jeg er aldrig glad" (I am never happy), "I do so much want to have that peace you spoke of and read about the other evening at your house." This certainly gladdened my heart, as I could clearly see the man was in earnest. The Word of God was therefore opened and various portions read, proving the all-sufficiency of the grace of God in Christ Jesus, and he was urged to yield a simple obedience to the Word. The Spirit applied the Word, and light came into his soul.

Many other instances of the Lord's dealings with Scandinavians are in the records of the London City Mission, but these may suffice.

Letters to the Editor.

BOURNEMOUTH MISSION.

WE are requested by Captain Dawson to state that the man referred to in one of the incidents mentioned in connection with the Bournemouth Blue Ribbon Mission (CHRISTIAN, Dec. 25), never heard such words used at the evangelistic services which he attended. It was evidently his own invention and excuse.

A CRYING EVIL.

DEAR SIR,—Reading an account of the "London Female Preventive and Reformatory Institute," and seeing in it mention made of servants, and being a servant myself, I thought perhaps a few facts might be interesting to your readers. I can tell you that there is much of the same evil going on in the present day in private houses as in the London streets. In fact, no one would ever dream that men and women could sink so low in vice and crime as they do. Many a time I have asked myself the question, "What can I do to prevent this? What is the cause? and how can we overthrow it?"

The chief cause, I have no hesitation in saying, is drink. If gentlemen would only take the drink out of their houses, they would not only get better served, but they would have the satisfaction of knowing that they had not put a stumbling-block in another's way, and that they had not helped to ruin those whom God in his providence has for a time placed under them. I am a footman in one of the largest establishments in England, and I have seen more trouble and anxiety caused, either directly or indirectly, by strong drink than I have done by anything else. Yet the cursed stuff is still served out by the bucketful. May God in his mercy devise some means by which these evils may be overthrown! A. E. S.

EVOLUTION THEORIES.

SIR,—What can be the intention of the London Institute in providing lecturers to make known the opinion that man is little better than a brute? Were they to make this assertion as to moral conduct, they might, indeed, in the police reports, find instances to justify the statement. But this is by no means what is intended. Morality has nothing whatever to do with this teaching. The aim is to establish that mankind, the whole human race, is merely animal, advanced a little beyond his fellow animals.

In the Times of December 23, is the summary of a lecture delivered there, in which, taking for granted that the absurd evolution theory is an established fact that cannot be doubted, the speaker proceeds to show that the differences between man and other animals are not essential distinctions, merely modifications. That the rudimentary mental powers in animal life closely resemble the condition of an infant, capable of being drawn out by imitation and education; that the song of birds is but a progress towards speech; and that the power of abstraction possessed by the human species is merely incidental, not essential.

Whether the design be to degrade manhood to the lower condition of the brute, or to hold out to the brute the prospect of elevating itself to the higher state of manhood, does not appear. If the former, then all responsibility is at an end; man dies like the brute and becomes extinct; no hereafter! no judgment to be feared.

But this reasoning and deducing hypotheses from analogy is fundamentally erroneous. To say that because all trees grow in the ground, have roots, branches, leaves, &c., therefore all trees are alike, there is no difference between them; or because almost all fish live in water and one kind is found crawling up trees on dry land, therefore there is no distinction between a water and a land animal, would surely be misleading. Analogies are often useful up to a certain point. They are never completely exact or coincident on all points. If they are pressed beyond this boundary they become dangerous. Conjectures are but an unstable basis for an argument, even though they should sometimes happen to be correct.

To a religious work recently published, which has found very large acceptance from the interesting way in which parallelism, between the seen and the unseen, is traced, the same remark applies. Though 100 circumstances may be found closely to accord with another 100, it would be rash to assert that the 101st of each series must necessarily in like manner agree; so many unknown and unexpected events might cause a wide divergence.

ROBERT NELSON.

MISSIONS IN NEW GUINEA.

DEAR SIR,—In prospect of what may be required in course of a few years in the way of land for missionary purposes in this promising country, now placed under British Protectorate, will you allow me to submit to the consideration of the friends and promoters of Christian Missions that this would be a favourable time for securing land at a cheap rate, and in good situations, for the building of churches, schoolrooms, &c.? As in all probability land there will rapidly rise in value, there would appear to be no risk involved in purchasing at the present time in view of future operations.

Thankful shall I be if this suggestion be made a subject of special prayer, especially at the Committee Meetings of our various Missionary Societies.

Yours in Christian service, J. G.

◆

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Saturday Morning, January 3, 1885.

⁂ Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps. Cheques to be drawn in favour of Morgan and Scott, and crossed City Bank; P.O.O.'s payable to Morgan and Scott, at G.P.O.

⁂ Will donors oblige us by giving explicitly and fully the titles of the Missions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Mistakes which sometimes arise will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Saturday morning? Any amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

	£	s.	d.
Mrs. Wilkes' Rescue Work, Poplar—M. N.	0	5	0
Cow-cross Mission—Mrs. S. 2s. 6d.; M. F. and G. B. 5s.; A. P. 1s. 6d.; T. R. L. 2s. 6d.; X. Y. Z. 10s.; L. E. A. 1s.; G. R. R. 10s.; M. S. 10s.; T. G. 10s.; (Children's Dinners) J. M. 5s.; Juvenile Working Class at Dartmouth, 5s.; A. M. B. 6s.; Miss C. 10s.; D. and H. 5s.; C. L. 10s.	4	13	6
St. Giles' Christian Mission—Mrs. S. 2s. 6d.; T. F. and M. R. 5s.; Mrs. D. 6d.; Annie, 1s.; A. H. L. £1; J. H. 15s.; G. R. R. 10s.; Father's Memory, 5s.; Miss C. S. 2s.; M. and J. T. R, 10s.; C. C. 11s. 2d.; E. R. D. 10s.; T. G. 10s.; M. M. 6s. 2d.; (Christmas Dinners to the Poor) J. M. 5s.; (Prison Mission) C. C. 11s. 2d.; C. L. 10s.	6	14	6
Friendless and Fallen—Dr. F. W. I. £1; A. B. 5s.; J. M. 2s. 6d.; Aquila, £1; A. P. 1s. 6d.; J. E. 10s. 2d.; T. R. L. 2s. 6d.; R. C. 3s.; Rev. J. M. £2; L. E. A. 1s.; M. J. R. £1 1s.; M. S. 10s.; Father's Memory, 5s.; Mrs. W. B. 13s.; E. R. D. 10s.; T. G. 10s.	8	14	8
Free Distribution of the Scriptures—J. M.	0	2	6
Soldiers' Institute, Aldershot—A. H. L.	1	0	0
Christmas Dinners for Destitute Children—A. H. L.	1	0	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—R. M. R. £1 1s.; M. A. M. 12s.; Juvenile Working Class at Dartmouth, 5s.; T. F. and M. R. 5s.; A. M. M. £10; J. H. 15s.; X. Y. Z. 10s. Belfast, 10s.; L. E. A. 1s.; E. N. £1; F. R. 10s. G. R. R. £2; M. S. 15s.; M. M. 6s. 1d.; E. D. 2s. 6d. S. M. 2s.; A Mother, 10s.; Father's Memory, 5s. J. B. 5s.: Miss C. S. 1s.; E. R. D. 10s.; M. S. R. £2 A Friend, Jersey, 10s.; A. D. G. 10s.; S. E. S. £3 A. B. 5s.; Beta, £1 2s. 6d.; T. G. 10s.; (Children's Treats) C. G. L. 4s.	28		1
China Inland Mission—Aquila, £1; C. W. F. 10s.; J. F. 1s.; V. W. 10s.	2		0
Bristol Orphan Houses—Juvenile Working Class at Dartmouth, 5s.; T. T. 17s.	1	2	0
Gratuitous Circulation of THE CHRISTIAN—E. J. P.	0	10	0
Golden-lane Mission—T. F. and M. R.	0	0	0
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—T. F. and M. R. 5s.; J. H. 15s.; H. N. 14s.; E. N. £1; F. R. 10s.; Father's Memory, 5s.; M. and J. T. R. 10s.; E. R. D. 10s.; A. B. 5s.; T. G. 10s.	5	4	0
Bridge of Hope, Ratcliff—T. F. and M. R. 10s.; E. N. 10s.	1	0	0
George-yard Ragged Schools—T. F. and M. R. 5s.; A. H. L. £1; X. Y. Z. 10s.; D. and H. 5s.; E. R. D. 10s.; Dr. F. W. I. 10s.; (Dinners for Poor Children) E. H. R. 2s. 6d.		2	6
Midnight Meeting Movement—T. F. and M. R. 5s.; M. S. 5s.	0	0	0
London Medical Mission—E. M.	0	10	0
Homes of Hope, Regent-square—F. V. M. £1; Father's Memory, 5s.	1	5	0
Mr. Geo. Smith, of Coalville—J. H. G. £1; J. E. 10s. 2d.; Mrs. C. £5; T. S. 5s.; W. M. 5s.; E. N. 10s.	7	10	2
Mrs. Hilton's Creche and Orphan Home—C. C. 3s.; L. C. R. 10s.; E. N. 10s.; G. R. R. 10s.	1	13	0
Miss Cole's Orphan Home—From Frankie, 4s. 3d.; A. M. M. £5	5	4	3
Latymer-road Mission—J. E. 10s. 2d.; Rev. J. M. £1; L. E. A. 1s.; E. N. 10s.; F. R. 10s.; T. G. 10s.	3	1	2
Syrian Colonisation Fund—Les Mettries, £1 3s. 2d.; Belfast, 10s.; E. R. D. 10s.; (Collecting Box) Les Mettries, 7s.; (Work at Jerusalem) E. T. £5	7	10	2
Home of Industry—E. R. D. 10s.; A. B. 5s.; (New Year's Treats) Mrs. D. £1; Miss D. 10s.	2	5	0
Soldiers' Institute, Portsmouth—A. H. L.	1	0	0
Mildmay Mission to the Jews—Major F. D. £2 10s.; Belfast, 10s.; M. S. R. £2	5	0	0
Christmas Dinners for the Poor—T. P. 2s. 6d.; M. J. R. £1 1s.	1	3	6
Relief of London Poor—A. M. M.	5	0	0
Dock Labourers' Mission—(Free Meals) B. B. £2; Two Little Girls, 4s.; L. C. R. £1	3	4	0
Thames Church Mission—E. N. 10s.; T. G. 10s.; (Feeding the Hungry) L. C. R. £2	3	0	0
St. Philip's, Bethnal Green—(Christmas Treats to the Poor)—L. C. R.	0	10	0
Railway Mission, 186, Aldersgate-street—E. R.	1	0	0
Mr. Pascoe's Work in Mexico—M. S.	3	0	0
Mr. Edward Wright's Work—M. S.	3	3	0
Mr. Bodker's Rescue Work—M. S.	1	0	0
Miss De Broen's Work, Paris—X. Y. Z. 10s.; Mrs. G. P. £1; G. R. R. 10s.	2	0	0
Luther Memorial Home—Mrs. G.	1	0	0
Rev. R. W. McAll's Work, Paris—Mrs. G. P.	1	0	0
Rescue Society—Rev. J. M. £1; G. R. R. 10s.	1	10	0
Sermon-lane Mission—L. E. A.	0	1	0
Sailors' Welcome Home (Miss Child)—E. N. 10s.; H. B. 10s.	1	0	0
Miss Whately's Work, Cairo—E. N. 10s.; M. J. R. £1 1s.; M. H. K. 5s.	1	16	0
Birds' Nest Mission, Dublin—E. N. 10s.; G. R. R. 10s.	1	0	0
Strangers' Friend Society—F. R.	0	10	0
Destitute Children's Dinner Society—M. J. R. £1 1s.; An Invalid, S.W. 2s. 6d.; Dr. F. W. I. 12s.	1	15	6
Colar Mission (Miss Anstey)—M. J. R. £1 1s.; (Orphanage Farms) H. B. 10s.	1	11	0
Lock Hospital—T. G.	0	10	0
Poor at the East-end (Mrs. Reaney)—C. K.	0	7	0
Mr. and Mrs. Coillard's Work, Africa—H. B.	0	10	0
Poor Jews in Jerusalem (Mr. Friedlander)—H. B. 10s.; Mrs. H. R. £9 12s. 10d.; F. E. R. 2s. 6d.	10	5
Salvation Army Work (France)—H. B. 10s.; Beta, £1	1	10
Christian Colportage Association for England—H. B.	0	10
Field-lane Refuges—H. B.	0	10
Tower Hamlets Mission—T. G.	0	10
Figueras Mission—Bertha and Lily	0	12
Grays-yard Ragged School and Mission—M. S.	3	3
Cancer Hospital, Brompton—P. W.	10	0
London Samaritan Society—E. R. D. 10s.; A. D. G. 10s.; T. G. 10s.; (Poor Children) M. S. R. £2; C. L. 10s. (Convalescent Home) M. S. £5	9	0
Morley House, Home for Worn-out Governesses—E. R. D. 10s.; C. C. £1	1	10
Jewish Refugees Aid Society—E. R. D.	0	10
Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland—M.	0	5
La Mission Interieure—E. A. E. K.	0	3
Mission to the Kabyles—V. W.	0	10
Poor Jews in London (Mr. Josephs)—C. L.	0	10
Spitalfields Gospel Mission—C. L.	0	10
Children's Penny Dinners—Hat.	0	1
CHRISTIAN Tract Fund—Beta	0	2
Christian Community, Thrawl-street—Beta	0	5
Miss Lee's Home, Eastbourne—Beta	0	10
Bitter Cry of Outcast London—(Breakfasts for Poor) Dr. F. W. I. 10s.; (Children's Dinners) Friends at Ealing Dean, 10s.	1	0
Evangelistic Mission—T. G.	0	10
Paris City Mission—T. G.	0	10
London City Mission—T. G.	0	10
	£178	13	1

◆

[ADVERTISEMENTS.]

Mr. E. Wright's Mission Work—M. R., Yes, 5s.

The Children's Home (Rev. Dr. Stephenson, Principal)—S. S. £1.

Dr. Barnardo's Homes—L. R. H. 2s. 6d.; S. S. £1; M. B. P. Cameo brooch and gold bracelet.

Tower Hamlets Mission—Mr. F. N. Charrington acknowledges with many thanks £1000 from Anonymous, for Building Fund.

Notices.

R. W.—Ned Wright's address is Lebanon Villa, Greenhill-park, Harlesden, N.W.

COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED WITH THANKS.—E.R.G. A.M. A.J.B. A.W. M.E.S. G.T. D.R. M.C. A.M.V. A.L.T. A.L.D. J.H.T. W.A. G.E.S. W.H.F. W.H.D. N.P. H.T. M.H. J.H. H.A. J.K. G.L. S.A.T. G.G.M. T.D. & L. T.H. T.G. S.P. J.S.B. D.L. W.W.M. J.B. C.J.D. I.M. L.M.M. A.E.S. R.W.M.C.A. W.D. H.N. W.H. S.T. A.E. T.L. M.B.G. G.H. E.B. B.B. E.P.H. J.G. F.P.B. E.P. G.E.P. R.M.R. M.M. W.A.S.S. A.K. J.E.C. J.H. H.W. G.F. W.F. A.P. A.W.H. A.B. G.E.S. C.G. R.B. J.P.C. C.C. W.R.W. T.W.

APPLICANTS FOR TRACTS.—W. R. Shippard, Richmond-villa, Clydach, Swansea Valley; L. W. Holstead, Lees-street, Lodge-road, Birmingham; William Simpson, 16, Catherine-terrace, New Herrington, Fence Houses, Durham; Mrs. Manning Prentice, The Firs, Westbury-park, Clifton, Bristol; W. A. Lowe, 17, Raglan-street, Lowestoft; Wm. H. Doggett, Cherryhinton, Cambridge; Daniel Huggins, Tract Distributor, Launceston; Capt. Flemming, Salvation Army, Camelford; Mrs. Baker, May Villa, Humberstone, Leicester; Miss Charrière, Market House, 1, St. Philip's-street, Battersea-park; Miss Ellen Waskett, Home for Invalids, 6, Queen's-road-villas, Battersea-park; Miss Marten, care of Miss Kendal, Claverleys, Bridgnorth; Miss L. Pleasance, Cherryhinton, Cambridge.

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most important that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

GLASGOW PRISON GATE MISSION.—By the kindness of several friends a hearty dinner was provided for the inmates of this above institution, 68 in number, on New Year's Day. In the evening a tea was given, when Captain Smith, Mr. Morrison, of the Seamen's Bethel, and other gentlemen, gave short, cheery addresses. Mrs. Woyka and her family contributed largely to the enjoyment of the evening. Much interest was excited among the women by Miss Wallace passing round for inspection her father's tract, "The Broken Bottle," and a beautiful cabinet photograph of the heroine of it, lately received from America. The contrast between the two pictures was wonderful. A letter was read from a former inmate of the Home, now doing well in Canada, enclosing a five dollar bill in taken of gratitude for the care and kindness received in the Home. The new and enlarged premises at 15, Whitevale-street, are filling up fast. Prayer is asked for the spiritual work among the women, and that the increasing needs of the Mission may be supplied.

Pollokshields, Glasgow. .. AGNES A. BRYSON.

INNER CIRCLE RAILWAY.—Mr. A. L. Foster, Supert. City Police, writes to a friend:—"Referring to the conversation I had with you respecting the good conduct of the men employed on the Metropolitan and District Railway during its construction from the Mansion House Station to Aldgate, I have seen Mr. Bastibal, the superintending foreman, who confirms the statement I made to you that upwards of 2000 men were employed, and that during the time the works were in progress no intoxicating liquors were permitted to be sold, or brought upon the works; any breach of this rule would lead to the offender's dismissal. Upon my expressing surprise that men of this class would accede to such stringent regulations, Mr. Bastibal said he had no difficulty in enforcing the regulation. During the progress of the works there was happily no loss of life, and no serious accident occurred. Though this large number of men were employed within the City radius, I cannot find there were more than six charges taken at our City Police Stations, and these of a trifling character."

(For Forthcoming Meetings, &c., see p. 28.)

FRIENDLESS GIRLS.

"PREVENTION
IS BETTER THAN CURE."

Having been spared to enter upon another year's work, the question arises, What more can be done, especially in the Rescue of YOUNG FRIENDLESS GIRLS just in THEIR 'TEENS?

There are many thousands of such young creatures exposed to TERRIBLE MORAL PERILS, but who, if taken out of their surroundings, may be saved. Through the PREVENTIVE HOMES already large numbers have been trained and fitted for Domestic Service, and as HOME MISSIONARY WORK increases, so many other urgent cases are found.

There is, attached to the PARSONS GREEN HOMES, a small house which might be adapted for this work. No rent would have to be paid, but certainly EXTENSIVE ALTERATIONS would be required to adapt it. It has long been LAID UPON MY HEART to make this known, and should any amongst the numerous readers of THE CHRISTIAN feel disposed to devote part of their substance for the extension of PREVENTIVE WORK, I shall be very glad to enter into communication with them upon the subject.

FRIENDLESS AND FALLEN, Female Preventive and Reformatory Institution,

Offices: 200, Euston Road, N.W.

EDWARD W. THOMAS, SEC.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

President, The Rt. Hon. the Earl of SHAFTESBURY, K.G.

ESTABLISHED 1822.

For the purpose of employing humble Christian men well versed in the Scriptures to visit and read the Bible from house to house throughout the country. The Scripture Readers are invariably placed under carefully selected Christian Superintendents, and are also employed by the Society in the large towns and cities, such as Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, &c., as City Missionaries, and visit all classes and denominations, where permitted so to do. Irish-speaking Readers are sent to Irish-speaking districts when required, but are now seldom or ever asked for. The work is carried on in a spirit of love, and not of controversy.

The Scripture Readers also visit amongst the Sailors in seaports and hold Bethel Meetings on board Ships, at hours not to interfere with the usual Public Services. The Society is supported by voluntary contributions.

OFFICES:

27, LOWER PEMBROKE STREET, DUBLIN;
AND 9, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

Full particulars, reports, &c., can be obtained post free on application to the Secretary, Capt. JAMES KEARNEY WHITE, or by the Proprietors of this paper.

NOTE.—Subscriptions or Donations may be sent to the above addresses, or will be received by the Proprietors of "THE CHRISTIAN."

Friends will please notice the exact title "Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland," and not "Irish Scripture Readers' Society."

Appeal on behalf of the Paralysed Children.

West End Hospital

FOR DISEASES OF THE
NERVOUS SYSTEM, PARALYSIS, AND EPILEPSY,
73, WELBECK STREET, W.

WITH A SPECIAL WARD FOR PARALYSED CHILDREN.

Patroness—H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.
Hon. Secretary and Treasurer—H. ALEX. DOWELL, Esq.
TOTALLY UNENDOWED.

Annual Subscriptions and Donations are much needed.

Little Children are asked to make special collections.

Illuminated Collecting Cards forwarded on application.

Contributions are earnestly requested for the purposes of extension of premises, which is urgently needed.

FRANK IAGO, Secretary.

KENSINGTON GARDENS
MISSION HALL,
BRIGHTON.

This Hall, built and put in trust in 1865, is in constant use for Services, Sunday-school, Mothers' Meetings, Temperance Meetings, &c.

It lies in a densely populated district, and is used by Conformists and Nonconformists alike. £1,000 (towards which £350 are already given or promised) are needed to secure adjoining premises, and so adapt them that this excellent work may be largely extended.

The work is well known to Rev. E. L. ROXBY and Rev. J. B. FIGGIS.

Donations will be thankfully received by F. V. HADLOW, Honorary Secretary, 8, Prince Albert-street, Brighton; or by G. CAMPBELL, Esq., Capital and Counties Bank, Brighton.

EAST LONDON TRACT SOCIETY AND CHRISTIAN MISSION.

DESTITUTE "CHILDREN'S FRIEND" MISSION for Providing Dinners, &c., for Destitute Children.

OFFICE—47, DEE STREET, POPLAR.

DEAR FRIEND,—The Committee of the above Society beg respectfully to solicit your attention to the fact that they have organized a Mission for the RELIEF of DESTITUTE CHILDREN, and purpose providing WEEKLY DINNERS AND OCCASIONAL TEAS. The Committee also, by the help of Friends, supply Left-off (Children's) Clothing, and otherwise assist the most necessitous cases to the best of their ability. Funds and Left-off Clothing are URGENTLY NEEDED, and may be sent to the care of Mr. G. FULLER, Superintendent, to the office as above.

Yours faithfully, HENRY LEY, Honorary Secretary.

N.B.—The Dinners are given on Tuesdays and Fridays, from 12.30 to 1.30, at the Gospel Hall, late Welsh Chapel, Brunswick-road, Poplar, E., near the Hospital.

Letters for the Children's Hospitals would be thankfully received. H. L., £2 2s.; Miss H., £2; Miss B., 10s.; L. (Brighton), 10s.; L. (London), 5s.; Anonymous, Parcel of Clothing and 2s.; A. W., 3s. 8s.; Sir A. C., £3 10s.

Just out, Handsomely Bound in Cloth, 384 pages Crown 8vo., with 7 Diagrams, on toned paper, price 6s.

THE EXPECTED RAPTURE OF THE CHURCH:

Or, The Analogy of Prophecy and Established Fact.

BY G. WARRAND HOUGHTON.

WHILE many books have been published on the Second Advent, the want of a work dealing with the special subject of the Coming of the Lord in the air for waiting believers has been strongly felt, and is now removed. The argument is inductive throughout, and the conclusion arrived at will be found new and startling to many, the chain of evidence being strong and heavy. The parts to be played by England, Russia, and Turkey regarding Palestine, as clearly pointed out in Scripture, are explained, and a great war between the two former powers is shown must take place between 1885 and 1887 inclusive, when the rapture of the Church is indicated by several converging lines hitherto concealed in Scripture. The historical and futurist systems are harmonised. A special chapter is devoted to Spiritualism and Theosophy, grave dangers to faith which are fast encroaching. Much new evidence of the truth of Christianity is afforded.

ELLIOT STOCK, 62, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON, E.C.

GOD IS FAITHFUL.

GOD is faithful to his promise,
He will never break his word;
He will never, never fail us,
He is our unchanging Lord.
In the hour of fierce temptation
He will surely make a way,
That his weakest may be able,
If they will but watch and pray,
To escape the tempter's snare,
Trusting in their Father's care.

Satan may desire to have them,
But for them their Master pleads;
And his infinite compassion
Richly will supply their needs.
God is faithful; from all evil
He will keep his children still,
Cleanse and sanctify them wholly;
Such is his revealèd will.
Jesus pleads within the veil,
And his pleading cannot fail.

God is faithful, He hath promised,
And for us our Surety lives.
When our sin we come confessing,
He, in faithfulness, forgives;
Cleanses us from all pollution,
In his Son's atoning Blood,
Who for us on Calvary suffered,
Making there our peace with God.
Soon He'll come his own to claim,
True and Faithful is his name.

Loving Jesus, we will trust Thee,
Ever faithful, ever true,
For we know what Thou hast promised
Thou art able still to do.
Thou wilt never, never leave us,
But will love us to the end:
Thou, the Truth, canst not deceive us,
Faithful Saviour, changeless Friend,
Keep us faithful in the strife,
Crown us with thy crown of Life.

C. E. J.

WELLINGTON, SALOP.

THE visit of Mr. Payson Hammond to us, recently noticed in THE CHRISTIAN, was a great blessing; his clear Gospel teaching, and happy, joyous spirit lifted the Lord's people, and his ministry among the children was simply wonderful. Very many most blessedly received Jesus Christ as their Saviour. May I ask prayer for them? The visit was only far too short.

On Friday last we had a great gathering of children in the Mission Hall for a free dinner of Irish stew and plum pudding, all expenses being borne for a thousand children by one generous gentleman in the town, who speaks of making the feast an annual one. The next day another gentleman gave an early supper of roast beef and plum pudding to our Juvenile Blue Ribbon Drum and Fife Band. On Monday our mothers of the weekly meeting have tea together.

The work at all its branches calls for great gratitude to our Heavenly Father. Our Mission room in the lowest part of the town is the scene of continued conversions and great blessing to the young converts. We feel more and more the lack of a room for Children's Services, for which an appeal has been made, and to which Mr. Samuel Morley, M.P., has promised the last hundred pounds. May I ask also for prayer for this?—Yours faithfully,

J. EDWARD CRANAGE,
Hon. Superintendent of the Mission.

MR. H. M. STANLEY has addressed a letter to Mr. Charles H. Allen, secretary of the Anti-Slavery Society, acknowledging receipt of a resolution of the Committee, thanking him for his address at their jubilee meeting. He says:—"Please assure your Committee that, whether in Africa or elsewhere, the noble objects of your society shall always have my best wishes and whatever aid and influence I can command."

Forthcoming Meetings.

EVANGELISTIC.

THE EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send Evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

THE IRISH EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send Evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

THE METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE EVANGELISTS' ASSOCIATION will send lay preachers and Evangelists to any chapel or hall of any Evangelical denomination in London. Apply Hon. Sec., 30, Surrey-square, S.E.

THE CHILDREN'S EVANGELISTIC MISSION will send Evangelists to any part of Great Britain to conduct Missions for children and young people. No charge. Apply T. Eyres, Hon. Sec., 253, Southampton-street, Camberwell, S.E.

REV. W. H. AITKEN.—To January 11, Stagsden, near Bedford; 18th to February 2, St. Bride's, Manchester; 8th to 20th, St. Stephen's, Hampstead; 22nd to March 9, Parish Church, Marylebone; 15th to 30th, St. Paul's, Burslem; April 12 to 27, Eaton Chapel, S.W.

MESSRS. FULLERTON AND SMITH.—January 11, and onwards, Weston-super-Mare; February 1, and onwards, Exeter and district; March, Folkestone; April, Southampton; May, Huddersfield.

MESSRS. EDWARD HURDITCH AND F. C. SPURR.—January 11 to 25, Melksham; 28th to February 6, Bishop's Teignton; 8th to 22nd, Gunnislake, Cornwall; 24th to March 8, St. Ives; 10th to 23rd, St. Agnes; 24th to April 5, Wadebridge, Cornwall; 12th to 26th, Falmouth.

MR. J. M. SCROGGIE.—January, Edinburgh; February, Greenock; March, Dunfermline; April, Blackheath.

MR. W. SPENCER WALTON.—January 9, Brixton-hill; 12th to 27th Portsea; 28th, Beckenham.

MR. F. E. MARSH.—To January 25, Forest Gate, E.; 12th to 16th, Exeter Hall (noon meeting); February 1 to 22, Withorn, N.B.; March 22 to April 12, Kilbarchan, N.B.

MR. JAS. J. SCROGGIE.—January 11—16, Bushey; 18th, Drill Hall, South Norwood; 25th to February 1, Bethnal Green; 3rd to 6th, Potter's Bar; 8th to 15th, Home of Industry, Spitalfields; 22nd to March 1, Offord, Huntingdon.

STEPNEY MEETING HOUSE.—Mrs. G. S. Reaney gives an address every Sunday at 3 p.m.

AGRICULTURAL HALL, Islington, N.—Sunday, January 11, Rev. Dr. Edmond, 3.30 p.m.; Mr. Elvin and a soloist, 7 p.m.

CONFERENCE HALL, Mildmay-park, N.—Sunday, January 11, 3.30 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch; 7 p.m., Rev. W. G. Elmslie.

GOSPEL HALL, Paragon-road, Hackney, E.—Mr. Russell C. Hurditch on Sundays, January 11, 18, and 25, at 7 p.m.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.—Mr. G. Banaster, Edgbaston, January 12—19; Mr. W. F. Seagrove, Barnsbury Chapel, January 13—26.

MISCELLANEOUS.

REV. DR. ADOLPH SAPHIR.—Lectures on "Philippians," Belgrave Presbyterian Church, Halkin-street West, Belgrave-square, on Sundays, at 11 a.m.

MRS. MICHAEL BAXTER will give an address at 3 o'clock on Thursday, January 8, at 102, Regent's Park-road. All are invited. Tea and coffee.

Y.W.C.A., 19, PATSHULL-ROAD, Kentish Town, N.W.—Evening classes every night (except Saturday), at 3.30; and Sunday, Bible class at 3.30.

DR. THAIN DAVIDSON'S MONTHLY SERMON TO YOUNG MEN, Sunday evening, January 11, at 6.30, Islington Presbyterian Church, Colebrooke-row, N.

UPPER NORWOOD, Stafford House, Tudor-road.—Drawing-room meeting, at 3 p.m., every Thursday. A young women's meeting on the same day at 8 p.m.

HOUSE OF REST, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn-park, N.W.—Friday, January 9, at 7 p.m., subject, "Sacredness of Mind;" tea at 6. Sunday, Bible reading, at 3.30 p.m.

BRIXTON AND CLAPHAM CHRISTIAN UNION.—Meeting at Miss Snowdon's, 4, The Lawn, Brixton-rise, Friday, January 9, at 7.30 p.m., prayer, praise, and testimony; address by Mr. Spencer Walton.

HOME OF INDUSTRY, 60, Commercial-street, Spitalfields.—Workers' meeting, Wednesday, January 21, tea at 6, meeting at 7 p.m. Mr. C. B. Ker will preside, and give the workers their watchword for the New Year. Mr. G. R. Cole will introduce the City missionaries labouring among foreigners in London.

MEETINGS FOR THE DEEPENING OF SPIRITUAL LIFE, Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road.—January 9, "How Doubt is Solved" (Ps. lxxiii.), Rev. S. D. Fox; 16th, "The Power of Praise" (2 Chron. v. 11—14), Rev. Filmer Sulivan.

BELL-STREET MISSION.—New buildings will be opened Friday, Jan. 9. Mr. Samuel Morley, M.P., will preside at 3 p.m. Rev. Principal Chalmers, D.D., Rev. J. Oswald Dykes, D.D., Rev. Donald Fraser, D.D., Rev. Professor Elmslie, M.A., Rev. T. S. Hutchinson, Rev. Archibald G. Brown, Sir Andrew Lusk, Bart., M.P., Sir Thomas Chambers, Q.C., M.P., Hon. Henry Noel, S. Gurney Sheppard, Esq., W. A. Boulnois, Esq., and others are expected to be present. Tea and coffee at 4.30 p.m. Evening meeting at 7 o'clock, Rev. Donald Fraser, D.D., chairman; Rev. W. Stott, Rev. Z. B. Woffendale, and Mr. Gawin Kirkham will address the meeting. The Mission House is situated close to Edgware-road Station, on the Metropolitan Railway.

Y.M.C. ASSOCIATIONS.

61, GRACECHURCH-STREET, E.C.—New Year's reception by Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Tritton, Centenary Hall, Friday, January 16, at 6 p.m. Daily prayer meeting, 1.15 to 2 p.m. (Sat. excepted). Bible study in Isaiah each Tuesday, at 6.15 p.m. Youths, Wednesday, 31st inst., 6.30 p.m. Soldiers, each Friday, 7 p.m. Testimony each Monday, 1.15 p.m.

THE PRIORY, 198, Upper-street, Islington, N.—Thursday, January 8, at 8.30 p.m., address, Rev. H. J. Berguer; Saturday, 10th, at 8 p.m., Bible study; Sunday, 11th, at 9.30 a.m., fellowship meeting; 3.15 p.m., Bible class; 8.15 p.m., evangelistic meeting; Tuesday, 13th, at 8 p.m., literary class, lecture by Rev. W. M. Statham; Wednesday, 6 to 10 p.m. anxious inquirers and strangers.

EXETER HALL.—Prayer Meeting (Saturday excepted), 1 to 2 p.m. Meeting for strangers, Monday, 8 p.m. Evangelistic meeting, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, 8 p.m. Colonel Puget gives a Bible reading every Saturday night at 8. Valedictory meeting in connection with the departure of Messrs. Stanley Smith, C. Studd, and M. Beauchamp for China, January 8, 8 p.m. Mr. F. E. Marsh will begin a series of Bible readings at the mid-day prayer meeting, January 12.

186, ALDERSGATE-STREET, E.C.—Thursday, January 8, at 8 p.m., Bible lecture on "Things to Come," by Dr. Robert Anderson; Friday, 8 p.m., Gospel meeting, Mr. D. Spencer, open to all; Monday, January 12, at 8 p.m., lecture by Mr. C. R. Francis, late Surgeon-General and Professor of Medicine Calcutta Medical College.

Requests for Praise and Prayer.

PRAISE.—For blessing upon Y.M.C.A. Mission at Duffield (Derbyshire), conducted by Mr. Henry Thorne.

PRAYER.—"A Man of Peace" writes: "Our army in Egypt, or the portion of it which has gone to relieve General Gordon, are engaged on what is confessedly a very hazardous expedition. May I suggest to Christians the duty of remembering them daily at the throne of grace, that they may have their way opened up, and that the rescue of that Christian soldier and the brave little band who are with him may be accomplished without bloodshed?—For a Mission, commencing the 10th, at Southampton, by Mr. Somerset Gardner.—For Special Services at Bath, by Mr. John Elliott.—For a young lady, now in an asylum, that her deranged mind may be restored.—For a Gospel meeting to be held in Edinburgh next Sunday afternoon, the 11th.—For a father whose mental affliction is causing intense anxiety to his family, and seems to have utterly dimmed his own faith.

WORKERS at the "STRANGERS' REST."

THE first of the usual Monthly Workers' Meetings for the New Year was held in the enlarged hall on January 2. The attendance of friends was very good, and as the proceedings were of an entirely missionary character, special interest was excited.

The chair was taken at 6.45 by Mr. R. C. Morgan, who spoke some words of warm encouragement to the workers, and expressed hearty wishes for a prosperous New Year in connection with the work.

Mr. C. T. Studd gave a short address, in which he recounted the wonderful leadings of God, by which he was induced to give himself unreservedly to Mission work among the millions of China. He was followed by Rev. J. Hudson Taylor. The great need of more fully-consecrated workers for the Mission field, especially for China, was the burden of his address; a very earnest appeal on behalf of the perishing heathen was made, coupled with words to stimulate a fuller trust in the great love of the Father.

When Mr. Hudson Taylor sat down, a Christian sailor, just returned from China, stood up and begged to be allowed to say a word. He told of the most blessed work that Miss Minchin, of the China Inland Mission, had been doing in Shanghai, speaking with such force and earnestness that everyone realised how greatly the Lord had used this devoted servant in that distant land.

Then followed some very interesting accounts of different branches of work from various workers, all of which showed great reason for thankfulness and encouragement. In a pause, a venerable Christian sailor, "Old Uncle," rose, and spoke of the blessing the Rest had been to him; in it he had been converted, by the power of the Holy Spirit, from a life of atheism to one of perfect liberty in Christ.

Mr. Landale gave a graphic account of his seven years' labours in China; and a fitting close was given to the meeting by some powerful words from Dr. Ziemann concerning the noble work he has been enabled to do for God in Germany.

NEW YEAR'S DAY IN GLASGOW.—Mr. W. Forbes writes:—"I have never seen anywhere else so many drunken persons in one day as I saw on New Year's Day in Glasgow. To great numbers of persons, who seldom or never get drunk at other times, it seemed to be the right thing to get intoxicated on New Year's Day. On the two following days a great number of people were still staggering along the crowded streets. During the last few days large sums of money have been contributed for the relief of the poor, and thousands of the hungry ones have been fed. I have had the privilege of speaking for the Master in various parts of the city, but more especially I have been associated with Mr. Quarrier and his earnest and devoted family in connection with the Orphan Homes of Scotland."

GRAY'S YARD RAGGED CHURCH AND SCHOOLS,

JAMES STREET, OXFORD STREET, W.

President .... MR. F. A. BEVAN.
Treasurer .... MR. GEORGE HANBURY.

MISSION TO CASUALS AND TRAMPS.

See Article in THE CHRISTIAN, January 1, "West End Misery."

Funds for carrying on this work are urgently needed. After the Gospel Services on Sunday, more than 500 Destitute Men and Women are supplied with coffee and bread.

Donations should be sent to Mr. ALFRED WOODS, 68, Mount-street, Grosvenor-square, W.; or the Office of THE CHRISTIAN.

REDUCED GENTLEWOMEN.

To the Editor of THE CHRISTIAN.

Sir,—As Hon. Sec. to the LUTHER MEMORIAL HOME, I shall feel very grateful if you will allow me through your columns, which are ever advocating the claims of suffering humanity, to plead for a share of the pecuniary aid so liberally forthcoming at this season. I will not distress your readers by dwelling on the numerous cases of poverty, and consequent privation, brought before me, by those who have "seen better days." Since the above Home was proposed, a year since, two hundred pounds have been received. This sum being insufficient, I hopefully appeal for a shilling donation from each of your readers, none of whom would be poorer for the small gift. A few thousand shillings would soon realize the sum required, and cheer many a lonely heart with a ray of hope, that their last days will not be spent within the dreaded portals of a Workhouse. A little of the sympathy which was the burden and passion of our blessed Lord's existence, "I will not send them away empty, lest they faint by the way," would speedily supply the small sum needed to establish this great want.

Contributions thankfully received by the Treasurer, Miss JULIA FOX, 24, Kensington-park-road, Ladbroke-square, London; or by the Hon. Sec., MISS CORKE, 120, Ledbury-road, Bayswater, London.

"WOMAN AND THE SCRIPTURES."

Lecture by Miss CORKE, published by request.
To be had post-free from the Author, 120, Ledbury-road, Bayswater, W.
The entire profits to be devoted to the funds of the "Luther Memorial Home."

ALSO BY MISS CORKE,

"WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH THEM?"

With Preface by the Earl of SHAFTESBURY.
"A book for all the year round."
To be had as above, price 2s. 6d., post-free.
Profits to be devoted to sending over-worked women, free, to Mrs. Mashman's London and Brighton Convalescent Home.

EXETER HALL,

NEXT MONDAY, JAN. 12, at 7.30 p.m.

SALVATION ARMY FOREIGN EXPEDITION.

Great Farewell of nearly 30 Officers going to America, India, New Zealand, France, and elsewhere.

THE GENERAL WILL PRESIDE.

Admission by Ticket, One Penny. Reserved Seats, 1s., to be had of all London officers; or at 101, Queen Victoria-street, E.C.

NEW PAPER FOR SUNDAY READING.

SUNDAY WORDS. Now Ready.

SUNDAY WORDS. ONE PENNY.

SUNDAY WORDS. Will be published EVERY THURSDAY.

26, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C

A Specimen Copy of No. 1 will be sent post free on application by post-card.

ON PARALYSIS, LOSS OF POWER in the Muscles or Joints, Locomotor Ataxy, Epilepsy, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Neurasthenia, and obscure affections of the Brain and Spinal Cord. A Practical Treatise explaining the Causes, Treatment, and Cure of these Diseases; with Directions for Diet. By S. BERRY NIBLETT, Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians. Published by Mr. Williams, 10, Oxford-terrace, Hyde-park, London.

NOW READY. PRICE FOURPENCE QUARTERLY.
The First Number for the Year 1885, being No. 17 of

EXPERIENCE,

A CHEAP QUARTERLY JOURNAL FOR THE THOUGHTFUL MILLION.
Designed to revive the Testimony of England's Chief Evangelists and to promote Mission Work.
ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, ONE SHILLING AND FOURPENCE.

Every number is Crown 4to., double columns, and contains as much matter as a small volume.

The articles in the number for January, 1885, have been selected to enforce the motto, "SALVATION IN EVERY HOUSE IN 1885."

"EXPERIENCE" contains Aids to Bible Readings and Experience Meetings. Brief Treatises and Testimonies on the deep things of God. Solutions of doubts by writers who were not ignorant of Satan's devices. Cautions and Counsels to young converts. Records of Grace and Providence. Articles on Revivals, Biographies of Noble Martyrs and Earnest Workers, and aids to all saved souls to toil hard in rescuing the perishing, &c., &c., &c. All fiction is carefully excluded.

"EXPERIENCE" may be had of all Booksellers. It will be sent by Post for One Year, to all who send their addresses and 16 penny stamps to EXPERIENCE, 3, Newton-villas, Finsbury-park, London, N.

London: Published by T. WOOLMER, 66, Paternoster-row, London, E.C.

ROBERT ANNAN,

THE CHRISTIAN HERO.

BY

REV. J. MACPHERSON,

AUTHOR OF "DUNCAN MATHESON," &c.

A Special CHEAP EDITION of this work is now being published for Free Distribution.

PRICE ONE SHILLING PER DOZEN (Complete).

16 pages Imperial 8vo., with Illustrations. In attractive Tinted Cover.

"The memory of Robert Annan was worthy to be had in remembrance, and Mr. Macpherson has told the story well, in such a manner as to move the feelings of the reader, and, we hope, to stimulate others to follow the noble example of this CHRISTIAN HERO in humble life."
Christian Work.

"We heartily thank the Rev. J. Macpherson for his well-written, graphic, and telling life of this CHRISTIAN HERO. It is a book to be read by all."—Baptist Messenger.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

An EASY BOOT the BEST PROMOTER of HEALTH.
This Desideratum is attained in

HALL & SONS' "PANNUS CORIUM,"

which, having none of the Drawing Qualities of Leather, and always preserving their softness, stamp them as the EASIEST BOOT in the WORLD.—HALL & SONS, Patentees, 57, Bishopsgate, E.C., 6, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.; 5, Stoke Newington-road, N.

ANNUAL SALE OF OVER HALF A MILLION.

M^C CALL'S

PAYSANDU OX TONGUES.

A DELICACY FOR BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, OR SUPPER.

TO BE HAD AT ALL GROCERS.

GIFT BOOKS SUITABLE FOR THE PRESENT SEASON.

THE LARGE TYPE QUARTO EDITION OF

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS. Containing 441 Pieces. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 16s. 6d. In Morocco, gilt edges, 30s.

"Would form a nice present for a musical friend. Every organist should have it."—Christian Progress.

FOXE'S BOOK OF MARTYRS. Handsomely bound, 1,083 pages. With Twelve full-page Illustrations. Price 10s. 6d.

"A noble edition of a noble book."—Christian Leader.

THE TABERNACLE, THE PRIESTHOOD, AND THE OFFERINGS. By Henry W. Soltau. With Four Beautiful Coloured Illustrations and numerous smaller Engravings. Cloth boards, 5s.; Presentation Edition, cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 6s.; Cheap Edition, without coloured plates, tinted covers, 3s.

"Of this work we can speak very highly. . . . Rich in evangelical teaching."
Christian Age.

FORTY-FIFTH THOUSAND.

DUNCAN MATHESON. The Scottish Evangelist. By Rev. J. Macpherson. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We are right glad to see so worthy a memorial of so worthy a man."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, in The Sword and Trowel.

SECOND EDITION.

HENRY MOORHOUSE. The English Evangelist. By Rev. J. Macpherson. With lithographic portrait. Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"A well-written account of a fruitful life, which we commend to the earnest study of all."—Footsteps of Truth.

BIBLE READINGS. By Henry Moorhouse. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"Every page is full of thought, expressed in words that tell of the Author's earnest and devout spirit."—Lay Preacher.

NOTES FOR BIBLE READINGS. A collection of over Six Hundred Subjects, carefully compiled and arranged. By S. R. Briggs and John H. Elliott. Suitable for Bible Readings, Sabbath School Lessons, &c. Tinted covers, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.

"This is a book which every Bible student should possess."—Christian Progress.

P. P. BLISS: His Life and Work. Edited by Major Whittle and Rev. W. Guest. Cloth extra, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"A most interesting and invaluable book, both for the young and the aged."
Midland Gazette.

CHRIST LIFTED UP. Meditations on the Death, Resurrection, and Ascension of our Lord Jesus Christ. By Rev. Robert Gilchrist. Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"It is quite refreshing to turn to Mr. Gilchrist's profitable meditations on the crucifixion."—The Record.

CHRIST AND THE SCRIPTURES. The Living Word and the Written Word. By Rev. Adolph Saphir, D.D., B.A. Twenty-eighth Thousand. Cloth extra, 3s.; with gilt edges, 3s. 6d. Cheap edition, tinted covers, 1s.; cloth neat, 1s. 6d.

"It is the old truths to which we listen; but the old truths clothed in a living language, set in new lights, and drawn out in fresh applications."—Weekly Review.

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES. In order to Abiding Communion with God. Also Suggestions for Bible Readings and Study. By Dr. J. Anderson, Graduate of King's College, Aberdeen, and M.R.C.S. London. Second Edition. Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.

"A very valuable work, in which attention is drawn to the necessity for quiet, thoughtful Bible reading, as a means of promoting abiding communion with God."
The Rock.

◆

BY D. L. MOODY.

GRACE, PRAYER, AND WORK. A Volume suitable for Presentation or for the Library, containing

SOVEREIGN GRACE,
PREVAILING PRAYER, AND
"TO THE WORK! TO THE WORK!"

Specially printed and bound together in one volume, Roxburgh binding, 5s.

CONVERSION, SERVICE, AND GLORY. By D. L. Moody. A Volume suitable for Presentation or for the Library, containing

THE WAY TO GOD,
POWER FROM ON HIGH, AND HEAVEN.

Specially printed and bound together in one volume, Roxburgh binding, 5s.

BY ANNA SHIPTON.

THE BROOK IN THE WAY. Hymns and Poems illustrative of the Christian Life. Elegantly bound in cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"A string of pearls such as a true Christian only could give us."
Evangelical Christendom.

WHISPERS IN THE PALMS. A Volume of Hymns and Poetic Meditations. By Anna Shipton. Elegantly bound in cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"The pieces are more than a hundred in number; and many of them are very touching and beautiful."—Christian World.

WAYMARKS OF MY PILGRIMAGE. A Volume of 79 Original Poems. By Anna Shipton. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"Those who prize Anna Shipton's writings will be glad to obtain this volume. A trustful, loving spirit breathes through the verses."—The Friend.

THE SURE MERCIES OF DAVID; or, God's Dealings in the Sanctuary. By Anna Shipton. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 4s. 6d.

"The 'Sure Mercies of David' is a very valuable book. It sets forth most beautifully the rich blessings which are treasured up in Christ for the believer."
Christian Era.

Cheap Edition, cloth, 2s. 6d.

◆

Just Published. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

BIRDS OF THE BIBLE. Chats with the Children about Bible Birds. By James Bowker, F.R.G.S.I. With very attractive Coloured Frontispiece, and Twenty-nine other Illustrations. Beautifully printed on toned paper, with carmine Borders. An elegant Gift Book.

THE 5s. EDITION OF CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE to the Old and New Testaments. The special feature of this Edition, in addition to its extreme cheapness, is the New Translation of the Proper Names in the Old and New Testaments, with their meanings in the Original Languages. By A Competent Scholar. This portion is strictly copyright, and confined to Morgan and Scott's Edition.

PRESENTATION EDITION, handsomely bound in cloth, 7s. 6d.
LIBRARY EDITION, half bound in leather, 10s. 6d.
ILLUSTRATED EDITION, with Twelve exquisite Steel-plate Engravings, and Six Beautiful Coloured Maps, 10s. 6d.

THE HERALD OF MERCY. Volume for 1884. Attractively bound. Price 1s. Contains telling articles, stirring narratives, choice extracts, poetry, children's pages, &c. With Eighty-nine Illustrations.

"We have been both surprised and delighted with the wealth of its attractive pages."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

◆

BY REV. DR. PENTECOST.

"OUT OF EGYPT." A Series of Addresses and Bible Readings on the Exodus of Israel, and its Spiritual Lessons. Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth limp, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

Parchment binding (suitable for Presents), 5s.

"Dr. Pentecost's power as a teacher and expositor of the Word is anew displayed in these Addresses."—Word and Work.

EIGHTH EDITION.

"IN THE VOLUME OF THE BOOK;" or, The Profit and Pleasure of Bible Study. By Rev. Dr. Pentecost. With Introductions by Revs. Joseph Cook and J. H. Vincent, D.D. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth limp, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We have read this work with unusual pleasure. It is full of healthy thinking."
Baptist Magazine.

◆

CHOICE SAYINGS. Being Notes of Exposition of the Scriptures. By Robert C. Chapman. Cloth limp, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.; morocco, gilt edges, 3s.

"We expect to gather many discourses while studying this little book. A dew from heaven rests upon Mr. Chapman's expositions."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon in The Sword and Trowel.

THE CHRISTIAN CHOIR. A Quarto Volume of Sacred Choruses and Duets. By Ira D. Sankey and James McGranahan. Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"It is as fine a collection of Sacred Airs as can anywhere be found."
Oldham Chronicle.

Either in Old Notation or Tonic Sol-fa.

THE GOSPEL MALE CHORUS BOOK. A collection of New Sacred Part Songs, Choruses and Anthems, written and arranged expressly for Male Voices. By James McGranahan. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth limp, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We can testify from personal hearing that these choruses are well harmonized and excellently adapted for the rich effect of men's concerted voices."
Literary World.

Either in Old Notation or Tonic Sol-fa.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

"MANNA CAKE."

Children take it readily; they do not suspect its properties; they like its sweet, strong flavour. Truly termed by an Agent, "The Children's Friend." Manna Cake is the mildest and yet the most certain in action of all aperients; it does not gripe, and leaves no after constipation. A singularly mild, pleasant, and efficacious substitute for Castor Oil.

From W. H. HAYWARD, Chemist, Trowbridge:—"A Physician in the West of England says he gave Calomel and Jalap in repeated doses without effect, but a Manna Cake acted almost immediately."

Ask for Manna Cake, price 1½d. per cake, or 1s. 3d. per doz. of any chemist or medicine vendor. Wholesale of BARCLAY'S; EDWARDS; HOVENDEN'S; NEWBERY'S; MAY ROBERTS; SANGER & SONS; SUTTON & CO.; &c., &c.

Ask for

Allen & Hanburys'

TRADE MARK.

A.D. 1715.

"Tasteless" Castor Oil.

The Safest and Best Aperient.

Sold everywhere at 6d., 1/., 1/9 & 3/-

It is guaranteed to be pure Castor Oil, of full medicinal activity, and is absolutely free from odour and unpleasant taste.

"It possesses all the advantages claimed for it."—Lancet.

CHOICE SAYINGS.

Being Notes of Exposition of the Scriptures.

BY ROBERT C. CHAPMAN.

Tinted Covers, 9d.; Cloth Limp, 1s.; Cloth Boards, 1s. 6d.; Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s.; Morocco, Gilt Edges, 3s.

"CHOICE SAYINGS" LEAFLETS

And Small Books.

BY ROBERT C. CHAPMAN.

Extracted from "CHOICE SAYINGS."

Assorted Packets, price 9d.

Those who value the volume of Mr. Chapman's "Choice Sayings" will welcome the opportunity now afforded of having brief extracts in this cheap form, suitable for enclosing in letters or giving away.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

LINCOLNSHIRE FEATHER BEDS

DIRECT FROM BOSTON, LINCOLNSHIRE.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE TO 9d. PER POUND.

MESSRS. T. C. NEWHAM & CO. are now offering their celebrated FEATHER BEDS at the following greatly reduced prices:—

No. 1.—SINGLE BED, BOLSTER, and PILLOW, 6ft. 3in. by 3ft. 6in., weighing 40lbs.	30s. 0d.
No. 2.—DOUBLE BED, BOLSTER, and two PILLOWS, 6ft. 6in. by 4ft. 6in., weighing 50lbs.	37s. 6d.
No. 3.—DOUBLE BED, BOLSTER, and two PILLOWS, 6ft. 6in. by 4ft. 6in., weighing 55lbs.	41s. 3d.
No. 4.—EXTRA DOUBLE-SIZED BED, BOLSTER, and two PILLOWS, 6ft. 6in. by 5ft., weighing 65lbs.	48s. 9d.

WARRANTED NEW AND SWEET.

Any sized Bed only 9d. per lb., including Feathers; in white (bordered) tick, making, packing, wrapper, and carriage paid to any station in the United Kingdom. Superior Beds, Splendid Feathers Linen Tick, 1s. per lb. Samples of Feathers and Ticks, Price Lists, &c., post free. Agents wanted.

Caution.—We do not buy to sell again, as others do; but sell direct from our own factory. All orders must be accompanied by Cheque or P.O.O. made payable to Messrs. T. C. NEWHAM & CO., Feather Purifiers, Boston, Lincolnshire, which, to insure safe delivery of Goods, may be post-dated ten days. Feathers only 9d. per lb. The Trade supplied. Please mention this paper. A great reduction on three or more beds.

Price One Penny. 7s. 6d. per 100. Twelve copies and upwards sent post free.

The Christian Sheet Almanac for 1885.

Attractively printed in Red and Black, on a large sheet, 21 in. by 31 in.

Containing selected Scripture Texts for every day in the year, Postal Information, &c.

FIVE EXCELLENT ILLUSTRATIONS.

"The Christian" Sheet Almanac is admirably suited for the walls of the Cottage or the Mission Hall. Quantities of not less than 500 copies, with special matter, may be had for localization; terms for which will be forwarded on application to the Publishers.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BY REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

GEMS OF PRAISE.

A Choice Collection of Hymns and Tunes

(Containing 228 Pieces), suitable for

Gospel Services, Prayer Meetings, Sabbath Schools, Christian Associations, and Family Worship.

A large number of both Hymns and Tunes are Original.

Edited and Compiled by Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

Music and Words:—Paper Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.
Words only:—Paper Covers, 1d.; Cloth Limp, 2d.

THE CONVERSION OF CHILDREN.

Being Narratives of Children's Conversions; and Records of Spiritual Work amongst the Little Ones.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

Tinted Covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 2s. 6d.

"Many remarkable facts are here given, which deserve the attention of those especially who are incredulous as to the early age at which children may begin to live consciously a Christian life."
Evangelical Christendom.

"We commend the book very heartily to the prayerful attention of all parents and teachers.—The Freeman.

"We are quite sure that this book is well calculated to encourage effort and stimulate the Church to diligence in this direction."—The Methodist.

"This book is written for adults, and specially for those who are engaged in Sabbath-school teaching, or other work for the soul's good of children. . . . . . Wise and precious counsels are presented to parents and guardians of youth for the goodly up-bringing of the children committed to their care."—Christian Week.

"We devoutly wish that by some means or other a copy could be placed in the hands of every Sunday-school superintendent and every pastor of a church."
Penuel.

"A careful perusal of the testimony here given must convince every unprejudiced mind that in our days, as in the days of old, God perfects praise out of the mouths of babes and sucklings."—Woman's Work.

"A most useful book, dealing with a most important subject in a masterly way. The whole subject of the early conversion of children is carefully considered by one whose experience in this special line entitles him to speak with authority. We heartily commend it to our readers, and especially to parents, Sunday-school teachers, and all who have to do with children."
Christian Progress.

FAMILIAR TALKS WITH THE CHILDREN.

A Series of Four-page Tracts for the Young.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

Assorted Packet of Forty-eight Tracts, 6d. For Free Distribution, 7s. 6d. per 100.

I. "Mamma, I am God's!"
II. The Happy Child and the Wicked Mother.
III. The Little Swiss Girl.
IV. The Persecuted Boy.
V. The Happy Meeting.
VI. The Little Worker.
VII. "Jesus, take Me!"
VIII. The Love of Jesus.
IX. "Do you Love Jesus?"
X. "Jairus' Daughter."
XI. "I Love the Saviour, and I want others to do the same."
XII. Jesus in the Heart.

In the Press, and will shortly be ready.

GATHERED LAMBS.

Showing how Jesus, the Good Shepherd, laid down His life for us; and how little children have been gathered into the fold.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

With Numerous Illustrations.

Tinted Covers, 1s.; Limp Cloth, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d.

I. Jesus, the Good Shepherd.
II. Trust in Jesus.
III. Christ's Love towards Children.
IV. "Do you Love Him?"
V. A Story for Little Christians.
&c., &c.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS.
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WHAT SHALL I DRINK?

The LANCET says:—"We counsel the public to drink their Lime-Juice whenever and wherever they list. As a rule, Lime-Juice is, particularly during the summer, a far more wholesome drink than any form of alcohol. We have subjected the samples of the "Lime-Fruit Juice" of the Montserrat Company to full analysis, with a view to test its quality and purity. WE HAVE FOUND IT TO BE IN SOUND CONDITION, and ENTIRELY FREE FROM ADULTERATION."

MONTSERRAT
LIME-FRUIT
JUICE & CORDIALS.
Limetta or Pure Lime-Juice Cordial.
Aromatic Clove, Strawberry, Raspberry, Pineapple, Sarsaparilla, Jargonelle, Peppermint, Quinine.

Allen & Hanburys'
"Perfected"
COD-LIVER OIL

'Is as nearly tasteless as Cod-Liver Oil can be.'—Lancet.
'Has almost the delicacy of salad oil.'—British Medical Journal.
'No nauseous eructations follow after it is swallowed.'—Medical Press.

It can be borne and digested by the most delicate; is the only oil which does not 'repeat;' and for these reasons the most efficacious kind in use. In capsuled bottles only, at 1/4, 2/6, 4/9 and 9/. Sold everywhere.

Save 30 per Cent.
"HOPWOOD PURE" CALICOES.
"HOPWOOD PURE" LONGCLOTHS.
"HOPWOOD PURE" SHIRTINGS.
"HOPWOOD PURE" SHEETINGS.

FREE PATTERNS—Write to The Hopwood Cotton Manufacturing Company, Princess Mills, Hopwood, Manchester, who will send, Post Free, Patterns and Prices of Unadulterated Long Cloths and Twilled Shirtings; Bleached and Unbleached pure Calicoes, Twills, Sheetings, &c.

Any length cut.

All Parcels Delivered Carriage Free

Hudson's Extract of Soap

Richest Custard! Without Eggs!!
BIRD'S CUSTARD POWDER
At Half the Cost and Trouble!!!
Choice! Delicious!!
A Great Luxury!!!
Sold everywhere in 6d. and 1s. Boxes.

Alfred Bird & Sons, Birmingham, will send on receipt of address, POST FREE, the new and enlarged edition of "PASTRY & SWEETS."—A Little Work containing Practical Hints and Original Recipes for Tasty Dishes, for the Dinner and Supper Table.

REFRESHING
PURE

Ask for Cadbury's Cocoa

"IT is often asked, 'Why does my doctor recommend Cadbury's Cocoa?' The reason is, that being absolutely genuine and concentrated by the removal of the superfluous fat, it contains FOUR TIMES THE AMOUNT OF NITROGENOUS OR FLESH-FORMING CONSTITUENTS than the average in other Cocoas which are mixed with sugar and starch."

"Nonpareil" Velveteen.

The "Nonpareil" is the richest, softest, and most becoming Velveteen ever produced, and is pre-eminently suited for Ladies' Indoor and Outdoor Costumes, Boys' Suits, and Children's Dress.

FAST PILE—FAST DYE.

The finer qualities are equal in appearance, and wear better than the very best Lyons Silk Velvet, and cost only a quarter of the price. Can be purchased from all leading Retailers at from 2s. to 6s. per yard.

EVERY YARD IS STAMPED ON THE BACK "NONPAREIL," to protect the Public from Fraud.

Wholesale Agents—J. H. FULLER, 92, Watling St., London; JOHN R. TAYLOR, 51, Miller St., Glasgow.

The Christian:

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.] [Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

No. 781.] THURSDAY, JANUARY 15, 1885. DOUBLE NUMBER. [TWOPENCE, POST FREE, 2½d.

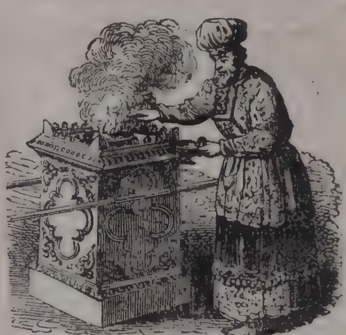
CONTENTS.

he Week of Prayer 7
Doing Business for Christ........ 8
he Late Miss Minchin 8
or the Young.................... 9
otes and Comments 10
Tea at the "Edinboro' Castle."..12
orkers Wanted in Spain 13
he Jews and Christianity........13
ermon-lane Mission 13
oung Men at Exeter Hall 14
Call from the Mediterranean....14
r. Hammond in Liverpool 15
Mr. Quarrier and Street Arabs....15
Continental and Foreign Notes.... 15
Mr. Moody in Cincinnati 16
Ragged School Workers 16
Missions in Tropical Lands 16
A Perfect Man
Rev. W. H. H. Aitken 17
Syrian Orphanage in Bethlehem ..19
Sowing the Seed in Italy 19
WEEK OF UNITED PRAYER:—
"Rejoice and be Glad."
Rev. H. Webb-Peploe 20
The Portal of Praise.
Mr. J. H. Tritton 21
A Call to Wakefulness.
Rev. Donald Macleod......22
The Church.
Rev. Archibald Brown.....23
Prayer for the Church of Christ.
Rev. Charles Graham. 24
Power, Unity, and Work.
Rev. H. Price Hughes 25
"Salvation in Every House."
Rev. F. Greeves, D.D. 26
Parents and Children.
Rev. E. A. Stuart 27
God's Love to the World.
Mr. H. Grattan Guinness..28
Mildmay Conference Hall 29
Poetry—The Homeless Poor 31
Healing for Soul and Body 31
Renewing the Covenant 32
A Plea for the British Lads 32
The Maoris 32
Tunis and its People 33
The Earthquakes in Spain........36

NEW EDITION, 474 PAGES.

THE TABERNACLE, THE PRIESTHOOD, AND THE OFFERINGS.



SPRINKLING THE INCENSE ALTAR.

With the Spiritual Lessons derived from the Ritual and Ceremonies of the Old Dispensation.

BY HENRY W. SOLTAU,

Author of "The Holy Vessels of the Tabernacle," "The Soul and its Difficulties," &c.

With FOUR BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS and numerous smaller Engravings.

The Morning Lessons selected by the Sunday School Union for the first six months of the present year are founded upon the Exodus: Israel's. ourneying through the Wilderness—The Tabernacle and the Offerings—The Scape-Goat—The Cities of Refuge—The High Priest, &c., &c. From Mr. oltau's valuable book great help can be obtained by the Teacher in his or her preparation for this course of Lessons.

Handsomely Bound in Cloth Boards, 5s.; Cloth Boards, Gilt Edges, 6s.; Cheap Edition, without the Coloured Plates, 3s.

"The book is full of teaching, spiritual and far-reaching; and we have much enjoyed reading it. The work is a good five shillings' worth."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, in The Sword and the Trowel.

"It is an elaborate work, conveying a great deal of information concerning the Mosaic dispensation, and indicating very deep and reverent Bible udy. It is full of Christian teaching of a suggestive character."—Sunday School Chronicle.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Complete in One Volume, Handsomely Bound in Cloth, 1083 pages, 10*s.* 6*d.*

FOXE'S BOOK OF MARTYRS.

Complete and Authentic Account of the Lives, Sufferings, and Triumphant Deaths of Primitive and Protestant Martyrs in all parts of the World.

By John Foxe.

WITH TWELVE FULL-PAGE ILLUSTRATIONS.

"As a complete edition of Foxe's Martyrs, this is by far the handiest and most tractive we know. In paper, type, illustrations, and binding, the book does great edit to Messrs. Morgan & Scott, to whom the Christian public are indebted for this nely publication."—Primitive Methodist.

"Messrs. Morgan and Scott have just published a new edition of Foxe's Book of artyrs, which deserves a word of greeting. The present edition extends far beyond oxe's times; having been enriched by the Rev. J. Milner and others; and brought own to the present century by the Rev. Ingram Cobbin. Altogether it is a cheap d complete Book of Martyrs, well printed and elegantly bound; and suitable for a ft-book."—Record.

"We cannot but express the desire that the circulation of this volume may be as tensive as its merit so well demands. It is elegant in the upgetting; and paper d print are a credit to its enterprising publishers."—British Friend.

Also published in 16 Monthly Parts at Sixpence each.

In Library Binding, Gilt Top, 10*s.* 6*d.*

MORGAN AND SCOTT'S ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE.

(UNABRIDGED).

The special features of this Edition are the NEW TRANSLATION, Revision, and Extension of the PROPER NAMES OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS, with their meanings in the Original Languages. The Twelve following exquisite Steel Plate Engravings:—

- Samaria.
- Elisha's Fountain, Jericho.
- Rephidim.
- Damascus.
- Mount Tabor.
- Tyre.
- Hebron.
- Jerusalem from the South.
- Shechem—Sychar.
- Tiberias.
- Bethany.
- Athens.

And Six beautifully-coloured Maps.

The Rev. J. L. Porter, D.D., Professor of Biblical Criticism, speaking of the Steel Plate Engravings, says:—

"I have examined with care the views for Biblical Illustration. . . . The Engravings are very beautiful. In clearness, accuracy, and general effect, they surpass, I think, any I have seen. The places represented are all familiar to me; and I have been particularly struck by the fidelity with which your artist has reproduced Frith's admirable photographs."—J. L. Porter.

"It is beautifully got up, carefully edited, and all has been done to make the work as useful as possible. Every Christian home ought to have a copy.
Oldham Chronicle.

Also being published in 18 Monthly Parts at Sixpence each.

A 5s. Cheap Edition of the above work may be had, without the Plates and Maps.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

George Holland thankfully acknowledges receiving from E. M., £1 ; Anonymous, 5s. ; Z. N., £1 ; A. J. J., 10s. M. A. E., £1 5s. ; Anonymous, Clothing ; B., a box of raisins ; M. A. F., 66 pairs of Socks.

C. D.—The poorest at the East-end of London are admitted into the "Nest for Children" and the "Rest for Men and Women." Since July, 1883, 550 have received the benefits of rest, pure air, and good food.

Mary P.—The Day Ragged Schools are open to visitors every morning and afternoon, Saturdays excepted. The children are frequently supplied with hot dinners free of cost.

A Record of Work, &c., containing a list of operations for every day in the week, may be had on application.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to George Holland, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society of the National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, 25, Queen-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for help in aid of the poorer patients and their families. The smallest gifts in money or clothing will be thankfully acknowledged by the Committee.

BETHESDA MISSION, Portsmouth, with which is incorporated the Portsea Island Town Mission. Established 1856.—Objects :—1. House-to-house visitation in the poorest districts for instruction in the Word of God. 2. The distribution of the Scriptures and simple Gospel Tracts. 3. To hold Mission Services, Cottage Meetings, and Sunday Schools. 4. To assist deserving poor and sick persons. 5. To give occasional free teas to the poorest classes, as a help to the ministry of the Gospel. The Mission is Evangelical and Unsectarian. Superintendent—Commander B. H. Key, Downham, St. Edward's-road, Southsea, who will gladly receive contributions for the work.

COW CROSS MISSION.—Gospel Services, Sadlers' Wells Theatre.—Glo'ster Hall. Clerkenwell, "Ragged London in centre." Dinners to destitute children, &c. Funds urgently needed.—William Catlin, General Superintendent, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville.

A SMALL TRAINING HOME for Girls and Children will be opened at Broadstairs, in February. Two or three convalescent cases, children (if recovering from non-infectious illness) can be taken. For terms, &c., apply, Mater, 21, Granville-place, Portman-square.

RESCUE WORK IN POPLAR.—Manor Cottage, Kersey-street, Poplar, E. Founded by Mrs. Wilkes, 1878. Treasurer, Henry Green, Esq., Blackwall, E. Miss Cooke, 68, Mildmay-park, will also receive contributions for this work of mercy. Mrs. Wilkes at home Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, to see friends and give information respecting this effort to seek and save the lost.

FAITH-HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. John Allen or his helpers. Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney, London, E., Sundays, 3 p.m., Mondays, 7 p.m. The Hall, Horsley-street, near Camberwell-gate and Walworth-road station, Tuesdays, 7 p.m. The Hall, 110, Shoreditch. Thursdays, 7 p.m. Special: Fridays, 7 p.m., Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney: Baptism of the Holy Ghost and Power for Service.

GEE-STREET Christian Mission and Ragged School, Goswell-road, earnestly solicits donations to continue the good work of preaching, teaching the Gospel, temperance, and relieving deserving poor.—Bankers, Barclay & Co., 54, Lombard-street; Treasurer. Robert Baxter, Esq., 6, Victoria-street, Westminster; Hon. Secretary, Rudgley, 82, Wood-street, Cheapside.

£200 URGENTLY REQUIRED to complete the building of Mission Chapel and School, in very promising rural district near Enniskillen, Ireland. An appeal is now made to the readers of The Christian for assistance, local resources being exhausted. Contributions will be gratefully received and acknowledged by Mr. S. B. Humphreys, Fair View, Enniskillen, Ireland.

CRIPPLED BOYS' HOME, Kensington, W. President, the Earl of Shaftesbury.—This charity was instituted in 1865 to feed, clothe, educate on Christian principles, and teach a trade to crippled boys between 12 and 18 years of age, so that they may be able to support themselves on leaving the Home. Trades taught Carpentering, tailoring, relief stamping, saddlery and harness work. 80 boys now in the Home; 100 boys can be accommodated, if funds allow. 300, after three years' training, are now gaining their own livelihood. Several friendless crippled boys waiting admission. Contributions urgently needed to pay £4,500 for building expenses.
H. R. Knipe, Hon. Sec

CAMDEN-ROAD CHAPEL.—Retirement of Rev. Francis Tucker, B.A.—The Farewell Meeting will be held on Thursday, January 15, 1885, when a Testimonial will be presented to Mr. Tucker. Several ministers and friends are expected to take part in the proceedings. Chair to be taken at 7 p.m.

THE DEEPENING of Spiritual Life.—Meetings will be held at Sunderland, the Lord willing, Feb. 3rd to 6th inclusive.—All information from J. W. Mounsey, Esq., The Limes, Sunderland.

LIVERPOOL BETHSHAN Faith Healing Home, 161, Islington. Meetings for Holiness, Healing, and Testimony, Tuesdays, 3 p.m.; Thursdays, 7.30 p.m.
For further particulars, apply Miss Gibbs.

FIVE SCHOLARSHIPS.

CAMDEN SCHOOL, BRIGHTON.

Principal:

MR. WILLIAM OLDING.

Erdington College,

Near Birmingham and Sutton Park. Most healthy position. Careful Biblical training. Resident Masters all Christian men. Number of Boarders doubled in about two years. The highest position in Birmingham or suburbs gained at the last Midsummer Examination, held by the College of Preceptors, besides many other successes in the Oxford Local Science and Art Department, October. Reference kindly allowed W. A. Southwell, Esq., Y.M.C.A., Cardiff.
FREDERICK W. W. HOWELL, Principal.

Educational.

WATERLOO HOUSE SCHOOL, Leamington. — Principal, the Rev. Arthur Sewell, M.A. (Author of "Daily Thoughts for Schoolboys"). Preparatory for public schools. Terms moderate.

EASTBOURNE OLD SCHOOL, The Gables, Eastbourne. — Head Master, D. Stroud, M.C.P.; Second Master, J. C. Morton, Esq., B.A. (Oxon.); Music Master, E. Redhead, Esq., Mus. Bac. (Oxon.); Art Master, S. Shelton, Esq., Royal Academy Exhibitor. Terms moderate and inclusive. References given to Christian parents. The next term will (D.V.) commence January 20th. A Christian Gentleman required as Junior Master.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES, Larkbeare, Exeter, Devon (for Resident Pupils only). Established 25 years. Miss Bamber and Miss Churton, assisted by an efficient staff of resident certificated teachers and visiting professors, offer every educational advantage to parents seeking a Christian training for their daughters. Pupils always accompanied to and from London. Unexceptionable references to parents of present pupils. In association with the above is Clarendon House, Topsham, offering the same educational advantages, with pure, bracing sea-air, especially adapted for girls of delicate habit.

CLARENCE HOUSE, Pellatt-grove, Wood-green.—Mrs. Silvester, assisted by efficient teachers and visiting professors, receives a few Boarders, to whom she offers educational advantages, with the comforts of a home and very careful training. References kindly permitted to Mr. R. C. Morgan, 12, Paternoster-buildings, and parents of pupils.

SEASIDE, Southport. — Superior School for Young Ladies. Conducted by a member of the Church of England (Evangelical), assisted by English and foreign governesses, and eminent visiting professors. Pupils prepared for Trinity College examinations. — Miss Poole, Eagley Bank, Southport. Referees, Rev. Canon Clarke, Southport, and Rev. John Burbidge, Everton-road, Liverpool.

LADIES' COLLEGE, Goudhurst, near Tunbridge Wells.—Conducted by the Misses Kendon, daughters of the Rev. J. J. Kendon.—A happy home and School for Girls. The situation is exceedingly healthy and beautiful, being on the range of hills near Tunbridge Wells, and about four hundred feet above sea level. Pupils prepared for the College of Preceptors' and the Cambridge Local Examinations.—For prospectus, with references, apply to Miss R. Kendon, M.C.P. Terms, 27 guineas per annum.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—The Misses Rodham, assisted by good Masters and Resident Governesses, receive the daughters of Gentlemen as Resident Pupils, whose training and education they personally superintend. For delicate girls the climate has proved most beneficial. Reference is kindly permitted to Mrs. Pennefather, Mildmay-park, London, and to the relatives of pupils.—For terms, address
Misses Rodham, Weston-super-Mare.

EDUCATION.—Fraulein von Grieshiem, Diez a.d. Lahn, near Ems, receives a limited number of pupils. Resident French and German governesses. Music, piano, violin, singing, painting. Lawn tennis. Highest references.

SOUTHDENE, Ramsgate.—Splendidly situated Home for delicate children requiring sea and country air, combined with educational advantages. Under the personal supervision of experienced Christian Lady. Prospectus on application. Terms moderate.

EDUCATION.—High-class School for Young Ladies desiring the advantage of Finishing Masters, certificated Governesses, and personal supervision, with home comforts. Terms moderate and inclusive. Highly recommended by parents and pupils, and Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.—Prospectus on application to Mrs. Hale, 1, Carlton-mansions, Clapham-rise, S.W.

"Balham, May 29, 1880.

"I am very reluctant to recommend schools, because I am not always able to judge of the interior arrangements; but in this case I have the utmost pleasure in standing as reference. I can highly commend Mrs. Hale, and have the greatest confidence in her capacity, management, and character, having known her for many years.
"C. H. Spurgeon."

SOUTHSEA.—A Clergyman is anxious to recommend a first-class School for a few girls, exclusively Gentlemen's Daughters, where his own daughters finished. Thorough teaching. Sound Christian training. Terms to fill one vacancy at Christmas, forty guineas per annum.—Rev. J. Johnson, Britwell Rectory, Watlington, Oxon.

HOLLAND HOUSE, Clarence-parade, Southsea.—School for the Daughters of Gentlemen. Special educational advantages, with home comforts and care. Indian charges received. References kindly permitted to the parents of present and former pupils. Prospectus on application to the Principal.

EDUCATION.—Two young Ladies can be received in a first-class School in London, on greatly reduced terms, to fill vacancies. Home comforts, good masters, and careful supervision. Most highly recommended by parents of pupils.—For address and prospectus apply to
G. A. N., 69, Southwark-bridge-road, S.E.

CLAPHAM COMMON. — A Lady of much educational experience receives a limited number of young Ladies as Resident Pupils. Christian and refined influences, with careful mental culture. Special advantages for Modern Languages and accomplishments. High-class professors attend. Prospectus on application. — Alpha, care of Mr. Bachhoffner, Bookseller, High-street, Clapham, S.W.

MONTREUX, Switzerland.—Madame Dolmatoff. Christian home for young Ladies. French and German taught. Other branches of education if required. Reference, Rev. Denham Smith, 38, York-terrace, Regent's-park, London.

TEIGNMOUTH HOUSE GIRLS' SCHOOL. — Thorough education, with home comforts. Entire charge taken of children whose parents are abroad. Pupils prepared for the Local Examinations. Next term January 20.—Prospectuses on application to the Misses Whytall, Teignmouth.

EDUCATION.—A Lady in South Hampstead (whose Daughters have a Preparatory School for Little Boys) will after Christmas have vacancies for two in the house, boarders or weekly. Numbers being limited, watchful care and home comforts are assured. Term commences January 26th.—T., 166, Belsize-road, N.W.

A LADY, who has taught in the family of Sir Joseph Fayrer for six years, is open to an engagement as Governess, Lady-Housekeeper, or Companion, or in any post of trust in a Christian family. Excellent references.—B. A., J. Rivolta, Esq., The Manor Way, Blackheath-park, S.E.

MOUNT HOUSE, Braintree, Ladies' School. Principal, Miss Woodgate.—Sound education on modern principles. Preparation for Camb. Local and C. P. Exams. Home comforts and personal supervision. Highest references. Prospectus and particulars on application. Spring term commences January 19 and 20.

BEDFORD.—Howard College.—Principal—Mrs. J. C. Burnett. A Boarding School for Girls. Modern methods. Very superior education. Careful Christian training. Report and full particulars sent by return of post.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS. — Lady Principal of small select Ladies' School can receive six young ladies, to train in household management, cookery lessons, needlework. Good English and accomplishments, with Christian evangelical training. Seven guineas the term.—Mater, Mr. Spiers, Bookseller, Tunbridge Wells.

BEDFORD. — Melrose House. — Principals, the Misses Ray, daughters of the late Rev. R. Ray. Pupils received for high-class education and board. Personal supervision, with Christian training and home comforts. Preparation for Cambridge and other Local Examinations when desired. The Easter term will begin (D.V.) on Monday, January 19.

KINGSTON HOUSE Ladies' School, Abbotsford-road, Clifton.—High-class education. Careful Christian training. Pupils prepared for musical and University examinations. Musical education offered to Young Lady for services. Premium, 15 guineas.

KINGSHOLME SCHOOL, Weston-super-Mare, is intended for Daughters of Christian parents in limited circumstances. The primary object of the School is the Glory of God and conversion and consecration of the pupils to the Lord's service at home or abroad. A thorough English education is given. There is every facility for the acquirement of foreign languages.

MT. RADFORD SCHOOL, Exeter.—During the last ten years pupils have obtained upwards of 150 certificates in the Oxford, Cambridge, College of Preceptors', and London University Examinations. Of these, twenty-two passed in honours, and twelve obtained prizes. The Word of God is made the sole basis of a careful Christian training. References to parents of past and present pupils.
Principal, E. H. Vine.

TO GODLY PARENTS.—The undermentioned (who is in no way connected with the school) is desirous of recommending an old-established YOUNG GENTLEMEN'S BOARDING SCHOOL, DELIGHTFULLY SITUATED FACING THE SEA on the South Coast, a short run from London, in which a thorough and first-class Education is given, based upon the teaching of the Holy Scriptures.

It is one of the few remaining schools in which the power of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ influences the hearts and conduct of the pupils.

The success, happiness, and training of the Boys have been so remarkable in this school that a BOOK OF TESTIMONIALS GIVEN BY THE PARENTS, together with the papers of Examinations passed and Honours gained, should be read to appreciate results so unusual. Two Vice-Chancellors have placed their wards as pupils in the school. Reference kindly permitted to Dr. Thorn, Paddington, London.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL for Little Boys, near Brighton. Locality healthy. Home comforts, Christian training. Special attention to delicate, backward boys. Separate beds. Visiting masters. Twenty guineas.—Lady Principal, Hamilton Lodge, Hurstpierpoint, Sussex.

THE OLD HALL SCHOOL,

WELLINGTON, SHROPSHIRE.

Principal: Dr. Cranage.

HASTINGS.—Wellington College for Ladies, 4, Wellington-square. Head Mistress, Miss De la Mare. Honours in the L.L.A. Examination for women. Science and other certificates. Pupils prepared for the local and higher examinations. Kindergarten department for young children. Vacancies for two boarders.—Prospectus on application to the Secretary, Rev. F. Leaver.

LONDON.—First-class Education for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing, conducted by members of the Church of England, occupying a spacious house in a most healthy locality in the West-end. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate Professors — their health, individual temper, and disposition carefully and tenderly watched over, and the whole system based on Christian principles. — Delta, Boddington's Library, Notting-hill-gate, W.

CAPTAIN MORETON has much pleasure in recommending Mr. Foster, as an educator, to those parents who value a judicious training for their sons.—Kelvedon School, Essex.

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL in Highgate.—The Rev. G. D. Bartlet, M.A. (late Head Master of Mill Hill School), receives twelve Boarded Pupils. Able assistant masters, superior home, individual attention, thorough grounding, and careful religious training. Highgate is strongly recommended by the medical profession. — Reference permitted to the Rev. W. E. Boardman, 3, Highbury-park.

CROMARTIE HOUSE SCHOOL, The Avenue, Acton, W. Boys and youths received from 6 to 14 years of age. Only a few boarders are taken. One or two can be entered. Term commencing shortly. Careful Christian and personal supervision. Personal reference to parents of pupils. Terms moderate and inclusive.
Principal, Chas. Miller.

HIGHBURY HOUSE, St. Leonards-on-Sea.—Boys prepared for commerce, public schools, or the Universities. Upper, middle, and preparatory departments. Seven resident Masters. The junior division taught by Ladies. Delicate boys requiring a mild climate receive every kindness and constant care.—For prospectus, apply to Mrs. Duff, the Lady Principal. The Easter term will commence on Wednesday, Jan. 21.

DURBAN-HOUSE SCHOOL, Lansdowne-road, Lee, Blackheath, S.E.—An old-established Preparatory School for the Sons of Gentlemen, conducted by a Lady, assisted by Masters and Governesses. Careful training. Home comforts. References to clergymen and parents.—The Principal.

MORAVIAN EDUCATION.—Fulneck, near Leeds. Established 1750. Terms for Boys' School, apply to the Rev. W. T. Titterington; for Ladies' School, to Miss Shawe. School re-opens January 21.

UCKFIELD GRAMMAR SCHOOL, Sussex.—Next term begins January 15. This school will be found most healthy, economical, efficient, comfortable, and pleasant. During the occupancy (four years) of the present Head Master (Mr. Williamson), it has invariably given great satisfaction, and there has never been any case of illness. Terms £40, inclusive of music and every school requisite.

EDUCATION.—Good Middle-class School for Girls. Pupils prepared for examinations. A few Boarders can be received. Terms moderate. Young Governess-Pupil required.
A., Brook House, Bromley, Kent.

PENTLAND HOUSE, Wandsworth Common, S.W. Principal, Miss Dalgleish. High-class education for Young Ladies. English and foreign governesses, and visiting masters. There are one or two vacancies for boarders. Next term begins Tuesday, January 20, 1885. Prospectuses on application.

HANWORTH HOUSE, Weston-super-Mare. Mrs. Charles Nash receives a limited number of Pupils, and endeavours to combine the highest educational advantages with Christian training and maternal care. Resident Parisienne, and German Governess. The best Masters from Clifton attend regularly. Prospectus, with references, on application.

MISS PENN and Fräulein Esser's pupils re-assemble (D.V.), January 22.
Grove House, Upper Clapton.

SEA HOUSE SCHOOL, Upperton, Eastbourne.—Thorough education, domestic comfort, and beautiful air. The term commences January 20.—For prospectus, view of house, &c., apply to Mr. Esam.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.—A Youth, not under 15, can be received into a good school at the seaside for one year at half fees, if willing to give assistance with juniors. Preparation for Cambridge Local and Matriculation Examinations.
A. B., Mr. Kember, 37, Walbrook, E.C.

COMFORTABLE PRIVATE HOME, with education, offered for two or three little girls. Terms moderate. Church of England.—A. B., 22, Meek-street, Ashburnham-park, Chelsea, S.W.

LADY OFFERS Christian home, combining educational advantages, to girls under 16, as Companion-Pupils. Healthy situation. Personal supervision.—For particulars address, "Principal," care of Miss Jefferies, 135, White Ladies-road, Clifton.

LADIES WITH LIMITED INCOME find a pleasant Home in a school at the seaside. A Lady willing to devote a few hours weekly to teaching French and drawing, would be received upon half terms.—Florence, Mr. Bishopp, Stationer, West-hill, Hastings.

COMFORTABLE HOME offered to a young Lady in the country, who would pay ten shillings a week, and give three hours' drawing lessons weekly in a young ladies' school.—Mrs. Leggett, 44, Atwell-road, Rye-lane, Peckham.

CAN ANYONE recommend a bright, comfortable home in Germany to a young man of 22 who is studying for the Diplomatic Services, and wishes to perfect himself in the German language?
Mr. Henry Ind Barclay, Woodford, Essex.

A TEACHER wanted in a Girls' Orphanage. Must be a decided Christian, and able to instruct thoroughly in plain English, and good needlework. State salary required, and previous experience.—A. B., care of Mr. Drew, Stationer, 24, Marlborough-terrace, Upper Holloway.

A GOVERNESS-PUPIL required, in a small high-class School. Premium, 20 guineas yearly. Also a Young Lady, not under 19, who speaks French. Terms reciprocal.—Miss Mansfield, care of Mr. Robinson, Silver-street, Bedford.

A COMFORTABLE HOME, with education, in conjunction with another child, is offered in a healthy locality, near London, for one or two Young Children.
M. A. W., Murton Villa, Buckhurst-hill.

TEACHER, certificated, experienced, desires engagement as English Governess in school. Thorough English, German, elementary French and music. Testimonials, references. Family not objected to. South of England preferred.—K., Laurels, Leominster.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a young lady as Nursery Governess, to children under eight.
Miss Macdonald, 7, Queen's-terrace, Aberdeen.

AN ENGAGEMENT wanted as Companion to a lady, or Governess to two children under 13. Domesticated, musical, and well-recommended. Dissenter.—C., "Advertiser" Office, Great Malvern, Worcestershire.

AS GOVERNESS, desired by a Lady holding Coll. Preceptors' Certificate (1st class, 1st div.). English (good), French, German, and music. Good disciplinarian.
Miss Griggs, Hartwell, Northampton.

WANTED, BY A LADY, an engagement as Musical Governess in a school; or as Housekeeper and Companion in a Christian family. Good references. Total abstainer.
M., 36, Station-road, Harlesden.

DAILY OR MORNING ENGAGEMENT required, by a Young Lady in a family or school. Thorough English, French, music, and elementary Latin. Little boys preferred.
E. B., 54, Priory-road, Hampstead.

GOVERNESSES.—Wanted immediately for a family, an efficient English Governess. A thorough knowledge of English, good music, singing, French, and drawing. The eldest 13.—Address with references to Mrs. J. Cox, High Littleton, near Bristol.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a young German Lady, for the education of children under fourteen years of age. She has been well taught in the Kindergarten system, is able to teach music, drawing, and the rudiments of the French language. Excellent testimonials, both German and English. A decided Christian.
L. K., 7, Bruce-grove, Tottenham.

GOVERNESS, certificated, Honours. Re-engagement, family. Young Lady just returned from France. Teaches thorough English, French, advanced arithmetic, music, drawing, and elementary Latin.—M. E. B., 26, Coventry-road, Hinckley, Leicestershire.

GOVERNESS.—A young Lady (21) desires an engagement in a School or Gentleman's family. English in all its branches (advanced arithmetic), French, German, music (theoretical and practical), drawing, and elementary Latin. First-class, College of Preceptors, and Edinburgh and Glasgow University certificates. Good references.—M. M., 13, Berlin-terrace, Pollokshields, Glasgow.

AS GOVERNESS.—Required by Young Lady after Christmas. School or family. Two years' experience. Good English, elementary French, music, and drawing. Good references.
Miss B., Trevose, Padstow, Cornwall.

A YOUNG GERMAN LADY desires a re-engagement as Governess in a quiet family. Terms moderate. She teaches German, French, and music; also the usual English instruction.—Address, during January, Fraulein Osterloff, care of Mrs. White, Dutton House, Leominster, Hereford.

A REFINED HOME wanted for a little girl of 12, where only a few fellow-pupils are received. The Lord's Kingdom (with view to Mission-field) first requisite.—Mrs. Hutton, Itchen View, Portswood, Southampton.

EXPERIENCED GOVERNESS requires re-engagement in school or family. Good English, music, French, drawing, singing, needlework. Highest references. Very successful in teaching. Fond of children.
R., 5, Brownswood-park, London, N.

THE PRINCIPAL of a Ladies' Collegiate School wishes to recommend a young Lady, who has been with her four years, as junior Governess in a good school.—For particulars please address Miss Tyrrell, Hinton Parva, Shrivenham, Berks.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

A CHRISTIAN GENTLEMAN and Lady, without family (with some means), would undertake the entire charge of a Christian Convalescent Home for the better class. The Lady is thoroughly domesticated, and an excellent organizer, the Gentleman would undertake the conduct of evangelistic services in the home. Would prefer to furnish their own apartments. Unexceptionable references.—A. Z., care of Mr. Robt. Burn, Sec. Young Men's Christian Association, 186, Aldersgate-street, who will also act as reference.

SECRETARY.—An energetic Christian gentleman, of considerable secretarial experience, desires an appointment as Secretary to a public charity or otherwise. Good accountant and shorthand writer.
Beta, 191, High-street, Stoke Newington, N.

MR. GEORGE HATTON, Superintendent of St. Giles Christian Mission, is most desirous to obtain a situation for a young man of considerable ability, who has been for some months past temporarily employed as clerk and correspondent in the offices of the above Mission. Writes a capital hand, and is most gentlemanly and obliging. Salary moderate.—Mr. Hatton, 12, Ampton-place, Regent-square, W.C.

THE MANAGEMENT of a Coffee Tavern or Temperance Hotel wanted, by man and wife and daughter. Many years' experience. Total abstainers. Good testimonials.—Manager, Eagle Coffee Tavern, Gipsy-road, Lower Norwood.

CLERGYMAN of Evangelical views, age 45, energetic and hard worker, seeks ministerial, missionary, or other Christian work. Unexceptionable references.—Clericus, City News Rooms, 4, Ludgate-circus, London.

GARDENER (HEAD), age 39.—H. Nunn is seeking a re-engagement. 20 years' thorough practical experience in all its branches, including Orchids. Good references. Abstainer.
35, Noyna-road, Upper Tooting, S.W.

GARDENER, Single-handed or otherwise.—Understands management of stock. Wife could manage poultry or dairy. Total abstainer and Christian. 1½ years' character, 6½ previous.—A. H. Lowlands, Farnham, Surrey.

UNDER A BUTLER.—A quiet, respectable Lad, aged 17, tall; been in a gentleman's family about six weeks, where he has learned waiting, &c.—Walter Dorling, Garrett-lane, opposite Burntwood-lane, Lower Tooting, S.W.

YOUNG GERMAN LADY wishes to join a single Lady, as Companion, if possible, to travel; or would help a young Lady (grown up) with French and German. Salary secondary, but must be quite one of the family.—A. B., Fräulein von P., 6, Carlton-terrace, Scarborough.

SEA.—Will any Christian out of sympathy take a Lad, age 15, subject to epileptic fits, as Steward's Boy? Stout and strong.—J. Hillier, 8, Caird-street, Queen's-park, Harrow-W., road.

A CLERGYMAN wishes to find for a Lady, a position of trust and responsibility, where she can have opportunities for the highest usefulness. She has first-rate testimonials, and is a person of general ability, good temper, great patience, tact, and an earnest Christian.—J. A. Faithfull, Holy Trinity Parsonage, Scarborough.

WILL ANY CHRISTIAN FRIEND help a Christian man to a situation, as Indoor Servant, or any place of trust where he could make himself useful? Town or country. Age 43. Not tall. Total abstainer. Good English and foreign references.
Charles Bisschop, 28, Finsbury-square, E.C.

HOUSEKEEPER.—A thoroughly experienced person, 35, seeks engagement in a Widower's family. Is cheerful, musical, good needlewoman, and fond of children. Good references.—B. E., 147, Elgin-crescent, Notting-hill, W.

WILL SOME CHRISTIAN person give a trial to a capital Coachman, who has been a drunkard, but anxious to reform? He has a wife and child. References very good in every other respect.—J. A. Faithfull, Holy Trinity Parsonage, Scarborough.

A CLERGYMAN'S WIFE wishes to recommend a trustworthy, middle-aged person, as Attendant to an invalid Lady. Several years' experience. Most kind and attentive in sickness. Widow; abstainer. Christian privileges valued.—Mrs. C. C. Fenn, 7, Eversfield-place, St. Leonard's-on-Sea.

RE-ENGAGEMENT in Mission Work, required by a Lady. Highly recommended for ability, experience, and devotedness.
Dr. Alfred Crespi, Wimborne, Dorset.

A LADY desires an engagement as Secretary or Companion. Can take charge of a backward or delicate child. Highest recommendations.—T. K., 17, Old Cavendish-street.

WOULD ANY LADY or Gentleman take a lad about 16 into their family? He has had an elementary education, been well born and brought up. Would make himself useful in many ways in a house of business. Highest references.—A. B., Mr. Daws, Wine Merchant, High-street, Bideford, Devon.

HOUSE OR KITCHEN.—A Lady wishes to hear of a situation for a girl, 16. She has been out before.
Miss MacInnes, 2, Gayton-road, Hampstead, N.W.

A LADY recommends her late Cook for some lighter situation. Could wait on a Lady. Trustworthy, valuable, good needlewoman.
Miss Martin, Broomfield, Red-hill.

AN ACTIVE CHRISTIAN LADY seeks engagement; is thoroughly domesticated, and has had business experience; or would take management of business, with view to purchase.
M. G., 305, Mare-street, Hackney.

LAUNDRY-MAID wants a situation (Upper) in the above capacity, who can be well recommended.
Mrs. Robinson, Delgaty, Turriff, Aberdeenshire.

A LADY recommends two Girls, aged 16, as Scullery or Kitchen-maid, and as under Housemaid or Housemaid where a good general servant is kept. Country preferred.
Miss Onslow, Alresford, Hants.

A LADY IS ANXIOUS to hear of a situation for a thoroughly trustworthy person and earnest Christian, as Maid to an elderly lady, or Travelling Maid to a newly-married couple. Age thirty-nine. Eight or ten years' excellent characters.—Mrs. P., 133, Ebury-street, Pimlico.

SUPERIOR ELDERLY PERSON, well connected, whose home through death is broken up, desires position of usefulness. Thorough housekeeper, careful manager; valuable to invalid lady or quiet gentleman.
Delta, 23, Clarendon-street, S.W.

A LADY RECOMMENDS Girl (15). Tall and strong. Sixteen months' character. Also Girl (18). Willing and strong. Been out before. Christian families. State wages.
Miss S., 8, York-terrace, Regent's-park.

WANTED, by a respectable Christian Young Man, age 23, rather delicate, total abstainer, employment as Copyist, &c. Unexceptionable references.
P., 7, Champness-terrace, Clive-road, W. Dulwich.

AS WORKING HOUSEKEEPER where assistance is given. Dissenter and abstainer. Comfortable house desired. Salary secondary consideration. Good reference.—C. Carrington, 2, Richmond-villas, Grove-road, Windsor.

AS GROOM AND GARDENER in the country.—Wanted, a middle-aged man, abstainer, indoors, who can make himself generally useful. Good reference required.—Write particulars to William Burgess, Lingfield, Surrey.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

AN ARCHITECT, in one of the most healthy inland watering-places in England, is open to receive a young gentleman as Pupil. Practical building, construction, and quantity-surveying. Premium moderate. Could board with family if desired. References exchanged.—F. T., 3, Maitland-park-villas, London, N.W.

MISSIONARY WANTED for the Presbyterian Mission Church, Holy Island, Northumberland, to enter in February.—Full particulars on application to the Rev. John Smith, M.A., Wallace Green Church, Berwick-on-Tweed.

SHORTHAND.—Evening employment offered to a Christian young man. One in the neighbourhood of South Kensington preferred.—R. S., Mr. Archer's, 28, Tenter-street, Moorfields, E.C.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.—A London Architect and Surveyor, M.R.I.B.A., who has special opportunities for the acquirement of a practical knowledge of the profession, has a vacancy for a Pupil. Christian home if desired. Premium.—A. B., Housekeeper, Bishopsgate-street Within, E.C.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, an Evangelist, to conduct a Wesleyan Mission Band in York. Must be thoroughly devoted to God's work, and a good singer. Concertina Band assists in open air.—George Kirby, Secretary, 19, Claremont-terrace, York.

WANTED, IN SMALL FAMILY, Man and Wife as Cook-Housekeeper and Indoor Servant. Good wages to thoroughly competent persons. Abstainers preferred. No beer found. Must have exceptional personal characters.
Mrs. G. P. Moodie, 10, Wilbury-road, Brighton.

MISS WESTON will be very glad to hear from any Christian Ladies desiring to help her in her work. They must be earnest Christians and total abstainers, active, and energetic. No salary given, board and lodging provided.
Miss Weston, Sailors' Rest, Portsmouth.

TRUSTWORTHY PERSON wanted, as good plain Cook and Manager, for two persons residing in Bath. A quiet, comfortable situation.—State full particulars, and good references, to Mrs. L. Myers, Filkins, Oxon.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, near Hyde Park, a thoroughly dependable, active woman as Plain Cook, and to be generally useful. With one Lady. House and parlour-maids kept. Wages £18 at first. No beer.
M., care of Neale, 5, Edgware-road.

LAUNDRESS.—Wanted, a respectable woman, not under 25 years of age, as Laundress in an Industrial School. Must be really influenced by Christian principle. A member of the Church of England preferred.—Apply by letter, addressed Matron, School of Discipline, 2, Queen's-road West, Chelsea, S.W.

YOUNG CHRISTIAN WOMAN wanted, as Children's and Sewing-maid. Thoroughly trustworthy, conscientious, strong, active. Willing to help in housework. Early riser. State age, wages, &c.—Mrs. Dunlop Smith, Didsbury Rectory, Manchester.

A YOUTH wanted, able to work a Screw-cutting Lathe (a good machinist).—Apply in first instance by letter, to Bromhead & Co. Engineers, &c., 58, Lombard-street. State age, wages, and references.

SUPERIOR NURSE wanted for two children, three and a half and two years. Would have the superintendence of two others with daily governess. Good needlewoman.
Mrs. Smith, Earlston, Liscard, Cheshire.

A MAID NURSE wanted, to wait on an elderly Lady, residing at Kensington. Must be strong, and used to reading aloud.
A. H., Uplands, Wallington, Surrey.

NURSE.—Wanted, a good single-handed Nurse for two little boys, aged nearly four and 18 months. Wages £18 to £20, all found. Must be willing to be useful, and a good needlewoman.—Apply, personally or by letter, to Mrs. G. Cooper, Hildenhurst, Park-hill, Shortlands.

EAST LONDON.—Respectable woman wanted, as General Servant and plain Cook in a small, quiet family. Housemaid kept. £16, no beer
Harbour Master, 74, Narrow-street, Limehouse.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a nicely brought up, respectable-looking girl, about 18, willing to be trained as Cook in a quiet Gentleman's family? Three servants kept. State full particulars and wages required, and send photo, to B., 1, St. James's-street, St. James's-square, Bath.

WOULD ANY LADY kindly recommend a superior Christian Nurse to take charge of two little boys, ages three and a half and five and a half? Under nurse kept.—Mrs. E. Rawle[illegible], The Chantry, Wilton, Wilts.

WANTED, on Feb. 1, a thoroughly good plain Cook in a gentleman's family. All found, except beer.
Mrs. Thomas, Uplands, Haslemere, Surrey.

GOOD LAUNDRESS wanted, a Christian, without family. Cottage, &c., found.—Mrs. Dunne, Birchen Hall, Leominster, Herefordshire.

CAN ANYONE recommend a young man as General Assistant in an Industrial School? Abstainer preferred.—The Superintendent, Industrial School, Milborne St. Andrews, Blandford.

GOOD PARLOUR-MAID wanted, not under 24. Good character. Four in family. Five house servants.
Mrs. E. S., Beltwood, Sydenham-hill

PARLOUR-MAID wanted, between 25 and 35. Must be thoroughly experienced, and a neat needlewoman. One who values Christian privileges, and a Congregationalist preferred. Apply, by letter only, stating wages and other particulars, to W., 22, Upper Phillimore-gardens, Kensington, W.

GOOD PLAIN COOK, also GOOD HOUSEMAID wanted, in a Gentleman's family. Churchwomen preferred. Christians. Neither under 25 years.
Mrs. B., Clayton's, Tunbridge Wells.

GOOD PLAIN COOK in a small, quiet family. Wages £21. Dissen[illegible] [illegible]referred.—Address, stating age, length of [illegible]
M. L., Post-office, Finsbury-pa[illegible], [illegible]

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, a good plain Cook. No kitchen-maid kept. Abstainer preferred.
P. B., Avonleigh, Stoke Bishop, Bristol.

UNDER HOUSEMAID wanted.—The Advertiser would be obliged by any Lady kindly recommending a superior, active, cleanly young woman.—Address, stating full particulars, L., Howard's Printing Office, High-street, Sydenham, S.E.

A GENERAL SERVANT wanted by a Lady. Quiet, orderly home. Christian [illegible]ferred.—Miss Arnold, 50, Victoria-road, Cla[illegible] Common, S.W.

NURSE.—Wanted, competent, trustworthy Nurse. One who has had some experience in a gentleman's nursery preferred. Strong, and early riser, cheerful, and fond of children, good needlewoman. Girl to assist.—Apply by letter to Mrs. JOHN WARNER, Waddon, Croydon.

WANTED, as honorary Lady Worker in Dr. BARNARDO's Village Home, Ilford, Essex, a Christian Lady (total abstainer), possessing skill in making all sorts of garments for young girls. Able also to direct and superintend a large class of young workers, to give instruction in cutting out, fitting on, &c., &c. It is thought there are many such (gentlewomen or otherwise) qualified by past experience, who would gladly undertake such work for the Lord's sake, accepting only board and lodging in return. Dr. Barnardo will be glad to correspond with any who will write to him, stating age, experience, &c.
18, Stepney-causeway, London, E.

WANTED, as Correspondent, a Christian Lady, possessing a fair knowledge of Shorthand (not less than 90 words a minute), and able to write also a bold and expeditious long hand. Methodical and punctual in habits, and disposed to give herself to the promotion of the Lord's work among homeless children. A good home and home comforts offered to such in Dr. Barnardo's Village Home for Girls, and if needful a small salary, but it is especially desired to find some lady willing and able to give her services, without other pay than board and lodging.—Apply, by letter, to Dr. BARNARDO, 18, Stepney-causeway, E.

GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted. Strong, good-tempered, Christian, abstainer. Good character. Wages good, and nurse kept.—Mrs. MITCHESON, Clairville, Pelham-road, Wimbledon.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted, 30; thorough, cleanly, industrious, early riser. Good character. Must be methodical; capable undertaking work small house, two floors. Family two.—Lamb Farm Cottage, 154, Richmond-road, Dalston.

A GENERAL SERVANT wanted. Age from 30 to 50. Abstainer. Wages £14. Three in family, very quiet. No washing. Christian privileges.—Apply by letter, Mrs. BABINGTON, 32, Jeffreys-road, Clapham-road.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted.—Must be able to cook. Good character. Gardener kept, who undertakes sundry duties. Two in family.—Apply by letter, J. F., Grange Villa, Sutton, Surrey.

WILL ANYONE recommend active, respectable girl as General Servant, or elderly woman wanting good home. Some knowledge of cooking.—L., The Ferns, South Hayling, Hants.

GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted, by the 28th of January. One who can do plain cooking. Five in family. An abstainer preferred.—15, Ferme-park-road, Stroud Green, N.

AGENTS (male and female) required in every town and village to sell our pure Teas and Coffees. Our Ceylon and Darjeeling Teas show extraordinary value. We allow 6d. per lb. commission, and deliver free. Special terms for cash. Agents can earn between 20s. and 30s. weekly.—Write for samples free to The United Tea Growers' Association, 9, Union-court, E.C.

£6 MONTHLY may be added to income by selling our celebrated Teas in packets, French Coffees, and Cocoa. Write for particulars to OLIVER, OLIVER & Co, 332, Southgate-road, London.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.

40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

This First-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of THE CHRISTIAN from all parts of the world. The Bishop of Algoma writes: "The comfort, perfect order, and attendance at PERCY'S Hotel, render it all that can be desired as a central place of sojourn in this great city." Beds from 1s. 6d. Tea, 1s. 3d. Tariff on application.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Clairville, Chine-road.—Superior Boarding House, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. JACKSON. Visitors will meet with an excellent family home. Charming sea views. Near church and sea. Most liberal table.

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA Boarding Establishment. The home of a Minister's daughter. Established 11 years. Mansion replete with every comfort. Fine sea view.
Miss NEWBURY, Cavendish House, Warrior-square.

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine, having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers. Liberal table, with every home comfort.—Mr. & Mrs. Box, 58, Old Steine.

BOARD AND RESIDENCE.—Wellington-square, Hastings.—Widow Lady wishes to receive into her large house, a few Ladies and Gentlemen. Home comforts. Liberal table. Moderate terms.
E. M. P., Observer Office, Hastings.

A COMFORTABLE CHRISTIAN HOME is offered to a domesticated Lady, willing to undertake the domestic duties of a small household. Abstainer and Nonconformist preferred.—Apply by letter, to J. G., 25, George-street, Croydon.

APARTMENTS for a Gentleman or two friends, near Blackheath Station. Bath-room, piano. No children. Terms moderate.
BETA, care of Mr. Burnside, Blackheath.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Board and Residence, with home comforts and every attention. House pleasantly situated in one of the healthiest parts. Terms moderate.—Miss SEARL, or Miss HUTTEMAN, Loughtonhurst, West Cliff-gardens.

HASTINGS HYDROPATHIC ESTABLISHMENT.—Charming winter Residence. Beautifully situated. Purest air. Abundant sunshine. Turkish baths, with sea water plunge. Droitwich, Ozone and all other baths, with skilled attendants. Moderate charges.—For prospectus, apply the SECRETARY.

CHARMING, INEXPENSIVE, Seaside Residence, in unrivalled Health Resort. Three reception, five bed-rooms, garden, conservatory. Elegant artistic furniture £260, or part £160. Rent only £42. Near station.—Letters only, SIGMA, Mrs. Popkin, 23, Sackville-street, London, W.

DUSSELDORF-on-the-Rhine.—An excellent Pension de famille can be highly recommend. Comfortable home. Liberal table. German lessons. Terms, £5 a month.
Miss GAUDIAN, 16, Wyndham-place, W.

BECKENHAM, Kent.—To be Sold, a Residence with 14 rooms, besides bath-room, store-room, kitchen, and offices, and with a large garden.
B. A. HEYWOOD, Esq., Banner, Beckenham.

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA.—Select Boarding Establishment. Visitors will find this a comfortable family home for the winter. Near churches, sea, and station. Late dinner. Moderate terms.
Miss BENTLEY, 80, Warrior-square.

BOARD, or Partial Board and Residence, offered in a small private Christian family. Cheerful and musical. Convenient for City. References exchanged.—X., Weller's Library, 165, Lewisham High-road, S.E.

BUXTON, Derbyshire.—Alpine Boarding House. Winter terms, 25s. A comfortable home for those requiring change of air, or the Buxton Baths; as beneficial now as in summer.—Proprietor, Miss PALMER.

LARGE FRONT ROOM to Let, furnished as bed sitting-room, or unfurnished. No children.
9, Eccleston-road, Ealing Dean, Ealing.

A CHRISTIAN GENTLEMAN and Lady of very quiet habits (without family), are desirous to meet with any elderly Christian Gentleman or Lady to share home comforts in their villa, near Highgate. References exchanged.—A. Z., Lambert, Stationers, 118, Junction-road, Upper Holloway, N.

Y.W.C.A., Cambridge Institute, Cambridge-terrace, Holloway-road, N.—A Home is now open here for young Women in situations where sleeping accommodation is not provided. Comfortable bed and sitting-room, with home comforts, on exceptionally moderate terms.

A RETIRED PASTOR and his wife would like to meet with a Lady or Gentleman willing to share their furnished House. Terms, with or without board, on application.
FERNLEA, 8, Stamford-grove West, Upper Clapton.

A LADY RESIDING in a pleasant part of Folkestone, offers a thoroughly comfortable Home to one or two Ladies for the winter months. Terms moderate.
M. W., 76, Coolinge-road.

A LADY OFFERS a comfortable home, with board, to a Lady, or lad of 17, studying. Terms 30s. to £2 2s. a week. Board alone if preferred. References exchanged.—DELTA, Hickman, Chemist, Archer-street, Notting-hill, W.

A CHRISTIAN FARMER (meeting simply) can now take a young Gentleman to learn general Farming, or can offer a single Gentleman a comfortable and quiet country home. Christians preferred. References exchanged.
H. C., near Callington, Cornwall.

TO BE LET, furnished, a small country Residence, with walled garden, and about five acres orcharding. Coach house and stables, &c. An earnest evangelical tenant preferred.
Agent, Mr. Britten, Presteign, R.S.O.

HUTCHINSON'S PRIVATE HOTEL, 24, Guilford-street, Russell-square, the most central position for all parts of London. Extensively patronised and strongly recommended. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

MENTON.—South of France.—Pension des Oliviers, kept by M. et Madame Gervaix. Pension charge from 7 francs a day (south room), service included. Madame Gervaix speaks English well, and has been a trained sick-nurse. Reference, FRANK WARNER, Esq., The Cottage, Hoddesdon, Herts.

LATE ABODE OF FAITH.—Mrs. DALBY receives Young Ladies who are unmanageable at home; also cases of brain deficiency, not insanity.
BETHEL, 21, Norfolk-road, St. John's-wood.

A CHRISTIAN LADY, Wife of a Medical Man, would be be glad to receive delicate or invalid children, requiring motherly care combined with the advantages of a warm, genial climate.—Mrs. F. K. BELL, The Pines, Budleigh Salterton, South Devon.

DIPSOMANIA.—A successfully established private Home at the seaside for six, suffering from excess of morphia, chloral, absinthe, stimulants, or Nervous Debility. Christian care and influence. Judicious supervision and home comforts.
MEDICUS, 9, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS are again earnestly invited to write to EVANGELIST, Clapham, S.W. Rom. v. 8; 2 Cor. v. 20.

DISSOLVING VIEWS, LANTERNS, &c.—Buy of the maker, WILLIAM CATLIN, original slide producer, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London. Monthly catalogue gratis. Exhibitions (Gospel) town or country. Slides on hire, 1½d. each.

IRON CHURCHES, &c., erected at lowest possible cost, by A. CHOPPING, Derby-road, West Croydon, Surrey. Illustrated designs and estimates free.

ASTHMA.—Persons suffering from Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, &c., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.
C., Mr. G. A. Keyworth, Hastings.

CHEAP PRINTING.—Send full particulars and stamped addressed envelope, and estimate will be returned. 5,000 2 pp. tracts, 17s. 6d.; 5,000 4 pp., 30s.; 5,000 8 pp. (folded and stitched), 75s.; 10,000, £7.
W. R. KING, Crown Printing Works, Luton.

VISITING CARDS.—50 ladies' best for 1s. 6d., 100 for 2s. 3d.; 50 gents' best 1s. 3d., 100 2s. Post free. 250 tea tickets, 2s. 6d.
W. R. KING, Crown Printing Works, Luton.

THE SECOND ART NEEDLEWORK COMPETITION and Sale of Ladies' own Fancy Work is arranged to take place at I. PICKARD's in March next. The competing articles are now ready for selection. Full particulars of conditions, list of prizes to be given, &c., may be had free on application to I. PICKARD, 20, Boar-lane, Leeds.

EPILEPSY.—A Lady who has had many years' experience with the complaint, desires the charge of a young lady suffering from epilepsy. Medical references.
Z., 115, Church-road, West Brighton.

HUNDRED GLADIOLI Brenchleyensis, 50 Tulips, 50 Anemones, both choice named varieties, 50 Sparaxis, 36 double Narcissi for 9s. 6d.; half, 5s. Good imported Bulbs guaranteed.—C. SIMCOX, 158, Severn-road, Cardiff.

ANEMONES, Fifty, five varieties, including the Bride, Fulgens, French, for 2s. 6d. Gladioli, Tulips, Sparaxis, Anemones, double and single, Narcissi, eight of each for 2s.
C. SIMCOX, 158, Severn-road, Cardiff.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN AGENCY.

Personal, Household, and Business wants supplied.

LUCOCK, SPENCER & Co., Bridge Chambers, Blackfriars, London, E.C., undertake commissions of every description. Provincial, Continental, and Foreign Orders carefully attended to. House, Estate, and Investment Agents. Houses represented. Particulars on application.

Publications.

MRS. GRIMKE having now printed 50 languages, wishes to send out one million Text Cards to Missionaries this year, cost about £400, proposing to double all gifts sent by Christians, whose aid she asks. Many varieties of English (some very beautiful), F. M. sheets, tracts, quilt texts on calico, &c., always on sale.—For list, send stamped addressed envelope to Mrs. GRIMKÉ, Prestwich, Manchester.

THE "MOUNTAINS OF BREAD" Series of little Books and Leaflets, by the late Georgiana Thompson, are copyright. Profits for poor aged, suffering Christians. Are still supplied by addressing, Miss A. THOMPSON, care of Dr. Cranage, Old Hall, Wellington, Salop.

ABOUT JESUS. 100 Poems, Large Type. By WM. LUFF. Cr. 8vo. limp, 1s. ex. cloth, gilt edges, 1s. 6d.

The Way Home Series. Six 16-page little books with pink covers. By Lady HOPE. Packet of 12 assorted, 6d.

Gospel Leaves. Thirty-two 2-page Tracts. Illustrated. By CHEYNE BRADY. Packets 1 and 2 (each 100 assorted of 16 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

Words of Life. Sixteen 4-page Tracts, Illustrated. Packet of 75 assorted, 6d.

Acorn Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By Rev. A. A. RAMSEY. Packets 1 and 2 (each 50 copies assorted of 12 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

Salem Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By H. K. WOOD ("A Glasgow Merchant.") Packets 1 and 2 (each 50 assorted of 8 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

St. Mark's Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By Rev. G. EVERARD, M.A. Packet of 50 copies assorted of 12 Numbers, 6d.

With Our Cards. Seasonable Poems for enclosure with New Year Cards. By WM. LUFF. Extra satin paper. 6d. per packet.

Books with Chromo Covers, suitable for enclosure in letters.

The Master's Knock. By Rev. GEORGE EVERARD, M.A.

Consecrated Influence. By Rev. A. R. M. FINLAYSON.

Be Wise. (For the Young.) By J. F. MONCRIEFF.

Can you say "My"? By Rev. GEORGE EVERARD, M.A.

No Refuge but Jesus. By the Same.

"Bruised for our Iniquities." By Rev. H. BONAR, D.D.

Saving Faith. By Rev. A. R. M. FINLAYSON.

Inconsistency. By Rev. E. HERBER EVANS.

The above 8 Books, 32 pp., 1d. each, or 1s. per dozen.

DRUMMOND'S TRACTS DEPOT, Stirling, N.B.
London: S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co.

FLOWER MISSION and TEXT CARDS. New and convenient design. Gold blue words, green red words, crimson gold words, 1s. 9d. per 100; 500, 7s. 6d. Assorted, 100, 1s. 9d. Only of F. V. HADLON, Lithographer, Brighton.

"HOJAS EVANGELICAS."—Sixteen Spanish Tracts, illustrated. By CHEYNE BRADY. Sixpence per 100. Drummond's Tract Depôt, Stirling; S. W. Partridge & Co., London.

MUSIC FOR THE SABBATH.

ELI.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Piano.

ELI.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Harmonium.

NAAMAN.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Piano.

NAAMAN.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Harmonium.

The above 1s. 6d. nett each book.

TE DEUM in D. By FARMER, 8vo., 6d.

SELECT VOLUNTARIES.—By HENRY FARMER. A Collection of short, easy Classical (ancient and modern) Pieces. Suitable for piano, organ, or harmonium. New edition, in 12 books, 1s. 6d. nett each book. (Lists gratis.)

London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners-street, W.

Just published, Small Crown 8vo., 2s.

FISHER FOLK, by J. S. CADELL.

"Its great charm lies in the transparent faithfulness and the simple grace of language with which the story is told. There is some very fine character sketching in it."—Christian. "May be placed on the same shelf with the gems of Dr. John Brown, and lose little by comparison with the best of them."—Christian Leader.

Edinburgh: MACNIVEN & WALLACE.
London: SIMPKIN & Co., HAMILTON & Co.

GOSPEL ADDRESSES by HEYMAN WREFORD. Nos. 1 to 6 now ready, 1d. each. Delivered in Victoria Hall, Exeter, to between 2,000 and 3,000 people. The Publisher, A. GOODERE, 141, Sidwell-street, Exeter, specially commends these Addresses to Christians for free distribution at reduced rates: 7 for 6d.; 14, 1s.; 25, 1s. 9d.; 50, 3s. 3d.; 100, 6s.; 250, 14s. Postage extra.

Just Published.

"THE FOUR WARNINGS." By R. H. M. JACKMAN. London: S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co., 9, Paternoster-row. Price One Penny.

BAGSTER'S BIBLES.

Extra flexible, silk sewed, in best Bagster morocco, kid-lined, elastic band. With full helps. Prices from 20s.

In French morocco, projecting edges, elastic band. From 4s.

SAMUEL BAGSTER & SONS, LIMITED, 15, Paternoster-row London.

Terms for Advertisements.

(PREPAID.)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words	....	3	0
" 39 "	....	3	9
" 48 "	....	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

Scale for larger Advertisements sent on application.

Advertisements sent by Post must be accompanied by Post-office Order, not by Stamps, as the risk in transit is very considerable.

☞ In order to secure insertion of Advertisements in the following number of THE CHRISTIAN they should reach this office on or before Friday, and at the latest by Saturday Morning's first post.

WILL ANY ONE who intends going to N. W. I. Canada in the spring kindly take out a small packet of Seeds to a gentleman settled there?—C. B., Mrs. Walker, 28, Bedford-street, Plymouth.

MRS. BOSHER, experienced Laundress, 3, Albert-place, Starch Green-road, Shepherd's Bush, W. Large drying-ground, and a constant supply of water. Terms moderate. Horse and van in town daily.

Just Published. Price One Penny, 7s. per 100.

HOW TO FEED UPON THE WORD.

An Address to Young Christians.

BY JOHN MONRO GIBSON, D.D.

MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

ON

CONSUMPTION,

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS,

AND ALL OTHER

CHEST DISEASES.

READ

MR. CONGREVE'S NEW WORK,

SIXPENCE, POST FREE,

Or LARGE EDITION (cloth), for 1s. 3d.

TWELFTH SERIES

OF WEEKLY CASES.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "The Christian," WHO MAY BE personally or relatively INTERESTED IN THIS MATTER.

Mr. Congreve will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED BEFORE, in this Journal EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

"HOPELESS" CASE of CONFIRMED BRONCHITIS, Reported by Rev. F. J. HARSANT.

The writer is a Baptist Minister, of Clayton, Norwich. He says:—

"I am glad to tell you that through your kindness I have been enabled to be of great service to a friend here—the wife of a deacon of my Church. Her case was one of severe Bronchitis; her cough was of a most distressing character; her medical attendant gave up all hope of her recovery. Thereupon I procured for her your medicine. From the first (the great Master giving His blessing) she began to recover, and is now quite well. May you be long spared to be a blessing in the relief of suffering humanity."

LETTER from Mr. J. BIRD.

Writing me in July last, about the case of a poor neighbour, Mr. Joseph Bird says:—

"Your medicine made a complete cure in my case when all my friends thought nothing could do me any good. I often have persons apply to me for information, which I am always ready to give.—J. B., Milton Keynes, Newport Pagnall, Bucks."

NOTE.—Days of Consultation.—TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY MORNINGS ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days.

New and Enlarged Edition. Post Free, 2s. 6d.

ON PARALYSIS, LOSS OF POWER in the Muscles or Joints, Locomotor Ataxy, Epilepsy, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Neurasthenia, and obscure affections of the Brain and Spinal Cord. A Practical Treatise explaining the Causes, Treatment, and Cure of these Diseases; with Directions for Diet. By S. BERRY NIBLETT, Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians. Published by Mr. Williams, 10, Oxford-terrace, Hyde-park, London.

Tinted Covers, 4d.; Cloth, 6d.

THE ENQUIRY ROOM.

Hints for Dealing with the Anxious.

By GEORGE SOLTAU.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

"The Bitter Cry of Outcast London."
"The Housing of the Working Classes."

AN EFFECTUAL REMEDY.

MEMORIAL BUILDING SOCIETY.

The Oldest English Church Building Society.

ESTABLISHED 1881.

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

The Church of England Temperance Permanent Benefit Building Society,

Promoted by some of the Speakers at the 21st Anniversary Festival of the Church of England Temperance Society to commemorate that important event, and to provide an effectual remedy for the alleviation, without pauperization, of the Working Classes, thus aiding in providing them with their own dwelling-houses, and, at the same time, permanently consolidating the labours of the Temperance Reformer.

The terms are exceptionally reasonable—for example, £100 may be borrowed, and re-paid by instalments of from 14s. 9d. to £1 18s. 8d. per month (equivalent, in the first case, to about 3s. only per week).

Shares £25 each, payable, either in one sum, or by instalments of 5s. per month, carrying interest at £4 per cent. per annum.

Deposits of any amount (from 5s. upwards) received, and interest at £4 per cent. paid thereon.

Prospectuses on application to the Head Offices, 50, Bedford-row; or to the Solicitors, Messrs. Todd, Dennes, & Lamb, 22, Chancery-lane, London, W.C.

CHOICE SAYINGS.

Being Notes of Exposition of the Scriptures.

BY ROBERT C. CHAPMAN.

"Here we have gold dust, 'and the gold of that land is good.' We hardly know a man more noteworthy for abounding grace and deep piety than Robert C. Chapman. His name has never been sounded abroad, but those who know him value him beyond expression. Some of these brief 'Sayings' contain whole sermons. Personally, we expect to gather many discourses while studying this little book. A dew from heaven rests upon Mr. CHAPMAN's expositions."

REV. C. H. SPURGEON in The Sword and Trowel.

Tinted Covers, 9d.; Cloth Limp, 1s.; Cloth Boards, 1s. 6d.; Bevelled Boards, Gilt Edges, 2s.; Morocco, Gilt Edges, 3s.

"CHOICE SAYINGS" LEAFLETS And Small Books.

BY ROBERT C. CHAPMAN.

Extracted from "CHOICE SAYINGS."

Assorted Packets, price 9d.

Those who value the volume of Mr. Chapman's "Choice Sayings" will welcome the opportunity now afforded of having brief extracts in this cheap form, suitable for enclosing in letters or giving away.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

TONGA FOR NEURALGIA

"Invaluable in facial Neuralgia. Has proved effective in all those cases in which we have prescribed it."—Medical Press.

"Tonga maintains its reputation in the treatment of Neuralgia."—Lancet.

Tonga is sold at 2s. 9d. 4s. 6d. and 11s. Of all Chemists.

ALLEN & HANBURYS

PLOUGH COURT,
LOMBARD ST., LONDON.

NEW PAPER FOR SUNDAY READING.

SUNDAY WORDS. Now Ready.

SUNDAY WORDS. ONE PENNY.

SUNDAY WORDS. Will be published EVERY THURSDAY.

26, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

A Specimen Copy of No. 1 will be sent post free on application by post-card.

Tinted Covers, 6d.; Cloth Covers, 1s.

SPIRITUAL POWER FOR MISSIONARY WORK,

By REV. GRIFFITH JOHN,

Missionary to China.

With Preface by Rev. HENRY SIMON, of Westminster Chapel.

"If any one wants to have his soul stirred within him for his work at home, let him read 'Spiritual Power for Missionary Work.'"—Lay Preacher.

"This is an eloquent discourse upon the need of the Holy Spirit's influence in work for Christ; and is followed by a powerful plea for increased help to the missionary cause."—The Baptist.

"Let missionary students read this short essay; and let its reasoning be laid to heart by those also who have to work at home. If the Churches were baptized with the missionary spirit, how rapidly the Gospel would now spread in the world!"—Methodist.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

AN ATTRACTIVE WEDDING GIFT.

Marriage and Home.

A Volume of Kindly Counsels to the Newly-Married.

Beautifully bound in White and Gold, 2s. 6d.

"One of the daintiest little volumes we have seen for a long time; done up in white, crimson, and gold, most tastefully printed, and full of wise counsel and Christian teaching."—Freeman.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WRIGHT & BUTLER'S LIMITED.

PATENT

OIL HEATING STOVES

13 YEARS CONTINUOUS AND INCREASING SALE

ABSOLUTELY WITHOUT SMOKE OR SMELL. THEY ARE FREE FROM DIRT AND ARE MANAGED WITH THE LEAST POSSIBLE TROUBLE. THEY ARE PERFECTLY PORTABLE. CAN BE MOVED FROM ONE ROOM TO ANOTHER THEY GIVE OFF NO VAPOUR INJURIOUS TO EITHER VEGETABLE OR ANIMAL LIFE. THEY ARE THE BEST DESIGNED, MOST SUBSTANTIAL AND THOROUGHLY EFFICIENT AND ECONOMICAL OIL STOVES MADE CAN BE HAD AT PRICES RANGING FROM 3/9 TO 7 POUNDS

INVALUABLE FOR HEATING GREENHOUSES BEDROOMS ETC

PARTICULARS AND PRICE LISTS FROM ANY IRONMONGER OR LAMP DEALER

ANNUAL SALE OF OVER HALF A MILLION.

MC CALL'S

PAYSANDU OX TONGUES.

A DELICACY FOR BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, OR SUPPER.

TO BE HAD AT ALL GROCERS.

SUCCESS IN THE TREATMENT OF CHRONIC DISEASES.

How very few of the so-called incurable diseases are actually incurable! The proportion is, without doubt, considerably less than is popularly supposed. Diseases which have been induced by an abnormal condition of the nervous system are rarely eradicated by medical compounds—together or separate—for numbers in all parts of the world are constantly uttering the complaint, "We have suffered many things of many physicians, and spent all and are nothing better, but rather worse," and their cry creates occasion for melancholy reflection on the medical science of the age. However, that which medicine is powerless to effect the unseen and unfelt influence of Magneto-Electric force accomplishes; aiding the restorative powers towards an equilibrium or harmony of the physical economy. It acts upon the involuntary organs just as it acts throughout all nature, silently and imperceptibly, so that we are unconscious of its action except from its effects. Being one of the most natural as well as one of the most subtle energies known, it supplies to the system the safest and most effective form of Electricity. It is calculated to neutralise the secret causes of our unrest, to soothe the excitability of the brain, allow nerve matter to contract, and thus repair the deficiency arising from the wear and tear of daily life, in this way counteracting the tendency to more serious derangements of the nervous system.

From Mr. W. HARDING, Prospect-terrace, Chesham, Bucks.

January 4, 1885.

"I have been thinking of writing to you for a long time, with reference to the result of your treatment of my case. The benefit I have derived from it has astonished me, although when I commenced it I did so with a firm conviction in my mind that it was hopeless to expect any relief, and without any confidence in the remedy to help me. However, I followed your instructions, and speedily found more advantage in doing so, than I had found from anything else I had tried during all the 15 years I had been suffering. I feel very grateful for your help, and can assure you that I shall always have the greatest faith in your treatment, and shall not fail to speak in its favour to all sufferers as I have opportunity."

Having spent many years of patient, laborious, and continued study in adapting his treatment to some of the most obscure and intractable affections, Mr. Garratt now claims, as the result of his professional career, to have attained a success unparalleled in the healing art. Those who desire further information on his method of treatment should peruse his essays, explaining the radical effect of Magnetism upon the human organism in health and disease. It is Mr. Garratt's careful study to adapt the remedy to the requirements of each case—a practice based upon the principles laid down in his published essays, which can be obtained post free on application. He will always be happy to confer with any scientific or medical gentleman, either personally or by letter, upon any phase of the subject, or any case for treatment, and will send a private list of 950 names as referees to any address.—B. Copson Garratt, Medical Electrician, 16, Finsbury-square, London, E C.

THE WHITE CROSS SERIES.

FOR MEN ONLY. 1d. each.

1. An ADDRESS to the MEMBERS of the WHITE CROSS ARMY. By the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of DURHAM.

By ELLICE HOPKINS.

2. The WHITE CROSS ARMY: A Statement of the Bishop of Durham's Movement.

By J. E. H.

3. Per ANGUSTA ad AUGUSTA.
4. TRUE MANLINESS.

By ELLICE HOPKINS.

5. MAN and WOMAN; or, The Christian Ideal.

By J. E. H.

6. WILD OATS, or ACORNS?

By ELLICE HOPKINS.

7. The RIDE of DEATH.
8. The BLACK ANCHOR.
9. The BRITISH ZULU.
10. GOD'S GREAT GIFT of SPEECH ABUSED.
11. WHAT CAN WE DO?
12. LITTLE KINDNESSES.
13. The CROCODILE and the LITTLE BIRDS.
14. ENGLAND'S LAW for WOMEN and CHILDREN.
15. The MAN with the DRAWN SWORD.

By the Rev. GEORGE EVERARD.

17. A STRANGE COMPANION.

By ELLICE HOPKINS.

18. DAMAGED PEARLS.

Fifty or more copies assorted at half price direct from the Publishers.

16. LETTERS to a SON PREPARATORY to SCHOOL LIFE. By F. B. MONEY COUTTS, M.A., LL.M. Price 2d.

Fifty or more copies at half price direct from the Publishers.

LEAFLETS.

1. The TEMPLE of the ETERNAL. By J. E. H. 4d. per doz.; 2s. per 100.
2. The DEVIL'S CHAIN. By ELLICE HOPKINS. 4d. per doz.; 2s. per 100.
3. SAVED by FIRE. By ELLICE HOPKINS. 4d. per doz.; 2s. per 100.
4. The CRACKED COIN. By ELLICE HOPKINS. 2d. per doz.: 1s. per 100.
5. An ADDRESS to MEMBERS of the WHITE CROSS ARMY. By the Bishop of DURHAM. 4d. per doz.; 2s. per 100.

Over 250,000 of the above Series have been sold.

HATCHARDS, 187, Piccadilly, London.

JUST PUBLISHED.

Two Small Books suitable for the New Year.

By REV. W. HASLAM, M.A.

PEACE, BLESSING, AND POWER.

32 pages, Crown 16mo. Price One Penny.

"Peace we shall have if we will cease from self-effort! Blessing, if we will fall in with God's will! and Power, if we will let the Lord use us for His own purpose, and for His glory!"—Extract.

A PERSONAL CHRIST.

32 pages, Crown 16mo. Price One Penny.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Pocket size. In Neat Wrapper, 2d. In Cloth, 6d.

THE COMING OF THE LORD.

AN ADDRESS BY

Rev. NEWMAN HALL, LL.B.

"Only a small essay on this most glorious theme, but we welcome it from the pen of our brother, who has kept his thoughts largely to Scripture, letting the Word of God attest its own truth. It might most profitably be circulated."—Footsteps of Truth.

"A little treatise on the Second Advent, showing the mistakes in the popular mind respecting it, and what should be the action of professing Christians in looking and preparing for it."—Christian World.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Gospel Text Motto, 1885.

God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He that hath the Son hath life.

1 John v. 11, 12.

On Beautiful Floral Card, 6 in. by 4 in. Price One Penny, or Six Shillings the Hundred.

London: John G. Wheeler, 88, Mildmay-park, N.

HODDER & STOUGHTON'S LIST.

A SECOND EDITION is Now Ready of

THE EXPOSITOR FOR JANUARY, commencing a New Series. A capital opportunity for New Subscribers. Price 1s. monthly, post free. The January number contains articles by the Right Rev. J. B. Lightfoot, D.D., D.C.L., Lord Bishop of Durham, Alexander MacLaren, D.D., Marcus Dods, D.D., Professor Henry Drummond, Edmund Gofse, and Professor H. L. Strack, of Berlin.

FULNESS OF JOY IN THE TRUE KNOWLEDGE OF THE WILL OF GOD. With a Preface by the Rev. CHARLES A. FOX, Incumbent of Eaton Chapel. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

THE NATION'S VICE: the Claims of Temperance on the Christian Church. By R. B. Grindrod, M.D., Author of "Bacchus." Crown 8vo., 5s.

"A thoroughly substantial and exceedingly useful book. Almost every phase of the argument is effectively dealt with by Dr. Grindrod."

Temperance Record.

REV. A. B. MACKAY'S NEW WORK.

THE CONQUEST OF CANAAN: Lectures on the First Twelve Chapters of the Book of Joshua. By Rev. A. B. Mackay, of Montreal. 7s. 6d.

"Pleasant and profitable reading. His style is crisp and vivid, he has ample command of illustrations, and every lecture is warm with evangelical fervour."

Sunday School Chronicle.

PROF. DRUMMOND'S NATURAL LAW IN THE SPIRITUAL WORLD. Thirty-fourth thousand, 7s. 6d.

THE JOY OF THE MINISTRY: An Endeavour to Increase the Efficiency and Deepen the Happiness of Pastoral Work. By the Rev. Canon F. R. Wynne, M.A., of Dublin. Crown 8vo., 3s. 6d.

THE CLERICAL LIBRARY.—New Vol.

EXPOSITORY SERMONS and OUTLINES on the OLD TESTAMENT. Crown 8vo., 6s.

THE MYSTERIES OF GOD. A Series of Expositions of Holy Scripture. By Philip Henry Gosse, F.R.S. Crown 8vo., 3s. 6d.

The Revival of Sorcery.

New Edition. Crown 8vo., 7s. 6d.

EARTH'S EARLIEST AGES, and their connection with MODERN SPIRITUALISM AND THEOSOPHY. By G. H. Pember, M.A.

"The 220 pages on Spiritualism and the modern movement of an occult Theosophy are very remarkable and startling."—Christian.

BOOKS FOR YOUNG MEN BEGINNING LIFE.

TALKS WITH YOUNG MEN. By J. Thain Davidson, D.D. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"Fine manly advice, full of grace and truth. Enlivened by story and proverb, fresh with sympathy, and on fire with zeal."—Sword and Trowel.

OUR BROTHERS and SONS. By Mrs. G. S. Reaney, Author of "Our Daughters," &c. New Edition. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"One of her best books, written in excellent English, and with a racy, earnest pen."—Evangelical Magazine.

GUIDES AND GUARDS IN CHARACTER BUILDING. By C. H. Payne, D.D., LL.D. Handsomely bound, 5s.

"Admirably done. A capital book to put into a young man's hand."—British Quarterly Review.

TACT, PUSH, AND PRINCIPLE. By W. M. Thayer, Author of "Log Cabin to White House." Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"Will stimulate many a young man to steady and determined exertion."—Daily Telegraph.

LIFE, FUNCTION, HEALTH: Studies for Young Men. By H. Sinclair Paterson, M.D. Complete in one Vol., pp. 600, 3s. 6d.

"Dr. Paterson's excellent book might be studied with profit and advantage by every young man in the kingdom."—Knowledge.

A YOUNG MAN'S SAFEGUARD IN THE PERILS OF THE AGE. By W. Guest, F.G.S. Thirteenth Thousand. Handsomely bound, 2s. 6d.

Sir Wm. M'Arthur says:—"I have circulated many of your 'Safeguards.' I know no book like it for young men."

Mr. Spurgeon: "It has rarely been our lot to read a book which we have so much enjoyed, and could so unhesitatingly recommend."

CAPITAL FOR WORKING BOYS. Chapters on Character Building. By J. E. M'Conaughy. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"The amount of good solid advice crowded into this handsome volume and interspersed with illustrative living examples is simply wonderful."—Christian.

THE JUNIOR CLERK. A Tale of City Life. By Edwin Hodder. 14th Edition. Handsomely bound, 2s. 6d.

"An excellent little book to place in the hands of young lads just entering into the world."—Spectator.

London: Hodder & Stoughton, 27, Paternoster-row.

The Christian.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER.

THIS hallowed season has again come and gone, and it is a cause for deepest thankfulness that, so far as London is concerned, the meetings have been specially full of vitality and force. It is too early to speak of the provinces, or of the more distant centres where the people of God have gathered together in unison with the movement; but, judging from the response made beforehand to the appeal of the Evangelical Alliance, and the information at present received, there is reason to believe that never before has the tide of supplication risen higher in the Christian Church than it has this year. The London meetings have been numerously attended, and fairly representative of the several branches of the one Church. Both at Steinway Hall in the West and at Bishopsgate-street in the East the daily services have been thronged, and leading ministers and workers of all denominations have taken part. The addresses have not in all cases been to the point; indeed on some days scarcely an allusion has been made to the subjects before the meeting. This is to be regretted, inasmuch as disappointment is thereby caused to many, and opportunities not to be regained have been lost to the claims represented. But in most cases, as our special reports will show, the speakers have been in full sympathy with the purport of the arrangements made, and stirring words have fallen upon expectant hearts. Mildmay Park Conference Hall, Eccleston Hall, Exeter Hall, and other places of concourse, have been open through the week, in addition to those mentioned above. One noteworthy feature of the meetings we have attended has been the preponderance of men in the audiences; this has on some occasions been very marked. The spirit of fervour and devotion has graciously taken possession of the assemblies, so that reality and directness have eminently characterised most of the prayers presented.

We may glance at some of the features which have marked the week, and which cannot but yield their further fruit in days to come.

Renewed testimony has been given to the unity of the Church of Christ. In days when so many sects and parties, with their rival claims, are seen and heard of, this is of no slight importance. The world has been shown once more that, notwithstanding all appearances to the contrary, the Lord's people are one; when common cause is presented to view, they can be drawn to one centre, and find at the throne of grace a common bond of sympathy and link of fellowship.

As a consequence of this, many hearts aforetime sundered or unknown to each other have been brought together in brotherly love and mutual concord; in many a town and village it will be found that Christian friendships have been formed and cemented in connection with the united services held. Workers toiling in separate spheres, and in connection with diverse sections of the Church, have been brought together and caused to rejoice in finding that where it may be one has failed, another has succeeded, where one has sown, another has reaped, and that the blessing of God on his servants and their work has been far richer than they had supposed.

God's promises, too, have been afresh laid hold of, and Himself reminded of his word. He loves to be put in remembrance by his people, to have them at his feet pleading with Him, and confiding in the assurances of his grace. Wondrous are the words of the prophet to this effect: "Ye that are the Lord's remembrancers keep not silence, and give Him no rest till He establish, and till He make Jerusalem a praise in the earth." One of the charges brought by the Lord against his people is, "Thou hast not called upon Me, O Jacob." Our heavenly Father delights in giving; hence He would have us always asking. The opening of the year has witnessed many thousands of requests poured into the Divine ear, and that in faith on his own sure promises.

Much light has been thrown upon the Word of Truth, and on the duty of the Church to diligently publish that Word in distant lands. The meetings at the Centenary Hall on Friday will be long remembered by those who were present, in relation to this latter point. Solemn, indeed, is the responsibility of Christians in reference to the eight hundred millions of heathen among whom, or within reach of whom, they dwell. Mr. Guinness laid this upon the heart and conscience with a pathos not easily to be forgotten. Mr. Studd's few words of exhortation to believers to become "pilgrims and strangers" for Christ's sake in very deed, must have left an ineffaceable mark on many minds. So elsewhere; it cannot but be that the Church at home has been anew aroused to seek the evangelisation of the world abroad.

The intercessory power of Christ has again been especially invoked, and so assuredly made to prevail. Once let the arms of the Church be outstretched in prayer, and that right hand of the Lord which doeth valiantly shall be outstretched in saving power. A guilty world and a lukewarm Church alike cry out for God's just displeasure to be shown, and the dread sentence, "Cut it down; why cumbereth it the ground?" may well have been pronounced on Gentile faithlessness, as it was of yore on Jewish fruitlessness. But the prayers of the faithful have gone up, and the Mediator of the New Covenant will not fail to plead, "Let it alone this year also," and so his favour shall yet be shown, and fresh wonders of grace be performed.

It is essential that we watch as well as pray; labour, fight, and toil, as well as call upon God. Strengthened and encouraged by the power of prayer, let all who have rejoiced in unison with their fellow-suppliants go forth "strong in the Lord and in the power of his might." Then, while Satan rages, and while sin grows bold, we shall see all through the year that the Lord is with us, and his power shall be still more magnified in the victories won by faith and prayer over all the power of the enemy.

The following programme of subjects for the week, as prepared by the Evangelical Alliance, may be of service to our readers in their perusal of the addresses:—

MONDAY, JANUARY 5.

Praise and Thanksgiving.—For the long-suffering love and faithfulness of God; for his many answers to prayer graciously vouchsafed during the past year; the gifts of his Fatherly goodness and mercy; the general preservation of peace; for the opening of all countries to the Gospel, and for the power of the Holy Spirit in its publication; also for the blessing which attended the recent International Conference at Copenhagen.—Psalm lxxxix. 1 to 29; Psalm cvii.; Isa. lxi.; Acts xiii. 26 to 28; Psalm lxvii.: Psalm cxxxiii.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 6.

Humiliation and Confession.—On account of national sins and the increase of lawlessness; the non-recognition of God's judgments in public calamities; unfaithfulness to God and his truth; for personal transgressions; the growth of infidelity and superstition; desecration of the Lord's Day; with prayer that the Holy Spirit may convince of sin and lead men to repentance.—Dan. ix. 3 to 19; Isa. lvii.; Hosea xiv.; Psalm li.; Luke xiii. 1 to 9, and 24 to 36; Rev. iii. 14 to 22; 1 Cor. iii.; Deut. xxx.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 7.

Prayer for the Church of Christ.—That all believers may be filled with the Holy Spirit; that the unity of the Church of Christ may be manifested, and brotherly love increase; that the Churches may more deeply realise their responsibility in regard to increased evangelistic work among the masses; and that the Lord's coming may be more earnestly looked for. That all pastors, evangelists, teachers, and workers may become fervent in spirit, diligent in their ministry, and faithful in preaching Jesus Christ and Him crucified; for Sunday-schools; and for the better observance of the Lord's Day.—Eph. iii. 13 to 21; John xiv. 15 to 27; 1 Thess. chap. v.; 1 Cor. chap. iv.; 1 John iii. 16 to 24; John xvii. 24 to 26; John xx. 19 to 29; 1 Cor. ii. 1 to 8.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 8.

Prayer for Families and Instructors of Youth.—That God's goodness and mercy may not be withdrawn, and that the Word of God may run and be glorified; that Christian parents may more fully recognise the obligation to train up their children in the fear of God; that young people may be saved from intemperance, immorality, and other sins; for universities, schools, professors, teachers, and students for the ministry.—Matt. v. 1 to 26; Micah vi. 1 to 8; Malachi chap. iii.; Prov. xxiii. 12 to 26; Eph. vi. 1 to 18; Prov. ix. 1 to 18; Deut. vi. 1 to 15; Prov. viii. 12 to 36; Prov. xxii. 1 to 11.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 9.

For the Nations.—For Rulers and Governments and all in authority; for the prevention of war; that all laws which favour vice and cruelty may be removed; that wicked men and their conspiracies may be confounded, and loyalty and good citizenship prevail; for soldiers and sailors; for the removal of the opium traffic, intemperance, and the social evil; and for the suppression of all that is impure in art or literature.—Isa. xl. 9 to 31; 1 Tim. ii. 1 to 8; Eccl. viii.; Psalm cxlvi.; Prov. xxiv. 15 to 25; Isa. chap. xxxii.; Psalm lxviii. 1 to 21; 2 Chron. xxix. 10 to 20.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 10.

For Missions (Home and Foreign).—For the outpouring of the Holy Spirit and the spread of the Gospel in all lands; for more labourers to be sent forth endued with power from on high; for Native Christians, that they may be established in the faith, and become more earnest in seeking the salvation of their countrymen; for all missionaries; for God's ancient people Israel, and the conversion of many to the faith of Christ; for increased blessing to attend the circulation of the Scriptures, and the religious training of the young in Missionary schools and colleges.—Joel ii. 23 to 32; John vii. 37 to 40; Jer. xxxiii. 7 to 26; Zephaniah iii. 16 to 20; Rom. xi. 13 to 36; Acts x. 34 to 48, and xi. 16 to 18; Isa. lv.: Matt. ix. 35 to 38: 1 Thess. ii.

DOING BUSINESS FOR CHRIST.

By Rev. JOHN PEARCE CLARK, Leith.

WANTED.—Men and women determined to do business for Jesus Christ alone.

How much they are wanted let each reader consider. Is it not chiefly because these are not sufficiently numerous that labour wages perpetual and desolating war with capital, that the rich and poor are alienated, that city slums fester in loathsome putrescence, that the Church of the living God makes such slow progress, and that the great mass of the artisans of our land are either indifferent or hostile to the name and kingdom of our glorious Redeemer?

Are we not obliged to own that the average Christian business man does not do business for Jesus Christ alone? It would be a mere figure of speech, if it were not empty cant, to say that his business is actually administered by the King Himself, while He is only an agent or steward, left in charge to carry out his will. Question him closely enough and he will own at last:

"Yes, I do go into business to make money. I feel that, as a Christian, I must be careful not to make it dishonestly, nor must I set my heart upon it too much, nor must I refrain from giving a portion of my profits to the cause of God; but if you press me, I must own that while in business my aim is very much to make money, always, of course, within the limits I have mentioned."

"That is to say," I reply, "your aim is practically the same as that of the worldly man, only that you follow it with certain limitations, and in a better spirit, as one should whose best treasure is in the next world."

"Exactly."

"Then what do you make of the command, 'Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness'?"

"I have always read that as applying to sinners coming to Christ for the first time."

"Does it not belong to every believer? Is it not a fundamental law of the kingdom given for all time? Besides, if, on our first coming to Jesus, we are constrained and obliged to whole-hearted surrender, how much more should we be constrained to maintain this surrender, unblemished and entire, by the goodness and mercy He continues to shower upon us?"

"But do you really take this command literally? Am I to go to the city day by day, and buy and sell there simply and only for Jesus Christ and his kingdom?"

"How else can you take it, if not literally?"

"I must agree with you: there is no other way. It is plainly the duty of every subject of Christ's kingdom to live always only for his King, in most literal and absolute superiority to every worldly end. But what about my wife and family? They must live, and how can I put care for them in the second place?"

"You cannot," I reply. "It is impossible, except by faith. Walking by faith alone, the problem, insoluble to worldly wisdom, is easily solved; for to the obedient believer it is enough that the promise is given: 'All these things shall be added unto you.'"

"But," urges my friend, "will not such teaching take the life out of business, and produce a race of weak-minded, easy-going merchants, who are so occupied with Christian work that they let their own proper business slide? will it not multiply bankruptcies within the Church to her great disgrace and sorrow?"

"If that be so," I answer, "then the strongest moral force known to man—the love of Christ— makes men 'weak.' As to being pre-occupied with Christian work, that is an entire mistake, seeing that to such a man business is itself Christian work; work to be done as prayerfully and thoroughly as the making of a sermon or the conduct of an evangelistic meeting. He feels as much bound to do everything unto Jesus Christ as though he were a minister or missionary. If such a man—other things being equal—is not shrewder, more manly, and more trustworthy than any mere worldling can possibly be, then the love of Christ is not the strongest moral force known to man."

"But business is simply impossible on such a principle."

"If you really believe that," I reply, "you, as a Christian man, must leave business immediately, seeing it is the first duty of a true Christian to live the prayer, 'Thy kingdom come.' But, on the ground of the assurance that 'all these things shall be added,' I dare to assert that it is, and must be, possible to conduct business in this way. I go even further, and say that not until the average Christian merchant rises to this level of commercial life will the world be won for Christ. Covetousness, both the offspring and parent of unbelief, is hindering the Gospel even more than drunkenness, and covetousness will not die till men learn to acknowledge Christ in all their ways."

Wanted—men and women determined to do business for Jesus Christ alone. Say, Christian brother or sister, now reading this appeal, say, as you read it in the King's presence, will you make one of that holy band?

◆

THE LATE MISS MINCHIN.

ANOTHER faithful standard-bearer has been called out of the conflict into the presence of the King! Who is coming forward to take up the banner of which her hands have relinquished the grasp? I believe many of your readers will remember the going forth of the little missionary band at the end of last February, in connection with the China Inland Mission. Many heard in one place and another their bright testimony at the farewell meetings.

My dearly loved sister, Miss Minchin, though she had passed middle age, was spoken of in your columns as having still the energies of one in her teens. Yes! it seemed as if there were years of blessed service before her, if the Lord's coming were delayed so long. But the Lord's ways are not our ways, and at the close of seven months' stay in China, his loving call came. As one by her side wrote, "She sweetly passed from death into life."

I think many of your readers will like a short account of her from the time of her leaving England. May these lines stir up others, as gifted and devoted as herself, to come forward and help in the work so dear to her heart. In labours abundant she was owned of the Lord on the voyage; souls were converted, backsliders restored, Christians cheered and stimulated by her bright faith and ringing joyous words. Readings two or three times a day with the young missionaries greatly helped them on; they called her Mother. Two soldiers left the steamer in Egypt, having to join the army in the field; both were deeply impressed, and of one she had good hopes. The Testaments she gave they promised to read daily, putting them in their breast pockets. Richly did she enjoy landing at the ports, with their wealth of tropical foliage, or deeply interesting surroundings; but what thrilled her heart was the meeting with the Lord's labourers, Miss Waldegrave and several Christian friends at Malta, Mrs. Prinsep at Port Said, Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald at Penang, and Mr. and Mrs. Grant and their family and Miss Cook at Singapore. "Oh for more to go forth for Jesus!" "What open fields!" "The Lord send many more forth," were the utterances of her heart.

Landed in China she gave herself to the study of the language, visiting the ships as she had opportunity, and having Bible-classes for the sailors. Souls were born to God, three at the first Bible-class. Early in July she was settled in the new mission-house, and began her two branches of work on the same day, receiving the sailors and four young missionaries from England on the 10th of that month. Her close walk with Christ and her genial happy nature peculiarly fitted her for her position. Sick ones were cheered and tenderly cared for, young ones were encouraged to press forward, the tempted among the sailors found a shelter. At their times of general leave she had open house for them all day. There were meetings every night, when the Word of God was their portion, and joyous hymns expressed their gladness. Solemn times of prayer those were, too, when one and another yielded themselves to the Lord and joined themselves to the happy band.

In the Mission-house she had also a blessed sphere of service. She made a home for all whom she received, refreshing weary ones who needed rest, and cheering those who arrived from England and might feel themselves as strangers in a strange land.

All this time she was making progress with the language, and her heart yearned to tell Chinese women of the Saviour who would free them from sin and its power, as well as from the wrath to come. She keenly felt the state of the heathen around, writing home that it was far worse than she had expected. She thanked God that He was sending forth so many to tell of his dear Son, only praying that He would send numbers more.

Did she regret that she had left all whom she loved behind, and wish herself back among friends and converts in England? Never. The parting had been no light one to her, with numbers of friends in every rank in England, whose love she returned with the warmth of a strong affection, and who were, very many of them, her children in the faith. What it was to part with her own family, some of them earnestly beseeching her not to leave England, was a trial fully known only by her God. But the Lord who had given his life for her was worthy of every sacrifice, and He who has promised a hundredfold in this present life to all who forsake everything for Him can never break his word.

She wrote on October 3 of a friend and fellow-worker coming to England. "Though I envy him seeing my dear friends at home, I am quite happy in my work here, and feel more and more that I am where the Lord would have me." On October 14, writing of the disturbed state of the country, with the war between France and China, and praying for those in the interior, she adds, "I have never had a qualm, and feel as settled and at home in Shanghai as if I had lived here for years." On November 5 she writes, "Oh, the Lord has been so good, so gracious. He gives me so many blessings, and such a sense of his loving care and mercy."

On November 1 she got a chill; dysentery came on, and in ten short days that bright, loving heart had finished with earth, and she passed into the presence of her Lord. In our deep grief, and through our tears, we can say, Had He not a right to call his faithful labourer to his bosom, and shall we not rejoice that she was called to China on her way into his presence?

Hamslade, Beds. Marian Minchin.

For the Young.

ABOUT MISSIONS ON THE CONGO.

Dear Young Friends,—I dare say many of you know something about the great river Congo that flows from quite the middle of Africa. Perhaps you have heard of the Missions that are carrying the glad tidings of our Lord Jesus Christ to the thousands of men and women who live all along by the river. Do you know, I wonder, that these men and women and children are all black?

Not long ago I spent an evening with a missionary who has lived and worked for several years on the banks of that great river Congo. When I saw him he had been staying for more than a year in England, that he might get strong again, and go back to the work in Africa that he loves so much; for hot Africa often makes English people tired and ill. This missionary and his companions were to set out on their long voyage, and journey back again to Africa, on the day next but one after I saw them.

The missionary told me some things that had happened in his work in Africa. One little history that he told me I am sure you will like to hear. When a missionary goes to Africa, he has to build himself a house of wood in some place where a chief has told him he may do so, and then put up other buildings, and a schoolhouse and garden round about it; all this is called a "station." At one of Mr. C——'s stations they have a school with fifty or sixty black boys in it. These black boys must live always with the missionaries. If, when school time is over, they went back to the houses of their heathen parents every day, all the good work of the missionaries would be undone. One day there was brought to the home of the missionary quite a tiny black boy, only about five or six years old. This little boy was very dirty indeed; so dirty, that the missionary said to one of the boys of the station: "Take him down to the river and wash him." Away they went together, and presently came back again.

"But he isn't clean," said Mr. C——. "You must take him back and wash him again." Away they went the second time, and presently they came back again.

"But he is not nearly clean now," said Mr. C——. Then the boy who had had him to wash said: "Him so much dirty; him no come clean all one day; him want two, three days." Mr. C——, in telling us the history, said: "Then I took him myself, and soaped him all over, and made a lather and washed him well. And when he was all clean and dry, and I had put his little clean shirt or wrapper on him, he did look so different, and such a nice little boy, I kissed him."

When the missionary came back to England on the long visit I have told you of, he brought two African boys with him called "Theo" and "Tom." They were about thirteen years old. Theo was with Mr. C—— when I saw him, and was going back with him to Africa. This boy was quite black, with thick short hair curling quite close all over his head, like short stiff black wool. He behaved himself at the tea-table, and afterwards in the drawing-room, in a way that would have been a very good example to many a white English boy. As we passed through the hall after tea to go into the drawing-room there was a large paper parcel on one of the chairs, directed for "Theo." He took it with him into the drawing-room and opened it with just as much pleasure as any of you would if it had been for you. Inside he found a very nice new writing desk that a lady had kindly sent him for a present.

"Will he care about having it?" I asked Mr. C——. "Indeed he will," said Mr. C——. "When he gets back to Africa we do not want him to be like the other boys who will be all round about him. We want them to look up to him, and we want him to lead and teach them to be good. He must have his own room and his own things."

Some time before the evening I am telling you about, the two boys, Theo and Tom, were among a number of other boys, who were very rude to them, and pushed them about. Mr. C—— saw Tom lift his foot to kick one of those rude boys. He said nothing to him then, but later in the day he talked to Tom about it, and said, "You know, if you are going to be a Christian you must not do such things as that. God will not be pleased. I think you had better go into your room and tell God all about it, and ask Him to forgive you."

After a while Mr. C—— saw Tom again and said, "Well, Tom! Have you told God all about it, and asked Him to forgive you?"

"Yes," said Tom.

"And has He forgiven you?" Mr. C—— asked.

"Yes," said Tom, "He has."

"How do you know He has?" asked Mr. C—— again.

Tom looked into the missionary's face, and said, "White man, you told me the Bible says, 'If we confess our sins He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins.'"

Black Tom could do what the Bible says we ought all to be able to do: "Give a reason for the hope that is in us."

I did not see Tom. Before they came to the town where I live Tom went to be with Jesus in "the better land." He was ill in the spring of last year, and was taken suddenly much worse. Mr. C—— was telegraphed for to come to him at once. The lady with whom the boy was staying said to him, "Tom, if you should be gone before Mr. C—— comes, what am I to tell him?"

Tom said, "Tell him I am gone to heaven. Tell him I am gone to be with Jesus."

Then the lady said, "But why? You know you have not always been a good boy."

"No," said Tom, "but 'the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sin.'"

And I think before Mr. C—— reached the place where he was, Tom was gone.

So, you see, though Africans have black skins they have minds ready to be taught, and souls to be saved too. That these things may be done many people in England give money to send out missionaries to teach them. And some people give what is far dearer to them than any money—they give their dearly-loved sons and daughters, to go to Africa to be missionaries there; and those missionaries often have to give their lives in the service of God in Africa. I was talking with Mr. C—— about one whom we both knew—one who had done this. He was the leader of all the company of missionaries of whom Mr. C—— was one. He and Mr. C—— went out to Africa together, and they worked very hard together until towards the end of 1881. Then the leader took very ill, and must have rest. He started in a steamer from Africa, and thought he was coming to his mother in his old home in England: but when he had come as far as the beautiful island of Madeira, God's messenger came for him, to take him home to heaven, where he would meet his father who had gone there from England only one year before. When word was sent to him out in Africa of his father's death, he wrote home, and in the letter he said, "Take care of father's 'old arm-chair,' I shall want it." But he did not even see "the old arm-chair" again; he went to be with his dear father instead.

I told Mr. C—— about the funeral of that young missionary, as Mr. C—— had been left behind in Africa when their leader came away, and could not, of course, be present at the funeral. The body of the young missionary was brought from Madeira to be buried in his native town in England. It was a scene never to be forgotten. The coffin, which had been brought all those hundreds of miles across the sea, was placed just in front of the pulpit, from which he and his father had so often heard the Word of God. It was quite covered with beautiful wreaths of lovely white flowers. A large number of people were gathered together that winter morning; among them his widowed mother, the young lady to whom he was to have been married, thirty ministers, and the mayor of the town; and noticeable among them all were two youths whose dark colour told that they were from the Africa he had died for. But we knew that the young missionary himself was not there—he was gone to be with Christ.

When I had finished telling Mr. C—— about it, he said, "Yes. And Adam McCall (their leader) was worthy of it all. I can but wish, for our sakes, that he was going out with us now."

But Adam McCall's Lord and Master thought he was "worthy" of something more blessed than even to go back to Africa in his service. So that Master had said to him, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord," and took him to be with Himself, "which is far better." L.

BIBLE ACROSTIC.

The initials form the name of the distinguished son of an eminently godly parent.

(1) A man whose renown in arms procured him a goodly heritage.

(2) A faithful servant who prayed for guidance and received a definite answer.

(3) One carefully instructed in the truth, to whom two treatises were addressed.

(4) One whose greatest achievement brought on him the curse of God.

(5) A prophet whose flight did not prevent his martyrdom.

(6) One whose wise counsel encouraged a leader in Israel to more active zeal for God.

(7) A stone landmark mentioned in the history of David.

(8) A place famous in the career of Samson.

(9) A king's messenger who was stoned to death.

(10.) A Midianite who at first rejected, but afterwards accepted, an invitation by his son-in-law. L. K.

ANSWER TO LAST ACROSTIC.

Tirhakah.—2 Kings xix. 9.

(1)	Topaz	Ex. xxviii. 17.
(2)	Ishbosheth	2 Sam. xi. 8.
(3)	Remphan	Acts vii. 43.
(4)	Hemloch	Hosea x. 4.
(5)	Achaia	Acts xviii. 12.
(6)	Keilah	Jos. xv. 44.
(7)	Achish	1 Sam. xxi. 10.
(8)	Hornet	Ex. xxiii. 28.

Answers received from M.S. N.H.H. R.W.H. M.L.V. H.C. J.T. M.K.B.

Additional answers to acrostic—Simeon—received from M.F.P. E.P. H.A. E.A.F. E.J.M.S. F.D. H.W.M. N.S. A.K.C. M. and L. M.K.B. C.S. E.M. A.B. M.F.F. C.McR. S.P.A. T.R. H.S. E.E.M. S.J.K. A.M.C. W.B.C. R.C. A.C.J. H.R. R.A.S. W.E.W. C.C.M.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for the ensuing week:—Jan. 18, Psalms xviii. 1—15; Jan. 19, xviii. 16—30; Jan. 20, xviii. 31—50; Jan. 21, xix. 1—14; Jan. 22, xx. 1—9; Jan. 23, Matt. ii. 1—12: Jan. 24, Matt. ii. 13—23.

Notes and Comments.

IN consequence of the large space allotted in this number to the reports of addresses in the Week of Prayer, we are obliged to omit several interesting articles. Our next issue will be again enlarged to thirty-two pages, without increase of price.

The Paris Signal has changed its offices from the Rue de la Paix to 15, Rue Clairaut, Batignolles, Paris. All remittances should be addressed to the Director, Mr. Charles Picard. Subscriptions for one year 7s. 6d.

Mr. Opie Rodway gives us, in a private letter, the following information, which, in the interest of the work in which God has for many years so greatly blessed him, we venture to make public. He says:—

> "I am sorry to give up meetings for the present, but the person who has for many years managed my business is leaving, and I shall have to see more to it, as the profits go to support my Convalescent Home. I ask for an interest in your prayers."

This Free Convalescent Home has been opened sixteen years. 151 patients passed through it in 1883, and 142 in 1884. Particulars may be obtained by enclosing a stamped envelope to Mr. Rodway, The Home, Tower Hill House, Stroud, Gloucestershire.

The following announcement appears in the Bible Society's Monthly Reporter:—"Permission has been most readily and kindly granted by the Executive Committee of the forthcoming International Inventions Exhibition of 1885 for this Society to have a stall at the Exhibition, and to sell copies of the Holy Scriptures there."

All the friends of true Gospel work in Ireland are rejoicing at the appointment of Lord Plunket to the high and responsible office of Archbishop. We doubt not that he will continue, as far as opportunity permits, to show the same lively interest as heretofore, in such efforts as those of the Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland and kindred societies. We trust the many well-wishers of the fair green isle will be instant in prayer that the new Archbishop may be enabled to exercise a potent influence in the pacification and evangelisation of the people.

Speaking of the interviews of Jesus with individuals, of which there are nineteen mentioned in the Gospels, Mr. Stalker says, in his "Life of Jesus Christ":—"They leave to his followers a memorable example. This is, perhaps, the most effective of all forms of instruction, as it is certainly the best test of earnestness. A man who preaches to thousands with enthusiasm may be a mere orator, but he who seeks opportunities of speaking closely on the welfare of their souls to individuals must have a real fire from heaven burning in his heart."

The Christian World, in commenting on the acceptance by Mr. Hugh Mason, M.P., of the post of President of the Anti-Narcotic League, says:—"It is of great importance that everything should be done which is at all possible to discountenance the very wide prevalence of smoking amongst youths and young men." No words can be too strong to condemn the growth of a vice which is as injurious to those who indulge in it, as it is obnoxious and offensive to those who do not.

The same journal adds:—"It strikes us as a sad pity that total abstainers from alcohol are often inveterate smokers of tobacco." This is an inconsistency we have often wondered at, and one which it is strange abstainers do not see for themselves. The practice is reprehensible in almost all cases, but surely most of all in those who take the stand of abstinence from the use of that which is a cause of physical and moral injury to multitudes. Their self-indulgence in one evil surely hinders the effects of their self-denial in reference to the other.

At a New Year's gathering of Band of Hope workers at Exeter Hall the other day, Miss Forsaith gave an address on "Our Work and Workers for 1885," 1,100 of these institutions being represented in the audience. The great point urged was that the meetings held in connection with Bands of Hope should have less of the comic and frivolous in their programmes, and more of the spiritual and elevating. Theatrical entertainments were now common; she had seen actual dramas with scenes, costumes, and footlights at band of hope meetings. The practice of girls taking part in platform recitals was also condemned as endangering their sense of modesty. Bands of Hope thus conducted may do more harm than good. We have heard of dramatic ability in children, evoked at such entertainments, finding its way to the polluting stage of the music-hall.

For a long time past the Great Western and South Western Railway Companies have been engaged in conflicts over rival claims and interests, through the many points at which their lines converge. It is said that this is now ended, both companies having issued circulars to their respective staffs, instructing them to do all in their power to assist each other's business. Happy would it be for the world if in church circles a similar spirit of agreement could be brought about, and rival sects consent to "bury the hatchet," which has too long been in use, and mutually work for the general good.

The Rev. J. G. Rogers, B.A., is the Merchant's Lecturer for the current month, and has selected for his subject, "Hindrances to the Work of the Church in the Age." These are classified as theological, intellectual, ecclesiastical, and social. The basis of the first of these lectures was the words of Paul, "Then is the offence of the Cross ceased," the point being, that although the doctrine of the Cross was obnoxious to the world of the Apostle's day, he did not hesitate to preach it fully, and without modification. The lecturer truly said, in relation to our own times, if we drop the theology of the Cross, we drop our power. General lessons of practical morality and philanthropy fail utterly to move the world. The Cross alone can save men from sin.

Mr. Rogers drew a line of distinction between religion and theology: these, he contended, were separate in their nature, although closely allied. We might have theology without religion, but not religion without theology. Theological creeds, apart from the fervour, purity, and consecration true religion involves, are a hindrance rather than a help: men discern their powerlessness, and reject them as the mere traditions of men. The call cannot be too loudly given in these days for professors of orthodoxy to let their lives be orthodox as well as their creeds.

Next Lord's Day morning Dr. Adolph Saphir will preach a sermon in the Presbyterian Church, Halkin-street West, Belgrave-square, S.W., in connection with the Jewish Mission of the Presbyterian body, having special reference to the present aspects of the work.

The alarm and suspense occasioned by the repeated shocks of earthquake in Southern Spain remain unabated, these convulsions of nature not having ceased. Reports have come to hand of the volcanic current having extended to Italy, shocks having been felt in the neighbourhood of Rome, and near Mont Cenis; in Switzerland also, in the Grisons, and at Geneva, disturbances have taken place. The distress in Andalusia is extreme, and the appeal to the generous sympathies of those who are able to help the sufferers is urgent. The fact of it being the depth of winter of course adds greatly to the sufferings of the thousands who are homeless. The Times well said in a leader of last week:—

> "An earthquake still remains, and must long remain, the one great phenomenon of nature before which man is absolutely helpless, and our own comparative immunity from its more destructive effects should in no way abate our sympathy for the Spanish people in the calamity that has befallen Andalusia."

Dr. Einwald, the German explorer and geologist, has been in London during the past week. He gives a deplorable account of the state of large numbers of the Zulus. Many of them he left in a condition of destitution, compelled to beg for food of the Boers, and at the Mission stations. This eminent traveller is en route for Berlin, after which he returns to South Africa. It is high time some change for the better was made in South African affairs; at present confusion seems worse confounded.

At the Berlin Conference the subject of the African slave trade has received full deliberation, the ultimatum being that the English proposition, binding the Powers who shall exercise any sovereign rights or influence in the Congo Basin to adopt every means to stop the slave traffic, was unanimously carried, with the important addition of the American proposal extending the prohibition to traffic on land equally with that by water. This is a cause for much rejoicing, and if firmly acted upon must result in great blessing to the whole Continent.

"Of making many books there is no end." We learn from the Publisher's Circular that the book issues for 1884 have been 228 more than in 1883. Theology heads the list, 724 volumes having been issued during the year. Juvenile books and tales come next, then educational and classical works. As compared with 1883 the greatest increase in new and old books is in volumes on the arts and sciences, the next in order being history and biography, novels and other fiction standing third.

The Rev. C. H. Spurgeon has completed the thirtieth volume of his "Metropolitan Tabernacle Pulpit," formerly known as the "New Park-street Pulpit." A greater marvel of freshness and variety than this extensive series of sermon lore presents, the literary world has never produced. One can only adore the grace of God which is magnified by the preacher's bold and unwavering adherence to the great fundamentals of the Gospel through so many years of popularity, and amid so many temptations to depart from the "good old way."

We are requested to state that Mr. C. King, who was known on the stage as "Freddy Wilson," and has since his conversion retained the name, and appended to it "The Converted Clown," now desires to be known by his proper name, C. King. His address is Sunnyside, Bailey-lane, Stamford-hill, N.

The Baptists of Australia are likely to thrive and multiply, if collegiate advantages can insure advance. An anonymous donor in Melbourne has offered the Baptist Association there £25,000 towards establishing a denominational college, if a like sum can be raised within a stated time. The offer is said to have been accepted, and will doubtless prove serviceable to the interests of the denomination in the far South.

Canon Farrar gave utterance to some timely warnings and counsels in his New Year's sermon at Westminster, on the 4th inst. He referred to the prevailing thirst for wealth on the one hand, and the equally prevalent thirst for its destruction on the other, as the two chronic evils of the times—"clouds which, if no bigger than a man's hand, may burst into tempestuous blasts, and howl in every quarter of the blackened sky." The following eloquent passage is worthy of special note, as indicating the danger attendant on violent schemes being adopted such as are very commonly pleaded for just now:—

> "Society will grow none the better for being torn up by the roots. The foundation of things will be rendered none the more secure by institutions shattered as with dynamite, for cities ablaze with petroleum. Better indeed is eager desire for change than a slothful, selfish, immoral acquiescence, which basely says, 'It will last my time, and after me the deluge.' But the remedy for social disorder does not lie in schemes of communism, such as have been laughed to scorn by the universal experience of mankind. No, it lies in the right use of means which God has long ago bestowed upon us. It lies in the Christianity which we have travestied, in the example of Christ which we have neglected, in the Gospel of Christ to which we have been so false. Ah! let us try what we have before we fly to Egypt or Assyria. Christ gave but one new commandment, and it was, 'Love one another.' Have we individually, have we as a parish, have we as a nation, tested its efficacy? Let me urge upon you this lesson—to be sincere to ourselves, to be sincere with God."

A vast amount of sound Christian philosophy is comprised in the further quotation from the same source:—

> "Men who are languid and careless on the one hand and restless and unstable on the other may talk large language and ventilate airy schemes, but they will do little or nothing; the district visitor, the Sunday-school teacher, the humblest soul, who keeps himself pure and faithful because of God's law and man's good, will in reality achieve more than they."

The Times has again called attention to the Monte Carlo abomination, and asserts that the people of Monaco are as desirous to be rid of it as any others can be. It not only inflicts upon them material loss, but outrages their moral and patriotic sense, and makes them dependents on a prince, who is the bought servant of the proprietors and foreign agents of an infamous business. France, in 1870, decreed and enforced the expulsion of German residents from Monaco; she could, therefore, use the same power to expel the accursed and shameless iniquities of the gambling saloons. To do so would earn for her a noble tribute from every European nation, and raise her in the estimation of the whole civilised world.

The New Year's paper for the young, by Mrs. Evered Poole, entitled "Five New Things," which appeared in our issue of January 1, has been issued in leaflet form. It can be obtained from Messrs. Gutch and Cox, 150, High-street, Southampton, at 1s. 8d. per 100, post free.

An article in the Contemporary, from the pen of Rev. R. E. Bartlett, deals with the alleged decline of the Evangelical Party in the Church of England, both as to numbers and influence. The cause assigned is the change of front in relation to Church questions which has been made by the leaders of to-day. These have not changed to any extent their doctrinal standards, which remain similar to those of Venn, Newton, and Scott, but they keep them more in the background, and more ostentatiously parade their Churchmanship. There is, among the younger men of the party, what Mr. Bartlett calls a sacerdotalism-and-water, and a moral cowardice which induces them to seek allies, not in Evangelical Nonconformists, with whom, in all essential points they are one, but in High Churchmen, from whom, on many such points, they differ.

Venn, Newton, Scott, Toplady, and others of their school of thought fully recognised the true oneness of the Church of Christ, and fraternised heartily with ministers of all denominations, preaching at meetings of Methodists, Independents, and Baptists. Churchmanship with them was second to the spiritual unity of all true believers in Christ. In proportion as it is otherwise with their representatives of to-day, Mr. Bartlett argues, and justly, too, must the influence of Evangelicalism decline, and its testimony be neutralised.

A solemn reminder of the uncertainty of the tenure of life has been given to us all in the sudden death of the Bishop of London. His lordship preached in St. Paul's on the Sunday evening, and passed into eternity on the following Monday night. Dr. Jackson was not a brilliant scholar, nor a popular orator, but was a hard worker, and filled an onerous and responsible post with great fidelity and diligence. In addition to the episcopate of the largest diocese in the kingdom, he had charge of all the chaplaincies throughout Northern and Central Europe, a work he attended to with painstaking zeal. The deceased prelate lived in the esteem of his colleagues and co-religionists, and will be lamented by many outside the pale of his own church.

Speculation is already rife as to who shall be selected to fill the vacant see. The responsibility of the appointment is heavy, as the influence to be exerted by its occupant is equal to that of the Primate himself, the Bishop of London ranking with the Archbishops in dignity and power in Church circles. The Bishops of Bedford, Manchester, and Exeter have all been spoken of as probable successors. The first named, by his labours for the good of the East-end, has a strong claim on the grateful recognition, not only of the Church he belongs to, but of all who care for the vast masses of the metropolis.

A letter written by Mr. G. D. Faulkner, coroner for North Oxfordshire, has been published, showing that the idea prevalent among farmers that teetotalism is prejudicial to their interests, is utterly groundless and mistaken. The grain now destroyed for drink causes a gap in our food supply which has to be filled up by foreign importations. If used for food instead of drink, the imports needed would be greatly lessened, and the money sent out of the country would be available for the promotion of home industries and trade. Other farm produce, such as butter, cheese, poultry, eggs, and meal, would then be in greater demand, and so the farmer would be benefited. The argument is well founded, and borne out by statistics and criteria of a reliable and demonstrable kind.

A correspondent who is much exercised by the condition of the poor children in our great cities, suggests that "Porridge Kitchens" should be started for supplying them at a nominal rate with breakfasts of porridge, with treacle, or with milk for those who can give a little more. Oatmeal porridge, as our correspondent remarks, is not only a nutritious dish, but could be provided very cheaply.

A Sister of Mercy (!) connected with the St. Michael's Home at Frampton Cotterell has just been fined 10s. and costs by the Bristol magistrates for cruelly flogging a girl who was one of the inmates. The Lady Superior of this Home (?) also acknowledged to shutting up children in a wardrobe as a punishment for their faults. Miss Hesba Stretton writes to The Times, calling attention to the case, and indignantly says:—"If 10s. and costs were all the penalty for the offence, the indulgence of cruel and vindictive passions would be a cheap enough pastime; but I trust that the odium that will fall upon the Sister of Charity in charge of this house of rest for suffering children may be sufficiently strong, and sufficiently public, to deter others from following her example."

In a letter to the Daily News of Saturday, Dr. Barnardo, referring to his meeting of Street Arabs, described elsewhere in our columns, thus sums up the immediate and more direct results:—

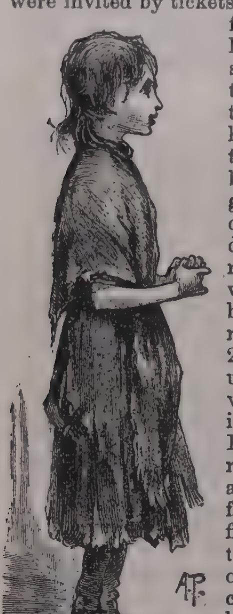
> "Thus, by what I may call one grand sweep of our trawl-net, nearly 200 homeless and friendless lads will be removed from the streets and the lodgings, as well as from the companionship of thieves and harlots. Two very experienced judges present at the entertainment said of 44 youths included in the 78 who were at once admitted (and all of whom were over 17 years of age), 'we know of no institution in the kingdom save your own that would touch such unsavory subjects, much less seek them out.'"

Lord Radstock was expected to reach Calcutta on the 7th inst., and to remain there a month. He writes:—"We have had thirty-five meetings, and travelled 1200 miles in 22 days, and are quite well, thank God." Lord Radstock and his son, the Hon. W. G. Waldegrave, have been to Bombay, Poonah, Bangalore, and Madras. The meetings have been very well attended, both by Europeans and Natives. The openings for work are very great. Our readers are asked to unite in praising God for what has been done, and to continue in prayer for further blessing.

GODALMING.—A six days' Mission, conducted by Mr. W. Spencer Walton, has just been held in the Mission Hall, Mead-row, Godalming, Surrey. The evangelistic meetings held each night were well attended, and there is much reason to praise the Lord for many souls brought to Him. The power of the Holy Ghost was manifestly present then, as well as at the afternoon meetings for the deepening of spiritual life, when the Lord's people were much refreshed and strengthened. This is the first undenominational Mission held by Mr. Walton since leaving the Parochial Mission.

A TEA AT THE "EDINBORO' CASTLE."

IN true princely manner Dr. Barnardo and his co-workers had sent out invitations to a grand tea on the evening of Thursday last. 1600 of the boys and girls of the streets were invited by tickets distributed very carefully in the common lodging-houses, in the streets, at railway stations, and, indeed, in all the likely haunts of homeless London. And truly a motley assembly was gathered together! Every type of the homeless, the destitute, and the vagrant was to be seen, with all sorts of possibilities, either latent or rampant, behind the 2000 unwashed faces, upturned to the eager, vigilant gaze of the indefatigable Director. Raw material of the roughest kind in plenty, and contrasting so unfavourably with the fine, sturdy lads from the Home, who were once in as wretched a condition as these homeless ones.



A GIRL WAIF.

Grace being sung, the distribution of mugs (which Dr. Barnardo requested might be allowed to retain their handles!) called forth most vociferous cheering, so that a young herald, set to proclaim silence, found plenty to do. Then, as the band struck up, hands, feet, heads, and voices, kept time in the lustiest manner possible.

"Plenty of force and vitality there, astonishing when one notices the low physique and emaciation of the boys," said one present.

"Yes, indeed!" was the response; "this singing is better than all the Italian operas—it just delights me!"

Tea over, Dr. Barnardo wished them all a "Happy New Year."

"Same to you, sir, and many of 'em!" was shouted from all quarters of the densely-packed hall.

"How many boys sell papers?" asked the Doctor; and hundreds of hands were at once thrust up into the air.

"How many sell lights?" was the next question, when it seemed that nearly all the boys in that great multitude had tested this almost last resource of the destitute.

"How many sell lights and papers?" was asked, and again came the show of hands in the majority.

"All shoeblacks, please stand!" was the next wish expressed; and the elder lads in the meeting, many of them almost men, stood. At the request that all sleeping in a furnished room (i.e.—the corner of a room in a common lodging-house) or a "doss" should rise, there was a general roar of laughter, and every boy and girl was at once standing.

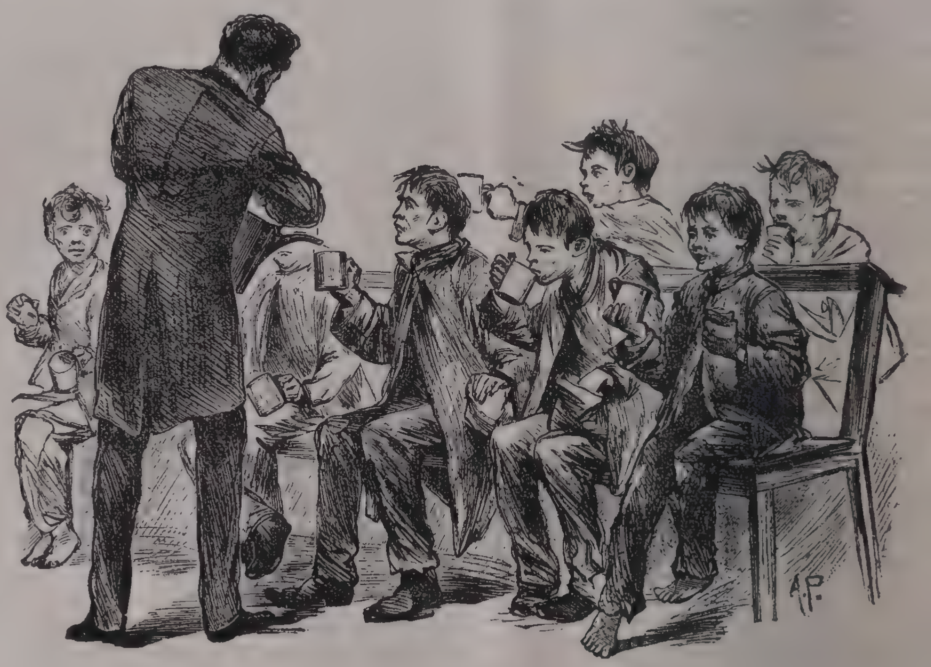
Then came a question which the Doctor said perhaps he ought to have asked in private:

"How many have been locked-up? stand, please;" and it was painful to see the number who rose amid shouts of "All of us, sir," or, "I've only just come out," from even the smallest children.

Then, pointing to his fine sailor lads, the Doctor asked his lively auditors, "Aren't these fine fellows?"

"Yes, sir; yes, sir!" and tremendous cheering.

Then the Doctor said there was not a boy or girl present who had not a Friend. He told them the story of Joe, who had run away from three Homes, including the Stepney Home; who was fatherless, motherless, homeless, friendless, as he thought, till he was told of the Great Friend. He was again taken into Dr. Barnardo's Home, and worked so well that by his own wish he was sent to Canada. A complete change had come over him, and when his kind friend visited him in Canada, the testimony of his master was most cheering.



TEA-TIME.

"Now," said Dr. Barnardo, "I mean to give everyone of you a chance to-night: you have had a good tea, did you like it?"

"Yes, sir; thank you, sir!" "Was it sweet?" "Yes, sir!" "Was it hot?" "No, sir." "Have you had enough?" "Yes, sir." "Have you eaten the bags?" "No, sir."

And now came the real business of the evening, when all who would like to enter the Homes were told to stand and to remain standing while the busy, kindly Director went in and out questioning the homeless ones as to their fitness. Some were sent back to their seats, others were sent to be kept for placing in temporary lodgings until a place can be found for them in the Institutions; meanwhile the truth of their story is ascertained, and their often sad life-history unravelled. About 100 were selected from the 2000 present, and it would have done the hearts of the philanthropic good to see the changed step and erect form of those who were fortunate enough to be so selected.

The following facts, while they distress, may also excite the Christian public to a stronger support of these splendid institutions:—

> "The Police Report for the Metropolis for 1884 is not yet issued; but during the year 1883 there were in the metropolis 1104 registered lodging-houses under police control at the end of the year. These accommodated 29,386 lodgers; besides these, 672 non-registered houses were periodically visited by the police; and it is calculated that there are at least 400 other houses used as lodging-houses which are not registered nor visited. If this be so, it would bring up the total number of non-registered houses to about equal with the registered, and would show a population in all the lodging-houses of 58,000 souls per night!—all of whom are of the destitute class finding a living upon the streets by crime, or by very casual and occasional labour. A careful examination of a number of these houses upon a given night has shown that at least 25 per cent. of the whole number of persons frequenting these lodging-houses are young children under fifteen years of age. As has been already said, the term 'furnished room,' as used by the homeless poor of London, conveys a distinctly different idea from the genteel phrase 'furnished apartments.' A house divided into what are called furnished rooms is little better than a common lodging-house, and in some respects is, perhaps, really worse. These 'rooms' are only found in the lodging-house districts; the tenants pay for accommodation as in lodging-houses, nightly, the charge varying from 8d. to 1s. per night. Credit is never given. The so-called furnished room may only consist of the merest corner divided off from a larger apartment; but because it is a furnished room it is not open to the police as are the common lodging-houses which are registered. These furnished rooms are, therefore, a great source of immorality, disease, and general harm, especially to the children of the vagrant poor.

APPLICANTS FOR ADMISSION.—Taking down their Stories.

"By means of these institutions over 6,000 children have, in the past 18 years, been rescued from the streets, trained for industrious and Christian lives, and then sent out to fill situations at home or abroad.

"The Emigration Department will probably receive very many of those who shall be admitted to-night, but of course not until a course of training in the Homes has got rid of the evils contracted in a life upon the streets. At present there are actually in the Homes 1309 children, all of whom are wholly dependent upon the free-will offerings of the benevolent for support."

◆

WORKERS WANTED IN SPAIN.

DEAR SIR,—The following letter from an old correspondent of The Christian appears to us to contain interesting and importannt information, which we shall be glad to place before your readers.—Yours respectfully,

B. F. Babcock, Commercial-buildings,
Water-street, Liverpool;
S. Southall, 3, Central-road, Leeds;
Joint Secretaries of the Association in Liverpool and Leeds for the Diffusion of the Gospel in Spain.

"Valladolid.—We have now in our home a man and a woman from two villages about forty-five miles off, who have come all that distance to attend the public service and to get light. The woman is well off, but the man is a farm labourer, earning tenpence a day, with a wife and five children. He intended to walk the distance, but friends lent the money for coach fare. These people ask us to come to their villages, in both of which are little meetings, as well as two others not very far distant. I know other Christians who long to see us in their midst. Four open doors, four little struggling meetings of Christians, a few sheep in the midst of wolves. They do not ask for money, but only that we will 'come and teach them and comfort them.'

"My health is no more what it was, and I am no longer able to stand the bad food and other numerous hardships of village work in Spain, so I invite the leading men to come to Valladolid, and receive them in our house. This, however, does not do the work so effectually as would a visit to their homes. In the villages round Valladolid there are some true souls, who are out of Rome in heart and conscience, and for whom it is now either the Gospel or no religion. We are bound to give them the Gospel, and we feel the responsibility to be very great. Is it possible that no man and woman of God can be found to help us, and be ready to take our place when our day of service is over? We do not need highly-trained pastors, but simple, though educated, Christians, truly converted, of wide heart, with love and zeal—no sect—willing to suffer for souls, willing to tramp it, and sleep and eat in the houses of the villagers. Such would reap a harvest of souls, and gain for themselves the 'well done.'

"There is the province of Asturias with its simple, timid people, but yet with faith in them. They told me, 'We only ask for someone to settle in our province, and travel over it, building us up in the faith, and encouraging us; the rest we will do.' Are we to be deaf to this request?

"Then there is the province of Jaen with its Missions and settled Christians. The country is as Sodom, but the Christians are not as Lot; they bear testimony by changed lives. Think of the position of the little gatherings in the midst of such society whose abominations are not to be spoken of, and you can understand the need of a foreign Christian, and married. It is very sad to have to say that it must be a foreigner, but the Spaniards lack spiritual power for the difficult work of village evangelisation.

"May you be led to act in this difficult matter according to God's good will; He willeth that all should hear the glorious Gospel through human voices, and such the Church ought to send to all lands. L. B. Armstrong."

THE JEWS AND CHRISTIANITY.

THE Jewish World of the 2nd instant devotes its leading columns to a vigorous article anent Mr. Davis's proposal to bring about a Christo-Jewish Conference, as set forth in our last week's issue. It views the scheme with no favour, and describes it as chimerical and useless. Its assertions concerning Judaism are, to say the least of them, bordering on complete scepticism. Declaring that the points of difference between Jew and non-Jew are not on points of Scripture interpretation, or Bible exegesis, it says:—

> "Judaism cares nothing for exegesis or criticism. It affects our religion not one iota, if the Old Testament records be proved false to-morrow from beginning to end, the Bible personages veritable sun-myths, and the Exodus from Egypt an astronomical allegory! And this for a very simple reason: Judaism knows nothing of faith, requires of its adherents no form of belief. It has no concern with what man believes; it only takes cognisance of what he does. Belief and Faith, in our sense of the words, were unknown to the ancient Jews; they had no words even to express such ideas. Judaism holds man accountable only for his deeds, and not for his belief."

Of course if appeal to Scripture stands for nothing, the result of a conference such as has been proposed must be nil; it is hopeless to attempt to establish truth apart from the revelation which is its basis. The contrast between Judaism as represented by the Jewish World, and as taught by "the law and the prophets," is indeed great. They and their leading exponents, even in the time of our Lord, recognised the authority of the sacred writings. Their descendants of to-day declare that—

> "Religion—certainly all true religion—must be independent of the authenticity of any set of books, and dependent upon no shifting basis, such as advanced Christians of the philosophic school claim for Christianity. And this, Judaism is. Hence, there can be no argument one way or the other, as to the grounds of our belief, since they are firmly founded in the nobler instincts of mankind, in our innate moral sense, and our ethical consciousness."

The Jew has but too keen a shaft with which to hit the Christian when he points Mr. Davis and those he represents to "the rifts in the body of Christianity, which are only too apparent to the outer world, and which are playing sad havoc with the doctrines of his creed." The answer to the implied, if not actual sneer, is not far to seek. The intrinsic value of Christianity is not impaired by the dross of its corrupted forms. A lesson on the necessity for closer unity of Christians among themselves may indeed be learned from the words of our contemporary:—

> "When Christians are agreed among themselves as to what are and what are not essentials of Christianity, then will surely be time enough to argue as to its truth or untruth. This, however, we are quite prepared to admit, will defer the proposed Christo-Jewish Synod to the days of the millennium."

Reading between the lines, however, of all this censure of Christians, it is easy to perceive a disinclination to come to the test of the proposed appeal to history. The connection between the Old Testament and the New is not affected by the conduct of those who have lived during the eighteen centuries since Jesus of Nazareth lived and died.

BOYS' HOME, FOREST HILL, S.E.—The Corporation of the City of London have made a grant of fifty guineas to this institution.

SERMON-LANE MISSION.

THURSDAY evening, Jan. 1, was a red-letter day in the history of this Mission. A glance at the hall as you entered, with its decorations and mottoes tastefully hung around the walls, and the bright and beaming faces of the poor people, told at once of an event that had stirred both hearts and hands of loving friends, who vied with each other to make the occasion a memorable one.

We found the worthy president of the Mission, Mr. Lewis, in the chair, supported by such long-tried friends as Mr. and Mrs. Haigh Miller, Messrs. Cooksey, Cæsar, Attridge, and others. After singing and prayer, the Chairman congratulated the friends, and expressed his pleasure in meeting them at the opening of another year. After some more singing by the choir, three of the working men belonging to the Mission were seen moving up to the front with a tin box, which was duly deposited on the Chairman's table. Mr. Reeves, who acted as spokesman for his colleagues, informed the meeting that it had been suggested to them during Mr. Fuller's illness, that it would be a fitting and pleasing thing to present him with a testimonial as an evidence of their high esteem and regard for him as superintendent of the Mission.

The testimonial, which was in the box, had been purchased by 235 members and friends, none contributing more than threepence, and amongst the contributors were the very poorest of the poor, notably one poor woman who is now an inmate of Islington Workhouse; she could not pay the threepence at one payment, but of her poverty paid one halfpenny per week for six weeks, rather than miss the opportunity of showing her gratitude for the good she had received.

Mr. Haigh Miller was now called on to open this mysterious-looking box, and all eyes was strained to see the contents; gratification seemed written on every countenance as he lifted up a beautifully-bound Bible, a Concordance, and Sacred Songs and Solos, all suitably inscribed. Mr. Miller, in a very touching and appropriate manner, presented them, on behalf of the subscribers, to Mr. Fuller.

Mr. Fuller, with considerable emotion, thanked the friends for their great kindness, and assured them that the testimonial would be esteemed above everything else in his possession, and trusted they would be handed down as heirlooms to his survivors. He then gave a brief history of the Mission, and his first connection with it, now about eighteen years ago; the great difficulties and persecutions they met with, and how the Lord had opened up the way, so that now the workers are respected and greeted with kindness throughout the neighbourhood. He also gave some striking instances of good done amongst the fallen, the profane, and the drunkards, some being present to testify of the mercy of the Lord to them.

In conclusion, he assured them their gift would incite him to labour more earnestly for the glory of the Divine Master and the salvation of souls.

Other friends having spoken words of cheer and thankfulness, with much singing of a pleasing character, a happy evening was brought to a close. We heartily commend our good friend and his work to the Lord, praying that he may be sustained in health, and supported in his work of faith by the sympathy and help of many of his fellow-believers.

WORK AMONG THE TRAMPS.—Dear Sir,—I thank the friends who have contributed £3 12s. 6d. towards my work amongst the tramps here. I am thankful to say the Lord is doing a great work among them. One of the best evidences in favour of the work is the fact that instead of the breakfasts increasing, they manifestly tend to decrease the numbers in the casual ward, through the simple fact that some are being led to a better life.

Yours very truly, Alfred Craven.
Thorneywood-lane, Nottingham.

YOUNG MEN AT EXETER HALL.

IN the course of a long and illustrious history, Exeter Hall has seen many a notable assemblage. That which crowded every nook and corner of the lower hall last Thursday evening was worthy, we think, to be ranked among the more memorable of them. The social reception in the early part of the evening—when, through the generous hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, some 400 young men met for tea and friendly talk—was, of course, a very happy occasion. Such gatherings are not of the most reportable kind, but they are, nevertheless, of great value in furthering that brotherly acquaintance and Christian fellowship which the Y.M.C.A. seeks to promote. We trust the thoughtful kindness of the host and hostess will be amply rewarded by an increase of that esprit d'corps which goes so far in securing the success of any association of those who have a common purpose in view.

There was more in the air, however, than tea and talk. It is with the public meeting that followed, we have chiefly to do. It was open to all, and, as we have said, the hall was crowded to repletion, mostly with young men. Mr. Williams filled the chair, and filled it well, as he invariably does. His genial and perennially youthful spirit never fails to charm a youthful audience; while his hearty and happily expressed remarks are equally sure to commend to them the faith and service of Jesus Christ. The motto-text that Mr. Williams gave to the meeting on this occasion was one of transcendent importance, "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you." Conspicuous among the occupants of the platform were a band of young men, some of whom will be starting for China when these lines meet the eye of the public, and others of whom are soon to follow. To these prospective missionaries the Chairman specially applied the truth conveyed in his motto, though, as he said, it is one that needs to be experienced by Christian workers at home as well as abroad.

The great attraction of the evening, and that which evidently had brought so many friends together, was the presence and expected speech of the newly-enlisted China missionaries; the best known of these were Messrs. Studd, Stanley Smith, Cassels, and Beauchamp, whose voices have been heard so frequently of late. The fact of these friends belonging to a somewhat different rank in social life than that from which foreign missionaries are mostly drawn, has awakened an unusual interest in their public appearances. It has been whispered, we believe, that they may be in some danger of being unduly puffed up—spoiled, in short—by the éclat of so much publicity and speech-making. We can only say that they have not shown any symptoms of it. Their repeated testimony, on the other hand, has, we are certain, been of vast service in pressing upon the serious attention of those of their own sex, age, and social standing, the high and paramount claims of the foreign Mission field. In these days of unexampled opportunity for spreading the Gospel message, and of facility for reaching the remotest ends of the earth, the value of such service cannot be reckoned, and it ought to yield a rich harvest of results in the immediate future.

There was, perhaps, nothing unusually remarkable in the addresses delivered by these young brethren at the Exeter Hall meeting. Every time we have heard them their utterances have been intensely earnest, simple, and joyful; so they were on this occasion. Mr. Beauchamp spoke of the greatness of the Christian's vocation; he thought it was because the glory of that vocation was not sufficiently realised that Christians so often failed to walk worthy of it. Referring to himself, he said that his future pathway was not so clear to him as he wished, and he asked for prayer that definite light might speedily be given him. Mr. C. T. Studd retold once more, circumstantially and with much effect, his spiritual experiences of the past few months. No one could listen to his story without feeling that God has been leading him in a very marked way; if, as we trust and believe, he has the grace to continue in the same blessed path of simple, unhesitating trust, there are many years of happy and fruitful service before him in far-off China, should the Lord see fit to spare his life.

Later in the evening brief words of testimony were given by two brothers—Mr. Cecil and Mr. Arthur Polhill-Turner—both of whom contemplate giving up their lives to mission work abroad. We sincerely pray they may be able to induce many of their comrades and acquaintances to follow in their steps in this respect. They were followed by Messrs. W. W. Cassels and Stanley Smith, both of whom addressed very earnest and telling exhortations to the young men before them, first to give themselves to the Lord for salvation, and then to give their lives and talents to his delightful service. Mr. Stanley Smith's exhibition of the suffering and passion of Jesus Christ in Gethsemane, and at Golgotha, was exceedingly impressive; though we feel inclined to remark that a too realistic portraiture of these tragic and sublime events, over which the sacred record has drawn a partial veil, is of doubtful value.

It had been announced that this would be among the last of Mr. Hudson Taylor's public appearances before his return to China; we therefore felt a special interest in what he had to say. He began by expressing the wish that Mr. Williams had sufficient authority over the young men present to part them into four bands—one to go to China, another to go to India, a third to go to Africa, and the remainder to give themselves to the Lord's work in England, or other parts of Europe. If they were scattered in that way he would guarantee that they would all get such an individual blessing as they had no idea of. Some people think it is a dreadful thing to go out as a missionary to China. Some time ago he heard of one who was urged to yield himself freely to the Lord, and who replied, "Why, I might be sent to China!" If he only knew it, that would probably be the way to get the biggest blessing that God had to give him.

For the sake of those who might not be conversant with the facts, Mr. Taylor recapitulated in brief the wonderful story of the founding, the rise and progress of the China Inland Mission, in connection with which there are now some 120 English, Irish, and Scotch labourers in the field, besides 100 native workers. As to the temporal support of these, they had no human guarantee, but they had something far better; they had the promise that God will "withhold no good thing from them that walk uprightly." If they were walking uprightly before Him, and if it was a good thing to have a good appetite for breakfast, God had pledged Himself to provide that breakfast. All these missionaries, said Mr. Taylor, were resting on that promise, and they had never been put to shame. As to the supply of workers, God had more than met their desires. Some time ago they united in praying to Him to send out "other seventy also." Since then God had sent nearly a hundred, and they were workers of the right sort. God had given them much blessing on the voyage out. We were told of two cases of conversion of avowed infidels, on board steamers in which two parties sailed last autumn. One of these men had with him some infidel manuscripts, which he intended to publish at Calcutta. God was pleased to bless to his conversion the testimony of the missionaries. By and by he was rejoicing in Christ, and his infidel manuscripts followed Pharaoh and his hosts to the bottom of the Red Sea.

Some extremely interesting facts were given by Mr. Taylor about Miss Minchin, whose death, after a seven months' residence in the country, it is our sorrowful duty to record elsewhere. God had so blessed her in the work that some who had been in China for twenty years had not won so many to Christ as she did during those seven months. Since she opened the house for the reception of seamen and others, not a week passed without some conversions. One remarkable case was that of a man on board an American ship-of-war. He was a dreadful reprobate, but Miss Minchin thought he was the very one for Christ to save, and he was invited to come to the meetings at her house. He came several times. One day she met him when he had some leisure, and asked him to come and have tea with her. He complied, and she seized the opportunity of faithfully dealing with him about salvation. It was a tremendous struggle. She talked with him for some time, but could get no response. She left him for a little while that he might reflect, and then went back and talked with him again; still no response. She betook herself to prayer by his side, and wrestled with God concerning him for an hour and a half. At length he got to the point of saying, "What a sinner I have been." She prayed with him and for him for another half-an-hour, and then he himself prayed: "God be merciful to me a sinner." Before he left the house he was rejoicing in Christ, thoroughly brought "over the line." He went back to his ship and began to testify with great effect. Whereas, before there was only a solitary Christian on board, when the vessel left the port of Shanghai a Bible-class was established, and there were a number of rejoicing Christians on board.

There are others coming forward, said Mr. Taylor, in closing; only to-day two came to see me, and said the Lord had laid China in their hearts, as He had done in the case of Mr. Studd. We mean to go on making room for 150 more missionaries, when the Lord provides them.

The party leaving for China, per P. and O. ss. Ravenna, which sailed yesterday (Wednesday) are—Mr. F. Theodor Foucar, Mr. T. James, Mr. John Smith, and Mr. T. Jenkins. Mr. Hudson Taylor will join this steamer at Suez. On Jan. 28th Rev. W. W. Cassels and Mr. D. E. Hoste will sail from the docks, Mr. Stanley Smith and Mr. Studd joining the steamer at Brindisi.

◆

A CALL FROM THE MEDITERRANEAN.

SASSARI, SARDINIA.

DEAR SIR,—We were able, on the first of January, in this far-away and superstitious land, to get up a very lively meeting, with the view to extend our cause, and promote Christian friendship, at the beginning of the New Year. We first of all satisfied the outward man; but we had no tea, as you have; few would take it, even if paid for doing so. Then we had recitations, reading, singing, and prayer. Two girls recited portions of Scripture (Prov. iii. and iv.). One dear little one, however, present at our last fête, was now missing. She has gone to be with the Lord. Two mothers, with their children. came for the first time, and expressed themselves much delighted.

The friends of evangelistic truth in Sassari gradually increase in number, and so by and by Sardinia will be evangelised by her own sons and daughters. Several individuals have expressed a desire to become evangelists. In October last I received the following letter from a well-educated youth, native of Sassari. Perhaps I should neglect a duty in leaving it unpublished. so I place it at your disposal:—

"Sir,—From the time when I arrived at an age to discern between good and evil, truth and falsehood, I have ever felt an aversion towards the Roman Catholic Church. I hear her ministers preaching a doctrine totally diverse from that of Christ and his Apostles. Christianity is corrupted by the false doctrines of the priests, and it is high time that the nation should uplift truth and aim a deadly blow at the Papacy. I, from my earliest years, have felt drawn towards Christian doctrines; and I have a renewed desire to point out to a people led astray by Popery the error of their religion, and to instruct them in the principles of the Gospel of Christ. With this view I have applied to you, hoping you may be able to aid me in carrying out the plan that formed the golden dream of my child hood. "Yours most respectfully,

"Sassari." "Giuseppe Pinna.

Ere we can hope to see a powerful revival amongst the youth of Sardinia we need the aid of many additional Christian workers. The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few.

Yours very sincerely, John E. Thomas.

20, Via Giardino Pubblico, Jan. 2.

MR. HAMMOND IN LIVERPOOL.

THE services have steadily increased in power during the past week. The evening meetings have continued in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, while the afternoon children's meetings have been held in different churches and halls in five localities of the city. The Protestant Standard of last week contains a report and editorial, brief extracts from which we give :—

"The meeting on Tuesday night was of a very interesting character, several speakers taking part in the proceedings, and testifying to the value of Mr. Hammond's work. The meeting was opened by half an hour's singing. Rev. Mr. Holland gave some pleasing testimony concerning the meetings which had been held by Mr. Hammond in Gordon Hall. He said that on that afternoon (Tuesday) the Hall was not sufficient to contain the number who tried to obtain admission. Persons had gone there who had become anxious about their souls, and by their whole demeanour it was apparent that they had been blessed by the Spirit of God. In some quarters an opinion seemed to be held that children should not be allowed to approach the Lord's table until they have come to age. He thought it would be far better to take them in hand in their early days than to have them afterwards become prodigal children. Would it not be great joy for them to know that they had given themselves to Jesus Christ in their childhood, and that they would be sure to bring forth the fruit of good living in this life? He was pleased that he had an opportunity of seeing Mr. Hammond. He was delighted to see so many children in Gordon Hall. They were happy looking, and he was sure that the sweet, simple hymns they heard sung would do them good. He was so much pleased that he went again, and he never saw children so happy in his life. They looked upon Mr. Hammond as a good, kind friend. He thought it was a grand thing that the children seemed to be so much at home, but it was a much grander thing to know that they had been converted to God. Mr. Hammond had been all his life labouring diligently in connection with this work, and he felt sure there was no exaggeration when Mr. Moody stated some time ago that thousands were found who had been converted to God, as the results of Mr. Hammond's services. Old people here would now be very thankful if they had been saved when they were young, but now they should do all they could, all in their power, to get young children to attend these services, which have been the means of saving so many poor sinners. God has given Mr. Hammond this special gift, and he knew of no man better able to do this work of the Presbyterian Church.

"Rev. S. R. McPhail said : Many of us should prepare ourselves for these children's services. There is something special that each of us should do to assist in this great work. I must say it is marvellous to me what I have seen at Gordon Hall. I have seen a large congregation there, and they said clearly and distinctly that they had given their hearts to their Saviour. I believe in the conversion of young children. The rev. gentleman then referred to three children whom he had admitted to the full privilege of church membership some years ago, and said that they were now three good-living and good-working Christians. At that time people thought it was absurd to see children coming to their Lord. It was far from being so. Those three converts were good, stout Christians to-day. We should have more of this in our churches and in our families. A young child the other day, who was at the Lord's table, asked her mother why so few of her years were at it. The mother answered that there were only those who had given their lives to Christ. The young girl looked up and said that surely there were more like her who had given their lives to Christ. Many young men and young women are living entirely away from the Church of Christ. It is a very serious thing, and had they been taken in hand when they were young, they would now be secure. Not children alone, but all persons who could do so should make it a point to attend these meetings."

The Editor of the Protestant Standard says :—

"Mr. Hammond is a preacher of remarkable power, and one who is very evidently baptized by the Holy Ghost and called by God to his special work. His style of preaching is most energetic, impressive and attractive, and what is still more important, his discourses are based on sound Gospel doctrine. Some years ago Mr. Hammond delivered an address to seven thousand children in Mr. Spurgeon's Tabernacle, with such happy results as will cause the realms of the blest to ring with melody throughout the endless ages. We strongly recommend our Liverpool readers to avail themselves of the opportunity which now offers itself of hearing Mr Hammond preach, for in doing so we feel well assured they will realise a truly abundant and rich spiritual treat."

MR. QUARRIER AND STREET ARABS.

ONE of the most interesting events which take place in Glasgow at this festive season is the annual treat which Mr. William Quarrier gets up for street children. This affair took place in the City Orphan Home, James Morrison-street, last week, and was, in its way, a great success. Fully seven hundred of our city arabs were present, the great majority of them being boys. The company, as might have been imagined, was of the most homogeneous character, including newsboys and girls, shoeblacks, match, pipe, and vesuvian sellers, singers, and beggars. Many of them were of very tender years, and their pale and pinched faces indicated but too plainly the hardships they are called upon to endure. In almost every case the little things were wretchedly clothed, a number of them being absolutely in rags, while many were also barefooted. Tickets for the feast had been distributed for some days back by Mr. Quarrier and some of the workers in connection with the Orphan Home Mission, who experienced little difficulty in finding a number of the class of children for whom the treat is intended sufficient to fill the Orphan Home Hall.

By seven o'clock, the hour fixed for the proceedings to commence, the hall was crowded, and a good many presented themselves for whom accommodation could not be provided. An excellent tea was served to the little waifs, and as a good meal was almost unknown to them, it is needless to say that the repast was heartily enjoyed. Mr. Quarrier afterwards addressed the gathering, and imparted some wholesome advice to the children. In the course of his remarks he referred to the difficulty experienced in consequence of there being no law for the control of street children, and stated that it was the duty of the magistrates to take steps to remedy the present state of matters.

At the conclusion of Mr. Quarrier's remarks, one of the older boys present mounted the platform and moved the following resolution : "That we, the newsboys and girls, shoeblacks, &c., assembled at our annual meeting in the City Orphan Home Hall, resolve once more to ask the Lord Provost and Town Council of Glasgow to get an Act of Parliament to control the street children, that we may not injure ourselves, and become a curse to the community." Another boy seconded the resolution, which was received by the youngsters with loud applause.

A living illustration of the old picture of "Look on this picture and on that," could be found last evening in a comparison of the waifs from the street with a number of the well-clad and happy-looking boys from Cessnock Home, who in the course of the proceedings sang several hymns, while some of their number also gave recitations in a manner that would have done credit to children of an older growth. As usual, Mr. Quarrier invited any of the homeless boys or girls to come into the Homes, where they would be taken care of and removed from the temptations of the streets. A magic-lantern entertainment was given during the evening, and afforded considerable amusement to the children. Shortly before separating every boy and girl was supplied with a substantial meat pie, and on leaving the hall they were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Quarrier with a new Testament and a New Year card. The children, though a little noisy at times, behaved themselves remarkably well.—North British Daily Mail.

CONTINENTAL AND FOREIGN NOTES.

Pastor Œhler is the new director of the Bâle Missionary Society.

Two Jews in Rome were admitted into the Christian Church by public baptism on December 29. The service was held in the Waldensian Church, and many Italians were present.

Belgium.—The Railway, Post, and Telegraph Minister is perseveringly using every effort to secure Sabbath rest to as many of the employés as possible ; 8000 workmen are now free from Sunday labour. Le Christianisme.

Milan.—Pastor Gavazzi has visited this city, encouraging the church by his words and presence, in wonderful vigour and force. It is probable, if his health continues good, that he may spend a month or two, this summer, in this country on deputation work.

Methodists in Germany.—The King of Bavaria gives full liberty to these brethren, and new doors of usefulness are opening to them. The stipend given is very small ; an unmarried pastor receives £25 per annum, the hightest income allowed to a married pastor with a family being £126 per annum.—Wahrheitszeugen.

The Journal des Missions Evangéliques proposes to keep its readers acquainted with missionary work all the world over, by a quarterly survey. It states that the first Protestant Missionary Society was organised by the Danish Government in the year 1705. This month the journal glances at missionary work in Greenland, Labrador, Canada, and other parts more or less connected with America.

A Striking Conversion.—At the present time Pesth is greatly moved by the conversion of Father Elisaüs Bass, formerly Prior of the Fathers of Charity, who has just left his convent, his Order, and the Roman Catholic Church. Bass has become a Protestant. He is well known and loved in Pesth. He was decorated by the Emperor of Austria for the courage he showed during the inundations of 1878.—Témoin de la Vérite.

Prussia.—The Evangelical General Superintendent has warned the clergy of the Evangelical State Church of Prussia against Sectarianism. Many movements, he says, are taking place by foreigners, and as these are mostly Christian believers, they attract many of the State Church, and so create distraction and separation. Others carry on revolutionary propaganda under cover of religious movements, and not without success. The clergy are desired to use all their influence and power to put down all such outside work.—Evan-Kirch. Anzeiger.

North-East Italy.—Last month a new church in connection with the Free Italian Church was opened at Udine, in the North-East. The minister is Signor Frizziero, one of the youngest of that Church, and only some months located there. He is evidently giving a good account of himself. The great event roused the clerical wrath to such a degree that their organ, Il Cittadino Italiano, devoted no less than three and a half columns to the event, filled with the most virulent language. The consequence was that the inauguration of the opening of a Protestant Church was made worthy of the great event in the history of the town by the large congregation which assembled.

The Toronto Telegram says that, as the result of Moody's meetings in that city, many have been led to pay their debts, and admits that to be a very practical test of the good he has accomplished. From former experiences we can testify that this has been the result of Mr. Moody's work in other places. Mr. Moody never spoke more pointedly than when he said that what we wanted was a revival of downright honesty among professing Christians. It makes us ashamed to hear from day to day of fraudulent failures in which men who are professing Christians are involved, and we take it that a higher standard of commercial morality will be the best sign of revival we can show.—Presbyterian Review.

Madagascar.—The Journal Réligieux gives the origin of the claim made by the French upon this large island : "In 1861 the young King Rakoto became very intimate with a Frenchman, named Lambert, the director of a sugar refinery, and consented to cede to him certain lands, which were national property, and which he had no right to alienate to any foreigner. The indignant chiefs utterly refused to recognise this illegal engagement, which had been concluded by the King and Lambert, and got rid of the King, who could so abuse his position, by strangling him. Lambert gave over his rights to a French Company." This is the origin of the continual attempts to take possession of Madagascar.

MR. MOODY IN CINCINNATI.

FOR some time past, says the Cincinnati Commercial of December 18, the advent of Mr. Moody in Cincinnati has been anticipated with great expectation and earnest hope. During the past few years, but especially since the riot, good people have been much concerned about the moral and religious condition of our city. While substantially the same problem commands the attention of thoughtful people in all our great cities, Cincinnati has been commonly supposed to take the lead in many kinds of iniquity. Although there may not be ground for saying it is the wickedest city on this continent, all who feel an interest in morality and religion will agree that the state of affairs is bad enough to summon all good people to earnest action. Profanity, licentiousness, drunkenness, gambling, Sabbath-breaking in all conceivable forms, the running of low theatres and dives, the open and defiant violation of law, these things, and many more, constitute an awful torrent of iniquity. It is by no means the worst result that such a state of affairs has brought the "Paris of America" into disrepute in many quarters. Iniquity is inimical to the interests of trade. This conviction alarms a class of men impervious to any higher influence.

More recently people have been settling down to the conclusion that something must be done to stay the tide of evil. The Church has become alarmed and resolute. In the light of our burning court-house we have read an awful lesson. Ever since that time the subject of reaching the masses has more or less commanded the attention of the ministers of the city in their meetings, and the same subject has frequently been made prominent in the services of the Sabbath. While the Church is growing, and there is no ground for discouragement, the summons to work comes louder than ever before, and the realisation of imminent danger spurs Christians on to greater activity.

It is profound anxiety on this subject, and an intense desire to reach the people, and all this under the conviction that righteousness is our one hope, that people are high-wrought in expectation and hope of good results from special evangelistic effort. Accordingly, Mr. Moody comes, and we believe under favourable auspices. He has the good will not only of all religious people, but of great numbers outside the Church, who rightly estimate the nature of morality and religion. For several days interest has been worked up in a most systematic manner. Although the evangelists and all most humbly and sincerely avow, our only hope is in God, still the machinery has been most complete. For a week past Major Whittle has been arousing us as a forerunner of Mr. Moody.

He has been accompanied and very much assisted by the "sweet singers of Israel," Mr. and Mrs. McGranahan. Meetings have been held almost every afternoon in the heart of the city, while at night services were conducted in various suburban churches, all as preliminary to the Convention which began last night. Mr. Whittle's addresses have been eminently practical, very earnest, from a warm heart, and delivered with impressive animation. During all these services, although some were held in very inclement weather, the interest gradually grew to the culmination in the opening of the meeting last night. The press has also been freely and wisely used. The Convention has been most assiduously advertised and commended in all our religious and in many of the secular papers. Circulars have been scattered broadcast. Tickets have been distributed by the thousand, and, although their importance has been magnified, we drop the hint that none in authority have said that people without tickets will not be admitted to the Convention.

It is generally understood that the Convention itself is preliminary to the main work constantly pressing upon the Church. Its object is to awaken greater interest and activity among Christians, to enlist them earnestly in the service of Christ, and give instruction in the best methods of work. On the theory that the apathy and inactivity of the Church is one of the greatest obstacles in the way of reaching the unconverted, the occasion of the Convention is opportune. It should be regarded as only the beginning of prayerful and persevering effort in the prosecution of the great duty of the Church to "Preach the Gospel to every creature." In a word, all the meetings look to a revival in the Church, that, as a result of this, sinners may be converted unto God.

RAGGED SCHOOL WORKERS.

THE Ragged School Mission at Nelson-street, Camberwell, held their quarterly meeting of workers on Monday week. Hon. A. F. Kinnaird was present to preside. After refreshments, Rev. Dr. Clemance spoke some words of friendly counsel. The Hon. Secretary, Mr. John Kirk, glanced at the past history of the place, how it was started about seventy years ago as a school, and was reorganised about nine years ago. A strong tide of Ritualism set in against them last year, which, however, had been steadily and kindly resisted. Each department of the Mission had prospered, and a marked improvement was observable in the neighbourhood. The Gospel services were well attended, and a real hold of the people had been obtained. A much greater work, however, might be done had they larger and better premises, and these they hope to get some day.

That real work is done is evident by a little paper that fell into our hands, on which were announced, family Christmas dinners, children's Christmas service, watchnight service, Temperance entertainments, mothers' meeting, Christmas tree, Robin dinner, tea for the sewing class, &c., all within a few days, and in addition to the regular meetings, which seem to be arranged for all sorts and conditions of the poor, including men, women and children. The workers are clearly united in the bonds of Christian love, and have strong faith in the success of the good work they are doing. The clothing of the lads and lasses who go from the school to situations is a marked feature in the Mission; and at a recent tea meeting no less than thirty of these old boys and girls were present. The Temperance section holds its own and more,. for at a recent gathering fifty pledges were taken, the Band of Hope was reorganised, and twenty mothers and fathers were led to sign through the influence of the children.

All the representatives gave good reports of the several departments of work done. On one evening a week the boys are taught carpentering, and another is set apart for recreation and something entertaining. The city missionary, who labours in the immediate district, works heart and hand with Mr. Kirk. He told of some poor children who sometimes wait about in the cold an hour and a half in hope of getting a little soup. At the Gospel service conducted by him every Wednesday evening, much appreciation is shown by the parents, who attend in goodly numbers.

Following the example of our Saviour, the bodily needs of the people are considered and met. The Sunday morning breakfasts are specially designed unto this end. Mr. Kirk says: "During the winter months a service, preceded by a simple breakfast, is conducted on Sunday mornings, when more than 200 of the most abject specimens of fallen humanity which it is possible to find are gathered together. The news that a nice hot cup of tea and some thick slices of bread and butter are to be had for nothing, soon travels, and the poor destitute creatures gather together from far and near. In this unpromising field great good has been done, and some of the most regular helpers are those who first came under far less favourable conditions. These meetings have resulted in many conversions; more than 150 have professed to get spiritual good, and some are now helpers in the work. Time, indeed, would fail to tell of the prodigals reclaimed, friends restored, situations found, and the many to whom a helping hand has been extended. To God be all the glory."

When we are informed that "three of our best helpers are converts rescued from the lowest depths of wretchedness," and then read the extract taken from the Bishop of Rochester's recent speech, saying, "There is no place in all London where so real a mission field as this is," we are not left in doubt as to the genuineness of the work done, or the reality of the divine blessing that rests upon it.

Lest we should appear to have dwelt too exclusively upon the mechanical side of the mission, let us observe that very recently there was quite a revival of spiritual work among the elder girls, four of whom came out boldly for Christ. There is also the case of a young man who came to the Sunday morning breakfasts in the lowest state of poverty and wretchedness; he heard the truth and received it, obtained a situation, became a Christian, and is now a regular helper in rescuing his comrades. Another case was that of a man with his wife and child, who were homeless and destitute. A temporary shelter was afforded. The man soon found work, and is now reinstated in his former situation as foreman, progressing in temporal things, and gives every indication of a consistent Christian walk. He often comes, even now, from a distance, to visit and help the Mission to which he feels he owes so much.

MISSIONS IN TROPICAL LANDS.

DEAR SIR,—Subjoined is an extract of a letter I have just received from Mr. James B. Eddie, one of our noble missionaries labouring in the Congo River district. All information regarding that important territory is of especial interest at present, and his testimony regarding the climate is reassuring in view of some things which have been said. He can speak with some authority, having been resident about one year and a half 200 miles beyond Stanley Pool.

Faithfully yours, John Baird.

1, Morningside Drive, Edinburgh, Jan. 8.

"Oct. 15, 1884.—I am thankful to our heavenly Father to be able to say that I never enjoyed better health in my life than I am doing at present. Our health is in a great measure in our hands, and depends upon ourselves whether it be good or bad. I am exceedingly grieved to see in nearly every Christian paper I read some article on the unhealthiness of that or the other tropical country. One would almost begin to think that, after all, the world is not very well adapted for the habitation of man. Is there any climate on earth that is not abused? Africa in general, but especially the Congo, seems to get a large share of attention in this respect.

"In The Christian of no very late date I saw that a committee of an American Missionary Society had come to the conclusion that in Western Africa nine men's lives had to be sacrificed to obtain one who could stand the climate. This conclusion is anything but logical or true, as anyone might easily see who has lived here or any other part of West Central Africa. What about the large numbers of men sent out, perhaps by that very committee, by habit, knowledge (or rather a want of it), and constitution unfit successfully to combat the difficulties of the work and climate? There is to some a certain halo of romance surrounding Mission life and work among the heathen in a foreign country. But when they reach the sphere of their labours that halo vanishes, and they are filled with disappointment.

"What follows in too many cases one may guess. The people at home ought to have the truth, all the truth, and nothing but the truth told them. Their ideas about this country certainly need correcting. There is, on the one hand, no need of frightening people by telling them that nine out of every ten men die immediately on entering a tropical country; nor yet to paint things so as to excite the imagination only, without supplying facts by which the judgment may decide correctly."

A PERFECT MAN.

By Rév. W. H. HAY AITKEN.*

WHEN I was asked by the Secretary to give an address at this meeting, the impression left on my mind was that the address would be designed to follow up my recent work in the City, and that I was not to regard myself bound by the subject appointed for the day. It is desired that I should not feel so, but I observe that this meeting is, in some respects, different from what I expected. However, as I prepared a few words I intended to say with this view, I shall proceed on the lines that have been present to my mind. I think that in the subject which I am bringing before you, if we do not find thoughts altogether and directly connected with the subject before us, still we shall find that which I have to say will not be inappropriate, at any rate, to the great subject of "Praise" which has been so well presented to you to-day.

Turn to Ephes. iv. 13: "A perfect man." I am aware that Paul probably used this expression in the sense of a mature man, a man who has reached the fulness of stature; but the thought more naturally suggested to our minds by the words is one that we meet with all through New Testament Scripture, and I do not intend to be bound at all by the exegesis of the passage which lies before us. Rather I wish to dwell upon the subject suggested to our minds by the words as they stand, "a perfect man."

We should not be wrong in affirming that one great object of our blessed Lord in his incarnation was to bring before the children of earth the ideal of a perfect man. Until the time when He passed in and out amongst us thousands of generations of men had arisen and disappeared. Yet amidst all those innumerable multitudes there had not been so much as one perfect man. There had been a great many who had more or less approached towards perfection, a great many who were perfect no doubt in certain particulars —at any rate, a great many whose conduct illustrated certain particular virtues to a large extent. But all were partial, all were incomplete, and therefore all imperfect. Because this was so, men were not in a position to form an appropriate idea of what perfection consists in. I can imagine some of you saying, "Imperfect they were before our Lord came, and imperfect they have continued to be since his blessed advent. What difference have we as compared with them?" Just this, that before our blessed Lord's incarnation, men were without that standard or ideal of perfection which now is brought within our reach. When they led imperfect lives they lived up—in some instances at any rate—to pretty much the level of the light they had; but the light that they had itself was imperfect. They were not in a position to sketch out in their minds, much less to fill up, in detail, the outline of a perfect character.

A PERFECT MODEL NEEDED.

Whatever type of morality or of religiousness we study that existed before the period of the Incarnation, whether we take the Hebrew type, or the Grecian type, or the Roman type, we find in each case not only a coming short of their own ideal, but an incapacity to comprehend the true ideal. Painters tell us that they are incapable of producing great works of art unless they have a proper model. They may be never so clever and skilful in manipulation with their brush, and their mind never so full of all sorts of beautiful conceptions, but unless they have a substantial, efficient, and plain model before them, they cannot produce a proper work of art. Even so, until there stood amongst men a man who in his life and character was the embodiment of all perfection—a man who could truthfully be described as "a perfect Man"—not only did men fall short of perfect, but they fell short of the idea of perfection. Their notion about perfection was of a kind to introduce a type of character altogether distinct from that which exists in the Divine Being Himself, and which ought to exist, and therefore must exist, in the perfect man.

If, for example, you take the Psalms of David, you find great depths of spiritual experience, but you do not find a perfect man. Without the slightest hesitation one is constrained to affirm that the perfect man never could have written some of those Psalms. He never could have hurled down anathemas, and called upon God Almighty to blast his enemies with the breath of his displeasure. David did that, and why? Because the perfect man had not been revealed; and when we meet with difficulties in the moral characters of Scriptural saints, there is great light thrown upon them by this, so as to prevent them being to our faith the stumbling-block they otherwise might be. The fulness of time had not arrived. The perfect man had not been manifested; those men had to be content with the light they had, and their lives fell far short of what the true type of manhood should be.

It was in the purpose of God that man should go through a process of training and an imperfect dispensation before the fulness of time should come and the Perfect Man should be revealed. When at last that fulness of time does arrive, then there is presented before us a model of what has been lying before the world now for 1850 years. Critics have been in a position to study and carp at it if they chose. Men of intelligence and thought have held that thing before them. Many have been able to turn it round on every side and look at it from every point, and yet here stands the amazing fact in this nineteenth century—this century of advancement, of improvement, of civilisation, and of refinement —that no substantial improvement has even been seriously suggested upon the type and ideal presented to us in the human life of Jesus of Galilee. Here is an obscure Galilean peasant, a man who springs up under most unfavourable influences, a man belonging to a nation cramped by national prejudice, a man who has not had the advantage of the training of the Greek school, ignorant of the writings of Plato and Aristotle, who has been simply brought up as a peasant son, in the midst of business surroundings, who suddenly steps right out to the forefront of moral progress, and turning round to men and to the world exhibits a type of character which subsequent generations have not been able, even from their own point of view, to improve upon. We Christians believe that they cannot improve upon it; but even from their own point of view they have not been able to indicate any single point in which that character has been defective, or in which that which claims to be the perfect man requires to be improved upon.

A POSITIVIST TRIBUTE.

Nay, it is to me a matter of the greatest interest to notice how the unbelief of the period bears its tribute to the Christian. Take up any of the ordinary productions of the various schools of unbelief, and I will answer for it you won't have read half a dozen pages before you meet with such a tribute. Look at Mr. Harrison's address the other day in the Synagogue of the Positivists: what was it from beginning to end? It was a tribute to the Christian even from one of the most avowed opponents of Christianity that exists at the present moment. Take his attitude with respect to wars of unnecessary aggression. Where did he get the idea that we ought to regulate our conduct according to the golden rule in our national affairs as well as in our individual relationship? Who was it that first taught we should do unto others as we would that they should do unto us? Did the Romans? Would the most high-principled of those Roman Senators have risen up in the Senate and have suggested that the conquest of a new province was immoral because it was merely the assertion of the right of the stronger? These sentiments were unknown until this obscure Galilean peasant taught them to the world. Then the sentiment pervaded society, and the world itself became leavened by it; having become thus leavened, we, or some of the lights of the nineteenth century, far from acknowledging Him to whom they are indebted for it, parade the idea before their fellow-men as if it were their own monopoly.

Where is the morality of which we boast? If we have the idea from Christ, why not admit the obligation? If we have found out an improvement upon his teaching, we have a locus standi; we can say we are in advance of Jesus Christ; we regard his character not as perfect, but as defective in some respect. But I fail to discover that this is the attitude assumed by modern unbelief. There are some who call themselves iconoclasts, who endeavour to break down the system of Christian ethics, but for the most part the position of thoughtful, unbelieving men is, "We accept the ethics of Christianity, but discard its surroundings. We admit that He spake as never man spake, but not that He did as never man did. We believe that He delivered the Sermon on the Mount, but not that He was raised from the dead." The one is to me as much a miracle as the other. To suppose that the Galilean peasant became teacher to the world is as startling an assumption as to suppose that by supernatural power the man was raised from the sleep of death into newness of life, and set forth in resurrection glory before his Father.

THE REVOLT OF THE HEART.

While there exists a disposition even on the part of those who call themselves unbelievers to recognise the morality of Christ and the perfection of his humanity, even while they turn their backs upon his claims to their allegiance as being Master and Monarch and Lord of all, side by side with this we must not ignore the fact that there is a disposition in society and working upon our human hearts just in the opposite direction—a disposition which moves us to revolt against the moral teaching of Jesus Christ, and to resent the ideal of perfection presented to us in Him. This is not so much a revolt of the intellect as it is a revolt of the heart. There are multitudes of people who, if you were to sit down and reason with them about the morality of the Gospel and the perfection of Jesus Christ, would be ready enough to make almost any admission you might desire, and yet in their hearts and lives they resent those very features of morality, or of moral conduct and character, which constitute the perfection of the perfect man.

I must go a step further. I am speaking to many young men, I find, and am glad to see them. How many a young man, and how many a man not so young, is to be met with who sins just because he has got into his mind a depraved idea of what true manhood is. He has a type of manliness of his own, present to his own imagination, and in shaping his life and his actions in accordance with that depraved estimate he falls into many of those sins which must contribute to disgrace his character and to degrade his humanity. This comes, I suppose, in the first place, of being slow to observe and take cognizance of the model which is presented to us; and, in the second place, from our being slow to avail ourselves of that spiritual power which, along with the model, is brought within our reach. For Christ came not only to show us what a perfect man is, but to show us how we may become perfect men.

Let me take a few of those respects in which Jesus Christ stands before us as the perfect man, and put side by side with the revelation He makes of human perfection, the depraved ideal of perfection which is present to the minds of many who consider themselves to be fine manly fellows. How much sin is attributable to the fact that we shrink from the idea of dependence, and are disposed to assert an attitude of independence—primarily of God. It is of that I am specially speaking. How many a man objects to the obligations and restraints of religion just because it seems to him to be an abandonment of his moral freedom. "Be a man; put away all these old-womanish ideas. If you allow yourself to be priest-ridden and dictated to by persons who happen to call themselves saints, there is an end to your manhood. You'll become a poor, puny driveller, whining after the prayer-meeting, and so you'll waste your life, and there's an end to everything manly." Is not that the way the thing presents itself not unfrequently to the mind of the young man? Here is obviously the depraved idea of manhood that is present to the minds of a large number of those who turn their backs upon the claims of Christ.

---

* An address at Centenary Hall, Bishopsgate, during the Week of Prayer.

THE MANLINESS OF DEPENDENCE.

While what I said is perfectly true—that even unbelief bears tribute to the perfection of Jesus, and even those who do not admit his Deity none the less witness to the perfection of his manhood —while that is perfectly true, I notice on the other hand that in cases where men have distinctly and definitely thrown off all faith, and where manliness becomes a thing aimed at and sought after quite apart from the direction and teaching of Jesus Christ, I find there that a certain type of morality and of character is being induced which falls short obviously of the beauty of true evangelical character, just because men lack that particular element in perfection which was so largely displayed in the whole course of the life of the perfect Man. Observe, from beginning to end the life of Jesus Christ as a perfect Man was a life of dependence. If He bore witness to any one thing more than another it was to this, that although He was a sinless man, and occupied therefore vantage ground as compared with us, yet from first to last, throughout the battle of his life, he assumed and maintained an attitude of continuous dependence upon the Father. He won't perform a miracle until He has received orders from the Commander-in Chief; He won't speak a word unless He knows that the words He speaks are those which come from his Father and his God; He won't allow himself to undertake a particular branch of his ministry, and won't go up to Jerusalem, until He receives an indication of the will of the Father concerning it. From the beginning to the end, the life of the man Christ Jesus was one continuous expression of sustained dependence. He was what He was because the Father had sent Him, and did what He did because the Father worked through Him. He spake what He spake because the Father inspired his lips. He thought what He thought because the Father was paramount ever to his mind. The Perfect Man is the most dependent man who ever lived, and yet He was just the man of all others who might have struck out a path for himself and claimed to have been independent.

In this type of perfection, as presented in Christ Jesus, we have brought before us the proper normal condition of man. It is all very well to be independent, if we can be; but where independence is impossible, then obviously it lies in the nature of things that the more we recognise our dependence and act up to it, the better and the truer are we to our type when we do so. Yonder is a very splendid object rising before our eyes which we call an oak. It grows by itself, and as we look at it we see it is beautiful because true to its type. As a vegetable it has a certain independent existence, if I may so speak; but when you look at it you see something growing around the trunk, and you find it is an ivy plant. The ivy plant is dependent; it is one of nature's parasites. It twines its arms around the tree and grows higher and higher, spreading its leaves and becoming more beautiful and more rich just in so far as it recognises its dependence. The type of the ivy is a dependent type; the type of the oak is an independent type. Were the oak to condescend to become a parasite it would be untrue to itself; and were the ivy to cease to be a parasite it would be untrue to itself. Leave the ivy all to itself, and the poor miserable thing creeps along the ground, dwindles away, and disappears altogether. Why? Because it is not allowed to be true to its own proper type.

GOD ALONE INDEPENDENT.

Even so, my friends, if man could be independent, his highest dignity, the perfection of his nature, would lie in the assertion of his independence. It is, as it seems to me, the supreme glory of God that He is truly independent. It is a thing difficult to realise, that were the whole universe to-morrow shattered into fragments, and to resolve itself into chaos, the eternal God remains independent of it all. Fixed in his own everlasting omnipotence, He is what He is: "Thou art the same; Thy years cannot fail." Therefore God is true to his own type and to the splendour of his own character when He asserts his own independence, and exclaims, "There is no God beside me." But just as God's glory shines forth in his recognition of his own independence, so man's glory shines forth in the recognition of his dependence. There is nothing more like the action of a charlatan than for a man to ape the airs of independence when he knows he is not independent. For a young man who goes up to college to speak in disrespectful terms of him whom he calls his "governor," just as if he could perfectly dispense with him at any moment, when he knows all the time that every £5 note he has in the world comes from that father's liberality, is for that man to play the part of a conceited jackanapes, and not the part of a man. Even so, the greatness and the glory of man consist in the recognition of his attitude of dependence, and in the living up thereto—I won't say the living down, for it is the glory of man to live the life of Christ, just as it is the glory of God to live the life of self-dependence.

When you turn from all this, and look at the pages of modern literature which contain the expressions of unbelief, you find that instead of our having improved upon the ethics of Christianity in this century, in so far as we are true to the first principles of moral beauty and perfection, we retain what Christ taught us; but in so far as we turn our backs upon what Christ taught, instead of improving upon those features of beauty we detect in Him, we find an essentially degraded type of character.

I took up the other day a paper which had been sent me, the paper, above all others in the world styled The Freethinker. The first thing that met my eye was a blasphemous picture, intended to hold up to the most ribald and coarse ridicule some of the holiest sanctities of our faith. It was not that one was shocked at the thing, but the thought presented itself—are these our moral ethics? Is it so that having dispensed with Jesus Christ we now come to conclude that whereas He taught us the lessons of meekness, tenderness, and sensibility for the feelings of others, and so forth, and all that is contained in that one great word "Charity," now, forsooth, our modern teachers have improved all that away? Is it so, then, that the new type of character which is to be heralded by the apostles of modern unbelief, is to be of such a kind that all we have learned to admire as most beautiful in the character of Jesus—his meekness, gentleness, absence of self-assertion—is to be regarded as a vice of our nature, and ruthlessly crushed? "Resist not evil," says Jesus. "If a man strikes you, strike him back as hard as you can," says the modern atheist. Which is right? Which is the higher type of manhood—the man who curbs his spirit, who says, "I will allow my anger and my self-interest to be merged into a higher will," or the man who says, "Fight back as hard as you can, and give the man ten for his one?"

WHICH IS THE HIGHER TYPE OF CHARACTER?

When we turn our back upon the life of faith, what have we left? Nothing but the life of self-assertion. Let me lead a life of dependence, and then I can commit myself and all my belongings into the hand of God. In the one case, when a man wrongs me I leave it in the hands of God; in the other, when a man wrongs me there is nothing left but fisticuffs. Instead of our modern leaders opening up a new and glorious era in which man is to be trained or educated to a higher level and become a grander or nobler being—on the contrary, if the views which from our early days we have entertained of the beauty that there is in Christ Jesus, if there is any degree of truth in them, if these things which men have been most disposed to admire in the morality of Jesus, if these are not so many deceptions, we are actually to be trained by our modern leaders to a lower and not a higher state of ethics; the morality of Jesus Christ is to disappear in the dim ages of the past and float away like a mirage of the desert—a beautiful unreality, a pleasant figment of an obscure imagination which for a time reached and ruled the hearts of men, but now has passed away to be supplanted by the iron law of self-assertion. Where man stands forth and claims for man the consideration that he regards as being his due, there Christ of Galilee teaches men and women to deny themselves, to turn their back upon the "I" and to live for the eternal "Thou." The perfect man stands before us; there also stands the ideal perfect man of our modern teacher. You put the two side by side with each other, and look first at the one and then at the other, and you are in a position to judge whether after all our teachers are teaching us anything worth learning. I am persuaded of this, that the day when men or any particular individual man turns his back upon the Christ, that will be the day in which he turns his back upon the truest and the highest principles of morality.

A DEGRADED IDEAL.

I will consider another form of that moral imperfection which springs from a degraded ideal of manliness. You know what it is to meet with men who are mastered by the idea that in yielding to their lower and animal nature they are really exhibiting their manliness. I think nothing is much more common than this in social life. How many a young man is led into a fast life just by the idea that in leading it he is showing himself a man. It is very manly indeed to break your mother's heart, to plunge into all sorts of excesses, to give loose rein to your lusts. Other fellows do it, and, if so, why should not you? And if you cannot do that sort of thing, how do people talk of you? "So-and-so is squeamish, old-womanish, not a man at all!" Is not that the way the young men speak about those who choose to stand up for principle, and turn their backs on what is impure and unworthy? What is it that we are doing for ourselves when we turn our back upon the type presented in Christ Jesus, and present to our own imaginations an altogether alien and contrasted type? A moment's reflection will answer. There are within our nature what I must describe as two elements—the God nature and the beast nature. Do not let us speak disrespectfully of the animal nature. It exists for a purpose. Here it is, to be used by us according to God's own institution, and according to the mind of Him who has called it into existence. But, after all, let me remember that it is the animal; it is the lower, and not the higher.

When you play the man after a distorted fancy, when you allow yourself to become the slave of your own lust, or follow your wayward fancies and turn your back upon the restraints of religion and morality, what are you doing? You are practically making the man within you bend the knee before the brute. You are practically saying to your lower element, "Ye shall rule," and to the divine element, which savours of the high and holy source from which we have derived our being, "Be thou the obedient drudge and slave to that over which thou oughtest by right to rule," thus distorting the proper relations of your nature, and making your manhood disfigured and debased. There is anarchy where there ought to be order, and internal discord where there ought to be peace, and a laying up a harvest of regret from which there is no escape.

CHRIST'S SELF-CONTROL.

When we turn from this to the Perfect Man, the contrast at once impresses our mind as much as it arrests our attention. What was the relation of Jesus Christ towards his lower nature? for He had an animal nature just as we have, though without sin. What was it? One of complete self-control. I have heard it objected that Jesus Christ was never tempted, just because He had never sinned; never could come under the force of passion as we come under it. But may it not be the case that the unique character of the temptation to which our Lord was exposed more than counterbalanced that? Have you ever been tempted by a forty days' fast? There is let loose upon the man Christ Jesus all that tremendous force of desire stimulated to an abnormal extent by that extraordinary abstinence, and yet, although every nerve and fibre of his body was crying out for the sustenance which nature demanded, though a legitimate appetite was at the highest possible point of tension, and was demanding prompt and immediate satisfaction when the tempting offer came, "Turn these stones into bread;" in the power of that Divine grace which dwelt in his manhood, the perfect man repudiated the proposal, and preferred that his highest nature shall feed upon the Word of God, rather than that his lower nature should grovel in earthly comfort in contempt of the Divine Will.

Who is the perfect man? The man who says to the beast within him, "Be thou ruler," and to the God within him, "Be thou slave;" or the Man who, in the power of God, holds the animal under his control, and moves along the course of life in the calm majesty of self-restraint, until at last through Gethsemane He advances to Golgotha, and lays his quivering frame upon the cruel cross, to receive the Roman nails without shrinking, because the animal was completely subjected and under the dominion of the Divine control?

Such is real manhood, and such may be ours. One word only ere we separate. It is one thing to look at the perfect Man; it is another thing to possess Him. While we look at Him, while we admire Him, let us remember that He is not a beautiful picture or a splendid piece of sculpture which we can gaze at and make our notes upon; but let us bear in mind that He is a power, that He is to live in our hearts and dominate our lives. Let us remember that He proposes not merely to show us what perfection is, but to bring his own perfection into our nature, making us partakers of the Divine nature. If any of us are wearied of our own incompleteness, and tired of our own efforts to rise, let us do what our Lord Jesus Christ would have us do in the consciousness of our own imperfection and failure: emptied of all our self-sufficiency, let us stretch out the hand of our faith to grasp Him as the power of a new and endless life, that He may bring into our human nature the glories of his Divine nature. If we submit ourselves as plastic in his hands, He will conform us unto his own image, until at last, as part of his Church triumphant, reflecting his final glory, we shall rise to be like Him, because we shall see Him as He is.

◆

MR. WIDDOWS IN THE EAST-END.

Dear Sir,—A series of special services have been held by Rev. F. G. Widdows (ex-monk), at the Victoria-park Tabernacle. The meetings were held the week before Christmas, and were well attended; even the very disagreeable weather did not hinder large congregations from assembling every night. The services were very hearty, hundreds of persons remaining for the after prayer-meetings. The last Saturday evening a congregation of more than a thousand attended to hear the ex-monk preach. Dr. Seddon (the pastor) assisted in the services, Mr. Widdows acting as organist, preacher, and leader of the prayer-meetings.

The impressive services of each evening can never be forgotten. One after another rose to testify that the sermons, lectures, and addresses of the ex-monk had been the means of bringing them to Christ. The many letters of thanks, the large congregations every night, beside the two meetings, one for men and one for women only on the Lord's-day afternoons, them any seeking private counsel, all prove the spirit of earnestness among the people.

The pastor of the church asked those who could truthfully testify before God and the world that these meetings had been blessed to them, and that Mr. Widdows had been the means under God of spiritual blessings to their souls, to rise, and by that act add their testimony that the ex-monk had not only exposed the idolatry of Rome, but had also faithfully preached the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Seven or eight hundred stood up, and several addressed the meeting.

Yours truly, (Mrs.) E. A. Lanthois.

22, Glaskin-road, South Hackney, E.

SYRIAN ORPHANAGE IN BETHLEHEM,

SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND, AND TRAINING INSTITUTION FOR EVANGELISTS.

By Rev. Dr. ADOLPH SAPHIR.

About two miles from Jerusalem, opposite the Mount of Olives, stands a house, which was built by faith, and which has been the centre of manifold Christian work and influence. It deserves to be better known in this country, and I doubt not that when known it will appeal to the sympathy of Christian hearts.

In the year 1861 a frightful massacre of Christians, by the Druses and Moslems, rendered many Christian children fatherless. This was the occasion when a devoted missionary, Mr. Schneller, a native of Würtemburg, in the South of Germany, from which so many faithful and zealous labourers have gone forth, commenced his labours among orphans. The work was begun in faith, and carried on in the midst of very great trials and difficulties with wonderful patience and fortitude. During the last year 140 orphans have been sheltered and trained in this Home. They are either Oriental Christians or Mohammedans, and come from Jerusalem, Jaffa, the cities of the Philistines, from Sidon, Beirout, and Damascus, even from Egypt and Abyssinia.

They are carefully and affectionately instructed in Gospel truth, and secular education is given them daily. The teaching, which comprises reading, writing, Arabic, German, arithmetic, geography, singing, and drawing, is given by four teachers and their assistants. The industrial training is carried on by seven German artisans for a period of two and three years. The orphans are trained to become tailors, shoemakers, carpenters, turners, or blacksmiths. An agricultural training is also carried on. There are already, in various parts of Palestine, &c., 250 artisans and colonists, who have been trained in this institution, leading useful lives and becoming centres of religious and civilising influence.

In addition to this most important and thoroughly organised work, there is a seminary, in which talented and promising youths are prepared to become schoolmasters and evangelists. This branch of the work, which is of very great and vital importance, might easily be extended, were it not for lack of means. About a year ago a school for the blind was also opened. As nothing had been done previously for the poor blind in the Holy Land, they were simply left to perish in their misery. Now there is a Home where they are taught about Him who had compassion on the blind men of Jericho and Jerusalem. They also derive an industrial education, which will render them useful members of society.

This institution, which was founded by "Father Schneller," a man of apostolic faith and love, is now carried on by his like-minded son, and under the care of a local committee, of which the pastor of the German Evangelical Church in Jerusalem is the chairman. It is supported chiefly by contributions from German Christians.

But the noble men who have devoted themselves to this work, are anxious, not merely to maintain it in its present efficiency, but to enlarge it, as the door is wide open. For this reason they wish to bring the institution before English Christians. The facts, stated in these lines, gathered from the various reports, bring before the reader only results; but the perusal of the reports themselves, full of touching incidents, has deeply impressed me with the thoroughness and genuineness of the work. It is characterised by the simplicity of faith, and thoughtfulness and patience of love, so often illustrated by German Christians.

When the aged Father Schneller inducted his son in the Home, he addressed to him, before the assembled congregation and the German priests from Jerusalem, the following words; "Grace and gifts, divine and human call, have brought you to Bethlehem. Stand fast and immovable, and abound in the work of the Lord. Be not weary on account of the many difficult things you have to do and to endure. Do not grudge the heavy and often unthankful labours of foundation-work, in which your parents have served God for thirty years, labouring and striving day and night, without seeing much fruit. Nobody, who has not experienced it, understands what has to be endured in labours among these childish populations, sunk in vice and earthliness, and in the midst of the enmity of superstitious religious communities. But be of good cheer, my son; there is One who hears and understands you, the Good Shepherd, who was born in this city. Tell Him, day by day, your need; He will not leave you, nor forsake you."

May I express the hope, that Christian friends interested in the Lord's work, and interested in the Holy Land, will help us with their contributions? Rev. Dr. Schoell, Rev. Dr. Rosedale, Dr. Laseron, and Rev. Theodore Meyer, cordially approve of the institution. Contributions will be received by the writer of this appeal, 19, Lansdowne-road, W.

◆

SOWING THE SEED IN ITALY.

A Roman Catholic priest, on being asked, "How do you account for the Sabbath being better observed in England than here?" answered, "Because the first book an English mother places in the hands of her little children is the Word of God." This we thought a remarkable answer from a priest. They are beginning to find ignorance and superstition produce sour fruit, and many of them are yearning for internal reforms. A very high dignitary in their church some months ago exclaimed, "All the schisms have been caused by our Popes imposing too much on the consciences of the faithful."

Padre Curci has done a good work in revising Martini's translation of the Gospels; these can now be procured for fivepence, the four Gospels bound together. Only a few weeks ago we sent a parcel of them to a Roman Catholic priest who had asked for them to give to his flock, but who said he could not accept our translation. Last winter in Rome we went to the Roman Catholic Library of the Propaganda della Fede, and had a talk with the librarian about Bible circulation. He said, "In England you love it, but here the people love the newspaper more than the Bible."

Now for a word of encouragement to those who have passed through this sunny land, "sowing the seed by the daylight fair." From time to time one meets with souls who have been blessed by the Bible portion or tract from an unknown hand. We noticed at a Pension one of the manservants frequently much absorbed reading a book, and found it was a Testament given by a passing stranger. Almost all the servants, as well as the proprietress of this same Pension, petitioned for similar gifts. Many hinder the work by saying, "What you circulate will only serve as fuel for the flames." If we observe the winds we shall never sow. It is true, Bibles are often destroyed when the name Diodati (our Protestant translator) appears, but we invariably tear it out, and then scatter portions here and there, praying God to lead the right persons to these heavenly treasures.

Some weeks ago a tract was given to a young Italian lady in a train; she received it with apparent indifference, but soon became absorbed in it, and ended by bursting into tears, so deep an impression having been conveyed to her mind. We asked one of the servants at this hotel to inquire how many of her fellow-servants would accept the four Gospels as a Christmas gift All who could read sent up their names as willing recipients, and the question was asked by one, "How is it we receive such good books from foreigners?" I. M.

Hotel Milano, Florence.

THE VICTORIA INSTITUTE held its first meeting for the year at Adelphi-terrace on Monday week, when several new home and colonial members were elected, and a paper on the Aboriginal tribes of India, by Professor Avery, was read.

Week of United Prayer.

MONDAY, JANUARY 5.

"REJOICE AND BE GLAD."

BY REV. H. WEBB-PEPLOE,

At Steinway Hall.

I SHALL ask you to look with me for a little at Matt. xxviii. 9: "As they went to tell his disciples, behold Jesus met them, saying, All hail." I hardly know a greater responsibility to rest upon Christians, in the common and in the more beautiful sense of the word responsibility—i.e., a sense of weight that rests upon them—than that high privilege accorded to us by Almighty God that we shall meet together in order to praise Him. We are met here to recognise not only what God has graciously done for us, but we are met to recognise what God is in Himself; what God is as He has revealed Himself to man in Christ Jesus the Lord. Therefore, we are met together to place upon record our glorious convictions of what the Lord Jesus Christ is.

Now, is it not wonderful that the great mass of Christians, those who have just clung to the garments of Jesus for pardon and peace, are able to take but little part in the praise-meeting? Jesus Christ is not to them, alas! what God would have Him to be; He is just the Atoner; it may be He is the Procurer of the pardon of God for the sins they have committed; but He is by no means all that God desires Him to be or what He is prepared to be. Therefore, when a minister speaks to people at a praise-meeting, it seems to me that the one great idea that he should have before his mind is to bring forth into prominence the real characteristics of our risen Lord who reveals to us God.

You will observe, from the passage I have taken, how uncommonly appropriate this idea is to the events that were happening in regard to these women. They have been to the tomb of our Lord Jesus Christ. They have received the wondrous evangel from the angels; they are returning to convey to the disciples, and to the world, the glad tidings. If you had stopped these women that day, and had asked them what they were going to tell, I trow me they would hardly have been able to express to you what they really believed the message was to be. We are told that they returned with fear and great joy. Is not that the most striking description of the attitude that is adopted by most believers when they pass away from any meeting where God's messengers have stood and conveyed to them the glorious tidings, "He is not here, He is risen; He is gone before you, as He said; go ye, and ye shall meet Him"? You retired yesterday from the meeting with God's ministers or angels, who are sent to give you the glorious tidings of the everlasting Gospel, and as you retired—suffer the word of exhortation and inquiry—were you perfectly sure of the message that you would carry with you? Were you perfectly clear in your hearts and minds as to the tidings that you would convey? I cannot but believe that with the majority of Christians the Lord Jesus Christ would have to feel that it was exactly as it was with these dear women, a clinging hopefully, and yet fearfully, to the blessed thought, "Perhaps my Lord has really risen, perhaps my Lord is going to be to me more than I have dreamt of in the days gone by."

But it needs another meeting beyond this before they are fitted to carry the tidings in all their fulness, and so it says the Lord Jesus met them, and He said to them, "All hail!" And this is exactly what is needed on the morning of a praise-meeting before we shall be able to go out to the world and testify what the Lord Jesus Christ as a revealer of God is. We cannot do Him justice, my brethren and sisters, until He has met us on the way to the world, to tell us what the angels told us yesterday, for we are not quite alive until Christ has spoken to us.

Now comes the question, What does He say? This word with which the Lord Jesus Christ greets them is a somewhat remarkable one. In the original it is Χαίρετε (Chairete). Through the original we find but this one word, and yet, strange to say, it is differently translated nearly every time. It is the common Greek salutation of all that met each other, Χαίρετε (Chairete). When men meet each other they at once realise how glorious the word is intended to be in its deep realities to them. It is translated, as I have said, in many different ways, and yet it is the same word. You find it for instance in 2 Cor. ii. translated "Farewell." Again, in 2 John 10, 11, it is "God speed." You find it again in James i. 1, the word is in the infinitive; in the others it is in the imperative. But the commonest idea of the word, and that which it generally represents, is "Rejoice." Eight times in the Philippians it is so translated, and three times where it is in the imperative mood, it is likewise translated rejoice. You have it for instance in Phil. iii. 1, "My brethren, rejoice in the Lord;" and again in chap. iv. 4, "Rejoice in the Lord alway and again I say rejoice." That is the very word which the Lord Jesus makes use of here, and it is for this cause that I have chosen this exhortation of our Lord.

It seems to me peculiarly fitting for us who are gathered here on the morning of praise to receive the message that Christ gives when He meets with souls, and when He would bestow on them all the fulness of the blessing of the Gospel of Christ.

Now comes the question, Why is it that all meetings are not filled with rejoicing as they ought to be? There is a pretty custom which some of you may have met with in Bohemia; at least, in certain parts of the more retired villages, where, when one person meets another, he says, "Seie Gelobt (Jesus Christ)," and the other replies, "Seie Gelobt, praise be to Jesus Christ;" the response being, "May He be praised!" In other parts of the Continent, on the Easter-day, they say to each other, "Jesus Christ is risen to-day," the response being, with a bow, "He is risen." It is a pretty thought, and it is one which it would be well if we could only bring into practical action in every part of our daily lives. "Praised be Jesus Christ to-day; He is risen!" This is the thought; the real force of the spiritual Gospel of Jesus Christ hangs upon the doctrine of the Resurrection, and the doctrine must be carried into practical form before we can really understand what God desires to have of us—viz., the life of our soul's joy and praise.

Why do Christians live so dolefully? Why is it that the world sees so little of real joy in those who claim to be like-minded with the Lord Jesus? He said the very night before He died that even then He wished his disciples' joy to be full, and that their joy might be a joy like his, a joy that He could have in the very face of the cross. The reason why we have so little joy is this: we have not realised the power of the resurrection. If we could only enter into the power of the resurrection by knowing Him, and really meet with Jesus this morning, who should come to us and say, "All hail!" "Rejoice!" and then should have to say farewell for a little time in his bodily presence, and leave us to dwell on his spiritual presence, our lives would be so exceedingly different to what, in the most cases, they have been in the past.

Let us look at what the power of the resurrection was to those to whom Jesus revealed Himself. Time forbids me to take up the whole of the well-known eleven instances in which Jesus Christ appeared after his resurrection. But just let us take them distinctively, as it were, in their classes. We see Him meeting Peter on the morning of the resurrection. We see Him meeting Mary Magdalene; we see Him meeting doubtful Thomas just eight days after He was risen from the grave. And in each case what do we see Him doing? Forgiving as He never forgave before, for He forgave now by the power of his death, of his resurrection, and of his new relation to God as the risen Lord and Saviour for men. He forgives; and that is the first thing that Christ ever does when He meets one in the power of his resurrection. He says, "Thy sins be forgiven thee; doubt no more, go in peace." Then they are to tell the brethren that the Lord Jesus has risen indeed, and has done this wonderful thing for them.

Again, He is walking with two disciples whose eyes are holden that they cannot know Him as they go on their way to Emmaus. He meets them, and explains the Scriptures to them; and when the veil is lifted, they get this blessed thought: "It is the risen Lord; did not our hearts burn within us as He opened the Scriptures to us this day?" That is the second great work of the Lord Jesus as the risen One. First, He forgives; then He opens the Scriptures. Afterwards, in the same 24th chapter of Luke, we find that they had their understandings opened to understand the Scripture.

Then we find Him meeting with the disciples at large, three times, in different places, and what is He doing with them? He is commissioning them to go forth and announce the glorious Gospel to the world. "Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature." "Go and teach all nations: I send you, as my Father hath sent Me." That is the power of the resurrection: Jesus sending forth his disciples, now forgiven, and taught to preach the Gospel, and to tell what love the risen Saviour has. Χαίρετε! χαίρετε! Rejoice, my beloved, that ye have got the privilege of everywhere going out to preach!

Yet once more we find Him meeting with the mass of the disciples, worried and frightened at the power of the Jews, and saddened that no heart goes out to them, and He says: "Receive ye the Holy Ghost. Whosesoever sins ye remit they are remitted unto them, and whosesoever sins ye retain they are retained." He is giving them power. But, alas! alas! for the disciples of God. They seem to have so little understanding of the wondrous power of the resurrection that when they are forgiven they cannot believe it; when they are really being taught, their eyes are holden that they cannot see Him; when they are really being commissioned to preach, they seem to have no understanding that all power is given unto Him, their Lord, in heaven and earth; and when they are actually receiving the Holy Ghost from Him, they seem so hard at heart that they cannot take it, as if Jesus were not yet glorified, and the Holy Ghost were not yet received.

All this is the power of his resurrection; and see you not how the moment Christ appears before people in the power of his resurrection He speaks that word, "All hail!" not in the common sense of greeting in the way you make use of it, but in the blessed deep spiritual meaning:

"Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for now your Lord is yours indeed."

Now comes the question, brethren, How is it that there are so many who know so little about this word joy? They can talk about their happy feelings sometimes; they can speak to you about their devoted service, it may be—for there are many giving their lives up to the work of God in this day; and yet after a time, if you enter into their hearts and into their lives, what know they of praise—that is to say, something much more than thanksgiving, something much higher than gratitude, something almost that corresponds to this idea: entering into the realities of the Godhead? That is what God is desiring of us in the person of Jesus. Why does He not get it? The answer is just this, that we have been so dependent upon circumstances, and we have thought that if our position in life was good—taking the popular meaning of that word good—then we might, perhaps, be able to praise God, then we might, perhaps, be able to sing, then we might go out to the world to say, "He hath done great things for us whereof we are glad."

Shame on us, Christian brethren, that we know so little of the heart of God, and so little of the power of the risen Christ, who is able to raise us far above circumstance and to place us in such a position in the heavenlies in Christ Jesus now that our joy may never cease, but may be full and fruitful too all the days of our lives. Mark what saints of God have done in days gone by. Take a few instances. Take, for instance, the thirty-fourth Psalm, where the Psalmist is speaking out of the very depths of sorrow, and he says, "I will bless the Lord at all times; his praise shall continually be in my mouth. My soul shall make her boast in the Lord; the humble shall hear thereof and be glad." Can we say that from the depths of adversity? And are we able to say it with a sad, sad heart, concerning the circumstances in which our God has placed us, to lift up our soul and make our boast in the Lord, so that the humble may hear thereof and be glad? Can we take up the words of Psalm xxxv. 9, "My soul shall be joyful in the Lord, even in the God of my salvation"? Can we sing in the words of that chapter of Isaiah which we heard read to us just now, "I will greatly rejoice in the Lord" (lxi. 10)? Can we—now comes the crucial point—can we speak in the words of Habakkuk the prophet, and say that though the fig tree shall not blossom, and there shall be no fruit in the vine, and though all external circumstances seem to be against us, yet will I rejoice in the Lord, my soul shall be joyful in the God of my salvation?

It is this that is a praise-meeting; and it has often saddened my heart as I retired from a praise-meeting to observe that hardly one, if any, of the dear brethren who have engaged in what was called devotional exercise was able to continue for more than one minute in praise. I have in many meetings oftentimes asked brethren to praise God, and I have found that from the heights of glory, in perhaps two sentences, they descended down to the very pit, to the miry clay of bitter agony of soul, and have cried to God to lift them out of the horrible pit, and to be pleased to plant their feet upon the rock. That is not the manner of God's service. That is not what God desires to see. But let us stand where God desires to put us, and lift up our souls in the word of this morning. And why? Because our Jesus is come to meet us in the power of his resurrection, and to say: "All hail!" Χαίρετε! "Rejoice and be exceeding glad!"

And now, if this be what God has graciously done for us, to call upon us to enter into the life of praise, the life of joy, see you not that circumstances cannot touch it? See you not that if at this moment you are walking in trouble, and have no external guide, that is the very time for you to trust in the name of God and to cast yourselves upon the name of your God? See you not that if you are called upon to pass through the dark valley of the shadow of death, long before you come to the actual physical dying, perhaps that is the very moment to say, "I have no fear, for Thou art with me: Thy rod and Thy staff do comfort me. Surely goodness and mercy do follow me all the days of my life"? That is what God is asking us to realise in Christ the risen Lord. And see you not that if at this moment your poor rebellious heart is saying, "If only it were otherwise I could be happy"—if it be saying, "Why am I thus?"—it is because you have not understood the magnificence of the risen Christ who comes to communicate Himself unto those that will come and take Him—as He meets the poor troubled women when they are in a mixture of fear and great joy, and says to them: "Χαίρετε! Rejoice!" and then bids them go and tell the blessed tidings to the world.

The last thought I would wish to give you is just this, that when our Lord Jesus Christ appears to the soul, He first of all communicates to the soul itself a perfect sense of peace. Now that is not merely pardon. People are always wondering whether their sins are forgiven. Blessed be God, my brethren, there are certain things about which, even in the saintly life, we are told that we are to forget those things which are behind, and to press forward to the things which are before! Take your stand upon the goodness of God, and say, "I know in whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He will keep that which I have committed to his charge." Do not have those miserable doubts and fears. Mr. Halting Step is just the sort of Christian that comes from not realising the risen power of Christ. Why should we not step out bravely on the promises of God? "Don't you see, sir?" No, I see nothing; but I know whom I have believed. What God has said He has fulfilled, and therefore I live by the faith of the eternal Son of God.

But it is not pardon only. Surely there is something very much more than that in the Christian's praises: there is such a sense of absolute union with God, such a sense of union in heart and mind, and such a sense of the inflow of God into the man that has entered into the risen life, that we realise what Christ realised at the moment He was raised from the dead. He can speak peace, He can give peace; but specially preach peace to the world. And this is what you and I are called to do after having received peace by the power of the risen life of Christ, when He meets us and says: "Χαίρετε, my brethren! Rejoice in the Lord. Now then," He says to us, "now you become my witnesses." How solemnly in Isaiah xlii. and xliv., which were the alternative lessons last night for the Church of England, there was brought before us that fact that all God's salvation is for one great end. It appears in both those chapters over and over: "Ye are to be my witnesses in the world."

I said at the outset that all our lack of peace and joy springs, I believe, from the fact that we have not apprehended God in the fulness of his being. The only way to apprehend God in his own fulness is to apprehend God in Christ. You remember perhaps two lines in a little hymn—I don't know from whence I gathered them—

> "We say a perfect God is He,
> And that perfect God is ours."

"Praise the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me praise his holy name." Amen.

THE PORTAL OF PRAISE.

By Mr. J. H. TRITTON,

At Centenary Hall, Bishopsgate.

IT was a happy thought to put Praise in the forefront of our subjects. I have been struck in reading the Word of God by observing how continually praise is made the portal of prayer. I know not in what attitude we each may have come up here this morning; but whether it be with hearts awed with solemnity at the goodness, the majesty, the beauty, the unspeakable love of our God, or whether it be with hearts bubbling over with joy and gratitude to Him, we find in each instance a word in this Book. Read the 65th Psalm and other passages, where we discover praise distinctly the portal of prayer. "Praise waiteth for Thee, O God, in Sion: and unto Thee shall the vow be performed." Shall we each one translate it as it is in the margin, "Praise is silent unto Thee"? or as it has been translated by Dr. Kaye, "All hushed, my soul waiteth for Thee"? I know not what the attitude of your heart may be this morning, but if that is it, here is your word: "Praise waiteth for Thee, O God, in Sion," and we will be hushed before God.

Then follows the prayer in the next verse: "O Thou that hearest prayer, unto Thee shall all flesh come." Have we come with hearts brimming over with joy, so that we can hardly contain ourselves—cannot stop singing all the time? In 1 Chron. xvi. we have a joyous song of praise at the commencement; then in the 35th verse one little short prayer—a mighty portal of prayer: "Save us, O God of our salvation, and gather us together, and deliver us from the heathen, that we may give thanks to Thy holy name, and glory in Thy praise." Then, as if he could not end with a prayer, but must end with praise: "Blessed be the Lord God of Israel for ever and ever. And all the people said, Amen, and praised the Lord." Praise first, and then prayer.

Praise first, and then confession. That may seem almost startling. It did to me when I noticed it, but I find an instance of it in Neh. ix. 5. You will find that all the Levites are gathered together. It was an occasion of a nation's confession. They spent one fourth part of the day in reading the book of the Lord, and in another fourth part they confessed, but they began it with praise. I like to see that even in our confessions praise should come first and foremost.

Again, it is the portal of deliverance. We might find many an instance of this throughout the Old and New Testaments. Turn to Psalm l.: "Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pay thy vows unto the Most High; and call upon Me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee." There we have prayer, praise, and deliverance. "And thou shalt glorify Me." He comes back to finish with praise.

Praise first, then building: "When the builders laid the foundation of the temple of the Lord, they set the priests in their apparel with trumpets, and the Levites the sons of Asaph with cymbals, to praise the Lord after the ordinance of David, King of Israel" (Ezra iii. 10). We have done much building (it may have been building castles in the air), but we have been building vows, and registering all sorts of promises to God. Have we commenced aright? Looking back over the past year, have we commenced building with praise? Perhaps if there has been failure it may be owing to the fact that we have not sufficiently laid the foundation in praise. Turn to Nehemiah, and we find that praise comes before re-building. Here is a thought for everyone of us at the commencement of a New Year. We are all thinking what we can rebuild during this coming year. Much has been damaged by the enemy, by time, by circumstances. Let us fall to and rebuild in 1885, but beginning always with praise, we and our families together rejoicing as one, so that the joy may be heard a long way off.

Praise first, then prosperity. That touches us in the City of London. I find that in many places, more particularly in Psalm lxvii.: "Let the people praise Thee, O God; let all the people praise Thee. Then shall the earth yield her increase; and God, even our own God, shall bless us. God shall bless us; and all the ends of the earth shall fear Him."

Men praise before victory (see 2 Chron. xx. 19, 20, 21, 22). What a power with which to go before our enemies! Praise first, then victory. We may come a little nearer to the inmost spring of our action; and so, praise first, and then service. In Psalm lxi. 8, "So will I sing praise unto Thy Name for ever, that I may daily perform my vows."

Praise first before service; praise first before communion. We find that in Psalm civ. 33 the Lord Jesus Christ is the central point. If we want sweet communion with Him, let us see that we enter through the portal of praise. Then praise before power. How we long to be more of a power for God in the world, that men may take knowledge of us that we have been with Jesus, and that they may be influenced thereby to come to Jesus. Psalm xl. 3: "And He hath put a new song in my mouth, even praise unto our God: many shall see it, and fear, and shall trust in the Lord."

Once more, praise before consecration, and that you find in 1 Peter ii. 9: "But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people; that ye should show forth the praises of Him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light." A separate people called to show forth his praise, and can we wonder at it?

Can we wonder that praise should be the portal of everything, when we remember, as we are taught in Eph. i., that it was the special work of the Triune Jehovah in our salvation, that praise might redound from each one of us? In that chapter we find that the process of salvation, beginning from far back in the counsels of eternity, right down to the moment of each individual believer's assurance of salvation—the idea, if I may so speak, was to the praise of our God. Notice the work of the Father in ver. 5: "Having predestinated us unto the adoption of children to the praise of the glory of his grace." Then the work of the Son, "In whom we have redemption through his blood, that we should be to the praise of his glory." And then a little lower down (13, 14), "Sealed with that Holy Spirit of promise unto the praise of his glory." Brethren, the counsels of our God are that we should live in praise; that it should be the portal of every action. It is a beautiful thought that praise should precede everything that we do, and accompany everything that we ask.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 6.

A CALL TO WAKEFULNESS.

By Rev. DONALD MACLEOD.

At Steinway Hall.

IN the light of the subject with which we are dealing to-day—Confession and Humiliation—I have chosen some words in Romans xiii. 11, on which very briefly to address you, "Knowing the time, that now it is high time to awake out of sleep; for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed." There are few things more striking than the repeated and pressing calls to wakefulness and earnestness which we find in Scripture addressed to true Christians. If I ask an unconverted man to awake, it is the warning that is plainly suited to his condition. He is in danger of being lost, and every day is shortening the time in which he can obtain deliverance. But it is not quite so easy to see the force or the fitness of the call when applied to the Christian. Yet a glance at the context shows that it was to true believers in Rome that Paul was writing. If Christians needed the warning then, they certainly need it now. I believe that most of the sins and failures of believers in the present day may be traced to this one evil of spiritual slothfulness.

Let me mention some things that may well stir us up to greater wakefulness, in view of our salvation being nearer than when we believed. "Our salvation," I need hardly say, in this connection does not mean our acceptance by God in Christ; that is the point from which we begin to run the Christian race. It applies to the time of our complete redemption, body, soul, and spirit, when our Lord will come again and clothe this corruptible with incorruption, and when this mortal shall put on immortality. In the words of the Apostle, therefore, we find a reason for wakefulness, because the time is shortening in which we can do the work that God has given us to do. "To every man his work," said the Master—to every man. I think it would help us to be and to do better if we realised our true position in the world and the chief end of our being in it. We are not here as proprietors of anything we possess; if we were we might do with that property anything we liked. But we are only stewards. God has given us certain talents and opportunities; these have to be traded with, not in the first instance for our own profit, but for his glory. How thoroughly our Great Master realised this. Even as a boy we find Him busy among the doctors in the Temple, and saying, when He was remonstrated with, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" So, too, we hear Him saying to the disciples, "My meat and my drink is to do the will of my Father." Hear Him again at the close of his three years of public life, "I have finished the work Thou hast given Me to do. I have glorified Thee on the earth."

Such, also, was Paul's ideal of life. How fully he entered into his Master's thought: "To me to live is Christ." "Whether we eat or drink, or whatsoever we do, do all to the glory of God." What an inspiring, what an ennobling, what a consecrating view of life is that! Alas! how many there are in whose lives there is but little of God; they plan without consulting Him, they labour without depending on Him, they prosper without owning Him, and they meet trial without resting on Him. Thank God, there are many in all our communities and congregations who are living self-denying, generous, God-glorifying lives. And yet, how much there is of misspent time, of slumbering energy, of lost opportunities, of selfishness and self-indulgence; and these not in the world, but in the Church of God. If not, how can it be that there are so many poor ones with none to help them; so many hungry and thirsty ones, with none to give them food and drink; so many sick and sorrowful, with none to visit them; so many wandering far away, or sinking down in the mire of sin, with none to stretch out a gentle and kindly hand to lift them up or bring them back?

Are there not force enough and power enough in the Church of Christ to do those things? If the Church does not do the work, it will never be done. There is plenty of force in the Church if she only goes about it in the spirit of faith and prayer. But which of us is doing it? What of that word of counsel we ought to have spoken, but we put it off till it was too late? What of the help we might have given, the prayers we might have offered for some relative or friend, but we allowed the opportunity to slip by? Are we not like the disciples in the Garden of Gethsemane? Three times the Master came to them with a yearning desire for sympathy. In one sense they could not lighten the burden that was resting so heavily on Him, yet their prayers and watchful sympathy might have helped to strengthen Him in that terrible hour. But no! they could not throw off the slothful spirit that clung to them. So the hour passed; the battle was fought without them; the victory won without them. They might have helped Him, but they did not; and so at last He came to them with that other word, "Sleep on now and take your rest." Dear friends, the time is shortening in which we can do our appointed work; let us therefore not sleep as do others.

Again, the time is shortening in which we are to complete what I shall call our sanctification. "This is the will of God, even your sanctification." One of the chief reasons why a spiritual and holy life is not more prevalent among us, is because we do not keep such a truth as this sufficiently or distinctly before us. There are the same old tempers that have the mastery over us, the same old temptations to which we yield, the same timidity and weakness that belong to the new-born babe in Christ, instead of the manliness and self-control and self-sacrifice that belong to those who have attained the stature of full-grown men and women in Christ. I sometimes come across young Christians who are much perplexed about certain things: should they read this book, or indulge in that pleasure, or associate with such-and-such companions, or mix in such-and-such society? My answer is: Yes, read the book, indulge in the pleasure, associate with the companions, if you can do it in the light of the thought of your nearing redemption, and if it would not cause you to blush were Christ suddenly to join you in his bodily presence. That is a simple test for us all, and a very searching one; let us each apply it honestly and fairly. We are the children of the light; what have we to do with the unfruitful works of darkness, except to reprove them? We cannot have a life of self-pleasing and self-indulgence if we would also know the peace and blessedness of being Christians indeed—out-and-out Christians.

After all, personal holiness is the main thing, and not as regards ourselves alone. Of course, the first question is how our own souls are to live and prosper in health. But this matter of personal holiness relates not only to ourselves and to God, who has given us the high and holy trust of life, and asks it back again, by a right peculiarly his own; it has its relation to others. Our personal holiness helps to make others holy; true and faithful personal discipleship brings many others to the feet of the same Lord and Master. What might Christians not do for Christ in the world, with their tempers so much more sweet, their behaviour so much more generous, their life so much more pure, themselves so much more likeable than others, because they are Christians? What, I say, could not such men and women do as epistles of Christ, that might be read and known of all men? They would force the world to believe in the Son of God; as they touch it they would leaven the whole lump. Give us such Christians and the millennium day will soon dawn. They would make the world, indeed, a new creation in Christ Jesus.

The Chairman [Mr. Donald Matheson] spoke of one who said he would drop a tear on entering heaven, because he was parting with that friend repentance. There is another reason, I think, why we may all drop a tear as we find that the hour of our salvation is coming nearer. I remember, as a young minister, sitting at the bedside of one of the most faithful pastors in our Church in Scotland. As the time of his departure was drawing very near, he said to me, "Oh that I could yet do something more." A wife, about to become a widow, and several children, were standing around the death-bed as calm as I am now. It was not the fear of parting with them that troubled the departing saint, for he had committed them to the Father of the fatherless and the Husband of the widow. He said to them, "I know God will never let you want." The fear that was still clinging to him and preventing, as it were, the glad spirit from soaring away as upon eagle's wings into the presence of his King, was this—he had not done enough. "Oh that I could do something more before I see Him face to face." Do you feel that you could do more, pray more, or give more, and are tempted not to do it? Look at it again in the light of Gethsemane and Calvary. How the treasures and pleasures of earth pale, like the rushlight before the glorious noontide sun, as we think of the appeal of the great Apostle, who himself had sacrificed all for Christ: "Ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, who, though He was rich, yet for your sakes became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich."

◆

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 7.

THE CHURCH: HER GLORY, MISSION, AND POWER.

By Rev. ARCHIBALD BROWN,

At Steinway Hall.

THE subject for to-day is a large one. Our time is very short; therefore we shall condense, as far as possible, and try, in every sentence, to keep to the actual subject before us. In the circular announcing these meetings, you will find several texts mentioned. I will read the first. [Read Ephesians iii. 14 to end of the chapter.]

The deepest thoughts of the heart are very sure to come out in prayer. If it were only possible for us to overhear some man of God when alone before his Maker, we may be certain that every utterance that would fall from his lips would be well worth treasuring. Men speak forth their deepest thoughts when they speak to God. Here we have, we may venture to say, the grandest of God's saints on his knees before God. He is pouring out his soul on behalf of the beloved members of the Church at Ephesus. Is it not worth while to inquire, What does this man ask for? What does he account the highest, the richest, and best blessing that can possibly fall to the lot of the Church at Ephesus? You observe that he puts first the power of the Holy Ghost. He knew that unless the Church is strengthened with all might by God's Spirit in the inner man, it has the dry-rot. The Holy Ghost is the life of the Church. Let there be a lack of Holy Ghost power, and there will be a lack of all power to witness for God, to accomplish the work of the Lord Jesus Christ, or be a blessing to any one. So, at the head of the list, stands: "Strengthened with might by his Spirit in the inner man."

Then he asks that they may know the meaning of an indwelling Christ—that in the heart of every member the Lord Jesus Christ might find his home. Then that they may be rooted and grounded in love. The climax of the prayer is found in the words, "That ye may be filled with all the fulness of God:" that is, that each member of the Church might be filled right up with all that fulness which God has treasured up in Christ Jesus for his redeemed ones.

The request is so great that it almost takes away one's breath! And yet the Apostle adds, "Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto Him be glory in the Church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen." I want you to notice especially, "Unto Him be glory in the Church by Christ Jesus." Who can refrain his "Amen" to that prayer? If God does not get glory in his Church, where will He get it? If the Lord does not reap a harvest of glory from his ramsomed host, where shall He find the sheaves? And that glory is to be eternal, "throughout all ages, world without end." Are we not met to repeat again and again this prayer of the Apostle? Our desire is that unto Him may be glory in the Church.

The Church. What is she? Will it not be well to have a very clear understanding as to what we mean by the word "Church"? What does the Apostle mean by it? What is our own interpretation of "the Church"? I am afraid that, like many other grand words, this has become terribly perverted. I am afraid that, by not a few, it is considered merely as an ecclesiastical building, that by others it is thought of as simply a profession, and by others it is looked upon as consisting of so many professors. I was interested to discover the definition given in the best and most modern dictionary, and I was not surprised to find this meaning: "The Church is a collective body of those who profess to believe in Christ." I am certain that, in speaking to you, I am speaking to those who are better taught than that. The Church that Paul speaks about, and which will yield glory to God in all ages, is not "a collective body of those who profess to believe in Christ." The Church of the New Testament is the Church of the elected, and selected, and bought, and called out. I need hardly say that the word means an assembly or company called out from the rest of the population in order to exercise the rights of citizens. That is the original meaning of the word. You have a beautiful definition of the Church in 1 Cor. i. 2: "Unto the Church of God which is at Corinth, to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all that in every place call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, both theirs and ours." So that, according to the Apostle's judgment, the Church consists of those who have been set apart in Christ Jesus, have received the call of the Holy Ghost, and who, in their turn, call upon the name of the Lord.

As we heard from the lips of our Chairman, the Church of the Bible is a Church that has been bought by his own blood. What Paul said to the Elders of the Church at Ephesus in the Acts, we find him writing in the fifth chapter of this epistle (Ephesians). He says: "Even as Christ also loved the Church and gave Himself for it." It is a purchased company. Then it is a called company. Every one has been called, by the mighty power of the Holy Ghost, to Christ. Being called to Christ, each one is called to saintship. Every member of God's Church has been born again. It can be said of every member of this Church, "Which were born not of blood, nor of the will of man, but born from above." The Church that Paul speaks of has nothing more to do with the world than Jesus Christ Himself. The Church was redeemed by Jesus Christ on purpose that it might be delivered from this present evil world. It is a company of people concerning whom Christ says: "They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world."

This Church of God is not contained within any one denomination, and I do not believe that it is contained within all the denominations put together. On the other hand, I am clearly persuaded that it does not include all who are found in our different sects. For who can believe that there is one solitary church on God's earth that has not some member in it who has never been renewed by the Holy Ghost? Outside denominationalism and inside our different churches there is this one Church of the Lord Jesus Christ, consisting of his blood-washed, Spirit-called, sanctified members, renewed and living unto God.

The Church—what is her glory? Not her wealth. I do not think it likely she will ever be very wealthy; but, if it should come to pass that the Church of Christ could rule the money market, this would not add to her glory. The social position of her members is not her glory. At present, the vast mass consists of those who are not rich, mighty, or learned; but if the day should come when all the aristocracy could be found on the side of the Lord Jesus Christ, the Church would not be more dignified than now. No one can dignify the Church. The Church dignifies all who join her ranks.

In this very epistle her glory is to be found in two illustrations. The first is that of the temple (see the closing verses of the second chapter). Look at the temple of Solomon, with its magnificent exterior. All kinds of wealth were lavished there; gold, silver, and precious stones flashed in all their brilliance there. But what was the true glory of that temple? When the presence of the Lord came into it; when the Shekinah filled it; when the effulgence of the Supreme, advancing in clouds, compelled the priests to retreat: in this was the temple made glorious.

In a passage in the Prophet Haggai, we are told that "The glory of the latter house shall be greater than the former." How can this be? The latter house cannot be compared in outward magnificence to the former. It lacks the Shekinah, the Urim and the Thummim, the sacerdotal garments and functions; and yet it is to exceed in glory. Why? Because the Son of God incarnate is its central attraction. Jesus Christ Himself stands in it. The glory of the Church is the indwelling of her Lord. It is Christ in the Church which is the glory of the Church: "In whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit." The true glory of the Church consists in her being a habitation of God.

The other illustration—that of the body—conveys the same idea as to what constitutes the Church's glory. What is the glory of the body? Its height; its symmetry; its fair exterior? No; it is the spirit within—the soul that dwells in it. Let the spirit quit the body, and the loveliest form you ever saw becomes a mass of corruption; and those who cherish it most will say, "Bury it out of my sight." The honour and glory of the body dwell in the Spirit that animates it. We are his Body. Individually, and as a Church, we only live as Christ lives in us. And if it were possible, which thank God it is not, for the Spirit of God wholly to leave the Church, that same Church would become a mass of moral corruption, as the body would become a mass of physical corruption apart from an indwelling Spirit.

I want to speak a strong word now on the Church. What is her mission? We have seen her nature and glory. Jesus Christ Himself has answered this question: "As my Father hath sent Me, even so send I you." Jesus Christ came as the witness of the Father. Jesus Christ is the only perfectly faithful witness that God has had upon the earth; and now the work of the Church is to bear faithful witness for Jesus Christ. What was Christ's mission on earth? To seek and to save that which was lost. I believe that if Jesus Christ were on the earth to-day He would be just the same as He was 1850 years back. He would not be sauntering about the Clubs. You would not find Him amongst the comfortable and well-to-do, mixing in the gaieties of this world. I guarantee to say He would be in the home of sorrow; by the widow's side; in the abode of wretchedness, misery, and squalor.

The mission of the Church is not to erect stately buildings; not to be the leaders in political affairs; not to provide secular education, far less amusement, for the people; it is to bear witness to a living Christ; to seek to pluck men as brands from the burning. It is only as the Church follows the footsteps of her Lord that she can yield glory to Him.

The Church. What her power? How is the Church to do this? By going forth with the very weapon that God has put into her hands, and of which the Apostle speaks in the last chapter. It is "the sword of the Spirit which is the Word of God." Oh that Christ would bring his Church back to a simpler trust in the power of the Gospel without any human addenda. I am persuaded, as I stand in the presence of my Lord, that when the day comes that the Church of Jesus Christ shall preach the truth, and the whole truth, without human adornings and additions, and in simple dependence upon the Holy Ghost; and shall say, "If we cannot win by the Gospel we will try no other remedy, for we have no other weapon put into our hand by our Lord and Master," we shall see mightier things than we have seen. The Gospel of the Son of God worn out! Nay, it needs not the addenda of poor human nature; for, when accompanied by the Holy Ghost, it has the same mighty power which it had in the days of the Apostles.

But what is the weakness of the Church? May I not say her divisions—not so much into different sections, that is a small matter—but the divisions, I am afraid, in spirit. I am not sure, if you wiped out all distinctions and sects, that you would gain very much, but what I deplore is the division of spirit, the emulations, the envyings, the strifes, that are weakening the testimony of the Church of God and paralysing her right arm for service. Those colours in the rainbow I would not have merged into one colour. It is none the less lovely because of its variety; but each colour kisses the other; and all the colours blended make an harmonious whole. We pray God that there may be more of this union in the Church of Christ. Every day I live I care less and less for denominationalism, but I care more and more for those who are true to Christ, true to the atoning sacrifice, true to the Word of God. I may be mistaken, but I believe the day is coming when those who are loyal to Christ and his atoning sacrifice will have to stand closer, and more "shoulder to shoulder" than ever. Let there be union, and it shall be again as it was in the temple of old, when "it came even to pass, as the trumpeters and singers were as one, to make one sound to be heard in praising and thanking the Lord; and when they lifted up their voice with the trumpets and cymbals and instruments of musick, and praised the Lord, saying, For He is good; for his mercy endureth for ever: that then the house was filled with a cloud, even the house of the Lord."

The Lord hasten the fulfilment of his own prayer that the Church may be one, as He is one with the Father.

Before I sit down I must deliver my own soul by adding that, personally, I believe the greatest weakness of the Church to-day is her accursed worldliness. What is not done by those who bear the name of Jesus Christ now? What are not some of our sanctuaries coming to? As a minister of the Gospel, I say it with the deepest regret, my sorrowful conviction is this—that some ministers are leading in these things. I long for the time when the Church shall take her proper place—and her place is "outside the camp, bearing his reproach." While we have members of our Churches who sit at the Lord's table on Sunday, and go to the theatre on Monday, without solemn protest from the minister in his pulpit; whilst the world is creeping more and more into our congregations, and the clear line of demarcation between Christ and Belial is gradually being effaced, how can the Church improve? We shall never win people by meeting the world. May we have grace to take our place by the crucified Christ. The world does not like Him more than it did 1850 years ago. Be true to Him, and the world will not like you any more than it liked Christ. Stand by Christ and say to the Godless world, "As you treat my Saviour, so shall you treat me. I will not accept your smiles whilst you frown on my Redeemer. If you spit in his face it is as if you spat in mine, for I am one with my Lord and Master."

May God baptize the Church with Holy Ghost power and Holy Ghost living, so that we may live lives of a sublime creation; and so that, going forth to Jesus outside the camp, the Church may take her proper place, the place of testimony and witness-bearing until He come. The Lord grant that it may be so, for his Name's sake.

◆

PRAYER FOR THE CHURCH OF CHRIST.

By Rev. CHARLES GRAHAM,

At Centenary Hall.

By "the Church of Christ" those who drew up the programme of this Week of Prayer mean all believers, wherever found, all who are washed in the blood of Christ, sealed by his Spirit as his property, and kept by his power through faith unto final salvation.

The ministry to which we are called to-day is the highest in which we can be engaged, for it brings us into sympathy and fellowship with our great High Priest in heaven. He prays within the Holiest for all his saints still in the body, and we in the outer court of this world are engaged in the same ministry.

It was while the morning and evening lambs were offered on the brazen altar in the court of the Temple, the priest who ministered, in the order of his course, burned incense on the golden altar in the holy place. That incense was the emblem of prayer. "Let my prayer," says David, "be set forth before Thee as incense." It was offered in the fire from the brazen altar which had fed upon sacrifice, and on the ground of the sacrifice, then being offered, was acceptable to God. The lamb was offered for all Israel, and for all Israel the incense was burned.

In praying for his Church, that is, for all saints, we are engaged in a ministry which is pleasing to God; and our prayers, based on the once offered and ever-availing sacrifice of the Lord Jesus, and ascending through the incense of his intercession, must prevail with God. "This is the confidence which we have in Him, that if we ask anything according to his will He heareth us. And if we know that He heareth us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions we desired of Him."

MODEL PRAYERS.

God has been pleased by the Spirit of inspiration to record models on which we can form our prayers for his Church. Let us look at a few of these as exemplified in the Apostle Paul. For the Romans he prays, "Now the God of patience and consolation grant you to be like-minded one toward another according to Christ Jesus: that ye may with one mind and one mouth glorify God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ" (Rom. xv. 5, 6).

The clear inference from this prayer is, that if we are not like-minded one toward another according to Christ Jesus, we cannot with one mind and one mouth glorify God. How should we then labour as well as pray to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace!

The Apostle's prayer for the Ephesians is perhaps the most wonderful which he ever offered: "For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named, that He would grant you, according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with might by his Spirit in the inner man; that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; and to know the love of Christ which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fulness of God" (Eph. iii. 14—20).

Glorious and comprehensive as this prayer is, you will notice that it is not offered for the Ephesians only, but for the whole Church Militant: "That ye may comprehend with all saints," which means essentially that all saints might comprehend, as well as they, the love of Christ which passeth knowledge.

To the Colossians, from the time he heard of their faith in Christ Jesus, he writes: "For this cause we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease to pray for you, and to desire that ye might be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding; that ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God; strengthened with all might according to his glorious power, unto all patience and long-suffering with joyfulness" (Col. i. 9—11).

This, then, is what we have to ask for all the Lord's people, that they may be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding, and for this double purpose, first that they may walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, and then, as to themselves, that they may be fruitful in every good work, increase in the knowledge of God, and be strengthened with all might according to his glorious power unto all patience and long-suffering with joyfulness.

FULNESS OF THE SPIRIT.

In accepting this programme of the Evangelical Alliance, we agree to pray that al believers may be filled with the Holy Spirit. The prayers of the Apostle, which we have noticed, do not formally express the fulness of the Spirit, but they imply it. It is only by their being thus filled God can be fully glorified in his people; for only then can the fruits of the Spirit in fulness and maturity be found in them. And it is only when filled with his Spirit they are fully endued with power for his service.

But let us not delude ourselves with the thought that speaking in the power of the Spirit will always convert men to God. It did so on the Pentecost, and has done so in numbers of other instances, but it has also drawn out the deepest enmity of the human heart. It caused Nebuchadnezzar to heat his furnace for the three Hebrew children seven times more than it was wont to be heated, and it so inflamed the rage of the council against Stephen that they gnashed on him with their teeth, and stoned him. And who could enumerate the number of martyrs it has put to death from his day to the present time? This, however, we are assured of, that while speaking in the power of the Spirit, we are unto God a sweet savour of Christ in them that are saved and in them that perish.

It is only when filled with the Spirit, the prayer of the Lord Jesus that his people may be one, can be realised. The Spirit creates the unity; "by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body," and He only can maintain it. We do not hide the fact that there are many things in the present low state of the Church to lessen love toward some believers. But if we can see in them any of the features of Christ, nothing should hinder the outflow of our brotherly love toward them. Heavenly love should not be less than earthly. If a man have a brother that is crooked, or lame, or little, says Dr. Thomas Goodwin, the Puritan, he will love him; and will he make an exception for some defect or infirmity in a member of Christ?

One of the evidences of the fulness of the Spirit, given by the Apostle Paul, is "submitting yourselves one to another in the fear of God" (Eph. v. 21). That is, submitting ourselves according to the relation in which we stand one to another, as the servant to the master, the parent to the child. Here the Lord Jesus is our pattern. When twelve years old He astonished the Jewish doctors in the temple with his understanding and answers; yet from that date onward, so far as we know, to his entrance on his public ministry, He was subject to his reputed parents. And in those parents, excellent as they were, how much error, infirmity, and ignorance did his holy eye behold! And all these did not prevent Him showing them filial respect, and rendering to them filial obedience.

Again, how marked was the contrast between the Lord and his disciples! Yet perfect wisdom did not refuse the society of ignorance and error; nor perfect holiness refuse to bear with sinful infirmities and corruptions.

THE COMING OF THE LORD.

One of the prominent subjects for prayer in our programme is the hastening of the coming of the Lord. In this let our hearts specially unite. The last recorded words of the Lord Jesus are, "Surely I come quickly," and the responsive prayer, which closes the canon of Holy Scripture, is, "Amen; even so, come, Lord Jesus." When, as a people, they say, "Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord," Israel shall see Him. And surely, if the Church were one in the cry, "Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly," we should soon receive the adoption, to wit, the redemption of the body, and the groaning creation be delivered from the bondage of corruption, and be brought into the liberty of the glory of the children of God.

POWER, UNITY, AND WORK.

BY REV. HUGH PRICE HUGHES,

At Centenary Hall.

IF there had been some deliberate intent in appointing me to preside to-day, a subject more suitable to my thought and my desire could not have been selected. The three principal topics for exhortation to-day have specially occupied my mind for the last few years: the fulness of the Spirit; the manifested unity of the Church of God; and aggressive evangelistic work.

We have already been praying that all believers may be filled with the Holy Spirit. I exceedingly regret I was only able to be present during the latter part of Mr. Graham's address. I entirely agree with all I had the privilege of hearing, and no doubt I should have been in accord with the remainder. I am not quite sure, however, that I do not take a slightly different view of the precise meaning of the phrase, "the fulness of the Spirit" as it is found in the Acts of the Apostles and in the writings of Paul. With all humility I give you the result of my devout study of the New Testament. I believe there are two senses in which we may be said to be "filled with the Spirit," but I have a very strong conviction now, after having specially studied this question, that when by the fulness of the Spirit we are referring to the special blessing that was given on the day of Pentecost, we are to regard that as a Divine gift not so much for the purpose of personal sanctification as in order to qualify us for Christian service. I believe you will find that whenever there is a reference to that special gift for which they had to tarry at Jerusalem, it was not given at once for the asking, at once in response to faith, but wherever you find a reference to that special gift the context associates it with Christian work, and with successful Christian work. I confess that this troubled me for some years. I thought that in order that I might be fully consecrated to God's service it was necessary that I should tarry at Jesusalem until He was pleased to endue me with power from on high. But that was a mistake. It was according to my faith. I have not to tarry in Bishopsgate-street, or Jerusalem, or anywhere else for five minutes as far as I am myself concerned. The moment I am willing to give myself up to God that very moment He receives me, and according to my faith it shall be done unto me. The moment I open my heart to receive the Spirit of God, I am so far, and in that sense, filled with the Spirit of God. He will take full possession of my entire nature, of every fragment, of every corner. As soon as I put my all upon the altar, as soon as I am ready to suffer and to do the whole will of God, then the Spirit of God has absolute possession of my entire being, and I am wholly God's. In order that I might thus at once enjoy the fullest personal consecration, it seems to me that I need nothing but that act of whole-hearted surrender of which, by the grace of God, we Christians are all capable.

But when we speak of the Pentecostal blessing it seems to me to be a different matter. Surely in the sense in which I have used the phrase as regards personal consecration, we may say that our Lord Jesus Christ was full of the Holy Ghost from his birth. Yet even our Saviour, who was absolutely consecrated to God from his very birth, as we know, received a special baptism of the Spirit when He received water baptism at the hands of John in the Jordan. That is a special blessing which I think had a marked effect upon the public ministry of Our Lord Himself. Perfect as He was before as regards his own personal sanctification, there was a certain power in his ministry that had not previously accompanied even his word; and most assuredly if our most Holy Saviour needed this special blessing in order that He might be qualified to witness for God, how much more do we? I believe that some of the Apostles were entirely consecrated before the day of Pentecost. I have a strong conviction that the Apostle John was, and that the blessing he had to tarry at Jerusalem for was not a whole-hearted devotion to God's service, but a distinctive blessing which is the essential qualification for the highest Christian service. The Apostles themselves were not fit to do their appointed work until they received this great blessing from God.

My friend Mr. Moody draws the same distinction as I do, for I have often heard him speak of the practical difference of the Holy Spirit in us and the Holy Spirit on us. Now the special prayer which I pray from the bottom of my heart is, that God may grant us the Holy Spirit on us—the Pentecostal blessing. I will venture to assume that a great many of my fellow Christians here do not need the Spirit of God in order that they may be wholly consecrated; it is a burning shame if they have not yet been consecrated to his service. I hope, if they have not given themselves up wholly, they will do it this minute; then God will take possession of them. You have not to wait in that sense for the Spirit of God to accomplish the work for which Christ died. Sometimes those who are consecrated have to wait for the special qualification given on the day of Pentecost, and let us seek that now. I am delighted at the carefully-chosen language of the statement before us, "that all believers may be filled with the Holy Ghost," for if Peter taught anything on that day of Pentecost, he taught that the special and characteristic qualification for religious service was not to be only for ministers of religion, but for the pulpit and the pew alike, and for everybody in the pew—men, women, and children. "The promise is to you and to your children." The servants of God of both sexes are to be filled with the Spirit. In what way a woman is to preach the Gospel is a question that I won't undertake to answer now; but in some way or other women are to be witnesses for Christ, and, like men, they need the fulness of the Spirit of God. Children, too, are in their way to testify for Christ. Often in my experience I have known men and women who had utterly defied all the efforts of the Christian pulpit, brought to Christ by little children under twelve. Of this I am certain, that we shall never see the great prosperity in our churches that we desire until God has thus baptized us with the Holy Ghost and with fire.

I dare say many of you heard Mr. Moody tell of his own wonderful baptism. He had been a Christian, a devoted Christian, a thorough-going, or, as he puts it, "an out-and-out Christian," for many years before he received the special Pentecostal blessing. He had been a most successful Sunday-school superintendent to 1500 scholars, and did a great work for God, but until he saw the burning enthusiasm of a dying Sunday-school teacher, whose scholars had not been converted, Mr. Moody himself did not understand the whole-hearted enthusiasm for Christ. Then, as I have heard him say with tears in his eyes, he received such a baptism as he had never experienced before. It has never left him; he would rather drop down dead than go back to the state in which he was before that day.

I was talking only last week to one of the most remarkable Christian workers of the day—William Taylor, of California—who, I suppose, has preached the Gospel in more countries under heaven than any other human being. In giving me an account of his personal religious experience, he said that four years after his conversion he received this blessing, which has enabled him to preach the Gospel with success (through interpreters) in all nations and continents. Let us all pray for this qualification. This is the supreme need. There are more Christians in this upper room than there were in the upper room at Jerusalem, and if the Spirit of God falls upon us all now, surely the whole of London might be moved. May God grant us this abundant blessing at this very moment, every one of us, and if there is anything in us that resists Him, oh! may He take it away, everything that makes it difficult to say "Thy will be done," and then it shall be well with us and with ours.

A word on the second topic—"that the unity of the Church of Christ may be manifested." I beg you to emphasise and to underline that word manifested. I am convinced that one supreme necessity of our time is that we should manifest our unity. You are obliged to put your goods in the window of your shop in Cheapside or the Strand. It is no use having the most valuable articles hidden away; you will get no customers. We Christians must manifest our unity, or else it will not have a very great practical effect upon the incredulous world outside. When I hear Christians talk about the "inward spiritual unity of the Christian Church," I say in my heart—there is no thanks to you for that; you cannot help or prevent that. We are all one in Christ, of course, and you deserve no credit at all for that. But it is necessary that our unity should be manifested. The more frequently I read that wonderful chapter in the Gospel of John where Christ prays for the unity of his Church, the more obvious is his desire that this unity should be so visible that all the world must believe it. Outsiders who dislike us, and have great prejudice against Christianity, won't be affected by our magnificent talk about this inward spiritual union. We want outward and visible union, which need not take an organised form, but which ought to be so undoubted, so unmistakable, that no man living can gainsay it.

I thank God for the unprecedented way since the Reformation in which all Churches are coming more near to one another. After ages of centrifugal forces, undoubtedly we have entered upon a millennial order of centripetal forces. Even a gathering of this kind would have been impossible at any time in London before our present day. I have just received information from the North of Ireland, of a very remarkable statement by a clergyman of the Episcopal Church of Ireland, where, at a Wycliff anniversary, speaking on this very question, he said nothing was needed in order to bring the Christian Churches together except common sense, which, as you are aware, is the most uncommon of all the gifts of God. I have long felt that sanctified common sense is the particular article that is wanted, for there is an immense need of it; but a comparatively limited supply in the Christian Church. He said that for his own part he did not believe that the Episcopalian form of church government was essential, or the Presbyterian form of government was absolutely necessary, or that Congregationalism was of Divine origin, and insisted upon in Scripture; but that common sense in the study of the New Testament would reveal that though all these various ecclesiastical systems could justify themselves, and might be very desirable, that those that were originally desirable might not be the most desirable now. All these things are left to us, and when once Christians have realised that there can be no reasonable ground for refusing to co-operate with one another in the most thorough manner, unity will be the result.

May the Lord endue every Christian with the sanctified common sense of that clergyman in Ireland. There is nothing we so much need as outspoken utterances of that sort. The longer I live and the more experience I have of the condition of society, the less am I afraid of the devil or the world, and the more am I afraid of myself and of you. We alone can prevent the prosperity of the Church. When we are united we are simply irresistible. The Christians, if they would only pull in the same way, could pull anything. We should be simply supreme in Parliament, in town council, in literature, and in art. There is no limit to all we might do.

I believe that the devil is afraid that some day we shall find out our strength. He prospers only by our disunion. He knows that the whole gates of hell would tremble on the day when Christians loved one another, manifested their love, and realised that the points on which they are agreed are infinitely more important than those on which they are disagreed. Let us pray about this, talk about it, and do our utmost to secure it. Let us talk no nonsense about the benefit of having so many churches. I am not at all sure about the benefit. You remember the old fox that lost its tail tried to prove to the young foxes that it was a great advantage to be without a tail. To suppose that what is is necessarily the best is unreasonable. For my own part, I can very well see that, as the result of having so many churches, the work of God is exposed to a great deal of friction, and sometimes almost paralyses effort, and so I will do all that lies within my power to bring churches together, and to promote union in every possible way. For this we must increasingly pray. We have had many illustrations of late that when Christians unite, as they do in evangelistic work now, the power of God attends them in a way of which neither they nor their fathers ever had any previous experience.

Lastly, with respect to the other phrase, "the increase of evangelistic work among the masses," I hope we are all agreed. The extraordinary success of the Salvation Army, which, with all its drawbacks, is indisputable, is a decisive evidence that the masses of the people are ready to respond to Christian effort as soon as we are sufficiently Christian to go to them. The Salvation Army, of course, is reaping the fruit of the good work done in Sunday-schools and in Christian churches. The great majority of those they have reclaimed were brought up in Sunday-schools, and were taught to sing hymns, but we have allowed them to wander away. We ought to have followed them. I protest against what, I think, is one of the most mischievous delusions of our time, that if you are to convert thieves you must have been a converted thief yourself; that if you are to rescue others from the gutter you must have been lying there yourself. It is a great mistake. The most refined and cultured men and women can do the work which the brave agents of the Salvation Army are doing if they have only as much sanctified common sense, pluck, and devotion as those men and women have. I do hope that educated and refined men and women will not excuse themselves from this most glorious and characteristic Christian work on the ground of their cultured refinement and wealth. These things qualify them for the work of God.

The working classes, as a whole, are not opposed to Christianity. Testimony to that fact was borne by Henry Broadhurst, one of the most representative working men of the day, in the Methodist Times. There we have him declaring that as far as he knows his fellow-working men, they are not at all averse to religion, to modes of worship and methods of appeal that are adapted to them and to their children. The Church of England has proved the same thing in her most characteristic and successful effort in the East-end of London. While I am referring to the Church of England, I cannot but remember that she has just lost her chief pastor in this great city, and we shall all pray that the Prime Minister may be directed in the selection of the right man to fill that great and influential position. As far as my own experience goes, I find a ready response among working men to Christian appeal. I was at Norwich recently, and there was no difficulty in getting 3000 working men, on three separate occasions, to come and hear me. Mr. Bradlaugh has a large following there, but has never had such an audience. I believe the secret of that remarkable result was that everyone of the Churches in Norwich combined in the effort. It is a further illustration of the irresistible power of Christian Churches when they put aside their paltry differences and unite for aggressive evangelistic work.

I am sure that the best piece of advice ever given to us with respect to those now outside the Church, was given in brief and simple words by Mr. Moody on a remarkable occasion. He had collected a great number of ministers of religion of all churches. He calls these gatherings his "universities," where he gets these enlightened men to teach him, for he says he had not their advantages; and they taught him at great length. A number of distinguished men delivered most eloquent and persuasive addresses, and this went on all day, and Mr. Moody sat in the chair. The point was, how to get at the lapsed masses. There were fifty methods. They exhausted all the possibilities, and at the end of the day Mr. Moody said, "My friends, we have only five minutes before we must close this Conference, but I am thankful to say that five minutes are sufficient for me to express my sentiments. The matter we have been discussing is, How shall we get at the lapsed masses? I am quite convinced that the only way to get at them is to go and fetch them." And he summed up the whole philosophy of a Christian's duty in that word. Where there is a will there is a way; and when our hearts are full of love to God we shall reach the masses.

The last time I saw Mr. Moody in Ireland he was glowing with enthusiasm. He said, "I have never in my experience had such bright prospects—the field is white unto the harvest." The same testimony is borne by all with similar experience. I am convinced that our prospects were never so bright and hopeful as they are today. May God help us all in the spirit of the sermon preached at the foundation of the Baptist Missionary Society; may God help us to "work for great things and to expect them."

THURSDAY, JANUARY 8.

"SALVATION IN EVERY HOUSE."

BY REV. FREDERICK GREEVES, D.D.,

At Steinway Hall.

NO theme could possibly be more congenial to my own feelings, and my Christian sympathies, than that which the Evangelical Alliance suggests for our prayers to-day. When I was called to preside in the chief assembly of the Christian community to which I belong [Wesyan Conference], I found that I was expected say something which should give an impulse, nd be an inspiration to work; and I ventured give, as a watchword for the year, the words, Salvation in every house." Though, perhaps, iese words are more necessary in communities hich have sprung from evangelistic revivals, nd which look to revivals for their extension, I think that the whole Church Catholic needs have its thoughts and prayers drawn more to ie subject of Salvation in the Home. I am ersuaded that our prayers would be more prac- eal, intelligent, and earnest if we thoroughly ppreciated the blessed possibilities and proba- ilities of our children becoming converted when nildren, if we expect it and seek for it.

Whatever we may think of the mystery of the ew birth, we must believe that the Holy Spirit, y whom alone it can be wrought, is graciously resent in the hearts of young children, by hom He has never been resisted nor grieved, nd that if we, as parents and heads of house- olds, are "working together with God," our nildren will be recipients of his grace. We ave many blessed proofs that his grace does visit oung children; and if I had any word which to hristian parents I would try to emphasise more ian another, it would be, Pray for, and look for, nd believe for, the very early conversion and onsecration of your children. I am persuaded iat if we seek for this it will have a good in- uence on ourselves and our home arrangements.

There is some danger, I apprehend, lest the omestic altar should not be so much a means of lessedness to Christian homes as once it was. I ear, from what I sometimes read and hear, that ie imperious necessities of business, in these ompetitive days, hurry people away from the omestic circle, and frequently prevent the syste- atic exercise of family worship; and I am sure e must all agree that if we are to have salva- ion in our homes, blessing in our families, and ur children growing up to fear God, as in the hristian families of Great Britain has been the ase, we must maintain domestic worship; and el it incumbent upon us, at any sacrifice, to see iat it is not overlooked nor done carelessly and ndifferently.

Then again, if our hearts are set on the salva- on of our children, we shall try so to conduct ur home affairs that they shall conduce to our ildren's spiritual welfare; and I am sure that ere is no Christian here who does not believe it ssible to have a happy home, a home where ildish merriment shall not be checked, while, the same time, it is a home where the laws of hrist shall not be transgressed. I have been mewhat amazed, looking at it from my point of iew, at the rather painful discussion which has en awakened among our Scotch brethren on ie question of dancing in our families. There ay be plenty of happiness without worldly con- rmity, and if we begin aright, we may teach ur children to find happiness in the service of hrist quite independently of the blandishments the world.

I remember in my early ministry, when I was ppointed to a charge in Paris, a friend said to ie that the first thing that impressed him was ie fact that I had never been either to a theatre a dancing party, and that I never wanted to , although by very many these amusements ere looked upon as almost indispensable to uthful enjoyment. He thought it wonderful at a young man could have grown up without liking for such things. I am thankful to y that, before I was fourteen years of age, I d learned the comfort of praying by the side those who were sick, and of reading the Scriptures to the poor and ignorant; and I found such pleasure in the service of Christ, that I cared nothing for the so-called worldly enjoyments. I believe it possible to train our children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, and to induce in them such habits of life that they will find innocent amusement and recreation of every kind without running into company which must be perilous to their spiritual interests.

Let us pray to-day for the homes of our land; and especially, as we have been led already, let us remember the highest home in the land. It is surely a hallowing thought, and God grant that it may be an event of happy augury, that on this, the day on which the young Prince (Albert Victor) attains his majority, there should be an almost universal supplication to the throne of heavenly grace for a blessing on our homes. Let us hope that, wherever else these prayers may be answered, they may be answered in that home which is dearest to many of us, except the one with which we are each personally connected.

Our thoughts and prayers are also asked for a blessing upon young people in their school and college life. And, surely, this is a worthy subject about which we should gather round the Throne. In the community to which I belong there are eight hundred and fifty thousand in Sunday-schools, two hundred thousand in elementary day-schools, and some tens of thousands in high schools, grammar schools, and board schools, with all of whom I am, somehow or other, officially connected; and when we think of the vast number united with other interests, and consider the primary importance of the work that is going on in the nurture and training of these hosts of children, it is well worth our while not only to make it a matter of prayer on one day, but daily, that God will bless the Christian education of our youth, and pour out the blessed help of his Spirit on all who are engaged therein.

We are thankful to know that the visit of Mr. Moody to our universities has left abiding results; and that the young men who come from Christian homes to Oxford and Cambridge now find quite a circle who sympathise with them in Christian feeling and practice, and that they are not at all, as heretofore, isolated as to their sympathies and aims. This is a great comfort to those who have sons in the universities. And I can testify, with thankfulness, that it is possible for young men to pass through the university and to come out unscathed; to come out all the better for the mental and moral discipline, having the fear of God before them, and a lively sense of his presence and blessing.

I trust that our prayers will continue to be made for our highly-cultured and strong young men, that they may be led to do aggressive work for the great Teacher throughout the world; and that it may please God to bless our universities, and to strengthen the hands and hearts of those who, at these great seats of learning, are striving to maintain a pure and clear Protestant Christianity, which will be an inestimable blessing to the nation at large. I would suggest, therefore, that we give ourselves, not to-day only but every day, to prayers such as these.

It is an affecting thought to me that the announcement of the subject to-day should have led to so large a number of requests being presented for our prayers. What family does not feel personally concerned in intercessions of this kind? There is scarcely a family but has one in it who is an object of the tender solicitude of the others; scarcely one that does not send up the cry, "Oh that Ishmael might live before Thee!" Let us be thankful that God has purposes of love even to the Ishmaels, and that He can make those who have been to us causes of the greatest anxiety, to become, at last, our greatest comfort and strength. I hope that our hearts will spontaneously sympathise with these requests for prayer for individual families. Let us not forget, too, that they represent the aggregate of families, so that we may not only offer prayer to-day, but daily, with the assurance that we are doing that which is commanded for those who ask it as well as for all.

PARENTS AND CHILDREN.

By Rev. E. A. STUART,

At Centenary Hall.

AFTER a somewhat lengthy introduction, Mr. Stuart proceeded:—As we think of our children we look back, many of us, and can thank God for godly parents who have trained us in the ways of righteousness. Besides these external advantages, many of us can say we have been exceedingly zealous Sunday-school teachers, district visitors, it may be helping our clergyman in his parochial work and putting our shoulder to the wheel in one way or other in forwarding the kingdom of God. Not only so, but as touching the law we have been a Pharisee, though I do not mean in the ordinary sense of that word. We have been punctilious in all our outward observances, in the means of grace, always in our place in church and chapel, continually to be found at the prayer-meeting; and not only that, but touching the righteousness which is of the law, blameless. We can look back upon our past lives and thank God that He has kept us from any gross immorality, from falling into any of the grosser kinds of sin. Thank God if a man is able to run his eye down these seven items, and say, "I can thank God that I have had all these privileges."

Look at what St. Paul puts upon the other side. It must be something very weighty to outweigh all these advantages. He only places one thing, and what is it? Christ. "What things were gain to me those I counted loss for Christ." Mark you, my brethren, not Christianity, not doctrine, not creed, not a church, but a real living person. Now we may start fair, and may I charge it home upon everyone. We meet more especially to-day as parents, and here we are going to the very root of the matter. May I charge it home upon everyone to ask themselves whether they really have Christ—a real living personal Saviour? It will be no use for us to glory in our privileges and Church membership and knowledge of God, and the position in which God has placed us in this country, in our morality, or Church zeal, unless we have the real living and personal Saviour for our own, for depend upon it the children will soon mark that we have only the outside and not the inside —the shell, and not the kernel; the sham, and not the reality. If we want to train our children for the Lord, we must see to it that we have the real Saviour—the personal, living Saviour—as our own friend.

I think you will see that St. Paul, making this calculation, says that these seven things were all to be accounted as loss if we had not got Christ. You see his calculation is one warranted by the facts of the case. Fourteen years afterwards he gives us the result of a second stock-taking. He has had time to revise his estimate, and to strike the balance afresh. He now uses the present tense: Not only did I count all these things loss fourteen years ago, but now "I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord." He makes very short work of the first part of the ledger. Before, he mentioned the items one after the other, and seemed to dwell upon them with satisfaction, but now he lumps them in one sum: "I count all things but loss." But while he cuts short that side of the ledger, he enlarges upon the other: "For the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord." And so as we grow on in years we shall become more and more enamoured with our choice, and thank God that He has enabled us to make this calculation, and to count all things loss, to deny everything that we may win Christ.

Let me turn to the story of Moses. You will find in the 11th Hebrews a grand roll-call of the heroes of faith. We have there the heroes marching forth with their deeds of faith emblazoned on their shields, beginning with the acceptable sacrifice, and going on to the grand victory through Christ. You will find there all these different achievements of faith; some of them very curious achievements. There is one mentioned in the 23rd verse which certainly appears to be a very common-place achievement: "By faith Moses, when he was born, was hid three months of his parents, because they saw he was a proper child; and they were not afraid of the king's commandment." There is no martial ring about it. There is nothing to attract the attention of the great, and yet here it is mentioned in this triumphal arch of faith—the hiding of Moses by his parents for three months.

This deed of faith on the part of the parents of Moses leads me to say this: That the most common-place action may be done in faith, and therefore be pleasing to God. The hiding by parents of their children; the teaching of the little ones in the Sunday-school; the ordinary every-day work of the household, the care of the mother for her little ones—all may be a grand example of faith. Do not let us think anything done in faith is too small for Him. You will notice in this passage both parents combined in this act of faith. Moses, when he gives us the story in Exodus ii., lays more stress upon the mother's part. He tells us how his mother made him a little ark and hid him therein, and that seems only natural. I suppose we all think most of our mother's influence. When I was at Cambridge Mr. Blackwood came to speak to the undergraduates, and the next morning some twenty of us who were taking part in the Christian work met him at breakfast. We were talking about the influence of Christian parents, and Mr. Blackwood asked, "How many of us here in this room have Christian mothers? Suppose those who have just rise;" and each one of those twenty who were there rose and thus testified that they had Christian mothers. I do not think we ever realise the power of a Christian mother, and when Moses looks back upon the past he thinks of how his mother hid him. But, at the same time, his father had part. When Stephen gives us the story he lays more stress upon the act of the father; but here, in the Epistle to the Hebrews, we have both parents combined; for both helped; and it is a grand thing when father and mother are both training up children for the Lord. It is a sad thing when the mother is training them up in one way and the father is pulling the opposite, or vice versâ. God grant that not only may we, with St. Paul, have a real living Christ, but that father and mother may combine in bringing their children to God.

You see the result in the case of Moses. For some time the result was not very manifest, but after forty years the result was manifest. And may I say this, dear friends—let us not be dismayed if we do not see the result at once. I believe if we looked for more conversion amongst our children when they were young we should get it; but, at the same time, we are to cast our bread upon the waters, although I do not think we are warranted in laying so much stress upon the "many" days. For forty years Moses was brought up in the court of Pharaoh enjoying the pleasures of Egypt; and we read in verse 26 that he "esteemed the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Egypt: for he had respect unto the recompence of the reward." That word "esteemed" is exactly the same word that is three times used by St. Paul in Phil. iii. —to count. We have Moses quite calm in making the calculation when he came to years.

Somebody may say, was not Moses forty years old when he began to make this decision? Yes; but he was still only just come to years, because until a man is able to weigh temporal and eternal things together he can scarcely be said to have come to years. I have a little child three years old, and if I put before that child a bright penny and a five-pound note I have not the slightest doubt which the child would choose: it would choose the bright penny, because it does not understand anything about promising to pay; and until a man has come to years he does not understand promising: it is always for the present, for the glitter and the sunshine. Until Moses was come to years—forty years—and some people are that age who have not come to years: they have not been able to make the calculation between temporal and eternal things—when he was forty years he began to make his calculation, and he found he would be obliged to sink some capital if he were really to gain great spiritual advantage. He made up his mind to give up these three things in which I suppose the world delights most strongly: he resolved to give up position; he refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter. We do not know what position he held in that day, but we have reason to believe that it was something answering to the position of the Prince of Wales—the heir-apparent to the throne of Egypt. He held a high position as a prince of the house of Pharaoh, but this position he throws upon one side.

Some of us find it very difficult to throw position on one side. We have not a high position such as that which Moses abandoned, for if there is one thing more than another that we hold dear it is honour and fame amongst our fellow-men. We like to be greeted with a smile; we cannot bear to have the cold shoulder of reproach from our fellow-men. We do like to have a certain position amongst them. We do not care to be counted fools, or fanatics, or enthusiastics; and it is very difficult for us to bring ourselves to accept the position. Another thing he threw on one side was riches. I am not sure as to what was his pension from the civil list at that period, but I am sure that from the day he joined the children of Israel he drew not one penny from the imperial exchequer. It is a grand thing when you can find a man who is willing to throw riches upon one side if those riches are between him and God. A gentleman came to me and said, "I have made up my mind this morning that I must make quite an alteration." I asked, "What is it?" "I have given up business and I am in no want of money, but since I have given up business, I am sorry to say that I have been speculating upon the Stock Exchange. Now, my boys are growing up, and I felt this morning that I could not tell them to give up gambling and billiard playing and betting on horses, if I am speculating on the Stock Exchange, and so I have made up my mind to sell out all my speculative investments, though the sacrifice will be £4000. I think the peace of God is cheap at £4000." Dear friends, if you feel that there is anything in your business that is hindering your influence, God grant that you may have the decision of Moses and throw all the riches upon one side.

The third thing he gave up was this:—"Choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season: esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Egypt: for he had respect unto the recompence of the reward." I do not know what the pleasures of Egypt were, whether they were the bull-fighting of Spain, or the cock-fighting of the time of the first James, or the pigeon-shooting of our own days; whatever kind of pleasures they were, they were sweet in the time of Moses, but he put them all on one side. These, I repeat, are the three things that the world holds dearest which we do not put any stigma upon in themselves; but three things which the world holds dear, and which the true Christian has often to put on one side,—fame, riches, and pleasure. What did he choose? "Affliction and reproach." You say it is easy to make such a choice. But what was the consideration? Simply this, that all these things were only for a season. The pleasures, the riches, the fame, were for a season. An army of shepherd tribes could come and drive him from the throne. His riches might take to themselves wings and fly away. His pleasures had passed before his evening was gone; these things were only for a season, and he saw that the other things were for eternity, and therefore he esteemed the reproach of Christ better than all the treasures of Egypt. Why? Because he had respect to the recompense of the reward, as we read in Numbers iii. You read, "My servant Moses is faithful in all my house." In Deut. xxxiv. you have God Himself burying Moses. In Matt. xvii. you have him appearing upon the mount with the Lord Jesus Christ; he was there in the transfiguration glory. There were two men, and one of them was Moses. In Rev. xv. 3, you hear them singing the song of Moses and the Lamb.

Ask Moses to-day whether he has not had the recompense of the reward. He has had a grand recompense. What enabled him to keep to this? It is difficult to make a determination on the spur of the moment, but "he endured as seeing Him who is invisible;" and if we could only see the Invisible One we should be able to endure, no matter what might be the persecution and the trial. God grant unto everyone of us that we ourselves may see for ourselves that we have a real, living, personal Saviour. Oh! let us count nothing gained until we have Him, and then may we act the part of the parents of Moses, husbands and wives together hiding their children in the ark of God's salvation, nursing them for the King Himself, and bringing them up in the fear and nurture and admonition of the Lord, and then we will have the joy of seeing our children making the same calm decision that Moses made—giving up all the world holds best and dearest for the Lord Jesus Christ Himself.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 9.

GOD'S LOVE TO THE WORLD.

BY MR. H. GRATTAN GUINNESS,

At Centenary Hall.

"GOD so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." God's love to the whole world is the foundation of missionary work in the world. God loves mankind—not a portion of mankind, but mankind; not one nation, but all nations; not the Jews only, but Jews and Gentiles.

> "God loved the world of sinners lost
> And ruined by the fall."

Christ struck this as the key-note of his ministry. He began with it: "God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son." Our love ought to resemble his. As He loves the world we should love the world; as He gave his Son for the salvation of the world, so we should be prepared to give ourselves and our children too. As the love of God is universal, so is the gift of God. He gave his Son, "That whosoever believeth on Him should not perish." The sacrifice of Christ was for the world. "He died not only for our sins," says the Apostle John, "but also for the sins of the whole world." As there is but one God, so there is only one Mediator between God and man—the Man Christ Jesus, who gave Himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time.

As the redeeming work of Christ is world-wide in its aspect, so is the evangelising work of the Holy Ghost. When the Spirit of God was poured out on the early Church on the day of Pentecost, the outward, visible form which accompanied that effusion, as we all know, was that of cloven tongues of fire; for the Spirit of God filled the disciples that they might speak, that they might tell what God had wrought for the world's salvation. Tongues of fire, for they were to speak by inspiration; cloven tongues of fire, for they were to speak in many languages, to many peoples, to all mankind. "Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature." Such is the great commission.

Do we realise that the position in which the redeeming work of Christ has placed the Church is really this: Deity has become incarnate to bring redemption and to save mankind? Having accomplished redemption before He returned to heaven, the Son of God commissioned the Church to publish what he had accomplished. He made atonement for sin; He did not remain on earth to publish it. He returned to heaven to intercede for those for whom He had shed his blood on earth, commissioning the Church to publish what He had accomplished. Thus in a sense we are called to share the work of saving the world. Saved ourselves, we are called to be instrumental in saving others. God saves mankind by the ministry of his Son, and by the ministry of his Spirit; and the latter is the ministry of his Church. He has a double work: "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them." Now he is in the ministry of the Gospel. We are ambassadors for the Redeemer; as though God besought men by us, we pray them in his stead to be reconciled unto God.

What a tremendous responsibility rests upon the Church to evangelise the world. The work of the Son of God is ineffectual, produces no fruit, save as it is known. It remains unknown save as it is published by his believing people. As far as the Church carries the Gospel, so far the Gospel goes, and no farther. What a tremendous, what an immeasurable responsibility rests upon the Christian Church to evangelise the world which the Son of God has redeemed by his precious blood. That responsibility does not rest upon a certain class merely, but upon the whole Church—upon each individual. As every man has received of the gifts, so he is bound to use them. As every man has received the knowledge of salvation, so he is bound to communicate it. He who said, "I am the Light of the world," said, "Ye are the light of the world," and that not to a particular class in the Church, but to the whole Church.

How far has the Church been faithful to her responsibility? Eighteen hundred years and more have been given to her to evangelise the world: how far has the world been evangelised by her? How tremendous the answer is to that question! Two-thirds of the world are still heathen. More than one-tenth is Mohammedan. We will say nothing of the condition of the Jews, and of many professing Christians, to a large extent apostate, and needing that they should return to the Gospel from which they have departed. The heathen in Africa, in India, in China, in New Guinea, in many of the South Sea Islands, and other parts of the world, comprise, at the lowest computation, two out of every three of all mankind.

Look abroad from this centre of light over Europe, and you see for the most part an apostate Christianity. Look beyond that, and see Mohammedanism from Morocco, in the extreme West of North Africa, right away to China, one unbroken wave of one hundred and fifty milions of Mohamedans. Morocco, Algiers, Tunis, Tripoli, Egypt, Arabia, Persia, Beloochistan, Afghanistan, forty millions; in India, millions upon millions; in the East Indies, almost right away to the Yellow Sea, one hundred and forty or one hundred and fifty millions of mankind, followers of the False Prophet, and almost totally unevangelised. Beyond that you find almost nothing but heathenism, because the total numbers gathered out of heathenism by the efforts of the Christian Church at the present day are less than two millions. Those who are still heathen number more than eight hundred millions.

Have we, as we contemplate this awful field of darkness, no cause for encouragement? There is much cause for encouragement in the present day—increasing cause for encouragement. We are living in days of wonderful revival, of wonderful missionary effort. During the last one hundred years not only has the Church been wonderfully revived at home, but the work of God has been extended abroad. More than one hundred Missionary Societies have been raised up. The world has been opened, and is being rapidly opened by exploration. As it is being opened, it is being entered by missionaries and evangelists. I hold in my hand a paper I received last night from Brussels, sent by Baron Strouk, who represents the King of the Belgians—"La Belge sur le Congo." It is a sort of royal report of the work of the Belgians on the mighty Congo. What an illustration of the way in which God is now opening the world to the Church. Seven years ago none of this work was done; now, that mighty Congo river, crossing the whole of Central Africa, has been explored almost from end to end. Stations have been founded right up this river, geographical and exploratory, for not only hundreds of miles but for somewhere about 2000 miles north; and missionaries have poured in.

From the institute which I have the responsibility of directing we have sent to this one district 50 missionaries, and throughout the rest of the world, during the last eleven years, over 300 missionaries. These workers who have gone to the Congo have penetrated now to the equator, and have gone on to Stanley Falls, 1300 miles from the Atlantic. Some of the languages have been learned, and portions of the Word of God translated into the languages of this vast centre. The work still grows and extends. This is only a specimen of what is going on, because that mighty Continent is being penetrated by about 100 geographical expeditions, explored in all directions by many nationalities. Missionary Societies are taking up the work as it is being opened to them, and penetrating this dark Continent, and planting stations here and there throughout its vast extent.

Yet how much remains to be done. How much there is to be done in this one Continent may be gathered from the fact that while the Word of God has been, either in whole or in part, translated into only a few of the African languages there are spoken in Africa about 600 leading different dialects. When I was in North Africa only a few years ago, there was not a missionary labouring among the Berbers, who number some ten millions. That work has, however, been undertaken—the work of reducing their language to a written form, and introducing the Gospel among them.

I have no time to enlarge upon what is being done upon this vast Continent or in other parts of the world, but I might place, side by side with this magnificent report, one of Mr. Hudson Taylor's plain monthly reports of the work which he is carrying on in China, equally noble with its list of somewhere about 120 European missionaries, connected with that one Mission. I was at the birth of that work sixteen or seventeen years ago. I have watched its growth since, and the dimensions to which it has extended. The moral and spiritual needs of the world are gigantic and inexpressible. The Church has the commission to evangelise the world—to meet these needs. She has the power to accomplish the work which God has given her to do. May she feel her responsibility more and more; may she rise to the level of her duty, and go forth in God's name to preach the Gospel, which is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth, from land to land and age to age.

MILDMAY CONFERENCE HALL.

As in former years, the world-wide call to prayer has been devoutly observed here, though the crowds that were wont to flock to the hall during the lifetime of the beloved and revered founder (Rev. William Pennefather) are considerably diminished. But in Mr. James E. Mathieson the work has a sober and an efficient leader. His presidency during the week was very helpful. His choice of portions of Scripture was very appropriate, and the pithy and orderly observations he made thereon were always listened to with special interest. The subjects for prayer were those suggested by the Evangelical Alliance. Written requests for prayer have always characterised Mildmay, and on this occasion were very numerous. The meetings were always thrown open for prayer, and during the week a considerable number of brethren, both ministerial and lay, led the devotions with fervour, and often with deep feeling. "Hymns of Grace and Glory," and "Sacred Songs and Solos," combined, were used.

MONDAY.

On Monday the order of the Evangelical Alliance was departed from on the principle that the Jew ought to be placed first. Hence Rev. John Wilkinson, and the friends of the Mildmay Mission to the Jews, devoted this day specially to prayer for the house of Israel.

TUESDAY.

The subject for prayer for this day was confession by the Lord's people for any neglect of divine commands, and humiliation for their sins.

Speaking on the national sin of avarice, Rev. Thomas Graham, of St. Paul's, Canonbury, showed how even Christian people may be drawn into sin through their commercial transactions. After reading an article from an evening paper on this subject, he dwelt on the danger into which young men may be drawn in their daily business life through the fraud and dishonesty among business men, their competition one with another, in their haste to be rich not scrupling to defraud. Amid all these incitements to evil-doing, how hard is the path of rectitude and honesty, and how those striving to walk therein need our earnest prayers. The materialism of modern intellectual culture also proves a snare to many Christian people. The sin of our first parents was that of unbelief. In the higher grades of society it is the cultured, refined, and courteous infidel who does the mischief. Parents need to make a judicious selection of schools for their children, the tendency of the day being to give the place of honour to secular knowledge to the crowding out of spiritual things.

A snare into which the professing Church is in present danger of falling is that the religious machinery is so greatly multiplied that we become too satisfied with doing work and failing to seek the guidance and Spirit of the Great Worker. Have we not often been convinced of the unfruitfulness of our Christian work because done apart from the Lord? Let us take warning from the Laodicean Church, and enter a protest against the doctrinal errors which some love to smuggle into their ministry under the cloak of charity. We cannot be excused for neglecting our duty of condemning error. Although the duty is irksome, God requires it of us. Let us love our fellow-men, but hate their sin. But in condemning others, let us not overlook our own evil hearts. If we aver that the principle of sin is destroyed within us, St. John tells us "we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us." This notion of absolute perfection is a most dangerous delusion. It indicates a very defective view of sin and of self, and of our Holy God. The nearer a man gets to God, the more he will endorse the words of Job: "I abhor myself" (Job xlii. 6).

Mr. McBayne dwelt upon the importance of self-examination and private prayer. We are far too ready to flock to meetings instead of giving due observance to individual waiting upon God. Let us not trust to our good resolutions for the New Year, for these often prove but miserable and futile spurts in the race of life.

Referring to the subject upon which prayer was desired, the speaker feared that worldliness was a great failing amongst professing Christians. Many were afraid of being called narrow; so, to escape this verdict, they associated with those whose opinions were of a doubtful character. Let us make a bold stand against these encroachments; though we may be called narrow, let us come out and be separate, for these are but palpable signs of the end of the dispensation.

In the evening the Rev. James Stephens, of Highgate-road Chapel, gave a closely-reasoned and well-illustrated address on the connection between sin and punishment, and between repentance and mercy. It was a good thing to get down in lowliness if in truthfulness. Words of lowliness may have their place, but the use thereof must take the position of lowliness. "He that humbleth himself shall be exalted." "Before honour is humility." But the honour which Jesus gives has not attractions for the worldly eye. Those who seek to be exalted by their fellows are not likely to be exalted by Him. If we can truly humble ourselves we are on the eve of blessing. Then followed a series of helpful Scriptures, beginning with Lev. xxv. 1, where God threatens to walk contrary to the Jews, if they walk contrary to Him, and where He promises to remember the land, if they confess their sin. Men are slow to acknowledge the hand of God in bad trade, and in bad weather. The same truth was illustrated in 2 Chron. vii. 13, 14, where forgiveness of sin and the healing of the land are promised to a humbled people.

Deliverance from enemies was another blessing promised to a humbled people (2 Chron. xii. 7). There must be no controversy between the soul and God. We must justify God even when He deals severely with us. Let us take up Bible ground, and be bold to justify God. The example of Hezekiah was next dwelt upon. On one occasion his heart was lifted up, but when he humbled himself, wrath was not poured out. He was also a remarkable example of humbling himself for the sin of his people. He at once accepted God's view and took God's side. This humiliation came about through reading the Word of God (2 Chron. xxxiv). Ezra's case was next passed in review, as touchingly described in Ezra viii. 21. James iv. 8—10. was the last passage considered, as showing that all things which hindered our approach to God must be put away. The hands must be clean, the heart pure, and the mind single. We must break from partnership with evil, if we would enjoy the favour of the King.

Mr. Gawin Kirkham said the subject for the day brought to mind a truth in danger of being forgotten, viz., that punishment was connected with transgression. God's dealings with men were the same now as in the times of which we had just heard. Weather and human conduct were more intimately connected than most people imagined. This infidelity was due in large measure to the false views propagated by both press and pulpit. And the remedy for it all was another forgotten truth, as stated in the day's programme, viz., the Holy Ghost. He alone could convince of sin and righteousness and judgment.

WEDNESDAY.

Prayer was requested for "the Church of God." In the morning, Rev. E. A. Stuart, of St. James's, Holloway, based his remarks upon the motto for the year which he had chosen for his congregation—"A people near unto Him. Praise ye the Lord" (Psalm cxlviii. 14).

On Wednesday evening Mr. Mathieson read 1 Peter v. 1—11, and dwelt upon two kinds of resistance, active and passive. In most great campaigns the army which attacked was the one to win the day. Satan was an active adversary. As described in Zechariah, he resisted Joshua the high priest. God is also described by James (iv. 6) as resisting the proud. The corrective to pride was the consideration of the greatness of God, and hence the importance of the study of the Word of God. But in this conflict with Satan we must remember that carnal weapons were useless. "Whom resist steadfast in the faith." Thus alone by strong faith could we be armed for the conflict which thickened around us.

Mr. J. G. McVicker defined the Church as redeemed, quickened, sanctified, &c.; then observed how suggestive of the kind of prayer to be offered for the Church were the prayers in the New Testament. He proceeded to comment upon our Lord's prayer in John xvii. as an illustration. The preliminary chapters from the fourteenth contained all that the Church needed. He often wondered how Romanists read them, as there was not a word about the worship of the Virgin Mary, or any other distinctively Romish doctrine. He also wondered what Unitarians thought as they read them, for they were full of the Trinity and the Divine Sonship of our blessed Lord. Coming distinctly to the seventeenth chapter he dwelt upon the value of the intercession of Jesus. "I pray for them" (verse 9), says this Divine Intercessor. He does not speak of their faults. They have "known," "believed," &c.; not their failings, but their faith is mentioned. Note what He asks for them (verse 11)—that they may be kept. Mark his tenderness—"Holy Father!" Observe the sanctuary He puts them in—the Name of the Father. "The son of perdition" was here mentioned as having been a cause of fear to many timid souls, who argued "If he was lost, so may I." The "but" of verse 13 was not the but of exception, but of contrast. Judas was never given to Jesus. God's whole character was pledged to the keeping of his people.

The prayer included keeping while in the world (ver. 15). It was more natural to be in heaven, as we were heaven-born, but it was necessary to be here for a while for discipline. The evil one was busy. But if we have an adversary we have also a Keeper. The speaker here referred to an atheistical address at the Social Science Meeting in Belfast, when people were alarmed at this bold speech. But God sent his servant D. L. Moody soon after, and the whole town was stirred; so there was an antidote to the poison.

Dwelling on sanctification through the truth (ver. 17), he revived an old illustration, that the water-spider can descend the muddiest pond without contamination, because it surrounds itself by an air-bubble. So the Christian, carrying the air of heaven into the atmosphere of the world, is preserved from its evil influences. All truth sanctifies, and hence the vast importance of the patient, daily searching of the Bible.

Some earnest words about the reality of the oneness of the Church of Christ, notwithstanding the unhappy divisions of Christians, brought to its close a sympathetic address which was very helpful to every devout heart.

Rev. Townshend Storrs uttered some seasonable words on the divided state of the Church of Christ; and put in a strong plea for unity, based upon forbearance in non-essentials. We had inherited many of our differences, and therefore should be patient with each other. Mr. Storrs also added some suggestive thoughts on separation from the world and from evil. It was from the brother that walked disorderly the Christian was to be separated; but he should mix freely with worldly people if he did so as a witness for his Lord and Master.

THURSDAY.

The subject for prayer on Thursday was, "Families and Instructors of Youth." The speakers in the morning were Rev. Dr. John Edmond, of Park Church, Highbury, and Dr. Dixon. The former spoke on education, and the latter on the duties of parents.

In the evening Mr. Mathieson read Prov iv., and spoke words of wisdom on the disobedience and irreverence of the age. But we must look back farther than the present generation. There must be an object of reverence before there can be reverence. Therefore there must have been some lack in the parents of those now growing up. Parents who complain of irreverence should ask, What has been our example? He further dwelt upon the unnatural state of things in large cities arising from the absence of family life in the case of tens of thousands of young people, and from this state of things urged the claims of the associations established for the welfare of young men and young women. He closed by alluding to the good work going on at the universities in contrast with the past, and this was his illustration—in the ninety years' history of the Church Missionary Society 900 missionaries had been sent forth, yet only ninety of these were from the universities.

Rev. F. A. C. Lillingston, vicar of St. Barnabas, Holloway, taking his audience into his confidence, delivered a quiet, earnest, natural address on the responsibilities of parents, full of sound wisdom and tender piety. "His house" was the text from which he discoursed (Acts xvi. 31-34). Within the Church were three dangers to the young, which were increasingly felt—Pietism, Humanitarianism, and Ecclesiasticism. The first substituted sentimentalism, the second philanthropy, and the third the charms of music, &c., for Christ. Outside the Church there was the wave of scepticism, &c. He then drew a picture of godly parents in seven particulars: (1) Personal piety. Parents must be very sure of their own position before God. Unsaved parents could not bring up godly households. Yet their piety should present its brighter side to their children. (2) Consistency. Often the home life was out of harmony with the public life; and children were quick to notice the difference. (3) Right views of God. He should be set forth as a God of love. Formerly the wrath of God had unduly pervaded much of the teaching. Nor would he have that overlooked in its due proportions; but there was a yearning in the young to be loved, and that was fully met in God's gift of his beloved Son. (4) Responsibility of tastes as to amusements. There was great danger of breaking down the line between the Church and the world, and many parents took their children as near the boundary-line as possible, and as a result the children soon went ever it. (5) Importance of studying the Word of God. He strongly commended the Children's Scripture Union. The habit of reading the Bible regularly was never kept up without a blessing. (6) Reality. Children were very quick to discover shams. Parents must be real before their children. (7) The care of servants. This he feared was sadly overlooked, though a duty of the first importance. His closing observation was that the influence of a godly household would not stop at home, but would be felt among other households and in other neighbourhoods.

Mr. Robert Paton dwelt with considerable emphasis upon the authority of the Word of God. "God hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son." Therefore it was a Person speaking—the Author of the book was still living. This strong faith would give great boldness in prayer (Heb. xi. 6). It would also be the chief factor in the upbringing of children, for a "Thus saith the Lord" would be sufficient both for parent and child. A faith founded upon the Word of God was immovable. Mr. Paton added some interesting details of early piety both within and without his own household.

FRIDAY.

This morning, Rev. Townshend Storrs, who presided, read and commented upon the second Psalm, the subject for prayer being Nations, Rulers, and Governments.

Rev. D. B. Hankin, vicar of St. Jude's, Mildmay Park, spoke of the nations, beginning with the Jewish nation, now full of hope; the Irish nation, so priest-ridden; and the Europeon nations, all full of warlike fear. He then read Luke xxi. 25—28, as indicative of the signs of the times, and the approaching end of the age. The signs in the heavenly bodies doubtless referred to the overthrow of properly-constituted authority and the persecution in store for the Church of Christ. The malice of the people against the Salvation Army was but an instalment of what might be expected to become more general. "The sea and the waves roaring" referred to the lawless spirit of the age. But how bright is the other side of the picture! When these things begin to come to pass the people of God may well rejoice, for their full redemption draweth nigh. What a strong inducement is this to cry continually, "Thy kingdom come!"

Mr. Landale read 1 Tim. ii. 1—8, specially insisting upon the privilege of dwelling under good government. He had lived many years in China, and to view England from a distance of 16,000 miles made her appear a much more favoured nation than when living at home. The difficulty of leading quiet and peaceable lives in all godliness and honesty is very great in China, of which he gave some painful illustrations.

On Friday evening Dr. Laseron, in a brief but pointed address, showed how the promise was made to Abraham that all nations of the earth should be blessed. He spoke very strongly against the drink traffic in Africa and the opium traffic in China. How can we expect the heathen to believe in our religion when they know the drink to be manufactured and sold even by members of Christian churches? Christians are the Bible for the world.

Mr. Robert Burn spoke of our great responsibility as a nation for our religious privileges. There is great need of increased effort and earnest prayer for other countries less favoured.

SATURDAY.

The subject for prayer this morning was Home and Foreign Missions. Mr. Eugene Stock, after showing that the spread of the Gospel was the thing most in the mind of Christ after the resurrection, spoke of the "open doors" in China, Japan, Africa, &c., and of the duty of Christians to enter in Christ's name.

Dr. William Gauld spoke of the encouragements to further effort and prayer with regard to Mission work. God has promised that his Word shall not return unto Him void. The seed sown is never lost.

The speakers on Saturday evening were Rev. J. Hudson Taylor and Mr. Badenoch. Mr. Taylor, in a very impressive address, based upon his favourite 114th Psalm, dwelt much on the reality of the continual presence of the living God, and on the personality of the Holy Ghost.

Mr. Badenoch called attention to the close connection between Home and Foreign Missions. Mission work, he said, will depend greatly upon the state of the Church. The state of the Church depends upon what we are individually. Mission work, therefore, is dependent upon the standard of individual life.

MANCHESTER Y.M.C.A.

The Week of Prayer has been kept as usual at this Association. Earnest addresses were delivered by Revs. W. Robinson, J. D. Tetley, John Reid, John Henn, and E. A. Davies. The Bee Hive (the monthly magazine of the Association) for January contains interesting New Year's messages to the members from the Bishop of Manchester and Rev. Prebendary Macdonald.

DEVIZES, WILTS.

The week was very generally observed here. The ministers and churches of different denominations heartily united in the services held in the Town Hall. As a fitting termination to those happy seasons of prayer and praise, a united communion service of all the churches was held in the Independent Chapel on Sunday afternoon, January 11. This proved to be truly a "time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord."

CHESTERFIELD.

Sir,—The meetings here day by day have been times of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. The Holy Spirit has been very manifestly at work amongst us, building up and strengthening those that have waited upon God in prayer. We hope and pray that each place of worship and the town generally will be blessed with answers to the prayers offered up at these meetings, and that a goodly number of precious souls will be saved. H. S.

WANDSWORTH.

United meetings for prayer were held each day in Down Lodge Hall, lately erected for evangelistic purposes on the site of the building used by Mr. Moody. The local pastors joined heartily in the meetings, which were well attended throughout the week. Addresses on the subjects suggested by the Evangelical Alliance were delivered by Rev. Donald Matheson, Rev. Marcus Rainsford, Rev. C. Carruthers, Rev. R. A. Redford, and Rev. W. Thomas; whilst Rev. C. H. Kelly, Rev. J. Cunningham, Rev. J. Park, Rev. N. Buckmaster, and Rev. W. Reed also took part in the services.

BOURNEMOUTH.

United meetings were held daily in the Town Hall from twelve to one, which were generally well attended. Earl Cairns was to have presided on the first day, but was prevented by an attack of congestion of the lungs, from which he is now happily recovering. In the evening similar meetings were also held in the different Nonconformist places of worship. It was thought by some that too large a portion of the hour was given to speaking and too little to prayer; but the addresses were, as a rule, very much to the purpose, and those who were influenced by them would naturally turn them into prayer at home.

EASTBOURNE.

In this town there were six morning and six evening meetings in the hall of the Y.M.C.A. It was decided not to ask any friends to give addresses this year, and to keep prominently to the principle that we met to speak together to the Lord and not to each other. Accordingly, twelve friends were asked to oversee the meetings, reading from time to time appropriate Scriptures, and adding a few words if disposed. The total attendance has been less than in former years. But there has been more adoration, confession, prayer, and intercession than ever here before in my experience. Much spiritual edification and sanctification have been experienced by those who attended. S.

SUPREME LOVE FOR CHRIST.—A Karen woman offered herself for baptism. After the usual examination, I inquired whether she could give up her ornaments for Christ. It was an unexpected blow. I explained the spirit of the Gospel; I appealed to her own consciousness of vanity; I read to her the Apostle's prohibition (1 Tim. ii. 9). She looked again and again to her handsome necklace; and then, with an air of modest decision that would adorn beyond all ornaments any Christian in the land, she took it off, saying, "I love Christ more than this."—Dr. Judson.

THE HOMELESS POOR.

'Neath the railway arch, through the night they lie;
On the city bridge, 'neath a freezing sky;
Or heaped together, on rickety stairs
Of a crowded house, for no home is theirs.
Thus men, and women, and children sleep;
Weep for them! Christians of England, weep!

Wherever they can they lie down to rest:
The dotard, the woman with babe at breast;
Ay! old and young, in their rags and sin,
As foul to the sight as foul within;
Where famine, disease, and vice hold sway;
Pray for them! Christians of England, pray!

"Breakfast! free breakfast!" Thank God for the sound!
'Tis music to ears on the cold, hard ground.
A swift "Will you come?" A glad "If it's free!"
They are fed and warmed, as the poor should be,
In the winter mornings bleak and mirk.
Work for them lovingly, Christians, work!

Fail not to break them the heavenly bread,
Pour them forth wine of Christ's blood that was shed.
Fail not to tell them there reigneth above
The God-Man, once slain; by his fathomless love
For the outcast, the wretched, the sinful, the poor,
He can house them in heaven, and He is the Door

Laura L. McL. Backler.

◆

HEALING FOR SOUL AND BODY.

At the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Boardman, a considerable number of friends met at their new residence, 3, Highbury-place, on Jan. 6, to celebrate the ninth anniversary of their Tuesday weekly meeting. The proceedings began with praise and prayer, Mrs. Baxter thanking God for the many who had been dispossessed, and for those who had recovered from insanity.

After giving a cordial welcome to his friends, Mr. Boardman said he had personal reasons for gratitude beyond anything he ever knew before. "The circumstances in which we have been placed have been such as to necessitate our trusting in God as much for our bread as for our breath. But amid it all I have known nothing of anxious care, and have never lost a moment's sleep through disquietude. The last three months have been the richest in my experience I have ever known, and I feel my grand business is to see my Leader and to follow Him."

Several brief testimonies followed, all of which were in harmony with the design and spirit of the meeting. Most of the witnesses acknowledged having received more or less spiritual good through association with Mr. Boardman.

We could fill columns with the valuable testimonies borne by friends at the evening meeting. A few additional words by Mr. Boardman, who again presided, were based on 2 Peter i. 3—4. He said, I have recently learned to accept each promise as a locked casket, and ask God to fulfil them, while not as yet fully understanding all they imply.

Among the addresses that followed was one by Miss Sissons, who spoke with much fervour on the position of believers as being with Christ in the heavenly places. Dr. Mackilliam pointed out the need of discrimination between God's unalterable truth and our varying experiences and realisations of it. Mr. Boardman expressed his belief that ere long a great deal more of God's power would be seen in the Church.

WORKNG MEN'S MISSION (Collingwood-street, New Cut).—A very interesting meeting was held here on the 26th ultimo, when Mr. William Witterick, deacon and senior secretary, was presented with a purse of money, contributed by the members, and also a handsomely-framed testimonial, as a mark of their love and esteem. Mr. Witterick, in acknowledging the presentations, referred to the starting of this Mission (when seven working men met in a little room), and to the great work that had been accomplished in seven years, a church gathering of over 200 members, many having been reclaimed from the lowest ranks, the criminal and the outcasts of society, while others were of the honest, hard-working class of the community, now working together in harmony and love.

RENEWING THE COVENANT

AT CHRIST CHURCH, WESTMINSTER ROAD.

THE New Year was ushered in by the usual midnight service, following a special prayer meeting. The church was crowded by a congregation of more than two thousand persons, a large proportion being of the poorer classes.

Rev. H. Grainger gave an earnest address from the words, "Why sit we here idle?" and the Rev. Newman Hall from "The night is far spent, the day is at hand." He dwelt on the fact that while to the unbelieving and ungodly their life was the only day, to Christians it not only had more light in it now, but it was night compared to the coming day of perfect purity and bliss. After Wesley's watch-night hymn, "Come let us anew our journey pursue," about forty persons took the total abstinence pledge.

On the following Sunday a sermon was preached on the motto text for the year—"I will bless the Lord at all times." At the Lord's Supper, according to the custom of the church, all the members stood while the Pastor read the "Solemn League and Covenant," which is the only basis of fellowship; and united in a most impressive "Amen" at the close.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SOLEMN COVENANT AND BOND OF UNION.

Renewed and publicly ratified at Christ Church by the Communicants of the Lord's Supper on the first Sunday morning of every year.

"On this first Sabbath of the new year, and assembled round the table of our Lord, we do hereby, before God and one another, renew our solemn Covenant.

"We confess that we are guilty, ruined sinners, deserving the righteous punishment of God. But we declare our confidence in his mercy, as revealed by Jesus Christ, who is 'the propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world.' We trust in that atonement; we plead the merits of the Redeemer. By Him, the only way to the Father, we draw near with penitent, yet confiding hearts, saying —'God be merciful to me a sinner.' And we desire anew to yield up ourselves entirely to our Triune Jehovah. We would look up with filial love, and say—'Our Father, who art in Heaven, —hallowed be thy name!' We would live as his adopted children, trusting, obeying, rejoicing in Him. We yield ourselves to the Son of God. We would be taught by Him as our Prophet; we rely on his sacrifice as our Priest; we would obey his commands as our King. For this we seek the aid of the Holy Spirit, the giver and preserver of the life of godliness in the soul; and we declare our sincere purpose to give heed to his counsels—not wilfully to grieve Him—but daily, through the year, to cherish his presence in our hearts.

"We declare that we are not our own, but bought with a price. We desire to present ourselves—spirit, soul and body—time, property, influence—a living sacrifice unto God. We will endeavour in all things to prove that we love Him by obeying his Commandments. We will endeavour in private and public, in our households, in our business, in daily life, in all places, in all companies, to act as becometh the Gospel —to promote true religion in the hearts of others, to help the needy, comfort the sorrowful, and to diminish vice, ungodliness, and misery in the world, 'looking for that blessed hope, the glorious appearing of our great God and Saviour, Jesus Christ.' And knowing, from mumerous past failures, how unable we are of ourselves to do anything that is good, we do earnestly implore the help of Him without whom we can do nothing —but who has said, 'My grace is sufficient for you.'

"In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, to this our solemn Covenant we do now severally and unitedly assent—with a solemn and a hearty—Amen."

BETHNAL GREEN FREE LIBRARY.

SIR,—It may not be generally known to your readers that this institution is doing a vast amount of Christian work. Local missionaries, district visitors, Sunday-school teachers, students for the Ministry, and many other workers attend here for study. A most important work is also being carried on amongst young persons by providing shelter from the temptations of the streets, and giving them healthy literature. From our last annual report it appears that the largest number of readers have been between the ages of fourteen and twenty. An explanatory paragraph states that these young persons consist chiefly of working lads employed in city warehouses, and in factories in this and surrounding parishes, who nightly flocked into the library in large numbers.

The demands upon our limited stock of juvenile literature became so great as to necessitate applications being made for special grants from the Committees of the Religious Tract Society and the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge. Both committees promptly and liberally responded to the Library Committee's appeals. We now require £250 for additional shelving and reading accommodation, book-binding and repairing, likewise to meet daily current expenses of warming, lighting, cleaning, attendance, &c. The treasurer is Mr. F. A. Bevan, 54, Lombard-street, E.C.

Yours most truly, G. F. Hilcken,
Bethnal-green Free Library, E. Librarian.

A PLEA FOR THE BRITISH LADS.

DEAR FRIENDS,—In the name of my Master I now plead on behalf of the rough lads in this neighbourhood. I cannot help thinking, while so much is done for the class looked after by the Y.M.C.A., how little is done for these poor lads, especially here in Brixton. They have not the advantage of the East-end lads. I was at George-yard, Whitechapel, a few Sundays ago, and was deeply impressed with what I saw—a splendid work with the lads, a class of sixty taken by a lady. I was much struck with the earnestness of some of them.

But there have been years of patient perseverance there; and having had some experience in the last three years with lads, it is laid very heavily on my heart to do something for them. My idea is to get hold of them before they are sunk in vice and sin, and remove them from temptation, which I have done in some cases by sending them to Canada, where they are doing well. I give you a few words of a letter I received from the last lad that went. He says:—"How glad I am to be away from my bad companions. At times my thoughts go back to my past life, and the road I was going down to destruction, but, thank God, I am now following the path that leads to heaven."

Another case is that of a young girl of sixteen. We could do nothing with her here, so she was sent to Queensland. I have had a very encouraging letter from her; she is doing well, I am thankful to say. So I am encouraged to go on. The lads are to be got at; they only need the loving, patient interest in them.

The difficulty I have before me is, that there is no place to take them. If some of the readers of The Christian would kindly help, a railway arch might be taken and fitted for a boys' shelter, open every night. I know the lads would be only too glad to avail themselves of it. True, they are not my children nor yours, but they are God's children, and for his sake I do appeal to you to help in this important work. I have at present an infant nursery, entirely on my own responsibility, which was opened in April, 1883. The first year 2000 children were taken in and cared for, while the mothers were out of work. Since April, 1884, to the present time, 1700 have been taken in. The poor mothers thoroughly appreciate it. There are many interesting cases, and also a decided improvement with both mothers and infants, which I consider a great feature in the work. The cottage I now rent is too small, and if a suitable one could be found, where both branches of the work could be carried on, I should indeed be glad.

I cannot close this notice without telling of the wonderful way in which our Heavenly Father has helped me with these little ones. The nursery was opened entirely in faith at the advice of Mr. George Holland, of George-yard, Whitechapel. When speaking of funds to him, he replied, "You do your part, God will do his." He has, indeed, done so beyond my expectations.

Kate Cunningham.
Hope Cottage, Industry-terrace, Brixton Station.

THE MAORIS.

SIR,—Through an accident your Christians have not reached me lately, but I hear that some good men have been putting me in "hot water" at home. I would be quite willing to suffer it if some good men would only put the Maoris in hot water. Their "lukewarm" baths are their destruction.

I find that four, perhaps five, European preachers live in the huts with the Maoris. I confess my former ignorance of the fact; but I will undertake that not one of them will say that there is "a great work" doing among the Maoris. I question whether one of them will say that there is an encouraging work of conversion going on. My contention in my former letter was, that "some of you perhaps think a great deal is being done." The answers given to me say there are scores of workmen labouring and toiling; you forget all our people and our establishments. But the answer required is, how many trees does your saw-mill cut down in the month? If I said I had 100 workmen in the forest, you surely would expect to see fallen trees lying all around, and my 100 men ought to show a great work done.

Where does the error lie? The men may be dear, loving, honest men, some of them really good pastors, kindly visitors, &c., &c.; but evangelists by gift are one thing, pastors another. The best intentions will not make an evangelist; and the very regularity, the very style of a pastor, often unfits him for being an evangelist. The fresh irregularity of an evangelist breaks a stone that the pastor lays siege to in the most regular style without making the least impression.

Before the Scotch revival in 1857 there were not scores but hundreds of preachers, and thousands and tens of thousands of unconverted office-bearers. If one had said there are no evangelistic missionaries in Scotland, people would have reckoned the preacher an idiot, but he would have spoken the truth: large congregations, plenty of ordained men, but they required the words "I will make"—mark the word make—"you fishers of men."

Is God to blame? or the Holy Spirit to blame? or are we to blame? Let the saw that has teeth be used to cut down, and you will soon see blessed results. The same piece of steel without teeth may work away, and be oiled and turned on systematically without any result. A few half-rotten trees may come down, but you will require a saw with teeth indeed to touch strong vigorous heathen and stout sinners.

The fall of a vigorous, resolute heathen often brings down others, but the gentle, tame, smooth style of toothless saws cannot expect much result.

My impression, when in England, used to be that numbers of goodly young men go out as missionaries, and they would be much better at home. You require bold, restless men, with military spirit, for such evangelistic work—men who swing God's sword in a way, perhaps, that horrifies men who live only on the defensive. Rowland Hill understood the work, and horrified his contemporaries often; and when a bridge fell with John Wesley once, and landed his congregation in a small shallow stream, and he told all those that were not hurt to sit down and attend just where they were, he did what few regular pastors could ever have imagined even.

Give us only twelve of John Wesley's red-hot soldiers, and place them in the very middle of the Maoris, knowing Maori language, teaching fiery burning hymns, and the Maoris would drop down like fruit among them. Readers, if you do not believe this now, you will believe it some day. I have seen large stiff, Gospel-hardened congregations break up like snow before the sun, and the Maoris are fine, fresh mould, but where are the ploughmen and the reapers?

Gordon Forlong.

TUNIS AND ITS PEOPLE.

HERE we are in Tunis. What shall we say of it? What a vast city, how thoroughly Eastern; miles of streets of low-roofed houses, and mud and dirt and smells, just like all Mohammedan towns. Some of the streets are so narrow that two mules can scarcely pass. At certain hours of the day they are encumbered by camels, horses, mules, and donkeys charged with great burdens, camels kneeling at the doors to discharge their loads of firewood, morning and evening droves of black goats. The houses only receive light by windows protected by iron bars, the entrance doors almost universally decorated with a hand, in order to avert the evil eye.

Here are Moors always found in towns, Arabs who mostly live in the country, Turks, Koulonghis, children of Turkish fathers and Arab mothers, negroes originally from the Soudan, Andalous Moors driven from Andalusia, Kabyles, Greeks, Italians, Maltese, French, and Jews. What a vast concourse of people! what a multitude of souls apparently without Christ in the world!—one's heart bleeds for them.

It is the Jewish Sabbath, so all seem in Sunday best. What Oriental types! Here is a man with yellow silk waistcoat, another with light blue satin jacket, another in bright pea-green. Here's a fine negress in a rose-coloured silk vest; her black left hand with a ring on each finger, two of which were large Tunisian coins, one a large green stone. The Arab and Kabyle women wear necklaces of numerous coins, but the Arab women are veiled. Many have the palms of their hands and nails coloured with henna. Innumerable police and soldiers keep order, the latter with enormous brass crescents on the breast.

The people of Tunis are very early risers; the ten gates are open at a quarter to three in the morning, and close at nine. The climate is reckoned to be healthy, but the great inland Bay, El Bahira, at the end of which Tunis is built, is the receptacle of the sewage, which renders it at certain seasons very unwholesome. It is very much larger than Algiers, and has two principal streets running right through it. Its population 125,000, of which 37,000 are Jews, 60,000 Mohammedans, and about 10,000 Italians and Maltese.

The population of all Tunis is about a million and a half, whereas in its palmy days it was eighteen millions. The principal European language spoken is Italian. Here is a fine field amongst them for an evangelist, and Mons. Bert is doing a good work. Pure Arabic is spoken, and many can read. The London Jews' Society have a Mission, superintended by Mr. Reichardt, who is also British chaplain. They have schools and a Bible depôt for the Jews, kept by Mr. Grunberg, an excellent young Jewish convert. He says: "When a sincere Jew truly and seriously receives the truth of Christ, it goes down deep into his heart." Mons. Durmeyer is the French aumonier and pastor, and has a service on Sunday morning in his own house. He has the depôt of the British and Foreign Bible Society. The Jews speak Arabic and Italian, and nearly all speak Hebrew likewise; but the Tunis Jews and Italian Jews from Leghorn are quite apart, and have separate synagogues.

The great need for Tunis is an aggressive work of evangelisation amongst all classes, especially the Arabs. A Bible woman would be invaluable for the women, but the Mohammedans are very fanatical. The French are in a minority. They sacrificed 2,000 men in the Kroumir war. A line of railway from Tunis skirts the Bay, touches at the Bardo where is a palace of the Bey, and the residence of the Archbishop, and arrives at the Port of Goletta, at its extremity. Goletta is mainly built of the materials of the ruins of Carthage, Pagan ruins being more numerous than the Christian; but the associations connected with the latter are of thrilling interest when we remember that Carthage was the seat of Christianity from the second century to the fifth, that it was adorned with the names of Tertullian, second century, Cyprian in the third, and Augustine in the fourth, and that in his time North Africa possessed 466 dioceses.

Near the Arab village of Malka are remains of the amphitheatre where Perpetua and her companions suffered martyrdom under Severus, A.D. 202. It had six tiers of seats, and was capable of holding 35,000 spectators. She was twenty-two years of age.

> "Perpetua, beautiful Perpetua, pride of Carthage—
> The scourge made furrows on her quivering flesh,
> And soon the maddened and infuriate bull,
> Wild with affright, forth rushing from its den,
> Gored all her tender side, until herself,
> Triumphant in the hour of mortal pain,
> Guided the gladiator's trembling blade
> Straight to her bursting throat." *

The church erected on the field where Cyprian was beheaded was further to the north, near Utica. For Pagan Carthage we go back 2,764 years, to the founding of the city by Dido, the Phœnician princess of Sidon, a near relative of Jezebel, Ahab's queen. Procopius, in the sixth century, mentions two columns of white marble in Numidia bearing the inscription, "We are they who fled from the robber Joshua, son of Nun." Carthage prospered long till it was destroyed by the younger Scipia in 146 B.C., but rebuilt later by Augustus Cæsar, 19 B.C.; from that time till the fall of Rome, in the fifth century after Christ, North Africa was subject to its iron rule.

Carthage occupied the greater part of the eastern side of the small isthmus above Goletta; one sees from thence a hilly tract of ground now crowned by the domed chapel of St. Louis and a statue of the king; and on higher ground still the Arab village Sidi-bou-Said ("the village of the saint"), most probably the spot where the kingly saint died.

A little to the north of Goletta are two basins; the inner one, Cothon, was the famous Carthaginian harbour capable of mooring 220 ships of war—for it was the greatest naval power in the world. The exterior basin was the port of merchandise.

At Byrsa are seen the remains of the Temple of Æsculapius used as a citadel, where the Carthaginians made their last desperate stand, and from the roof of which Hardrubal's wife and sons flung themselves into the flames, disdaining to surrender. On the wall of one of the tombs at Gebel-Kawi is engraven a representation of the seven-branched candlestick from the temple of Jerusalem, for the veritable golden candlestick was brought to Carthage from Rome by Genseric on the Vandal invasion of Africa.

In the year 698, Hassan, Saracen governor of Egypt, took Carthage, and it was destroyed by fire, so that from that time nothing remained of this far-reaching, influential city but its ruins. The crusading king St. Louis invaded Tunis with an army in 1270, with the view of winning the Mohammedans to the faith, but a pestilence broke out, and the king himself was carried off by it, and the expedition came to an end. Several attempts were made by Raymond Lully, single-handed, at Tunis and Bougie to convert the Mohammedans, and he was at length stoned to death at Bougie in 1315, in the 79th year of his age.

The most valuable and interesting work on the controversy between Christians and Mohammedans is that of the Abbé Bourgade, formerly aumonier of the Chapel Royal of St. Louis, entitled "Soireés de Carthage" (Paris, 1847).

Half a century after the destruction of Carthage the Pasha Abdurrahman wrote to the Caliph Abdul Abbas that "the tribute of the infidels had ceased through their conversion;" and now God's scourge has lasted 1130 years, but our Lord's command to preach the Gospel to every creature is unrepealed, and M. Mettetal well demands, "Will Jesus Christ share the empire of the world with Mahomet?" No, the Euphrates is drying up, and the way of the kings from the sunrising is made ready. We shall see glorious things for the ingathering of Mohammedans, and blessed will he be who lays himself out for it.

Yours ever truly, Geo. Pearce.

Tunis.

---

* Bickersteth's "Yesterday, To-day, and for Ever."

WHAT LITTLE FINGERS CAN DO.

IF your readers could have been with me at Westwood, Hatherley-road, Sidcup, Kent, on Thursday, January 8, they would have been pleased to see the result of twelve months' work by the "Sidcup Little Workers" for the London City Mission, aided by gifts of ladies in the village. This meeting was begun in 1880 by a lady, who left in 1882. At that time it was the only childrens' working party. It was formed to provide childrens' garments for the London City Missionaries to give away to needy cases.

Hitherto the work has been done by young children only, who have worked on two afternoons in the month in the drawing-room at Westwood. Now the Y.W.C.A. (Sidcup Branch) are going to assist in the work. The present result has been that two missionaries have gone home laden with these seasonable gifts, as we saw last Thursday. We hope many neighbourhoods will follow the example, so that more missionaries may be assisted in their arduous work among the destitute. The clothes are all useful and warm, and consist of dresses, flannel petticoats, hoods, cuffs, scarves, socks, &c., all for children.

On showing the articles (160 in number) to the missionaries, one of them remarked that in all his twenty-two years' experience as a missionary he had never before received such a valuable parcel for his work. Will your readers join in prayer that the recipients of these articles may be led to accept the greater gift of God—"eternal life?"

E. R.

HOME OF INDUSTRY.

THIS season has been a more than usually happy one for us as a band of workers. Health and strength have been given to make both young and old cheery and bright. The result is that we have been quickened, and are looking forward to a time of revival blessing in February, when we hope to have a season of special services. Already in every branch of our work we have the droppings of the shower.

We heartily thank all the kind friends who have sent us clothing and money; we have distributed freely, and over one thousand have been warmed and fed, while their gratitude was most touching. On New Year's Day we had our annual dinner for our widows, followed by a meat tea for our adult Sunday scholars. We afterwards had the annual teas for our Sunday-school children, factory girls, &c.

We are now having the annual treats in the large workhouses visited by our Flower Mission workers, and are distributing the kind gifts sent to us by many flower senders. Two have been given last week in unions where there are respectively 700 and 1300 sick, aged, and little ones. One of our workers is writing a detailed account of these happy seasons, which, when printed, will be sent to each kind donor.

One newly rescued family is gradually increasing, for whom we ask your continual prayers, as for ourselves also. We are thankful to report cheering accounts from Mr. and Mrs. Merry and the children in Canada.

Annie Macpherson.

BOOKS FOR CHILDREN.—I have a large day-school in which I find a wide and increasing sphere of labour in the Lord's work. I shall be most grateful for any tracts and little books suitable for the young, as I have such ample opportunities for their distribution far beyond what my means can provide. I am also organising a free lending system, which necessitates fresh supplies very frequently. Kindly address, Mrs. Allday, 4, Queen Anne-gardens, Railway-road, Bournemouth.

Y M.C.A. KING'S CROSS.—As an outcome of the work of Messrs. Moody and Sankey at the Midland Terminus Hall, St. Pancras, a branch of the Y.M.C.A. has been formed at King's-cross. A Bible-class held every Sunday afternoon, and a meeting for prayer and praise on Wednesday evenings. Some young men have been brought to accept Christ Jesus as their Saviour. Premises are needed; the meetings at present are held (through the kindness of the trustees) at the Cabmen's Mission Hall, King's-cross. The treasurer is Mr. C. F. Lovell, 20, Torrington-square, W.C.

Letters to the Editor.

SPANISH, PORTUGUESE, AND MEXICAN CHURCH AID SOCIETY.

DEAR SIR,—By the unavoidable loss of several large collections and donations, by the death of many liberal supporters and other causes, our income has already fallen off this year to the extent of £400. During the last three months we have been compelled very seriously to reduce our grants to the pastors, evangelists and teachers of the Reformed Churches in Spain and Portugal, and as the result many of them are in great straits. The sad calamity of earthquake which has befallen poor Spain is the cause of much anxiety to our friends there. The Church of San Basilio in Seville has received a good deal of damage, and in order to secure the safety of the congregations who gather there from Sunday to Sunday, and of the numerous children in the schools, it is absolutely necessary that the repairs should be at once carried out. To effect this and to succour the faithful Spanish and Portugal reformers in this hour of need, the committee require prompt and liberal assistance. Information respecting the work, and copies of the monthly magazine, "Light and Truth," will be gladly forwarded on application.

Yours faithfully, L. S. TUGWELL,
8, Adam-street, Adelphi, W.C. Secretary.

A REMEDY FOR PAUPERISM.

SIR,—Allow me to protest against the idea that employers are entitled to give more than the market value for the services of the persons employed by them. If such a principle be admitted, owing to the distressed condition of many of the working class, it should be applied also to the produce of the land, as farmers and landowners are in a very bad position, many quite unable to meet their engagements. The natural and equitable relief in both cases would be the removal of surplus labour and capital to a better market. This is what the pressure of population indicates. We cannot, and should not deport our paupers. Neither employers nor the employed should drift on till they are destitute of funds. Both could greatly improve their position where there is more elbow-room, and their removal would leave more scope for those remaining here.

Some say that those who have drifted into large towns should return to the country, but the superabundant country labour should be directed to its most suitable sphere—the waste places of the earth. I do not speak so confidently without a thorough knowledge of colonial and American affairs. Labour and capital would thus make a much better return on the average, and the best use we can make of our best workers or employers is to encourage and enable them to go to our most thriving colonies. It would pay the mother-country to cooperate with the colonies in the removal of surplus labour. The whole outlay would be returned in a very few years by their consumption of our goods.

I am, Sir, &c., CHAS. WILSON.
Cheltenham.

[We quite agree with our correspondent's remedy Two questions of painful interest are suggested by his first sentence: How is the market value of labour ascertained? Are we entitled to pay no more, when the market value means starvation?—ED.]

HABITUAL CRIMINALS.

SIR,—Since the publication of my suggestions with regard to "The Treatment of Habitual Criminals," I have been unable, through the pressure of work upon those who I had hoped to have called together for a private and devotional conference on the subject, to achieve my desire in this respect. There is some hope of a few of us meeting in a confidential manner towards the latter end of the present month, and it is in view of strengthening our position at that meeting, that I ask you to favour me by the insertion of this supplementary letter.

A doubt has arisen as to the likelihood of Government passing a Permissive Bill for the proposed experiment to be entrusted to a narrow and practically self-elected management, and I am therefore anxious to put before the readers of your paper the fact that up to the present time we have not had a House of Commons likely to give countenance to a scheme of Gospel Missionary work, such as was contemplated in my article. In the event of the great changes contemplated in the proposed Redistribution Bill, we have an exceptional opportunity as followers of our Saviour to utilise this great and anxious reform by employing the influential power of the pulpit and the press to guide the electors in the coming crisis.

Let there be a period of united prayer, and a general call upon the ministers of religion throughout the land to exercise their undoubted right to make an appeal to their Christian hearers to vote, regardless of political creeds, as far as possible, for Christian men to represent the new constituencies in Parliament, and to avoid supporting the claims of any candidate whose trade or profession inclines him to legislation hostile to the best interests of the country. Thus, by the grace of God in his answer to a nation's prayer, the bulk of the electors might be moved to support the cause of righteousness, and we might then have representatives who would support a Government favourable to any Christian effort which sought the confidence and support of the law.—Your obedient servant,

THE AUTHOR OF THE ARTICLE.

BIBLES FOR MADAGASCAR.

DEAR SIR,—My attention has just been called to a letter in your issue of January 1, signed, "T. T. Matthews, Antananarivo, Madagascar, October 10," which complains of a dearth of Bibles and Testaments in Madagascar, and adds, "Why the new edition of the partly-revised Bible has not been sent out we cannot understand; they were ready a year ago. We have had a thousand of them, and have been expecting the rest ever since. . . . The traders are getting in goods, and why we cannot get Bibles in is more than we can explain. . . . If the blockade can be run with a cargo of arms, I do not see why it could not be run with a cargo of Bibles."

As this letter seems to attach some blame in the matter of supplying the Scriptures to Madagascar to the Bible Society, I beg to send you a few facts on this subject, which will show that there has been no blameworthy neglect on our part to do what we could under the circumstances. It has been the most anxious desire of the committee to do anything in their power to aid the sufferers in Madagascar under the painful trial to which the action of the French has subjected them, and the Malagasy Ambassadors were fully assured of the readiness of the Society to furnish the Scriptures for their people at prices much below their cost to produce, to say nothing of the cost of transport.

In April, 1883, the new edition of 15,000 Malagasy Bibles, printed for the Society, began to come to hand, and 1027 copies were forwarded in May, 1883, to Antananarivo. They reached Tamatave in July, 1883. It was not the fault of the Society that they did not get inland to Antananarivo till May, 1884, nor that we could hear nothing of their arrival, or of the wish for more copies, till August, 1884, only two months before Mr. Matthews wrote the letter you have printed. The war had broken out, and the port of Tamatave, to which we had our instructions to ship, was blockaded. Nor could we know till lately that it would be possible to run the blockade at certain points, and supply Scriptures to limited spots, even if they could not be got inland to the capital.

I do not know with what authority Mr. Matthews writes, but our correspondent at Antananarivo, and the secretary of the Bible Committee for the island, Mr. H. E. Clark, of the Society of Friends, wrote to us on May 14, 1884, thus: "We do not know how far you may think it prudent to ship any more Bibles and Testaments. All I need say is that we are sadly in want of them, and I know you will do what you think best." This letter reached us in August, and naturally did not aid us in knowing how to get further supplies into the country.

A second letter from Mr. Clark reached us in November, suggesting that as a further supply both of Bibles and Testaments was much needed, we might send them to a certain firm in Mauritius, for them to send across as they might find opportunity. Nearly 400 Bibles and 540 Testaments were shipped at once, to get to Antananarivo as they might.

The same month a letter from another part of Madagascar was received, written by the Rev. T. Brockway, telling us that Tamatave was closed to our efforts, but indicating another port where we might run the venture of trying to get Scriptures, packed in small cases, into the country, though the cost of getting them carried inland to his station would be very heavy. About 500 Bibles and 500 Testaments were at once shipped to attempt this route.

Since then further consignments of 1000 Bibles and 1000 Testaments have been sent to run the blockade, if possible, and other ventures will, no doubt, be made if there is the least hope of their reaching those who are so eagerly watching for their arrival.—Yours very faithfully,

JOHN SHARP, Secretary.
British and Foreign Bible Society,
146, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., Jan. 7.

THE EVANGELISTIC VILLAGE MISSION.

(BREACHWOOD GREEN DIVISION.)

DEAR SIR,—The work of this Mission lies very much amongst the hamlets and out-of-the-way corners, where a sick visitor is perhaps never seen or heard of from one end of the year to the other. And charity, in her haste to reach the destitute of London and elsewhere, often passes hard by the door of some sad and lonely sufferer. Cases more numerous, but not more extreme, may no doubt exist in the large towns, but in these obscure places many a poor solitary sufferer gets overlooked, or has few to sympathise and fewer who can render relief.

A few pounds will help us to show more practical sympathy than at present I am able to do—a small fund out of which I could, as I have already done, lend a little to help tide over some passing trial. This, besides helping to keep them out of debt, renders immense service, and in almost every case is sooner or later returned with many expressions of sincere gratitude. Any kind of male or female cast-off apparel, no matter however much worn, will be turned to account by us; they will in many cases be as good as money, and will, I am sure, be received with feelings of delight.

I may refer to one or two recent cases. I called to see a poor woman long confined to her room, and helpless through the effects of rheumatic fever. Next door was another poor haggard creature suffering from acute, but almost permanent, neuralgia. Both complaints induced by having to live in damp hovels not fit for pigs, but the only places to be had; the floors are a step down from the street, and in a storm they seek refuge by flight upstairs.

I was asked to send some help to a family; husband many weeks out of work; wife just confined, and obliged to leave her room in less than two days, and be amongst her crying and almost starving children: their only support a little help sent by neighbours almost as poor as themselves. One little boy with bare feet, crying for his shoes that had been sent some time to be mended, and could not be sent for without a sixpence.

I am again asked if I can help to do anything for a good man near whose wife died half an hour after her confinement, and before the day has closed I am told of another case I cannot here describe, yet as needy as the others.

Christian friends sympathising with my rural work may rely upon my careful and conscientious distribution of anything they feel led to entrust to me, and for any small sum I shall feel very sincerely grateful.—Yours faithfully,

GEO. D. SHIPLEY.
Breachwood Green, Welwyn, Herts.

SERVANTS AT LEISURE.—A correspondent in the country writes:—"In February last it was laid upon the hearts of some of the Lord's children to seek to do something for the scores of young female servants who on the Lord's Day afternoons were idling their time away, parading the streets, or, as it was feared, doing worse than that. It was resolved to try and get them into a Bible-class. A young lady was asked to teach; she was godly, earnest, and willing. A room was taken, three or four Christian women of decided character were asked to go out into the streets and ask the girls to go in. What are the results? They get in about twenty or thirty every Lord's Day. Many have been converted, at least thirty or forty; we are greatly cheered. I mention this as an example of what may be done in other fashionable places where there is a similar neglect of the young servants."

WHAT DOES SIN MEAN?—Does sin always mean anguish, and fear, and remorse? No, not always—not always. Only as long as the light of God is within the soul, and the voice of God speaks to the man. That light may be put out. That voice may be silenced. And then a man shall come to laugh a wild, untroubled laugh at these things. Right and wrong have ceased to mean anything. Love is lust, and truth is but a name; and purity is but a hypocrite who wears a white robe; and friendship is only the disguise of selfishness. Oh, better a thousand times the madness that raves at the memory of sin than that. The eye that sees the truth is put out, the ear that hears the voice of God is stopped. Then the soul can go untroubled, unburdened. There is a life on earth so dark, so cold, so dead, so unconscious, so incapable of any moral sense, that I would sooner crave the very fires of hell to create within me some sense of right and wrong, than sink into that worst of deaths, that deepest of damnations. No, no indeed, that path cannot lead up to this blessedness.—Rev. Mark Guy Pearse in "The Quiver" for January.

Notices of Books, &c.

Lives Great and Simple. By Mrs. G. W. Tooley. Kent & Co. Twenty lively biographical sketches of celebrities, living and dead, in various walks of life—beginning with General Gordon and ending with Edward Irving. Portraits are given.

Two interesting books, recording the fruits of Foreign Missions, are before us—Punchi Nona, a story of female education and village life in Ceylon, by Rev. S. Langdon (T. Woolmer); and Blossoms and Fruits of Missionary Work; or, What Indian Girls can do (Shaw & Co.) They would form a valuable acquisition to Sunday-school libraries.

A set of five small and prettily got up books, by Rev. J. R. Miller, D.D., are issued by Messrs. Swan Sonnenschein & Co. They are entitled The Perfect Home; the sub-titles of each are: "The Wedded Life," "The Parent's Part," "The Husband's Part," "The Wife's Part," "The Children's Part." They are admirable in every way, full of mature and weighty counsel, finely expressed.

The Alice Birthday Book, compiled by Mrs. C. Ferguson-Davie (Hatchards), is a most worthy addition to this popular series of souvenirs. The quotations from the published writings of the late Princess Alice, which form the daily mottos, will help to enshrine in the nation's heart more firmly than ever the memory of that illustrious and deeply-lamented member of England's Royal house.

A Bright Sunset. 1s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. These "recollections of the last days of a young football player," who died from the effects of an accident in the playground, though written for private use, are eminently worthy of being made public. His patience under prolonged and intense suffering, his calm and joyful anticipation of the rest and glory that await the trusting believer beyond the veil, and the sanctifying influences of a sorrowful dispensation, are all told with the tenderness and grace that could only come from a fond and gifted mother's pen. We have been much touched while reading the little book, and should like to see it widely scattered in our Christian households.

Egypt and Babylon. By Canon Rawlinson. Hodder & Stoughton. This book is very seasonably issued. Just as Egypt is brought so prominently before all eyes, it will interest many to read of the past glories of the "basest of kingdoms." Biblical notices of Babylon and Egypt are carefully compared with the records and ancient monuments of these countries. The exact fulfilment of many prophecies assures us that those yet unfulfilled will be as exactly fulfilled. Specially remarkable are the fulfilments of Dan. xi., regarding Babylon, and Isa. xix. regarding Egypt, the latter, we should imagine, has never been so clearly pointed out. Canon Rawlinson's style is cool and cautious; but this is not unsuitable to his subject, and will add weight to his conclusions. His book is a good companion to "Ancient Monarchies" and "Records of the Past." There are no illustrations, but on the cover is a spirited specimen of the "bitter and hasty nation" that chastised Israel for idolatry. Bible students, lovers of history, doubters of Scripture inspiration, and, we might add, Christian statesmen, will do well to read this book with attention.

The Expected Rapture of the Church. By G. Warrand Houghton. E. Stock. 6s. A great awakening of interest in prophetic study has taken place of late, hence there has been a large increase in the literature bearing upon its various lines of thought. The subject of Mr. Houghton's book is of deep moment, and he has discussed it in a spirit suited to its solemnity, and with a care such as its importance demands. He admits in his introductory remarks that he has not arrived at finality on the question of prophecy, and holds himself at liberty to withdraw any view adopted, only asking prayerful and earnest appeal to Scripture on the points raised. A praiseworthy attempt is made to ameliorate the controversy between the Historical and Futurist schools, by endeavouring to find and extend their points of agreement, although the writer himself is in the main inclined to the Futurist view. There is much valuable information mingled with thoughtful exposition, a firm grasp of the whole subject of unfulfilled prophecy characterising the book. The excursus on the modern schemes of Spiritualism and Theosophy as heralds of the approaching Anti-Christian apostasy, is of special value, and deserves earnest consideration. While on some of its points of detail we should be inclined to differ from the conclusions drawn, and to question the exegesis employed, we yet commend the book to the thoughtful attention of our readers as an honest and impartial attempt to elucidate the teaching of Scripture on one of the most important doctrines of revelation.

The Life of Jesus Christ and The Life of St. Paul. By Rev. James Stalker. T. & T. Clark, Edinburgh. 3s. 6d. each. We have already warmly commended these books, when noticing them in the series of Handbooks for Bible-classes. We are very glad to see these library editions, in large type, and in every way handsomely produced. They are valuable for the matter they contain, and further, because they give to those who have not had the advantages of high education a good idea of methodic and systematic study.

Messrs. Marcus Ward & Co. have issued in a neat case two exquisite bijou books, entitled, Angel Whispers to the Little Ones, containing, respectively, texts for the morning and evening of one month, with appropriate introductions and simple homilies on the daily texts. A very pretty birthday gift for a child who has learned to read. Very much in the same line, but more adapted to older readers, is Homeward Bound; or, From Week to Week (Shaw & Co.), containing ornamental texts and short pregnant sayings for a week's meditation.

Fulness of Joy. 3s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. The author's name is withheld, but a preface by Rev. Charles A. Fox, of Eaton Chapel, introduces the book. The writer's aim is to show that fulness of joy is only to be found in the knowledge of and in submission to the will of God. This is illustrated and enforced by careful selections and expositions of Bible truth, the treatment of the subject being, as Mr. Fox justly says, "clear, comprehensive, and impartial." The book will be of great service to spiritually-minded readers.

Our Lord as Our Example. By A. Nicholls. W. Hunt & Co. This is a most useful and suggestive manual, affording encouragement and aid in the study of the specially important subject on which it treats. The treasures of Holy Writ are examined with diligent and reverent hand, and some of their choicest gems are brought to light. It contains a complete compendium of Scripture references to all the most salient features of our Lord's earthly life. Leaders of Bible-classes, and teachers generally, will find it an invaluable help in their efforts to present the subject from a purely Bible standpoint.

The Conquest of Canaan. By A. B. Mackay. Hodder & Stoughton. 7s. 6d. This is a series of thoughtful addresses on the Book of Joshua. The oft-told but never wearisome tale of Israel's victories in Canaan is once more applied to a spiritual purpose. Mr. Mackay not only brings out the great truths typically taught in this book, but draws from the details many valuable lessons for Christian daily life. For instance, in the chapter headed "Stones Buried and Raised," he gives valuable hints on parental duties. Many of his headings are vigorous and suggestive—e.g., "A Parenthesis of Grace," "The Right Policy," "The Goodness and Severity of God," and "Nemesis." The writer has a poetical mind, and quotes fine verses very appropriately.

The Prayer that Teaches to Pray. By Marcus Dods, D.D. 3s. 6d. Hodder & Stoughton. Many very beautiful and striking thoughts will be found in this treatise, which, though it is occupied with a very familiar and oft-expounded theme, is yet full of freshness and suggestion. We could wish that the doctrine of the Fatherhood of God had been set forth more clearly, as understood and enjoyed solely through faith in Christ, and inwrought by the Holy Ghost. We cannot endorse this statement:—"The one thing that we have to show as our passport by this gate is our humanity." Nor this: "There is no man who is more entitled to use this prayer than another." It is a disciple's prayer, and no man can call God "Our Father" until he has become a child of God through faith in Christ. We should like also to have seen the work of Christ in its relation to the forgiveness of sins more evangelically set forth than it is; its absence seems to lend an air of unreality to the chapter dealing with the subject. Apart from these doctrinal defects, the book contains much valuable teaching.

Religious Tract Society. The two most popular monthlies of this house, The Sunday at Home and The Leisure Hour, seem to have entered on the New Year with a fresh impulse, judging from the excellence of the contents. In the former we are interested by a sketch of Mr. Wheatley's work of reclaiming the criminals. The latter has a new feature in the shape of valuable prize competitions in various subjects; the frontispiece alone is worth the price of the number. The Cottager and Artisan has a first-rate engraving of Lord Shaftesbury, and one representing him, when, as Lord Ashley he introduced to Parliament his famous Factory Bill. All the usual features of interest are found in Friendly Greetings, Girls' Own Paper, Boys' Own Paper, The Child's Companion, and The Tract Magazine, the last-named of which is enlarged and in every way improved.

Mr. George Blaiklock has written a Temperance pamphlet, Fallacy versus Fact, which would be found useful for distribution. He disposes of some of the popular objections to total abstinence in a manner which proves him master of his subject. The pamphlet may be obtained at 337, Strand. (1d., or 6s. per 100.)

The Guiding Eye; or, From Darkness to Light. By Mary Inmam. S. W. Partridge & Co. Here we see how talents may be either a snare or a blessing. Two girls, talented and beautiful, start in life with fair prospects; disappointed pride in one leads to a sad end; in the other we see that no circumstance, however dark, need hinder the light and love of God from shining through us.

A Few Thoughts for Members of Church Choirs. By Rev. James C. Duncan, B.A. Nisbet & Co. 3d. Very useful and appropriate counsels to those who assist in leading the praises of the sanctuary are given in this little manual, which may be distributed with advantage among those for whose benefit it is written. It sets before them a high standard as to their work and its aims.

Daybreak Till Nightfall. Reveries and Stories by the Rev. Harvey Jellie and Mrs. Jellie. S. W. Partridge & Co. What a store of treasure many will find in this little volume! The "Reveries" are clusters of gems of the purest water; that upon "Youth" is alive with intensity and pathos of the highest kind. A multum in parvo of choice things, this bijou volume will make an acceptable gift to sympathetic friends.

The Prophets of the Old Testament. Bible Teaching for our Elder Children. By M. D. H. Nisbet & Co. The author knows how to write for young people so that they must understand. The style is entertaining and pleasing, and the chapters on Isaiah, Jeremiah, Daniel, and Zechariah are instructive and beautiful. The spiritual teaching, while of the simplest kind, gives no uncertain sound; it is thoroughgoing, earnest, pointed, and descriptive.

Emmanuel: Leaves from the Life and Notes on the Work of Jesus Christ. By Rev. J. B. Figgis. Partridge & Co. Mr. Figgis is well-known as an exponent of spiritual truth, and the volume before us is written in his own style; it breathes the spirit of fervent love and deepest reverence for the person and work of Christ. It is divided into five parts: the first dealing with the Saviour's name, as set forth in Isaiah ix. 6.; the second, his life below; the third, his character; the fourth, his sufferings and death; and the last, his abiding glory. The book will well repay reading, containing as it does so much that is fresh and stimulating to faith.

The Children of China, with map and illustrations. 5s. Hodder & Stoughton. Just the very book to awaken a lively and practical interest in the minds of "the children of England" (for whom it has been written) in China and its millions. In simple, yet graphic style, the varied aspects of the country, the people, their manners and customs, their beliefs, and the Christian work carried on among them, are described. Well-executed engravings are scattered profusely through the book, and it is altogether very attractively got up. Parents who wish to implant in the minds of their children the seeds of missionary fervour might profitably place in their hands a copy of this very admirable work.

A Beloved Mother: Life of Hannah S. Allen. By Her Daughter. Samuel Harris & Co. A truly charming record of a lovely life. Full of a quiet and restful beauty, that accords well with our conceptions of family life among the Friends of the last generation, its perusal is a singularly refreshing experience in this bustling age. Mrs. Allen, during the earlier portion of her life, wrote a journal; many extracts are given from that and from her correspondence. Such a filial and loving tribute to the memory of a beloved parent ought to find acceptance far beyond the circle of the family, or even of the religious community to which that family belongs. An excellent photographic portrait of Mrs. Allen is given. (3s. 6d.)

We have also received the following books:—

Religious Tract Society:
- Dearer than Life. By Emma Leslie. 3s. 6d.
- Hampered. By Mrs. A. K. Dunning. 2s.
- The Lilies of the Field, and other Readings for the Little Ones. 1s. 6d.
- Walking in Jesus. Sunday Readings for the Little Ones. 1s. 6d.
- Pearls for Deep Waters. 1s.
- Jack: the Story of a Pocket Book. Over the Water. The Emigrant's Son. Only Tell Jesus. 1s. each.
- Man's Misery and God's Mercy. By Adolphe Monod. 8d.

National Temperance Depot:
- The Water Drinkers of the Bible. By J. W. Kirton.

"NOT YOUR OWN."

A SONG-NOTE FOR A SAVED SOUL.

REDEEMED by blood! Oh, glorious thought,
My soul is by the Saviour bought!
No longer mine, but Christ's alone,
His sovereign claim I gladly own.

'Twas purchased by the royal blood
That freely flowed in crimson flood:
The blood of Christ, the King of kings,
Whose praises now my spirit sings.

Redeemed by Him from sin and death,
New life I gain by simple faith;
And by his love, to me is given
A blood-bought right to enter heaven.

Redeemed by blood! Eternal laud
Be given to my dying Lord!
Eternity is not too long
In which to sing this grateful song!

EVA TRAVERS EVERED POOLE.

◆

THE STRATFORD CONFERENCE HALL.

AS your readers are aware, one of the results of Messrs. Moody and Sankey's Mission at Stratford has been the erection of a Conference Hall for carrying on evangelistic work, and as a home for the local branch of the Young Men's Christian Association. It is proposed that this Hall shall be formally opened on 23rd inst.

The total cost will be about £7000; towards this £2000 is still required, and we desire to make an earnest appeal to all Christians in sympathy with this work, to help the council with contributions, that the Hall may be opened free from debt. Any subscriptions will be thankfully received by either of us as below,

Faithfully yours,
BURNETT TABRUM, } Hon. Secs. for
J. T. PRIMROSE PECHEY, } East District.
Leytonstone, E., Jan. 6.

◆

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

MR. WM. R. LANE has returned from Dublin, after two months of evangelistic work in Merrion Hall. He commenced a series of services at Walham-green Hall last Sunday.

MR. OPIE RODWAY writes: "We have had great blessing at Churchdown, Bristol, Paulton, and Littledean. I think fully 200 came forward at these places as anxious souls, and it was refreshing to find at all of these so many who had received Christ at our meetings years ago; some of them told me that eighteen years ago they had found Christ at our special services."

MR. CHARLES COOK's annual report of work in Hyde Park and Hyde Park Hall, and in the Metropolitan Music Hall, shows an admirable result, with the small outlay of less than £700. Mr. Cook has also visited the prisons of several European countries, of which accounts have appeared in these columns. He now proposes to visit those of Spain. His address is 56, Richford-street, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

MEMORIAL BUILDINGS, BUNHILL FIELDS.—Fearful drunkards, who have through the accursed drink been wrecked, have here been reclaimed. They have a fine Coffee Palace, and are doing a splendid trade. To see rich friends walking from their comfortable homes by seven in the morning on Lord's day, and spending their day in this glorious work, is indeed cheering. Mr. William Day, of the Evangelisation Society, has been helping in this good work, for which prayer is asked.

THE CHURCH ARMY.—On Jan. 1, 1884, this society had fifteen working men evangelists wholly engaged, in addition to the staff. One year has passed away, and that number has increased from fifteen to forty-five. Many of the stations are worked by local officers; the number of members is to be counted by thousands. When it is remembered that each member is a speaker in the cause of Christ, outdoor and indoor, as many nights every week as possible, both winter and summer, it is hoped that by steady, plodding work, still greater good may be achieved. In the ranks are to be found hundreds who were most depraved drunkards, wife beaters, blasphemers, gamblers, and others whose hearts God has touched, and whose lives and homes are totally changed.

NEW YEAR AT ALDERSGATE STREET.

ACCORDING to his annual custom, sustained now for nearly forty years, Mr. George Williams gave the address to the Aldersgate-street Y.M.C.A. Bible-class, on the first Sunday of the new year. The Reading-room was full of attentive listeners, as Mr. Williams announced and expounded the motto suggested for the Association (Acts i. 8), "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you, and ye shall be witnesses unto Me."

Next evening, Monday, January 5, Mr. and Mrs. George Williams received 600 young men to tea, in the rooms of the Association, it being the opening night of the Christmas Educational Session. The Notting-hill Y.M.C.A. Male Choir sang several of their beautiful choruses during the evening. Addresses were delivered by the Chairman, by Rev. W. R. Mowll, and by Mr. W. H. Newett, Secretary of the Manchester Association. Mr. Mowll based his address on three prepositions, "for," "with," and "in"; Christ for me, my justification; Christ with me, my preservation; Christ in me, my expectation.

At the close, several testimonies were delivered by members present of their personal experience in Christian life; and, as the meeting dispersed, it was evident that many hearers had been touched and softened by the words spoken in the power of the Holy Ghost.

◆

THE EARTHQUAKES IN SPAIN.

I HAVE had a very interesting communication from Malaga from an English lady there, who has passed through all the trials and sorrows of the late catastrophe of earthquake and its serious consequences. She writes under date of January 2 as follows:—

"Don Enrique (Matamoras' brother) and all the neighbours have passed the night since Christmas Day in the chapel. He is admirable, and inspires confidence to all in their terror,—outsiders I mean: for the Spanish Protestants remain in their houses to rally others around the Scriptures and prayer. All have fled out of this house, and my room has been a Bethel. I have heard God's small voice quite as distinctly as ever Elijah did; it was strange, but like a sweet whisper of peace, and so real.

"The panic continues, and we are still in peril. To run away and sleep in storm and wind would be suicide for me in my weak health. How many souls will be gathered in, and this was what God was reserving, to bring forth fruit out of his lovely word here. The congregations here exhibit alike faith."

The precious labours of Matamoras are producing fruit in their season. All the lower part of the house now belonging to the mother of Matamoras is occupied for the Lord's work, and the bread cast upon the waters at Malaga is being found after many days. The sowing has been in tears, but the reaping day will come. I purpose visiting Andalusia in February, if the Lord permits. There is much suffering, and I hope to help as far as funds are contributed.

WILLIAM GREENE.
Fairleigh, Claydon, Ipswich.

[We shall be glad to receive the contributions of our readers for the fund that Mr. Greene proposes to distribute. Nothing is more likely to open a way for the Gospel into the hearts of these afflicted people than the bestowment of some temporal kindness on them in this hour of their need.—ED.]

* * *

CLOUDSLEY INSTITUTE.—Mrs. W. T. Paton, hon. secretary, writes:—"God has graciously blessed the work of the institute throughout the year. Amongst our Christian girls we have now a band of zealous workers, who supply several of the neighbouring Sunday-schools with teachers. They are also exerting a good influence on their careless companions in the work-rooms. Islington has become so entirely a business place that the work increases upon us, and we are truly grateful for any material aid to assist in extending our operations." The address of the Institute is 6, Upper Barnsbury-street, Islington, N.

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Saturday Morning, January 10, 1885.

◆

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps. Cheques to be drawn in favour of Morgan and Scott, and crossed City Bank; P.O.O.'s payable to Morgan and Scott, at G.P.O.

 Will donors oblige us by giving explicitly and fully the titles of the Missions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Mistakes which sometimes arise will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Saturday morning? Any amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

◆

	£	s.	d.
Destitute Children's Dinner Society—E. W. 10s.; W. E. L. 5s.; O'C. £2	2	15	0
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—M. C. 10s.; R. £2 8s. 3d.; E. H. C. 2s. 6d.; R. H. A. £2; O'C. £3; E. S. 2s. 6d.	8	3	3
Homes of Hope, Regent-square—Cosham	0	2	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—J. R. H. £1; J. W. and K. A. £10; H. M. 6s.; E. H. C. 5s.; M. M. 5s.; T. L. 2s. 6d.; A. M. £5; R. H. A. £5; O'C. £3; A. C. £2 2s.; E. S. 2s. 6d.; (Ilford Homes) M. L. W. 10s.	27	13	0
Bristol Orphan Houses—J. R. H. £1; C. L. M. T. £1; A. C. £2 2s.; (Missions) C. L. M. T. £1	5	2	0
Friendless and Fallen—J. R. H. £1; J. W. and K. A. £10; C. R. G. 10s.; C. L. M. T. £1; J. E. G. 1s.; O'C. £2; B. G. 2s. 6d.; M. B. 2s. 6d.; E. R. S. 5s.; Mrs. F. 5s.	15	6	0
Cow-cross Mission—W. A. T. 7s. 6d.; Miss A. M. H. £1 1s.; Mrs. J. A. 10s.; M. B. 5s.; (Children's Dinners) E. T. 5s.; W. H. R. 2s.	2	10	0
Mildmay Conference Hall—J. W.	0	5	0
Dock Labourers' Mission—J. W. 2s.; M. B. 5s.; M. J. M. 10s.; Mrs. J. A. 10s.; Mrs. C. £1; (Free Meals) G. W. 10s. 6d.; (Personal Expenses) B. B. 10s.	3	7	6
St. Giles' Christian Mission—W. E. L. 5s.; C. 5s.; E. H. C. 2s. 6d.; Mrs. J. A. £1; M. B. 5s.; B. G. 5s.; M. B. 2s. 6d.; K. M. 1s.; Mrs. C. £1; (Prison-gate Mission) J. W. and K. A. £10; S. B. 5s.; E. S. 2s. 6d.	13	13	6
Rev. McAll's Work, France—C. B. £1; (Paris) M. L. W. 10s.	1	10	0
Moravian Missions (London Association)—C. B.	1	0	0
Home of Industry—J. W. and K. A.	10	10	0
"Chichester" Training Ship, &c.—J. W. and K. A.	10	0	0
Rescue Society—J. W. and K. A. £8; Miss A. M. H. £1 1s.	9	1	0
National Society for the Protection of Young Girls—J. W. and K. A.	10	0	0
Evangelistic Mission—J. W. and K. A.	10	0	0
Field-lane Ragged Institute—J. W. and K. A. £5; (Refuges and Ragged Schools) Miss A. M. H. £1 1s.; A. 2s. 7d.; Mrs. J. A. 10s.	6	13	7
Mr. Edward Wright's Work—J. W. and K. A. £5; K. M. 1s.	5	1	0
Shipwrecked Mariners' Society—J. W. and K. A.	5	0	0
Medical Missionary Association—J. W. and K. A.	5	0	0
Seaman's Christian Friend Society—J. W. and K. A.	5	0	0
Bible Stand, Crystal Palace—J. W. and K. A.	5	0	0
Deaf and Dumb Association, 419, Oxford-street—J. W. and K. A.	5	0	0
Strangers' Friend Society—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Morley House, Home for Worn-out Governesses, &c.—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Foreign Evangelical Society—J. W. and K. A.	5	0	0
Bethal Santhal Mission—J. W. and K. A.	5	0	0
Miss Sharman's Orphans' Home—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Miss Mason's House of Rest, &c.—(General Work) J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Lock Hospital—(Female Out-Patients) J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Old Beckenham Mission—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Miss Lee's Home, Eastbourne—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Home for Aged Blind Christian Women—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Vincent-street Ragged Schools—J. W. and K. A.	3	0	0
Golden-lane Mission—J. W. and K. A.	10	0	0
Sailors' Welcome Home (Miss Child)—J. W. and K. A. £10; E. T. 10s.	10	10	0
Thames Church Mission—Mrs. F. 5s.; K. M. 1s.; (Feeding the Hungry) E. T. 10s.; T. G. 10s.	1	6	0
Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland—R.	3	0	0
Irish Evangelisation Society—R.	3	0	0
Mildmay Mission to the Jews—R.	3	0	0
China Inland Mission—R. £5; J. W. £1; A. C. £2 2s.	8	2	0
Mr. H. Cook's Mission Work—R.	3	0	0
Syrian Colonisation Fund—M. J. M. 10s.; Mrs. F. 5s.; (Palestine) C. 5s.	1	0	0
Bishop W. Taylor's Transit Fund—G. J.	1	10	0
Miss Weston's Work in the Royal Navy—S. D.	2	10	0
Miss Robinson's Work among Soldiers—S. D.	2	10	0
Gratuitous Circulation of THE CHRISTIAN—T. N. J.	0	3	0
Bridge of Hope, Ratcliff—M. A. C. £5 5s.; S. B. 5s.	5	10	0
Mrs. Meredith's Nine Elms Mission—Elitta	0	4	0
Luther Memorial Home—D. H.	1	0	0
Watercress and Flower Sellers' Mission—C. R. G.	0	5	0
Mr. Pascoe's Work in Mexico—A. E. £10; J. W. £1	11	0	0
Schools of Upper Egypt (Dr. Hogg)—A. E.	5	0	0
Midnight Meeting Movement—A. E. £5; E. J. F. £1	6	0	0
Mrs. Hilton's Creche and Orphan Home—M. B. 5s.; Mrs. J. A. £1; Mrs. F. 5s.	1	10	0
Miss De Broen's Work, Paris—C. L. M. T.	1	0	0
West-end Hospital for Paralysed Children—H. G. Ridgwell	0	3	0
East London Hospital for Children—R. H. A.	1	0	0
Suffering Farmers of Colar—Mrs. C. R.	5	0	0
Gray's-yard Ragged Church and Schools—Mrs. J. A. 10s.; (Breakfasts) M. P. 5s.; Ethel, 2s. 6d.	0	17	6
Poor Jews in Jerusalem (Mr. Friedlander)—Mrs. J. A.	1	0	0
Widow at Whitecross-street—E. H. T. 10s.; A. M. P. 19s.; S. E. H. £1; A. H. £1	3	9	0
Railway Mission—Surbiton	2	0	0
Mr. Archibald Brown's Work—A. C.	2	2	0
Evangelisation Society—Mrs. F.	0	5	0
London City Mission—Mrs. F.	0	10	0
Theatrical Mission—R. C. £5; J. C. £5	10	0	0
Robins' Dinners—A. W.	0	1	0
Dublin Penny Breakfasts—A. W.	0	1	1
London Samaritan Society and Homerton Mission—R. H. A.	1	0	0
Home for Aged Women, Notting-hill—E. S.	0	2	6
George-yard Ragged Schools—T. B. W.	0	3	0
Anchorage Mission—K. M.	0	1	0
Irish Church Mission—K. M.	0	1	0
Mrs. Ginever's Orphan Home—Mrs. C.	1	0	0
Miss Cole's Orphan Home—Mrs. C.	1	0	0
Gifford Hall Mission—Mrs. C.	1	0	0
Zenana Mission, Indian Female School Society—E. M.	0	2	0
Rev. Archibald G. Brown's Orphanage—M.	15	0	0
Mr. Shipley's Evangelistic Village Mission—(Poor Fund) M.	3	0	0
	£334	11	5

◆

[ADVERTISEMENTS.]

Luther Memorial Home—M. B. 5s.
St. Giles' Christian Mission—M. J. 5s.
Mrs. Hilton's Creche—Mrs. E. H., Naples, £2.
Thames Church Mission—Twelve pairs of cuffs for fishermen from E. S. B.
The London Samaritan Society and Homerton Mission—D. B. 7s. 6d.; F. V. £1 1s.; Mrs. C. £5; From Naples, £2.
Evangelistic Mission Per C. R. H.: Servants' subscription, £1; J. S. W. 8s.; A Curate's mite, 2s. 6d.; Sunday-school Children, 2s. 6d.

(For Forthcoming Meetings, &c., see p. 38.)

"Dr. Barnardo's Homes for Destitute Children."

A RESIDUE BAZAAR

To dispose of all Articles left over from the Sale of Boxes, will (D.V.) be held in

The NEW LARGE HALL, EDINBURGH CASTLE,
LIMEHOUSE, E.
(Close to Burdett Road Station, North London and Blackwall Railways),
ON

Thursday & Friday, 22nd & 23rd January, 1885,

Opening each day at 3 o'clock p.m., and closing at 10 o'clock.

The attendance of kind friends WILLING TO PURCHASE is especially desired, and any FRESH GIFTS of Fancy Articles or of Work will be gratefully acknowledged.

ADDRESS—

THE TRADE MANAGER,
18 to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

President, The Rt. Hon. the Earl of SHAFTESBURY, K.G.
ESTABLISHED 1822.

For the purpose of employing humble Christian men well versed in the Scriptures to visit and read the Bible from house to house throughout the country. The Scripture Readers are invariably placed under carefully selected Christian Superintendents, and are also employed by the Society in the large towns and cities, such as Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, &c., as City Missionaries, and visit all classes and denominations, where permitted so to do. Irish-speaking Readers are sent to Irish-speaking districts when required, but are now seldom or ever asked for. The work is carried on in a spirit of love, and not of controversy.

The Scripture Readers also visit amongst the Sailors in seaports and hold Bethel Meetings on board Ships, at hours not to interfere with the usual Public Services. The Society is supported by voluntary contributions.

OFFICES:
27, LOWER PEMBROKE STREET, DUBLIN;
AND 9, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

Full particulars, reports, &c., can be obtained post free on application to the Secretary, Capt. JAMES KEARNEY WHITE, or by the Proprietors of this paper.

NOTE.—Subscriptions or Donations may be sent to the above addresses, or will be received by the Proprietors of "THE CHRISTIAN."

Friends will please notice the exact title "Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland," and not "Irish Scripture Readers' Society."

The Anchorage.

HEBREWS vi. 19.

To shelter respectable
Young Women in Trouble.

FOR rules of admission to the Anchorage House, and full particulars of the work of the Anchorage Mission, and for trained servants, apply (by letter only) to Mrs. H. STUART-WORTLEY, Rosslyn House, Grove End-road, N.W., London.

Many of the young women admitted being mothers or about to become so, the extra care they require, and (when friendless) the help that the Mission must give towards paying for their infants at nurse during the first few months of the mother's return to service or other occupation, causes the work to be unusually costly, and subscriptions are much required, sent either to Mrs. H. Stuart-Wortley (President of the Ladies' Committee) at her private address as above, or to Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

Just Ready, Four Pages 4to. Price 2s. per 100; 18s. 6d. per 1000.

A NEW YEAR'S GIFT FOR 1885.

CONTAINING

"TIT FOR TAT." An excellent Story by Rev. C. J. WHITMORE. With full-page Illustration.

POEM: "Begin with the New Year."

"Honour thy Father and thy Mother." By D. L. MOODY.

"DON'T SWEAR." An Incident from the life of Howard the Philanthropist.

"Cut off by the Tide." A New Year's Warning.

"REMEMBER THE SABBATH DAY;" or, Does Sunday Labour Pay?

With several Engravings, and an appropriate selection of Scripture Texts.

Four Pages 4to. Price 2s. per 100; 18s. 6d. per 1000.

A NEW YEAR'S GIFT. ASSORTED PACKET.

FOUR DIFFERENT SORTS (in One Packet).

THE THREE HEBREW CAPTIVES.
With Full-Page Illustration. By D. L. MOODY.
A DREAM. Poetry.
TOO GREAT A SINNER.
"DO YOU WANT TO BE FREE?"
JESUS
Poetry.

THE EMPEROR'S PROCLAMATION.
With Full-Page Illustration.
TIME SPEEDS AWAY. Illustrated.
JOHNNY MORRISON, the Scotchman.
Illustrated. By Major WHITTLE.
A NEW YEAR'S RESOLVE.
Illustrated. Poetry.
A COLLISION AVERTED. Illustrated.

BRAVE JOHN MAYNARD.
With Full-Page and other Illustrations.
"I BELONG TO DEATH'S MASTER!"
WHY PEOPLE DRINK. Illustrated.
THE REJECTED LIFE-BELT.
WHAT WILL YOU DO WITH CHRIST? Illustrated.
BEGIN WITH NEW YEAR'S DAY. Illustrated.

WHAT ARE YOU GOOD FOR? A Question for the New Year. With Full-Page Illustration.
A NEW YEAR'S HYMN.
REST ON THE SABBATH. Illustrated.
CALL ON CHRIST! Illustrated.
COME. Poetry.
THE KNOWLEDGE OF GOD. Illustrated.
CARVING A NAME. Illustrated.

Either sort may be obtained separately.

Christians will find the NEW YEAR'S GIFT an excellent medium for sending to unconverted friends a few seasonable words of Gospel truth and exhortation; and very attractive for gratuitous distribution.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS; and may be ordered of any Bookseller

Price One Penny. 7s. 6d. per 100. Twelve copies and upwards sent post free.

The Christian Sheet Almanac for 1885.

Attractively printed in Red and Black, on a large sheet, 21 in. by 31 in.

Containing selected Scripture Texts for every day in the year, Postal Information, &c.

FIVE EXCELLENT ILLUSTRATIONS.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Requests for Prayer.

FOR eight days' Mission at Martock, conducted by Miss North.—For the conversion of a fatherless son.—That a son may have grace to abstain from intoxicants.—Mr. John M. Scroggie is in Edinburgh, doing good work for the Lord; please ask your readers to pray for continued blessings, and return thanks for those received.—That the sale of intoxicating liquors on Sunday may be stopped.—For continued and increased blessing in connection with Rev. E. Payson Hammond's services in Liverpool.—For the conversion of a sceptical relative and his worldly wife.

◆

RICHARD WEAVER AT WIMBLEDON.

OUR readers will be glad to know that our friend (who has been laid by for some considerable time) is again able to take up evangelistic work, though by no means free from the physical weakness which has disabled him so long. The Christians labouring in connection with Haydon Hall Mission, Wimbledon, have received a stimulus in their work during the past week through a visit from Mr. Weaver. He conducted services there on Sunday (4th), and the week evenings of the 6th to the 9th inst. This mission is planted in the midst of a working-class population, and has a band of earnest Christian workers, who seem to be quite alive to the importance of these special efforts to reach the masses, and have the Gospel preached to the poor.

Those who have the general conduct of the Mission must have been very much cheered and encouraged by seeing so many of the working-class respond to their invitation to come and hear the evangelist. Throughout the meetings they have formed the great bulk of the congregations. Mr. Weaver continues to tell out the Gospel story with all the old fervour and earnestness. The meetings have been blessed to the saved and unsaved, for many have been made happy in the new found joy of pardoned sin.

Last Sunday Mr. Weaver commenced a mission at the Edinburgh Castle, Limehouse, and very shortly enters upon an engagement in Scotland.

◆

EIGHTEEN YEARS IN THE EAST END.

MR. ARCHIBALD BROWN, as pastor of the East-end Tabernacle, is an instance of the right man in the right place. Last week the close of the eighteenth year of his pastorate was celebrated by a large gathering to tea, followed by a public meeting.

Holding fast to the great foundations of the faith, Mr. Brown has been an habitual winner of souls, and during the period of his ministry here, considerably more than three thousand persons have been received into the fellowship of the Church, besides the fruit of evangelistic visits to other places. His work amongst the destitute thousands around him has abundantly manifested his excellent qualities of kindness, energy, and organisation. In a week or two we shall be able to give evidence of this from the report which will have then been printed. We have sympathy also with Mr. Brown's expectation of the Coming King, which, far from hindering his usefulness, is one main cause of his unweared activity. He told us that it had been proposed to him to take the charge of a church in America, but he had not yet received his marching orders to leave his present sphere of work.

Very warmly was his statement received by the great congregation, and cordially and ably was ~~is~~ followed by addresses from Revs. Frank H. White, James Stephens, Andrew Mearns, — Douglas, and Dr. Barnardo, by whom the men of thought and men of action were grandly represented, so that the people departed with heart and conscience stirred by the truth of the Gospel to undertake the work lying abundantly around them.

Forthcoming Meetings.

EVANGELISTIC.

The Evangelisation Society will send Evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

The Irish Evangelisation Society will send Evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

The Metropolitan Tabernacle Evangelists' Association will send lay preachers and Evangelists to any chapel or hall of any Evangelical denomination in London. Apply Hon. Sec., 30, Surrey-square, S.E.

The Children's Evangelistic Mission will send Evangelists to any part of Great Britain to conduct Missions for children and young people. No charge. Apply T. Eyres, Hon. Sec., 253, Southampton-street, Camberwell, S.E.

Rev. W. H. Aitken.—January 18 to February 2, St. Bride's, Manchester; 8th to 20th, St. Stephen's, Hampstead; 22nd to March 9, Parish Church, Marylebone; 15th to 30th, St. Paul's, Burslem; April 12 to 27, Eaton Chapel, S.W.

Messrs. Fullerton and Smith.—January 11, and onwards, Weston-super-Mare; February 1 and onwards, Exeter and district; March, Folkestone; April, Southampton; May, Huddersfield.

Messrs. Edward Herditch and F. C. Spurr.—January 11 to 25, Melksham; 28th to February 6, Bishop's Teignton; 8th to 22nd, Gunnislake, Cornwall; 24th to March 8, St. Ives; 10th to 23rd, St. Agnes; 24th to April 5, Wadebridge, Cornwall; 12th to 26th, Falmouth.

Mr. J. M. Scroggie.—January, Edinburgh; February, Greenock; March, Dunfermline; April, Blackheath.

Mr. W. Spencer Walton.—January 12 to 27, Portsea; 28th, Beckenham.

Mr. F. E. Marsh.—To January 25, Forest Gate, E.; 12th to 16th, Exeter Hall (noon meeting); February 1 to 22, Withorn, N.B.; March 22 to April 12, Kilbarchan, N.B.

Mr. Jas. J. Scroggie.—January 18, Drill Hall, South Norwood; 25th to February 1, Bethnal Green; 3rd to 6th, Potter's Bar; 8th to 15th, Home of Industry, Spitalfields; 22nd to March 1, Offord, Huntingdon.

Mr. Henry Thorne.—January 20, Shrewsbury; 24th to February 9, Portsmouth; 13th, Derby; 16th to 23rd, Sheffield; 28th to March 1, Walsall; 2nd to 4th, Wolverhampton; 7th to 16th, Sunderland; 21st to 30th, Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Messrs. Mateer and Parker.—January 4 to 18, Milnsbridge, Yorks; 19th to February 1, New Barnet; 1st to 15th, Luton; 16th to 18th, Brockhurst; 19th to 25th, Gosport; 26th to March 8, Ashford, Kent.

Stepney Meeting House.—Mrs. G. S. Reaney gives an address every Sunday at 3 p.m.

Conference Hall, Mildmay-park, N.—Sunday, January 18, 3.30 p.m., Rev. T. Storrs; 7 p.m., Rev. Wm. Graham.

Gospel Hall, Paragon-road, Hackney, E.—Mr. Russell C. Hurditch on Sundays, January 18 and 25, at 7 p.m.

South London Evangelistic Choir.—January 19 and 20, St. Luke's Workhouse (corner of Shepherdess-walk), City-road, E.C., 8 p.m.

Ned Wright every Sunday in January, Down Lodge Hall, Wandsworth; January 14—16, Woodford; Sunday, 18th, The Rest, Wood Green.

Children's Special Service Mission.—Mr. J. Spiers, Pembroke; Mr. G. Banaster, Edgbaston, January 12—19; Ipswich, January 24 to February 3; Mr. W. F. Seagrove, Barnsbury Chapel, January 12—26.

◆

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mrs. M. Baxter will give a Bible-reading at 3 o'clock on Thursday, January 22, at 102, Regent's Park-road, N.W. All are invited.

Town Hall, Bournemouth.—January 20 to February 22 inclusive, meetings on the Deepening of Spiritual Life, conducted by Mr. H. F. Bowker.

Upper Norwood, Stafford House, Tudor-road.—Drawing-room meeting, at 3 p.m., every Thursday. A young women's meeting on the same day at 8 p.m.

Church Parochial Mission Society.—Opening of new Mission Hall, Tuesday, January 27, parish of St. Saviour's, Battersea Park, S.W., 8 p.m. Bishop of Rochester will preside.

House of Rest, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn-park, N.W.—Friday, January 16, at 7 p.m., subject, "Natural and Spiritual Affinities" (Hag. ii. 11—13; tea at 6. Sunday, Bible reading, at 3.30 p.m.

Friendless and Fallen.—New Year's devotional meetings: Monday, January 19, 35, Eden-grove, Holloway-road, N.; Friday, 23rd, 5, Parson's-green, Fulham; 28th inst., 200, Euston-road. Each meeting 6.30 p.m.

Malden Hall, Kentish Town.—The eleventh anniversary this day (Thursday), at 4 and 7 p.m., tea at 5.30. Mr. Wm. Grove, Mr. C. Russell Hurditch, Mr. Chas. Inglis, Dr. McKilliam, Mr. J. G. McVicar, and others will take part.

Home of Industry, 60, Commercial-street, Spitalfields.—Workers' meeting, Wednesday, January 21, tea at 6, meeting at 7 p.m. Mr. C. B. Ker will preside, and give the workers their watchword for the New Year. Mr. G. R. Cole will introduce the City missionaries labouring among foreigners in London.

Meetings for the Deepening of Spiritual Life, Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road.—January 16, "The Power of Praise" (2 Chron. v. 11—14), Rev. Filmer Sulivan; 23rd, "Truthfulness" (Ps. li. 6, Eph. iv. 15), Rev. E. H. Hopkins.

◆

Y.M.C. ASSOCIATIONS.

61, Gracechurch-street, E.C.—New Year's reception by Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Tritton, Centenary Hall, Bishopsgate-street, Friday, January 16, at 6 p.m. Daily prayer meeting, 1.15 to 2 p.m. (Sat. excepted). Bible study in Isaiah each Tuesday, at 6.15 p.m. Youths, Mr. Leonard Hooper, Wednesday, 14th inst., 6.30 p.m. Soldiers, each Friday, 7 p.m.

The Priory, 198, Upper-street, Islington, N.—Thursday, January 15, at 8.30 p.m., devotional meeting; Saturday, 17th, at 8 p.m., Bible study; Sunday, 18th, at 9.30 a.m., fellowship meeting; 3.15 p.m., Bible class, 1 Pet. ii. 24; 8.15 p.m., evangelistic meeting; Wednesday, 6 to 10 p.m., anxious inquirers and strangers.

Exeter Hall.—Prayer Meeting (Saturday excepted), 1 to 2 p.m. Meeting for strangers, Monday, 8 p.m. Evangelistic meeting, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, 8 p.m. Colonel Puget gives a Bible reading every Saturday night at 8. Mr. F. E. Marsh will begin a series of Bible readings at the mid-day prayer meeting, January 12. Rev. Chas. Fox will give a series of special Bible addresses as follows: Thursday, January 22; Thursday, 29th; Thursday, February 5; Thursday, 12th. Each evening at 8.

Burlington Hall, 23, Savile-row, W.—Thursday, January 15, at 8.30 p.m., address to young men, Mr. Denham Smith. Sunday, Bible class for young men, 3.15 p.m., subject this quarter, "The Tabernacle in the Wilderness," illustrated with model and diagrams, conducted by Mr. Alfred Woods.

186, Aldersgate-street, E.C.—Thursday, January 15, at 8 p.m., Workers' meeting and conference on City work; Friday, 8 p.m., Gospel meeting, open to all, address by Mr. R. Burn; Saturday, 7.30 p.m., Bible study for young men; Sunday, 2.30 p.m., tract workers' prayer meeting; 3.15 p.m., conversational Bible class, subject, Rom. xii. 6–16; 7 p.m., Gospel meeting, open to all, address by Mr J. Orchard; Monday, 8 p.m., strangers' reception meeting; Tuesday, 8 p.m., workers' training class, a paper by Mr. Asseter, "God is"; Wednesday, 8 p.m., teachers' Bible class, subject, Acts xxi. 1—14.

◆

Notices.

E. J. Grayson.—"The Teaching of the Apostles" can be had from Messrs. Nisbet and Co., Berners-street, W., at 6s.; a cheap edition, price 3d., is published by Messrs. Simpkin, Marshall & Co., Stationers' Hall-court, E.C.

Communications Received with Thanks.—L.B. Mrs.S. M.E.C. S.H. A.B. Colonel B. N.H. W.C. G.D. T.P.P. C.W. W.G.S. A.K.C. F.P. W.D. H.H.B. H.L. B.W. W.D. E.H.G. G.W. E.P. M.M. J.M. A.A. N.H. E.H. G.A.G. G.P. C.H. W.C. G.B. A.C. E.E. H.W. L.S.T. J.C.J. E.W. J.K.W. L.K. H.S. W.H.P. S.A. A.B.O. F.O.R. T.L. W.P. H.T. J.M. J.E.T. A.G.P. E.R.R. A.S. A.C. J.N.S. C.F.D. A.E.W. H.S.D. J.H. L.L. J.V.S. J.R. J.B. J.K.

Applicants for Tracts.—C. Hand, 104, Brown-street, Salisbury; T. Pickett, 92, Blatchington-road, West Brighton, Sussex; Mrs. Johnson, 28, Rutland-street, London, N.W.; Mrs. Cocks, Fern Cottage, Blackheath-hill, Greenwich; J. A. Williams, 68, Windmill-lane, Stratford New Town, E.; J. Conway, Rockcliffe, Moreton-in-Marsh, Gloucestershire; W. H. Bryant, 117, St. Stephen's-road, Old Ford, E.; G. Wood, 45, Carwood-road, Sheffield; E. H. Lander, 7, Milton-street, Liverpool-road, Patricroft, Manchester; H. J. Hawley, Ch. of Eng. Y.M.A., Paradise-street, Birmingham; Miss Pottenger, Coat, Martock, Somerset; J. Soames, 7, Bromfelde-road, Clapham; W. Rowe, fishmonger, Medrose, Camelford; G. Beckle, evangelist, Rockhead, Camelford.

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most important that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

◆

A MOTTO FOR THE NEW YEAR.

THE following notes of the concluding remarks in a New Year's Address to Men by Canon Wilberforce, at Southampton, on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 3, will be read with interest and profit:—

Now I give you a motto for the New Year: "If God be for us, who can be against us?" (Rom. viii. 31); or better still, as it is in the Greek: "God for us, who against us?" Shall the memory of past sins, the strength of present temptations, the accumulated cares and troubles of this life rise like an invisible host, and cause you to ask, "Who is equal to these things?" God is, and if He, through the reconciling blood of Christ, is for you, who can be against you?

In one of the many miserable wars against half civilised nations with which Great Britain has stained her hands, a small army was once surrounded by a much larger force. On the night before the decisive battle, the general in command walked through his little camp, and overheard in one of the tents conversation as to the chances of the morrow. "Our case is hopeless," said a voice within, "for our foe outnumbers us by thirty to one." The general quietly entered the tent, and addressing the soldiers, who had risen and saluted him, said, "I heard you say our case was hopeless, because we are out-numbered by thirty to one, pray, how many did you reckon for me?" He was known as a conqueror in battle, the victor in many a fight; "How many do you reckon for me?" was his question, and the soldiers were abashed.

In your warfare with the world, the flesh, and the devil, sins, sorrows, and weakness, how much do you reckon for God on your side? "God for us, who against us?" "He only is my rock and my salvation; He is my defence, I shall not be moved." Trust in Jesus, "Emmanuel," God with us, and then we shall be more than conquerors through Him that loved us, and gave himself for us, and so we shall ever be able to say, "God for us, who against us?"

DESTITUTE CHILDREN'S FRIEND MISSION.—The work of feeding the destitute children was commenced by supplying 200 poor with a tea on Monday, Dec. 29. All of these were searched out by our workers, and consisted of orphans, the children of widows, and those whose fathers were out of employment. Dinners are served every Tuesday and Friday at the Gospel Hall, close to the East India Dock entrance in Brunswick-road, Poplar. The distress is so great amongst the children that we are thronged with applicants, all of whom we are not able to supply. We could tell of many sad cases. We should be very glad to receive any help or to give any information respecting the work.

HENRY LEY, Hon. Sec.

47, Dee-street, Poplar, E.

By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.

DEEDS WEIGHTIER THAN WORDS.

Earnest Thoughts on the Temperance Question.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

OUR CHRISTIAN MOTHERS AND SISTERS.

Showing the effect of Home Influence.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE CRUELTIES OF HOSPITALITY.

Plain Words to Christians.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WHAT TIES THE TONGUE.

Showing the importance of Christian Total Abstinence.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

FACTS STRONGER THAN THEORIES.

A Series of Narratives showing what one glass often leads to.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE POWER OF SILENT EXAMPLE.

By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

HOME-LIFE RESPONSIBILITIES.

Showing the influence one life has upon another for good or evil, in strengthening or weakening, everywhere, but most of all in our home life.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WHAT OUR SERVANTS MAY DO.

Being instances of good that has been done by Christian Servants; and how homes have often been blessed by their influence.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

CHILDREN'S PARTIES.

A Few Friendly Words suitable for the Present Season.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

EVENING PARTIES.

Being Instances of Harm arising from the Practice of Wine-drinking at Parties.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE WORTH OF COMMON SENSE.

"Pity it is that Christian sympathy without Christian common sense often misleads, misguides, and hinders. How jealous should the servants of the Master be to follow to the fullest His example who went about 'doing good.'"—Extract.

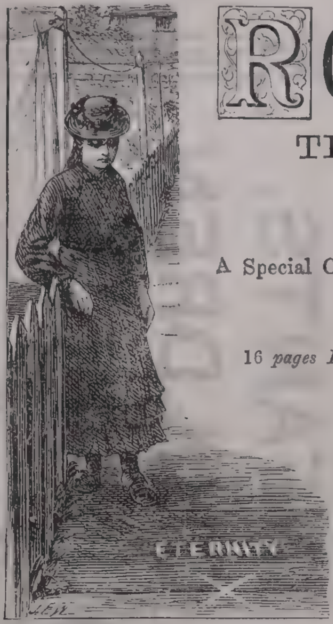
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WHAT WE GAIN AND WHAT WE LOSE.

Do we Gain or Lose Influence by the Position we take in regard to the Total Abstinence Question?
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

OUR HOMES.

A Series of 12 Small Books on Christian Temperance, described above.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Assorted Packet containing one of each sort, price 6d.
These Small Books are specially adapted for enclosure in the modern square envelope.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.



ROBERT ANNAN,

THE CHRISTIAN HERO.

BY
REV. J. MACPHERSON,
AUTHOR OF "DUNCAN MATHESON," &c.

A Special Cheap Edition of this work is now being published for Free Distribution. (Complete.)

PRICE ONE SHILLING PER DOZEN.

16 pages Imperial 8vo., with Illustrations. In attractive Tinted Cover.

"The memory of Robert Annan was worthy to be had in remembrance, and Mr. Macpherson has told the story well, in such a manner as to move the feelings of the reader, and, we hope, to stimulate others to follow the noble example of this Christian Hero in humble life."
Christian Work.

"We heartily thank the Rev. J. Macpherson for his well-written graphic, and telling life of this Christian Hero. It is a book to be read by all."—Baptist Messenger.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BY REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

GEMS OF PRAISE.

A Choice Collection of Hymns and Tunes

(Containing 228 Pieces), suitable for
Gospel Services, Prayer Meetings, Sabbath Schools, Christian Associations, and Family Worship.
A large number of both Hymns and Tunes are Original.
Edited and Compiled by Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.
Music and Words:—Paper Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.
Words only:—Paper Covers, 1d.; Cloth Limp, 2d.

THE CONVERSION OF CHILDREN.

Being Narratives of Children's Conversions; and Records of Spiritual Work amongst the Little Ones.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.
Tinted Covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Limp, 2s.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 2s. 6d.

"Many remarkable facts are here given, which deserve the attention of those especially who are incredulous as to the early age at which children may begin to live consciously a Christian life."
Evangelical Christendom.

"We commend the book very heartily to the prayerful attention of all parents and teachers.—The Freeman.

"We are quite sure that this book is well calculated to encourage effort and stimulate the Church to diligence in this direction."—The Methodist.

"We devoutly wish that by some means or other a copy could be placed in the hands of every Sunday-school superintendent and every pastor of a church."
Penuel.

"A most useful book, dealing with a most important subject in a masterly way. The whole subject of the early conversion of children is carefully considered by one whose experience in this special line entitles him to speak with authority. We heartily commend it to our readers, and especially to parents, Sunday-school teachers, and all who have to do with children."
Christian Progress.

FAMILIAR TALKS WITH THE CHILDREN.

A Series of Four-page Tracts for the Young.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.
Assorted Packet of Forty-eight Tracts, 6d. For Free Distribution, 7s. 6d. per 100.

I. "Mamma, I am God's!"
II. The Happy Child and the Wicked Mother.
III. The Little Swiss Girl.
IV. The Persecuted Boy.
V. The Happy Meeting.
VI. The Little Worker.
VII. "Jesus, take Me!"
VIII. The Love of Jesus.
IX. "Do you Love Jesus?"
X. "Jairus' Daughter."
XI. "I Love the Saviour, and I want others to do the same."
XII. Jesus in the Heart.

In the Press, and will shortly be ready.

GATHERED LAMBS.

Showing how Jesus, the Good Shepherd, laid down His life for us; and how little children have been gathered into the fold.

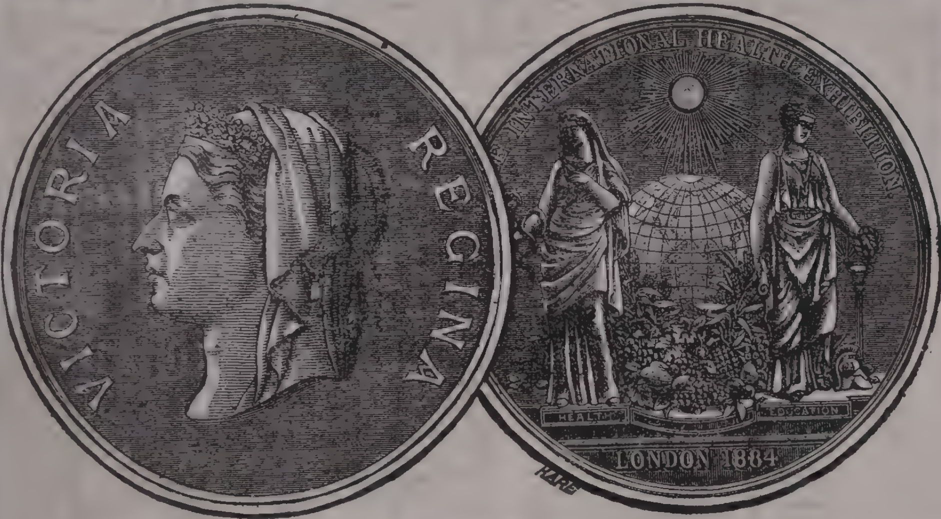
By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.
With Numerous Illustrations. Tinted Covers, 6d.; Cloth, 1s.

I. Jesus, the Good Shepherd.
II. Trust in Jesus.
III. Christ's Love towards Children.
IV. "Do you Love Him?"
V. A Story for Little Christians.
&c., &c.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings:
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

The GOLD MEDAL OF THE INTERNATIONAL HEALTH EXHIBITION has been awarded to

BENGER'S SELF-DIGESTIVE FOOD



FOR INFANTS, CHILDREN, AND INVALIDS.

This delicious and highly nutritive Food is distinguished from all others by the ease with which it can be digested and assimilated. Having once tried it, parents will never return to the cheap and inferior foods, which, by irritating the digestive organs, often produce convulsions and other serious maladies.

Prof. QUINLAN, M.D.—"The Pancreatic Ferments with which BENGER'S FOOD is impregnated are much more comprehensive in their action than mere malt diastase."

REPORTS by the "LANCET" and other leading MEDICAL JOURNALS accompany each Tin.

BENGER'S FOOD is sold by leading Chemists, &c., in Tins at 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d. and 5s., or direct from the Manufacturers,

MOTTERSHEAD & CO. {S. PAINE and F. B. BENGER} MANCHESTER

The Christian:

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.] [REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER.

No. 782.] THURSDAY, JANUARY 22, 1885. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

CONTENTS.

The Church at Prayer 7
"Chestnut Christians." 8
The Church and the World 8
Industrial Training for Girls 9
God's Anger against the Wicked ..10
Young Children and True Piety 11
For the Young 12
Foreigners in London 13
A Ragged School in the Borough ..13
Gospel Purity Association 14
Mr. Scroggie in Edinburgh 14
Poetry—He Knoweth All 14
The Gospel in France 14
Helpers Wanted 15
Mr. Varley in St. Louis 15
The Letter Mission 15
Notes and Comments 16
The Church and Missions 18
Rev. E. P. Hammond in Liverpool ..20
The Salvation Army 21
Evangelistic Mission 21
Notes from Detroit 21
Mildmay Mission to the Jews 22
Women and Temperance 22
Blue Jackets in the Channel Fleet ..23
Among the West-End Masses 23
East-End Factory Girls 24
All-Day Meeting, Newcastle 26

WATERCRESS AND FLOWER GIRLS' MISSION

AND

FLOWER GIRL BRIGADE,

11 AND 12, CLERKENWELL CLOSE, CLERKENWELL, E.C.

President—RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF SHAFTESBURY, K.G. Treasurer—THOMAS JOHNSON, Esq.

UNDER THE IMMEDIATE PATRONAGE OF H.R.H. PRINCESS FREDERICA OF HANOVER.

AND

THE RIGHT REV. THE BISHOP OF BEDFORD.
THE RIGHT HON. THE LORD MAYOR, M.P.
FIELD-MARSHAL SIR PATRICK GRANT, G.C.B., ETC.
THE HON. LADY GRANT.
THE HON. MR. JUSTICE DENMAN.
THE HON. MRS. DENMAN.
SIR WHITTAKER ELLIS, BART, M.P.
LADY ELLIS.
SIR EDMUND HENDERSON, R.E., K.C.B.
LADY HENDERSON.
SAMUEL MORLEY, ESQ., M.P.

THE object of this Mission (begun in 1866) is to visit the markets and streets, theatres, music-halls, &c., to bring the Gospel to the many Women and Girls engaged in Flower-selling, &c., in the streets, who are thus exposed to all the dangers and temptations of street life, by the formation of Clubs, Classes, Meetings, &c., to assist them to earn a living in the winter, when watercress and flowers fail; to endeavour to take the young from the streets, placing them in Homes, and at service.

The work of the Mission (employing four paid agents) embraces Visiting the early Morning Markets, Free Breakfasts, &c., to the poor Girls and Women, Visiting streets, theatres, and music-halls at night; the homes of these poor creatures, the sick and destitute ones, supplying such with needed comfort; Open-air Services, Tract distribution, Sabbath and week evening Services, Sunday-schools and Classes, Mothers' and Working Meeting, Clothing Club, Maternity Society, Loan Fund, Penny Bank, Band of Hope, Gospel Temperance, and Halfpenny Hot Meat Dinners to destitute Children, Distribution of Clothing and Boots.

The Flower-girl Brigade consists of young (Flower) girls who are too old to be drafted into Homes, yet who are young enough to be won from the streets; they are brought under Christian influences, and trained to habits of industry. Such as are suitable are trained for domestic service; others are taught the business of artificial flower-making, for which they show great aptitude. By this means they are effectually removed from the streets, and enabled to earn their own living. Three hundred of these girls have been thus gathered into our Brigade, where there are now thirty under training, which number it is most desirable to increase.

Visitors are welcome any day (except Saturday) between 10 and 5 o'clock; or specimens of the girls' work will be sent upon application to the Superintendent.

TO THE READERS OF "THE CHRISTIAN."

It is several years since an appeal was made for this needy Mission. The work has so increased of late, the distress and misery is so prevalent among these poor creatures, such heartrending scenes of wretchedness are continually met, that owing to want of funds we are powerless to relieve.

We have blessed, though sad, opportunities of speaking the Gospel to these poor girls and women, while waiting about the markets these cold mornings, so wretched and cold. We take them, a few at a time, into a coffee palace, giving them some hot coffee and food, seek then to tell them of a loving Saviour and His saving power. Thus winning their confidence, we get invited to their homes—oh, such places of neglect and poverty, to which there are but few bright exceptions!—children nearly naked, and half-starved. Then at night we travel round the West-end, outside music-halls, &c. We meet with many, listen to sad tales of sin and trial, seeking to save such as are willing to leave this life in the streets, placing some at service, providing safe and suitable employment for others. Will you, dear Christian reader, help in this work? Gifts of money, food, clothing, boots, &c. will be most gratefully received. Our little Brigade girls will be glad to send to their lady friends and little girls small boxes of their flowers—buttercups, daisies, roses, chrysanthemums.

Subscriptions may be sent to Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT, Office of THE CHRISTIAN; to THOMAS JOHNSON, Esq., Treasurer, Glanpaith, Herne Hill, S.E., or to yours faithfully in Christian service,

8, Sekforde-street, Clerkenwell, E.C. JOHN A. GROOM, Supt.

Cheques and P.O.O. to be crossed, "London and County Bank, Holborn Branch."

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

GEORGE HOLLAND thankfully acknowledges receiving 5s. for the Lord's Poor; £4 from a Gentleman, per Lord Shaftesbury; Anonymous, Parcel of Clothing.

Every day has its apportioned work.

THURSDAY'S OPERATIONS.

Infant Nursery opens at	7.30	a.m.
The Poor seen and Cases attended to ..	8.30	a.m.
Morning School (Free Ragged)	9	a.m.
Afternoon School (Free Ragged) ..	2	p.m.
Little Girls' Sewing Class and Boot Club	6	p.m.
Reading and Refreshment Room ..	6.30	p.m.
Toy Classes	6.30	p.m.
The Rest for Big Boys opens at	7	p.m.
Classes for Rough Boys at	8	p.m.
Mutual Industrial Classes for Big Boys	8	p.m.
Classes for Elder Girls and Young Women	8	p.m.
Youths' Bible Class at	8.30	p.m.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, Alderman R. N. Fowler, M.P. (Ex-Lord Mayor); J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman; Mr. Ex-Sheriff Clarence Smith, Hon. Secretary.

For ninety-nine years this Institution has visited and relieved the destitute sick, by an entirely unpaid agency, consisting of over 280 Christian men and women. Many sad cases have constantly to be passed over from want of funds.

The Committee will be thankful for the Society being remembered in the testamentary arrangements of the benevolent.—Office of the Society, 32, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

B. H. GERRANS, Secretary.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society of the National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, 25, Queen-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for contributions in aid of the poorer patients and their families. The smallest gifts in money or clothing will be thankfully acknowledged by the Committee. Flannel is much needed.

BETHESDA MISSION, Portsmouth, with which is incorporated the Portsea Island Town Mission. Established 1856.—Objects:—1. House-to-house visitation in the poorest districts for instruction in the Word of God. 2. The distribution of the Scriptures and simple Gospel Tracts. 3. To hold Mission Services, Cottage Meetings, and Sunday Schools. 4. To assist deserving poor and sick persons. 5. To give occasional free teas to the poorest classes, as a help to the ministry of the Gospel. The Mission is Evangelical and Unsectarian. Superintendent—Commander B. H. Key, Downham, St. Edward's-road, Southsea, who will gladly receive contributions for the work.

COW CROSS MISSION.—Gospel Services, Sadlers' Wells Theatre.—Glo'ster Hall, Clerkenwell, "Ragged London in centre." Dinners to destitute children, &c. Funds urgently needed.—WILLIAM CATLIN, General Superintendent, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville.

RESCUE WORK IN POPLAR.—Manor Cottage, Kersey-street, Poplar, E. Founded by Mrs. Wilkes, 1878. Treasurer, HENRY GREEN, Esq., Blackwall, E. Miss COOKE, 68, Mildmay-park, will also receive contributions for this work of mercy. Mrs. WILKES at home Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, to see friends and give information respecting this effort to seek and save the lost.

FAITH-HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. JOHN ALLEN or his helpers. Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney, London, E., Sundays, 3 p.m., Mondays, 7 p.m. The Hall, Horsley-street, near Camberwell-gate and Walworth-road station, Tuesdays, 7 p.m. The Hall, 110, Shoreditch. Thursdays, 7 p.m. Special: Fridays, 7 p.m., Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney: Baptism of the Holy Ghost and Power for Service.

GEE-STREET Christian Mission and Ragged School, Goswell-road, earnestly solicits donations to continue the good work of preaching, teaching the Gospel, temperance, and relieving deserving poor.—Bankers, BARCLAY & Co., 54, Lombard-street; Treasurer, ROBERT BAXTER, Esq., 6, Victoria-street, Westminster; Hon. Secretary, RUDGLEY, 82, Wood-street, Cheapside.

THE MISSIONARY TRAINING COLLEGE, Puerto Sa. Maria, Spain, was opened in January, 1884, for preparing Teachers and Evangelists for Spain. Funds are needed for its support. Contributions will be thankfully received by D. MATHESON, Esq., 120, Queen's-gate, S.W., or by Messrs. RANSOM, BOUVERIE & Co., 1, Pall Mall East, London, S.W.

SOUTH LONDON EVANGELISTIC CHOIR, Conference Hall, Clapham-road, London, S.W.—Mrs. MEREDITH has kindly given the use of the above Hall for the practice meetings of the above Choir, which will in future be conducted on the second and fourth Wednesdays in every month, at 8 p.m., except when engagements prevent. Christian singers and workers are earnestly invited to join the Choir, particulars of which will be at once forwarded on application to SAMUEL BURROW, Hon. Sec., 17, Linnell-road, Camberwell, S.E.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear, are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

THE CONVALESCENT HOME, Broadwater, Worthing, for Children of the Poor, is in need of a quiet, strong Horse, of 16 or 17 hands. Would any of the Lord's people like to supply this want?—AULAY MACAULAY, Hon. Secretary, Latymer Road Mission, Blechynden-street, Notting-hill, W.

FIVE SCHOLARSHIPS.

CAMDEN SCHOOL, BRIGHTON,

Principal:

MR. WILLIAM OLDING.

LIVERPOOL BETHSHAN Faith Healing Home, 161, Islington. Meetings for Holiness, Healing, and Testimony, Tuesdays, 3 p.m.; Thursdays, 7.30 p.m.

For further particulars, apply Miss GIBBS.

Educational.

WATERLOO HOUSE SCHOOL, Leamington. — Principal, the Rev. ARTHUR SEWELL, M.A. (Author of "Daily Thoughts for Schoolboys"). Preparatory for public schools. Terms moderate.

BETHANY HOUSE SCHOOL, Goudhurst, Kent, near Tunbridge Wells.—The object of the Principal is to thoroughly educate his pupils, and to carefully train them up in the love and service of Jesus. For prospectus, together with the testimony of the late Sir GEORGE JESSEL, address, Rev. J. J. KENDON.

OAK HOUSE SCHOOL, Bexleyheath, Kent (12 miles from London). Principal—GEORGE E. OXLEY, M.A., assisted by first-class Masters (Graduates). A thorough education, with every comfort and careful supervision. Five acres of meadow land for cricket, football, &c. Prospectuses on application.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES, Larkbeare, Exeter, Devon (for Resident Pupils only). Established 25 years. Miss BAMBER and Miss CHURTON, assisted by an efficient staff of resident certificated teachers and visiting professors, offer every educational advantage to parents seeking a Christian training for their daughters. Pupils always accompanied to and from London. Unexceptionable references to parents of present pupils. In association with the above is Clarendon House, Topsham, offering the same educational advantages, with pure, bracing sea-air, especially adapted for girls of delicate habit.

CLARENCE HOUSE, Pellatt-grove, Wood-green.—Mrs. SILVESTER, assisted by efficient teachers and visiting professors, receives a few Boarders, to whom she offers educational advantages, with the comforts of a home and very careful training. References kindly permitted to Mr. R. C. Morgan, 12, Paternoster-buildings, and parents of pupils.

SEASIDE, Southport. — Superior School for Young Ladies. Conducted by a member of the Church of England (Evangelical), assisted by English and foreign governesses, and eminent visiting professors. Pupils prepared for Trinity College examinations. — Miss POOLE, Eagley Bank, Southport. Referees, Rev. Canon Clarke, Southport, and Rev. John Burbidge, Everton-road, Liverpool.

FRANCE. — Rheims (Marne). — Protestant Institution for Young Ladies. Sciences. Arts. French spoken only. Home comforts. Moderate terms. Lady boarder received. References. Prospectus on application. Principal, Mdlle. BENECH. (Two diplomées.)

EDUCATION. — FRAULEIN VON GRIESHIEM, Diez a.d. Lahn, near Ems, receives a limited number of pupils. Resident French and German governesses. Music, piano, violin, singing, painting. Lawn tennis. Highest references.

SOUTHDENE, Ramsgate.—Splendidly situated Home for delicate children requiring sea and country air, combined with educational advantages. Under the personal supervision of experienced Christian Lady. Prospectus on application. Terms moderate.

HOLLAND HOUSE, Clarence-parade, Southsea.—School for the Daughters of Gentlemen. Special educational advantages, with home comforts and care. Indian charges received. References kindly permitted to the parents of present and former pupils. Prospectus on application to the PRINCIPAL.

CLAPHAM COMMON. — A Lady of much educational experience receives a limited number of young Ladies as Resident Pupils. Christian and refined influences, with careful mental culture. Special advantages for Modern Languages and accomplishments. High-class professors attend. Prospectus on application. — ALPHA, care of Mr. Bachhoffner, Bookseller, High-street, Clapham, S.W.

MONTREUX, Switzerland.—Madame DOLMATOFF. Christian home for young Ladies. French and German taught. Other branches of education if required. Reference, Rev. Denham Smith, 38, York-terrace, Regent's-park, London.

TEIGNMOUTH HOUSE GIRLS' SCHOOL. — Thorough education, with home comforts. Entire charge taken of children whose parents are abroad. Pupils prepared for the Local Examinations. Next term January 20.—Prospectuses on application to the Misses WHYTALL, Teignmouth.

EDUCATION.—A Lady in South Hampstead (whose Daughters have a Preparatory School for Little Boys) will after Christmas have vacancies for two in the house, boarders or weekly. Numbers being limited, watchful care and home comforts are assured. Term commences January 26th.—T., 166, Belsize-road, N.W.

A LADY, who has taught in the family of Sir Joseph Fayrer for six years, is open to an engagement as Governess, Lady-Housekeeper, or Companion, or in any post of trust in a Christian family. Excellent references.—B. A., J. Rivolta, Esq., The Manor Way, Blackheath-park, S.E.

MOUNT HOUSE, Braintree, Ladies' School. Principal, Miss WOODGATE.—Sound education on modern principles. Preparation for Camb. Local and C. P. Exams. Home comforts and personal supervision. Highest references. Prospectus and particulars on application. Spring term commences January 19 and 20.

BEDFORD.—Howard College.—Principal—Mrs. J. C. BURNETT. A Boarding School for Girls. Modern methods. Very superior education. Careful Christian training. Report and full particulars sent by return of post.

BEDFORD. — Melrose House. — Principals, the Misses RAY, daughters of the late Rev. R. Ray. Pupils received for high-class education and board. Personal supervision, with Christian training and home comforts. Preparation for Cambridge and other Local Examinations when desired. The Easter term will begin (D.V.) on Monday, January 19.

KINGSTON HOUSE Ladies' School, Abbotsford-road, Clifton.—High-class education. Careful Christian training. Pupils prepared for musical and University examinations. Musical education offered to Young Lady for services. Premium, 15 guineas.

MT. RADFORD SCHOOL, Exeter. —During the last ten years pupils have obtained upwards of 150 certificates in the Oxford, Cambridge, College of Preceptors', and London University Examinations. Of these, twenty-two passed in honours, and twelve obtained prizes. The Word of God is made the sole basis of a careful Christian training. References to parents of past and present pupils.

Principal, E. H. VINE.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL for Little Boys, near Brighton. Locality healthy. Home comforts, Christian training. Special attention to delicate, backward boys. Separate beds. Visiting masters. Twenty guineas.—LADY PRINCIPAL, Hamilton Lodge, Hurstpierpoint, Sussex.

THE OLD HALL SCHOOL,

WELLINGTON, SHROPSHIRE.

Principal: Dr. CRANAGE.

HASTINGS.—Wellington College for Ladies.—The object of the Council is to provide in this seaside healthy town an education of the best possible kind, based on Christian principles. An excellent gymnasium is attached, also Kindergarten. — For prospectus, apply to the Secretary, the Rev. F. LEAVER, Chalvington Rectory, Sussex, or 4, Wellington-square, Hastings.

EDUCATION. — In a high-class School, where the number of boarders is limited to 16, two vacancies have unexpectedly occurred, just as school is re-opening; to fill these, pupils would be received at 60 guineas inclusive; usual terms, 70, with extras. More than ordinary attention is paid to the comfort of the pupils, and the highest educational advantages are secured. Highest references.—All particulars by addressing B. C., English and Foreign Library, Blackheath Village.

HAPPY CHRISTIAN HOME for Little Girls.—Mrs. Haycraft is anxious to recommend a Home for one or two children, where they would receive the kindest treatment and careful education from a lady long accustomed to teaching and training. Entire charge taken of children whose friends are abroad. No other pupils received. Pleasant home in a healthy suburb of Croydon. Highest references, ministerial and otherwise.—For address, please write to Mrs. HAYCRAFT, Epsom.

HOME EDUCATION.—Two little Girls can be received, to be educated with one or two others, in a healthy London suburb. Terms moderate and inclusive. Careful training and home comforts. References given and required. —Miss TWEEDIE, 24, Josephine-avenue, Brixton-rise, London, S.W.

LONDON.—First-class Education for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing, conducted by members of the Church of England, occupying a spacious house in a most healthy locality in the West-end. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate Professors — their health, individual temper, and disposition carefully and tenderly watched over, and the whole system based on Christian principles. — DELTA, Boddington's Library, Notting-hill-gate, W.

HIGHBURY HOUSE, St. Leonards-on-Sea.—Boys prepared for commerce, public schools, or the Universities. Upper, middle, and preparatory departments. Seven resident Masters. The junior division taught by Ladies. Delicate boys requiring a mild climate receive every kindness and constant care.—For prospectus, apply to Mrs. DUFF, the Lady Principal. The Easter term will commence on Wednesday, Jan. 21.

MORAVIAN EDUCATION.—Fulneck, near Leeds. Established 1750. Terms for Boys' School, apply to the Rev. W. T. TITTERINGTON; for Ladies' School, to Miss SHAWE. School re-opens January 21.

DURBAN-HOUSE SCHOOL, Lansdowne-road, Lee, Blackheath, S.E.—An old-established Preparatory School for the Sons of Gentlemen, conducted by a Lady, assisted by Masters and Governesses. Careful training. Home comforts. References to clergymen and parents.—THE PRINCIPAL.

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL in Highgate.—The Rev. G. D. BARTLET, M.A. (late Head Master of Mill Hill School), receives twelve Boarded Pupils. Able assistant masters, superior home, individual attention, thorough grounding, and careful religious training. Highgate is strongly recommended by the medical profession. — Reference permitted to the Rev. W. E. BOARDMAN, 3, Highbury-park.

HANWORTH HOUSE, Weston-super-Mare. — Mrs. CHARLES NASH receives a limited number of Pupils, and endeavours to combine the highest educational advantages with Christian training and maternal care. Resident Parisienne, and German Governess. The best Masters from Clifton attend regularly. Prospectus, with references, on application.

SEA HOUSE SCHOOL, Upperton, Eastbourne.—Thorough education, domestic comfort, and beautiful air. The term commences January 20.—For prospectus, view of house, &c., apply to Mr. ESAM.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—Lady Principal of small select Ladies' School can receive six young Ladies to train in household management, cookery lessons, needlework. Good English education, with accomplishments, and Christian evangelical training. Seven guineas the term.

MATER, Mr. Spiers, Bookseller, Tunbridge Wells.

EDUCATION for Young Ladies, near Torquay. Masters. Certificated Governess. Every care. Home comforts. Pupils prepared for Local Examinations. Highest references. Terms inclusive.

Mrs. BRENTON-CAREY, Tramore, Brixham, Devon.

PASTEUR F. DUMAS, of Paris (18, Rue de Boulets), near to the Place du Trône), is desirous of receiving two or three young men as Boarders in his family.

AN ENGLISH LADY, who has every morning occupied in teaching, wishes to find an engagement, or visiting lessons, for the afternoon. Fluent German and French (ten years in Germany, two in Paris), brilliant music, thorough English, advanced literature.—A. G. M., care of Y.W.C.A., 17, Old Cavendish-street, W.

CLERGYMAN (late Fellow of St. John's Coll., Camb.) and his Wife going to South of France, would like to take charge of a young Gentleman or Lady going there. Tuition, if required.

X. Y. Z., Marham Vicarage, Downham, Norfolk.

TWO LITTLE GIRLS, under 12, can be received in a Clergyman's family, to be educated by his daughters. Country vicarage. An hour's distance from London. — Mrs. W., Loudwater Vicarage, near High Wycombe, Bucks.

REQUIRED, in good school, a young Governess, to assist generally. Small salary.

DELTA, Frowde & Co., Portishead, Somerset.

LEAMINGTON. — A Governess-Pupil required immediately, in an old-established Ladies' School.

K. S., 70, Clarendon-street, Leamington.

LADY OFFERS Christian Home, combining educational advantages, to Girls under 16, as Companion-Pupils. Healthy situation. Personal supervision. Vacancy for Articled Pupil, premium 20 guineas.

PRINCIPAL, Clifford, Chertsey-road, Clifton.

A CLERGYMAN desires to recommend an earnest Christian Lady (29) as Governess. Seven years' experience. Good English, arithmetic, French, music, elementary German, and drawing. Senior Cambridge and Coll. Precep. Certificates. — Rev. J. M'KINNEY, 9, Nettleton-road, New-cross, S.E.

A LADY requires a re-engagement as Governess to young children. Useful Companion, or Wardrobe-keeper in a school. No accomplishments. Good needlewoman. Willing to make herself generally useful. Highest references.

H. S. E., 65, St. Owen's-street, Hereford.

A GERMAN LADY (27) seeks an engagement in Christian family or school, or as Companion to a Lady. Fluent English and French, singing. References kindly permitted to Dr. Ziemann, 2, Lorne-villas, Cliftonville, Margate.—F. N., 31, St. Mary's-road, Canonbury.

AS GOVERNESS to young children, or Mother's Help where a nurse is kept, wanted by a young Lady.

L., Layer Breton, near Kelvedon, Essex.

NURSERY GOVERNESS or Mother's Help, by Young Lady; or would take entire charge of a widower's family. Domesticated, and fond of children. London preferred.

Miss MILLS, 3, De Beauvoir-road, Kingsland.

A YOUNG SUISSE LADY, 20, Protestant, wishes for situation either in School or Family. Acquirements, French, and rudiments of drawing, and German. — Mrs. G. OSBORN, Warrengore, Offham, near Lewes, Sussex.

A LADY (29) desires re-engagement as Governess to children under twelve. Eight years' experience. Highest references.

Miss SMITH, Iver Court Farm, Iver, Bucks.

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL for Gentlemen's Daughters. — Miss PENN and Fraulein ESSER receive twenty-five Boarders. Efficient staff of professors. Christian influence. Home comforts. Large house and garden. Languages and music specialities. Easter term begins January 22. Grove House, Upper Clapton, London, N.

A GOVERNESS would teach three or four hours a day in good School, in return for advanced lessons in English, French, arithmetic, to prepare for College of Preceptors' Examination, held in July next.—AILEMA, care of Miss Shepherd, High-street, Hungerford.

A CLERGYMAN'S WIFE receives Boys from six years old. Careful preparation, kind treatment; healthy neighbourhood. Terms from thirty guineas. Highest references. Indian pupils received.
M., Denis Villa, Oxford-road, Worthing.

TWO FAIRLY ADVANCED Girls can be received in a high-class Home School, to study with one preparing for Oxford Junior Exam. Resident foreign governess, visiting professors. Reduction on prospectus terms, if desired. Situation healthy, eighteen miles from London. References to clergymen and parents of pupils.
PRINCIPAL, Eagles & Egan, Philpot-lane, London.

A YOUNG GERMAN LADY desires a re-engagement as Governess in a quiet family. Terms moderate. She teaches German, French, and music; also the usual English instruction.—Address, during January, Fraulein OSTERLOFF, care of Mrs. White, Dutton House, Leominster, Hereford.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

TO BOOKSELLERS AND STATIONERS.—Wanted, by an experienced assistant, a re-engagement in London. Could take entire management of depot for sale of religious and instructive works. Many years in last situation. Proprietor retired after nearly forty years of business life. Highest references.
Miss F., 24, Gowrie-road, Lavender-hill, S.W.

STEPHEN THOMAS CROCKER, of Bristol, late Headquarters Special of Salvation Army, is open for Evangelistic Work in connection with any Christian body. He commences at Wellington, Somerset, on the 18th of January, and at Taunton later on. Accredited references. —His address is 65, Somerset-street, New Cut, Cathay, Bristol.

APPRENTICE.—Wanted by respectable parents, to place out their daughter, aged 18, to some light business. No objection to pay premium for the same. Good home essential. —Address letter to R. W., care of Mrs. Sayer, Newsagent, Hornsey-road, N.

EVANGELIST. — Wanted, by a Young Man, an engagement as an Evangelist, or an Assistant to a Minister. Good reference. Has been very successful. Nearly four years' experience.—EDWIN A. EVANS, 21, Viney-street, Taunton, Somersetshire.

MEDICAL. — Will any Christian Practitioner give employment as Dispenser to young man without means, with view to qualifying? Was dispenser and hospital attendant in the South African campaign. Good testimonials.
Mr. HINE, Campden, Gloucestershire.

AS GARDENER, single-handed or otherwise. Age 35. Married. No family. Fifteen years' experience. Good references. Total abstainer.—Miss MARSLAND, High School for Girls, Clifton Park, Bristol.

A DAUGHTER of a well-known Presbyterian Missionary in India seeks a situation as Lady-Companion in a Christian home.
W. H. V., 18, Wallace-road, Canonbury, N.

AS UNDER-MATRON, or Assistant-Housekeeper. Good references.
J. M., 66, Queen's-road, St. John's Wood, N.W.

AS FOOTMAN, under a butler, in a Christian family. Age 17. Not been in service before. Can wait at table. Very respectable youth. Country preferred.
Miss GREENE, Midgham, Reading.

THE REV. LORD W. RUSSELL recommends a boy, aged 14½, to help in stables or house. He is well-educated, intelligent, strong, and active.—Chenies Rectory, Rickmansworth.

HOME MISSIONARY seeks re-engagement. Many years' experience. Fond of visiting, &c. Good reference. Wife can assist. Can come at once.
F. B. RAYMOND, 13, Chelsea-road, Southsea.

A LADY WISHES to hear of a post as Sub-Matron for a member of her Bible-class, who wishes to leave business for Mission work.—L. T., 40, Montagu-square.

A LADY of great experience desires an engagement as Housekeeper, or Nursery Superintendent, in a private family. Good references.
H., Aubert Park Library, Highbury, N.

MISS STREATFEILD can highly recommend a middle-aged Lady as Companion or Housekeeper to an invalid. Is kind, cheerful, used to illness. Salary moderate, but comfortable home desired.—Charts Edge, Westerham.

A LADY WISHES to find a situation, in abstaining family, for a Butler. Age ; tall. Excellent servant.
Miss KNYVETT, Beddington, Croydon.

AS PLAIN COOK in a Christian family, where there are Christian privileges. No washing. Wages £18. Age 28.
S. S., 50, Hill-street, Walworth.

MRS. GRANT seeks a situation for a young girl, anxious to redeem her character. She understands parlour work and needlework. Can write, and keep plain accounts, is gentle and pleasing. Strictly honest and sober.
Mrs. GRANT, Old Rectory, St. Albans.

EDWARD W. THOMAS, 200, Euston-road, N.W., will be glad to recommend a very worthy person, as Matron to a small Home, or to any situation of trust.

ENGAGEMENT wanted, as Assistant Matron or Industrial Teacher in an Institution, or Assistant Housekeeper in a School, by young person. Thoroughly domesticated; well recommended.
B., 23, Vartry-road, Stamford-hill.

A LADY with private income, desires an engagement as Assistant Housekeeper, or Companion to a lady.—A. M., Mrs. Ogles, Stationer, Lytton-road, New Barnet, Herts.

A YOUNG LADY (aged 25), seeks a daily engagement in some Christian work. Secretarial duties preferred. Small salary required. Near or in London.
G., Stone's Library, 510, King's-road, S.W.

A LADY RECOMMENDS a young person, age nearly 18, as Second Nurse or Schoolroom Maid. Good needlewoman. Respectable and trustworthy.—Mrs. K., Stoneleigh, Elmfield-road, Bromley, Kent.

WANTED IN BRIGHTON, Situations as Good Plain Cook, and Housemaid, together preferred. Christian privileges.—E. D., 15, St. Stephen's-square, Bayswater, London, W.

ATTENDANT, or Useful Maid, to elderly or invalid Lady. Good needlewoman; can do dressmaking. No objection to light housework. Well recommended. Middle-age.—E. C., Chesnut Cottage, Hanworth-road, Hounslow, W.

A LADY WISHES to recommend a certificated Ladies' Nurse, who is experienced, kind, attentive, and obliging.—Mrs. SNELL, 1, Leslie-park-villas, Cherry-orchard-road, Croydon.

SECRETARY.—An energetic Christian gentleman, of considerable secretarial experience, desires an appointment as Secretary to a public charity or otherwise. Good accountant and shorthand writer.
BETA, 191, High-street, Stoke Newington, N.

MR. GEORGE HATTON, Superintendent of St. Giles Christian Mission, is most desirous to obtain a situation for a young man of considerable ability, who has been for some months past temporarily employed as clerk and correspondent in the offices of the above Mission. Writes a capital hand, and is most gentlemanly and obliging. Salary moderate.—Mr. HATTON, 12, Ampton-place, Regent-square, W.C.

AS CARRIAGE GROOM, or Groom single-handed. Situation wanted by a Christian young man. Age 18½; height 5 ft. 6 in. Abstainer.
C. LILLEY, Blickling Hall, Aylsham, Norfolk.

AS CARPET PLANNER, or handy man in furnishing warehouse, by young man, abstainer and Christian (24).
J. S., 61, Queen-street, Leamington.

A LADY can highly recommend her Nurse, who has been with her five years, and wishes for a situation as Maid to an elderly lady, or nurse to children out of arms. A London suburb preferred.—Mrs. H., Coleman's, Stationer, High-street, Wandsworth.

AS BUTLER.—Sixteen years' experience, married, a Christian and abstainer. Aged 34, height medium. Would take a temporary engagement, or the management of a British Workman's Public-house.
BUTLER, 42, Peploe-street, Chester.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS. —A London Architect and Surveyor, M.R.I.B.A., who has special opportunities for the acquirement of a practical knowledge of the profession, has a vacancy for a Pupil. Christian home if desired. Premium.—A. B., Housekeeper, 26, Bishopsgate-street Within, E.C.

SCRIPTURE READERS wanted. —The Church of England Scripture Readers' Association have vacancies in London for active, energetic, and truly converted men, desirous of devoting their whole time to work for Christ. Age between 24 and 45. Commencing stipend, £77. Must be communicant members of the Church of England. Candidates resident in London and the neighbourhood preferred. Unsuitable applications not replied to. Also a vacancy in South London for a three-hour evening reader.—Forms of application and all particulars on applying to the LAY SECRETARY, at the Offices, 56, Haymarket, S.W.

WANTED, in a large Home for Boys, a Man and Wife as Assistants, to reside in the Home and take charge of a number of boys. Must be Christians and total abstainers. The man would be expected to superintend the cleaning of the House and the maintenance of order, and the woman to take the Matronship of a dormitory containing 90 beds. Board, furnished apartments, coals, lights, and £50 per annum. Preference given to candidates where the husband has been in the Army or Navy.—Apply, by letter only, with copies of testimonials, to ALFRED SARGENT, Esq., Governor, 18, Stepney-causeway, London, E.

HOUSE-PARLOURMAID wanted, not under 25. Must be efficient and trustworthy. Family small, and everything found but beer.
Mrs. BROWN, 26, Kidbrooke-park-road, Blackheath.

WANTED, as Correspondent, a Christian Lady, possessing a fair knowledge of Shorthand (not less than 90 words a minute), and able to write also a bold and expeditious long hand. Methodical and punctual in habits, and disposed to give herself to the promotion of the Lord's work among homeless children. A good home and home comforts offered to such in Dr. Barnardo's Village Home for Girls, and if needful a small salary, but it is especially desired to find some lady willing and able to give her services, without other pay than board and lodging.—Apply, by letter, to Dr. BARNARDO, 18, Stepney-causeway, E.

ARCHITECT of long practice, M.INST.B.A., will take a well-educated young man, with taste for art, into his office. Moderate premium. Will be thoroughly instructed in every branch.—ARCHITECT, care of Z., West View, Clifton, Bristol.

MISS WESTON will be very glad to hear from any Christian Ladies desiring to help her in her work. They must be earnest Christians and total abstainers, active, and energetic. No salary given, board and lodging provided.
Miss WESTON, Sailors' Rest, Portsmouth.

COFFEE PALACE. — A decided Christian man wanted, for a good position of trust. Single. Abstainer; over 30. Good personal character required. Good wages to a competent man.
MANAGER, 1, Newton-street, Holborn.

MATRON wanted, for a Reformatory Home in London. Age between 35 and 50. Must be a communicant and total abstainer. Small salary. A very good sphere of usefulness.
A. B., Box 1303, Sell's, 167, Fleet-street, London.

PRIVATE SECRETARY. — Wanted, godly young man.
Dr. CRANAGE, Wellington, Salop.

AN ACTIVE and earnest Biblewoman wanted, for a large Parish in the North of England.—Archdeacon LONG, Sunderland.

LAUNDRESS. — Wanted, a respectable woman to work and teach girls in an Industrial Home. Must be of Christian principles. Church of England preferred.
Miss BECKINGSALE, 46, St. Ann's-street, Salisbury.

LAUNDRESS wanted, immediately, for Bristol Penitentiary. Abstainer. Must be able to do, and teach, first-class washing and ironing. Wages £25.
MATRON, 60, Upper Maudlin-street, Bristol.

A RESPECTABLE MIDDLE-AGED PERSON wanted, to take charge of two houses, alternately in England and Scotland, during the absence of the family. She would have a servant under her.—Reply, stating wage, age, and references, to Mrs. J. F., Kenyon Hall, near Manchester.

REQUIRED, by an elderly Lady residing near Brighton, a domesticated Lady as Assistant Housekeeper. A comfortable home, two servants. No salary.—State age and qualifications, VERITAS, 50, Chelsea-road, Southsea.

MOTHER'S HELP and Companion required in a small family. Must be thoroughly domesticated and an abstainer. Small salary.—Letter only to Mrs. S., 17, Larkfield-road, Richmond, Surrey.

NURSE WANTED, for 3 children. Wages about £16. No beer. Mother assists. Good character indispensable. Amiable, tidy, and industrious. Flannel and lace washing. Very early riser.
L., 275, Lewisham High-road, St. John's, S.E.

MOTHER'S HELP wanted; strong, active, domesticated. Accustomed to the care of boys. Good needlewoman. Not under 20. Christian. Dissenter. Baptist preferred. Send age, experience, salary, reference, and photo, to Mrs. J. P. DAWBARN, East London Institute, Doric Lodge, Bow-road, London, E.

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, not objecting to housework. Christian, abstainer; not under 25. Small, quiet family; three servants kept.—M., 2, East Ascent, St. Leonards-on-Sea.

GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, in small, quiet family. Must be active, strong, and trustworthy, and not over 40 years of age. Wages £20 and all found.—K. F., care of Messrs. Bull & Son, Victoria-road, Surbiton.

A GOOD COOK wanted, in a small family, where religious privileges would be valued. A Dissenter and abstainer preferred.
P. S., St. Katherine's, Sevenoaks.

COOK wanted, for family of two. Nurse and housemaid kept. Wages about £18. Age about 25. Good character indispensable.
Annandale, 13, Macaulay-road, Clapham-common.

A GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, economical, conscientious, and trustworthy, in a doctor's family in the country. Three in family. Early dinners. Wages £14, and all found. A Congregationalist preferred.
Mrs. WILLIAMS, Sen., Sherborne, Dorset.

WANTED, IN SMALL FAMILY, a consecrated child of God as Plain Cook, and to assist in the oversight of four dear children. A loving Christian might secure a permanent home. Motto, "Jesus Only."—Mrs. HUTTON, Itchen View, Portswood, Southampton.

NURSERY.—Can any lady recommend a quiet, clean, careful Nursery Maid? Age 18. Good needlewoman. Fond of children. Under a nurse. Wages £10.
Mrs. HOLDEN, Nuttall Rectory, nr. Nottingham.

GOOD HOUSE AND PARLOUR MAID wanted, immediately. Thoroughly understanding duties. Young housemaid under her. Must be good height, needlewoman, and over 24 years of age.
Mrs. EVERED POOLE, Enfield House, Southampton.

HOUSEMAID WANTED in a Gentleman's quiet family. Three in family. Parlourmaid kept. A member of a Christian church preferred.—Apply after five in the afternoon, or by letter, to W., 6, Warwick-road, Upper Clapton, London, E.

HOUSE AND PARLOUR MAID. —Wanted, in a clergyman's family, 10 miles from London, a superior young woman as House and Parlour Maid, from 25 to 35 years of age, who thoroughly understands her duties. Must be active, neat, clean, and a member of the Church of England. Quiet situation; two in family. Wages, £18, with £2 extra instead of beer. Everything found.
Mrs. COHEN, Heston Vicarage, Hounslow.

A USEFUL MAID wanted, for mental case. Christian woman not under 35. Good needlewoman, reader, and walker. Salary £20. Replies must contain all particulars.—Z. Z., Dennis, Stationer, 2, Colville-square, Talbot-road, Notting-hill.

WANTED, IN SMALL FAMILY, Man and Wife as Cook-Housekeeper and Indoor Servant. Good wages to thoroughly competent persons. Abstainers preferred. No beer found. Must have exceptional personal characters.
Mrs. G. P. MOODIE, 10, Wilbury-road, Brighton.

UNDER HOUSEMAID wanted.— The Advertiser would be obliged by any Lady kindly recommending a superior, active, cleanly young woman.—Address, stating full particulars, L., Howard's Printing Office, High-street, Sydenham, S.E.

AGENTS (male and female) required in every town and village to sell our pure Teas and Coffees. Our Ceylon and Darjeeling Teas show extraordinary value. We allow 6d. per lb. commission, and deliver free. Special terms for cash. Agents can earn between 20s. and 30s. weekly.—Write for samples free to The United Tea Growers' Association, 9, Union-court, E.C.

£6 MONTHLY may be added to income by selling our celebrated Teas in packets, French Coffees, and Cocoa. Write for particulars to OLIVER, OLIVER & Co, 332, Southgate-road, London.

A CURATE is required for Christchurch, Worthing. Graduate of Oxford or Cambridge. If married, possessing private means. Stipend £150.—Address, The VICAR.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.

40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

This First-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of THE CHRISTIAN from all parts of the world. The Bishop of Algoma writes: "The comfort, perfect order, and attendance at PERCY'S Hotel, render it all that can be desired as a central place of sojourn in this great city." Beds from 1s. 6d. Tea, 1s. 3d. Tariff on application.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Clairville, Chine-road.—Superior Boarding House, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. JACKSON. Visitors will meet with an excellent family home. Charming sea views. Near church and sea. Most liberal table.

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA Boarding Establishment. The home of a Minister's daughter. Established 11 years. Mansion replete with every comfort. Fine sea view.
Miss NEWBURY, Cavendish House, Warrior-square

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine, having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers. Liberal table, with every home comfort.—Mr. & Mrs. Box, 58, Old Steine.

HUTCHINSON'S PRIVATE HOTEL, 24, Guilford-street, Russell-square, the most central position for all parts of London. Extensively patronised and strongly recommended. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Board and Residence, with home comforts and every attention. House pleasantly situated in one of the healthiest parts. Terms moderate.—Miss SEARL, or Miss HUTTEMAN, Loughtonhurst, West Cliff-gardens.

HASTINGS HYDROPATHIC ESTABLISHMENT. — Charming winter Residence. Beautifully situated. Purest air. Abundant sunshine. Turkish baths, with sea water plunge. Droitwich, Ozone, and all other baths, with skilled attendants. Moderate charges.—For prospectus, apply the SECRETARY.

A CHRISTIAN FARMER (meeting simply) can now take a young Gentleman to learn general Farming, or can offer a single Gentleman a comfortable and quiet country home. Christians preferred. References exchanged.
H. C., near Callington, Cornwall.

LATE ABODE OF FAITH.—Mrs. DALBY receives Young Ladies who are unmanageable at home; also cases of brain deficiency, not insanity.
BETHEL, 21, Norfolk-road, St. John's-wood.

DIPSOMANIA. — A successfully established private Home at the seaside for six, suffering from excess of morphia, chloral, absinthe, stimulants, or Nervous Debility. Christian care and influence. Judicious supervision and home comforts.
MEDICUS, 9, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

APARTMENTS.—A Lady wishes to receive into her home a Lady (or sisters) of quiet habits. Bath-room. Drainage perfect. Healthiest locality in Clapham. Close to Evangelical churches, Conference Hall, rail, tram.—Miss B., care of Mr. Knox, 40, Walford-road, Stoke Newington.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Healthiest part. Apartments, with or without Board, in private family. No children. Near church and sea. South aspect. Every comfort and kindest attention given to an invalid.
M., Cadogan Villa, Church-road, Bournemouth.

SEASIDE RETREAT, for the reception of a limited number of Gentlemen under the Habitual Drunkards' Act, or privately, where Christian influence, home comforts, and experienced treatment, combined with the advantages of the Act, can be relied upon.—Q. N., Chas. Tayler's Advertisement Offices, 154, Fleet-street, London.

UPPER NORWOOD. — Superior Board and Residence in Christian family of position. Would suit married couple or others. Home comforts. Near Evangelical church. Terms moderate.
R., Oakdene, Vermont-road, Central-hill.

PART OF HOUSE to Let, unfurnished, with attendance or use of kitchen. Close to railways.
K., Norfolk Villa, Werter-road, Putney.

SITTING-ROOM and two Bedrooms, very quiet, wanted, by two Ladies. Malvern, Leamington, Bath, or some inland place in the Midland counties preferred.
Miss G., 3, Promenade-terrace, Harrogate.

VENTNOR. — To Let, combined Bed and Sitting-room. Sea view, south aspect. 10s. 6d. weekly. Or, north Bed-room and south Sitting-room, 15s. Home comforts, good neighbourhood.—Mrs. Strippe, 3, Cyprus-villas.

FARM - HOUSE APARTMENTS to Let.—Good house and garden; healthy and pleasant situation. Two large bed-rooms, and sitting-room furnished. References exchanged.—M. O. Smith, Rushford, near Evesham, Worcestershire.

ILFRACOMBE. — Refined Home offered, in Christian family, to one or two boarders. Piano. Good schools available. House on hill. References exchanged. Terms 21s. to 25s.—The Heights, 18, Oxford-grove.

A LADY WISHES to Let her House as a Convalescent Home or Orphanage. Well adapted for it. Sea view, close to beach. For particulars, M., 46, High-street, Folkestone.

CHESTER.—Two Sisters offer a comfortable home to a Lady. Pleasant sitting-rooms and large airy bed-room.—A., Messrs. Phillipson & Golder, Publishers, Eastgate-row, Chester.

DUSSELDORF-on-the-Rhine.—An excellent Pension de famille can be highly recommend. Comfortable home. Liberal table. German lessons. Terms, £5 a month.
Miss Gaudian, 16, Wyndham-place, W.

READING.—Board and Residence for a Lady in a very comfortable, social home. Moderate terms.
A. Z., 59, Queen's-road, Reading.

A CHRISTIAN LADY desires to receive two Lady Boarders, and offers them a home replete with every comfort. Liberal board and Christian privileges. Pleasantly situated on the river Wye, and commanding finest views of beautiful country. References given. Inspection invited.—For terms and particulars, address Miss Jeynes, The Laurels, Park-street, Hereford.

ST. MILDRED'S Medical Hotel, Christopher-street, Finsbury-square.—A comfortable home in illness. Trained nurses, electric and other baths, a good cuisine, &c. Visitors can make arrangements with their own medical attendants. No infectious cases taken. Friends of patients boarded by arrangement if desired. Terms 10s. 6d. a day, or three guineas a week.

CHRISTIAN HOME offered, on inexpensive terms, by educated married couple, living near Crystal Palace. Bracing but sheltered. —M. H., 143, Queen Victoria-street.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS are again earnestly invited to write to Evangelist, Clapham, S.W. Rom. v. 8; 2 Cor. v. 20.

DISSOLVING VIEWS, LANTERNS, &c.—Buy of the maker, William Catlin, original slide producer, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London. Monthly catalogue gratis. Exhibitions (Gospel) town or country. Slides on hire, 1½d. each.

IRON CHURCHES, &c., erected at lowest possible cost, by A. Chopping, Derby-road, West Croydon, Surrey. Illustrated designs and estimates free.

ASTHMA. — Persons suffering from Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, &c., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.
C., Mr. G. A. Keyworth, Hastings.

FURNISH on Norman & Stacey's Hire-Purchase System. Deposit not necessary. True economy on sound commercial principles. Strictly private. 1, 2, or 3 years. 60 wholesale firms. Ordinary selling prices.—Offices, 79, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., and 121, Pall Mall, S.W.

PARTNERSHIP. — Vacancy for Christian Gentleman with £2,000 to £3,000 in well-established Woollen Business. Duties financial or country travelling. — Francis Edward Paynter, Solicitor, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard.

LIMITED PARTNERSHIP.—£100 wanted by a Christian man, who is connected with a safe and profitable business, dealing with a speciality. Would constitute a good business investment. Fullest scrutiny invited.—A. O. D., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

CHEAP PRINTING. — Send full particulars and stamped addressed envelope, and estimate will be returned. 5,000 2 pp. tracts, 17s. 6d.; 5,000 4 pp., 30s.; 5,000 8 pp. (folded and stitched), 75s.; 10,000, £7.
W. R. King, Crown Printing Works, Luton.

VISITING CARDS. — 50 ladies' best for 1s. 6d., 100 for 2s. 3d.; 50 gents' best 1s. 3d., 100 2s. Post free. 250 tea tickets, 2s. 6d.
W. R. King, Crown Printing Works, Luton.

WILL ANY MARRIED COUPLE, with comfortable means of living, moving in refined, but not proud, society, whose religious principles harmonize with those of The Christian, and without children of their own,

ADOPT TWO LITTLE GIRLS,

TWINS, between five and six? They are children of a poor Clergyman, whose very limited stipend barely meets the maintenance of his wife and other young family. References exchanged.
M. D. M., 6, Cambridge-gardens, Hastings.

NOTICE.—A Lady having found very great benefit both to herself and others from the use of Spirolene for Bronchitis, would like to recommend the same to the many suffering from this ailment at this season.—Can be obtained at Maw, Son & Thompson, or Lynch & Co., Aldersgate-street, or at Butler & Crispe, 4, Cheapside.

MAGNIFICENT gothic American Organ, full compass, five stops, and knee swell, including the vox-humana action. Beautifully French polished and panelled. Handsome solid walnut case. Fret cut desk and front. Suit chapel or drawing-room. Price, nine guineas. Rare bargain.
Organ, 58, Bickerton-road, London, N.

NEEDLEWORK FOR LADIES, for Pleasure and Profit. All the New Art Work. Directions for lovely things in knitting and crochet. Useful articles and wearable things, saleable bazaar articles. How to Dispose of Work, and List of Work Societies. New and enlarged edition, price 1s. 7½d., post free.
Ringrose, Malvern Link.

Publications.

MRS. GRIMKE having now printed 50 languages, wishes to send out one million Text Cards to Missionaries this year, cost about £400, proposing to double all gifts sent by Christians, whose aid she asks. Many varieties of English (some very beautiful), F. M. sheets, tracts, quilt texts on calico, &c., always on sale.—For list, send stamped addressed envelope to Mrs. Grimké, Prestwich, Manchester.

THE "MOUNTAINS OF BREAD" Series of little Books and Leaflets, by the late Georgiana Thompson, are copyright. Profits for poor aged, suffering Christians. Are still supplied by addressing, Miss A. Thompson, care of Dr. Cranage, Old Hall, Wellington, Salop.

Just Published.
"THE FOUR WARNINGS." By R. H. M. Jackman. London: S. W. Partridge & Co., 9, Paternoster-row. Price One Penny.

ABOUT JESUS. 100 Poems, Large Type. By Wm. Luff. Cr. 8vo. limp, 1s. ex. cloth, gilt edges, 1s. 6d.

The Way Home Series. Six 16-page little books with pink covers. By Lady Hope. Packet of 12 assorted, 6d.

Gospel Leaves. Thirty-two 2-page Tracts. Illustrated. By Cheyne Brady. Packets 1 and 2 (each 100 assorted of 16 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

Words of Life. Sixteen 4-page Tracts, Illustrated. Packet of 75 assorted, 6d.

Acorn Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By Rev. A. A. Ramsey. Packets 1 and 2 (each 50 copies assorted of 12 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

Salem Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By H. K. Wood ("A Glasgow Merchant.") Packets 1 and 2 (each 50 assorted of 8 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

St. Mark's Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By Rev. G. Everard, M.A. Packet of 50 copies assorted of 12 Numbers, 6d.

With Our Cards. Seasonable Poems for enclosure with New Year Cards. By Wm. Luff. Extra satin paper. 6d. per packet.

Books with Chromo Covers, suitable for enclosure in letters.

The Master's Knock. By Rev. George Everard, M.A.

Consecrated Influence. By Rev. A. R. M. Finlayson.

Be Wise. (For the Young.) By J. F. Moncrieff.

Can you say "My"? By Rev. George Everard, M.A.

No Refuge but Jesus. By the Same.

"Bruised for our Iniquities." By Rev. H. Bonar, D.D.

Saving Faith. By Rev. A. R. M. Finlayson.

Inconsistency. By Rev. E. Herber Evans.

The above 8 Books, 32 pp., 1d. each, or 1s. per dozen.

Drummond's Tracts Depot, Stirling, N.B.
London: S. W. Partridge & Co.

BAGSTER'S BIBLES.

Extra flexible, silk sewed, in best Bagster morocco, kid-lined, elastic band. With full helps. Prices from 20s.

In French morocco, projecting edges, elastic band. From 4s.

Samuel Bagster & Sons, Limited, 15, Paternoster-row London.

"FEUILLES EVANGELIQUES." —Sixteen French Tracts, illustrated. By Cheyne Brady. Sixpence per 100.—Drummond's Tract Depot, Stirling; S. W. Partridge & Co., London.

MUSIC FOR THE SABBATH.

ELI.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Piano.

ELI.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Harmonium.

NAAMAN.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Piano.

NAAMAN.—Costa. Complete book of Airs for Harmonium.

The above 1s. 6d. nett each book.

TE DEUM in D. By Farmer, 8vo., 6d.

SELECT VOLUNTARIES.—By Henry Farmer. A Collection of short, easy Classical (ancient and modern) Pieces. Suitable for piano, organ, or harmonium. New edition, in 12 books, 1s. 6d. nett each book. (Lists gratis.)

London: Joseph Williams, 24, Berners-street, W.

Terms for Advertisements.

(PREPAID.)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding	30	Words	....	3	0
,,	39	,,	....	3	9
,,	48	,,	....	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

Scale for larger Advertisements sent on application.

Advertisements sent by Post must be accompanied by Post-office Order, not by Stamps, as the risk in transit is very considerable.

☞ In order to secure insertion of Advertisements in the following number of The Christian they should reach this office on or before Friday, and at the latest by Saturday Morning's first post.

IN NEAT PACKET, PRICE SIXPENCE, POST FREE.

SMALL BOOKS

BY

DR. G. F. PENTECOST.

Suitable for Enclosing in Letters and for General Distribution.

CONTENTS.

The Japanese Student.
"Peace for the Likes of Me."
"I Want to be Gooder."
"I Dreads de Process."
"Let me see that."
"Sons of God."

Any one of the six above mentioned can be obtained price 6d. per dozen, or 3s. 6d. per 100.

The Witness of the Spirit.
The Two Sisters.
The Precious Blood of Christ.

The above-mentioned books may also be had separately, price 1s. per dozen, or 7s. per 100.

The following Small Books are also ready:

"I am Trying to Believe!" 6d. per doz.; 3s. 6d. per 100.
Consecration; or, Practical Holiness. 6d. per doz.; 3s. 6d. per 100
The Christian and the Modern Dance. Price 2d.; 2s. per doz.
"I gets Sulky when I'm Spoke to." Price 1d.; 1s. per doz.

London: Morgan & Scott 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY. ONE HALFPENNY.

The Herald of Mercy:

AN ILLUSTRATED MESSENGER FOR HUMBLE HOMES.

ORIGINATED BY THE LATE DUNCAN MATHESON.

> "It is a true 'messenger' for all homes, whether humble or high. The pictures will make the children's eyes sparkle with delight; the pretty stories, short papers, poetry, and telling illustrations of life, will help many a weary heart; and, indeed, no one can read without both pleasure and profit." Irish Congregational Magazine.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL TEACHERS,
TRACT DISTRIBUTORS,
AND CHRISTIAN PARENTS
ARE INVITED TO

Send to the Publishers for a Specimen Copy, which will be forwarded post free.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE ENVELOPE SERIES OF
SMALL BOOKS.

Neatly Printed on Tinted Paper, and specially designed for enclosing in Letters.

PENNY SERIES.

Each containing 32 pages, neatly printed on Tinted Paper. 1s. per dozen.

The White Fields of England. An Entreaty to Communicants. By Reginald Radcliffe.
A Real Christ. By C. H. Spurgeon.
Amusements. By Rev. Dr. Culross.
Tale-bearing. By Rev. R. W. Dale.
Salvation in Jesus from the Dominion of Sin. By Rev. A. M. W. Christopher.
Mission Address to District Visitors, &c. By T. M. Croome.
What Scripture says as to Indwelling Sin. By T. M. Croome.
The Living Christ. By the Author of the "Love we live by."
Why is God a Stranger in the Land? By Rev. R. H. Ireland.
Looking unto Jesus. By Theodore Monod.
"When ye Dwell in the Land." By S. A. Blackwood.
Battlements and Bloodguiltiness. By S. A. Blackwood.
The Present Distress. By S. A. Blackwood.
Counsels Concerning Marriage. Advice to Christians By C. F. D.
The Body in Relation to Christian Life and Service. By Rev. H. Sinclair Paterson, M.D.
Sin Self-Detective. By Rev. H. Sinclair Paterson, M.D.
Sound Mindedness. By Rev. H. Sinclair Paterson, M.D.
"Rejoice in thy Youth." By Rev. Dr. Culross.
Men of One Idea. By R. C. Morgan.

May also be had in two Assorted Packets of six books, 6d. each.

HALFPENNY SERIES.

Each containing 16 pages, neatly printed on Tinted Paper. 6d. per dozen.

By the Author of "How to enter into Rest."

How to enter into Rest.
The Government on his Shoulder.
I am with you alway.
Willing and Obedient.
A Desert Place.
"Is this You?"
Return!
Take!
Is it in Vain?

The Things that God uses. An Address to Christians. By D. L. Moody.
"Saved by His Life." By Rev. A. M. W. Christopher.
The Pledge: Reasons for Signing it. By Miss E. Gertrude Wilson. With Prefatory Note by Mrs. Hind Smith.
Trust in the Living Father. By Henry Varley.
The Startling Discovery. By Henry Varley.
Christ the Power of God. By L. J.
A Happy Marriage and a Happy Life.
Asking and Receiving. By R. C. Morgan.
Job and His Friends. By R. C. Morgan
Jonah and Paul. By L. D. F.
Watchman, what of the Night? By G Müller.
The Secret of Effectual Service to God By George Müller.
Am I Alone?
"Be filled with the Spirit." By Mrs. Gordon.
The Starless Crown.
The Pilgrim Maiden. By the Author of "The Starless Crown."
The Love we Live by.
Look out for the Safest Path. By S. A. Blackwood.
"I never thought of it." By Mrs. Hind Smith.
Extract from Sermons. By Rev. C. Wadworth.

May also be had in two Assorted Packets of twelve, 6d. each.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THIRD THOUSAND.

By GEORGIANA M. TAYLOR,

Author of the Hymn,

"Oh to be nothing, nothing!
Only to lie at His feet
A broken and emptied vessel,
For the Master's use made meet."

Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Boards, 2s.
Handsomely bound in Morocco, gilt edges, 4s. 6d.

LAYS OF LOWLY SERVICE.

"These lays are the outcome of an earnest, practical piety, and a warm, loving faith, and, employed in religious service, they will we can believe, kindled and quicken devotions."—Edinburgh Daily Review.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BY REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

GEMS OF PRAISE.

A Choice Collection of Hymns and Tunes

(Containing 228 Pieces), suitable for

Gospel Services, Prayer Meetings, Sabbath Schools, Christian Associations, and Family Worship.

A large number of both Hymns and Tunes are Original.

Edited and Compiled by Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

Music and Words:—Paper Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.
Words only:—Paper Covers, 1d.; Cloth Limp, 2d.

THE CONVERSION OF CHILDREN.

Being Narratives of Children's Conversions; and Records of Spiritual Work amongst the Little Ones.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

Tinted Covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Limp, 2s.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 2s. 6d.

"Many remarkable facts are here given, which deserve the attention of those especially who are incredulous as to the early age at which children may begin to live consciously a Christian life."
Evangelical Christendom.

"We commend the book very heartily to the prayerful attention of all parents and teachers.—The Freeman.

"We are quite sure that this book is well calculated to encourage effort and stimulate the Church to diligence in this direction."—The Methodist.

"We devoutly wish that by some means or other a copy could be placed in the hands of every Sunday-school superintendent and every pastor of a church."
Penuel.

"A most useful book, dealing with a most important subject in a masterly way. The whole subject of the early conversion of children is carefully considered by one whose experience in this special line entitles him to speak with authority. We heartily commend it to our readers, and especially to parents, Sunday-school teachers, and all who have to do with children."
Christian Progress.

FAMILIAR TALKS WITH THE CHILDREN.

A Series of Four-page Tracts for the Young.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

Assorted Packet of Forty-eight Tracts, 6d. For Free Distribution, 7s. 6d. per 1000.

I. "Mamma, I am God's!"
II. The Happy Child and the Wicked Mother.
III. The Little Swiss Girl.
IV. The Persecuted Boy.
V. The Happy Meeting.
VI. The Little Worker.
VII. "Jesus, take Me!"
VIII. The Love of Jesus.
IX. "Do you Love Jesus?"
X. "Jairus' Daughter."
XI. "I Love the Saviour, and I want others to do the same."
XII. Jesus in the Heart.

In the Press, and will shortly be ready.

GATHERED LAMBS.

Showing how Jesus, the Good Shepherd, laid down His life for us; and how little children have been gathered into the fold.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

With Numerous Illustrations. Tinted Covers, 6d.; Cloth, 1s.

I. Jesus, the Good Shepherd.
II. Trust in Jesus.
III. Christ's Love towards Children.
IV. "Do you Love Him?"
V. A Story for Little Christians.
&c., &c.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Just Ready, Four Pages 4to. Price 2s. per 100; 18s. 6d. per 1000.

A NEW YEAR'S GIFT FOR 1885.

CONTAINING

"TIT FOR TAT." An excellent Story by Rev. C. J. Whitmore. With full-page Illustration.

Poem: "Begin with the New Year."

"Honour thy Father and thy Mother." By D. L. Moody.

"DON'T SWEAR." An Incident from the life of Howard the Philanthropist.

"Cut off by the Tide." A New Year's Warning.

"REMEMBER THE SABBATH DAY;" or, Does Sunday Labour Pay?

With several Engravings, and an appropriate selection of Scripture Texts.

Christians will find the New Year's Gift an excellent medium for sending to unconverted friends a few seasonable words of Gospel truth and exhortation; and very attractive for gratuitous distribution.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Price One Penny. 7s. 6d. per 100. Twelve copies and upwards sent post free.

The Christian Sheet Almanac for 1885.

Attractively printed in Red and Black, on a large sheet, 21 in. by 31 in.

Containing selected Scripture Texts for every day in the year, Postal Information, &c.

FIVE EXCELLENT ILLUSTRATIONS.

Mounted on Roller and Varnished, 1s. 6d.; Varnished, with Eyelet Holes, 9d.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.

DEEDS WEIGHTIER THAN WORDS.

Earnest Thoughts on the Temperance Question.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

OUR CHRISTIAN MOTHERS AND SISTERS.

Showing the effect of Home Influence.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE CRUELTIES OF HOSPITALITY.

Plain Words to Christians.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WHAT TIES THE TONGUE.

Showing the importance of Christian Total Abstinence.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

FACTS STRONGER THAN THEORIES.

A Series of Narratives showing what one glass often leads to.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE POWER OF SILENT EXAMPLE.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

HOME-LIFE RESPONSIBILITIES.

Showing the influence one life has upon another for good or evil, in strengthening or weakening, everywhere, but most of all in our home life.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WHAT OUR SERVANTS MAY DO.

Being instances of good that has been done by Christian Servants; and how homes have often been blessed by their influence.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

CHILDREN'S PARTIES.

A Few Friendly Words suitable for the Present Season.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

EVENING PARTIES.

Being Instances of Harm arising from the Practice of Wine-drinking at Parties.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE WORTH OF COMMON SENSE.

"Pity it is that Christian sympathy without Christian common sense often misleads, misguides, and hinders. How jealous should the servants of the Master be to follow to the fullest His example who went about 'doing good.'"—EXTRACT.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WHAT WE GAIN AND WHAT WE LOSE.

Do we Gain or Lose Influence by the Position we take in regard to the Total Abstinence Question?

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

OUR HOMES.

A Series of 12 Small Books on Christian Temperance, described above.

BY MRS. G. S. REANEY.

Assorted Packet containing one of each sort, price 6d.

These Small Books are specially adapted for enclosure in the modern square envelope.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

President, The Rt. Hon. the Earl of SHAFTESBURY, K.G.
ESTABLISHED 1822.

For the purpose of employing humble Christian men well versed in the Scriptures to visit and read the Bible from house to house throughout the country. The Scripture Readers are invariably placed under carefully selected Christian Superintendents, and are also employed by the Society in the large towns and cities, such as Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, &c., as City Missionaries, and visit all classes and denominations, where permitted so to do. Irish-speaking Readers are sent to Irish-speaking districts when required, but are now seldom or ever asked for. The work is carried on in a spirit of love, and not of controversy.

The Scripture Readers also visit amongst the Sailors in seaports and hold Bethel Meetings on board Ships, at hours not to interfere with the usual Public Services. The Society is supported by voluntary contributions.

OFFICES:

27, LOWER PEMBROKE STREET, DUBLIN;
AND 9, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

Full particulars, reports, &c., can be obtained post free on application to the Secretary, Capt. JAMES KEARNEY WHITE, or by the Proprietors of this paper.

NOTE.—Subscriptions or Donations may be sent to the above addresses, or will be received by the Proprietors of "THE CHRISTIAN."

Friends will please notice the exact title "Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland," and not "Irish Scripture Readers' Society."

Pocket size. In Neat Wrapper, 2d. In Cloth, 6d.

THE COMING OF THE LORD.

AN ADDRESS BY

Rev. NEWMAN HALL, LL.B.

"Only a small essay on this most glorious theme, but we welcome it from the pen of our brother, who has kept his thoughts largely to Scripture, letting the Word of God attest its own truth. It might most profitably be circulated."—Footsteps of Truth.

"A little treatise on the Second Advent, showing the mistakes in the popular mind respecting it, and what should be the action of professing Christians in looking and preparing for it."—Christian World.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

By the Author of "THE STARLESS CROWN."

THE LITTLE HARP OF GOLD.

Price 3d. per dozen; 2s. per 100.

But beyond the grief and weeping,
Far beyond the skies so cold,
Clad in white and shining raiment,
Bertie held his harp of gold.

And above the sounds of mourning,
Bertie's spirit seemed to say,
"Weep no more, for I am learning
On my golden harp to play!"

"NOT IN VAIN;"

OR, THE TEACHER AND HER SCHOLARS.

Price 3d. per dozen; 2s. per 100.

"I have laboured in vain," a teacher said,
With sorrowful look and tone;
"I have laboured in vain!"—and she bowed her head,
And bitter and sad were the tears she shed,
As she sat in her chamber alone.

"I am weary and worn, and my hands are weak;
My courage has well-nigh flown:
For none give heed to the words I speak,
And in vain for a promise of fruit I seek,
Where the seed of the Word is sown."

A CHILD'S FAITH.

Price 6d. per dozen; 3s. 6d. per 100.

The tide of grief
O'er the widow swept;
She dropped her sewing,
And moaned and wept;
And the cloud of sorrow
So veiled the sky,
She scarce remembered
The God on high.

But one of her children
Just four years old,
With her pale face pinched
With hunger and cold,
But a sweet soft light
In her fair blue eye,
Crept close and whispered,
"Why do you cry?"

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BOOKS FOR YOUNG MEN BEGINNING LIFE.

TALKS WITH YOUNG MEN. By J. THAIN DAVIDSON, D.D. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"Fine manly advice, full of grace and truth. Enlivened by story and proverb, fresh with sympathy, and on fire with zeal."—Sword and Trowel.

OUR BROTHERS and SONS. By Mrs. G. S. REANEY, Author of "Our Daughters," &c. New Edition. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"One of her best books, written in excellent English, and with a racy, earnest pen."—Evangelical Magazine.

GUIDES AND GUARDS IN CHARACTER BUILDING. By C. H. PAYNE, D.D., LL.D. Handsomely bound, 5s.

"Admirably done. A capital book to put into a young man's hand."—British Quarterly Review.

TACT, PUSH, AND PRINCIPLE. By W. M. THAYER, Author of "Log Cabin to White House." Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"Will stimulate many a young man to steady and determined exertion."—Daily Telegraph.

LIFE, FUNCTION, HEALTH: Studies for Young Men. By H. SINCLAIR PATERSON, M.D. Complete in one Vol., pp. 600, 3s. 6d.

"Dr. Paterson's excellent book might be studied with profit and advantage by every young man in the kingdom."—Knowledge.

A YOUNG MAN'S SAFEGUARD IN THE PERILS OF THE AGE. By W. GUEST, F.G.S. Thirteenth Thousand. Handsomely bound, 2s. 6d.

Sir Wm. M'Arthur says:—"I have circulated many of your 'Safeguards.' I know no book like it for young men."

Mr. Spurgeon: "It has rarely been our lot to read a book which we have so much enjoyed, and could so unhesitatingly recommend."

CAPITAL FOR WORKING BOYS. Chapters on Character Building. By J. E. M'CONAUGHY. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"The amount of good solid advice crowded into this handsome volume and interspersed with illustrative living examples is simply wonderful."—Christian.

THE JUNIOR CLERK. A Tale of City Life. By EDWIN HODDER. 14th Edition. Handsomely bound, 2s. 6d.

"An excellent little book to place in the hands of young lads just entering into the world."—Spectator.

London: HODDER & STOUGHTON, 27, Paternoster-row.

PRINTING.

ORDERS EARNESTLY SOLICITED.

Mr. FEGAN'S rescued Street-Arabs, under supervision of first-class Master Printers, and with extensive machinery and large assortment of type, execute at THE HOME all kinds of commercial and other printing.

Memo. Forms, Billheads, Cards, Circulars, &c.

Posters, Window Bills, Handbills, &c.

Reports, Sermons, Tracts, Text Cards, &c.

Several striking novelties for announcing Mission Services. Send for samples.

ALL GOODS CARRIAGE PAID.

Tracts 10,000 for £1. Cards 5s. 6d. per 1,000.

Please send sample of printing you usually require and ask for estimate, stating quantity ordered at a time. For price, style, and despatch, we do not fear competition. Address

MR. FEGAN,
The Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-street, S.E.

MY REDEEMER.

NEW ILLUMINATED WALL TEXTS.

14 by 10½ inches. Twelve in Packet. 2s. post free.

⁂ This is the cheapest and most effective set of Illuminated Texts ever issued.

List of Texts on application.

London: JOHN G. WHEELER, 88, Mildmay-park, N.

Tinted Covers, 4d.; Cloth, 6d.

THE ENQUIRY ROOM.

Hints for Dealing with the Anxious.

By GEORGE SOLTAU.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

The Christian.

THE CHURCH AT PRAYER.

DURING the first week of the New Year, as of many previous years, the Church of Christ has been upon her knees. Has she been saying her prayers, or has she prayed? Perhaps, in some cases, she has only said prayers, but we believe that to a very great extent she has really poured out her soul to God. We must not think that the Week of Prayer has only been observed at public meetings of the saints. It may be that the spirit of grace and of supplications has been chiefly manifested in those who, like Hannah, in bitterness of soul have wept sore, and out of the abundance of their complaint and grief have spoken to the Lord; or, again, in those who, like Elisabeth, Mary, and Zacharias have been filled with the Holy Ghost, and have blessed the Lord God of Israel who hath visited and redeemed his people, as He spake by the mouth of all his prophets who have been since the world began, and have rejoiced in that the Dayspring from on high hath visited us, to give light to them that sit in darkness and the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.

In the public assemblies, also, we doubt not that prayer has been very generally made with faith unfeigned; for it is not the formal professors, but the genuine believers and workers and givers, who are drawn together in the Week of Prayer.

On Monday we praised God for what He is to us; on Tuesday we mourned before Him for what we have been to Him; on Wednesday we prayed for the Church of Christ.

What a wonderful word that is—the Church of Christ! What is it? Not the building into which we congregate, but the body of true believers who have been called out from the world—the people taken out of the nations for his name. A great mystery attaches to the Church; indeed, she is a mystery. Her being dates back before creation, for every member of the mystical body was known and chosen before the foundation of the world. Just as Eve was in Adam, so was the Church in Christ; and as God took the rib out of Adam's side and builded a woman to be his helpmate, so that he said, "This is now bone of my bone and flesh of my flesh," so is the Church to Christ, for we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones. As Eve was the help meet for Adam, his companion, his Isha, so is the Church the bride of Christ, the fulness of Him that filleth all in all. Out of the sleeping Adam Eve was taken; out of the second Adam sleeping the sleep of death was his Eve taken: for He loved the Church and gave Himself for it, that He might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the Word, that He might present it to Himself a glorious Church, not having spot or wrinkle or any such thing.

The Church and the Bible are the two divine things upon the earth now. For the sake of the Church, and working by the truth treasured in the written Word, the seven Spirits of God, which are like lamps of fire before the throne, run to and fro through the whole earth.

We are not now thinking of the Church as under dispensational distinctions, but in its largest sense as inclusive of all the redeemed—that body whose infancy and childhood were in the patriarchal age from Adam to Moses; whose period of bondage under the schoolmaster was from Moses to Christ; and whose manhood is from Christ's first coming to the end: according to Gal. iv.

Perhaps no hymn was more generally sung on Wednesday than that in which a man of God in the past century declared the glory of the Church of Christ:—

> "Glorious things of thee are spoken,
> Zion, city of our God:
> He whose word cannot be broken
> Formed thee for his own abode.
> On the Rock of Ages founded,
> What can shake thy sure repose;
> By salvation's walls surrounded
> Thou may'st smile at all thy foes."

There could be no surer antidote to the loose and vapid speculations of a so-called new theology, than a return to the old paths in which our fathers walked, who embodied their theology in such words as the hymn just quoted, or, again, in such as this:—

> "How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord,
> Is laid for your faith in his excellent Word."

All sound doctrine is built on this firm and sure foundation; there can be no full assurance of hope which is not as an anchor taking hold within the veil upon the eternal purpose and promise and covenant of God to his people foreknown and predestinated and chosen in Christ before the foundation of the world. Unless we hold fast the beginning of our confidence stedfast unto the end we cannot claim to use the words, "Whose house are we." What a high responsibility to hold fast the form of sound words, what a warning not to be blown about by every wind of doctrine, is implied in such a title as "the house of God, the Church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth." What assured security in and deliverance out of all manner of tribulation is contained in the title given to the persecuted Church of the Thessalonians—"the Church which is in God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ!"

But in the Apocalypse, the Unveiling, in which Scripture culminates, the topstone, the flower, the glory of the Book of God, the calling and character, the history and destiny of the Church is specially manifested, and her consummated glory is revealed.

First, there are seven churches, as there are seven spirits, yet it is one Spirit, and one Church. He, the seven eyes of the Lord: she, the sevenfold light of the world. The seven letters reveal her inward condition on the earth, her works and her weakness, her virtues and her sins, her true and false brethren, her faithfulness under persecution, her seduction when at ease—a painful picture, brightened only by the presence of the First and the Last and the Living One, who has died, who lives, and who is alive for evermore; and by his promises to him that overcometh.

In the two following visions (iv.), we see the Church, the Royal Priesthood, in heaven; the elders and the living creatures in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne; for even now we know in part "what is the exceeding greatness of his power to usward who believe, according to the working of his mighty power which He wrought in Christ when he raised Him from the dead, and set Him at his own right hand in the heavenly places . . . and raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus" (Eph i., ii.).

And now, having strengthened John, and us, by the revelation of what his eternal purpose is towards us in Christ, He lifts the veil from the "much tribulation" through which we must inherit the Kingdom of God. First the Gospel, then war and pestilence and famine; for He, who is the Gospel, had forewarned, "I am come not to bring peace on earth, but a sword." Then the souls of the martyred ones cry from under the altar, as the blood of Abel from the ground, "How long, O Lord!" And He shows what the end will be, when the men of the earth cry to the rocks to cover them from the wrath of the Enthroned One and the Lamb (vi.).

But the winds of trouble cannot blow until the elect of God are sealed every one with the Father's name in his forehead, 12,000 out of every tribe of Israel, for "they are not all Israel which are of Israel; . . . the children of the promise are counted for the seed" (cp. Rom. ix.). And the children of the promise are not confined to Abraham's flesh; the people taken out of the nations for his name are of all nations, and kindreds, and peoples, and tongues; and though they are a definite number named and sealed, yet are they a great multitude which no man can number. John sees them sealed on earth before the angels are suffered to loose the winds which are to hurt the earth and sea; but "after this," he sees them when they have come out of the great tribulation in which the much tribulation has culminated, shepherded by the Lamb, in whose blood they have washed their robes and made them white, serving day and night in his temple, God, who has wiped away all tears from their eyes (vii.).

The scene changes again to earth, and, as in the Epistle to the Hebrews, the saints are at the throne of Grace, and with their prayers the Covenant Angel mingles much incense on the golden altar at which He stands before the throne. "And the smoke of the incense, with the prayers of the saints, ascended up before God out of the Angel's hand." Immediately judgments follow (viii.), for at men's peril do they disobey the command, "Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm."

Another vision shows the Angel of the Covenant having on his head the rainbow, which had previously been seen encircling the throne, roaring like a lion over the earth and sea, which He had redeemed, and giving to John the little book, the Bible, that through him all his brethren and fellow-servants of Jesus Christ might learn that only by eating up and inwardly digesting the Word of God can anyone be qualified to prophesy before peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings (x.).

It is the business of all the members of Christ to be his witnesses—

> "'Tis all my business here below,
> To cry, Behold the Lamb."

and the following chapter (xi.) shows the Holy Ghost power given to the witnesses (cp. Acts i. 8), its effect in tormenting those who dwell on the earth, and its result in their killing the witnesses, but preserving the dead form.

Time fails to speak particularly of the further visions of the Church—the woman in heaven clothed with the sun, and the remnant of her seed on earth; the 144,000 God's elect, no longer on earth, but without fault before the throne of God; encouraged to suffer by "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord;" reaped as the harvest and gathered into his garner by the Son of Man Himself; standing on the sea of glass, having the harps of God, singing the redemption song of Moses and the Lamb; the false church as the harlot, and the true Church as the bride, the Lamb's wife; blessed and holy sufferers for the witness of Jesus, partakers of the first resurrection, reigning with Christ a thousand years; the holy city, New Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.

"And the Spirit and the bride say, Come; and let him that heareth say, Come; and let him that is athirst come; and whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely. Surely I come quickly. Amen. Even so, come Lord Jesus!"

This is the Church of Christ, and this is the Church at prayer. A consecrated and Bible-nourished witness of Jesus; suffering in the flesh, but strengthened with all might by the Spirit in the inner man; beseeching everyone who will to come; entreating in Christ's stead, Be ye reconciled to God, (2 Cor. v.), with her face ever upward to her Lord, praying, "Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly."

Shall there be no result? Let but the Church of God continue as she has begun the year, praising God, confessing her own sins, pleading for every member of the body of Christ, for families and schools, for the nations, and for missions, home and foreign, —praying in the Holy Ghost—and this shall surely be the best year the Church of Jesus Christ has ever known—for the path of the just ones is as the shining light, shining more and more unto the perfect day.

◆

SAILORS IN NAPLES.

IN sending us the following notes of meetings, a correspondent says:—"It is most cheering to us English, resident in Naples, to see the great improvement in the conduct of English sailors of late." On December 28, about 190 persons met together in the Bethel Ship at Naples, to enjoy a social tea-meeting. All the captains in port (eleven in number) ushered in the New Year at the house of Mr. S. Burrowes, the Harbour Missionary, and, on the evening of January 1, fifty seamen had a tea-meeting at the newly established "Sailors' Rest," Via Piliero. The result of these social meetings is most cheering; not one seaman has been seen the worse for drinking during this festive season, either in the ships or on shore. The Gospel services in the Bethel are better attended than formerly, and many are realising the mighty power of God's grace.

"CHESTNUT CHRISTIANS."

AN American minister quaintly said, "Many Christians are like chestnuts: very pleasant nuts, but enclosed in very prickly burs, which require various dealings of nature and her grip of frost before the kernel is disclosed."

This reminds me of an incident in my experience. Some years ago, when walking with a dear friend in the West-end of London, we happened to meet a lady truly eminent for her good works, but, alas! possessing a stern, sombre expression of countenance. I remarked to my friend, "That lady is a very earnest Christian." She replied, "I would not like to make her acquaintance, judging from her face." Here was one of Christ's servants repelling instead of attracting to Himself. Truly it has been said, "Gloominess, irritability, discontent, and touchiness are four things more catching than cholera."

Let each one seek by help Divine to extract these very "prickly burs," that bring discredit on the Name we bear. We all pray that we may glorify God and hallow his name; with what vigilance, then, should we watch over our walk in the way of holiness. A Christian once beautifully wrote: "A holy life is made up of a number of small things. Little words, not eloquent speeches; little deeds, not great heroic acts; the little constant sunbeam, not the great lightning flash; the sweet waters of Siloam, that go softly in their meek mission of refreshment, not the waters of the river great and many, rushing down in torrent noise and force: these are the true symbols of a holy life. The avoidance of little evils, little sins, little inconsistencies, little weaknesses, little indulgences of self, and of the flesh—the avoidance of such little things goes far to make up at least the negative beauty of a holy life."

Why are God's children often so cold and reserved to each other? Why do they allow our insular shyness to hinder that sweet interchange of communion so helpful and refreshing, as hand presses hand, and heart responds to heart, uniting to speed and to brighten with pure love and sympathy the way to heaven. The cause for gloom frequently arises from grief over dear ones far from the fold. But if we only trusted Jesus more we should be spared many fears and many tears. Let us cast all our cares on God, believing He will in his own time abundantly answer our prayers. Then we shall glorify him by pressing on with cheerful, restful hearts.

Let us live without a to-morrow. Jesus said, "Take no thought for the morrow." What peace and joy obedience to this command sheds o'er the life, only those who have experienced it, by grace, can fully know. We must ever be on the watch against Satan's wiles, for "whom he can't destroy he is sure to annoy." By unworthy, petty scruples he seeks to make the lives of God's children vexatious to themselves and to all around. It does not do "to pray cream and then live only skim milk." O Lord, may thy servants hallow thy name, serving Thee with gladness, with the fruit of thy Spirit abiding and abounding to thy glory and praise. C.

QUARRYMEN.—I am greatly in want of religious magazines and periodicals for distribution amongst the men employed in the slate quarry here. Would you kindly ask your readers to forward me occasionally any back numbers of THE CHRISTIAN and other suitable reading matter, addressed as below. I shall be deeply grateful for such help.

Yours truly, EDWARD J. HILL.
Abergoyle, Stirling, N.B.

THE CHURCH AND THE WORLD.

SEEING an announcement last week that Canon Westcott was to give a lecture at Westminster Abbey on the "Revised Version," I went to hear it, being much interested in the subject. The lecture was mainly directed to showing the advantage which the Revised Version possesses over its authorised rival in accurate rendering of the original, and especially in its avoiding the habit of varying the English rendering of the same Greek word, thereby losing the connection of thought in many passages. One instance, out of many which were given, was the improved rendering of 1 John v. 19—where "The whole world lieth in wickedness," is changed into "The whole world lieth in the evil one;" thus keeping up the connection of thought with the same words "the evil one" which occur in the previous verse, "The evil one toucheth him not." Dr. Westcott then pointed out the profound truth thus brought to light, that as Christians are "in Christ"—a fact alluded to in the next verse—so is the whole world "in the evil one."

How suggestive is this thought, and how much of deeply solemn and important truth comes out as it is followed up! The Church is "in Christ" for safety, judgment past, and glory secured—the glory which He has won. So is the world in the evil one for doom, judgment yet to come, and that the very judgment which awaits them: "Depart ye cursed into everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels." The Church is also "in Christ" for present help, influence, and guidance, his Spirit working in them. So is the world in "the evil one" for influence and guidance. Satan is spoken of in Eph. ii. 2 as "The spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience." What a contrast is thus presented between the Church and the world, both as to present position and future prospects; and yet, alas! how blind the world are, or rather blinded, to their danger. This, however, can hardly be wondered at, as it is the policy of the god of this world to "blind the minds of them which believe not lest the light of the glorious Gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them." But what is to be wondered at is that Christians who are "led by the Spirit of God" should be so influenced as they are by the spirit of the world as to pay court to its wisdom, philosophy, and science, even when they run counter to what God has taught us in his Word; and, stranger still, that they should ignore the separation which God has drawn so distinctly between the two spheres, and treat the world as if it were the Church, in spite of the solemn words, "We are of God, and the whole world lieth in the wicked one." H. E. B.

BOOK DISTRIBUTION SOCIETY.—DEAR SIR,—The members of this society are very thankful for the help you have rendered in giving back numbers of your publication, which have been sent out weekly to the poor people in the neighbourhood. We send out 150 books weekly. There is at the present time only enough to last for a fortnight, and we should therefore be greatly obliged if you would further help us in this good work. We have met with several proofs of the good that the papers are doing. One man stepped in to hear them read instead of going to the public-house. Some who cared nothing about salvation have been led to see things in a different light. The people are very glad to get the papers; if a week is missed they are very sorry. These books are only sent to the very poorest, who are not able to procure them for themselves. W. F. BRETT, Hon. Sec.
14, Sidney-road, Homerton, E.

INDUSTRIAL TRAINING FOR GIRLS.

THE remarkable article by Mr. Samuel Smith, in this month's Contemporary Review, has roused in me a deeper sense than ever of the crying need of giving our rough little working-class girls more industrial training than we have as yet been able to accomplish, especially in the matter of cooking, which, in connection with our training homes and free registry offices, has been much on my mind, though hitherto as an unsolved problem. But I am thankful to say that one of our associates is bringing out a little practical manual called "Three Courses for Threepence" (Hatchards, Piccadilly), which I hope will do a great deal towards its solution.

The most hopeful feature, I think, of the great movement among women which is silently going on all round us, is that we are beginning to look upon our culture and educational advantages as a trust for our toiling fellow-women who have had no such opportunities; or, in dear old Sir Thomas Browne's words, "to make our heads the treasury and not the grave of knowledge"—a treasury from which we can dispense brightness and refinement to the lives of our people who bear the hard menial work of life for us.

I think on no matter do we more need to refine and raise our working women than on this matter of the art of cooking. Wordsworth rightly associates "plain living" and "high thinking" together; but I have often wondered how much low thinking is due to coarse living, with its two extremes of heavy indigestible feeding, and the equally dyspeptic underfeeding. I have often thought —perhaps a little materialistically—how very hard it must be to be spiritually-minded on bullock's-liver dumpling, and how very hard to have the courage of one's opinions and be what a dear old charwoman of mine used to call a come-out "Christian" on weak tea and bread and butter. That these marvels of grace are so often accomplished, says much for the grace but little for the training we give our people, which gives them no knowledge of cheap nourishing food in hard times, and no nice dishes when times are good.

Often have I wondered how much of the charming manners and superior bearing of the French peasant is owing to his better style of living, and its greater refinement, even when combined with far greater frugality, while poor English Hodge is left to nourish his soul on greasy bacon and the inevitable bullock's liver and suet dumpling. The sparkling salad, the tasty omelette, tossed up in a few moments, the savoury messes made out of little, all are unknown to him.

Of course I shall at once be met by the objection that English Hodge's stomach would heave at such fare, and can only find its centre of rest in the old accustomed suet dumpling and greasy bacon. But, surely, the human stomach is an organ that can be educated as well as the human brain, and its unintelligent heavings are the result of knowing no better, like the equally unnourishing prejudices of the brain. It is no more "a finished and finite clod" than any other part of us.

> "Man partly is, and wholly hopes to be,"

is as true of his culinary tastes as of any other part of his nature, the very law of which is to grow. Do not let us think that we English folk are under a Calvinistic decree to cook badly, or sink into fatalists of the fryingpan. Let us set vigorously to work to bring about a better state of things, and educate that central organ of our common humanity, which, if it is slow to move and conservative to a fault in its tastes, is still marked by a fine permanence of character, never knowing religious deadness or intellectual torpor, but making its hungry claims heard through all changes and chances of this mortal life. Would that our higher nature had half its fine persistency!

Let us take heart. The education given in our elementary schools is still far too exclusively "booky," and will probably remain so till that obvious want is recognised, a lady inspector for our girls' schools; and we emerge, as we are gradually doing, from our present topsy-turvy world of fathers and no mothers. But, at least, our elementary education is becoming more practical, and is coming down from those barren heights where, like Tennyson's mountain nymph, it has lingered "with death and mourning," to dwell in the habitable valleys of ordinary daily life. It has already solved in a great measure that terrible problem presented under the old voluntary system by a factory girl, who simply did not know how to hold a needle, but who handled that delicate little weapon with which the great battle of thrift must be fought, as if it were a kitchen skewer, and to whom a long seam presented all the terrors of the unknown. A factory girl who marries is no longer reduced, in her utter ignorance how to cut out a shirt, to the daring expedient that I heard of one enterprising woman resorting to, of making her unfortunate partner prostrate himself on the stuff, and then cutting out his manly form with her scissors. Our girls, whether they go into factory life or not, are all taught to cut out and make in our schools, though often not in a sufficiently practical way, and with often a sinful expenditure of eyesight on impossible patching and idealistic darning.

And now there are some faint signs of the great cooking problem being attacked in our girls' schools. The question is beginning to dawn upon us, what advantage it is to a working man that his wife should know the names and heights of all the mountains in Europe, if he himself dwells in a dead level of bad cooking and thriftless meals. How much of the drinking habits of our people are due to their miserable, badly-cooked food, the absence of home comfort in the tasty, well-prepared meal, and the longing in the master of the house to wash his mouth out at the publichouse after such poor, ill-tasting fare?

But whatever help we get from our elementary schools in the future it will always want largely supplementing by voluntary means; and for the present it is by voluntary means that the difficulty must be almost wholly met. I would therefore earnestly commend to the attention of all who have the training of the young this little manual of elementary cooking. They are not theoretical receipts, but receipts which have been carried out in a small, free registry office, with very imperfect appliances. Especially I would urge on my own fellow-workers who have started preventive work on the Bristol plan—free registry office and training home, clothing club, and visitation—or who are about to do so* to endeavour to set on foot a cooking class, and work through these receipts. If the children take away the dinner, and pay the penny that the material cost, the difficulty of the expense that cooking lessons entail is at once met; and surely if we could train our little girls to take a little more pride in household duties, we should not only enhance their value as little servants, but we should have given them the knowledge, which is most certain to be valuable to them in their after life, and most likely to conduce to the comfort of home.

May I, in conclusion, suggest that this most useful work need not be confined to free registry offices, training homes, and industrial schools? Why should our Lord's work—and surely all that ministers to the comfort of home is his work, whether it be reading a chapter or cooking a dinner—be thrust aside into institutions, because it does not get so much in our way, and spoils our carpets less than in our own homes. If we say that our bodies are not our own, surely then much less our houses. How is it that so few of us give our houses to Him, and look upon them as He meant them to be, as centres for teaching fine manners, nice ways, and good household management?

Why should not the Saturday cooking class be a possibility in our own kitchens, a few of the elder girls of the nearest elementary school, with our own children, learning to cook these simple dishes, the children of the house consuming the meal they have cooked, and so getting to know practically how to provide a meal for a penny, and the school children paying the penny and taking theirs home? A small payment to our own servant for the trouble of teaching, and a little help from one of the girls in cleaning up the kitchen would, I think, secure the objection not coming from her.

I can only state that a friend of my own, the wife of a leading professor at Cambridge, has tried a far more formidable experiment, and found it answer. On the occasion of some great changes taking place in her household, and most of her servants leaving, she replaced them by twelve respectable but rough little girls, whom she placed under her daughter's ci-devant governess, a French lady, to be trained and then drafted into service. Those children not only did the whole work of a large house, but did all the French cooking for large dinner parties, as well as waiting on the guests. And excellently they did it, with but one peculiarity, that they had an irresistible propensity to stand hand-in-hand.

May God help us both to bring up our own children with far more household knowledge than we do, and at an age when all manual work is a healthful diversion from too much brain work; and enable us to say, in the most literal sense, "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

ELLICE HOPKINS.

Percy House, Brighton.

---

* See "HOW TO START PREVENTIVE WORK." Price 2d. Hatchards, Piccadilly.

◆

Y.W.C.A, SCARBOROUGH.

DEAR SIR,—The work of this institution is specially intended for the young women employed in the houses of business in the town. We want to shelter them from the many snares and temptations which abound in this gay watering-place, especially in the summer season. For the past five years we have rented a small house where Bible and other classes have been held weekly; besides, occasionally, evangelistic meetings. The lease expires in April next, and we are strongly urged to take a larger house, capable of accommodating not less than twenty girls; at present we can only take in eight. Sufficient encouragement has been given us to make us feel we should "enlarge our borders." A house admirably adapted to our purpose is now at liberty; but we need considerable additional funds for furnishing and fitting it up, &c.

Are there any among your readers who will kindly give us some practical help towards this end? We feel that our plea is a good one; and acknowledging with grateful hearts "all the way that the Lord our God has led us," we earnestly desire to "go forward" as He shall lead us.—Yours faithfully, (MISS) ANNIE DOUGLAS DALE.

Joint Hon. Secretary.

Kilmorie, The Valley, Scarborough.]

"The Christian" Pulpit.

GOD'S ANGER AGAINST THE WICKED.

By the late CHARLES G. FINNEY,
Author of "Lectures on Revivals," &c.

"God is angry with the wicked every day."—PSALM vii. 11.

THE Bible divides the whole human race into two classes only, the righteous and the wicked. Those are righteous who have true faith in Christ, whose spirit is consecrated to God, who have been renewed by the Holy Ghost, and who live a heavenly life on earth. Their original selfishness is subdued and slain, and they live a new life through the ever-present grace of the Lord Jesus Christ. Right over against them in character are the wicked, who have not been renewed in heart; who live in selfishness, under the dominion of the desires of the flesh and of the mind. Self is the great and only ultimate end of their life. These are in the Scriptural sense the wicked.

(1) God is angry with the wicked. Our text explicitly affirms this. The same truth is affirmed and implied in numerous other passages. Let the sinner remember that this is the testimony of God Himself. Who should better know the feelings of God towards sinners than God Himself? Who on this point can gainsay God? But this truth is also taught by reason. Every man in the exercise of reason knows it to be true. If God were not opposed to the wicked He would be wicked Himself for not opposing them. What would you think of a judge who did not oppose law-breakers? Would you think him an honest man if he did not take side against transgressors? Sinners know that God is angry with them, and ought to be, though they may not realise it. Else why are they afraid to die, why afraid to meet God face to face in the world of retribution? Would they have this fear if they did not know that God is angry with them for their sin?

(2) Note the nature of God's anger. It is not a malicious anger. God is never malicious: He never has a disposition to do any wrong in any way to any being. Nor is God's anger in any sense a selfish anger: He is not selfish in the least degree, but infinitely the reverse. But his anger against the wicked does imply an entire disapprobation of their character and conduct, so utterly opposed to his own character, and his own views of right.

Nor is his anger merely against the sin abstracted from the sinner, but against the sinner himself. Some persons have laboured hard to set up this absurd abstraction, and would fain make it appear that God is angry at the sin, yet not with the sinner; He abhors adultery, but is pleased with the adulterer. This cannot be. The act is nothing apart from the actor. It grieves and displeases Him that a rational moral agent under his government should array himself against his own God and Father, and against all that is right and just in the universe. This is the thing that offends God. The sinner himself is the direct and the only object of his anger. If the wicked turn not, God will whet his sword: He hath bent his bow, and made it ready—not to shoot the sin, but the sinner, the wicked man who has done the abominable thing.

(3) The reasons for God's anger against the wicked demand attention. Causeless anger is always sinful. "Whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment." God never Himself violates his own laws, founded as they are in infinite right and justice. God's reasons exist for his anger, and He is angry for those reasons. Wicked men are entirely unreasonable. Their conduct is at war with all reason and with all right. God has given them intelligence and conscience, but they act in opposition to both. So when God looks at the unreasonable conduct of sinners He feels the strongest indignation and displeasure.

The course of the wicked is utterly ruinous. No thanks to the sinner if his influence does not ruin multitudes. By the laws of mind the sin of any one man tends to influence other men to sin, and they spread far and wide the dreadful contagion of his example. He sets the example of rebellion against the supreme government of all worlds. And what influence can be more potent than that of example? No thanks to him if every man who sees his sin does not imitate it to his own ruin, and throw the power of his own example broadcast over all his associates. No thanks to any sinner if his own influence for ruin does not run like fire on the prairies over all the world, and then over every other world of moral beings in the universe of God.

Think of the father of a family living in his sins and exerting his great influence over his household to make them all as wicked as himself. Who can estimate the power of his influence over his wife and his children? Does he pray with them and seek to lead them to God? No; his example is prayerless. It proclaims every day to his family—"You have no occasion at all to pray; you see I can live without prayer." Does he read the Bible to them or with them? No; his constant example before them sets the Bible at nought. His whole influence therefore is ruinous to the souls of his family. No thanks to him if they do not all go down to hell along with himself. Has not God good reason to be angry with him? Why not? Would not you feel that you had good reasons to be angry with a man who should come into your family to destroy its peace—to seduce your wife and daughters, and to entice your sons into some pathway of crime and ruin?

Now do not all families belong to God in a far higher sense than any man's family belong to himself? Why then has not God as good reasons for anger against a wicked father as you could have against a villain who should plot and seek to effect the ruin of your family? Is it wonderful to you that God should be angry with every wicked father? Just consider what that father is doing by his bare example—even supposing that his words are well-guarded and not particularly liable to objection. It does not need the help of teaching to make its power felt for terrible mischief.

Again, God is so good, and sinners are so wicked, He cannot but be angry with them. If He were not angry with the wicked, He would be as much worse than they as He is wiser than they. Since in his wisdom and knowledge He knows more fully than they do the great evil of sin, by so much the more is He under necessity to be displeased with sin and angry with the sinner. We sometimes hear men say, "God is too good to be angry with sinners." What do men mean by this language? Do they mean that God is too good to be opposed to all evil—too good to be displeased with all evil-doers? This were indeed a strange goodness! God too good to hate sin—too good to oppose sinners! What sort of goodness can this be?

(4) As to the duration of God's anger against the wicked, it manifestly must continue as long as the wickedness itself continues. As long as wicked men continue wicked, so long must God be angry with them every day. If they turn not, there can be no abatement, no cessation of his anger. This is so plain that everybody must know it.

(5) The terrible condition of the sinner against whom God is angry. This dreadful truth that God is angry with the wicked every day, sinners know, but do not realise. Yet it were well for you who are sinners to apprehend and estimate this just as it is.

Look at the attributes of God. Who and what is God? Is He not a Being whose wrath against you is to be dreaded? You often feel that it is a terrible thing to incur the displeasure of man. Children are often exceedingly afraid of the anger of their parents. Any child has reason to feel that it is a terrible state of things, when he has done wrong and knows it must come to the knowledge of his father and his mother, and must arouse their keenest displeasure against himself—this is terrible, and no wonder a child should dread it. How much more has the sinner reason to fear and tremble when by his sin he has made the Almighty God his enemy!

Look at the natural attributes of God. Who can measure the extent of his Power? Who or what can resist his Will? He taketh up the isles as a very little thing, and the nations before Him are only as the small dust of the balance. When his wrath is kindled, who can stand before it, or stay its dreadful fury?

Think also of his Omniscience. He knows all you have done. Every act has passed underneath his eye; and not every external act, merely, but what is far more dreadful to you, every motive lying back of every act—all the most hidden workings of your heart. If you were only dealing with someone whom you could deceive, how you would set yourself at work to plan some deep scheme of deception; but all in vain here, for God knows it all. If it were a case between yourself and some human tribunal you might cover up many things; you might perjure yourself, or might bribe the dreaded witnesses; but before God no such measures can avail you for one moment. The whole truth will come out, dread its disclosures as much as you may. The darkness and the light are both alike to Him, and nothing can be hidden from his eye.

O, sinner, do you ever think of God's perfect holiness—the infinite purity of his heart? Do you ever think how intensely strong must be his opposition to your sin—to those sins of yours which are so bad even in your own view that you cannot bear to have many of your fellow-men know them? How do you suppose your guilty soul appears in the eye of the pure and holy God?

You often hear of God's mercy. You hope for some good to yourself, perhaps, from this attribute of his nature. Ah, if you had not spurned it, and trampled it under your feet! If you had not slighted and abused its manifestations to you, it might befriend you in your day of need;—but ah, how can you meet insulted mercy? What can you say for yourself in defence for having sinned against the richest mercy the world ever saw? Can you hope that God's injured mercy will befriend you? Nay, verily; God has not one attribute which is not armed against the unrepentant sinner. Such is his nature, and such is his character, that you have nothing to hope for, but everything to fear. His dreadful anger against you must be expressed. He may withhold its expression for a season to give the utmost scope for efforts to reclaim and save you; but should these efforts fail, then will not justice take her course? Will not Jehovah take measures to make his true position towards sinners known?

God's anger against the sinner, however, does not exclude love; real, tender, compassionate love. "God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." This love is not the love of complacency, but the love of well-wishing and good-willing; not the love of man as a sinner, but as a sentient being who may be infinitely happy in obedience to his God. What parent does not understand this? You have felt the kindlings of indignation against the wickedness of your child, but blended therewith has been all the compassionate tenderness of a parent's heart.

The sinner sometimes says, "It cannot be that God is angry with me, for He watches over me day by day; He feeds me from his table, and regales me with his bounties." God is slow to anger indeed, because He is long-suffering toward sinners, "not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance." But beware, lest you misinterpret his great forbearance, and that you do not misconceive his feelings towards you. "Kiss the Son, lest He be angry, and ye perish from the way, when his wrath is kindled but a little."

YOUNG CHILDREN AND TRUE PIETY.

BY REV. DR. W. S. PLUMER.*

THE revivals of modern times are full of interest. They are working out and bringing into prominence many great truths. Among them has been the appearance of a general and increased confidence in the possibility and reality of very early piety. Is it not true that many good men of former days doubted whether any child could be truly pious? And has not public sentiment, of late years, undergone a desirable change?

Rev. Moses Hoge, D.D., of Virginia, was a man greatly revered and beloved in his day. John Randolph, of Roanoke, pronounced him the most eloquent speaker he ever heard. He was the father of three eminent ministers of the Gospel, one of whom, Rev. James Hoge, D.D., of Columbus, Ohio, still lives to preach Christ. He also had several grandsons in the ministry. This venerable man, who died in 1822, often said to his friends that he could not remember the time when he did not love the Lord Jesus Christ. Was not this much better than to be able to remember the time when he hated the Saviour, and despised his blood and righteousness?

It requires no more intellect to love than to hate Christ, to please than to displease Him, to serve than to disobey Him. When Samuel J. Mills was yet a child, he was so overcome by a sense of his responsibilities, that he said, "Oh, my mother, I wish I had never been born." His mother did not dare to relieve his mind by any false view, and said, "My son, you are born." It would have required no more mind to have said with Halyburton, "Oh, blessed be God that ever I was born."

The first and one of the happiest deaths I ever witnessed, was that of a full-grown young man who was preparing for the ministry. I learned from reliable sources the history of his religious character. Among other things, I remember that, when he was not four years old, he set down his cup of bread-and-milk, and burst into tears. When his mother asked the cause, he answered, "I am afraid I shall die, and not live any more." Surely this child had then intellect enough to receive Christ as He is offered in the Gospel?

More than twenty-five years ago, I attended the meeting of a Presbytery in the South. There was preaching for several days. On the Sabbath the Lord's Supper was administered, and some persons were added to the church. Among them was a small boy. I had never seen so youthful a communicant. I was interested to know his subsequent history. The Monday after joining the church, he went to school as usual. At play-time he went with the rest to engage in their usual exercises. But the old controversy between Cain and Abel revived with virulence. A number of the boys surrounded him, crying in bitter scorn, "Oh, here is a little Christian!" But God was with his young servant, and enabled him to bear with meekness all these taunts. He held on his way, and is now at the head of one of the colleges of our country and a successful preacher of righteousness.

The last visit paid me by Rev. Dr. Archibald Alexander was for the purpose of preaching several days to my newly-formed Church in Baltimore. One of his sermons was on love to Christ, and was founded on 1 Cor. xvi. 22. He began his sermon by saying, "I am in favour of early taking children to the house of God. When I was not more than four years old, I heard a minister preach on this text. From the time he began his sermon I was interested to know the meaning of Anathema-Marantha—words which I had never heard before—and I watched till he gave the usual explanation, and I never forgot it." Children know more than we are apt to think. I remember, too, that the excellent John Brown of Haddington says, "About the eighth year of my age, I happened in a crowd to push into the church at Abernethy on a sacrament Sabbath. Then it was common for all but intending communicants to be excluded. Before I was excluded, I heard one or two tables served by a minister, who spoke much to the commendation of Christ. This in a sweet and delightful manner captivated my young affections, and has since made me think that children should never be kept out of the church on such occasions.

Let us begin early. Let us call young sinners to repentance. Let us commend Christ to their tender affections. Let us tell them they must hate sin and love Christ. "Feed my sheep" is no more a binding command than "Feed my lambs."

Surely little children greatly need not only the comforts which a mother can give, but also those which the Saviour gives. I know not how it was with others, but I can safely say that I never needed the supports and consolations of true religion more than in my childhood, though I had the kindest of parents. Perhaps my feeble health and excited nerves subjected me to unusual sadness. However this may be, I find no persons in the world more ready to confess their need of special comfort than children. The Gospel has a balm for every wound, a cordial for every aching heart. Children need the sympathy of Jesus. If they ask for it, they get it as readily as their parents. Every child has sorrows which require the help of God, and are quite beyond the power of man to relieve. I believe the following statement is correct, and insert it as quite to my purpose:—

"What do you do without a mother to tell all your troubles to?" asked a child who had a mother, of one who had not, for her mother was dead.

"Before she died, mother told me to whom to go," answered the little orphan; "I go to the Lord Jesus; He was mother's Friend, and He is mine."

"Jesus Christ is up in the sky; He is away off, and has a great many things to attend to in heaven. It is not likely He can stop to mind you."

"I do not know anything about that," said the orphan; "all I know is, He says He will, and that's enough for me."

The little orphan was right. Jesus Christ was once a little child. He remembers and knows how to minister to the sorrows of childhood as well as those of riper years. It is not six months since a little child, not three years old, when dying, said to its parents, "Papa, mamma, don't cry; I am going home." Who can doubt that Christ is with such little sufferers? Why should it be thought a thing incredible that the great Shepherd should be very tender and peculiarly near to his dear lambs?

It is sometimes said that the piety of children is apt to be very deficient in just views of the holiness of God. This may be so. But is not this lacking also in the piety of many adults? Where is the score of professors, taken promiscuously in any church, whose piety did not, from the first, need great improvement in this respect? Read the account of Phœbe Bartlett, given by the elder President Edwards, and where can you find an account of a first conversion, in which God in all his excellent character had greater prominence? I know not of any.

Others have thought that the piety of children was apt to be very deficient in the sense of the evil of sin. But read the life of James Laing, written by McCheyne, and tell me what man or woman ever seemed more truly to loathe sin in the inmost soul.

Others suggest that children are very liable to self-deception respecting their own exercises of mind. This is true of persons of every age, and is a good reason for caution and discrimination in all cases, but cannot justify a discouraging course of procedure towards the early religious impressions of children.

Nor does it seem to me that more is to be made of the appearance of a desire in pious children to be free from needless and unreasonable restraints. In an important sense a pious child is to be regarded and treated still as a child, but it should not be placed under a system of espionage or surveillance. Indeed, no child should be dealt with unreasonably.

In fine, I can sympathise with McCheyne when he says, "Jesus has reason to complain of us, that He can do no mighty work in our Sabbath-schools, because of our unbelief. Let us pray for the children. Let us labour for the children. Let us hope for the children."

I trust a better day is dawning. One excellent and judicious brother of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, a few months since, received forty children into full communion on a profession of their faith. I trust others will have good cause for doing similar acts of love.

It seems to me that a sober discussion of the subject of early piety cannot fail to be useful. It is interesting to almost every family that is not wholly given to worldliness.

A gentleman of high standing in one of the churches of New York writes: "During the past year, our church has been greatly blessed by the presence with us, as we believe, of the Holy Spirit. More than a hundred have been hopefully converted, of whom a goodly number were children, and considerably more than half members of the Sunday-school and Bible-classes. I think we have had some beautiful cases of early piety, which have afforded us examples of deep conviction of sin, and implicit trust in the simple Word of God, such as are not often seen in older people.

---

* Extracted from THE CONVERSION OF CHILDREN. By Rev. E. P. HAMMOND. (Morgan & Scott.)

"I asked a child, 'How do you know that the Lord Jesus will receive you, if you have truly repented of sin and are trusting in Him alone for salvation?' 'Why, because He says so,' was the reply. I asked a boy who was speaking to the session of the delight he took in prayer, why he found it necessary to pray now, seeing he hoped his sins were forgiven, and he had resolved henceforth to be the Lord's. He looked up with a sorrowful expression, burst into tears, and said, 'Oh, I am so wicked, I could not get along at all without prayer.'

"Some of these children, by faithful and most judicious efforts in behalf of others, have been instrumental in doing much good. I may safely say to you that the most satisfactory cases, so far at least as their appearance on examination for the communion is concerned, have been those of children and quite young persons."

I believe the following statement is correct, though I cannot at present vouch for it. A little girl was not well; she said she was in pain. Her mother told her, "I will give you some medicine, my dear, which will make you quite well to-morrow." Her brother was present, and said, "Oh, no, mamma, medicine alone will not make her well. When I was ill I took a great deal, but it did me no good until I prayed to God to make me well, and then I was better the very next morning, when I thanked God for making me better; and now I am quite well, and so will Ann be, if she prays to God." Though this boy had not learned to limit the efficacy of prayer to things agreeable to God's will—and the recovery of sick children is not always so—yet he practically and firmly believed in the insufficiency of means without the Divine blessing.

On the whole, so far as we have light on this subject, let us walk by it. Let us remember that out of the mouths of babes and sucklings God in every generation ordains strength. Let us exhort our offspring, and earnestly pray to God that to Him they may give the dew of their youth. "Instead of the fathers shall be the children." "The child shall die a hundred years old."

Who can doubt that as the millennium approaches, much more when it shall actually come, the lambs will know the voice of the Good Shepherd, and will not follow a stranger.

Should any pervert these thoughts to purposes of fanaticism, or anything inconsistent with the sobriety of the Gospel, the fault will be his own. LET US ALL PRAY AND LABOUR FOR THE EARLY CONVERSION OF CHILDREN.

IPSWICH TOWN MISSION.—On Friday, the 9th inst., the eighth annual supper was given by two Christian ladies to 150 poor persons—tramps, beggars, street singers, and others, found at the various lodging-houses. When receiving the tickets how thankful these poor creatures were. Addresses were given by Miss Grimswade, and Mr. G. Campion, missionary to public-houses.

MEDICAL MISSIONS IN PALESTINE.—DEAR SIR,—Nearly two years ago an appeal was made in your columns, and prayer was repeatedly offered, for the establishment of Medical Missions in Palestine, particularly at Safet, Tiberias, and Hebron. I am happy to say a beginning has now been made in each of these centres by the London Society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews, by the Free Church of Scotland, and by the Berlin Missionary Society, respectively. These efforts are likely to reach and relieve an immense mass of human suffering, and pave the way for the Gospel of peace among Jews, Mahommedans, Greek, and other nominal Christians. Will your readers give thanks, and rember the missionaries in prayer?—Yours sincerely, J. E. M.

For the Young.

A HAPPY HOME.*

BY REV. DR. MACEWAN.

A HAPPY life depends a great deal on the happiness of home. You pity, I am sure, the poor little orphan who is cast homeless on the care of strangers. And I know children who are still more to be pitied. They have worse than no homes; for theirs are bad homes, where they are treated cruelly, and made to feel very miserable. A Happy Home is the gift of God. There is nothing on the earth He can give you more precious. And you may well begin this year, therefore, by thanking your Father in heaven for this greatest of earthly blessings, as you sing with gladsome heart—

"Home! Home! Sweet Home!
There is no place like Home!"

When I was a child my father had a garden where I used to spend many a pleasant hour. Fruit trees and flowers were there; and when spring came with its song of birds, and summer with its bloom of beauty, I found many things there to make the moments pass happily. The budding trees and opening flowers, however, were not so interesting to me as a tall hedge where birds sometimes built their nests. How I watched them at their work! What labour they spent in making these little homes for themselves! What care they took, not only to make them safe and strong outside, but soft and warm and cosy within! Where the little builders got all the fine wool to line the inside of their nests with I could never tell, but they flew ever so far, and toiled ever so hard, to gather it. And I only wish I could lift you up now, and let you peep into one of these nests after it was finished, that you might see the wonderful care that had been taken to make its inside a warm and comfortable and happy little home. The birds teach us a good lesson. You might think, perhaps, that a fine house, rich furniture, beautiful ornaments, and plenty of money, are what make a home happy. But no! These are only the outside of the nest. Like the birds, your chief care ought to be to make your home happy within. Splendour outside and misery inside agree badly together. It is not the house, but the people that live in it; not what they have, but what they are, that will decide whether their home is to be a happy one or not. And many a poor peasant's cot is a far happier home than the splendid mansion or the king's palace.

Children should love their home. It should be the dearest spot to them in all the world. And you may be sure that there must be something seriously wrong, either with it or with yourself, if there be any other place that you love better. I always think it a bad sign with young people as they grow up, when they show indifference to home joys and begin to seek pleasure elsewhere. A proverb says, "Home is home, be it ever so homely." And so it ought to be. You should always think of it kindly, and feel towards it kindly and warmly. And if God has given you dear and loving friends there, you should set a higher value on their affection than on the great riches. Other scenes may be more gay and their pleasures more exciting, but there ought to be nothing dearer, sweeter, or more precious to your heart than the scenes and memories of home.

You should also do all you can to make your home happy. Children little think how much they have in their power in doing this. You see these little ones playing on the seashore. Their father is a fisherman, and he is far out upon the sea. Suddenly a great storm comes on. And as these children think of their father and his danger, what would they not give if they could but hold back the rough winds for him and calm the terrible waves? But they cannot. They have not power to do that. When he returns, however, and enters his little cottage yonder on the hill, and sits down wearied by his own fireside, there is not a child amongst them but has power to help to make home happy for him.

And if children would only think of it, that is a very wonderful power. You can greatly help to make home happy by the sweetness of your temper. Sour or cross tempers in a family are like thorns in a bird's nest, or like nettles in a flower garden. They spoil the good of all around them. Put them far from you if you would either be happy yourself or make others happy. Brighten your home by your pleasant looks, and by your kind, contented spirit. I have noticed that when people get the portraits of their family painted and hung upon their walls, they are all painted with the pleasantest looks which I suppose it was possible for them to put on. Nobody would care to have portraits on their walls with scowling and miserable-looking faces. But if happy looks are important anywhere, it is in people themselves in the daily life of home. Always wear your best and brightest looks there—and be not like some young people who seem to have smiles for everybody but their own brothers and sisters and nearest and dearest friends.

Above everything, you should try to make yours a Christian home. How can we do that? you ask. True, you cannot order the whole house, but you can do your part. Be yourself a child of God, and show that at least you have the spirit of Jesus. It does not matter whether a light is carried in a child's little hand or in the hand of a great giant—the light shines the same. It is the light that gives light, not the hand that carries it. And it does not matter whether precious incense with its sweet smell be put in a small tiny cup or in a large bowl, the delightful fragrance will spread the same and be felt in the air all around it. Pray, then, that Jesus may make you his own light-bearer, and cause your life to be all fragrant with his love, and you may be wonderfully helpful in making yours a Christian home. To have Christ in the heart and Christ in the home is to have as much real happiness as this world can give. You will not in such a case be soon angry with each other; you will not be selfish or disobedient or quarrelsome in spirit; you will bear very tenderly with one another's faults, you will be kind and confiding, and forgiving towards each other, and it will be your daily prayer that God's blessing may rest upon your home, and make it more and more like your Father's house in heaven.

Now, in seeking in those ways to make home happy when you are young, you will take the best course for finding life happy when you become old. Home will be a good school for you; it will teach you as no other school can; it will prepare you for living useful and noble lives. The lessons and memories of the home of your childhood will always remain with you; they will fit you for doing your duty wisely and well when you get a home of your own to care for; they will help to keep you from many dangers, and to guard you in many an evil hour of temptation; and when this life comes to a close they will be remembered by you, and help to give clearness and brightness to your hope in looking forward to the life to come. For the happiest homes of earth are ours only for a little time. We must soon leave them. And happy shall it be for us, if, when the parting hour arrives, we are able joyfully to sing—

---

* From THIS YEAR. By Rev. DAVID MACEWAN, D.D. Nisbet & Co. 1s. A little collection of admirable New Year's addresses to children.

> "Our Home henceforth is in the skies,
> Earth, sea, and sun adieu,
> All heaven unfolded to our eyes,
> We've no regret for you."

A BOY'S LETTER TO MR. HAMMOND.

Dear Mr. Hammond,—Since your meetings began I have attended nearly all of them. One night, in St. James's-street Church, a young lady asked me if I was a Christian, and my answer to her was, "I think so." Then she said to me, "Oh, do not think so, but be sure." I did not say any more, for I could not keep from laughing. Then she said, "May God bless you," and went away. I went home that night, and kept saying to myself, "Did she mean it or not?" but something told me she did. I felt very unhappy, and tried to be very angry with her, but I could not, so I was angry with myself.

I went the next night, but she was not there. When Monday night came I saw that same young lady there. I wanted to speak to her, but I was afraid I could not, so I got up and walked around the church, till I found myself standing beside her. Then I said, "I would like to speak to you; will you be here on Wednesday night?" She said, "Will you not speak to me now?" "No," said I, "I have not time to-night," although I knew in my heart I had if I liked. "Well," said she, "I will be here Wednesday night, and I will watch for you." I went on the night appointed, and you sang that hymn, "Will you meet your Father in the Promised Land?" It made me cry like a child, for I have a dear father and sister in heaven, and the thought was dreadful to me if I was not to meet them in heaven. You then asked those who wished to be prayed for to stand up, and I was one of them that arose.

Then that same young lady came over to me, and told me how she was converted, and we talked together for a long time; then I asked her to forgive me for laughing at her, and she did so freely. She also spoke to me on Thursday and Friday nights, but the answer was still the same till Friday night, when she asked me if I would accept Christ as my Saviour, and I said, "I will." I did; and I am happy now in the assurance that Christ has accepted me, and has pardoned all my sins. May God give me strength to go through this life, no matter how hard it may be, trusting in Jesus.

Montreal, Canada. A Young Convert.

BIBLE ACROSTIC.

The initials form the name of one of three beautiful sisters.

(1) A brook, near which many idolaters were slain.

(2) A place where a great miracle was wrought in the time of the Judges.

(3) A Christian lawyer.

(4) A city of Benjamin.

(5) A precious stone. D. W. H.

Additional answers to Acrostic Tirhakah received from—M.F.P. E.P. E.M.G. H.B. E.B.W. G.B. N.P. S.P.A. H.C.A. H.H.S. J.M. M.C. F.L.W.W. C.S. H.K.

ANSWER TO LAST ACROSTIC.

Methuselah.—Gen. v. 21.

Machir	Josh. xvii. 1.
Eliezer	Gen. xv. 2; Gen. xxiv. 12, 18.
Theophilus	Luke i. 1—4.
Hiel	Josh vi. 26; 1 Kings xvi. 34.
Urijah	Jer. xxvi. 23.
Shechaniah	Ezra x. 2—4.
Ezel	1 Sam. xx. 19.
Lehi	Judges xv. 14.
Adoram	1 Kings xii. 18.
Hobab	Num. x. 29; Judges iv. 11.

Answers received from C.McR. M.S. E.L. D.W.H. H.K.

◆

FOREIGNERS IN LONDON.

By GEO. R. COLE.

SPANIARDS.

ENGLISH Christians have for many years past taken a very lively interest in the spiritual welfare of Spaniards and Portuguese, but they perhaps may not know the work which has been done in London among Spaniards by the London City Mission.

When Isabella was on the throne of Spain, many of the refugees who came to London owed a good deal of their spiritual light to contact with its missionaries. Since then, year by year, many hundreds have been taught the Gospel plan of salvation. During these years meetings have been held on their ships and also on shore. Not less than one hundred meetings each year for many years past have been held, when frequently the greater part of the crew would assemble for prayer and exposition of Scripture in their own musical tongue. The meetings ended often with conversation on some point of deep spiritual interest, so that during the last twenty-five years hundreds and thousands of men have heard the glad tidings of the Gospel. Several thousand copies of Holy Scriptures, in whole or in part, have been distributed among officers and seamen, who have taken them away, again to be circulated among their friends at home. Last year more than 2000 Gospels, Testaments, and Bibles were sent out of England into Spain.

We are thankful to know that the opportunities for this work are still as great and as hopeful as ever. For instance, during the last three months we have had in London three large steamers with over five hundred Spaniards and Portuguese-speaking men. It would have encouraged the heart of every well-wisher of the inhabitants of the Peninsula to see the eagerness with which the Holy Scriptures were received. To those who understand these men, how delightful it is to go among them, speaking of Jesus only! Large numbers of them have been drawn out to speak of their spiritual needs, and many have said, "What must I do to be saved?" One great difficulty in this work is that only for a few days, sometimes only for a few hours, they stay in port; perhaps after one short conversation they go away, and are seen no more.

On one occasion, when the missionary was visiting the H——, he went below to see the Captain, who always (though a Roman Catholic) is glad of a visit. Besides the Captain there were two officers and two young Spaniards. One of the young men said to the Captain, in Spanish, "Quien es este?" (Who is this?) "El Protestante," was the reply. "Ca hombre" (Nonsense, fellow), said the young man; "don't bring your rubbish here"—alluding to the New Testament which I had in my hand. The best part of an hour was spent in defending the Bible and its teaching, and when the missionary came away it was with a very depressed feeling as to the unsatisfactory ending of this opportunity of speaking for Christ before these men. Some months passed by, and the incident was forgotten. The young Spaniard was again met, but the interview was of a totally different character. Now he wanted a Bible—now he would hear of the way of salvation. At his own request a Bible was given him which he desired to study with a friend who lived with him; the result we are anxiously watching to see.

A meeting was held on board the Spanish steamer C—— a few hours before she left the dock for Spain. The men were dealt with faithfully, and it was hoped that some impression had been made upon these poor ignorant Roman Catholics, but the missionary did not expect that his next meeting with them would be in Leman-street, Whitechapel; yet so it was. After leaving London they had been wrecked. They were saved by the lifeboat, taken into Dover, and sent up to London, where in the providence of God they were found,—one moment in despair, the next with tears in their eyes, thankful that their friend the missionary had met with them. They were advised, helped, and taken care of. It was not long, however, before they were received on board another steamer, and a meeting was held among them, not only that they might return thanks to God for his deliverance, but that they might be again pointed to Christ as the Saviour. These men were deeply moved. Several came four miles to the Spanish meeting in Wellclose-square, that they might again return thanks to God for his care over them.

Surely such facts are good results of Bible teaching among these men. They are not only instructed here, but urged on their return home to frequent the evangelical services which are now held in so many villages and towns in Spain and Portugal. That they do this we know, for whilst travelling in Spain and Portugal we met ourselves those who had received blessing in London. One dear man, now a member of a Mission church, brought us the Testament we had given him, in proof of the fact that we had met in London. These, and many other such blessed results of a quarter of a century's work among such poor, superstitious, priest-ridden people, calls for the sympathy, prayers, and material help of all Christians that this most important branch of London City Mission work may be sustained and extended with even greater energy than in days past.

◆

A RAGGED SCHOOL IN THE BOROUGH.

THE annual meeting of Amicable-row Ragged School, situated in Tabbard-street, Borough, was held on Thursday week. The parents were also present, and listened with evident interest to the several addresses delivered. Mr. Pink, of pickle celebrity, presided; while Rev. Mr. Dodge (Vicar of St. Stephens), Mr. Olney (of Haddon Hall), Mr Christien (of Red Lion-square), and others spoke words of good cheer and good doctrine to the company assembled. A large number of prizes were distributed among the girls (the school being for girls only), and great delight was manifested both by young and old.

The account of the school for the past year showed that Mrs. Sowerbutt, by whom the school is conducted, has had great success in getting and keeping the girls together. There has been a marked improvement in the behaviour of many who formerly were very rough; dirty faces have made the acquaintance of soap and water, with advantage to the former. Certainly the general appearance of the girls is most creditable to those who have taken them in hand, and the marked contrast between them and the crowd of poor little ragged children who thronged the doors in the hope of gaining admission was surprising. The children are taught sewing and Scripture-reading, besides general habits of thrift, industry, and cleanliness. Several have gone out to situations; of these a good report is given.

Among the ladies who greatly interest themselves in the Mission are the Misses Pink, and a lady at Redhill. The Committee of the Ragged School Union have also assisted in affording summer outings, Christmas trees, &c., and occasionally by grants of money and books. On the present occasion quite a nice entertainment was provided, interspersed with suitable addresses. Those who were present greatly enjoyed it, and wish both Mr. and Mrs Sowerbutt God-speed in their work.

GOSPEL PURITY ASSOCIATION.

"ANOTHER new Society!" exclaims some critical reader. Yes; and who that is at all conversant with modern life in its darker aspects, will deny the need of it? Surely the prevalence of special and specific evils call for special efforts to combat them. So at least thought some earnest Christians, who have formed this Association, and appointed Mr. James Wookey as its Secretary and organiser. Mr. Wookey was for some time an efficient and successful officer in the Salvation Army. Feeling the burden of abounding sin, he was constrained to retire from the Army in order to give himself entirely to the work of advocating and enforcing social purity. With this view he has settled in London, and entered on a systematic campaign against one of the great strongholds of the devil.

In pursuance of his plan to address gatherings of men on this subject in London and the provinces, Mr. Wookey delivered a lecture one evening last week in the Friends' Meeting House, St. John's-lane, Clerkenwell, Mr. Alfred S. Dyer presiding. Mr. Wookey's method of treating a difficult subject is beyond all praise. With rare wisdom and intense earnestness he discoursed to his brethren on the dignity of the human body; the sacredness of its God-bestowed functions; the exceeding deceitfulness of sin; its fearful and inevitable results temporal and eternal; and of the widespread havoc that sins of impurity are causing in the present generation. Some of the facts he related from personal observation and knowledge, as to the dire consequences of secret and social transgressions, in the case both of young men and young women, were terrible to contemplate. He said he himself knew of at least a hundred young fellows, who ought now to be in possession of the full strength of young manhood, who were sinking into an untimely grave through sinful indulgence. The damning sin of Sodom, he averred, was but too prevalent in our own land and our own time, and he would not be greatly startled if London were one day to share the fate of the Cities of the Plain.

No one can refer to this painful topic in detail without dwelling on the effects of social sins upon the female part of the population. On this head Mr. Wookey's statements were of the saddest and most solemn character. In plain and scathing terms he held up to condemnation the unutterable vileness and cowardice of men, who, after having betrayed and started some young woman on the downward path, will leave her to shame and starvation, to the contumely and neglect of society, until, too often in sheer despair, she rushes unbidden out of a life that has become intolerable, into a still darker and more terrible future. "Every unhappy, fallen girl was once an innocent child. If there were no immoral men there would certainly be no immoral women. For every 10,000 female prostitutes there must be 100,000 male prostitutes, who are the abettors of their guilt and shame."

Mr. Wookey did not confine himself to painting the dark tints of the picture. He was eloquently emphatic on the power that comes from a fervent trust in Christ and an unflinching determination to pursue the paths of holiness, which are also the paths of happiness and peace. This new Society, he said, had been started with the view not only of urging young men to lead pure lives themselves, but of banding them together in a holy crusade against a terrible foe. At the close of his powerful plea, some of those present enrolled themselves in the ranks of the Association. We cannot doubt that a great and a good work will be accomplished through its means and the earnest labours of its Secretary. Christian friends throughout the country who are sighing over the abominations that are done in their midst will do well to place themselves in communication with Mr. Wookey, at the office of the Gospel Purity Association, 31, Paternoster-square, E.C. If they can secure his presence and speech they may rest assured that the results will be highly encouraging.

FLORIDA, U.S.A.

SIR,—I have lately returned from working both amongst the white and coloured populations of Florida, on account of the ill-health of my children, who remained in England. It may interest your readers to know that I hear of continued blessing there. I find there is a great desire kindled, especially amongst the negroes, to learn and know more and more of a Saviour's love. My own heart is very deeply stirred at the touching appeal of those who are so ready to be taught that I may be enabled to go out again later on in the year to this most interesting Mission work. The country is opening up very fast, and many are going there on account of its great natural advantages, but the spiritual need is very great.

Two very earnest servants of the Lord are going out to the same field of labour in May next, through reading my last account which you were good enough to insert in THE CHRISTIAN in the autumn. I shall be pleased to give all the information I can to any who may be inclined to go there. I would also ask the prayers of your readers for my brother, Bishop Hannington, who is on his way to work amongst the coloured populations of East Equatorial Africa.

Yours most truly, JOSEPH HANNINGTON.
Alresford Lodge, Shanklin, Isle of Wight.

◆

MR. JOHN M. SCROGGIE IN EDINBURGH.

By Dr. D. A. MOXEY.

THIS well-known evangelist, whose labours in the Lord's vineyard for the last thirteen years have been so greatly owned of the Master, commenced a month's campaign in connection with Carrubber's Close Mission, on Sunday, January 4.

The first meeting was held in the Free Assembly Hall, a place sacred to blessed memories of God honoured and souls saved, around whose walls might be inscribed the names of many dear soldiers of the cross, whose voices have pleaded with sinners to enlist under the blood-stained banner, names such as Brownlow North, Weaver, Grattan Guinness, Grant of Arndilly, Reginald Radcliffe, Moody, Whittle, and Fullerton. This meeting, which has gone on for the last twenty years, and has, within the last months, been specially successful as a soul-winning medium, is generally well-filled; and Mr. Scroggie found the beautiful hall nearly full of a quiet and apparently sympathetic congregation. The special effort of our brother is rapidly becoming an established success, in point of numbers attending and sinners saved. Mr. Scroggie discoursed from Deut. xxxii. 29, and at the second meeting forty rose desiring to be prayed for.

The meetings during the week have been held in the New Hall, 65, High-street, and the attendance and interest have gradually grown till, on last Sunday night, the Assembly Hall was filled to overflowing, many being turned from the doors, and a similar state of matters resulted in the other large Hall, seated for 1200, on the following night. On each occasion over fifty rose seeking Christ, and the workers are rejoicing every night, as they bring in the sheaves. We have had no such work since Mr. Moody was here, and many of us are in prayer that the Lord may use our brother here, as He used him in the great meetings in Hengler's circus in Glasgow, and in Greenock, Leeds, and in London, during Mr. Moody's work.

Mr. Scroggie has been assisting in the noon prayer-meetings with much acceptance, and has been holding afternoon Sunday services for people in their working clothes. I would humbly ask the Lord's dear people who read THE CHRISTIAN to pray for a special blessing on our beautiful city during the visit of our much honoured friend.

11, Mansion House-road, Edinburgh, Jan. 13.

RAILWAY MEN.—In an article in the New York Observer, on the special claims of this class to the consideration of the Christian Church, Rev. Dr. Mott says:—"It is not an uncommon thing for the engineer of an express train to offer a prayer before he starts his engine. Pocket Bibles have taken the place of pocket-flasks. The men have their own prayer-meetings, conducted by themselves. In the Lehigh Valley of Pennsylvania, for six years a day of prayer has been annually observed for the railroad men of that country."

HE KNOWETH ALL.

ONLY a drop in a bucket,
  But every drop will tell;
The bucket would soon be empty
  Without the drops in the well.

Only a poor little penny,
  It was all I had to give;
But as pennies make the shillings,
  It may help some work to live.

A few little bits of ribbon,
  And some toys—they were not new;
But they made the sick child happy,
  Which made me happy too.

Only some outgrown garments,
  They were all I had to spare;
But they'll help to clothe the needy:
  And the poor are everywhere.

A word now and then of comfort,
  That costs me little to say;
But the poor old man died happy,
  And it helped him on the way.

God loveth the cheerful giver,
  Tho' the gift be poor and small:
What doth He think of his children,
  When they never give at all?

◆

THE GOSPEL IN FRANCE.

ST. ETIENNE.

DEAR SIR,—The past year closed very auspiciously for the McAll Mission in this vast working centre. Many have been relieved of their burdens and now are full of joy, giving testimony boldly to what the Lord had done for their souls. Here is a man who has hitherto been a blasphemer and a drunkard, standing up and praying most fervently that all his family may come to Christ as he had done. There is a young girl thanking God for sending her the affliction which has been the means of bringing her to Him. Elsewhere is another crying under the weight of her sins, and asking to be prayed for. Such are the now frequent scenes to be witnessed in our Salles, and we feel that especially for the last six months the Spirit of the Lord has been particularly amongst us.

The closing night of the old year was destined to encourage us very much. It had been announced that we would continue the meeting that night until past midnight. To our great surprise nearly 200 came. I need not say that the time passed quickly. Many testimonies were rendered and many prayers offered. The week of prayer was held in our Salles, and was the means of blessing to several. Besides the night meetings, of which we have nine every week, we hold two prayer-meetings a week, one for women and the other for men. Here also we have proof of the goodness of God. Nearly every meeting is marked by the conversion of some soul. The Medical Mission is receiving its share of the Divine favour. I had 6790 patients during the year.

We do hope that our Christian friends in England will pray that we may receive a special blessing during this year; that many more souls may be gathered into the fold of Christ, and that all those who are employed in this Mission may be kept faithful to their Master.

Yours truly, HASTINGS BURROUGHS.

BATH PUBLIC-HOUSE MISSION.—During the one year of the existence of this Mission 4,000 visits have been paid to the public-houses, and the Scriptures read and prayer offered up in them nearly every time. Over 100 open-air meetings have been held, many of them in front of public-houses at the request of the landlords themselves, who have sent out chairs for our use, their houses for the time being cleared. Twenty-five publicans have given up the trade, one of them saying that now he could no longer continue in a business which he felt was dragging him down soul and body to hell! Upwards of 10,000 Gospel tracts have been scattered abroad. Many interesting facts are given in the missionary's journal. Fuller details may be had from Miss V. M. Skinner, 5, St. James's-square, Bath.

HELPERS WANTED.

THOUSANDS of lads, many of them from the country, and who live in wretched lodgings, are ruined because when they leave their work they have no resources except what are vicious. Trashy and immoral literature is also a fruitful source of youthful crime. The Working Lads' Institute, Whitechapel, has been established eight years, and has benefitted over 1200 lads. The objects are to save lads employed as errand boys, apprentices, factory hands, &c., in their leisure hours from the streets, theatres, music-halls, and public-houses, and to promote their physical, mental, moral, and spiritual welfare. The means used are reading-room, library, evening classes, lectures and entertainments, savings-bank, Temperance meetings, cricket, swimming, &c.

The whole work is carried on upon Christian principles, but is quite unsectarian. Recently a French class has been started and twenty-five lads attend. The following classes are also regularly held: writing, book-keeping, elocution, shorthand, science, &c. The Honorary Secretary has a Bible-class of much interest every Monday evening, with a membership of thirty.

All these classes are taught, and the lectures and entertainments are given, by friends whose services are honorary. We require a few additional helpers now. If any one would, once a week, for an hour, teach Singing, it would be of immense value. Also, we need a teacher for mechanical work. It is of great importance that these lads should learn something practical, especially in wood work, as it would be of much service to them in after life.

An Art-class would be appreciated, and I believe a good number would gladly avail themselves of an opportunity to learn drawing and painting. We should also be glad to renew the Sunday afternoon Bible-class, and hold some evangelistic services. In these and other ways we ask if some of the readers of The Christian will kindly render service to Christ.

I need hardly point out to the earnest Christian what grand opportunities are afforded by friendly intercourse of influencing these youths for good, and winning them for the Saviour. Already quite a number of our former members are engaged in philanthropic and Christian work. Some as secretaries of Sunday-schools and Temperance societies, others as lay preachers, and a few in the Mission field.

Just now it is most urgent that we should obtain additional helpers, for the new Working Lads' Institute is being erected, and will be completed in a few months. Our present premises are crowded, but then we expect to have some hundreds of new members. In this great city who will help to save our working lads? Further particulars will be gladly supplied, and a visit to the Institute will be heartily welcomed.

Henry Hill, Hon. Secretary.

38, Bow-lane, E.C.

KEMP TOWN MEDICAL MISSION, BRIGHTON.—Dr. Witten, who founded the Brighton Medical Mission, has, after a brief absence in the foreign field, returned thither again, and has organised a similar Mission in Montague-place, Kemp Town. In a recently-issued circular he asks for continued and extended support from the friends of such work.

THE SOCIETY FOR DISTRIBUTING SCRIPTURE TRUTH, by means of rolls of texts, and other smaller publications, in railway waiting-rooms, workhouses, hospitals, prisons, asylums, &c., thankfully report unabated interest and continued success. An undesigned but valuable testimony was recently borne by a Romish Priest to the widespread character of the Society's operations: "There is no liberty of thought in England; you cannot go to a railway station but there are texts all about, and religious books, and a Bible on the table." The hospitals, Bethels, Parochial Missions, workhouses, barrack-rooms, and other institutions gladly welcome the texts and publications. Unfortunately, "existing regulations" too often forbid their introduction into prisons and reformatories. The Committee, however, by representing the entirely undenominational character of their work, hope ere long to secure greater freedom in these quarters.

MR. VARLEY IN ST. LOUIS.

FROM a letter recently received from Mr. Henry Varley, dated St. Louis, December 13, we are glad to make the following extracts:—

"This great city is one of Satan's seats. Containing nearly 500,000 souls, I should say it is one of the most Godless upon the face of the earth. The capital of a Slave State, and not very far from the Free States, you can understand what a demoralising influence slavery had in the past, and how its legacy of wickedness still marks its populations. The original population was mainly of French extraction; their influence still holds, and certainly not in the direction of righteousness. That influence has declined, and the predominating force now is American. For enterprise, public spirit and go, the city is noted and well circumstanced. I think no less than fifteen or sixteen lines of railway come to this city, and about 14,000 men alone are employed in the huge traffic. We had dinner the other evening with a Mr. Tutt, who is the Official Head of the Wabash System of Railways. He told me that they represented 36,000 miles of railway and a capital of a hundred and twenty-five million dollars. There is great wealth in the city, but also terrible poverty and commercial depression.

"There is a vast German element in the population, mainly either infidel or materialistic; where any religion exists it is cold Lutheranism. Next comes an immense negro element, ignorant, immoral, and with a grotesque assertion of independence, which simple truth declares to be idleness in most cases. There is a large Irish contingent of the ordinary kind. You can understand how little homogeneity exists, and what queer elements are found together.

"Enormous quantities of whisky are drunk here, and every form of gambling, licentiousness, and intemperance is rife. In the City Prison, the other day, I passed by 21 murderers in their cells, all of whom were awaiting trial, whilst a few months since no less than 29 were there. Human life has little sacredness here, and crime abounds. The daily papers literally teem with the fearful details, and sensational headings line the columns. The principal papers are published on Sundays, giving 20 pages, nearly the size of The Times, seven long columns to each page. The theatres are open, and every Sunday sees them crowded with those who boast of American freedom, but who are slaves to sin and they know it not. In company with the principal Criminal Judge, I went over the great City Prison, which is one of the largest in the States. There I saw what I could call 'The Criminals' Cabinet,' consisting of photographs of 900 notorious murderers, burglars, highwaymen, robbers, forgers, sneaks, and nameless criminals, some dead, others in penitentiaries, prisons, and jails, whilst many others are at large, to the terror of the community. Such are some of the facts connected with this large Western centre, and they say but little for the boasted advancement of the human race.

"The public buildings indicate great spirit; the massive steel bridge spanning the Mississippi; the Post Office and Custom House, built at a cost of four millions of dollars; the Exposition building, just about completed; the Merchants' Exchange, the Southern Hotel, one of the finest in the world, huge piles of business houses, ware rooms, shops and stores, with miles of splendid houses, very expensive and elegantly furnished. Everything seems to indicate unrest, and such a lack of stability is there that I have been informed that not more than five per cent. of the business men have escaped failure during the past twenty years.

"The churches are substantial, and some of them very costly, but the spiritual life is dwarfed and poor. The externalism of Christianity abounds, but the condition of things spiritually is simply appalling. The world has come into the Church to such a degree that conversion to God is no longer the real test in regard to membership. Respectability in the eyes of men is the password now. The Word of God has little or no study; the preaching is showy and superficial, prayer-meetings are barren of fervency and communion, church fairs, shows, and concerts have taken the place of that joy in God which was ever designed to be the attraction in the assemblies of his saints. There is very little testimony against sin, scarcely any rebuke of iniquity. The mass of the people are utterly indifferent to the claims of God, and the Gospel of Christ is despised.

"This is no exaggerated picture. Coldness meets you at every turn, and the want of interest amongst even professing Christians is oppressive beyond measure. Were it not for faith in God and the solemn testimony that such conditions of abounding wickedness would precede the great and terrible day of the Lord, who 'shall come in flaming fire with the angels of his might, taking vengeance upon them that know not God and obey not the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ' (2 Thess. i. 7, 8.), one would indeed be discouraged. I am greatly helped by the faithfulness and fervent prayer of Rev. Dr. Brookes. He is indeed a man of God, and his twenty-eight years of service in this city have been greatly owned of our exalted Lord. We continue instant in prayer, and now, after three weeks' incessant work, there is a little movement, mainly amongst Christians. Many tell me how they have been restored, confirmed, revived, and established in their holy faith. Others have been brought to decision, but the great majority are resisting the truth, hardening their hearts and insulting the Spirit of Grace.

"We recently had a day of special waiting upon God. This has proved a great blessing, and we go on encouraged; but the devil is just now very busy, which I interpret as an omen for good. We shall continue the fight until the end of the year, though Christmas is an undesirable break in our work. I sometimes think the Lord may be trying our faith in this stronghold of evil, and that He intends a great work. Time will show. I cannot speak with strong confidence. Such is the fearful power of sin and unbelief, that even of our Lord it is written of one place He visited, 'He could not there do many mighty works because of their unbelief.'"

THE LETTER MISSION.

THOSE who observe week by week a brief advertisement in our miscellaneous column directed to anxious inquirers may be interested to know that the good work carried on by "Evangelist" is increasing in usefulness. A record of the past year's work shows that a larger number of inquirers have written for counsel and prayerful help than ever before. Indeed, so numerous have been the inquirers that there are now about twenty workers who regularly assist the superintendent. These Christian friends reside in different parts of England, and some live hundreds of miles apart. The work is manifestly carried on in the fear of God, and with the truest desire for the good of those who correspond. It seems that at the present time more than fifty are being regularly corresponded with.

These are no ordinary letters, says the report; they are sometimes from eight to ten pages in length, and hours of thought and prayer are spent over them. "The first convert was a lad of sixteen, who wrote us under great distress of mind, but was brought to peace as the result of our letter almost immediately. It is five years since his conversion, and he is now studying for the work of the ministry." Some of the most devoted helpers are those who first wrote to the Mission as inquirers for help. All correspondents are informed that every letter is held sacred, and in the strictest confidence, and the like confidence is requested of them in giving their true name and address.

Believers are desired to pray for blessing on the work, and that wisdom, love, and patience may be vouchsafed to the helpers in answering the letters. Miss Mary Woodrow, the Secretary, will gladly forward copies of the report to any who make application to her, addressed The Letter Mission, Clapham, S.W.; to her also help may be sent toward meeting the expenses and extending the operations of the Mission.

Notes and Comments.

THE opening of the New Conference Hall at Stratford to-morrow (Friday) is sure to be an occasion of much interest. We hope the Christians in East London will rally round our Stratford brethren, and show them sympathy in this excellent project.

The Baptist Handbook for the new year reports growth in the numerical position of that denomination. An increase on the previous year is tabulated of 7663 church members, 2084 Sunday-school teachers, and 30,743 scholars. It is a notable fact that a decrease of 32 pastors is reported. This may be variously accounted for, but all round there would seem to be a decline in the number of candidates for the home ministry. Meanwhile, it is a blessed fact that candidates for the foreign field were never so numerous.

The Mission Homes for Englishwomen in Paris have had a year of growth and successful work. The twelfth annual meeting was held in Paris last week, the report stating that 325 had been admitted to the Home in Avenue Wagram, during the year, while the total number of visits to the free registry had been 5910, of which 3052 had been from those requiring situations. The various Mission agencies and services have all been well sustained, and much really valuable work done. Bishop Titcomb, in moving the adoption of the report, paid a well-deserved tribute to the devotion, energy, and prudence displayed by Miss Leigh and her fellow-workers, in this important effort to benefit our countrywomen resident in the French capital.

Among the latest developments of French Scepticism is an Anti-Deist Society, which has just been formed in Paris. The object is to combat religious dogmas of every description, and it has adopted as its motto, "Dieu voilà l'ennemi." One of its rules binds its members to labour for the suppression of the word God and its equivalents in all languages of the world, and pledges them never to use it themselves in conversation or correspondence. It has held meetings in one of the public halls of the city to initiate its work, and there are but too many indications that it is little likely to lack adherents and support. The suppression of the Divine Name in the text books of Government schools is a sure recursor of success to such societies as this.

Some friends of Sabbath observance have formed a "Sabbath Observance Prayer Union Society," and are issuing notices of a week of prayer in connection with its objects, to be held in April next. The invitation is to be printed in many languages for extensive circulation, and gives special subjects for each day in the week. The secretary of the Union, the Rev. Alex. Campbell, of Montrose, is coming to London this month to endeavour to form branches in different districts, and to promote the work in various ways. The circular we have received calling attention to these facts well remarks—

> "It will not be by Acts of Parliament (desirable as they may be) that our land will be made to keep holy the Sabbath Day, but it will be in answer to prayer, and by believers themselves faithfully observing the Lord's will in the matter. In this as in all other things concerning the kingdom, it must be not by might or by power, but by the Spirit of the Lord."

A deserving section of our City toilers is cared for and effectively ministered to, both temporally and spiritually, by Mr. Groom's "Watercress and Flower Girls' Mission," in Seckforde-street, Clerkenwell. The good that has been accomplished in a quiet way through its varied agencies encourages the workers to yet greater efforts; but for these they need the practical sympathy of their fellow Christians. Such sympathy would be well bestowed.

The quarterly statement of the Palestine Exploration Fund will be found replete with information and interest. Further work is designed by the Committee, a scheme being before them for collecting fresh information concerning Oriental manners, customs, legends, traditions, superstitions, and religious and ritualistic survivals. It is expected that Jerusalem will be open to extended operations on the part of the Committee, but Eastern Palestine remains at present closed against their inspection.

The letter sent to Prince Albert Victor by Mr. Gladstone will leave its mark on the history of our times as a wise and noble utterance, at once loyal and patriotic, yet faithful and true to the dictates of high-toned principle. As a non-political act it will commend itself to all Englishmen as being a graceful and thankworthy service rendered to the nation. For one of its oldest and most honoured statesmen thus to set before one of its chief princes a standard of character worthy of his noblest ambition and endeavour, is in every way a pleasing fact.

The reply of the young Prince, which has also been published, is a source of unmingled gratification to all who read it with interest in his future career. Modest in its tone, frank and hearty in its acceptance of the veteran Premier's sage counsels, and earnest in its assertion of desire to profit by them, the letter will win for its writer a large share of national confidence and affection. Such episodes in the history of a nation are like bright colours relieving a dark background, rifts in the clouds which darken the horizon, grateful oases in the desert of political strife.

While "wars and rumours of wars" continue to prevail so extensively, sounds of peace and omens of fraternity between nations are pleasant to record. Prince Bismarck's recent references to Germany's friendship with England, in the Reichstag, are very assuring and gratifying to all who desire the welfare of both nations. He said:—

> "I should like to beg the last speaker, even with regard to a Power with which we are on so friendly a footing as England, not so frivolously to disturb from the platform of this House, I will not say the peace, but the confident hope of peace, by hinting at the possibility of our one day standing against England in arms. I absolutely dispute this possibility; it does not exist, and none of the questions now at issue between us are important enough to justify a breach of the peace either on that side of the North Sea or on this. My diplomatic experience does not enable me to foresee any reason why a breach of the peace should be possible between us and England, unless, indeed, some incalculable Ministry in England—which neither exists at this moment, nor, with the hereditary political wisdom of the English nation, is likely to exist—should attack and bombard us in the most ruffianly manner; then we shall defend ourselves. But apart from this improbability there is no reason for a breach of the peace. Our differences of opinion with England will never, within the limits of human foresight, go so far as not to be capable of settlement by honest goodwill and skilful, provident diplomacy, such as is certainly not wanting on our part."

In his latest issue of "Leaves from Spain," Pastor Fliedner speaks most hopefully and cheerfully of the prospects of Gospel work in that land. He says, "New life is coming into a dead people—dead because it wants a Christian conscience, which no one has ever awakened. Now, on every hand there is a movement, weak and feeble, but yet evident and living. It is a new spring, which makes itself manifest, and we can gladly and confidently sing with Luther—

> "Spring's at the door! with joy we shout,
> Winter at last is ended;
> The tender flowers are peeping out,
> He who his seed defended
> Will perfect his creation. Amen."

We may hope that the recent distress in the southern part of the land will lead the hearts of many to Him who is ever ready to hear the cry of the needy.

The excellent work carried on by the Sermon-lane Mission amongst the poor and the degraded classes of Islington ought to be liberally sustained. In a very real sense the people of God are the salt of the earth in London; if Christian work were eliminated from the metropolis, atheists and agnostics, as well as others, would very soon find it was not a safe city to live in. The first law of nature, self-preservation, ought to constrain even those who are amenable to no higher law to support with all their power the beneficent men and women whose life-work it is to minister to the temporal and spiritual needs of the poor, with the secondary result of comparative safety to life and property.

The weakest part of Mr. Stalker's LIFE OF CHRIST appears to us to be found in such a phrase as "the incomparable originality of Jesus," and in such a statement as that "He made the selection [of his twelve apostles] after a night spent in prayer, and doubtless after many days of deliberation." Jesus was truly man, but He was Immanuel, God with us; there is an impropriety in calling Him original, as there would be in applying the same term to the Father or the Spirit; the Holy One of God was unique rather than original. He had without measure the unction of the Holy One and knew all things; therefore such deliberating as is here read into the story of his life, is as much without foundation in the facts as without authority in the inspired narrative.

When, therefore, Mr. Stalker states in his preface that it is his "most cherished wish, if life and strength be granted him, to write a description of the Mind of Christ on the same succinct plan on which he has here attempted to describe his Life," we confess our anxiety that this should be delayed until he has more adequately considered the bearings of the fact that the Lord Jesus was the Son of God, that He lived by the Father, and that He was led of the Holy Ghost from earliest infancy until by the Eternal Spirit He offered Himself without spot to God.

In a word, we have in this Life a very comprehensive study, graphically described, of the Man Christ Jesus, but it is not GOD manifested in flesh. We close the book impressed with the inadequacy of the life to produce such results. We recommend that the reading of this, the human side of the Saviour's life, should be supplemented by the reading of Canon Barnard's Bampton Lectures for 1864, entitled "The Progress of Doctrine in the New Testament." (Macmillan.)

Note the cheering fact recorded by Miss V. M. Skinner, that the Bath Public-House Mission has led to twenty-five publicans giving up the trade.

If Mr. Howard Evans's suggestion be adopted, that Freethinkers should be welcomed as allies in the crusade of the Liberation Society, its operations are not likely to command the sympathy of men to whom Christian consistency is dear.

Professor Leone Levi has prepared an elaborate series of figures on the wages and earnings of the working classes in Great Britain and Ireland. He estimates the number of earners in the different industries to be 12,200,000, and the total amount of their earnings, £521,000,000. The proportion of earners to the population on this computaion is in England and Wales 31·48 per cent., in Scotland, 39·47, and in Ireland 36 per cent.; while of the amount of wages, 79 per cent. fall on England, 12 per cent. on Scotland, and 9 per cent. on Ireland. Thus, the Professor argues that the average wages of our labouring classes amount, if distributed, to 32s. per family, so that they are really in a better economic condition than those in any other country, advance having been made in every department during the last twenty years.

Figures and facts in this case, as in many others, are not the same thing. However true figures may be, the fact remains that an enormous number of honest toilers, so far from earning 32s. per week, are not earning enough to keep body and soul together. The great point to aim at is such a distribution of the prosperity the Professor shows to exist, as that a living average shall actually come to the thousands who are in destitute or indigent condition. This is the problem which must be solved, and upon the solution of which issues are dependent of weightiest moment to the future of our land.

A remarkable movement in Basutoland has been brought to light by the explorations of MM. Jacollet and Dyke. More than three-fourths of the country is occupied with a chain of mountains separating it from Natal and Griqualand East. These, within the last three years, have been occupied by a number of Basutos, who, by war and other causes, have been led to leave their native plains, and establish villages in the narrow valleys lying at the foot of these mountain heights. The result is, that severed from the better known parts of the country, a numerous and thriving population is gathered in what until now has been an unexplored region. Industry, skill, and courage are evidenced in a remarkable degree by the labours of these mountain colonists, the contrast between their fertile fields and the vast naked plains of the Free States being, it is said, most striking.

The object of the explorers mentioned above has been not merely geographical, or prompted by self-interested motives, but a desire to prepare the way for religious and educational advantages being provided for the inhabitants of these hitherto inaccessible solitudes. The way in which Divine providence is being exercised and manifested in relation to the African races is a truly wonderful feature of modern history, and leads to the conviction that we are surely nearing the time spoken of by the inspired Psalmist: "Ethiopia shall soon stretch out her hands unto God."

The earnest and indignant letter of "A Country Pastor" (page 25) leads us to quote Mr. Ruskin on the responsibility of employers:—"In his office, as governor of the men employed by him, the merchant or manufacturer is invested with a distinctly paternal authority and responsibility . . . . so that the only means which the master has of doing justice to the men employed by him is to ask himself sternly whether he is dealing with each subordinate as he would with his own son, if compelled by circumstances to take such a position."

At a meeting held at Camden-road Chapel last week, a cheque for £2000 was presented to Rev. Francis Tucker on his retirement from the ministry of that place. Among other speakers, Dr. Angus, of Regent's-park College, addressed the crowded assembly; he gave utterance to a sentiment that many will heartily endorse, when he said Mr. Tucker's work was by no means at an end, as the Church at large would gain by his being set free to visit other congregations. An important service, and one which has not received its due development, is that which men of sound judgment and long experience, like Mr. Tucker, are able to render to the Church in the way of counsel and fatherly oversight.

The following paragraph from the New York Independent will interest many of our readers:—

"Mr. Joseph Cook will open his usual course of lectures in Boston the first Monday in February. He has made a circuit of the country during the past three months, travelling along the Northern border to Puget's Sound, thence along the Pacific coast and by the Southern Pacific Railroad to New Orleans and other Southern cities, whence he arrived in Boston the first of the year. He has gathered a store of material for the Winter's lectures in Boston, which will embrace a wide range of topics. Anti-Mormonism, Constitutional Prohibition, Civil Service Reform, National Aid to Education, the Reorganisation of the South, Municipal Misrule, and all the foremost topics of current moral and political discussion will have a place, as usual, in the preludes on current events. It is understood that in the lectures Mr. Cook will take up the great subject of Revelation and Inspiration, now of such supreme interest to all thoughtful students of the signs of the times."

Lord Shaftesbury, ever ready to befriend the cause of right and of benevolence, has accepted an invitation to become one of the patrons of the Shop Hours Labour League, the operations of which he describes as a most necessary movement. Few perhaps are aware of the slavery to which many shop assistants are subject by long hours and close confinement. Thousands of young people of both sexes have no possibility of leisure for self improvement, or for any relaxation of any kind. From early morn to latest eve they have to toil on, until life is nothing but a dreary monotonous task. The consciences of the public and of employers require to be aroused on the matter, and the strong hand of law must also be employed to reform what is a crying abuse and a social injustice.

The second of the Merchants' Lectures on "Hindrances to the Work of the Church," delivered by Rev. J. G. Rogers, B.A., has dealt with the importance of discriminating between what is Divine and unvarying in theological teaching, and what is mere theory and speculation, growing out of human interpretation. Taking as his text the grand words of the Apostle, "I determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified," the lecturer remarked that the essence and centre of Christianity is Christ, and that the great object of a Gospel ministry is to teach men Christ, to bring the sinner into living contact with the Saviour, everything standing in the way of this being a hindrance, not a help, to the acceptance of the Gospel.

Mr. Rogers quoted, in illustration of his point, the case of the blind man narrated in John ix., and said:—

"'Dost thou believe on the Son of God?' was the question which the Master addressed to that poor trembling one just delivered from the curse and sorrow of his life-long misery. 'Who is He, Lord, that I should believe.' Ignorance, apparently, could not be more complete than that. 'I that speak unto thee am He.' That was all. There was no other being referred to except that of the Christ Himself. No other confession asked except the confession of Christ the Son of God. If one had begun to extract from the man any explanation or theory of the relation of his soul to Christ, and of the kind of homage and service expected from him, he would have been plunged at once into a very labyrinth of difficulty; but it was simply a question of personal trust in Christ Himself. And what He desired was to bring men back to this proclamation of the personal Christ, the one Saviour and the one Lord, and to ask them to trust simply in Him."

The practice of insuring the lives of children requires careful supervision, now that it is becoming common. Whatever may be said of it on its economical side, it has dangers which must not be overlooked. The Daily News lately commented on the alarming fact that Dr. Ritchie, Medical Officer of Health for Leek, had shown that since the practice had been adopted there, the mortality among infants under one year had increased from 156 to one hundred and eighty-six cases per thousand. There is temptation enough already among some classes of society to disregard the sacredness of child life, and there is reason to fear that the possibility of gain by its neglect adds to the strength of such temptations, and not unfrequently leads to secret but fearful crime.

A CHRISTIAN HEROINE.

I HEARD of a Christian woman in an American city who was surely one of the bravest of our Lord's three hundred. The doctors wished to perform upon her a severe and dangerous operation, and for that purpose had her taken from her home to a private room in the City Hospital. The probabilities were against her living through the operation, but it was the only hope of relief. She stood face to face with probable death under the surgeon's knife, to say nothing of her great suffering from her disease. We should suppose that her anxiety for her children, her own suffering, and her great danger would have so filled her mind that she would have done well had she fixed her thoughts on heaven, borne her sufferings meekly, and waited in unshaken faith for her summons home. But she was one of God's three hundred, and though faint she was still pursuing.

She found that the skilled nurse who had charge of her was not a Christian, and she lost sight of herself in her desire to rescue the soul of this stranger. She requested the nurse to read the Bible aloud to her, and she selected such passages as she believed most likely to rouse the nurse to repentance. She talked with her about religion, prayed with her, and asked God to give her this soul before He called her home; and the prayer was answered. When I heard of that nurse's conversion I felt rebuked for sloth and indifference in working for Christ. I fear most of us would have been too much occupied with thoughts of death and our sufferings to have looked about us to see if there was not some work we could do for the Master.

I am glad to be able to add that the woman recovered, and it is likely she owed her life, humanly speaking, to her zeal for her Lord's work. For her thoughts were thus withdrawn from herself, so that sorrow for her loved ones and shrinking from suffering and danger did not wear her nerves and exhaust her vitality.—Pulpit Treasury.

Week of United Prayer.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 9.

CENTENARY HALL.

AFTER Mr. Guinness's address on Friday: which was followed by prayer and praise, Mr. C. T. Studd said the happiest day in his life was that on which he cut the world away, and became free in Christ. Once his life was in a state of tension, just like an elastic band drawn out, now it was at perfect rest, for "Christ liveth in me" had become a glorious truth to him. A few months ago he thought very strangely of the word "Pilgrim," but how different all had become! A great evangelist was once showing his fine house to a friend, and asked the question, "What do you think of my house?" The reply was, "Pretty good for a pilgrim!" We sometimes forget that we are strangers and pilgrims. Are we? He closed with a request for more earnestness and zeal in those who pray for Foreign Missions.

Mr. Stanley Smith said that he and his friend Mr. Studd were shortly going out to China. They were in a few moments to leave for Liverpool, on a sort of evangelising tour through Scotland for a couple of weeks, starting for China on February 4. He asked for prayer, that they might be wholly surrendered to the will of God! We must not say, "Make my way plain before me," but "Thy way." He had a word to say to those who were sitting idly at home. When he thought of the overwhelming needs of heathen lands, he was grieved at the apathy of many in Christian England. There was a word of encouragement from the Psalmist: "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? Why art thou disquieted within me! Hope thou in God." We are not to rest in ourselves, but in God, not in our determination, but in the power and love of a sanctifying Saviour.

At the second meeting, Mr. Eugene Stock, Church Missionary Society, read Rev. iii. 7, 8; 2 Cor. ii. 12; 1 Cor. xvi. 8, 9. After alluding to the prosperous condition of Missions in these days, he said that the doors were now wide open. There was a day when this was not so, and we must thank God for the change. Going back to 1837, let us look at China; there was not even a "door ajar" there then. Japan, which was not then open at all, is now open not only to missionaries, but is loudly calling for the Gospel—asking for the truth. Statesmen and scholars there, who are not exactly heathen, but a kind of agnostic, are seeking the way of life. Yes, we want missionaries, we want your prayers, we want yourselves for Japan. A Japanese came over and asked the Church Missionary Society for help. Africa in 1837 was very little known. Livingstone had not yet left our shores, but it was a memorable year, for Dr. Kragh then began his labours there. India was open, though not the more important parts. The Punjab is the most fruitful missionary field of India, which, as the Gate of all Central Asia, is the key to that immense heathen world. The first English missionary to the Punjab was Rev. R. Clark, who has laboured there for thirty-three years in the Mission which he founded.

Mr. Stock then alluded to the support of Missions. He said that for Home and Foreign Missions the sum total contributed annually by the City of London was £140,000, a sum about equal to that put into the boxes on Hospital Sunday! What is England doing? She is spending millions of money to save one man in the centre of Africa, and, though we all admire General Gordon, it surprises us to contrast this sum with that given to the work of the Lord.

Rev. A. Downer Shaw, missionary from East Africa, said that many had no idea of the missionary needs of Africa. Let us think of the country, not as desert or forest, but as of large tracts, peopled, and open to us. Do these want the Gospel? Yes, they are asking for it. Some time ago they sent presents to the Church Missionary Society, asking for a missionary. Time went by, and no missionary could be sent. They came a second time, and asked for powder and shot, and they got them! This is a melancholy fact—when they asked us for the Word of Life we could not give it; but when they came to us for the destroyer of life, we could supply them. Some time ago we heard a great deal about those who wanted to serve the Queen in Africa—men of position, willing to forsake all to fight for their country; but it contrasts sadly with the fact that while men can be got by thousands to fight an enemy of our Queen, they can be mustered only by tens for missionary work for God. Many imagine that when a black is converted he at once goes on to perfection. The truth is, he is no more perfect than ourselves, nor so stable. In praying for our coloured brethren, let us remember to ask that they may have more stability of faith.

Mr. Shaw cited two instances of native Africans, one a teacher, falling away. This is not to discourage us; it is rather to stimulate us to prayer, which is the mast of the ship. Let us pray that they may have more zeal, for they are the right ones to spread the Gospel in their own land, and they are not earnest enough about it. Let us pray, too, for the unconverted; they do not realise the heinousness of sin in the sight of God. If they wrong a neighbour, they will allow that it is sin, but of any other sin they have no conception. Still, there is much for which to be thankful, and we praise God for what He is doing in East Africa. "Brethren, pray for us."

◆

SATURDAY, JANUARY 10.

THE CHURCH AND MISSIONS.

By Rev. (Moravian) BISHOP TAYLOR,
At Steinway Hall.

AS the great subject which brings us together to-day, viz., the missionary enterprise of the Christian Church, both in its home and its foreign divisions, is pre-eminently of a practical nature, we are all, I trust and believe, in the habit of having it brought before us, statedly, in our various places of worship.

I shall refer directly to the programme which has been placed in our hands, and which has been read by our Chairman. When I compare this morning's syllabus with those which have engaged your attention on the previous days of this week, I find that it is the most lengthy and comprehensive of them all, with the sole exception of Wednesday, when the great subject of prayer was for the Church of Christ at large, of which, of course, the missionary enterprise is but a branch. There are no fewer than seven points brought to our notice. I shall promiscuously and briefly advert to most, if not to all of them.

Before doing so, however, I would remind you of that very important anniversary through which the Protestant division of the Church of Christ passed on the closing day of last year. You will recollect that on that day, five hundred years ago, the great morning star of the Reformation, John Wicliffe, died peaceably in his home at Lutterworth. I have no doubt that his work is strictly in connection with the missionary work of the Protestant Churches. Connected as I am with the Church of the United Brethren, I feel an especial pleasure in alluding to that noble Englishman, for it was by his instrumentality, and through the influence of his writings, as put forth in the Latin language at the University of Oxford, that the professors in the University of Prague, and among them John Huss, embraced those evangelical principles whence our Christian community sprang. I think we do well to remember those principles of Christian liberty and freedom, and not only the right, but the duty of private judgment, upon which Wicliffe took his stand.

We all know of the important translation into comparatively modern English of the Scriptures, which emanated from him. Therefore, the Committee have, very properly, reminded us that it is our duty to pray this day, and it ought to be throughout the year, individually and in our churches, that God would bless the labours of that great and noble body the British and Foreign Bible Society, whose primary object is the dissemination of the Holy Scriptures in all lands. We owe to Wicliffe, instrumentally, this great blessing; and, when we pray for the circulation of those Scriptures, we will bless and thank God that He raised up this great man. The Bible Society deserves the thanks of all Missionary Churches. How important, is it not? that Protestant missionaries should go forth taking their stand on the platform of the Word of God! The Bible, as we have it, in the Old and New Testaments, is itself a missionary; often penetrating where the voice of the preacher cannot reach. Where our missionaries are not permitted, there the writings and translations of that Society go as pioneers; and they often open up the way for the proclamation of God's glorious Gospel. In many parts of Northern India, where the voice of the missionary has not been heard, the name and the deeds and the death and the resurrection of the Lord Jesus stand out in glorious contrast to the name and the deeds and the death of Buddha Gaudama.

It is an objection frequently made against Protestant Missions that they are disunited; and that Protestant missionaries go forth, with their various creeds, into heathen lands, and sow the seeds of division. I take it that this is a grievous error, for we point to the Lord Jesus Christ as the one great Head of the Church, and to the Holy Spirit to be received into the heart as the Great Teacher. And though we may differ in points of creed and practice—and that may not, and will not, always be the case—we have this promise, "If in anything ye be otherwise minded God shall reveal even this unto you." After all, there are substantial benefits and great essential truths which, as Protestants, we hold in common. I believe that there is more union of view and action among missionaries abroad than in our churches at home. A simple profession of uniformity cannot produce union, but where there is faith in one common Lord and Saviour the blessing of the Holy Spirit will descend. Through the union abroad the churches at home have become far more united than they were; and the asperities in doctrine—the odium theologicum—having, to a great extent, disappeared, we feel our oneness in Christ on the ground of the Scriptures. Therefore, I take it that the anniversary of Wicliffe's death is worthy the attention of missionary churches for this reason.

Again, Wicliffe was an evangelically-minded man. He did not depend alone upon the letter of the Scriptures, but he penetrated into their evangelical spirit. This having been denied by some, I will read from his postils, or homilies, where we find it written, "As a right-looking on that adder of brass saved the people from the venom of serpents, so a right-looking by full belief on Christ saveth his people." These are his own words; and a more beautiful and faithful evangelical confession we could not possibly have. It is a great slander and slur upon him to say that he was not evangelically-minded. When, therefore, we pray for the outpouring of the Spirit on all lands, we are in harmony with the spirit of Wicliffe.

When we thus pray, what do we mean? Is it not that there shall be a larger manifestation of those influences which the believer in Christ possesses? We are instruments in his hands; and we need to feel a larger measure of power and of faith and love; and, therefore, we plead the promise continually of our blessed Saviour, "If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children: how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask Him?" And, dear Christian friends, we gather together during this week of prayer, and to-day particularly, to plead with the Lord for fresh supplies of his Spirit's influences, and for more copious measures of his grace to be poured forth upon our missionaries that they may be honoured instruments in the conversion of immortal souls. Surely they need this, as they stand face to face with the teeming heathen world. They have to wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against spiritual wickednesses in high places; against Satan, who has bound the heathen with chains of caste, superstition, blindness, and the evil habits in which they have been nurtured. How shall the missionary grapple with the powers of Satan and the devices which the arch-enemy puts forth, unless he be filled with the influences of the Spirit of God? Dear brethren, it is the blessed privilege and duty of all our Christian churches to hold up the hands of those who are going and who have gone forth; and to be instant in season and out of season in prayer that the Holy Spirit may be poured forth upon these messengers of the churches.

I may be permitted to say that I have been gratified at the new step taken by our esteemed friends the Quakers; although they have not, strictly speaking, any regular instrumentalities, they have organised very successful Missions. Let us not omit to plead very strongly and affectionately with the Lord for the outpouring of his Spirit upon their work. We rejoice, all of us, when the churches come forward in this way and occupy with the other divisions of the Church of Christ the fields which are white already to harvest. In God's name we wish them the blessing of the Holy Spirit.

Then, again, we are asked to "pray for more labourers to be sent forth endued with power from on high." What an important subject! How few, comparatively speaking, are there of Christian labourers in India and China. One in every three individuals of the human race, there, are still professedly without a knowledge of Christ. They are followers of Buddhism, and are looking forward with vain and foolish speculation to a state of absorption, trusting in the merit of their own works, and without any well grounded hope of a glorious future. More labourers are surely needed, and it is the Church's part to intercede with God on their behalf.

We know how St. Paul has put the chain of argument. He says, first, "Whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved." And the converse I suppose, negatively, is that those who do not call on the name of the Lord cannot be saved. Call upon the name of the Lord Christ; call upon his name as Jehovah; call upon Him as that glorious Being by whom the worlds were made, and who has all power given Him in heaven and on earth. If they do not call on Him they shall not be saved. But "how shall they hear without a preacher and how shall they preach except they be sent?" Then when he follows up the same thoughts again, he adds, "Faith cometh by hearing, and the hearing by the Word of God." We take this to mean that the preacher is sent by God and that those who hear, believe, and are saved. Now mark what the Saviour says: "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest," that is the first step, "that he would send forth more labourers into his harvest." Send forth men filled with the Holy Spirit who shall speak the words of God, words coming immediately by the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, on the ground of Sacred Scripture, and they will have power over the hearts of men, they will be able to convince them of sin. Surely this day and throughout the year it is our privilege to pray that men and women should go forth to the spiritual harvestfields.

I would remind you, in closing, that we are to pray for the Jewish nation. Is not that a large thought? We are told to pray for the peace of Jerusalem; they shall prosper that love her. We are to pray for the descendants of Israel after the flesh; pray for the brethren of Christ our Lord, that greatest of all Jews. Surely if we love our Saviour we shall gladly pray for that first and foremost among the nations of the earth, in regard to whom He said that "repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem." We know that it is objected that Jewish Missions are useless; but when Jews are converted how useful they become in the Church! I need only mention the names of Gobat, Bishop of Jerusalem, and Dr. Neander, of Berlin, whose influence was so blessed and widely spread; with many other commentators on the Scriptures whose Biblical knowledge and singular devotedness to the once despised Nazarene have effected more than it would have been possible for the same number of Christians to have accomplished.

Let me mention one fact in connection with our own Church. About one hundred and fifty years ago the Moravians sent a missionary to Amsterdam. He was a learned man, an excellent biblical scholar, and he conducted himself so as to be highly esteemed. He was called Rabbi Shemnel. But he had not a single convert. He found the Jews so thoroughly exasperated at the treatment which their nation had received from the Gentiles that they turned a deaf ear to him. He was called back, and it seemed as if his work and labour had been in vain. About twenty years ago we received a letter from two or three Christian children in Hungary, containing contributions to our Missions in Labrador, on the ground that their great-great grandfathers knew this missionary Rabbi Shemuel, whose Christian teaching had not been forgotten, but had taken root in the family, and had sprung up after three generations. The seed that had been sown had sprung up after many days and borne fruit in the salvation of these children.

I would commend this subject, which is dear to all our hearts, to our renewed interest and intercessions. We have the promise that the dominion of the Son shall be universal. "Ask of Me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession." And though the Church may be indifferent and sluggish, and though Satan may interpose, we know that, finally, the Saviour's cause shall succeed, and the kingdoms of the world become the kingdoms of our God and of his Christ. But let us seek to do our part and to plead earnestly for the sending of more labourers to reap this blessed harvest; and we may be assured that in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.

CENTENARY HALL.

After the reading of Isa. lv., a portion of John xv., and praise and prayer, Mr. H. M. Matheson said that after the encouragement of the last few years in reference to Foreign Missions, it was a blessed thing to plead with Him for Missions at home. The Church of Christ needed the great auxiliaries—prayer and praise—to stimulate her. The work in great cities was stupendous, for there was an over-growth of people in comparison with the means of grace. He praised God for the great Mission of the American Evangelists in this city last year, when so many were brought to rejoice in the Lord, and many of God's own people were led to fuller consecration and zeal. We must remember the exhortation, "Abide in Me," for this is the stimulus to zeal, and only by the Word and Spirit of God can we be fitted for service.

Rev. T. J. Madden, Church Pastoral Aid Society, said his Society was founded on Evangelical principles, and preached only Christ. It makes grants to metropolitan agents of £7000; sends out 555 curates, and 150 lay agents. Fifty years ago laymen were not regarded in the Church; but lay help must be used if we are to do missionary work successfully. There is a greater interest shown in foreign than in home Missions; the former may be more fascinating, but the latter are more useful. Why? Because in working at home we make missionaries for abroad. In the East-end he knew of 22,000 in one parish, and Lord Shaftesbury had told of four families in one room. There was a market in full cry on Sunday morning from 10 to 12, and this should be altered. The "bitter cry" is only too true, and poverty and drink go hand in hand only too often. The biggest drunkard becomes a changed creature when he accepts Christ, and only then. These men afterwards make the best helpers, and there was only one exception to this, under-graduates, who are the next best; they are so splendidly enthusiastic. If a man has anything real to say, if he can preach Christ, the masses will hear him. Atheism may be doing its work, but many so-called atheists have left their creed for Christ. We need, then, to present Christ fully and freely to the multitudes.

When our Lord spoke of evangelising the world, He said it not only to the apostles, but to all the world. What are we doing? Have we lived up to our responsibilities? A young man of nineteen was invited to Moody's meeting in the name of Christ, and he had actually never heard of Him. There are many living in this soul-blindness, and the C.P.A.S., by its house to house visitation, was meeting it face to face.

David said that he would not give that to the Lord that had cost him nothing; let us remember this, for we so often act as if anything would do for God. A fashion for æsthetics is amongst us; but though æsthetics is a creed for men of money, it is no good for a death-bed. What we want is self-abnegation; what the Lord wants is ourselves.

Miss Macpherson gave a most touching testimony to the need and value of her work, when she called to the platform four children, the youngest of whom, five years of age, had been received into her home the previous night. Their histories were most pitiful; they were without a friend in the world. She said, in earnest tones, that a solemn message for the new year is the call to "go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, the halt, the maimed, and the blind." Twenty years ago Mr. Holland and Miss Lowe began this Home Mission work. It had gone on so that at the present time from £4000 to £10,000 a year had been paid into the work, and not a shoe-latchet had been wanting. She did not know whether it had been strong faith or weak faith, but the workers' prayers had prevailed with God, and had brought down blessing. 3800 from the homes are now abroad, and the thirty-second voyage had been completed. The Canadians have given us their hearts, and their homes are open to us. Three hundred have gone forth, as results of the work, as workers and missionaries for God, and surely this showed that it was a work to be supported. We are to grow in the Lord—everything prospers that is done truly in the name of our God; even the flowers are pressed into his service. A rose-tree that gave only twenty buds, now yields ninety-six fine blossoms, since it has been given to the Lord.

After praise, and an earnestly impassioned prayer from Miss Macpherson,

Rev. R. Dawson read a portion of Luke x., comparing home Mission work now with that of twenty-five years ago. He said we have great cause for praise. Twenty-five years ago the London City Mission was almost single-handed in its work of evangelising; now nearly every church is its helper. Let us pray that the forthcoming Episcopal Mission in the south and west of London may be a blessing. We look at the work among the poor, and we find there were Missions to Jews, foreigners, and sailors. Half a million of working men in the east of London are brought under Christian influence by the missionaries of the London City Mission, and the Salvation and Church Armies are doing grand work. The Bible Society has issued a million of penny Bibles. Oh, for a blessing on every copy of those Scriptures!

Mr. George Holland said he thought of the solemn words of Ezek. ix. 5, and would put the word "London" in the place of that of Jerusalem. In considering Home Missions, we have to think that more than 150,000 persons do not stay longer than three months in one place; that there are 80,000 vagrants, and 20,000 homeless children. There are 20,000 men between London Bridge and Silvertown out of employment, and whole streets of souls only seven per cent. of whom attend a place of worship; streets where widows, weeping over the garments they make, sew on and on on the Lord's Day, throwing down their work as the bells begin to ring, rushing, perhaps, to the house of God, and resuming work on their return home. A large proportion of the poor live on bread and water, with one cup of tea a week by way of a treat. Poverty leads to drink. A poor woman works for sixteen hours to earn a shilling; she has five children, tenpence a week goes for rent, the twopence is left for food; she has no God on whose breast to lean for pity, so she goes to the ginshop. The only remedy for drunkenness is the Gospel.

He had seen a vast alteration in the people since he began to work amongst them, and this is owing to the Gospel, whose power is limitless: let it be preached everywhere. And, praise

God! the Gospel reaches the children. Thirty to forty thousand children had passed through the Refuges, and they carried the Gospel to their homes. What a power! A dear child fell on her knees before her father, crying out, "Sharpen thy sword, dear Lord." Some of us sheath this sword—the sword of God's Spirit. The Gospel is for all—it touches the heart of the tramp and the vagrant, and it sometimes touches the hearts of the selfish. We need to be faithful with the oppressor who treads down the starving poor.

There are 35 different missionary agencies in connection with George-yard; 310 Bible-classes, and 90 men, who perhaps want their daily bread, will attend one of them for the Bread of Life. Two thousand five hundred souls attend the Mission every week, and there are 4500 week-day attendances, while 300 young women come up to the classes. Come and see the work. The Lord is coming; let us be up and doing; don't be afraid of sickness. Thirty years of work, with but three days' illness in all that time, proves that the Lord preserves his own.

LIMERICK.

The Week of Prayer was observed here with much cordiality and unanimity, various Protestant churches being used as places of meeting. Among those who took a leading part in the meetings were Revs. W. Nicholas, W. Baxendale, Dr. Crook, Dr. Wilson, Canon Gregg, — Radcliffe, — Ward, — Clark, Messrs. J. Russell, R. Hanna, W. Nelson, F. Fitt, T. Grubb, &c. The attendance at the meetings was larger than on any former occasion, and the addresses were of a high order. We are glad to know from an esteemed correspondent in Limerick that the fruits of the special meetings by Messrs. Moody and Sankey in 1883 are still appearing.

SPITALFIELDS GOSPEL MISSION.

MY DEAR BROTHER,—I went to London last week, to take part in committing to the ground the poor worn-out tabernacle of our dear Bible woman, "Fanny," who had laboured with me ever since 1863. Her love and longing for the salvation of precious souls was always of the most intense character—not a den, a hole, or a back slum, but what she perseveringly visited. For her to live was indeed Christ, and most graciously the Lord favoured her, by using her to bring many a poor outcast to find in Him a Saviour and a friend.

Her health had failed for a long time, but as the poor body gradually faded the spirit became brighter and brighter, her last letter to me being one maintained Hallelujah—in fact, she was lost for words whereby to tell of her overflowing delight and peace in the blessed Lord. Praise be to his Name, she has gone to her new, bright home, to join the large number already there, over whom, in the course of years, we have sung songs of praise.

I may mention, as a matter for devout thanksgiving to the Lord, that during my brief visit I was rejoiced to meet with a numerous band of old converts, who are standing steadfast in the Gospel. To the Lord be the glory. One matter distressed me sorely, and that was to find the dear brethren in charge of the work painfully perplexed from the trying slackness of funds. I pray the Lord to undertake for them in this matter through his stewards. Grace and peace be with you.—I am, dear brother,

Yours faithfully,
Swanmore-road, Ryde, I.W. W. J. LEWIS.

P.S.—James Sharpless, 14, Sidney-square, London, E., is the Superintendent of the Mission, to whom communications respecting the work should be addressed.

[We lately visited this Mission, and found the same good work carried on as before our dear friend Mr. Lewis's removal from London.—ED.]

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for the ensuing week:—Jan. 25, Matt. iii. 1—17; Jan. 26, iv. 1—11; Jan. 27, iv. 12—25; Jan. 28, v. 1—16; Jan. 29, v. 17—23; Jan. 30, v. 33—48; Jan. 31, vi. 1—18.

REV. E. P. HAMMOND IN LIVERPOOL.

DURING the past week Mr. Hammond has continued his labours in Liverpool, holding afternoon services for children and preaching in the evenings to adults. Six meetings in one day would be to some men a herculanean task, but such work Mr. Hammond has accomplished on the recent Sabbaths. The children's services have been held in various churches and chapels, amongst others Princes-road Presbyterian Church (Rev. A. Gardener's), Catherine-street Church of England (Rev. J. Thomas's), Grove-street Wesleyan Church (Rev. H. H. Holland's), Berkeley-street Congregational (Rev. T. Keyworth's), and evening services at the Y.M.C.A.

The children's services have increased in interest; each day large numbers of boys and girls are to be seen weeping and desiring to be led to Christ. A good body of workers follow Mr. Hammond and assist in speaking with these younger friends and leading them to decision. It was our privilege to hear several children give their testimony of Jesus' love for the "lambs." One little girl standing up, after singing alone, "Jesus loves me," said she was seven years old, that her mamma had brought her to the services; that she had there learned how to give herself to Jesus, and that she had done so; and to look at the sweet, smiling face of this "wee" one, standing up openly to confess Christ, would have put the blush on the face of many of riper years.

Another little girl said she was much happier because she now felt that Jesus loved her, and she had given her heart to Him and asked Him to keep it, and she felt sure He would, because the Bible said he loved children. Every service brings in additional names, the list now numbering many hundreds.

The manifestation of God's Holy Spirit has not been confined to the work among the young alone, but under Mr. Hammond's preaching, in the evening services, many have been "slain of the Lord." The workers of the Y.M.C.A. have kept together in the true spirit of unity and prayer, and look upon Mr. Hammond's visit as one of the greatest blessings to the Association. Every night there have been anxious souls, and amongst them some very encouraging instances of Christ's power to save to the uttermost.

A tall, heavy-whiskered man is leaving the large hall, but as he passes the door a worker shakes hands with him, and expresses a hope that he is trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ. There is a hesitancy, and this gives opportunity for a little more questioning. The man acknowledges he is not satisfied with his position, and the address had unlocked a hard conscience, but says he; "I am sailing to-morrow in charge of a ship for the Indies, and it does not matter about me." The anxious look, the faltering voice, told its tale: urged to decide and go on his voyage a converted man, he kneels down, and with tears, supplication, and faith, places himself in the hands of Christ. He left the meeting wishing all farewell, but rejoicing in the Saviour.

A young lady comes in one evening, and throughout the sermon is indifferent; spoken to afterwards, she laughs, and treats the message of salvation with apparent frivolity; asked to pray, and seek God's mercy, she remarked, "What! me pray? You don't know me." However, the next night she is present, and apparently more serious. Again spoken to by a Christian lady, she listens more earnestly; ultimately, with many tears, she kneels down and sues for mercy. The next night she stands up in the large hall and acknowledges that Christ has saved her, and out of the fulness of her heart, with clear but anxious voice, she simply and lovingly tells of the great change, and then, missionary-like, pleads with the unsaved as only those who have just stepped out of darkness into light can. Her father is a confirmed sceptic at home; she asks for prayer for him, and he hearing of this comes to the meeting, but slips out unknown before the inquiry-meeting.

The head of a large college is one night amongst the inquirers. "My knowledge of Christ," he says, "was, I fear, all head knowledge, but now I know Jesus truly as the possessor of my heart." Another night a gentlemanly young man looks earnest, and is spoken kindly with. There is some drawback to decision, a "one thing." Ultimately urged to take the balance, and put in it his soul's salvation, and see if there is anything he knows or has that can outweigh it, Christ's estimate of a soul, "What shall it profit, &c.," being held before him, he says he is a brewer; but one thing he decides, and that is to commit his soul to Him who alone is able to save and keep. This young man is now a worker, and has brought his cousin, who also rejoices in sins forgiven.

A young woman, an Italian, passing by, looks in; spoken with, appears unmoved, but, urged, comes a second night, and God's arrow reaches her heart. Although an accomplished linguist, the real truth of the Gospel seemed to her almost unknown. She is now working and testifying to Christ's love.

A hard-working looking man, rough and dirty, apparently fresh from the toil of the day, is passing along, and, with his wife, is prevailed upon to enter the meeting. She sits one side the hall, he the other. Without concert, a young man takes the man in hand, a lady the wife; ultimately, he acknowledges he would "like to be a Christian, and give up drink and be a new man—but my wife." Finding the wife is present, the worker seeks her out and communicates with the lady, speaking to her. On hearing her husband is anxious, the wife rejoices—she was kept back because of him; and now she goes across the hall, and, together, wife and husband kneel and pray for God's forgiving love.

Scarcely a service have they missed, and there is to be observed a change in their habits and dress already. One night this man was noticed anxious about something, and said his brother, whom he had brought to the service, had gone out and left it. Prayer is offered up, and a worker rushes out into the street, and though the man had left some time, and was a total stranger, scarcely had the prayers ceased when he returns and states "the lost is found," and that down in the secretary's office that man had signed the pledge, had knelt down and accepted Christ, and came back with him to tell us, and to go home with his brother.

Very many cases of similar interest could be given, but these will point to the one great fact, that God is using Brother Hammond to the salvation of souls. The brethren in Liverpool ask for prayer for these services.

On Sunday last Mr. Hammond conducted services at Islington Presbyterian Church (Rev. Patrick White's). The afternoon service was another manifestation of power; whole rows of young people and children seeking Jesus. An experienced friend, who was present, remarked that he had not been in a more powerful meeting for years. The evening meeting was similarly blessed.

HEBREW CHRISTIANS.

THE twelfth social gathering of Hebrew Christians took place on Thursday last at the Mission Hall, Montague-street, Whitechapel, by invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Ehrlich. About 150 assembled for tea at six o'clock, after which a pleasant meeting was held. No report was read concerning the general progress of the Mission, but we were informed that the Sabbath services continue to be well attended.

Rev. Dr. STERN delivered a very earnest and faithful address. He could quite understand that Jewish converts were in some instances induced to profess Christianity on account of the temporal advantages they might gain. These, however, were exceptions, and many had shown the reality of their faith by enduring hardship and persecution for Christ's sake. He had himself suffered hunger and thirst and trial, but God had supported him all through.

Several brethren, both Jew and Gentile, gave words of counsel to those present. It was novel to some to hear portions of the Scripture read in the English, German, and Hebrew languages. And so with the prayers that were offered. Among those who took part in the meeting were Rev. J. Barroclough, Captain Chaıeton, Mr. Rennie, Rev. W. Tyler, Mr. Nokes, &c.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

ON the evening of Monday week a meeting of the Salvation Army was held at Exeter Hall, to bid farewell to the officers and corps of the "Foreign Expedition" which is about to be sent out to the United States, Canada, New Zealand, France, and India. The Large Hall was crowded in every part, and the proceedings throughout were of an enthusiastic character. "General" Booth, in the course of some introductory remarks, gave an account of the progress and present position of the Army. At the beginning of last year, he said, they had in great Britain 520 corps; they had now 637. Abroad they had 106 corps, and now they had 273. They then occupied 345 villages, now they occupy 570. Their organisations included a Cellar, Garret and Gutter Brigade, an Orphanage, a Brigade for the Rescue of Fallen Women, a Drunkard's Rescue Brigade, and a Prison Brigade. The foreign work was carried on in France, Switzerland, Sweden, Canada, the United States, Australia, India, and Ceylon. In Ceylon they had one hundred converted Buddhists. Some might say that they should be more economical, but he did not see how they could be, the cost of the maintenance of each missionary being only 3s. a week. Last year they sent out ninety officers to different places abroad. They were now going to send out thirty, and hoped to send out 250 in the course of the year. The training of each officer cost £12 10s., and the whole cost would be about £7,000.

The thirty "officers"—who are mostly women—about to be sent out were ranged in line in front of the platform, and they stood up. They each bore a tri-coloured staff, and the banners of "blood and fire," as the Gereral described them, were waved above them while the General addressed them, and, calling them separately by name, gave them their commission. A collection was made towards the expense of sending the missionaries out, which it was stated would amount to £480. Towards this Mr. T. A. Denny gave £100; and another £100, it was stated, was given by Mr. Miller, the amount contributed altogether being £285. Then followed a brief but earnest address by Mrs. Booth, and the proceedings terminated with the singing of the hymn, "All hail the power of Jesu's name."—Daily News.

"THE SALVATION WAR."

Those who wish to become conversant with the details of the progress made by the Army during the past year cannot do better than peruse this "red book" issued from the Book Depôt, Paternoster-square. Of course it is written from the Army point of view, and the reader will naturally expect to hear more of victories than defeats. It is true that in the chapter headed "United States" the compiler is obliged to record the fact of their being what he calls "A Secession Army." Major Moore, who was in command there, has, it appears, disagreed with the home authorities, and has declined to be superseded by Major Smith, or to relinquish the hold he had obtained of various stations. The unhappy circumstance shows that the Army, like other great movements, is likely to suffer as much, if not more, from internal than external difficulties.

In this narrative we have full and sympathetic accounts of the open-air troubles of the past year, of the campaigns in the home villages, in France, Switzerland, Sweden, America, India, Australia, New Zealand, Africa; of the new "Rescue Work" Department; of the Training Homes; and, last but not least, of the "sinews of war." It is a remarkable story altogether, and it is not necessary to be in full accord with all that is said or done in the name of the Army in order to extract from it much of genuine interest and many reasons for rejoicing.

THE CLERGY WIDOWS' HOUSES, near the Free Church, Cork, are fast falling into decay, and will soon be in a state of dilapidation for want of repair; the occupiers are much too poor to afford even the smallest outlay for the purpose. There is no endowment in connection with the houses; hence the occasion of this appeal to a benevolent and Christian public in the Sister Isle. £1000 at least would be necessary for this object. The Bishops of Cork and Tuam have kindly consented to verify the above statement. Mr. JAMES LANE, 28, South Mall, Cork, will act as treasurer to the fund.

EVANGELISTIC MISSION.

THE Eleventh Anniversary of the Malden Hall branch of this Mission was held on Thursday, January 15. In the afternoon there was a very full attendance, and in the evening a crowded meeting of converts, workers, and friends from the immediate neighbourhood and various parts of London. A happy season of spiritual refreshing and encouragement was experienced through out, and the spirit of earnest prayer manifested was largely fed by the stirring addresses given. Mr. J. G. McVicker opened with prayer.

Mr. Russell Hurditch said he had no statistics to give, but it had been a year of much blessing, mixed with trial in bereavement. One of the converts praised God for five years' preservation. Mr. John Topping continued the stream of prayer and praise. Mr. W. R. Lane showed from Matt. xiv. the wonderful possibilities within our reach for the successful prosecution of Christian work, and counselled avoidance of the disciple's mistake in regarding what they had rather than whom they had. God give us to bring our little desire, faith, zeal, talent, ability, whatever it may be, to Christ. Mr. J. G. McVicker read Colossians i. from verse 13. The one Person, who is our peace and strength, we have in common with the whole family of God, and not as the result of ecclesiastical position, however simple and Scriptural; and said we should take heed that we be not robbed of our simplicity by men who, however devout or philosophical, do not "hold the Head." Hearty prayer was made for a practical outcome from the words spoken.

After tea, the evening meeting opened with prayer by Messrs. T. Jones and Geo. Hucklesby. Mr. Russell Hurditch expressed a sense of encouragement at finding the Gospel so well received by the people, without the popular but unnecessary additions of the day. The work at Malden is worthy of a building three times the size of the present one, and he would set friends to work to go in and possess any suitable site that might be pointed out. The Church in Malden Hall had, for the past few years, met their own expenses; but the Mission, generally, is always in desperate need of funds.

Mr. Wm. Grove gave numerous details from his experiences of Gospel work in the East-end and elsewhere, as an encouragement to personal effort, and a discouragement of the idea that work amongst the lower orders of society is dangerous and unwelcome; and closed with an earnest Gospel appeal. Mr. J. Rivolta expounded some plain lessons in Psalm xviii. Mr. F. Twinch had to thank God for the steady and progressive character of the work in that hall, and that they were able to find a home for those whom the Lord lays hold of. Mr. Hurditch referred to encouraging results from the labours of working-men evangelists in the villages of Cambridgeshire, a permanent hall being now established at Stretham, near Ely. The Lord is also blessing the labours of Messrs. Edward Hurditch and T. C. Spurr in the villages of Wilts and elsewhere.

Mr. G. R. Gill would have friends remember the power which puts and keeps the machinery of Christian work in motion, and that much may be done by a Master hand with even poor tools. Col. Puget referred to the various "vessels" of Scripture. We are all vessels, but of which kind? After prayer by several brethren Mr. Hucklesby remarked that vessels have no will of their own as to the use to which they are put; and Israel was a vessel put aside because God had no pleasure in it. May He grant that there be not one such in Malden Hall. The meeting closed with the singing of three verses from the hymn—

> "Heed we the Steward's call—
> Work, brethren, work!"

GOSPEL TEXT MOTTOES.—Mr. J. G. Wheeler, of 88, Mildmay Park, N., will send to any Mission workers free 100 or 250, as may be required, of a beautiful Gospel Text Motto for 1885, 1 John v. 11, 12. Application should be made at once, as the supply is limited. If by post six stamps should be sent for postage, otherwise two for booking.

TRIBULATION.

TILL from the straw the flail the corn doth beat,
Until the chaff be purgèd from the wheat,
The richness of the flour will scarce appear.
So till men's persons great afflictions touch,
If worth be found, their worth is not so much:
Because, like wheat in straw, they have not yet
That value which in thrashing they may get.
For till the bruising flails of God's corrections
Have thrashed out of us all our vain affections;
Till those corruptions which do misbecome us,
Are by thy sacred Spirit winnowed from us;
Until from us the straw of worldly treasures,
Till all the dusty chaff of empty pleasures,
Yea, till his flail upon us He doth lay,
To thrash the husk of this our flesh away,
And leave the soul uncovered; nay, yet more,
Till God shall make our very spirit poor,
We shall not up to highest wealth aspire;
But then we shall; and that is my desire.

NOTES FROM DETROIT.

THE most interesting item of religious news in these parts is the evangelistic tour of Mr. Moody and his colleagues throughout this and the adjacent States; Detroit having come in for its share of blessing last month. The announcement of the three days' Convention created much comment, not only amongst religious folk, but also worldly people, whose curiosity was aroused to know something more concerning the great evangelist and his methods of work.

Of course the largest theatre was well filled, and there were many professed conversions, though very few of them were persons unreached by ordinary church agencies. Probably this was largely owing to the absence of the united prayer-meetings, and on account of the want of organisation and co-operation between Christian workers here, which, alas! continues, although the evangelistic choir of 150 to 200 voices is still being kept together for future service when occasion arises. This will be, in all likelihood, about February, possibly earlier, when Messrs. Whittle and McGranahan expect to return for a series of Gospel meetings.

Detroit, in common with most American cities, lacks what may be termed a cosmopolitan evangelisation society, which one could join without committing themselves to any particular religious denomination, and which is satisfied to work on the same lines as the far-famed evangelists. After a year's intercourse with the people, and with a constant desire to discover all that was good in them, the conclusion is forced upon one that the city pastors and people are not yet prepared to rise above the narrow bounds of denominationalism. Ere they do so they will need much patient "coaching" by those who have learned the blessedness of brethren labouring together in the Gospel, regardless of varying creeds, and seeking to reach, by combined effort, the masses untouched by ordinary church ministrations.

The Y.M.C.A. is for most purposes a suitable rallying-place for Christian workers, and will likely take the initiative in the matter of establishing a permanent "Special Service Mission," or whatever name suits best, should it be found that the ministers will co-operate in its management.

The appalling spirit of irreligion and insubjection to God's Word, so much more apparent in the States than Canada, is a terrible barrier to the organisation and carrying out of evangelistic meetings. Despite this, Mr. Moody was able to state that the success of such efforts, where put forth, was greater nowadays than ever before. This reassuring statement, backed up by such an authority, and borne out, as recent numbers of THE CHRISTIAN show, by Reginald Radcliffe and others at home, has been repeated in nearly all the daily and weekly papers, and still provokes comment and criticism. Surely it is, for the present time, a partial fulfilment of the promise in Isaiah lix. 19, "When the enemy shall come in like a flood, the Spirit of the Lord shall lift up a standard against him." ED. SOPER.

33, Sibley-street, Detroit, Michigan.

MILDMAY MISSION TO THE JEWS.

In accordance with Mr. Wilkinson's annual practice, the Mildway Mission work among the East-end Jews was commenced in the New Year with two social gatherings; the first on the evening of January 1, for the night-school children and their Jewish companions; the second on January 2 for adults.

The children's meeting was, if possible, the more interesting of the two. At least there was a charm and completeness about it that left nothing to be desired, and that cannot be reproduced with pen and ink. As usual, the night-school children themselves were the chief entertainers; not only they, but the numerous other little guests behaved admirably, and, whether in singing their beautiful hymns or in listening to the speakers, deserved nothing but praise. Their careful and fruitful training in New Testament Scripture was shown, not merely by the themes which they had committed to memory, but by the ready response given by some to the impromptu questions of the speakers.

One feature of the programme was the singing, by the infants, of "Jesus loves me, this I know," &c., with sweet, chirping voices that could not fail to arrest the attention and stir the thoughts of every parent who heard them. Another important feature was the repetition by the older ones of the beautifully-selected texts of Scripture, chiefly, as it seemed to us, from the New Testament. In this performance absolute perfection seemed to be the standard aimed at, and attained by almost every one.

The devoted young lady workers in this department are entirely to be envied; they are, in the literal sense of the word, "discipling" these children; and we bid them a hearty God-speed.

The proceedings were terminated with a distribution of prizes and useful gifts to the night-school children, and an orange to every child present.

On the following evening a crowded gathering of about 350 Jewish men and women, many of them, though by no means all, being very poor, assembled in the same hall, and after due justice done to the seasonable viands provided for them, sat and listened for several hours to the Gospel of the Messiah crucified, and risen, and again to come, the hope of Jew and Christian. These sons and daughters of Abraham quietly listened to one speaker after another, who seemed to vie with each other in the earnestness, and directness, and affectionate solicitude of their appeals to them to reconsider their spiritual position, and to weigh with candid minds the claims of Jesus.

In the course of the meeting, after several addresses had been given, Mr. Wilkinson invited any Jews and Jewesses present who were willing to give an open testimony to faith in Jesus to hold up their hands. Presently hands to the number of between forty and fifty, as it was estimated, which included the few missionaries present, were held aloft. What the precise value of this testimony may be it were vain for us to try to estimate; certain it is that many of these Jews have now such a faith in Christian truth as requires only the help and encouragement of numbers to induce them to make an open and bold confession, and such help and encouragement, in sample, a meeting of this kind temporarily affords them.

These meetings afford the workers a most hopeful and encouraging beginning for the New Year's steady routine of work, in which, being Jewish work, the value and necessity of "line upon line, precept upon precept" will receive unique exemplification.

AT MILDMAY CONFERENCE HALL.

On Monday, January 5, the annual Week of Prayer was commenced, as usual, with a morning and evening meeting for praise and prayer, and for conference on the Jewish Mission work. Both of these meetings were peculiarly refreshing times of Christian fellowship. Mr. Jas. E. Mathieson presided at both, and Mr. Wilkinson gave an account, at each meeting, of the origin and progress of the Mission, and of the Lord's gracious leadings and encouragements therein, citing various striking answers to believing prayer.

At the morning meeting Rev. F. White pointed out in a few helpful and sympathetic words how the Jewish work is valuable on account of its indirect effect upon Gentile Christians, bringing them closer to God than any other work can do. To understand the mind of the Spirit concerning Israel is essential even for right work among the Gentiles.

Mr. Denham Smith followed, and spoke with an exuberant joyfulness which showed that the truth of God does not grow 'stale, flat, and unprofitable' with growing years. He showed how we could never understand the politics of the world if we did not understand the predicted relations of Israel to the nations of the earth; making special comment on Zech. xii. 1, 2.

In the evening meeting Dr. Laseron spoke with thrilling eloquence of the evidences of the approaching fulfilment of prophecies in the Word of God, as shown by the extraordinary change that has come over the condition of the Jews in the present generation, and over the whole Jewish question.

At both meetings various special requests for prayer in connection with the work were read, and many brethren joined in earnest offering of these petitions.

Dr. Dixon's report, read at the evening meeting, was evidently heard with deep interest, and this, together with Mr. Wilkinson's remarkable experiences of God's faithful answers to prayer, called forth more than one spontaneous commendation and thanksgiving from friends who happened to be in the audience.

Both workers and sympathisers may well take courage and go forward into the New Year with renewed faith and hope in God.

WORKING WOMEN AND CO-OPERATION.

Sir,—Will you allow me to give a short account of the six months' working of the Working Women's Co-operative Association, which I was enabled to start greatly through the generosity of your readers. I began with three machines and three workers. I have now ten machines and from thirteen to fourteen workers, who work only forty-eight hours in the week. In the six months we have executed 260 private orders for shirts, ladies' and children's under-linen, gentlemen's boating suits, and other articles of clothing both for rich and poor.

I have found that in most cases the work has given satisfaction. I have been enabled to very materially increase the well-being of my work-women even at a time of great depression of trade; and instead of paying off hands near to Christmas, as is the ordinary case with factories, I have been able to take on hands. We have been paying our expenses for the last three months, and a large amount of the original capital is still in hand, besides the machines, furniture, and stock.

What we want is an increase of orders, and I earnestly hope that your readers will help us to get these. I am very anxious for orders for ladies' mantles and articles of that description, which I am confident we should give satisfaction in. I hope in this year to be able to open a depôt in the West-end, on a very small scale at first, so as to show the work. Pray allow me to thank your readers for having enabled me to do what I have described. If they saw the difference I see in my workwomen between the time they came to the Association and now, they would need no thanks of mine, but would well understand how very grateful I feel to those who have enabled me to be the means of doing even the little which yet is done.—Yours faithfully,

Sarah Heckford.

8, High-street, Shadwell, London, E.

MISSIONS TO CHINA.—Miss Ellen Black has sailed for Amoy in connection with the China Mission of the English Presbyterian Church. Miss Black is the fifth daughter of the one manse that has gone out to this field of labour—a fact almost, if not altogether, unique in the history of Missions.

WOMEN AND TEMPERANCE.

A MEETING called by the British Women's Temperance Association was held last week in the lecture hall of the City Temple, Dr. Edmunds presiding. About 200 ladies and a few gentlemen attended. The Chairman said that with regard to Temperance, he was convinced its greatest and most permanent results would be due to the influence of women. It was sometimes said of teetotalers that they transgressed against the rule of moderation; but he contended that Temperance was the moderate use of things good in themselves. It did not apply to anything which had not been shown to be good in itself, and therefore there was no reason in the moderate use of alcoholic drink, for that was bad and injurious.

Mrs. Lucas, speaking on "Our past work and future outlook," said the association had been in existence for more than eight years and had made immense progress, such as its founders did not contemplate at first. The branches in England and Wales were more than 130, besides which there was a large number in Scotland and Ireland, and others on the Continent. Ladies had also gone to carry on the work of the Association in Australia. The question might be asked, Why should women work separately from men? The reason was that although women joined men's Temperance societies they were not sufficiently encouraged. This Association had, however, roused the women throughout the country. The number of them who had been roused to work in the cause of total abstinence was most surprising, and the earnestness and power of speech displayed by some of them—in Lancashire and Yorkshire, for instance—were very great. The friends of the Association, however, found a great difficulty in bringing women to sign the pledge, for while they would declare themselves abstainers they often wished to leave the door a little ajar, so that they could take a glass occasionally, especially if invited to parties. Many more workers were wanted in the cause, on behalf of which she appealed for recruits. Women could do much to settle the licensing question. With respect to the selling of intoxicants by grocers, she held that the practice was the greatest cause of inebriety among women. She therefore urged that, like herself, they should all refuse to deal with grocers who sold drink.

Mrs. G. S. Reaney, setting forth the claims and privileges of total abstinence, asked whether it was not the case that there was more drinking amongst the women of England to-day than ever before? In the "Bitter Cry of Outcast London" not half enough had been said about the drinking habits which were the real cause of it. At the gates of some docks in the East-end a public-house changed hands last summer, and what would anybody suppose that it cost? Scores of idlers and men out of work loitered there, and that public-house sold for £19,000, one reason being that on the previous night six hogsheads of ale were sold over the counter. There was also distress in Sunderland, and yet at a time when 1900 wedding rings were sold in that town there was no perceptible diminution in the trade of the public-houses.

Mrs. Servanté set forth the practical side of Temperance; Mrs. Aukland urged the need of more women to work for the cause.—Daily News.

"THE MOUNTAIN STREAM."—The Highland Temperance League continues to flourish. The directors issue another report under the above title, and it records considerable success. Fishermen all along the West Coast of Scotland are finding that the exposure and fatigue connected with their calling are more easily met by good food and strengthening beverages than by alcohol. The work at sheepfolds is in many instances now overtaken without the aid of whiskey, and the same may be said in some places as to the harvest work. Some ministers have declined to conduct funeral services where strong drink is used, and have freely offered their pulpits for the advocacy of Temperance principles. At the last annual meeting the Duchess of Sutherland was elected lady patroness of the League, and the Dowager Lady Mackenzie of Gairloch hon. president. The League now comprises nearly 200 branches, societies, and Bands of Hope, and numbers 3300 members.

BLUE-JACKETS IN THE CHANNEL FLEET.

THOSE interested in the real welfare of our blue-jackets, will be glad to know that at our Sailors' Rests at Devonport and Portsmouth, and also at Sheerness, we had a grand rally of men who were not going on leave, and were determined to spend a sober, happy Christmas with us. First came the decorations—Jack is very clever with scissors, and needle, and thread. Right hard they worked, making wreaths, mottoes, and scrolls, and dressing the large Christmas trees. The west-country seamen were very proud of their motto, "God Bless our Sailors' Rest in 1885;" while the Portsmouth men looked proudly on the words, "A Bright and Happy New Year to You All," which arched the platform.

The festivities began on Christmas Eve with a treat to the 500 sailors' children composing the Band of Hope, followed by tea parties, social evenings, sitting round the fire, roasting chesnuts, telling stories, and singing carols, Temperance meetings, &c. On Boxing-night, a "Family Party," 800 strong, assembled at Portsmouth, and a right pleasant evening was spent, singing, reciting, carol singing, and band playing. Then the presents from the tree, contributed by kind friends all over the country, whom I would thank warmly for their great kindness. The men, their wives, and little ones, were all delighted; over 1000 presents were distributed, many of which, in the shape of warm cuffs and comforters, are doing duty in the Channel Fleet now.

Very solemn services were held at all the Sailors' Rests on Watch Night; earnest words and bright testimonies. It was a sight not to be forgotten at Portsmouth to see 700 kneeling, and singing the consecration hymn—

> "Take my life, and let it be > Consecrated, Lord, to Thee," as the clock struck twelve, and, five minutes later, to hear the familiar hymn—

> "Guide me, O Thou great Jehovah," resounding through the place. Many grasped our hands earnestly, and said that "by God's help that night would be the beginning of a new life." The sailor boys of the Impregnable and Lion had their Christmas tea and tree at Devonport, and informed every one that they "had had a thunderin' good time, that they should never forget."

Our thoughts travel to our dear foreign helpers. Miss Minchin, of Shanghai, has been called home, but not before she had been an untold blessing to many blue jackets. Tenderly and reverently the men of H.M.S. Cleopatra carried her to the grave, followed by naval officers, who loved and revered her for her works' sake.

Turning to another quarter, the Island of St. Helena, I want to bespeak for my friend, Mr. Arthur St. Quintin, the help he needs in clearing off a small debt on his Sailors' Rest, which bids fair to be self-supporting. St. Helena, though a small island, abounds with temptations to drink and vice. As leave is given there, our men would have no harbour of refuge had it not been for Mr. St. Quintin's exertions. An earnest Christian, his great desire is to provide a happy home, free from drink, and to win the men for Christ. Very bright testimonies come to me from them; they say that they have "some one now to care for them there," and many happy Bible-classes have been held, and the Sailors' Rest overcrowded; men sleeping on benches, tables, all over the floor, and in every corner.

I shall be very pleased to receive any donations, and forward them to Mr. St. Quintin; or they may be sent to Mrs. St. Quintin, Lee Hall, Blackheath. A small sum would clear the amount still owing for fittings and furniture, and would set the place on its feet.

Yours in the work,

Sailors' Rest, Portsmouth. Agnes E. Weston.

MR. WM. NOBLE delivered an address last week to the members of the Edinburgh Gospel Temperance Union, at their annual business meeting.

AMONG THE WEST-END MASSES.

AT a time when "the bitter cry" is echoing through the churches, and believers are bracing themselves to take up a larger share of the work that is lying at their doors, it is pleasant to turn to machinery which is already in working order, and which has for some years been the means of spiritual blessing to the terribly depraved neighbourhood known as Lisson-grove.

Nine years ago Dr. Donald Fraser's congregation took Mission premises in Bell-street. During that time there have not been withheld abundant tokens of God's grace; God has touched the hearts of many of the people, and they now work for Him in the place where first they saw the light of life. As the work grew, the place was found inadequate; it was necessary to demolish the old walls and build greater. We have now to record that the new premises are finished, and that Dr. Fraser invited many of his friends on Friday, the 9th inst., to celebrate the event by a public meeting in the new building. There were present Mr. Samuel Morley, M.P., Professors Elmslie and Chalmers, of the English Presbyterian College; Rev. Mr. Hutchinson, of the London City Mission, and many others.

Dr. Fraser's statement consisted in laying before the meeting the great success which had attended the Mission, there being a hundred working men and women who take their places at the monthly Communion. The great majority of this number are voluntary workers in the Mission, and as there are thirty-six meetings of one kind or another held during the week, it may be imagined that it is rather a busy place. The new building was absolutely necessary, and the rooms were open for inspection. They were all intended for use either for men, for women, or for children. A very special feature was the new club room for working men, open every night during the week from six to ten; without the drink, every requisite of a club is to be found. It is hoped that this will prove a grand recruiting ground for the Mission services, the men's Bible class, and the benefit society.

The street frontage has been utilised in rather a novel way, which well deserves notice. The large windows can be thrown up, and on a stand facing the street a Gospel Choir will sing. If anyone like to come on Saturday night, when the costers were hard at work, they would find the choir in full song inside, and a congregation of about two hundred in the thoroughfare hearing the Gospel sung and preached. Dr. Fraser was glad to say that they had no trouble with the police either. The site has cost £1500, and is all paid for. The building costs £4000, of which £3000 had been collected; it was hoped those present would put their hands in their pockets and find the balance for him.

Mr. Morley expressed his genuine pleasure at hearing of all the good work that was going on in Bell-street. He was simply delighted with it. Gospel Temperance and blue ribbon work were permeating the people, and no one could refuse help to such a noble cause as was this conducted by the Marylebone Presbyterian congregation. We understand that Mr. Morley's contributions amount, in all, to £200; and that there is still a considerable deficiency to make up.

The hon. treasurer and superintendent of the Mission is Mr. Thomas Boyd, 1, Delamere-street, Westbourne-terrace, W.

SOUTH CROYDON.—Dear Sir,—Will some of your readers help us in our work among the poor in South Croydon by sending left-off garments for men, women, and children? For twelve months we have been gathering into a small hall a goodly number of people who had been unaccustomed to attend any place of worship. While God is blessing them in spiritual things they are suffering great privations through want of employment and the severity of the weather. As the expense of carrying on the work is entirely borne by those engaged in it, we simply ask for the left-off clothing which we are unable of ourselves to supply. W. Jeffrey.

1, Haling Park Villas, Brighton-road, S. Croydon.

THE MUSIC OF THE GOSPEL.

> "Through the dark its echoes sweetly ringing,
> The music of the Gospel leads us home." -Faber.

A LOVELY song, all other songs excelling,
  Sweeter than any ever heard before,
From day to day, from age to age is swelling
  "O'er earth's green fields and ocean's wave-beat shore."

Its ceaseless theme the simple, grand old story,
  Familiar to us from our earliest years,
Which speaks of present peace and future glory
  To "inward hearts" as well as "outward ears."

Charmed by the strains, dim eyes with rapture glisten,
  And hearts that once were heavy are made light;
And generations yet to come will listen
  When we who hear it now have passed from sight.

"Come unto Me," the lovely song beginneth,
  "Ye that are weary and with care opprest;"
There is a cure for every one that sinneth,
  "Come unto Me, and I will give you rest."

"Thy sins are all forgiven thee," most completely,
  "Depart in peace, thy faith hath made thee whole,"
The melody continues; and how sweetly
  The precious tidings break upon the soul!

Again: "I will not leave thee nor forsake thee,
  Lo, I am with thee in the hottest strife,
And from the grave hereafter will awake thee;
  I am the Resurrection and the Life."

"He is not dead"—hearken, O mourner, weeping
  The loss of one who has been called away—
"He is not dead, but sleeping, sweetly sleeping,
  And I will raise him up at the last day."

"Thine eyes shall see the King in all His beauty,"
  Among the sweetest of its notes is this;
It cheers the fleeting round of daily duty
  With the bright prospect of eternal bliss!

Thus on and on, until our course be ended,
  In every circumstance, where'er we roam,
Its heavenly notes with earth's sad wailings blended,
  "The music of the Gospel leads us home."

Upper Holloway, N. W. J. Bond.

MISSIONARY TRAINING COLLEGE.

Puerto Santa Maria, Andalusia.

THIS institution, so long contemplated by the Presbytery of Andalusia, was opened in January, 1884, under the direction of Rev. W. Moore. The College consists of two departments—one preparatory, the other for Biblical instruction and evangelistic training. The great need of these, especially the former department, will be recognised from the following remarks of Mr. Moore, in a late letter:—

"The state of education in this country, especially in the elementary schools, is simply lamentable, and as our work lies among the poorest, and consequently the most ignorant, you can fancy the material we have to work upon. Even in our evangelical schools the standard of education is very low, and the state of proficiency very unsatisfactory. The reason is that the teachers, with very few exceptions, are utterly unqualified for their work, so that to secure an evangelical, and, at the same time, a competent teacher, is all but impossible. It is the object of this institute to provide such; hence the necessity and importance of such a work."

The need of pastors for Spain is as yet very limited: for evangelists there are many openings, but the means for their support are small; but for competent evangelical teachers the need is greater, and it is of importance that young men and young women of promising Christian character educated in the Mission schools should not be lost sight of among the masses, but passed on to an institution like this at Puerto Santa Maria, that they may be trained as teachers and evangelists.

In the first half of 1884 there were only three students at the College, in the second half there were six. This is but a small beginning, but it is capable of development as funds permit. The help given last year was chiefly for fitting up and starting the College; help now will be thankfully received to support assistant teachers, and for supplementing the scanty payments by students too poor to meet the whole cost of the training.

102, Queen's-gate, S.W. Donald Matheson.

WHITECHAPEL.—The annual report for the parish of St. Mary, Whitechapel, has been forwarded to us by the esteemed Rector, Rev. A. J. Robinson. It contains an account of the various works carried on in connection with the parish church, and covers nearly one hundred quarto pages. Many incidents related by workers and lay helpers are recorded, some of them of much interest.

EAST-END FACTORY GIRLS.

IN his annual feast-making Dr. Barnardo pays good heed to the Divine injunction about inviting those who cannot return the compliment. Last week we reported, both by pen and pencil, the remarkable collection of street children in the Edinburgh Castle, all of whom had the chance of spending one happy evening at least, and many of whom are having the chance of making a fresh start in life. It now falls to our lot to say something about the equally remarkable gathering of girls employed in East-end factories, of which the same building was the scene on Wednesday evening last week.

We could wish that on this occasion also we had the aid of the artist's pencil, for we frankly confess that our own pen is very inadequate to the necessities of the case. As one looked on the seething sea of young faces—or faces that should have been young—the feelings awakened in the spectator's breast were none of the happiest or most pleasant description. There ought to be no fairer sight under God's sky than 1500 English girls of the ages of, say, 12 to 16. Those who composed Dr. Barnardo's tea party last week certainly had all the vitality of youth; as for the natural shyness, modesty, and other attractive qualities that we are wont to attach to those of that sex and age, they were conspicuous enough by their absence. Many of the faces had been fair enough as they came from the Creator's mould, but the tyranical vagaries of fashion are fully as strong in the East as in the West. The disfigurement of "fringes," covering the brow out of sight, was almost universal. We do not know that we ought to censure these young folks; they are only aping their betters. When they have also adopted the equally hideous "dress improver" of the upper five thousand of the West, our East-end toilers will have succeeded in giving the last touch of deformity to the female form divine. In these days, when the struggle for daily bread is so severe in the poorer strata of our City population, one cannot but rejoice that there are avenues of honest industry opened up for so many young girls. At the same time it seems very evident that factory life is not a very refining or even civilizing occupation, especially when the workers are massed together in great numbers. We hear strange stories of the rough and outrageous conduct of certain bands of these girls, and of the feuds that exist between those employed by different firms.

These tea parties are always noisy affairs. There was plenty of noise and to spare on this occasion, though on the whole the behaviour was tolerably good, better we understand than in previous years. The tea hour was a busy time, and the services of the cohort of active stewards were taxed to the utmost before satiety settled down on the hungry congregation. Then it was Dr. Barnardo's turn. He truly said that a steam whistle in his throat would have been a desirable appendage; and yet it was wonderful how, with the aid of a boy trumpeter and his own clear, ringing voice, he succeeded in making himself heard and understood. His lively catechism as to the various branches of occupation represented, and the firms for which the girls worked, revealed the fact that matchmaking was the staple trade, and that Messrs. Bryant & May were by far the largest employers. They were all "full timers," with almost a solitary exception, and their hours, as a rule, were from eight to seven. The Doctor's words of advice on matters of dress and good conduct were well received, though we fear he hit a sore spot, and went perilously near the end of his tether, when he described to them a girl he had met wearing a sky-blue dress, and a yellow hat, with a long green feather, and for which she had become indebted to the tallyman to the amount of 22s. This gave him the opportunity of commending the Girl's Club and other efforts for their welfare that are made in connection with his Institutions. The mention of some meetings held for them at Harley Hall, elicited many shouts of "Miss Guinness! Miss Guinness!" when they were asked the name of the friend there who did all she could to help them and brighten their lives. Miss Kennedy was also evidently very popular with some of them.

Apart from the tea and Dr. Barnardo's talks, the main features of the evening were the singing by some members of Professor André's Choir (which was really excellent, and was rapturously applauded), an amusing recitation by a very small lady, and an earnest Gospel address by Richard Weaver. The evangelist did his best to enchain the attention and engage the feelings of his strange and restless audience while he spoke of the One "Who loved me and gave Himself for me." Those who were well within the reach of his voice listened with much apparent interest; we can but hope and pray that some of his touching incidents and affectionate appeals may have lodged in their minds and memories some seeds of saving truth, that will spring up and fructify, in spite of the weeds and thorns and the stony ground, and the birds of evil omen that are ready to steal the word away.

We end our brief sketch as we began, by warmly commending this effort to reach and elevate a class that sorely needs a helping hand, and the guiding counsel of those who are more favourably circumstanced in the great battlefield of life. When we recollect that this gathering comes only once a year, and that the temptations of public-house, and dancing-saloon, and music-hall, and others still worse, are in full play all the year round, the outlook seems rather hopeless. Much counterbalancing good is no doubt done by the steady silent agencies of which this friendly gathering was the outward and visible sign. While we strongly plead for the multiplication of such agencies, we feel that little improvement can be hoped for until many of those public incitements to evil to which we have referred are swept out of existence.

◆

MISS LEIGH'S PARIS HOMES.

THE annual meeting of these Mission Homes was held on Tuesday, January 13, at No. 77, Avenue Wagram. A number of friends and visitors were present to hear the annual report of the operations during the past year. The Mission rooms, recently renovated and redecorated, were very bright and attractive; a few flowers and wreaths of the Christmas festival still remained. The special attraction, however, was in the presence of the little band of children from the Orphanage, the living pictures of blooming health.

Bishop Titcomb, a warm friend of the Mission, was called to the chair. After prayer by Rev. A. J. Harrison, Rector of Christchurch, Neuilly, and a hymn sung by the children of the Orphanage, Professor Yeatman read the annual report, which gave in detail the results of the operations of the various branches during the year 1884.

In the course of a very interesting speech, full of wise counsel and cordial sympathy, Bishop Titcomb read a letter from Mr. McAll, in which he said: "I should gladly have testified by my presence my high appreciation of Miss Leigh's excellent and much-needed work, which has been so evidently blessed to the well-being of so many among the English-speaking residents of this vast city. Miss Leigh is entitled to our warmest gratitude for her varied and devoted labours." The Bishop concluded by expressing his hearty sympathy with the work and all the workers, and wishing for each that best of New Year's gifts, the gift of the Holy Spirit.

Dr. James Wood, of Southport, in a very interesting speech, seconded the adoption of the report, remarking that none but God could calculate the immense influence for good which flowed from the work of the Mission Homes.

Other addresses were given and the cordial thanks of the meeting tendered to the Bishop for presiding.

A NATIONAL TEMPERANCE LEAGUE for the United States has lately been formed in Boston, Mass. The New York Evangelist believes it will have a long and wide reign of usefulness.

CONTINENTAL AND FOREIGN NOTES.

Brittany is opening to evangelical work; fifteen Roman Catholic families have just joined the little Church of Lorient.—Christianisme.

The Norwegian Bible Society distributed, in 1883, 10,860 portions of Holy Scripture, including 4786 Bibles. Since the foundation of the Society 442,791 Bibles and New Testaments have been distributed.

Sydney.—A correspondent, writing on Dec. 2, says: The new building of the Y.M.C.A. will be ready next year, when finished it will have cost us £33,000. The estimated cost of site and building is £50,000. The work among young men has been greatly owned and blest of God.

Newfoundland.—In a recent letter to a friend in England, Mr. W. Goodchild, missionary in Newfoundland, tells of some long and perilous, evangelistic journeys in that region of Arctic snow. He says that nevertheless he is very happy in his work. The exchequer of the Mission in connection with which he labours must be at a low ebb, as he states that for the past six months he has received no salary.

Mr. R. Herzhog's large house of business in Berlin has recently stopped all work on Sundays, not only in the retail department, but in the counting-house, offices, and depôts, so that the personnel of this large house is quite free on Sunday. The Reichsbote says, "If a house which is the most considerable in its branch on the Continent can do this it is a proof that complete Sabbath rest is possible throughout Germany."—Bulletin Dominical.

South America.—The following item of news comes to us from the British and Foreign Press Association:—"The Bishop of Para has instituted a floating church on the Amazon River. At the prow of the vessel a large cross is fixed, which is illuminated at night with the electric light. This can be seen for many miles down the river, and is the subject of much interest to the savage tribes on both banks. The Bishop of Para is stated to be doing excellent work by means of this device."

Norway.—The Constitution of 1814 decreed that the State Religion of this country should be Evangelical Lutheran. The Church, however, has no voice, and must be content with every decision of Parliament. That such an arrangement was not desirable for the Church has long been felt, and the clergy and friends of the State Church propose holding this year, in Christiana, a Conference of seventy-two members, one-third being clergy, when they hope to draw up a new Ecclesiastical Constitution, which they will present to the King.—Evan.-Kirch Anzeiger.

Savoy.—The following is extracted from a letter dated December 29:—"Twice I have been called to Switzerland and Savoy, and spent two months travelling up and down among the mountains, telling of the wonderful love of Christ, and succeeded in founding a Mission. I could not, humanly speaking, have succeeded without the leaflets of the Children's Special Service Mission. Pray for help for Savoy. A whole kingdom of 500,000 souls, with but one réunion, and no evangelist." Mr. Alex. Donaldson, 70, Rue La Fontaine, Auteuil, Paris, will be glad to give full particulars of the work, if desired.

BELFAST Y.W.C.A.—At the annual social gathering of this Association last week, addresses on the various aspects of the work were delivered by Mr. Thomas Sinclair, J.P. (chairman), Miss Nicholson, Dungannon; Miss Marrable, Dublin; Rev. H. Montgomery, and others.

BISHOP WILLIAM TAYLOR sailed on January 7, per s.s. Gaboon, for Liberia. On February 4 the main party of missionaries will sail from Liverpool for St. Paul de Loanda, the Bishop joining them at Cape Palmas. Writing to The Methodist Times, the Bishop says:—"We shall number 24 men, 14 ladies, and 21 children belonging to the eight families in the above number. We are bound for the interior of Africa by the path of Dr. Pagge and Lieutenant Wissmann. As our friends in England have not had an opportunity of a share in this movement for establishing self-supporting Missions in the dark continent, I think it but fair that they should have a chance. The voluntary gifts of our friends supply our Transit Fund. When put down in the field, the missionaries depend for subsistence on indigenous resources, and draw their salary in full when they get to heaven. By a reduction of prices per African Steamship Company, we pay but £25 per passenger from Liverpool to Loanda, so that for the sum of £25 any person may have the honour of sending a missionary, or many together may combine and send one. Messrs. Fowler Brothers, 3, Victoria-street, Liverpool, are my agents to purchase tickets and 'help these brethren on their way.'"

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Sydney, N.S.W.—Mr. Geo. Williams, evangelist, has just arrived from England, and is much better for the voyage. He has assisted in conducting services in the Opera House (one of the largest theatres) on Sunday night for men only, and is drawing large crowds to hear the "Old, old Story," and blessing has already attended the services.

Dana Walker, Hon. Sec. Y.M.C.A.

New Cut.—Special services were conducted at the Working Men's Mission Hall, on Sunday, Jan. 4, by Mr. John Creer, of the Evangelisation Society. Seven meetings were held during the day. A real revival time was experienced, the scene in the inquiry-room being impressive in the extreme. A number at the close of the day professed conversion, and were placed under the care of the Visiting Committee.

Bath.—Mr. John Elliott has been conducting Gospel Services in a Mission hall here surrounded by a very low class of people. Drunkenness and vice abound on every hand. Through prayer and united effort many of the people have attended the meetings. Thank God, some who a few weeks ago were vile drunkards, are now, as far as man can judge, rejoicing in the Saviour. On Monday week, through the kindness of Christian friends, a free dinner was given to about 300 of the most destitute. who afterwards remained for the Gospel meeting. The greatest attention was paid throughout.

Newcastle-on-Tyne. — In a circular letter, Captain Robertson says:—The circus services have, in their present form, come to an end, through the decision of the present lessee not to let the circus on Sundays. During the month of January, however, arrangements have been made to carry on the services in three or four smaller halls. Results we leave with God; but, personally, my heart is full with the many signs and blessings He has already allowed us to see. There is a debt of £80 remaining over; I have little doubt friends will enable me to clear off the old balance, and to go boldly ahead in the future.

Sadlers' Wells Theatre.—A lady from Weston-super-Mare, now in London on a visit, thus writes: "On Sunday evening, January 11, it was my privilege to attend a service at Sadlers' Wells Theatre. I shall not easily forget the scene. I was so much impressed with the influence Mr. Catlin evidently exercises over a Clerkenwell audience, and the orderly way in which the crowd, numbering 2500, behaved, not only during the singing of hymns, but also while the Gospel addresses were being delivered by Mr. Catlin and others. I lack the power to write a proper description of my impressions of the Sadlers' Wells Theatre services."

Woodside, Aberdeen. — Evangelistic services were held here every evening (except Saturday) for a fortnight in December. They were held in the Free, Congregational, and United Presbyterian churches, and were conducted by Mr. Oscar Owers. All the meetings were well attended. Mr. Owers loves work, and he did not spare himself here. The interest in the prayer-meetings grew as they went on. The workers' meetings were very largely attended, and none who were present can soon forget them. Mr. Owers proclaims the Gospel with remarkable impressiveness and power. Many, we are sure, will look back very gratefully on this special effort. D.

Luton Evangelistic Society.—For over six months this Society, which is composed entirely of working people, has been telling the "Old, old Story" three times every Sunday in the Corn Exchange. The hire of the hall, together with printing notices, &c., involves considerable expense, which, however, is gladly met week by week by those who attend the meetings. Just now the Society is in want of an American organ. Any friend having one they would like to give to be used in the Lord's service, or anyone who would like to enable the Society to purchase one, may communicate with J. B. Wookey, 31, Paternoster-square, London.

Tillingham and Bradwell, Essex.—The Primitive Methodists have been holding special religious services here. Rev. J. Jopling was liberated from other circuit work to undertake the conducting of the meetings, with the result that an earnest feeling was created. But being compelled to turn to circuit work after labouring a week at each place, the services of Mrs. K. Yeoland, lady evangelist, were procured. She was made useful in leading some noted sinners to Christ, and who promise to make useful members of the community. Mrs. Yeoland's intensely practical method of presenting Gospel truths eminently fits her for such work. We are sorry to learn that she has met with an accident since leaving us for Christmas holidays. We are waiting for her recovery in order to engage her again, if possible, for a short time. J. J.

Wellington, Salop.—We are enjoying greatly a visit of Mr. Henry Thorne. He preaches with wonderful power. Large numbers profess to have found the Lord. The crowd was so great last night, we are expecting an overflow meeting to-night. We have mid-day prayer-meetings largely attended. They are very bright and happy, and prayer is answered. Many special requests are sent in to be offered. At the afternoon Bible-readings Christians are lifted up and blessed in a remarkable way.

Wellington, Jan. 15. J. Ed. Cranage.

Blackhill, Co. Durham.—The services of our sisters, Misses Wilson and Watson, have been greatly owned of the Lord in their Mission at the Agricultural Hall, Blackhill, co. Durham. Many souls have professed to turn from the service of Satan, and have avowed Jesus Christ as their Lord. These sisters hold prayer-meeting at 7 a.m.; noon prayer-meeting; evening service at 7 p.m. daily. The meetings continue until midnight. Sinners come to the penitent form—ten, twenty, thirty, and forty at a time, and all ages; from ten to seventy infidels have brought their books to be burned. Men, so sunk in vice that they have been refused employment by everyone, are now respectable and in employment. Drunkards, swearers, fighting men, dog fanciers, cock fighters, gamblers, racing men, poachers, and men of every grade have bowed the knee to Jesus, and donned the blue ribbon.

John Gibbinson.

Letters to the Editor.

YOUNG PEOPLE IN BUSINESS-HOUSES.

Dear Sir,—I am interested in a young man who went into the outskirts of London some time ago, and is causing his friends great anxiety by falling away from the path of religious promise in which he once walked. I venture to write to you about one of the occasions of his going back; for it touches a circumstance with which many are concerned, and in relation to which it would be proper and probably useful for a public protest to be raised.

It is expected of the young man I speak of (who resides at the place of business) to quit the house on the Lord's Day morning, and not return to it until eleven o'clock at night. In my simplicity I thought that a regulation so full of peril must have been unusual; but I am informed that it is quite common. It would seem to be a growing custom, with masters in business, to turn the inexperienced, on the day when their services are not wanted, adrift on the streets of the great Metropolis.

I need not try to depict the results likely to accrue, when the persons heartlessly thrust upon their own resources every seventh day are fond of worldly pleasure and indifferent to spiritual good. The frightful consequences become patent on a moment's reflection.

But how about even the better class of young people, who have been well brought up, and are more or less desirous to keep out of the paths of the destroyer? One of the three following courses will, I presume, be taken, by a rightly-disposed youth:—

(1) If decidedly serious and bent upon doing his very best, he may secure (not without expense) a sort of Sunday home, in which to have his meals served and be at liberty to spend his leisure hours. But the difficulty of finding the accommodation must be great; and of those who have both the inclination and the pecuniary means for such an arrangement, few will succeed in making it to their comfort and satisfaction.

(2) More common will be the plan of shifting to get meals only provided, and taking one's chance as to the weary hours that have to be whiled away. Let it be supposed that much of the time is spent in religious services, Bible-classes, and the like occupation. What of the dismal intervals between, and especially of the space towards the end of the day? At 8 o'clock, when the congregations retire from the sanctuary, and for the most part disperse to comfortable homes, how wretched must be the plight of the conscientious and friendless youth who has three long hours to dispose of before daring to re-enter his employer's door! Individual instances will doubtless be met by Christian zeal; but how many must suffer despite all that benevolence can do! and what right have selfish employers to create this new demand on the resources of faith and love already so heavily taxed?

(3) Doubtless not a few young persons will have relations and friends, in different parts of London, ready to shelter the homeless one if he choose to visit them. The situation now seems improved, but it has serious drawbacks. It is the position of my young friend, and I could wish that he were, instead, in the midst of entire strangers. Having to go in quest of those who will be kind to him, he is committed to constant Sunday travelling, is without the advantages of a settled religious fellowship or home, and sees the inside of various places of worship, or enters none at all, according to the accident of the locality which he happens to be in, and the practice of the persons, some of them very careless and worldly, whose hospitality is sought.

The immediate effect may be easily anticipated. It is nearly inevitable. The good promise of former days is rudely disappointed and early faith threatened with wreck.

Youths and maidens are confronted by temptations, enough and sufficiently formidable, which no solicitude and ingenuity are able to forestall. Can nothing be done to shield them from voluntary and gratuitous exposure to evil? Are any of their selfish or thoughtless employers Christian men? And have they no scruples as to the responsibility of an arrangement which almost drives the young people under their charge towards the brink of ruin; and that on the very day of the week when special effort should be made to keep them within the reach of holy influence?

One may hope that a loud expression of alarm and horror on the subject might so awaken the dulled sensibilities of conscience, as to secure some of our many imperilled youth of either sex from such moral danger. Yours truly,

A Country Pastor.

"MORE LESSONS LEARNED IN ITALY."

Dear Sir,—I have read a short paper in The Christian, of the 8th inst., under the above heading, and I feel impelled to make a few remarks on it. Two classes in the Church of Rome are spoken of, namely, "Monks" and "Nuns." Both are referred to in rather apologetic tones, indeed in terms of commendation. "The austerity and poverty" of the Franciscan and other monks is held up to us for our imitation. They are poor, and deservedly so. What are they? Simply a set of idle, dirty, ignorant old men, doing no good either to themselves or others; whereas if they had remained in their natural position as "hewers of wood and drawers of water" they would have been of use in God's world.

Next we are asked to "pray for the poor Italian nuns, who, with careworn faces and downcast eyes, tread the streets of this city." These women, we must say, do good. They are useful in tending the sick, and in teaching the young, up to their own light. But to speak of them as having "careworn faces" is scarcely in accordance with facts. Fatter, plumper, more buxom women are not to be found in Italy; the majority of them, too, are young and hearty girls.

The Church of Rome, in every aspect of it, is to-day, what it has always been, an unmitigated curse; an engine of ignorance and superstition, vice, and cruelty. Whatever liberty and prosperity—material, intellectual, and moral—Italy now enjoys is due to her partial deliverance from Popery, and to the establishment in her midst of free schools and Protestant churches, and other liberty-giving, enlightening, and purifying institutions.—Yours, &c., Pastor.

San Remo, Jan. 11.

BRIXTON AND CLAPHAM CHRISTIAN UNION.—The first meeting this year of this band of Christian workers was held at 4, The Lawn, Brixton-rise, on the evening of the 9th inst. Many heartily bore testimony to God's grace to them, especially in the different kinds of service in which they were engaged. Earnest prayer and heartfelt thanksgiving were offered for blessings during the past year. A short but earnest address was given by Mr. Spencer Walton, on the work of the Holy Spirit, which was very helpful to many.

LAMB AND FLAG SCHOOLS AND MISSION.—The thirty-eighth annual report of this Mission, situated in Red Lion-square, Clerkenwell-green, says that the distress now existing in the district makes it difficult to pen an adequate account of the state of the poor without seeming to exaggerate. The soup dinners for destitute children are being given; without these nourishing meals, says Mr. Sherrard, most of the poor children who partake of them would grow up weak, sickly starvelings, prepared victims for any distemper or epidemic that might visit the metropolis. The staple trades of the district (watch and jewellery) are almost at a standstill, and poverty is steadily increasing. There are about 700 children in the schools. For the sixth consecutive time those in situations have taken the largest number of prizes for long service and good conduct of any school in London. The various meetings of the Mission are well attended, and are producing good results.

ALL-DAY MEETING, NEWCASTLE.

THE Eleventh Anniversary of the Newcastle Noon-day Prayer-meeting was celebrated by an All-day Meeting on Thursday last. The attendances were large throughout the day, though the weather was very unfavourable.

The meeting was opened at noon, under the presidency of Rev. Dr. Bruce, one of the prime promoters of the Noon-day Meeting. After praise and prayer, the introductory subject, "Advantages and Claims of the Noon-day Meeting," was opened by the venerable President. In an impressive address on the paramount importance of prayer, he said he believed it was in answer to the prayers of a little meeting held twenty years ago that Messrs. Moody and Sankey were brought to Newcastle. To that visit was due the institution of their own Noon-day Prayer-meeting. He also instanced cases where benevolent institutions and Christian associations with which he was connected owed their existence to the efficacy of prayer.

After the usual requests for prayer had been presented, Rev. J. Macpherson, of Dundee, continued the subject. He said many of God's children had a difficulty about Paul's injunction to "Pray without ceasing," but they should note that this injunction was preceded by another—"Rejoice evermore." If they always rejoiced it was easy always to pray. The subject was further discussed by speakers from the congregation.

The chair was then taken by Captain Robertson, the chief organiser of the great Circus Sunday services, which, just now, are being carried on with much success in four different halls. The first subject, "The Conversion of Little Children," was opened by Rev. W. J. Townsend (Methodist New Connexion), who said there was nothing more beautiful than the ready, simple faith of a little child. If parents only knew the delight they lost in not leading their children to Christ they would not be so remiss in this sacred duty. He advocated admission to Church membership at earlier ages, and the institution of short, simple services for children.

Mr. J. Marchbank quoted the highest authority for his belief in the conversion of little children; and Mr. T. H. Bainbridge (Wesleyan) pointed out the importance of taking care of children when converted.

The next subject was "How best to utilise the lay membership of the Church," and was opened by Rev. R. Brown (Presbyterian). The Christian Church was composed, or should be, of converted members, and the introduction of those who could give no good ground for their belief was a source of weakness. A place and a work should be found for every individual member, each in his or her sphere, as in the Army, where the little drummer-boy of the regiment had his duties to perform just as much as the Commander-in-Chief. Mr. Walker (Presbyterian) said every wheel in a machine had its office to fulfil.

"Resemblance to God" was a subject introduced by Rev. F. Stubbs (Baptist) in an earnest and thoughtful address.

"Strength for Christian Work: How it is gained, kept, and used," was introduced by Rev. J. Macpherson. To be strong they must have faith in the instrument they used—the Gospel—which was essentially eternal truth. In the atoning sacrifice they had a mighty power in dealing with men. They must have love and singleness of mind, as well as assurance of their own salvation, and assurance that the Lord had sent them and given them the work to do, and they must always be ready and always at work. But the one thing which was always important was prayer. Each of these points was discussed by speakers from the body of the hall in an interesting and profitable manner.

At this stage the meeting adjourned for tea in the lower room.

After tea the chair was taken by Rev. Jas. Cuthbertson (Wesleyan), and the evening proceedings were very interesting.

The first subject, "Connection between prayer and Christian service," was taken up by Rev. J. Mitchell (Infirmary Chaplain), who defined prayer as a voluntary act, by which Christians put themselves and others in connection with the power of God. A healthy Christian knows that he cannot do without prayer, and that it enables him to do his duty in God's service. God's work is carried out through the instrumentality of man; we should rejoice to be called to work, and should surrender ourselves to God's guidance.

Mr. Thos. Hunter (Presbyterian) said Christian work abounded on every side, and the organisation was wonderful, but the results were too often unsatisfactory and disappointing in the extreme. He would be a bold man who would say that they had done more than touch the fringe of the seething mass of Godlessness that existed. He attributed this failure to the fact that there were now few places where true prayer was wont to be heard—few "upper rooms." Christian service without prayer was mere human weakness.

The Chairman did not take such a despondent view. Mr. Moody's work in England was the result of prayer, and they should stimulate each other in striving to reach the masses.

Rev. J. Macpherson believed there were now more Christians on the face of the earth than ever before, and never so much done in the Church of Christ. He liked to remember that he was on the winning side.

The subject of the "Evangelisation of the Masses" was capably introduced by Captain Robertson. His motto had been rather to work than to speak, and the work was very much like that of the army. They needed organisation. He always admired the organisation of the Wesleyan body, and considered their success was due to it. They must have humility and self-sacrifice. Unanimity was a great power, for united, Christian people could turn the city upside down, and fill every place of worship. Another need was leadership. Mr. Moody was a born General, and if he had been in the army he would have been the greatest general they had had for years. Inquiry-meetings were very important, and he wished Christians could meet together to consider that subject. So, also, was street-work and visiting, and in their services a good choir was always very desirable.

Major Dowdle (Salvation Army) said it was important that the sympathy and intelligence of the masses should be reached. They should vary their meetings and make them attractive.

Mr. Brown, a commercial traveller, gave an interesting account of his connection with Captain Robertson's work at Norwich and Newcastle.

Mr. D. Moffat would have sound preachers rather than "enthusiasts" to do street-work. The Chairman and Rev. J. M. Stephens endorsed these sentiments, as street-preachers should possess the necessary knowledge to overcome the peculiar difficulties of the situation.

Rev. R. Leitch (Presbyterian) referred to the practical character of the address of Capt. Robertson, who was really doing a great work. His own church subscribed £200 annually for Mission work, and as they only desired that the unsaved should be brought to a saving knowledge of Jesus, they did not ask what Church they went to.

The closing subject was "Facts and incidents in Evangelistic Work," and was introduced by Rev. J. Macpherson, who, in an interesting and felicitous address of some length, marshalled many illustrative facts and incidents of his own and others' work, notably those in connection with his experiences in company with Duncan Matheson. He concluded with thanking his kind friends for their invitation to come among them.

The Chairman, who said they would all be struck with the peculiarly interesting reminiscences of Mr. Macpherson, related some curious experiences of his own, as also did Captain Robertson. After some further conversational remarks the interesting and successful meeting was brought to a close at nine o'clock.

ANOTHER Y.M.C.A. RECEPTION.

A NEW year's reception to the Gracechurch-street Branch of the Y.M.C.A. was held by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tritton on Friday evening, at the Centenary Hall, Bishopsgate-street. A large number were assembled at the appointed hour, and a hearty welcome was accorded them.

After tea, there was a season of prayer and sacred song, in which the Exeter Hall Choir assisted.

Expressing his own and Mrs. Tritton's desire that the young men might have a happy year, Mr. Tritton showed in a practical manner how it might indeed become so. They must never be satisfied with doing anything short of their very best. Let them have plenty of "snap," as the Americans called it. He urged all young men to join the Association who had not yet done so. The main thing, however, for a happy year was to have a prosperous spiritual life, and this thought he forcibly pressed home.

The meeting was turned into a delightful conversazione, during which musical ears were regaled with more "spiritual songs." Short, happy, bright speeches, not exceeding three minutes each, were then the order of the evening. Mr. Edward Trotter led off with a few terse sentences about following Christ. Mr. Stephen Bourne said he believed the present commercial depression would work for good. Another wondered how we dare to hesitate when Jesus calls us to do service for Him. Ere the meeting closed a laudable attempt was made to move a vote of thanks to the worthy host and hostess; this, however, was kindly but firmly, and, we think sensibly, resisted by Mr. Tritton, who gracefully added, "We thank you for the 'reception' you have given to us."

MR. MOODY began a series of meetings in Richmond, Va., early in January.

BALLET GIRLS.—There was a large gathering last Friday afternoon in the Waterloo-road Chapel schoolroom, in response to an invitation left at several of the London theatres. Those present partook of a substantial tea which was provided, and afterwards joined in a religious service. Mr. W. Forbes presided over the gathering, and urged upon his hearers the importance of their leading religious and temperate lives.

SURGERY AND VIVISECTION.—Mr. Edward A. Freeman, writing on this subject to The Times, says:—"The practical conclusion that I come to is that if the distinction can be drawn in practice between what I hold to be lawful and unlawful vivisection, I would allow one and forbid the other. But I see the very great difficulty in drawing the line between the two; and, if it cannot be drawn in practice, especially as it seems so very doubtful whether vivisection has lessened human suffering or not, I can only go in for a complete forbidding of the practice."

SOUTH LONDON MISSIONS.—The annual Sunday-school tea was given to the children of this Mission on Tuesday last, and in the evening a public meeting was held for the parents and friends, during which the children sang appropriate hymns and solos. A presentation was made to Mr. Rowland Ashton, the Hon. Superintendent of the Mission, as a token of the love and esteem in which he is held. In acknowledging, Mr. Ashton expressed his thankfulness to God for the great reward of united Christian effort shown by the number of young converts present.

KINGSLAND INSTITUTE FOR WORKING GIRLS.—Dear Sir,—Will your readers kindly help us to get a piano for our Institute? It might almost be called a necessity in work of this kind. If we are to draw rough girls, factory workers, and the like, out of the streets and away from temptation, we must have strong inducements to offer. A matron who was with us for three months had a piano, which was in constant use. She left us a month ago, but lamentations may still be heard about the loss of the instrument. In many houses there is some old school-room piano which is never used, but which would be a treasure to us, and give unending delight to these poor girls. There are constant fresh openings for work, but our need for workers, especially skilled workers, is very great.—Yours truly, E. Robarts, Hon. Superintendent.

Ridley-road, Dalston.

Notices of Books, &c.

Living and Working; or, Thoughts by the Way. By Captain Dawson. 6d. Shaw & Co. This packet of little books will be found useful and helpful to all who are "living and working" for Christ.

The Lighted Lamp. A New Year's Address. By the Rev. Gordon Calthrop. Wm. Hunt & Co. A few well-chosen words to those who are "the light of the world," and do not yet know it. Selfish Christians may be roused by reading it.

Our Liquor Laws. By Corney Simmonds. 2d., 337, Strand. A handbook for Temperance reformers and workers, designed to post them well up in the various aspects and relations of the licensing system. The pressing need is shown for a speedy alteration in the direction of popular control and ultimate prohibition. The treatise is ably written, and contains a vast amount of information.

Helps to Health: The Habitation, the Nursery, the Schoolroom, and the Person. By Henry C. Burdett. Kegan Paul, Trench & Co. No one who has read this book can plead ignorance on the important subjects discussed in it. The amount of useful information contained in its 252 pages is wonderful, and the result of scientific research is brought within the reach of any ordinarily intelligent reader.

The Better Land. By Jeremiah Dodsworth. New edition. Thomas Jack, 45, Ludgate-hill. A reprint of an old book, written when the Californian gold fever was at its height. Seizing this emigration craze as a simile, the author happily and enthusiastically sets forth the peerless advantages and glorious wonders of "The Better Land." Those who have known the book in days gone by will be glad that it is again to be obtained, and new readers will find in it much that is edifying and heart-warming.

What I Saw in India. By Henry Stanley Newman. S. W. Partridge. This is a stimulating narrative of the author's journey through India in 1880 and 1881, giving a kind of bird's-eye view of the various centres of Mission work. It is graphically written, and interspersed with pictures on almost every page. It is well calculated to arouse a missionary enthusiasm in the minds of the young, and to encourage the supporters of foreign Missions in all churches. Its handsome binding renders it particularly suitable for presentation.

The Water Drinkers of the Bible. By J. W. Kirton, LL.D. The National Temperance Depôt. "Water is best," said the old Greek sage, and so say the sages of the Bible according to Dr. Kirton. At all events he shows that the great men and the good men whose histories are given in sacred story were pre-eminently water drinkers, and that their abstinence from strong drink was an essential part of their qualification for high and sacred work. Total abstinence is the keynote of the book, but there are many other lessons to be learned from its interesting pages.

Through Egypt, Palestine, and Syria. By Rev. J. K. Campbell. S. W. Partridge & Co. Apart from the interest to the author's personal friends, for whom we are told this sketch of a recent tour in Bible lands was specially written, it possesses considerable attraction for all who love to dwell on sacred scenes. The events of Scripture are grouped in an exceedingly interesting manner around the places in which they occurred. As one well-known spot after another is reached, the writer halts, and pictures to the imagination of his readers the varied events which those hills and streams have witnessed in days gone by. His descriptions of scenery are vivid, and an air of wholesome freshness pervades the book.

Thoughts and Questions About Holiness. By Bishop Ryle. This is a very spiritual little book. Although not controversial in tone, it argues out "Certain Modern Ideas about Holiness" very thoroughly. Speaking of the "Higher Christian Life," the Bishop of Liverpool says: "I question the wisdom of making new-fangled divisions which the Bible has not made, and I thoroughly dislike the notion of a second conversion." Those who speak of a positive and a comparative Christian life should read this little work.—Very refreshing, too, is the Bishop's Cheering Thoughts for 1885. It is called "Many Shall Come," and is a trumpet-call to salvation and victory.—Your Ways? An Inquiry for 1885, also by Bishop Ryle, is a timely and searching question which, together with the resolve and the exhortation following it, makes it a very valuable tract for distribution. The two last-named are 2s. per dozen, and the whole are published by Messrs. W. Hunt & Co.

Illuminated Wall Cards.—A packet of these cards (entitled "My Redeemer") has been prepared by Mr. J. G. Wheeler, 88, Mildmay Park, N. The texts, of which there are six varieties, are well chosen, the lettering is at once neat and bold, while the colourings are pleasant to the eye. The price of the packet of twelve is 2s.

"Hast Thou here Any Besides?" or, Salvation in Every House. By Mark Guy Pearse. Woolmer. A very valuable and timely address to parents. It vividly contrasts the households of Abraham and Lot, and shows how disastrous are the results which flow from not seeking first the kingdom of God and his righteousness. In opening it we read with pleasure the recommendation to "let the servants have a place in the daily prayer."

A Diurnal for the Changes and Chances of this Mortal Life. Hatchards. An exceedingly happy compilation of helpful thoughts, chiefly in poetry. Unique in its aspect, that for every day in the year some special bit of experience common to most lives, or some special aspect of spiritual life, is taken up. The key-note is given in the poem for New Year's Day—"God's will to know," "to do," and "to love," being the refrain of its three short verses. It is edited by Catherine Sturge, a member of the Society of Friends, and the quoted pieces are culled from writers of every section of the Church universal. The compiler says it is not a devotional book, but the leading up of every event in life to higher things is very helpful. Altogether it is a charming little book.

China's Millions. Edited by J. Hudson Taylor, M.R.C.S., F.R.G.S. 1s. and 2s. 6d. Morgan & Scott. The records of the work done in connection with the China Inland Mission for 1884 are contained in this volume, and form one of the most heart-stirring and faith-inspiring Gospel testimonies connected with missionary annals. The work and the workers are brought before the readers in graphic style, the simplicity and unvarnished character of the journals, and general intelligence given, being the great charms of the volume. The book should have a large circulation; its subject and its intrinsic merits alike demand it. It is published in two editions—one in paper covers; the other, handsomely bound in cloth gilt, forms an elegant volume for drawing-room use.

Teaching and Teachers; or, The Sunday-school Teacher's Teaching Work. By H. Clay Trumbull, D.D. 6s. Hodder & Stoughton. In this handsome volume lies a mine of wealth for the teacher. The subject of "Memorising," as here treated, should be understood, not only by Sunday-school teachers, but by all engaged in the office of instructing. Such a book as this will almost make a teacher, so comprehensive is it, not only as to detail, but the possibilities of his work. Section II. of the third chapter, "On making clear what you teach," is, perhaps, the most valuable part of the work. The teacher is exhorted to look to himself, as "the average scholar's answers are better than the average teacher's questions." Dr. Trumbull speaks truly when he says that the responsibilities of this great work of Sunday-school teaching are infinite. Surely his splendid book will stir up many to more thoroughness, prayer, and consecration.

A Voice that is Still. Memorials of Esther Beamish. By Her Sister. John F. Shaw & Co. With the memory of this sister and servant of the Gospel still fresh in our hearts, how near to us she seems as we lovingly scan this simple record of her beautiful life! What ought not the story of her Eastern tour to do in the hearts of the young who read it? Such zeal for God, such love to sinners, such tender pity for the suffering could belong only to one in close communion with Christ. The story is almost romantic with its ever-varying circumstances and constant change of scene, and shows how perfectly high spiritual enjoyment can be wedded to a lofty perception of the glories of nature, so that there appears to be an almost ecstatic realisation of the joys of life. Readers of this welcome memoir will trace in it parallel passages to some incidents in the life of the late Miss Havergal.

RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY.

Man's Misery and God's Mercy. By Adolphe Monod. 8d. A small volume of sermons by the saintly Monod, whose words were always so fitly spoken. The two facts of man's great need and God's exceeding love are put before the reader with great clearness and force. The translator's name is not given, but the translation is most admirable.

Pearls from Deep Waters. By D. J. Legge. 1s. A pretty little book, containing a well chosen text, illustrated by a nice coloured picture for each morning and evening for a month. A true string of pearls.

Only Tell Jesus, and other Life Pages. By Mrs. Lucas Shadwell. 1s. A beautiful collection of stories illustrating the safety and happiness of those who bring "everything to God in prayer." There are some very touching pictures of home life in this little book, and some admirable lessons on Temperance and faith.

Jack; or, The Story of a Pocket-book. By the Author of the "Boys of Highfield." 1s. Jack enlists our hearty interest when we first meet him as an outcast waif, and wins our admiration as his honesty and kindness of heart lead him first into deeper trouble and finally into a career of usefulness and happiness.

The Lilies of the Field. 1s. Here is a book to delight the little ones; large print, soft, clear engravings, and Bible stories, told in simple words, which will go straight to a child's heart.

Walking with Jesus. 1s. 6d. A companion volume to "The Lilies of the Field;" got up in the same attractive style, and possessing the same sterling qualities. Any mother who puts this book into her children's hands will be bringing them into the presence of the Master.

Over the Water. By Evelyn R. Garrett. 1s. This story is calculated to stir the hearts of those young people who are leading idle, selfish lives, with a desire to rouse up and work for the Master, and to waken desire for fuller consecration in easy-going Christians.

The Emigrant's Son. By Ruth Lamb. Phœbe's Cares. 1s. The first of these tales illusrates the truth that as we sow so must we reap. "Phœbe's Cares" is a tale of struggles and sorrows with a happy winding up.

Books for the People: "Tom Baxter's New Year's Day," "Actions speak louder than Words," "Why Will went to Australia," "The Cottage in Hawthorne Lane." Interesting pamphlets, very prettily illustrated; suitable for distribution or cottage reading; teaching, through short and pleasing tales, good practical lessons, and containing sound Gospel truth.

We have also received the following books:—

J. Nisbet & Co.:
  A Translation of the Old Testament Scriptures from the Original Hebrew. By Helen Spurrell. 10s. 6d.
  Man's Departure and the Invisible World. By G. Oliphant-Ferguson. Second edition. 2s. 6d.

J. F. Shaw & Co.:
  Faith and Obedience: Sermons by Rev. F. Nevill.

Marshall Brothers:
  Hymns and Choruses for Church Missions, with Music. 1s.

Nisbet & Co.:
  The Self-Revealing Jehovah of the Old Testament, the Christ of the New Testament. By S. M. Barclay. 7s. 6d.

Wesleyan Methodist Book Room, 2, Castle-street, E.C.:
  Patty Thorne's Adventures. By Mrs. H. B. Paull. 1s. 6d.
  Afterwards. By Emilie Searchfield. 1s.
  Tom; or, A Woman's Work for Jesus. 1s.
  Jesus, and other Sermons for Children. By J. O. B Shrewsbury. 1s.

E. Stock:
  The Gospel Plan: Easy Texts. Compiled by the late Hugh Taylor, M.A. 1s.

A BAIRNS' BREAKFAST.—On Friday morning, January 16, a free breakfast was given to about 200 destitute children in the schoolroom of Harley-street Chapel, Bow, E. The meal consisted of cocoa, with a slice of bread and butter and a large currant roll to each child, and was immensely enjoyed by all the little ones. The cost of the food only just exceeded one penny each. The sight was a very pathetic one. As they tramped in and out of the building several were noticed without boots, whilst some were evidently attired in the garments of their father or mothers. The visitors who distributed the tickets reported great privation among the people. Help is greatly needed to cope with the general and increasing distress, and will be gladly received by Rev. W. Evans Hurndale, 16, Cottage-grove, Bow, London, E.

A DAY OF PRAYER FOR IRELAND.—On Friday afternoon, in the Council Chamber of Exeter Hall, the thirty-sixth anniversary of the foundation of the Society of Irish Church Missions was commemorated by the prayer-meeting which has been held ever since on January 16. Captain Maude presided. Rev. Nevill Sherbrooke, who offered the first prayer, prefaced it by a brief address, in the course of which he referred with gratitude to the past blessing that had followed the work. Rev. Dr. Bennett, Rev. Canon Fowler, and Rev. H. J. Berguer offered prayer, and earnestly commended the workers in connection with the Missions and their work to the care of our Heavenly Father. Rev. Horace W. Townsend, the Society's Clerical Secretary, gave some details as to the financial position of the society. He earnestly appealed for a special effort to relieve the Committee from the necessity of retrenching their operations, and to enable them to give a favourable answer to the frequent requests for assistance from all parts of Ireland.

Requests for Praise and Prayer.

PRAISE.—For great blessing among the poorest people in Bath during the Mission conducted by Mr. John Elliott.

PRAYER.—For special services at Brighton by Mr. John Elliott.——For blessing upon children's services by Mr. George Banister, in Ipswich, from Jan. 25 to 30.——For blessing on meetings to be held on Jan. 28 and 29, in connection with the Y.W.C.A., at Budleigh Salterton.——For much blessing on a week's evangelistic Mission at Greenhill, Derby, beginning on Sunday, Jan. 25.——For meetings in Grange, Banffshire, by Mr. Smith, of Gospel Van Mission, from Jan. 18 to 31.——For Gospel services at Cirencester, from Jan. 24 to 29, by Mr. Opie Rodway.——For blessing on a week's Mission at Seamen's Bethel Chapel, Ratcliff Highway, by Mr. and Mrs. C. King, from Jan. 19 to 26.——For blessing on Mrs. Bradley's Gospel Temperance work in Cornwall, up to Feb. 5.

◆

CHRISTIAN LADS' CONFERENCE, 1885.

AMIDST all the shameless scoffing of these "last days," it is most refreshing to watch the activity of God's grace amongst those whose early youth is just verging on manhood; and it is therefore with a feeling of unmixed gratitude to God that we are able to record his goodness in gathering together, last Saturday afternoon, nearly 200 converted lads, averaging, perhaps, sixteen years of age, at the East-street Mission-rooms, East Greenwich. Amongst the various Missions and Institutions included in the invitation, were the Railway Boys' Mission, Southville; Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home, Southwark; his Little Wanderers' Home, Greenwich; four of Dr. Barnardo's institutions; the Carter Home for Boys, Clapham; the George-yard Ragged-school, and the King Edward-street Ragged-school, Whitechapel; the Royal Hospital Naval-school, Greenwich; several Bible-classes in Woolwich, Plumstead, Wimbledon, Bermondsey, and Deptford, and the Boys' Institutes at West Greenwich, East Greenwich, and Peek, Frean, & Co's Biscuit Factory, the last-named supplying a small band of converted youths playing stringed instruments, for leading the singing.

The subject "How to know what is wrong for a Christian Boy" was heartily discussed, and the following questions were recommended as tests in cases of perplexity. (1) What saith the Scriptures? (2) Should I wish the Lord Jesus to return and find me so occupied? (3) Am I fully persuaded that such a course is right, or is it "not of faith"? (4) Will such conduct help my spiritual life? (5) What would Jesus have done, judging by the example He has left? (6) Can I take Jesus with me, and enjoy his fellowship? (7) Shall I not be conformed to the world? The tests were illustrated by applying them to such practices as smoking, theatre-going, frivolous flirtation, Sunday travelling, and much was still left unsaid when tea-time intervened.

A further party of nearly 100 unconverted boys came in to tea, which was followed by a singularly interesting meeting, consisting chiefly in a score or more of short Gospel testimonies, limited to about four minutes each. During the evening some forty boys acknowledged having been converted since January last year, and about twelve more asked for prayer that they might be saved then. Several professed conversion in the after-meeting. Thus the unsaved were blessed and young Christians edified, but best of all is the conviction that the Lord was pleased. H. S.

January 19.

LONDON CITY MISSION.—The missionaries of the City Mission intend to set apart the last week of this month for special prayer in all their Mission halls and rooms. This being the jubilee year of the Mission, it has been thought that such a concert of prayer in every one of the 460 districts embraced by the Mission would be most appropriate to give thanks for the past, and to seek of the Lord of the harvest greater blessings in the days to come. The meetings are intended for the poor people who have been rescued and gathered in, many of whom are rich in faith.

Forthcoming Meetings.

EVANGELISTIC.

THE EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send Evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

THE IRISH EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send Evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

THE METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE EVANGELISTS' ASSOCIATION will send lay preachers and Evangelists to any chapel or hall of any Evangelical denomination in London. Apply Hon. Sec., 30, Surrey-square, S.E.

THE CHILDREN'S EVANGELISTIC MISSION will send Evangelists to any part of Great Britain to conduct Missions for children and young people. No charge. Apply T. Eyres, Hon. Sec., 253, Southampton-street, Camberwell, S.E.

REV. W. H. AITKEN.—January 18 to February 2, St. Bride's, Manchester; 8th to 20th, St. Stephen's, Hampstead; 22nd to March 9, Parish Church, Marylebone; 15th to 30th, St. Paul's, Burslem; April 12 to 27, Eaton Chapel, S.W.

MESSRS. FULLERTON AND SMITH.—To January 27, Weston-super-Mare; 28th to 30th, Bristol; February 1 to 15, Exeter; 22nd to March 5, St. Helen's, Lancashire; 8th to 26th, Folkestone; 29th to April 19, Southampton; May 3 to 24, Huddersfield; August to December, London.

MESSRS. EDWARD HURDITCH AND F. C. SPURR.—January 28 to February 6, Bishop's Teignton; 8th to 22nd, Gunnislake, Cornwall; 24th to March 8, St. Ives; 10th to 23rd, St. Agnes; 24th to April 5, Wadebridge, Cornwall; 12th to 26th, Falmouth.

MR. J. M. SCROGGIE.—January, Edinburgh; February, Greenock; March, Dunfermline; April, Blackheath.

MR. W. SPENCER WALTON.—January 28, Beckenham.

MR. F. E. MARSH.—February 1 to 22, Withorn, N.B.; March 22 to April 12, Kilbarchan, N.B.

MR. JAS. J. SCROGGIE.—January 25 to February 1, Bethnal Green; 3rd to 6th, Potter's Bar; 8th to 15th, Home of Industry, Spitalfields; 22nd to March 1, Offord, Huntingdon.

MR. HENRY THORNE.—January 24 to February 9, Portsmouth; 13th, Derby; 16th to 23rd, Sheffield; 28th to March 1, Walsall; 2nd to 4th, Wolverhampton; 7th to 16th, Sunderland; 21st to 30th, Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

MESSRS. MATEER AND PARKER.—January 19 to February 1, New Barnet; 1st to 15th, Luton; 16th to 18th, Brockhurst; 19th to 25th, Gosport; 26th to March 8, Ashford, Kent; 9th to 18th, Godalming; 23rd, and onwards, Newport (Mon.)

STEPNEY MEETING HOUSE.—Mrs. G. S. Reaney gives an address every Sunday at 3 p.m.

GOSPEL HALL, Paragon-road, Hackney, E.—Mr. Russell C. Hurditch on Sunday, January 25, at 7 p.m.

CONFERENCE HALL, Mildmay-park, N.—Sunday, January 25, 3.30 p.m., Mr. P. S. Badenoch; 7 p.m., Rev. Z. B. Woffendall.

SOUTH LONDON EVANGELISTIC CHOIR.—Monday, January 26, Lothian-road Chapel, 7.30 p.m., last practice there. See Advt.

NED WRIGHT every Tuesday in January, Down Lodge Hall, Wandsworth.

AGRICULTURAL HALL, Islington, N.—Sunday, January 25, Rev. Thain Davidson, D.D., 3.30 p.m.; Mr. Spurgeon's evangelists, 7 p.m.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.—Mr. J. Spiers, Pembroke; Mr. G. Banaster, Ipswich, January 24 to February 3; Mr. W. F. Seagrove, Barnsbury Chapel, January 12 to 26, at 7 p.m.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MRS. M. BAXTER will give a Bible-reading at 3 o'clock on Thursday, January 22, at 102, Regent's Park-road, N.W. All are invited.

TOWN HALL, Bournemouth.—January 20 to February 22 inclusive, meetings on the Deepening of Spiritual Life, conducted by Mr. H. F. Bowker.

UPPER NORWOOD, Stafford House, Tudor-road.—Drawing-room meeting, at 3 p.m., every Thursday. A young women's meeting on the same day at 8 p.m.

FRIENDLESS AND FALLEN.—New Year's devotional meetings: Friday, January 23, 5, Parson's-green, Fulham; 28th inst., 200, Euston-road. Each meeting 6.30 p.m.

CHURCH PAROCHIAL MISSION SOCIETY.—Opening of new Mission Hall, Tuesday, January 27, parish of St. Saviour's, Battersea Park, S.W., 8 p.m. Bishop of Rochester will preside.

FUNERAL SERMON on late Mr. Thos. Brain, of Sunday-school Union, by Rev. Dr. Thain Davidson, Presbyterian Church, Colebrooke-row, Islington, Sunday, January 25, 6.30 p.m.

HOUSE OF REST, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn-park, N.W.—Friday, January 23, at 7 p.m., subject, "Jesus Christ, the Ruture Ruler of the Kingdoms of the Earth;" tea at 6. Sunday, Bible reading, at 3.30 p.m.

MEETINGS FOR THE DEEPENING OF SPIRITUAL LIFE, Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road.—January 23, "Truthfulness" (Ps. li. 6, Eph. iv. 15), Rev. E. H. Hopkins; 30th, "Grace for Grace" (John i. 16), Rev. C. A. Fox.

STRANGERS' REST, 163, St. George-street, Ratcliff-highway, E.—Monthly workers' meeting, Friday, February 6, tea at 6; meeting at 6.45. Mr. Denham Smith will give an address, subject, "Probable Speedy Coming of Christ."

CHINA INLAND MISSION.—Meeting at Conference Hall, Eccleston-street, S.W., Friday, January 30, 7.30 p.m. Messrs. Stanley P. Smith, C. T. Studd, Montagu Beauchamp, Cecil Polhill Turner, and Arthur Polhill Turner, who leave for China on February 4, will give addresses.

27, BARCLAY-ROAD, Fulham, S.W.—Annual meeting, at St. John's Mission Hall, West Chelsea, Thursday, January 22, 7.30 p.m., Rev. John Shaw, M.A., in the chair. Addresses by Rev. H. W. Webb-Peploe, Mr. F. A. Bevan, Rev. Alexander Campbell (of Montrose), Mr. Donald Matheson, Rev. W. E. Batty, &c.

HOME OF INDUSTRY, 60, Commercial-street, Spitalfields.—Workers' meeting, Wednesday, January 21, tea at 6, meeting at 7 p.m. Mr. C. B. Ker will preside, and give the workers their watchword for the New Year. Mr. G. R. Cole will introduce the City missionaries labouring among foreigners in London.

Y.M.C. ASSOCIATIONS.

61, GRACECHURCH-STREET, E.C.—Daily prayer meeting, 1.15 to 2 p.m. (Sat. excepted). Bible study in Isaiah each Tuesday, at 6.15 p.m. Youths, alternate Wednesdays, 6.30 p.m. Soldiers, each Friday, 7 p.m. Tea and Gospel addresses to a hundred poor men, by members, at George-yard, Whitechapel, Friday, 30th inst., 8 p.m.

THE PRIORY, 198, Upper-street, Islington, N.—Thursday, January 22, at 8.30 p.m., address, Rev. G. Wilson, M.A.; Saturday, 24th, at 8 p.m., Bible study; Sunday, 25th, at 9.30 a.m., fellowship meeting; 3.15 p.m., Bible class, 1 Tim. ii. 5; 8.15 p.m., evangelistic meeting; Tuesday, 27th, at 8 p.m., readings and recitations; Wednesday, 6 to 10 p.m., anxious inquirers and strangers.

EXETER HALL.—Daily Prayer Meeting (Saturday excepted), 1 to 2 p.m. Strangers' meeting, Monday, 8 p.m. Evangelistic meeting, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, 8 p.m. Bible reading by Colonel Puget Saturday, 8 p.m. Bible readings, by Mr. F. E. Marsh, at the mid-day prayer meeting, till January 23. Special Bible addresses, by Rev. Chas. A. Fox, Thursdays, January 22 and 29, February 5 and 12, 8 p.m.

Notices.

WILL the friend who has kindly sent a copy of THE CHRISTIAN to Rev. John K. Harris, Red Cloud, Webster Co., Nebraska, please change the address to Scotia, Greeley Co., Nebraska, U.S.A.

COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED WITH THANKS.—W.G. Col. B. C.H.K. H.H. W.J.B. D.M. W.L. E.S.Y. J.G. J.O.D. S.H. A.W.H. A.R. A.W. D.W. A.B. E.H.R. A.A.S. J.J. J.T. G.F. A.J.W. A.D.D. E.B. R.C. W.J.L. C.S. J.E.M. E.P.H. L.B. W.L.D. V.M.S. J.E.C. A.M.L. W.H. D.S. H.B. T.H. S.B.B. J.B.G. E.R.P. W.E.H. L.E.T. T.L. M.S.A. F.A.W. J.H. E.A.P. C.R.H. J.P.C. E.R. W.F. S.B. C.K. R.D. J.V.S. E.B. J.B. F.R. H.J.B. F.C.W. J.H. E.W.

APPLICANTS FOR TRACTS.—G. Male, class leader, Camelford; Miss E. Nanjulian, Camelford; M. Coates, Chilcombe, Bournemouth; T. Hickling, 235, Petre-street, Sheffield; Mrs. Parmenter, 6, Highweek-road, South Tottenham, N.; Miss M. Cheesman, Cinder-hill, Leigh, Tonbridge; Miss S. J. Lyons, 34, Wilton-street, St. Anne's-street, Liverpool; J. Dowdy, 8, Union-street, Northampton; J. J. Smith, Litcham, near Swaffham, Norfolk; Miss Rose Norriss, Ivy House, Skirbeck Quarter, Boston, Lincolnshire; F. Gedge, 20, Homefield-road, Wimbledon; S. Michell, The Fort, New Quay, Cornwall; Miss A. Fockett, 89, Ossulston-street, Euston-road, N.W.; Miss J. Wray, 13, Servia-grove, Camp-road, Leeds.

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most important that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

◆

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Saturday Morning, January 17, 1885.

⁂ Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps. Cheques to be drawn in favour of Morgan and Scott, and crossed City Bank; P.O.O.'s payable to Morgan and Scott, at G.P.O.

⁂ Will donors oblige us by giving explicitly and fully the titles of the Missions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Mistakes which sometimes arise will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Saturday morning? Any amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

	£	s.	d
Dock Labourers' Mission—E. B. £2 10s.; (Free Meals) B. H. H. 10s.; Mrs. L. M. C. £1; (New Home) B. H. H. 10s.; (Personal Expenses) G. W. £1	5	10	0
Mr. Pascoe's Work in Mexico—A. E. 10s.; J. C. W. 5s. ..	0	15	0
Mr. Geo. Smith, of Coalville—A. E. 10s.; C. M. B. 10s.; Mrs. Clayton Daubeny, £1	2	0	0
Cow-cross Mission—C. M. T. £2; W. W. T. 1s.; An Invalid, 2s.; S. R., Belfast, 1s.; C. M. 5s.; Reader, 1s.; E. G. 10s.; M. N., Wimbledon, 1s.; Miss P. 10s.; J. F. M. G. 7s. 6d.; E. H. £1; (Children's Halfpenny Dinners) S. A. B. 2s. 6d.; J. W. 10s.	5	11	0
China Inland Mission—H. H. H. £6; W. W. T. 3s.; T. D. 10s.; W. A. 10s.; M. G. £1; M. M. M. D. £1; F. and A. S. £1	10	3	0
Mr. E. Wright's Work (Tricycle)—S. D. L.	0	5	0
Rescue Society—W. W. T. 2s.; E. H. £1	1	2	0
Miss Weston's Work in the Royal Navy—S. L. A. T. £1; F. R. 10s.	1	10	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—S. L. A. T. £2; F. R. £1 1s.; S. R., Belfast, 1s.; E. B. £5; J. M. £2; T. O. E. H. £1; Friends, 12s.; M. M. M. D. £2; F. and A. S. £1; (Girls' Home, Ilford) E. E. R. 10s.	15	4	[illegible]
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—S. L. A. T. £2; C. M. 5s.; E. B. £5	7	5	0
Mrs. Hilton's Creche and Orphan Home—S. L. A. T. £2; J. C. W. 5s.; J. W. 5s.; Bee, 5s.; J. F. M. G. 10s.	3	5	0
St. Giles' Christian Mission—F. R. £1; E. B. £5; T. A. R. 10s.; W. A. 5s.; J. F. M. G. 7s. 6d.; (Prison Mission) S. L. A. T. £2; G. S. 10s.; H. P. £1; Anon. £1 10s.	12	2	6
George-yard Ragged Schools—S. L. A. T. £1; J. F. M. G. 7s. 6d.	1	7	6
Crippled Boys' Home, Kensington—S. L. A. T.	2	0	0
Rev. McAll's Work, Paris—S. L. A. T. £1; Walworth Y.M.C.A. £2 2s.; J. M. £2	5	2	0
British Society for the Propagation of the Gospel among the Jews—S. L. A. T.	1	0	0
Mission to the Kabyles—Children of Albert Hall	0	9	0
Friendless and Fallen—1 Cor. iv. 7, 2s. 6d.; S. A. B. 2s. 6d.; H. P. £1; E. H. T. 10s.; M. N., Wimbledon, 1s. 6d.; Anon. £1; F. and A. S. £1		16	6
Sailors' Welcome Home (Miss Child)—F. R. 6s.; E. B. £2 10s.	2	16	0
Bitter Cry of Outcast London—(Breakfasts) An Invalid, 2s.; Anon. £2 10s.	2	12	0
Evangelistic Mission—E. B.	10	0	0
Birds' Nest Mission, Dublin—T. A. R.	1	0	0
Syrian Colonisation Fund—T. A. R.	5	0	0
London City Mission—T. A. R.	1	0	0
Thames Church Mission—T. A. R. £1; J. F. M. G. 10s. ..	1	10	0
Army Scripture Readers' Society—T. A. R.	0	10	0
Railway Officers' and Servants' Association, 21, Finsbury-pavement—T. A. R.	0	10	0
Miss Whately's Mission Work, Cairo—J. C. W.	0	5	0
Invalid Kitchens (Miss Nicholson)—J. W. C.	0	5	0
Gray's-yard Ragged Church and Mission—(Breakfasts) "Give ye them to eat," 5s.; (Casuals and Tramps) J. W. 5s.	0	10	0
Soldiers' Home, Dover (Miss Wright)—W. A.	0	5	0
Cripples' Home, 17A, Marylebone-road—H. P.	1	0	0
Ragged School Union—H. P.	1	0	0
Scandinavian Home, Leman-street—M. S.	5	0	0
Homes of Hope, Regent-square—J. M.	2	0	0
Miss De Broen's Work, Paris—J. M.	2	0	0
Female Mission to the Fallen—J. M.	2	0	0
Poor Jews in London (Mr. Josephs)—W. W. T.	0	1	0
A.F.D. Society—T. A. R.	1	0	0
Church Missionary Society—Bee	0	5	0
Mrs. Birt's Sheltering Home, Liverpool—T. O. E. H. £1; M. M. M. D. £2	3	0	0
Spitalfields Gospel Mission—T. O. E. H.	1	0	0
London Samaritan Society and Homerton Mission—T. O. E. H.	1	0	0
Turkish Mission Aid Society—T. O. E. H.	0	10	0
Spain, Portugal, and Mexico Aid Society—T. O. E. H. ..	0	10	0
Destitute Children's Dinner Society—S. P., Reigate, 5s.; Mrs. L. M. C. £1; Mrs. S. L. 10s.; J. F. M. G. 7s. 6d. ..	2	2	6
Gifford Hall Mission—(Children's Penny Dinners) A. E. W.	0	2	0
Distressed Jews in Jerusalem (Mrs. Finn)—Mrs. S. L. ..	0	10	0
Home of Industry—E. E. R.	1	0	0
Miss Mittendorff's Home—J. F. M. G.	0	10	0
Ladies' Samaritan Society for Paralysed and Epileptic—J. F. M. G.	0	12	0
Bridge of Hope, Ratcliff—J. F. M. G.	0	10	0
Sufferers from the Earthquake in Spain—L. H. 2s. 6d.; E. T. 5s.	0	7	6
Rescue Work, Whitechapel (Mrs. Bramwell Booth)—F. and A. S.	0	16	6
Latymer-road Mission—E. H.	1	0	0
Mrs. Wilkes' Rescue Work, Poplar—E. H.	1	0	0
East London Hospital for Children—E. H.	1	0	0
	£134	7	0

◆

[ADVERTISEMENTS.]

Evangelistic Mission—Per C. R. H.: J. H. 5s.

Sailors Welcome Home, Ratcliff-highway—A bag of books from a Reader of THE CHRISTIAN.

"Dr. Barnardo's Homes for Destitute Children."

A RESIDUE BAZAAR

To dispose of all Articles left over from the Sale of Boxes, will (D.V.) be held in

The NEW LARGE HALL, EDINBURGH CASTLE,

LIMEHOUSE, E.

(Close to Burdett Road Station, North London and Blackwall Railways),

THIS DAY AND TO-MORROW,

Thursday & Friday, 22nd & 23rd January, 1885,

Opening each day at 3 o'clock p.m., and closing at 10 o'clock.

The attendance of kind friends WILLING TO PURCHASE is especially desired, and any FRESH GIFTS of Fancy Articles or of Work will be gratefully acknowledged.

Address—

THE TRADE MANAGER,
18 to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

STRATFORD CONFERENCE HALL

AND

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,

WEST HAM LANE, STRATFORD.

The OPENING of the above will take place on FRIDAY, JANUARY 23, at 3 p.m.,

WHEN THE CHAIR WILL BE TAKEN BY

J. G. BARCLAY, ESQ.

The Chairman will be supported by Rev. CANON SCOTT, Rev. Dr. Ll. BEVAN, Rev. J. STEVENS, The Hon. A. F. KINNARD, T. A. DENNY, Esq., E. M. DENNY, Esq., GEORGE WILLIAMS, Esq., R. PATON, Esq., ROBT. SIMPSON, Esq., of Glasgow, and others.

ADMISSION ONLY BY TICKET, to be had on application to E. Fox Butlin, Secretary, Conference Hall and Y. M. C. A., Stratford.

ALSO

AN EVENING MEETING

At 7.30, at which GEORGE WILLIAMS, Esq., will Preside, and Addresses will be given by Rev. Dr. Ll. BEVAN, of Highbury Quadrant, ROBT. SIMPSON, Esq., of Glasgow, and others.
ADMISSION WITHOUT TICKET.

The EVANGELISTIC and MALE CHOIRS will lead the Singing. SANKEY'S SONGS & SOLOS USED.

Gift Books Published by Morgan & Scott.

FORTY-FIFTH THOUSAND.

DUNCAN MATHESON. The Scottish Evangelist. By Rev. J. Macpherson. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We are right glad to see so worthy a memorial of so worthy a man."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, in The Sword and Trowel.

SECOND EDITION.

HENRY MOORHOUSE. The English Evangelist. By Rev. J. Macpherson. With lithographic portrait. Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"A well-written account of a fruitful life, which we commend to the earnest study of all."—Footsteps of Truth.

BIBLE READINGS. By Henry Moorhouse. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"Every page is full of thought, expressed in words that tell of the Author's earnest and devout spirit."—Lay Preacher.

NOTES FOR BIBLE READINGS. A collection of over Six Hundred Subjects, carefully compiled and arranged. By S. R. Briggs and John H. Elliott. Suitable for Bible Readings, Sabbath School Lessons, &c. Tinted covers, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.

"This is a book which every Bible student should pessess."—Christian Progress.

P. P. BLISS: His Life and Work. Edited by Major Whittle and Rev. W. Guest. Cloth extra, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"A most interesting and invaluable book, both for the young and the aged."
Midland Gazette.

CHRIST LIFTED UP. Meditations on the Death, Resurrection, and Ascension of our Lord Jesus Christ. By Rev. Robert Gilchrist. Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"It is quite refreshing to turn to Mr. Gilchrist's profitable meditations on the crucifixion."—The Record.

CHRIST AND THE SCRIPTURES. The Living Word and the Written Word. By Rev. Adolph Saphir, D.D., B.A. Twenty-eighth Thousand. Cloth extra, 3s.; with gilt edges, 3s. 6d. Cheap edition, tinted covers, 1s.; cloth neat, 1s. 6d.

"It is the old truths to which we listen; but the old truths clothed in a living language, set in new lights, and drawn out in fresh applications."—Weekly Review.

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES. In order to Abiding Communion with God. Also Suggestions for Bible Readings and Study. By Dr. J. Anderson, Graduate of King's College, Aberdeen, and M.R.C.S. London. Second Edition. Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.

"A very valuable work, in which attention is drawn to the necessity for quiet, thoughtful Bible reading, as a means of promoting abiding communion with God."
The Rock.

◆

BY D. L. MOODY.

GRACE, PRAYER, AND WORK. A Volume suitable for Presentation or for the Library, containing

SOVEREIGN GRACE,
PREVAILING PRAYER, AND
"TO THE WORK! TO THE WORK!"

Specially printed and bound together in one volume, Roxburgh binding, 5s.

CONVERSION, SERVICE, AND GLORY. By D. L. Moody. A Volume suitable for Presentation or for the Library, containing

THE WAY TO GOD,
POWER FROM ON HIGH, AND HEAVEN.

Specially printed and bound together in one volume, Roxburgh binding, 5s.

◆

PUNROOTY; or, The Gospel winning its way among the Women of India. By Clara M. S. Lowe. Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"A deeply interesting account of Mission work among the women of India."
Fountain.

BOGATZKY'S GOLDEN TREASURY OF TEXTS FOR THE CHILDREN OF GOD. A Series of Scripture Texts and Meditations for every Day in the Year. Cheap Edition. Cloth back, 2s.; Toned Paper, Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d. Presentation Editions.—Leather Back, Leatherette Sides, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d. Whole bound in Leather, Gilt Edges, 5s.

"Bogatzky's Golden Treasury" has been translated into nearly all European languages, and has obtained an enormous circulation in Germany and Great Britain. In this country very few books except the 'Pilgrim's Progress' have been so largely circulated or so widely read."

THE BRISTOL ORPHAN HOUSES. The Rise and Progress of the Orphan Homes, Ashley Down, Bristol, under the direction of Mr. George Müller. With Five Illustrations of the Homes. By W. Elfe Tayler. Paper covers, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"A most full and complete narrative is given of the great work, which has been in itself and in its results the reward of Mr. Müller's faith, and the answer to his prayers."—The Record.

Just Published. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

BIRDS OF THE BIBLE. Chats with the Children about Bible Birds. By James Bowker, F.R.G.S.I. With very attractive Coloured Frontispiece, and Twenty-nine other Illustrations. Beautifully printed on toned paper, with carmine Borders. An elegant Gift Book.

◆

BY REV. DR. PENTECOST.

"OUT OF EGYPT." A Series of Addresses and Bible Readings on the Exodus of Israel, and its Spiritual Lessons. Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth limp, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

Parchment binding (suitable for Presents), 5s.

"Dr. Pentecost's power as a teacher and expositor of the Word is anew displayed in these Addresses."—Word and Work.

EIGHTH EDITION.

"IN THE VOLUME OF THE BOOK;" or, The Profit and Pleasure of Bible Study. By Rev. Dr. Pentecost. With Introductions by Revs. Joseph Cook and J. H. Vincent, D.D. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth limp, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We have read this work with unusual pleasure. It is full of healthy thinking."
Baptist Magazine.

◆

CHOICE SAYINGS. Being Notes of Exposition of the Scriptures. By Robert C. Chapman. Cloth limp, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.; morocco, gilt edges, 3s.

"We expect to gather many discourses while studying this little book. A dew from heaven rests upon Mr. Chapman's expositions."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon in The Sword and Trowel.

◆

BY REV. J. CULROSS, D.D., M.A.

"BEHOLD, I STAND AT THE DOOR AND KNOCK." Christ's Message to the Church at Laodicea. With Chromo-Lithographic Frontispiece. Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d. Cheap Edition. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.

"All who admire Dr Culross' insight, his delicacy of perception, his curious felicity of language, his broad and tender sympathies, his grasp of great truths, will welcome this volume, and hope for like expositions of the preceding six Epistles."
The Freeman.

"THY FIRST LOVE." Christ's Message to the Church at Ephesus. With Chromo-Lithographic Frontispiece. Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 2s. 6d.

"This work is instructive, suggestive, full of spiritual force, and at the same time strong and manly."—Sunday School Chronicle.

JOHN, WHOM JESUS LOVED. A Sketch of the Character, Writings, Theology, and Influence, of the Beloved Disciple. Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 3s. 6d.

"It is altogether without reserve that we commend the work before us. It is not a bottle of milk for babes, but a portion of meat for men. A half-dozen readings will only make it more interesting to those who meditate upon what they read."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, in The Sword and Trowel.

◆

THE HERALD OF MERCY. Volume for 1884. Attractively bound. Price 1s. Contains telling articles, stirring narratives, choice extracts, poetry, children's pages, &c. With Eighty-nine Illustrations.

"We have been both surprised and delighted with the wealth of its attractive pages."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

THE LARGE TYPE QUARTO EDITION OF

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS. Containing 441 Pieces. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 16s. 6d. In Morocco, gilt edges, 30s.

"Would form a nice present for a musical friend. Every organist should have it."—Christian Progress.

◆

BY ANNA SHIPTON.

THE BROOK IN THE WAY. Hymns and Poems illustrative of the Christian Life. Elegantly bound in cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"A string of pearls such as a true Christian only could give us."
Evangelical Christendom.

WHISPERS IN THE PALMS. A Volume of Hymns and Poetic Meditations. By Anna Shipton. Elegantly bound in cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"The pieces are more than a hundred in number; and many of them are very touching and beautiful."—Christian World.

WAYMARKS OF MY PILGRIMAGE. A Volume of 79 Original Poems. By Anna Shipton. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"Those who prize Anna Shipton's writings will be glad to obtain his volume. A trustful, loving spirit breathes through the verses."—The Friend.

THE SURE MERCIES OF DAVID; or, God's Dealings in the Sanctuary. By Anna Shipton. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 4s. 6d.

"The 'Sure Mercies of David' is a very valuable book. It sets forth most beautifully the rich blessings which are treasured up in Christ for the believer."
Christian Era.

Cheap Edition, cloth, 2s. 6d.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth limp, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

May be had either in OLD NOTATION or SOL-FA.

THE

Gospel Male Chorus Book

Collection of New Part Songs, Choruses, and Anthems.

Written and arranged expressly for Male Voices.

By JAMES Mc GRANAHAN.

"We can testify from personal hearing that these choruses are well harmonized, and excellently adapted for the rich effect of men's concerted voices."—Literary World.

"Organize a quartet, a double quartet, or better still, a chorus of male voices; and prove the power for good in the harmony of male voices, when consecrated to the glory and service of our divine Master."

Complete List of the Various Editions of Sacred Songs & Solos sent on application to the Publishers, MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.

Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

May be had either in OLD NOTATION or SOL-FA.

THE

Christian Choir.

A Quarto Volume of Music and Words.

By IRA D. SANKEY and JAMES Mc GRANAHAN.

"It is as fine a collection of Sacred Airs as can anywhere be found. All the Hymns and the Tunes are beautiful, impressive, gracious; and the rendering of them, and the hearing them sung in private or public alike, have led many to change their whole course of life."—Oldham Chronicle.

"Of this Sacred Song Book it is scarcely needful for us to say a word. Thousands have listened, and thousands have sung these Pieces, and will retain their good impressions, when all 'the mists have rolled away.'"—Baptist Messenger.

⁂ Book of Words, price one penny, supplied to Missions at 7s. per 100 post free.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEW EDITION, 474 PAGES.

THE TABERNACLE, THE PRIESTHOOD, AND THE OFFERINGS.

With the Spiritual Lessons derived from the Ritual and Ceremonies of the Old Dispensation.

BY HENRY W. SOLTAU,

Author of "The Holy Vessels of the Tabernacle," "The Soul and its Difficulties," &c.

With FOUR BEAUTIFUL COLOURED ILLUSTRATIONS and numerous smaller Engravings.

The Morning Lessons selected by the Sunday School Union for the first six months of the present year are founded upon the Exodus: Israel's Journeying through the Wilderness—The Tabernacle and the Offerings—The Scape-Goat—The Cities of Refuge—The High Priest, &c., &c. From Mr. Soltau's valuable book great help can be obtained by the Teacher in his or her preparation for this course of Lessons.

Handsomely Bound in Cloth Boards, 5s.; Cloth Boards, Gilt Edges, 6s.; CHEAP EDITION, without the Coloured Plates, 3s.

"The book is full of teaching, spiritual and far-reaching; and we have much enjoyed reading it. The work is a good five shillings' worth."
Rev. C. H. SPURGEON, in The Sword and the Trowel.

"It is an elaborate work, conveying a great deal of information concerning the Mosaic dispensation, and indicating very deep and reverent Bible study. It is full of Christian teaching of a suggestive character."—Sunday School Chronicle.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Complete in One Volume, Handsomely Bound in Cloth, 1083 pages, 10s. 6d.

FOXE'S BOOK OF MARTYRS.

A Complete and Authentic Account of the Lives, Sufferings, and Triumphant Deaths of Primitive and Protestant Martyrs in all parts of the World.

By John Foxe.

WITH TWELVE FULL-PAGE ILLUSTRATIONS.

"As a complete edition of Foxe's Martyrs, this is by far the handiest and most attractive we know. In paper, type, illustrations, and binding, the book does great credit to Messrs. Morgan & Scott, to whom the Christian public are indebted for this timely publication."—Primitive Methodist.

"Messrs. Morgan and Scott have just published a new edition of Foxe's Book of Martyrs, which deserves a word of greeting. The present edition extends far beyond Foxe's times; having been enriched by the Rev. J. MILNER and others; and brought down to the present century by the Rev. INGRAM COBBIN. Altogether it is a cheap and complete Book of Martyrs, well printed and elegantly bound; and suitable for a gift-book."—Record.

"We cannot but express the desire that the circulation of this volume may be as extensive as its merit so well demands. It is elegant in the upgetting; and paper and print are a credit to its enterprising publishers."—British Friend.

Also published in 16 Monthly Parts at Sixpence each.

In Library Binding, Gilt Top, 10s. 6d.

MORGAN AND SCOTT'S ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE.

(UNABRIDGED).

The special features of this Edition are the NEW TRANSLATION, Revision, and Extension of the PROPER NAMES OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS, with their meanings in the Original Languages. The Twelve following exquisite Steel Plate Engravings:—

Samaria.
Elisha's Fountain, Jericho.
Rephidim.
Damascus.
Mount Tabor.
Tyre.
Hebron.
Jerusalem from the South.
Shechem—Sychar.
Tiberias.
Bethany.
Athens.

And Six beautifully-coloured Maps.

The Rev. J. L. PORTER, D.D., Professor of Biblical Criticism, speaking of the Steel Plate Engravings, says:—

"I have examined with care the views for Biblical Illustration. . . . The Engravings are very beautiful. In clearness, accuracy, and general effect, they surpass, I think, any I have seen. The places represented are all familiar to me; and I have been particularly struck by the fidelity with which your artist has reproduced Frith's admirable photographs."—J. L. PORTER.

"It is beautifully got up, carefully edited, and all has been done to make the work as useful as possible. Every Christian home ought to have a copy.
Oldham Chronicle.

Also being published in 18 Monthly Parts at Sixpence each.

A 5s. CHEAP EDITION of the above work may be had, without the Plates and Maps.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

ON

CONSUMPTION,

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS,

AND ALL OTHER

CHEST DISEASES.

READ

MR. CONGREVE'S NEW WORK,

SIXPENCE, POST FREE,

Or Large Edition (cloth), for 1s. 3d.

TWELFTH SERIES

OF WEEKLY CASES.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "The Christian," WHO MAY BE personally or relatively INTERESTED IN THIS MATTER.

Mr. Congreve will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED BEFORE, in this Journal EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

CONSUMPTION—CASE at WINSLOW, BUCKS.

E. H., of Adstock, Winslow, who asks for his initials only to appear in print (for special reasons, I suppose), wrote me June 12, with statement of his case:—

There were all the usual symptoms of the disease. The patient had suddenly declined, and lost flesh all over the body.

Sept. 19, he writes:—"I am very pleased to testify to the benefit I have received from your valuable medicine. I was in a very weak, low state, and the symptoms of consumption were apparent to all. I have regained my health, and shall recommend your treatment wherever I can."

"HOPELESS" CASE RESTORED.

Mr. E. Doust, of High-street, Borough, writing me Sept. 17, on behalf of some friend of his, says:—"Some time since —— took seven bottles of your medicine, and by that time was cured of chest disease, of which the doctors had given up all hope. She always keeps it by her for any occasional use, though hearty and strong."

NOTE.—Days of Consultation.—TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY MORNINGS ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days.

Gold Medal, Calcutta Exhibition, 1884.

VIEW OF THE MANUFACTORY. BRISTOL.

Fry's Cocoa

ASK FOR

FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT

absolutely Pure Cocoa only.

NINETEEN PRIZE MEDALS awarded to J. S. FRY & SONS.

JUST PUBLISHED.

Two Small Books suitable for the New Year.

By REV. W. HASLAM, M.A.

PEACE, BLESSING, AND POWER.

32 pages, Crown 16mo. Price One Penny.

"Peace we shall have if we will cease from self-effort! Blessing, if we will fall in with God's will! and Power, if we will let the Lord use us for His own purpose, and for His glory!"—Extract.

A PERSONAL CHRIST.

32 pages, Crown 16mo. Price One Penny.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

New and Enlarged Edition. Post Free, 2s. 6d.

ON PARALYSIS, LOSS OF POWER in the Muscles or Joints, Locomotor Ataxy, Epilepsy, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Neurasthenia, and obscure affections of the Brain and Spinal Cord. A Practical Treatise explaining the Causes, Treatment, and Cure of these Diseases; with Directions for Diet. By S. BERRY NIBLETT, Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians. Published by Mr. Williams, 10, Oxford-terrace, Hyde-park, London.

"MANNA CAKE."

Children take it readily; they do not suspect its properties; they like its sweet, strong flavour. Truly termed by an Agent, "The Children's Friend." Manna Cake is the mildest and yet the most certain in action of all aperients; it does not gripe, and leaves no after constipation. A singularly mild, pleasant, and efficacious substitute for Castor Oil.

From W. H. Hayward, Chemist, Trowbridge:—"A Physician in the West of England says he gave Calomel and Jalap in repeated doses without effect, but a Manna Cake acted almost immediately."

Ask for Manna Cake, price 1½d. per cake, or 1s. 3d. per doz. of any chemist or medicine vendor. Wholesale of Barclay's; Edwards; Hovenden's; Newbery's; May Roberts; Sanger & Sons; Sutton & Co.; &c., &c.

AN ATTRACTIVE WEDDING GIFT.

Marriage and Home.

A Volume of Kindly Counsels to the Newly-Married.

Beautifully bound in White and Gold, 2s. 6d.

"One of the daintiest little volumes we have seen for a long time; done up in white, crimson, and gold, most tastefully printed, and full of wise counsel and Christian teaching."—Freeman.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WRIGHT & BUTLER'S LIMITED.

PATENT

OIL HEATING STOVES

13 YEARS CONTINUOUS AND INCREASING SALE

ABSOLUTELY WITHOUT SMOKE OR SMELL. THEY ARE FREE FROM DIRT AND ARE MANAGED WITH THE LEAST POSSIBLE TROUBLE. THEY ARE PERFECTLY PORTABLE. CAN BE MOVED FROM ONE ROOM TO ANOTHER THEY GIVE OFF NO VAPOUR INJURIOUS TO EITHER VEGETABLE OR ANIMAL LIFE.

THEY ARE THE BEST DESIGNED, MOST SUBSTANTIAL AND THOROUGHLY EFFICIENT AND ECONOMICAL OIL STOVES MADE

CAN BE HAD AT PRICES RANGING FROM 3/9 TO 7 POUNDS

INVALUABLE FOR HEATING GREENHOUSES BEDROOMS ETC

PARTICULARS AND PRICE LISTS FROM ANY IRONMONGER OR LAMP DEALER.

ANNUAL SALE OF OVER HALF A MILLION.

Mc CALL'S

PAYSANDU OX TONGUES.

A DELICACY FOR BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, OR SUPPER,

TO BE HAD AT ALL GROCERS.

Allen & Hanburys' "Perfected"

COD-LIVER OIL

"Is as nearly tasteless as Cod Liver Oil can be."—Lancet.

"No nauseous eructations follow after it is swallowed."—Medical Press.

It can be borne and digested by the most delicate; is the only oil which does not "repeat," and for these reasons the most efficacious kind in use. In capsuled bottles only, at 1s. 4d., 2s. 6d., 4s. 9d., and 9s. Sold everywhere.

Allen & Hanburys, Plough-ct., Lombard-st., London.

"The Christian" will be sent by the Publishers post-free to any address in the United Kingdom, for 12 months, for 6s. 10d., including Double Numbers.
"The Christian" (weekly) and the HERALD OF MERCY (monthly) will be sent to the United States or Canada, for 12 months, for $2, which may be remitted by a Two-Dollar Bill.

The Christian:

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.]

[REGISTERED AT THE G.P.O. AS A NEWSPAPER.

No. 783.] THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1885. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

CONTENTS.

The "New Theology." 5
Some of Our Letters 6
Authenticity of Scripture 6
Job 7
A Message from Fiji 7
Parents and Children 8
Christian Workers at Home 8
Mr. W. Noble in Edinburgh 9
Poetry—A Pilgrim Song 9
Bow Common 9
For the Young 10
Visiting in St. Giles' 10
At Stratford a Year After 11
Evangelistic Work in Nice 11
Notes and Comments 12
The Bible Carriage in Brittany....14
A Y.W.C.A. Flower Mission 14
Good Tidings from Basutoland 14
The Ratcliff "Bridge of Hope"....15
Poetry—The Divine Comforter 15
Obituary 16
A Converted Saloon..............16
The Earthquake in Spain 16
Mr. Moody at Work..............16
Young Men in the South-West 16
Rev. E. P. Hammond in Liverpool ..17
Dr. Somerville in the East 17
Notes on Bible Readings..........19

Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth limp, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

May be had either in OLD NOTATION or SOL-FA.

THE

Gospel Male Chorus Book.

Collection of New Part Songs, Choruses, and Anthems.

Written and arranged expressly for Male Voices.

By JAMES Mc GRANAHAN.

"We can testify from personal hearing that these choruses are well harmonized, and excellently adapted for the rich effect of men's concerted voices."—Literary World.

"Organize a quartet, a double quartet, or better still, a chorus of male voices; and prove the power for good in the harmony of male voices, when consecrated to the glory and service of our divine Master."

Complete List of the Various Editions of Sacred Songs & Solos sent on application to the Publishers, MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.

Tinted covers, 1s.; cloth limp, 1s. 6d.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

May be had either in OLD NOTATION or SOL-FA.

THE

Christian Choir.

A Quarto Volume of Music and Words.

By IRA D. SANKEY and JAMES Mc GRANAHAN.

"It is as fine a collection of Sacred Airs as can anywhere be found. All the Hymns and the Tunes are beautiful, impressive, gracious; and the rendering of them, and the hearing them sung in private or public alike, have led many to change their whole course of life."—Oldham Chronicle.

"Of this Sacred Song Book it is scarcely needful for us to say a word. Thousands have listened, and thousands have sung these Pieces, and will retain their good impressions, when all 'the mists have rolled away.'"—Baptist Messenger.

⁂ BOOK OF WORDS, price One Penny. Supplied to Missions at 7s. per 100 post free.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

JUST PUBLISHED.
Music and Words—Paper Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.
Words only—Paper Covers, 1d.; Cloth Limp, 2d.

Gems of Praise.

A Choice Selection of Hymns and Tunes (228 pieces) suitable for Gospel Services, Prayer Meetings, Sabbath Schools, Christian Associations, and Family Worship.

EDITED AND COMPILED BY

REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

A Large Number of both Hymns and Tunes are Original.

NOW READY.
In Tinted Covers, 6d.; Neat Cloth Binding, 1s.
With Numerous Illustrations.

Gathered Lambs.

Showing how Jesus, the Good Shepherd, laid down His life for us; and how Little Children have been gathered into the Fold.

BY

REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

I. Jesus, the Good Shepherd.
II. Trust in Jesus.
III. Christ's Love towards Children.
IV. "Do you Love Him?"
V. A Story for Little Christians.
&c., &c.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

GEORGE HOLLAND thankfully acknowledges receiving £5, a thank-offering from China; clothing from M. M.; B. S.; Anonymous.

G. F.—Yes, the children have been frequently fed with good meat, soup, and bread. On Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday this week, at 12 o'clock, about 300 will receive food; at other times besides.

The Infant Day Nursery. Free Ragged Day and Sunday Schools. Meetings and Classes for Elder Girls and Young Women. Bible Classes for Men and for Women. Sewing Classes for Poor Women. Mission to Inebriate Women. Gospel Temperance Work. Evangelistic Services, &c.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 66, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to GEORGE HOLLAND, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

ANGLO-INDIAN EVANGELISATION SOCIETY. The Lord POLWARTH, President.—The Annual Meeting will be held in the Council Room of Exeter Hall, on Wednesday, February 4, at 3.30 p.m. The Rev. John Fordyce, of Simla, who has been for the last ten years Commissioner of the Society in India, will give an account of the work in which the Society is engaged for the promotion of the spiritual interests of Europeans and Eurasians widely scattered throughout India in the numerous plantations and increasingly extended railways. Several friends, Clerical and Lay, will take part in the proceedings. All friends of our countrymen in India are earnestly invited to be present.

Office, 7, Adam-street, Strand, W.C.

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, Alderman R. N. Fowler, M.P. (Ex-Lord Mayor); J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman; Mr. Ex-Sheriff Clarence Smith, Hon. Secretary.

For ninety-nine years this Institution has visited and relieved the destitute sick, by an entirely unpaid agency, consisting of over 280 Christian men and women. Many sad cases have constantly to be passed over from want of funds.

The Committee will be thankful for the Society being remembered in the testamentary arrangements of the benevolent.—Office of the Society, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

B. H. GERRANS, Secretary.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society of the National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, 25, Queen-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for contributions in aid of the poorer patients and their families. The smallest gifts in money or clothing will be thankfully acknowledged by the Committee.

BETHESDA MISSION, Portsmouth, with which is incorporated the Portsea Island Town Mission. Established 1856.—Objects:—1. House-to-house visitation in the poorest districts for instruction in the Word of God. 2. The distribution of the Scriptures and simple Gospel Tracts. 3. To hold Mission Services, Cottage Meetings, and Sunday Schools. 4. To assist deserving poor and sick persons. 5. To give occasional free teas to the poorest classes, as a help to the ministry of the Gospel. The Mission is Evangelical and Unsectarian. Superintendent—Commander B. H. Key, Downham, St. Edward's-road, Southsea, who will gladly receive contributions for the work.

ZENANA AND MEDICAL MISSION, School and Home, 58, St. George's-road, S.W. Christian ladies trained for Foreign Medical Mission Work, by two years' curriculum. Ladies so desirous may attend midwifery alone. Dr. GRIFFITH, Hon. Sec. Treasurer, G. J. GREEN, Esq., L. and C. Bank, 3, Victoria-street, S.W.

Funds urgently needed.

£200 URGENTLY REQUIRED to complete the building of Mission Chapel and School, in very promising rural district near Enniskillen, Ireland. An appeal is now made to the readers of THE CHRISTIAN for assistance, local resources being exhausted. Contributions will be gratefully received and acknowledged by Mr. S. B. HUMPHREYS, Fair View, Enniskillen, Ireland.

RESCUE WORK IN POPLAR.—Manor Cottage, Kersey-street, Poplar, E. Founded by Mrs. Wilkes, 1878. Treasurer, HENRY GREEN, Esq., Blackwall, E. Miss COOKE, 68, Mildmay-park, will also receive contributions for this work of mercy. Mrs. WILKES at home Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, to see friends and give information respecting this effort to seek and save the lost.

FAITH-HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. JOHN ALLEN or his helpers. Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney, London, E., Sundays, 3 p.m., Mondays, 7 p.m. The Hall, Horsley-street, near Camberwell-gate and Walworth-road station, Tuesdays, 7 p.m. The Hall, 110, Shoreditch. Thursdays, 7 p.m. Special: Fridays, 7 p.m., Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney: Baptism of the Holy Ghost and Power for Service.

HOME FOR BLIND WOMEN, 44, Alma-square, Hill-road, St. John's-wood.—Two vacancies in the above Home for two blind women. Age of admission from 20 to 50. Terms £20 per annum, inclusive, with the exception of dress.

A. B., at the Home.

CHRISTIAN MEDICAL MISSION for the Sick Poor.—The Gospel the Message; Healing the Means. None of the workers paid. Prospectus free for stamp.—REGISTRAR, Christian Medical Mission, Southend, Essex.

GERMAN ADDRESSES, by Dr.-Med. ZIEMANN, Dr. Phil. BAEDEKER, and others, every evening at 8, Monday, February 2, to Saturday following, at St. Andrew's Church, Philpot-street, Commercial-road, E. Will Christian friends kindly make this known among Germans?

HOME FOR BLIND CHILDREN, College-Avenue, Hackney.—Subscriptions are much needed to maintain the children, and to pay off the small debt upon the Home. Contributions will be gratefully received by Miss S. RYE, or Messrs. MORGAN & SCOTT.

MOROCCO MEDICAL MISSION.—Mr. WITTEN, Medical Missionary, Founder of the Brighton Medical Mission, will be leaving for Morocco in April, to establish a Medical Mission in Tangier. Donations towards the purchase of drugs, instruments, and furniture, will be thankfully received by Mrs. WITTEN, 18, College-road, Brighton.

COW CROSS MISSION.—Gospel Services, Sadlers' Wells Theatre.—Glo'ster Hall, Clerkenwell, "Ragged London in centre." Dinners to destitute children, &c. Funds urgently needed.—WILLIAM CATLIN, General Superintendent, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville.

GEE-STREET Christian Mission and Ragged School, Goswell-road, earnestly solicits donations to continue the good work of preaching, teaching the Gospel, temperance, and relieving deserving poor.—Bankers, BARCLAY & Co., 54, Lombard-street; Treasurer, ROBERT BAXTER, Esq., 6, Victoria-street, Westminster; Hon. Secretary, RUDGLEY, 82, Wood-street, Cheapside.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear, are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

THE CONVALESCENT HOME, Broadwater, Worthing, for Children of the Poor, is in need of a quiet, strong Horse, of 16 or 17 hands. Would any of the Lord's people like to supply this want?—AULAY MACAULAY, Hon. Secretary, Latymer Road Mission, Blechynden-street, Notting-hill, W.

LIVERPOOL BETHSHAN Faith Healing Home, 161, Islington. Meetings for Holiness, Healing, and Testimony, Tuesdays, 3 p.m.; Thursdays, 7.30 p.m.

For further particulars, apply Miss GIBBS.

PRIVATE HOME-HOSPITAL, 9, Lupus-street, St. George's-square, South Belgravia, for Ladies and Children (medical, surgical, and obstetrical cases). Situation most healthful.—For terms, apply to the LADY SUPERINTENDENT at the Hospital, enclosing stamped envelope.

Educational.

WATERLOO HOUSE SCHOOL, Leamington.—Principal, the Rev. ARTHUR SEWELL, M.A. (Author of "Daily Thoughts for Schoolboys"). Preparatory for public schools. Terms moderate.

LADIES' COLLEGE, Goudhurst, near Tunbridge Wells.—Conducted by the Misses KENDON, daughters of the Rev. J. J. Kendon.—A happy home and School for Girls. The situation is exceedingly healthy and beautiful, being on the range of hills near Tunbridge Wells, and about four hundred feet above sea level. Pupils prepared for the College of Preceptors' and the Cambridge Local Examinations.—For prospectus, with references, apply to Miss R. KENDON, M.C.P. Terms, 27 guineas per annum.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—The Misses RODHAM, assisted by good Masters and Resident Governesses, receive the daughters of Gentlemen as Resident Pupils, whose training and education they personally superintend. For delicate girls the climate has proved most beneficial. Reference is kindly permitted to Mrs. PENNEFATHER, Mildmay-park, London, and to the relatives of pupils.—For terms, address

Misses RODHAM, Weston-super-Mare.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES, Larkbeare, Exeter, Devon (for Resident Pupils only). Established 25 years. Miss BAMBER and Miss CHURTON, assisted by an efficient staff of resident certificated teachers and visiting professors, offer every educational advantage to parents seeking a Christian training for their daughters. Pupils always accompanied to and from London. Unexceptionable references to parents of present pupils. In association with the above is Clarendon House, Topsham, offering the same educational advantages, with pure, bracing sea-air, especially adapted for girls of delicate habit.

CLARENCE HOUSE, Pellatt-grove, Wood-green.—Mrs. SILVESTER, assisted by efficient teachers and visiting professors, receives a few Boarders, to whom she offers educational advantages, with the comforts of a home and very careful training. References kindly permitted to Mr. R. C. Morgan, 12, Paternoster-buildings, and parents of pupils.

SEASIDE, Southport.—Superior School for Young Ladies. Conducted by a member of the Church of England (Evangelical), assisted by English and foreign governesses, and eminent visiting professors. Pupils prepared for Trinity College examinations.—Miss POOLE, Eagley Bank, Southport. Referees, Rev. Canon Clarke, Southport, and Rev. John Burbidge, Everton-road, Liverpool.

EDUCATION.—FRAULEIN VON GRIESHIEM, Diez a.d. Lahn, near Ems, receives a limited number of pupils. Resident French and German governesses. Music, piano, violin, singing, painting. Lawn tennis. Highest references.

MONTREUX, Switzerland.—Madame DOLMATOFF. Christian home for young Ladies. French and German taught. Other branches of education if required. Reference, Rev. Denham Smith, 38, York-terrace, Regent's-park, London.

PASTEUR F. DUMAS, of Paris (18, Rue de Boulets), near to the Place du Trône), is desirous of receiving two or three young men as Boarders in his family.

HOLLAND HOUSE, Clarence-parade, Southsea.—School for the Daughters of Gentlemen. Special educational advantages, with home comforts and care. Indian charges received. References kindly permitted to the parents of present and former pupils. Prospectus on application to the PRINCIPAL.

CLAPHAM COMMON.—A Lady of much educational experience receives a limited number of young Ladies as Resident Pupils. Christian and refined influences, with careful mental culture. Special advantages for Modern Languages and accomplishments. High-class professors attend. Prospectus on application.—ALPHA, care of Mr. Bachhoffner, Bookseller, High-street, Clapham, S.W.

MORAVIAN EDUCATION.—Fulneck, near Leeds. Established 1750. Terms for Boys' School, apply to the Rev. W. T. TITTERINGTON; for Ladies' School, to Miss SHAWE. School reopened January 21.

DURBAN-HOUSE SCHOOL, Lansdowne-road, Lee, Blackheath, S.E.—An old-established Preparatory School for the Sons of Gentlemen, conducted by a Lady, assisted by Masters and Governesses. Careful training. Home comforts. References to clergymen and parents.—THE PRINCIPAL.

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL in Highgate.—The Rev. G. D. BARTLET, M.A. (late Head Master of Mill Hill School), receives twelve Boarded Pupils. Able assistant masters, superior home, individual attention, thorough grounding, and careful religious training. Highgate is strongly recommended by the medical profession.—Reference permitted to the Rev. W. E. BOARDMAN, 3, Highbury-park.

A LADY, who has taught in the family of Sir Joseph Fayrer for six years, is open to an engagement as Governess, Lady-Housekeeper, or Companion, or in any post of trust in a Christian family. Excellent references.—B. A., J. Rivolta, Esq., The Manor Way, Blackheath-park, S.E.

MOUNT HOUSE, Braintree, Ladies' School. Principal, Miss WOODGATE.—Sound education on modern principles. Preparation for Camb. Local and C. P. Exams. Home comforts and personal supervision. Highest references. Prospectus and particulars on application. Spring term commenced January 19 and 20.

BEDFORD.—Howard College.—Principal—Mrs. J. C. BURNETT. A Boarding School for Girls. Modern methods. Very superior education. Careful Christian training. Report and full particulars sent by return of post.

MT. RADFORD SCHOOL, Exeter.—During the last ten years pupils have obtained upwards of 150 certificates in the Oxford, Cambridge, College of Preceptors', and London University Examinations. Of these, twenty-two passed in honours, and twelve obtained prizes. The Word of God is made the sole basis of a careful Christian training. References to parents of past and present pupils.

Principal, E. H. VINE.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL for Little Boys, near Brighton. Locality healthy. Home comforts, Christian training. Special attention to delicate, backward boys. Separate beds. Visiting masters. Twenty guineas.—LADY PRINCIPAL, Hamilton Lodge, Hurstpierpoint, Sussex.

THE OLD HALL SCHOOL,

WELLINGTON, SHROPSHIRE.

Principal: Dr. CRANAGE.

HASTINGS.—Wellington College for Ladies.—The object of the Council is to provide in this seaside healthy town an education of the best possible kind, based on Christian principles. An excellent gymnasium is attached, also Kindergarten.—For prospectus, apply to the Secretary, the Rev. F. LEAVER, Chalvington Rectory, Sussex, or 4, Wellington-square, Hastings.

HOME EDUCATION.—Two little Girls can be received, to be educated with one or two others, in a healthy London suburb. Terms moderate and inclusive. Careful training and home comforts. References given and required.—Miss TWEEDIE, 24, Josephine-avenue, Brixton-rise, London, S.W.

LONDON.—First-class Education for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing, conducted by members of the Church of England, occupying a spacious house in a most healthy locality in the West-end. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate Professors—their health, individual temper, and disposition carefully and tenderly watched over, and the whole system based on Christian principles.—DELTA, Boddington's Library, Notting-hill-gate, W.

HIGHBURY HOUSE, St. Leonards-on-Sea.—Boys prepared for commerce, public schools, or the Universities. Upper, middle, and preparatory departments. Seven resident Masters. The junior division taught by Ladies. Delicate boys requiring a mild climate receive every kindness and constant care.—For prospectus, apply to Mrs. DUFF, the Lady Principal. The Easter term commenced on Wednesday, Jan. 21.

AN ENGLISH LADY, who has every morning occupied in teaching, wishes to find an engagement, or visiting lessons, for the afternoon. Fluent German and French (ten years in Germany, two in Paris), brilliant music, thorough English, advanced literature.—A. G. M., care of Y.W.C.A., 17, Old Cavendish-street, W.

SEA HOUSE SCHOOL, Upperton, Eastbourne.—Thorough education, domestic comfort, and beautiful air. The term commenced January 20.—For prospectus, view of house, &c., apply to Mr. ESAM.

CROMWELL HOUSE SCHOOL, Aylesbury.—Principals, the Misses LOCKE. Happy home. Great educational advantages. Pupils have passed public examinations. Terms moderate. Studies commenced January 21st.

BELLE VUE, Ambleside.—Good School for Girls.—Having increased accommodation, Mrs. FLEMING can now receive six additional Pupils. House well and healthily situated, with large rooms, garden, tennis ground. Careful Christian training, and thorough teaching. Distinguished success in Cambridge Examinations which are optional. Resident foreign and English governesses. Visiting masters. 50 to 60 guineas.

HAPPY HOME, for one or two little girls, offered with Widow Lady and daughters. Inclusive terms, board and education, 8s. a week.—K., 14, Paddenswick-road, Hammersmith, London.

HIGH-CLASS SCHOOL for Gentlemen's Daughters.—Miss PENN and Fraulein ESSER receive twenty-five Boarders. Efficient staff of professors. Christian influence. Home comforts. Large house and garden. Languages and music specialities. Easter term begins January 22 Grove House, Upper Clapton, London, N.

YOUNG LADY (22) wishes to teach English, French, music, and drawing, in family or school, near London. Certificated. Good references. Moderate salary.

E. M., Mr. Giles, 146, Fleet-street, E.C.

A CLERGYMAN'S WIFE receives Boys from six years old. Careful preparation, kind treatment, healthy neighbourhood. Terms from thirty guineas. Highest references. Indian pupils received.

M., Denis Villa, Oxford-road, Worthing.

COUNTRY VICAR, married, can receive three or four gentlemen's sons under fifteen, to educate with the Patron's son. Situation highly recommended. Orphans and children whose parents live abroad can have a permanent home. Good references. Prospectus on application.—Rev. EDWARD MILLER, Lindsell Vicarage, Chelmsford.

LITTLE GIRL, English or French, can be received in a Christian home, to be educated with three of the family. English, French, music, drawing,

ALPHA, 31, Union-grove, Clapham.

THE ADVERTISER is desirous of placing a young Lady, orphan, aged 18 years, with a family as Governess, to teach children, boys or girls under 12. English (good), French, music, elementary Latin. Small salary would be taken to commence with, and good services rendered in return.

H. BALDERSON, Hemel Hempstead.

A LADY RESIDING with her sister in a healthy seaside place, wishes to hear of a little Girl, about eight years' old, to be educated with her little daughter.—ALPHA, care of Mr. Wareham, Bookseller, Clevedon, Somerset.

NURSERY GOVERNESS or Mother's Help wanted.—German; Christian; good needlewoman; domesticated. Moderate salary. Also Christian NURSE for four children. Must be neat, cleanly, and early riser. Wages £12. Family Open Brethren.

Mrs. J. HAROLDS MOOR, West Cross, Swansea.

EXPERIENCED GOVERNESS, Christian, abstainer, in officer's family, near Aldershot. Five pupils, ages 16 to 7. Good music, English, and French essential.—By letter, Mrs. ROBERTS, 74, Plumstead-common-road, Plumstead.

GOVERNESS wanted, for three young children. Must be a true Christian, and a Lady. Able to teach needlework and drawing. An abstainer.

Mrs. WALKEY, Fort Rowner, Gosport.

HANOVERIAN Lady desires Pupils for pure German grammar, conversation, literature, or reading. Visits schools, and pupils in the country. Highly recommended. Moderate terms.—Fräulein STEINFELDT, 26, Kempsford-gardens, South Kensington, S.W.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

A CHRISTIAN GENTLEMAN and Lady, without family (with some means), would undertake the entire charge of a Christian Convalescent home for the better class. The Lady is thoroughly domesticated, and an excellent organiser, the Gentleman would undertake the conduct of evangelistic services in the home. Would prefer to furnish their own apartments. Unexceptionable references.—A. Z., care of Mr. Robt. Burn, Sec. Young Men's Christian Association, 186, Aldersgate-street, who will also act as reference.

A LADY WISHES to find a situation in a Family or Institution for a highly respectable Woman, aged 48, who has been upper housemaid, and is now stone deaf. Her sight is not good enough for needlework, but she is an excellent housemaid and cleaner.—Apply to Mrs. W. E. HUBBARD, Leonardslee, Horsham; or to JANE WEST, 5, Grosvenor-cottages, Eaton-terrace, London, S.W.

TWO YOUNG MEN, for love to the Master, would gladly give their services of Sunday evenings (engaged during the day) to preaching and singing the Gospel, in any Mission within or near London. Would pay their own expenses, if not too far.

G. F., 16, Burford-road, Stratford, E.

EDWARD W. THOMAS, 200, Euston-road, N.W., will be glad to recommend a very worthy person, as Matron to a small Home, or to any situation of trust.

AS SECRETARY CORRESPONDENT, by a Gentleman of long experience in Christian work amongst soldiers, and able to conduct meetings, classes, &c. Can give highest references.—Address by letter only, to Z., care of Bates, Hendy & Co., 37, Walbrook, London.

A CHRISTIAN GENTLEMAN desires a situation as Correspondent and Cashier. Fifteen years' experience in the wholesale drapery and foreign shipping. Wishes to meet with another with a view to partnership, in an established business. Highest references.
T., care of Bates, Hendy & Co., 37, Walbrook.

WANTED BY CHRISTIAN MAN, 42, abstainer, situation in place of trust, as Messenger, &c. Twelve years' personal character from present situation. Sunday work the object of leaving.
S. F., Victoria House, Newcastle-street, Strand.

POSITION OF TRUST, Secretaryship, &c., is sought by a Gentleman of education, integrity, good address, and business capacity. Christian abstainer, well recommended. Small salary.—A. C., 83, Finsbury-park-road, N.

A RE-ENGAGEMENT required by a Widow Lady (sister of a Clergyman), as Lady-Housekeeper, Companion, or Secretary and Reader to Gentleman, or Gentlewoman. Refined home chief consideration. High testimonials.
M., The Rookery, Dilham, Norwich.

LADY-HOUSEKEEPER.—A Lady of cheerful and agreeable manners, competent and careful manager, and experienced with children, seeks above engagement in a Widower's family, or to invalid Lady.
ALPHA, 25, St. Domingo-grove, Liverpool.

RE-ENGAGEMENT as Housekeeper to Christian Gentleman, Lady Help, or any position where Advertiser would have an opportunity of working for the Lord. Sunday-school, or Mission work. Domesticated, economical. Over 10 years' good testimonials.
MYRA, 18, Morice-square, Devonport.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY, by Young Lady (21), a situation as Book-keeper, Secretary, or Companion.—E. M., care of T. Parsons, Esq., Eastgate-street, Lewes, Sussex.

RE-ENGAGEMENT wanted by a Lady, as Companion or Mother's Help. Active and cheerful. Good testimonials. Moderate salary.—Address, by letter only, Miss DOYLE, 1, Royal-terrace West, Kingstown.

WALTER PENROSE, formerly a Coster, is open for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday nights only, round about London.—Costermongers' Cottage Mission, Vinegar Ground, City-road, E.C.

RE-ENGAGEMENT wanted by young Lady, as Companion and useful Maid to elderly Lady. In or near London preferred. Highest references.
Miss HAMILTON, 94, St. Augustine's-road, N.W.

A LADY (24) desires a situation as useful Companion. Domesticated; musical. Church of England. Good personal reference.
S. H., 181, Dereham-road, Norwich.

AS USEFUL COMPANION.—A young Lady will give her services in return for a comfortable home and laundry expenses.
M. C., Post-office, Aubert-park, Highbury, N.

A MINISTER'S WIFE will be glad to recommend an earnest Christian young Lady, farmer's daughter, as Housekeeper, Companion, or Governess to young children, where faithfulness would be valued. Dissenters preferred—Mrs. FLOAT, The Manse, Foxton, Market Harboro'.

AS USEFUL MAID to a Lady.—Accustomed to invalids. Age 28.—G. M. M., Bohemia Cottage, Bohemia-road, St. Leonard's-on-Sea.

USEFUL COMPANION, Lady Housekeeper, for small or motherless family. Single, active, domesticated; handy at needlework. Abstainer. 30 years' experience. Excellent references.—L. M., 47, South-hill-park, Hampstead, London, N.W.

AS HOUSEKEEPER, by Christian widow Lady of many years' experience in household management. Economical and systematic. Efficient in cookery and cutting out garments. Would give services in Christian work, having private means. Accustomed to orphanage children in superior institutions. Highest references.—J. G., Heathfield, Printer, 50A, George-street, Hastings.

A LADY RECOMMENDS a member of her Bible-class, aged 18, as Children's or Young Ladies' Maid. Plain dressmaking and sewing undertaken. Quiet Christian home desired.—C., Miss Cox, Marienberg, Malvern.

CHRISTIAN WIDOW wants situation, place of trust, or Cook in small family, where [illegible] kept. Wages no object, as a quiet home. E. H., 103, High-street, Bow, E. Reference, Mr. Rivett, Minister, Blackthorn-street Chapel, Bow, E.

AS COMPANION to an elderly Lady (temporary or otherwise), or any position of trust. Age 40. Salary £25. No agents.
ALMA, 5, Cornwallis-gardens, Hastings.

A LADY WISHES to hear of a situation as needlewoman, or to take charge of a child for a young woman who is slightly deaf, but who is a most trustworthy person, and would be glad to make herself useful.—Mrs. FORDHAM, 9, Phillimore-gardens, Kensington, W.

AS CARPET PLANNER, or handy man in furnishing warehouse, by young man, abstainer and Christian (24).
J. S., 61, Queen-street, Leamington.

ATTENDANT, or Useful Maid, to elderly or invalid Lady. Good needlewoman; can do dressmaking. No objection to light housework. Well recommended. Middle-age.—E. C., Chesnut Cottage, Hanworth-road, Hounslow, W.

WILL ANY LADY take as Under-Servant or otherwise, a strong girl of 15, needing very careful training, whose parents have difficulty in managing her?
Mrs. HALSEY, Homestead, Woodford, Essex.

WANTED TO PLACE a Youth, aged 17, fair draughtsman, with a Godly Engineer. Small premium or time given.—V. W., Mr. A. Richards, Lyn Cliff-terrace, Lynmouth, Devon.

AS SEWING or Children's Maid.
S. CARTER, Bray, near Maidenhead, Berks.

AN ENGAGEMENT desired by a Lady as Companion-Housekeeper. Would take charge of an Orphanage, or position of trust where Christian influence is desired.
K., Mrs. Baker, 42, Church-street, Croydon.

COMPANION or Lady-Housekeeper (41), disengaged February 2. Preference given to an engagement offering opportunity for her helping in some Christian work.
DELTA, W. Cutbush, Newsagent, Highgate, N.

MRS. COURTHOPE TODD wishes to recommend, as Sewing Maid, a quiet superior girl, not strong, willing. Christian home desired. —Apply, by letter, Theatrical Mission, 21, King-street, Covent-garden.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a respectable, trustworthy person, about 35, in good health, as Useful Maid to one Lady? A good needlewoman and dressmaker. Kind and attentive in case of illness.
Mrs. SAXTON, Beltwood, Sydenham-hill.

AS BUTLER, where footman or boy is kept. Single; age 38, height 5 ft. 10 in. Recommended by a lady. Seven years' character. Small, quiet family preferred.—Apply by letter,
E. M. D., 27, Redesdale-street, Chelsea.

AS UNDER SERVANT.—House or kitchen work. Rather short. Situation wanted, for a respectable girl of eighteen, with good character.
MARY BESTON, 83, East-street, Manchester-square.

A LADY wishes to find a place as Servant for a young woman, aged 27, who could undertake light household duties, including cooking. Must be a quiet, considerate family, as health is not good. Wages nominal, as friends would help.
M. A., 23, Wigmore-street, Cavendish-square, W.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.—A London Architect and Surveyor, M.R.I.B.A., who has special opportunities for the acquirement of a practical knowledge of the profession, has a vacancy for a Pupil. Christian home if desired. Premium.—A. B., Housekeeper, 26, Bishopsgate-street Within, E.C.

ARCHITECT of long practice, M.INST.B.A., will take a well-educated young man, with taste for art, into his office. Moderate premium. Will be thoroughly instructed in every branch.—ARCHITECT, care of Z., West View, Clifton, Bristol.

MISS WESTON will be very glad to hear from any Christian Ladies desiring to help her in her work. They must be earnest Christians and total abstainers, active, and energetic. No salary given, board and lodging provided.
Miss WESTON, Sailors' Rest, Portsmouth.

MEDICAL MISSIONARY wanted, for the Church of Scotland Mission, Blantyre, East Africa. Salary, £300 per annum. Full particulars can be obtained from J. T. MACLAGAN, 6, North St. David-street, Edinburgh, to whom applications, stating age, professional qualification, and Church connection, should be addressed.

MAN AND WIFE wanted, in a Christian family. Man to attend invalid Gentleman and make himself generally useful, wife as cook. Abstainers. Can any Christian recommend a suitable couple?
Mrs. M., 20, St. James's-road, Tunbridge Wells.

SOLDIERS' HOME, DOVER.—Wanted, a man and wife, of middle age, without children, to undertake the household work, and Temperance Bar. Must be total abstainers, and well recommended.—Miss WRIGHT, Lady Superintendent, 22, Castle-street, Dover.

GROOM AND GARDENER, and generally useful, indoor. Young man, 18 to 22, for country near Aldershot. Abstainer; Christian preferred. Good references required.—Major ROBERTS, 74, Plumstead-common-road, Plumstead, Kent.

YORK GOSPEL MISSION.—Wanted, at once, a young Lady Evangelist, to help another. One who can sing. Meetings led in the Army style.—T. BOYCE, 9, Shambles, York.

LAUNDRY MATRON wanted, for the Penitentiary, Falkner-street, Liverpool. She must thoroughly understand her duties, and be a total abstainer. Salary £30. Board wages £26 per annum.—Application by personal interview, or by letter to the HON. SECRETARY.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a very good plain Cook; also a House-Parlourmaid for a small family? Age 30 to 40. Both must be thoroughly good and trustworthy servants, and very neat in appearance.—Apply by letter first, to Mrs. TROUSDALE, St. Andrew's Vicarage, New Kent-road, S.E.

A STEADY, RESPECTABLE Young Woman wanted as Plain Cook, and to assist in housework. One who has been kitchenmaid preferred. Small family. Any lady recommending will oblige.—Mrs. E. S., Alwyn House, Shortlands, near Bromley, Kent.

A FELLOW-HELPER wanted, in the Ministry. A title would be given.
Rev. H. A. BARRETT, Chedgrave, Norwich.

AN ATTENDANT upon an Invalid wanted. She must take entire charge of the Lady's rooms; be a good reader, writer, needlewoman, and plain dressmaker; also a total abstainer.
Miss PEACOCK, The Bury, Pavenham, Bedford.

CAN ANY LADY or Gentleman recommend a thoroughly competent man and wife, without family, to take the management of a Coffee House?—Miss KITCHIN, Manor House, Hampton-on-Thames.

A THOROUGHLY GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, and trustworthy person. Two ladies in family. Two servants kept. All abstainers. No beer allowed. Personal character indispensable. Quiet Sundays. Good wages.—Miss LEAF, Gibson's-hill, Norwood, S.E. If personally, before 1 o'clock.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a nice, active, clean, willing, experienced French Nurserymaid, who speaks well, knows some English, and can sew? There are five little girls in nursery, and head nurse.
Mrs. R. GLADSTONE, Woolton, Liverpool.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a strong, active Girl as General Servant? One accustomed to children preferred. Age about 18. Wanted immediately.
T. H. E., 152, Loampit-vale, Lewisham, S.E.

COOK, good plain, wanted, in small, quiet family. Wages £20 to £22. Dissenter preferred. Personal character indispensable.—Address, stating age, length of character, qualifications.
M. L., Post-office, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

YOUNG PERSON wanted, as Nurse in a Tradesman's family. Not under 24. Must be useful with her needle. A Christian preferred.
Mrs. CLARE, Surrey Lodge, Brixton-hill.

WANTED, in a Clergyman's family in Suffolk, a thorough COOK, who can bake bread, and an UPPER HOUSEMAID, not under 24. Communicants and abstainers preferred.—X. O., at Mr. Righton's, 24, Regent-street, Clifton, Bristol.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted, in private family where mistress superintends. Age 16 to 18. Good home for a respectable girl.—Write or apply, E. H., 1, Rochester-terrace, Camden-road, N.W.

A GENERAL SERVANT wanted, in a Farm-house. Middle-aged, and good character indispensable.
A. B., The Grange, Netley Abbey.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted, by a Lady near London. Small, quiet family. No washing. Wages £14. An early riser.—Mrs. GILBERT, Worsley-villa, Ventnor, Isle of Wight.

A GOOD GENERAL SERVANT wanted, accustomed to plain cooking.
47, Gauden-road, Clapham, S.W.

AGENTS (male and female) required in every town and village to sell our pure Teas and Coffees. Our Ceylon and Darjeeling Teas show extraordinary value. We allow 6d. per lb. commission, and deliver free. Special terms for cash. Agents can earn between 20s. and 30s. weekly.—Write for samples free to The United Tea Growers' Association, 9, Union-court, E.C.

£6 MONTHLY may be added to income by selling our celebrated Teas in packets, French Coffees, and Cocoa. Write for particulars to OLIVER, OLIVER & Co, 33½, Southgate-road, London.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.

40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

This First-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of THE CHRISTIAN from all parts of the world. The Bishop of Algoma writes: "The comfort, perfect order, and attendance at PERCY'S Hotel, render it all that can be desired as a central place of sojourn in this great city." Beds from 1s. 6d. Tea, 1s. 3d. Tariff on application.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Clairville, Chine-road.—Superior Boarding House, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. JACKSON. Visitors will meet with an excellent family home. Charming sea views. Near church and sea. Most liberal table.

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA Boarding Establishment. The home of a Minister's daughter. Established 11 years. Mansion replete with every comfort. Fine sea view.
Miss NEWBURY, Cavendish House, Warrior-square.

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine, having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers. Liberal table, with every home comfort.—Mr. & Mrs. Box, 58, Old Steine.

HUTCHINSON'S PRIVATE HOTEL, 24, Guilford-street, Russell-square, the most central position for all parts of London. Extensively patronised and strongly recommended. Home comforts. Terms moderate.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Board and Residence, with home comforts and every attention. House pleasantly situated in one of the healthiest parts. Terms moderate.—Miss SEARL, or Miss HUTTEMAN, Loughtonhurst, West Cliff-gardens.

HASTINGS HYDROPATHIC ESTABLISHMENT.—Charming winter Residence. Beautifully situated. Purest air. Abundant sunshine. Turkish baths, with sea water plunge. Droitwich, Ozone, and all other baths, with skilled attendants. Moderate charges.—For prospectus, apply the SECRETARY.

BOURNEMOUTH.—First-class Boarding House, delightful situation, full south aspect, facing the sea. Close to the Pier, next to "The Baths" and Sydenham's Library. Liberal table. Every effort made for the comfort of visitors, who pay half-price for sea-water baths. Spacious drawing, dining, and smoking rooms.—Terms, apply Mr. and Mrs. ALFRED ROBERTS, Marlborough House.

SOUTHSEA.—Solent House Boarding Establishment, South Parade. Sunny and cheerful position, due south, facing sea and Isle of Wight. Late dinner. Winter terms, 30s. and 35s.—Miss BAKER.

FOLKESTONE.—A Lady residing in a pleasant part of this favourite locality, offers a thoroughly comfortable home to Ladies desiring Board and Residence, on moderate terms.
M. W., 76, Coolinge-road.

PENGE.—Board and Residence. The Sister of a deaf and dumb lady wishes to recommend the Lady with whom she boarded for some years, and who now wishes to receive one or two Boarders, sisters, friends, or a married couple, in her comfortable, quiet Christian home.—Miss TAYLOR, 7, Park-terrace, Maple-road, Penge, S.E.

HOME OF REST FOR CHRISTIANS, near the sea, with garden. Arrangements made for winter residence. Terms, one to two guineas.—LADY SUPERINTENDENT, Rutherford Lodge, Worthing.

TWO SISTERS wish to reside with or without Board) in a Christian family.) They could furnish two rooms. Neighbourhood where there is an opening for a visiting Governess preferred; the younger being proficient in music and languages. Several years' experience in tuition. References exchanged.
A., Park Lodge, Harrow-on-Hill.

BOARD AND RESIDENCE offered in small family of country vicar (Evangelical), to one or more Ladies, or to a Gentleman. No objection to boys requiring tuition. Large house and grounds. Use of carriage. Healthy and pleasant situation, in home county. Terms moderate.—Rev. F. S. SWINDELL, 32, Broad-street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

HOME WANTED.—Widow, 60. Can furnish own room. Would be glad to take a place of trust, or teach a servant. Could do no rough work. Or as boarder in a homely family of Christians.
Mrs. EAGER, 105, Clarendon-road, Notting-hill.

FURNISHED APARTMENTS.—Sitting-room, two bed-rooms; with or without board. Suit City Gentlemen. Every home comfort. Bracing country air. Eleven miles from City. Frequent trains. Terms moderate.
J. RENDLE, Chaselands, Enfield.

AN OFFICER'S WIDOW wishes to meet with a Lady to reside with her. Healthy locality. Evangelical ministry. References exchanged.—For terms, apply to M. C., Mr. Padwick, Red Hill Pharmacy, Red Hill.

COMFORTABLE HOME for young man in Christian family at Hampstead. House overlooking Heath. Garden, bath-room, &c. Near railway station.—K., care of Secretary Y.M.C.A., 61, Gracechurch-street.

A WIDOW LADY, residing in Highbury New Park, is wishing to meet with a Lady, or two sharing the same bed-room, as boarders.—Address by letter, H. C., care of Mr. Wheeler, Stationer, Mildmay-road, N.

APARTMENTS, Unfurnished, to Let, in the house of a Lady. Nice position; conveniently situated, near rail and tram.
Cromer House, Paddenswick-road, Hammersmith.

NORTH LONDON.—Board and Residence, near Canonbury Station. Recommended by the Rev. Gordon Calthrop, Vicar of St. Augustine's, Highbury.
The Terrace, 107, Green-lanes, Highbury New Pk.

APARTMENTS.—A Lady wishes to receive into her home a Lady (or sisters) of quiet habits. Bath-room. Drainage perfect. Healthiest locality in Clapham. Close to Evangelical churches, Conference Hall, rail, tram.—Miss B., care of Mr. Knox, 40, Walford-road, Stoke Newington.

DUSSELDORF-on-the-Rhine.—An excellent Pension de famille can be highly recommend. Comfortable home. Liberal table. German lessons. Terms, £5 a month.
Miss GAUDIAN, 16, Wyndham-place, W.

(Continued on page 22.)

TREATMENT OF EPILEPSY.

There are few affections brought under the notice of practitioners of the present day which are more intractable, or which seem to defy their most skilful efforts with greater obstinacy, than Epilepsy. It would be a priceless boon to thousands could a remedy be discovered which would prove a specific for the class of ailments coming under this head; but although the greatest attention and most careful study have been bestowed upon the subject, medical scientists seem as far as ever from being determined upon a successful form of treatment.

During our experience in the practice of the Healing Art it has been our privilege to watch with great interest the effect of Magneto-Electricity upon Epileptic affections, and we have observed with great satisfaction that a judicious adaptation of this remedy has produced very encouraging results, and we append reports to prove our success.

The Rev. H. T. BRUMWELL, Middlewich, Cheshire, wrote to us in the spring of 1883 on behalf of a minister's daughter of middle age—sister to one of the most prominent ministers of the day—who suffered severely from epileptic seizures. Briefly her case stood thus: In July, 1881, an attack of paralysis rendered the right side almost entirely useless; epilepsy also resulting, still further set at naught the best medical efforts to give the sufferer relief. Attacks occurred on an average every fortnight, leaving the patient quite prostrate.

Recognising the great uncertainty of the case, our advice was sought as a last resource, and upon receiving a favourable opinion the treatment was at once adopted.

Just a year after this Mr. Brumwell writes: "The case is remarkable. For two years the patient had been subject to epileptic fits, occurring more or less every fortnight, resulting, it was supposed, from an attack of paralysis, which left one side comparatively useless. After adopting your treatment, which has been continued ever since, the fits ceased entirely after a short time, and there has been no return of them. She has not yet recovered the use of her arm, but her friends of late have seen her unconsciously raise it, and are full of hope that its power may eventually be restored."

From Mr. ROBT. WALKER, 35, Derry-street, Shankhill-road, Belfast.

January 15, 1885.

"I had heard of your success in the treatment of St. Vitus' Dance, and saw that one of your patients had given his grateful acknowledgment of your services to himself for Rheumatism, and his child for Chorea. The information I received from them led me to seek your advice for my little daughter, whose nervous system was impaired after witnessing an accident by which St. Vitus' Dance was induced. After the adoption of your treatment we were able to mark an improvement every day, until in three weeks all traces of the weakness were overcome.

"I cannot but feel that such a simple means of regulating derangements of the nervous system should be more widely known, and therefore I have asked my employer, Mr. Charles Thompson (of the firm of Hamilton, Megaw & Thompson), to authenticate these facts by his signature."

"I have enquired into particulars of this case, and have ascertained that the statements made in this letter are true.

"Charles Thompson."

Full particulars of the treatment may be obtained free on application to B. Copson Garratt, Medical Electrician, 16, Finsbury-sq., London.

ARMY SCRIPTURE READERS' and SOLDIERS' FRIEND SOCIETY, 4, Trafalgar-square, Charing cross.

Patron—Right Hon. Earl of SHAFTESBURY.
President—GENERAL SIR A. J. LAWRENCE, K.C.B.

SPECIAL APPEAL.

The friends of the soldier are earnestly appealed to for funds for the continued support of the Society. Ninety Scripture Readers are now actively employed in the Army at home and abroad.

With such unquestionable testimony on all sides to the beneficial influence of the Reader in camp, in barrack, and in hospital, we cannot come to any other conclusion than that the Lord's blessing is resting in no small degree upon this Institution; and with this conviction deeply impressed on our hearts, we lay this matter before all who can feel for a soldier's trials, a soldier's temptations, a soldier's devotion to his Queen and country, but, above all for a soldier's everlasting welfare, confident—nay, more than confident, assured—that He will cause unknown supporters to spring up upon the right hand and upon the left, and stimulate old friends to fresh exertions. Two additional Readers are with the Troops in Egypt and one with Sir Charles Warren's Expedition in South Africa.

Contributions will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, V. G. M. Holt, Esq., 17, Whitehall-place; at the Bankers, National Provincial Bank of England, 212, Piccadilly; by the Secretary, Mr. William A. Blake; or by the Hon. Secretary, Colonel J. W. F. Sandwith.

PRINTING.

ORDERS EARNESTLY SOLICITED.

Mr. Fegan's rescued Street-Arabs, under supervision of first-class Master Printers, and with extensive machinery and large assortment of type, execute at The Home all kinds of commercial and other printing.

Memo. Forms, Billheads, Cards, Circulars, &c.

Posters, Window Bills, Handbills, &c.

Reports, Sermons, Tracts, Text Cards, &c.

Several striking novelties for announcing Mission Services. Send for samples.

ALL GOODS CARRIAGE PAID.

Tracts 10,000 for £1. Cards 5s. 6d. per 1,000.

Please send sample of printing you usually require and ask for estimate, stating quantity ordered at a time. For price, style, and despatch, we do not fear competition. Address

Mr. FEGAN,
The Boys' Home, 95, Southwark-street, S.E.

By the Author of "THE STARLESS CROWN."

THE LITTLE HARP OF GOLD.

Price 3d. per dozen; 2s. per 100.

But beyond the grief and weeping,
Far beyond the skies so cold,
Clad in white and shining raiment,
Bertie held his harp of gold.

And above the sounds of mourning,
Bertie's spirit seemed to say,
"Weep no more, for I am learning
On my golden harp to play!"

"NOT IN VAIN;"

OR, THE TEACHER AND HER SCHOLARS.

Price 3d. per dozen; 2s. per 100.

"I have laboured in vain," a teacher said,
With sorrowful look and tone;
"I have laboured in vain!"—and she bowed her head,
And bitter and sad were the tears she shed,
As she sat in her chamber alone.

"I am weary and worn, and my hands are weak;
My courage has well-nigh flown:
For none give heed to the words I speak,
And in vain for a promise of fruit I seek,
Where the seed of the Word is sown."

A CHILD'S FAITH.

Price 6d. per dozen; 3s. 6d. per 100.

The tide of grief
O'er the widow swept;
She dropped her sewing,
And moaned and wept;
And the cloud of sorrow
So veiled the sky,
She scarce remembered
The God on high.

But one of her children
Just four years old,
With her pale face pinched
With hunger and cold,
But a sweet soft light
In her fair blue eye,
Crept close and whispered,
"Why do you cry?"

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

HODDER & STOUGHTON'S LIST.

Now Ready, a SECOND EDITION of

A BRIGHT SUNSET. Recollections of the Last Days of a Young Football Player. Four Illustrations, cloth, 1s. 6d.

FULNESS OF JOY IN THE TRUE KNOWLEDGE OF THE WILL OF GOD. With Preface by Rev. CHARLES A. FOX, Incumbent of Eaton Chapel. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"Will be of great service to spiritually-minded readers."—Christian.

THE SCEPTIC'S CREED: Can it be reasonably Held? Is it Worth the Holding? By Nevison Loraine, Vicar of Grove Park West, London. Fcap. 8vo., 2s. 6d.

THE CONQUEST OF CANAAN: Lectures on the First Twelve Chapters of the Book of Joshua. By Rev. A. B. Mackay, of Montreal, Author of "The Glory of the Cross." Crown 8vo., 7s. 6d.

"An admirable book. . . Very interesting and helpful studies."—British Messenger.

TWO CHOICE GIFT BOOKS FOR CHRISTIAN FAMILIES.

THE CHILDREN OF CHINA. Written for the Children of England. By the Author of "The Children of India." Numerous Illustrations and Map. Gilt edges, 5s.

THE STORY of the LIFE OF JESUS, TOLD IN WORDS EASY TO READ AND UNDERSTAND. By Charles Foster, Author of "The Story of the Bible," &c. Forty Illustrations. 3s. 6d.

"An excellent Sunday book for children. The story is tenderly and brightly told."—The Times.

By REV. DR. BROOKES, of St. Louis, U.S., Author of "Life through the Living One," &c.

SALVATION: The Way Made Plain. Sewed, 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

DR. CUYLER'S BOOK FOR THE BEREAVED.

GOD'S LIGHT ON DARK CLOUDS. Words of Sympathy and Cheer for the Despondent and Bereaved. By Theodore L. Cuyler, D.D. 1s. 6d., cloth.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

WAYSIDE SPRINGS FROM THE FOUNTAIN OF LIFE. 1s. 6d.

Mr. Spurgeon on Dr. Cuyler.—"For sentences that strike and stick, gems that gleam and glow, and thoughts that thrill, commend us to our American friend."

LIFE IN A LOOK. By the Right Rev. M. S. Baldwin, D.D., Bishop of Huron. Cloth, 1s.

BOOKS FOR YOUNG MEN BEGINNING LIFE.

TALKS WITH YOUNG MEN. By J. Thain Davidson, D.D. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"Fine manly advice, full of grace and truth. Enlivened by story and proverb, fresh with sympathy, and on fire with zeal."—Sword and Trowel.

OUR BROTHERS and SONS. By Mrs. G. S. Reaney, Author of "Our Daughters," &c. New Edition. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"One of her best books, written in excellent English, and with a racy, earnest pen."—Evangelical Magazine.

GUIDES AND GUARDS IN CHARACTER BUILDING. By C. H. Payne, D.D., LL.D. Handsomely bound, 5s.

"Admirably done. A capital book to put into a young man's hand."—British Quarterly Review.

TACT, PUSH, AND PRINCIPLE. By W. M. Thayer, Author of "Log Cabin to White House." Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"Will stimulate many a young man to steady and determined exertion."—Daily Telegraph.

LIFE, FUNCTION, HEALTH: Studies for Young Men. By H. Sinclair Paterson, M.D. Complete in one Vol., pp. 600, 3s. 6d.

"Dr. Paterson's excellent book might be studied with profit and advantage by every young man in the kingdom."—Knowledge.

A YOUNG MAN'S SAFEGUARD IN THE PERILS OF THE AGE. By W. Guest, F.G.S. Thirteenth Thousand. Handsomely bound, 2s. 6d.

Sir Wm. M'Arthur says:—"I have circulated many of your 'Safeguards.' I know no book like it for young men."

Mr. Spurgeon: "It has rarely been our lot to read a book which we have so much enjoyed, and could so unhesitatingly recommend."

CAPITAL FOR WORKING BOYS. Chapters on Character Building. By J. E. M Conaughy. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

"The amount of good solid advice crowded into this handsome volume and interspersed with illustrative living examples is simply wonderful."—Christian.

THE JUNIOR CLERK. A Tale of City Life. By Edwin Hodder. 14th Edition. Handsomely bound, 2s. 6d.

"An excellent little book to place in the hands of young lads just entering into the world."—Spectator.

London: Hodder & Stoughton, 27, Paternoster-row.

The Christian.

THE "NEW THEOLOGY."*

BY REV. W. GUEST.

IN an able paper in the Contemporary, for December last, Miss Cobbe observed, "Christianity tends to resume the character of the religion of Christ." On the other hand, there is a tendency setting in to make Christianity the religion of modern culture and science. There is a solemn and imperative call upon those who are concerned for the interests of Christ's Kingdom to watch this latter tendency. There ought not to be silence concerning it. There should be warning, and a taking heed lest men beguile with "enticing" words. At the same time there need be nothing approaching dismay. The strong reasons for holding to the cardinal truths of the Gospel should be set forth; but the fear that these truths are giving way before modern learning and scholarship is unwarranted and faithless.

The advocates of the "New" Theology have dangerous facilities for their propagandism. They assume much; speak and write contemptuously of those who withstand them; they are, nevertheless, a minority at present. Congregationalists, according to a leader in the Nonconformist and Independent for January 8, term them "the extreme left." The ablest and oldest ministers in this denomination do not sympathise; and, as a rule, laymen regret the defective teaching of this school, and its deviations from the Evangelical Protestantism that has been the distinction and strength of Independency. Among the Episcopalian clergy a "broad" party in theology seems rather to be declining. Certainly the Established Church was never more distinguished than now for the remarkable scholarship which devotes itself with transcendent ability to the defence of the orthodox interpretation of the New Testament writings. As to men of science, there are among the most eminent of them not a few who make no secret of their Christian beliefs, and on fitting occasions pronounce clearly their personal attachment to the evangelical truths which have been held by the best of men in all ages of the Church. These Christian scientists are far more numerous than is generally supposed.

Nevertheless, although anything approaching panic may be deprecated, there is need for forewarning and premonishment. Christian believers must be on their guard. The welfare of the human race is involved in the matter.

If, after the manner of the greatest preachers and reformers, a Christianity were now taught that swept away distortions, and restored the teaching of Holy Scripture, such a doctrinal reformation ought to be hailed. Wycliffe, Luther, Cranmer, and Wesley, never pretended to anything like a "New Theology." They would have vehemently repudiated such a phrase. They would have counted it misleading. It would have been to them a make-believe, and likely to be a fraud and a snare to the superficial. It is modern men who use the phrase. Wycliffe fell back upon the New Testament in his controversy in relation to the rights of a Christian laity. Luther, in defence of the doctrine of justification by faith, appealed to the Epistle to the Romans. The English Reformers followed in the same line; and Wesley's success was because he perpetually emphasized the teaching of Christ, that a man must, through the grace of the Spirit, be born again. We do not like to call any revealed truth old, any more than we call the sun old. Otherwise it might truly be affirmed that by the blessing of the Spirit, it was the old Scriptural theology that secured to these Reformers their grand and world-wide triumphs.

But the present advocates of a changed theology adopt no such methods as those of the great men of the past. They vaunt and make assertions, but they do not base their new doctrines on careful Scripture exegesis. Beyond a partial quotation, they do not attempt to set forth the collective teaching of God's Word. They decry the old, but they do not prove from Scripture that it is erroneous. Unless they plainly and unambiguously tell the age they follow another standard and authority than that of the Bible, there is something very disingenuous in their method. As to effective preaching in this incertitude, that is an impossibility.

Even Dr. Hatch, whose pamphlet is quoted below, and who is not to be classed with the new school we refer to, fails to make adequate reference to Holy Scripture. His "Progress in Theology" well points out to the members of the Edinburgh University Theological Society that the doctrine of the Greek fathers as to original sin, and the doctrine of the schoolmen as to Atonement, must be tested; but there is a singular absence of clear direction concerning the test that is to try the doctrines. A student is told to sift and compare ideas once taught concerning the orders of the Christian ministry, or the rise of Monasticism. The advice is excellent. It would, however, have been more useful if it had supplied at the same time a standard with which these mediæval ideas had to be "compared." "Dogmatic theology" may be proved to have lacked "fixity," because it has been the system built up by uninspired men; but it at least aimed to systematise the doctrines taught by revelation, and by revelation only is it to be judged. Theology is the science of God and Divine things, and we hold to the emphatic confessions of the greatest of theologians, that God and Divine things are to be learnt from the revelations of Christ and his Apostles. This basis is firm and intelligible. If there is another, let the modern preachers of a new doctrine tell us what it is.

We are told that the Christianity for this age must be characterised by what Mr. Matthew Arnold terms a "sweet reasonableness." But who is to be the judge of this "sweetness"? Paul teaches us that to a "natural" man, who is alienated from the life of God, the Gospel is "foolishness." His doctrine is, and it is immeasurably more philosophical than that we now have mentioned, that before the will of God is "proved" to be "acceptable" to men, they must be "transformed by the renewing of their mind." To make the message "sweetly reasonable" to unconverted and sin-loving men, is to separate from Paul. Happy are they who do not mould a Divine message so that it shall commend itself to the intense selfishness that is the curse of our period. Blessed are they whose religion begins with placing them in the dust before the Holy God; who, prostrate at His throne, bow before His authority; and who adoringly accept the teaching of Christ, who came from God. The "reasonableness" will wondrously appear afterwards; but the demand for a revelation that shall first of all approve itself to human and fallen reason, is to make man the judge of God.

An example of this new theology has been furnished. We are told that during recent years a complete change in representation has taken place in reference to the Divine Being. Instead of hard and severe, tender and benignant views of God are now taught. But is it in modern times only such views have been taught? Let anyone read Augustine's "Meditations," or his "Treatise on the Love of God," or Rutherford's "Letters," or John Howe's "Delighting in God," or Ralph Erskine's Sermons, not to mention others, and he will find that it is no new doctrine to teach the tenderness and benignity of God. On the contrary, he will find that the fathomless mercy and love of God have been taught with a fervour, confidence, glow, and copiousness of which we have scarcely a parallel in modern times. And let us not forget that these illustrious theologians derived their views of the Divine Being from the Bible; and this blessed Book, if it teaches the severity and inexorable justice of the Thrice Holy One, sets forth the graciousness, the pity, the compassion, and the boundless mercy of God with a melting invitingness, and in terms more entrancing and majestic than any uninspired men have ever reached. In this respect the "new" theology is not new at all, but a very diluted repetition of that which hath been heard from the beginning.

There are some extraordinary illustrations of changes in the teachings of "religion" in the second of the books quoted in this article. The author of "Scientific Theology" says that the idea of God as "a great Emperor of emperors, ruling his people with a rod of iron," constituted "the fundamental idea of the Deity fifty years ago." Can he have been unaware that the first most lasting idea of the Deity throughout all the Christian ages was given at the mother's knee, when the budding lips of childhood were taught to say—"Our Father which art in heaven"? And so with the other points urged by this writer. They are largely misapprehensions of bygone theology, and of the hymns and literature in the hands of Christians long before fifty years ago. The so-called "modifications" of theology are not a new teaching of religion; but a return to its first revelations, as these have been better understood. If they are not this, they are mere imaginings of men, and of no authority.

---

* PROGRESS IN THEOLOGY. By the Rev. EDWIN HATCH, M.A., D.D. Price 6d. Edinburgh: Macniven & Wallace. SCIENTIFIC THEOLOGY: Essays towards the Development of Religious Truth on the Basis of Modern Science. By THOMAS WALTER BARBER. London: Elliot Stock.

There can be no "New Theology." Than such a phrase there are few sadder signs of the times. And may we ask, with all fidelity, is not the tendency of opinion in this direction an evidence of something that must be traced further back? Is it not because men do not like the sublime spirituality of the New Testament that they would fain find another Christianity? When men are too secular to "meditate on the law of the Lord;" when they are strangers to prolonged and hallowed intercourse with God; when the domestic altar has been all but broken down; when amusements of an utter worldliness are pleaded for; and when modes of life are allowed that quench all spiritual aspiration—then the path is open and inviting to sell the truth, to buy peace, and to invent a new religion. Ah, and then there comes the last and worst curse that can come upon a soul—not living as it believes, it is left to believe as it lives.

A writer in a recent number of a weekly journal observes: "Some say the old theology is passing away, and with it the old Puritanism which made the Church distinct from the world." Let such language be noted. There is a great meaning wrapped up in it.

A "Progress in Theology" can only come in one way, and that is by the clearer comprehension of the unfathomable depths and riches of the revelation God has given to the world through his Son and inspired men. The documents which contain the revelation will be better known; the meaning of the letter of Scripture will be better apprehended; the morality of Scripture will be better learned. The age is crying out for ministers who will do this for the times. A "Progress" from men who are not in profound sympathy with God, who are not in close fellowship with the Spirit of light, who accommodate their theology to feeble conceptions of sin, and to the habits of a Laodicean Church, will be a progress downwards. This is our present peril. It is a very grave one. Society is "in a rage for gold and pleasure;" men there are who are impatient to shake off in their writings and practice the moralities which are at present enforced by the firm pressure of English sentiment; forces that menace all things sacred are watching their opportunity. That which restrains is the authority of Divine Revelation. Let this be lowered, as misguided and misguiding men are now systematically attempting, and evil will find its flood-gates wide open. It is time, therefore, to call upon devout men and women in all churches and fellowships to stand foot to foot, and shoulder to shoulder, in upholding the supreme authority of that very message of God to the world, which has never failed, when cordially accepted, to be a power to a sorely tempted race, of elevation, purity, and salvation.

In a second article I will direct attention to the new phrase "Scientific Theology," which is now being introduced.

MISSIONARY TRAINING COLLEGE, SPAIN.—In our notice of this Institution last week the address of Mr. Donald Matheson was given as 102, nstead of 120, Queen's-gate, S.W.

SOME OF OUR LETTERS.

THE varied views of our readers are surprising and interesting. Thus an old and valued friend writes:—

> "As one who has taken your paper, more or less, from the very first, I regret its altered size and tone. When it was half the size, and was confined to giving information about Christian work, it was a pleasure to invite attention to it. I never do so now, as you seem to take up all sorts of secular questions, which are far better left to the secular papers. I enclose a paragraph which I think quite Communistic in its tendency."

Singularly enough the extract enclosed was written by one of the most spiritual, and at the same time one of the most conservative, ministers we know. Events and opinions are developing rapidly, and we think we do our readers no wrong by keeping them informed of this, and by looking at secular things in sacred lights.

Another old friend, on the other hand, says:—

> "I am so thankful for the course you have been taking for some time, in seeking to bring under the control of Christian principles those things that under that most misleading and indeed fatal term 'secular,' are by many Christian people scrupulously avoided as beneath the notice of those who are 'sitting in heavenly places.'"

To assume that Christians, whether as writers or preachers, or in any other capacity, have nothing to do with secular subjects, is to deny their responsibility as the salt of the earth and the light of the world; for how can we be these, except by bringing the truth of Christ, lived and spoken, to bear upon the everyday-life of men?

A Wesleyan friend writes as follows:—

> "Dear Sir,—Thanks for the recent papers in The Christian on 'The Sins of Cheapness.' I have lately had occasion to turn to Mr. Wesley's sermon on 'The Use of Money.' I wish you could find room for Section IV. on p. 128, vol. vi.: 'Neither may we gain by hurting our neighbour in his body. Therefore, we may not sell anything which impairs health. Such is eminently all that liquid fire,' &c. It is a tremendous passage, and needs to be thundered aloud. In this city one large brewer is Sunday-school Superintendent; another, a distiller and proprietor of any number of whisky shops, is elder and factotum of the Presbyterian Church; another, a keeper of a wretched den, is a leading Wesleyan!"

We fear that there is no denomination or non-denomination free from men like Judas and Demas, and while these things are so we really think there is need to follow the example of our Master, who testified that their works were evil, and who is first King of righteousness, and after that King of peace. The Sermon on Money is published at 66, Paternoster-row (1d.).

One of our correspondents says:—

> "The attention you have been directing to Political Economy is, in my humble opinion, most important. I have been waiting to see the wonderful parable of the Householder and Labourers taken up in this connection, being sure that a complete solution of the great difficulties existing between employer and employed, and now so ominously threatening society, is to be found in that parable. . . . Do you know a little work of Ruskin's entitled 'Unto this Last?' It is worthy of most careful perusal."

We have taken our friend's recommendation with great advantage. Mr. Ruskin's book is full of golden truths. This is one: "Government and co-operation are in all things the Laws of Life; Anarchy and competition the Laws of Death." And this is another: "There is no Wealth but Life: Life, including all its powers of love, of joy, and of admiration. That country is the richest which nourishes the greatest number of noble and happy human beings; that man is richest who, having perfected the functions of his own life to the utmost, has also the wides helpful influence, both personal and by means of his possessions, over the lives of others. A strange political economy; the only one, nevertheless, that ever was or can be; all political economy, founded on self-interest, is but the fulfilment of that which once brought schism into the policy of angels, and ruin into the economy of heaven."

AUTHENTICITY OF SCRIPTURE.*

CLARK'S Foreign Theological Library has done good service in times past to the Church of Christ in these countries, by introducing to English readers many of the ablest critical and exegetical commentaries of Germany. Though not to be trusted in everything, these expositors of Scripture (such as Hengstenberg, Olshausen, Stier, Keil, &c.) were for the most part orthodox. It is much to be regretted that of late, and especially in their new series, Messrs. Clark have translated books that, from their being of an opposite character, are likely to do more harm than good; and such a one we believe to be that whose title is given above.

Ewald is by no means an out-and-out Rationalist, but he is one of that semi-Rationalist school which is often more mischievous than full blown Rationalism, by its apparent approximation to orthodoxy.

As to his critical powers, however highly he may excel as a linguist, there is little confidence to be placed in one who can deliberately assert that the Epistle to the Ephesians, the two Epistles to Timothy, and that to Titus, and 2 Peter, were not written by St. Paul and St. Peter; but by "certain gifted authors towards the close of the first century after Christ, (who) recall the tone of the great Apostles Paul and Peter, then so painfully missed, and so urgently needed by the wants and requirements of the time. The voices of the dead thus speaking again, as memory suggested they would have spoken in such a conjuncture of affairs had they been still alive, were voices of leaders of powerful mind but recently lost."

We are familiar with the calumnies with which the early Christians were assailed by these enemies; but it has been reserved for modern times to invent the new calumny of forgery or dishonest use of a name by those who pretended to be what they were not, and that within the hallowed circle of the writers of the New Testament. We can understand how, in the second century and onwards, such forgeries as the Pseudo-Ignatian Epistles were concocted; but to charge any of the New Testament writers with connivance in such duplicity is a serious charge against their morality. Moreover, it shows but little critical acumen, even in so great a name as that of Ewald, to imagine that such an Epistle as that to the Ephesians, not to speak of the others mentioned, could have proceeded from any other pen than that of the Apostle Paul. If he did not write the Epistle to the Ephesians, we may well ask, what did he write?

It is a sign of the times, and one to be lamented, that the translator of this very unsatisfactory book should be the President of a Baptist College.

---

* Revelation: its Nature and Record. By Heinrich Ewald. Clark's Foreign Theological Library. New Series. T. & T. Clark, Edinburgh.

BLOOMSBURY CHAPEL.—Under the auspices of the Baptist Missionary Society a valedictory service was held on the 19th inst., in connection with the departure of eleven missionaries for the East.

JOB.

A CRUMB OF COMFORT FOR AFFLICTED ONES.

> "He knoweth the way that I take: when He hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold."—JOB xxiii. 10.

THE margin reads, "The way that is with me;" that is, "not the way that I choose," as the Authorised Version might lead us to conclude, but "the experience through which I am passing." Here is my life with all its surroundings, and there is not a thing in the whole, but my God knows all about it.

JOB'S TROUBLE, AND HIS SOUL'S ECLIPSE.

(1) He was a man greatly afflicted, but we must not suppose that his sufferings were the consequences of his sin, for they were neither judgments nor chastisements. He says, ver. 11 and 12, "My foot hath held his steps, his way have I kept, and not declined, neither have I gone back from the commandment of his lips; I have esteemed the words of his mouth more than my necessary food." And this was no mere self-righteous boast, for it is confirmed by the testimony of the Lord (chap. ii. 3), "My servant Job, there is none like him in the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and escheweth evil." He was the holiest man God had on earth, and yet the man who was the most afflicted of men.

In one day, his oxen and asses, his sheep, his camels, his servants, and last of all, his children, were swept away from him, and he stands before us a stripped man.

And remember, all these calamities came crashing down upon him with the suddenness of an avalanche. There are always premonitions which warn those who live in the vicinity of a volcano that an eruption is imminent; the weather, day by day, has its forecast: but poor Job had no warning; the unexpected happened, and the appalling suddenness of the disaster added to the gloom which darkened upon his soul.

But he met the shock in the strength, and courage, and heroism of faith. Not one word of murmuring escaped his lips. Bravely confident in the wise love which is behind all the Lord's appointments, he says, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord." And the pen of inspiration has recorded: "that he fell down upon the ground, and worshipped;" and that "in all this Job sinned not, nor charged God foolishly."

(2) The affliction in his belongings is followed by affliction in his person. His body is smitten with disease. He is covered with sore boils. from the sole of his foot unto his crown. He is now not only a man with a terrible sorrow gnawing at his heart, and who is tormented with pain, but he is shunned by his fellows because he is an object of loathsomeness; and the bitterest, blackest drop in his cup of sorrow is that no one feels this so keenly as himself. He is loathsome to his own consciousness, and, like a leper, he separates himself and dwells apart, choosing the spot where the offal and refuse of the animals offered in sacrifice were outpoured, as the place of his abode. Behold him sitting among the ashes, and, in a delirium of pain, scraping his poor body with a piece of broken mug. Surely this is a picture of misery the most miserable.

(3) And yet his sorrow becomes more sorrowful. His wife now comes to him. Like an angel from heaven she will minister to his comfort? No! The wife and woman in her are dead. She loathes the man she ought to love. She wants him to hate God, and she longs for him to die. "Then said his wife unto him, Dost thou still retain thine integrity? Curse God, and die." To a true heart, loyal in all things to its God, and to its earthly relations, this was as the bitterness of death itself. But even a storm like this will not make his faith drag its anchor, for he cared more about his God than he did for aught beside, and his anchor holds. He said unto her, "Thou speakest as one of the foolish women speaketh. What! shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil?" And then, once again, the Lord testifies: "In all this did not Job sin with his lips."

(4) His sorrow is still cumulative. His friends now appear upon the scene. When they see him they are shocked at his appearance. They weep, they rend their clothes, they put dust upon their heads, and for seven weary days and nights, fasting, they sit upon the ground with him. So stunned are they at the sight of his overwhelming distress that they cannot speak a word. And it had been well if they had not spoken. I have no doubt they were sincere in their desire to do God service and Job good; but what they meant to be kindness was nothing less than masked cruelty; for they were blindly ignorant of the reason of both God's discipline, and the sufferer's state of heart, and instead of comforting him they only rubbed salt into his wounds.

Job had sought to walk humbly and lovingly with God, and yet the wiseacres who had come as comforters admonished him that his sufferings had been brought upon himself by his sins: "Remember, I pray thee, who ever perished, being innocent? or when were the righteous cut off? Even as I have seen, they that plough iniquity, and sow wickedness, reap the same. By the blast of God they perish, and by the breath of his nostrils are they consumed." This was more than the good man, in his exhausted condition of mind and body, could stand. His sorrows were already a burden almost heavier than he could bear, and when he is now charged with sin, and told straight out that his sufferings are God's judgment on him because of his sin, the added weight overwhelms him, and he breaks down under it. He allows the mystery of God's discipline to obscure the smiling of his face. The dark disc of his sorrow passes between his soul and God. The shadow falls, and his faith suffers an eclipse.

(5) Thick black midnight now possesses him. Because he cannot interpret God's dealings with him, and because he has opened his ear to the cruel insinuations of unbelief, he concludes that God has forsaken him. In xxiii. 3, he sighs aloud, "Oh that I knew where I might find Him! that I might come even to his seat!" Passionate desires after an absent God: "Behold, I go forward, but He is not there; and backward, but I cannot perceive Him: on the left hand, where He doth work, but I cannot behold Him: He hideth Himself on the right hand, that I cannot see Him."

His sorrow has yet deeper depth. The thought of God now fills him with an awful dread. A horror of great darkness is upon him: "I am troubled at his presence: when I consider, I am afraid of Him. God maketh my heart soft, and the Almighty troubleth me." "The arrows of the Almighty are within me, the poison whereof drinketh up my spirit: the terrors of God do set themselves in array against me." Like Elijah under the juniper tree, he is weary of life, and longs to die: "Oh that I might have my request; and that God would grant me the thing that I long for! Even that it would please God to destroy me; that He would let loose his hand, and cut me off." Surely this was "the hour and the power of darkness."

(To be concluded.)

A MESSAGE FROM FIJI.

I STILL receive your welcome paper, and read with deep interest of the continual strivings at home in England against sin in its various forms. It is as a bugle sound in the slumberous Fijian atmosphere. In the English service some of the facts and cases so freshly read come in most appositely, and give point and force to the sermon; and some of them I know tell well. The following week the papers are lent, where they further carry their refreshing message, and act as a cup of cold water to a thirsty soul. They have gone, too, in the cabins of labour vessels on their cruise to the islands of the west in search of Polynesians to work on our cane fields and in our cocoanut groves. I state this to show that whoever has so kindly sent me this paper for years has not sent in vain.

And now for one fact in return. Last September we of the Wesleyan Mission held our annual district meeting in Levuka, attended by a number of the native ministers as well as by ourselves. In connection with the gathering was a Communion service held in the English Wesleyan church. A number of missionaries and English communicants of Levuka sat near the pulpit, and as the opening hymn was sung there came filing in from the street a succession of dark figures clothed in white raiment, and walking up the aisle with dignified, graceful bearing. These were the Fijian clergy, or some of them rather. The service was read by our chairman, Rev. F. Langham, from the fine old Liturgy of the Church of England, whose words are so sweet, so solemn, and so grand. Then I commenced the almost world-known hymn,—

> "Not all the blood of beasts
> On Jewish altars slain," which was sung to a familiar tune by the English present. A sudden thought striking me, I said, "E na vosa vaka Viti" (Anglicè, "In the Fijian tongue"), and gave out the translation of the above which is in the native hymn-book:—

> "Sa dredre e na dra
> Ni manumanu ga
> Me kauta yawa sara tu
> Nai sau ni caka ca."

Immediately the Fijians caught it, and sent it rolling up the church with an augmentation of volume and a suddenness of effect that was startling. The hymn was concluded in English. At the close of the Communion an English missionary prayed, and was followed by a Fijian clergyman in a fervent outpouring of soul, with a voice almost too full for utterance.

The deep significance of the scene was very apparent. The English, taking of the Lord's Supper with the Fijians in a country that fifty years ago was crowded with fierce cannibals without a single Christian in their midst, but that now has not one single avowed heathen in it; a native clergy joining with their white brethren in every sacred function and ministerial act; European and Polynesian voices blending in the same tune and to the same great thought of Dr. Watts' spirit-stirring hymn. It was affecting, and the natives themselves said afterwards that their souls were touched with a sense of the fellowship of races in the uniting bond of Christ and the oneness of all men in the ministerial work and at the table of the Lord.

ARTHUR J. WEBB.

Levuka, Fiji, November 5.

THE VINTNERS' COMPANY have given a donation of ten guineas to the Homes for Working Girls in London.

PARENTS AND CHILDREN.

ONE of the ablest men on the staff of the Children's Special Service Mission (Mr. Edwin Arrowsmith, Arabin House, Loughton, Essex), has written a letter to his young friends, from which we quote a few sentences:—

> Shall I let you into a little secret, and tell you what I hear from the heads of schools at this time? It may appear strange, but with hardly an exception it is this, "We dread the Christmas holidays." On asking the reason, they tell me that the frivolity and foolish exciting amusements, common at that time, seem to utterly unsettle their young people, and to drown all serious thoughts. Many about whom they were hopeful during the term, and who appeared in earnest about their souls, then drift back into utter worldliness, and return to school quite careless and indifferent. From painful experience I feel this is too generally the case, and have wondered how it could be prevented, more especially in the case of those who have professed to receive Jesus as their Saviour and Master. . . .
>
> If your parents wish you to go out and to accept invitations from worldly people, I would suggest your telling them very gently and respectfully that you want your religion to make you a better daughter in every way, and that you cannot therefore think of disobeying them; but as you feel your Christian life is hindered by worldly amusements you hope they will not compel you to go against your will. A mere giving up of the world does not in itself constitute true conversion; there must be a thorough and complete change in the life, and when your parents see how different you are at home; the first down in the morning; eager to help in every way; thoughtful about others; willing to give up to your brothers and sisters; and wishful to relieve your mother of as much care and anxiety as possible; they will soon see the reality of your profession, and are not likely to thwart your wishes for very long.
>
> So many of my young friends are in doubt as to what amusements are lawful for a Christian to indulge in, especially with regard to the theatre and dancing, that I have thought the experience of others with regard to these things might be helpful, and therefore subjoin extracts from letters received from friends who are now earnest workers for God:—
>
> "I feel so contented and happy to be at home now, quite different to what I was a short time ago after my usual summer visit to London; for then I missed the gaiety and excitement which you cannot get in the country, and made myself a miserable being through it. But now I may truly say, 'Old things have passed away, and all things have become new;' . . . . and I am so perfectly happy in this new-found state that it seems altogether impossible to find any pleasure in the frivolities and bubbles of fashionable life. When I think of the success my last ball was, it seems so strange that I shall never see another; but I know that God has greater joys to give me than this world could possibly afford, and that I shall be able to 'do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.'"
>
> "You will no doubt be pleased to hear that within the last few months my sister and myself have been led to take a stand for Christ, and to come out on his side. We have had to meet with much opposition at home by withdrawing ourselves from worldly amusements; but have found Jesus to be a very present help in time of need."
>
> "I just want to tell you how much I thank you for having spoken to me about giving up balls and theatres and coming out wholly for Christ. I think I was trying at that time to be a Christian and have a little of the world as well, which made me very unhappy and miserable; now I feel so very much happier."
>
> "Many thanks for your letter and the little book on dancing. I quite see my duty with regard to it now, and since I cannot do it in his name or 'for his glory,' I will not do it at all. I trust my courage will not fail me when the time comes for refusing invitations; I must just trust Him to keep me by his grace."
>
> "I have had no invitations anywhere this winter, and if I had, the inclination has quite gone to go to dances, &c. I see now that the only plan is to make a decided stand at once, for it is so easy to be drawn back again."

The foregoing extracts may be read by parents and their daughters with equal profit. They suggest another great error in the training of middle-class English girls, who are encouraged to regard marriage as the end and aim of their existence. This El Dorado of girl-hope is the bar to progress in education and other employment; a girl thinks she need not learn this or that to get her own living, as she will one day marry. But as very many do not enter the married state, what a startling proportion of ill-prepared, disappointed, helpless women there must be, who live only to regret the folly of those who allowed them to live on hope, instead of insisting upon a useful application of talents for the future. The higher education of women is doing something towards giving them a noble independence of spirit; but parents, and Christian parents especially, can do more, for the lessons of truth, honour, and industry learnt at home are never—even in an age of shams—entirely fruitless or forgotten.

CHRISTIAN WORKERS AT HOME.

MRS. HILTON AT THE STEPNEY CRECHE.

WE have thought it might prove at once interesting to our readers, and helpful to the workers concerned, if we were to record at intervals the substance of brief interviews between a representative of THE CHRISTIAN and some of those who are taking an active part in the varied Christian enterprises of the day. Acting on the principle of beginning at the beginning, our reporter recently paid a visit to the Crèche in Stepney Causeway, which has not only been for the past dozen years or more a small baby paradise itself, but has been the parent of many like institutions throughout the kingdom.

Our representative found Mrs. Hilton at her post. This excellent lady, besides expending her best and most matured energies on behalf of the East-end "innocents," has trained her daughters to a like solicitude and practical interest in the good work. She resides at a very short distance from the Crèche, so as to be within call when need arises. Capable and trustworthy subordinates are, of course, on the spot, but she exercises an active and constant personal superintendence, though, unhappily, of late years bodily weakness has all too frequently kept her a close prisoner.

Before commencing our conversation we may as well take a peep, under the guidance of Miss Eva Hilton, at the tiny inmates of the house. Upstairs and downstairs we go, through doors and corridors innumerable; the place seems a perfect labyrinth, but we recollect that it has been "adapted" from time to time to meet its ever expanding necessities. Each room has its contingent of baby buds or blossoms, tended by a sufficient staff of pleasant-looking, patient nurses. The Crèche proper, where the "day boarders" are housed and tended, is for various reasons kept separate from the Home. All over the house we find remaining traces of the bygone Christmas time, when Santa Claus pays his mysterious and long remembered visits. There are many tangible tokens, too, in the shape of valuable and curious toys, of the kindly generosity of the readers of Truth, whose editor has placed the Stepney Crèche on his list of Christmas beneficiaries. In one room we come upon a very juvenile "tea-party;" the tea in this case, however, consists of succulent dishes of bread and milk, which is being administered, in turns, by the hands of a nurse, to a row of clean, tidy, and sweet-faced cherubs, who would have delighted the heart and inspired the pencil of Miss Kate Greenaway. In another room the small people have reached that interesting stage of which Mr. Moody speaks with such gusto, when he tells how his elder children came to him one day in great glee with the important announcement that little "Paul could feed himself." Miss Hilton says they receive children in the Crèche from three weeks old and upward, and it seems as if in our perambulations we have ocular demonstration of the fact. It is tea-time in the Home also, in which we discover the children are more advanced in years and attainments; for there we were treated to some pretty homely ditties, sweetly sung, and a recitation by "the combined company," which did infinite credit both to the memorising and histrionic capacities of the youthful performers.

But we must hastily pass out of these charmed precincts, as our main business is to hear from the lips of Mrs. Hilton herself some outline of the origin and growth and principal aspects of her work. In answer to an inquiry, she says:—

"My husband and I came to reside in this neighbourhood, specially for the purpose of opening a Mission at Ratcliff in connection with the Friends' Old Meeting House. I spent much of my time in visiting the homes of the people, and I could not help being moved by the pitiable condition of the children, especially the very young babes. I began to form vague plans of gathering some of them together in some way and caring for them; but I had then no knowledge of any institution suited for the purpose. About that time some friends who had visited Brussels told me of a 'Crèche' (manger) which they found in operation in that city, where children were received from infancy and cared for till they were sixteen years old. I shortly afterwards went to Brussels with some members of my family, and when I saw the institution I was charmed with it. On my return I lost no time in setting to work on the lines of the Belgian Crèche. We had a part of this building in use in connection with the Friends' Mission, and I secured the rest of it for my project. I appealed by circular for help to provide a number of 'cots,' which cost three guineas each. Very soon I was able to procure thirty of these, and in that way the work began.

"In its very early stages it was greatly helped by the publication in The School Board Chronicle of some able articles written by Mr. Blanchard Jerrold, who paid me a visit and described the needs of the neighbourhood. In one of these eloquent papers he said: 'May this new beginning of education for the poor at the cradle, blossom into far spreading flowers, clear the 'Great Wild Streets' of our towns, and so in time to come, make the keys of the gaoler rust at his waist and the doors of the publican to creak on their hinges.'"

"That golden age has scarcely arrived yet, has it?" interposed the scribe.

"Not by any means, but I am glad to say that the neighbourhood has wonderfully altered for the better since we began to work here. Of course you know all about Dr. Barnardo's Homes for Boys that are close by, and there are many other agencies now at work. In early days we could hardly stand in the rooms of the poor, from their offensive and insanitary condition. The state of the children who were brought to us, and frequently of the mothers themselves, was such as you could not describe in print. Things are very different now."

"There are certain persons, Mrs. Hilton, who frown upon such work as yours, because, as they say, it degrades the people by relieving them of their parental responsibility. What is your reply to such objectors?"

"We are very careful not to encourage anything in the shape of imposition, or the shirking of duties that can at all be performed by the parents. We do not receive children whose fathers are earning wages and providing for their homes. But many of the women who leave their children with us during the day have been deserted by the bread-winner; in other cases the husband is ill or cannot get work, and the wife has to do something to find bread for herself and her household. We send a competent visitor to ascertain the facts in the case of every application that we entertain, and in various ways we ensure that the bounty of our helpers is not misspent. The women who bring their children here work at bottle-washing and in different factories, and they only get from 1s. to 1s. 3d. a day. They pay us a small sum, but we could never expect to receive from them anything like what it costs to feed, and nurse, and provide a change of clothing for their children."

"After these years of effort, you ought to be reaping some fruit of your labours."

"Work among very young children is of slow growth; but we are thankful to say that the fruit is appearing. As the Institution grew—and I may here gratefully remark that the kind and freely bestowed patronage of the Princess Christian has greatly helped it on—we had to add an Infirmary for the ailing and sick children. Then, in the fourth year of its existence, we added some adjoining premises, and started the Home. From ten children, who were at first permanently left under our care, through various causes, we have now in the Home forty inmates. These, as they grow up, are being trained for domestic service. Some of them have gone to situations, and are giving the greatest satisfaction. I could tell you wonderful stories of the contrast between their position now and that in which we found them, if you had the space to print them. The readers of The Christian, many of whom have been kind helpers in the work all along, will remember that we have now, through the kindness of a friend, a Convalescent Home at Feltham, where the sickly children can find purer air and better surroundings, and where we have also more accommodation for the training of the elder girls."

"We have lately heard much of 'The Bitter Cry of Outcast London.' Your experience of work among the poor in such a neighbourhood, Mrs. Hilton, must have enabled you to form a conclusive judgment as to the causes of all this distress?"

"I have no hesitation in saying that the drink is one of the chief causes. If all the public-houses were shut up for the space of one year, I believe the Bitter Cry would almost cease to be heard. The fascinating power of the drink over some men is terrible. When I resided in Brighton, I knew a gentleman who signed the pledge. For some time he came to our house every morning, that my husband might pray with him, and he had actually to run past the door of every public-house, so that he might not be overcome by the temptation to go in and break his pledge. It was not till several weeks had passed in this way that he said he could venture to walk past these places. In the case of women, the doctors have been largely responsible, by their prescriptions of stimulants; and Mr. Gladstone's Wine Bill, though it was no doubt passed with the best intentions, has been awful in its results, because of the facilities it gives to women in getting strong drink from grocers and confectioners."

On this question of the drink, Mrs. Hilton drew the attention of our representative to some remarks by Mr. Blanchard Jerrold in the articles already referred to. Stepney-causeway is a comparatively small street running at right angles out of that roaring East-end thoroughfare, the Commercial-road. On either side of the entrance there stands a public-house, as they stood there when Mr. Jerrold explored the locality. These trap-doors to destruction could not well escape his observant vision, and this is what he wrote about them: "They are the grim sentinels upon whose tawdry paint and gilding the earnest folk on their way to the plain clean house with the nursery bell look with dismay. These are the evil genii of the place, who suck the marrow from the bones of labour, make she-devils of mothers and criminals of fathers." These are strong words, but not more strong than true, and we were not surprised to hear that they roused the ire of the proprietors. Mrs. Hilton had some sickening narratives to tell of the effects of the drink as she had witnessed them in the persons and the homes of those for whose good she has laboured these many years. But our space is already exhausted, and we must forbear from further quotation.

"One last question about the Crèche, Mrs. Hilton. Do you find that its advantages are now as much needed as ever?"

"We have five times as many really deserving applications every month as we can entertain. On one day this week we refused nine children that we would gladly have received if we had the room and the resources. Some of these cases were peculiarly distressing, and it was with intense reluctance we had to say no."

As our reporter passed out into the cold, raw evening air and saw the "grim sentinels" at the portals of the Causeway with their cheerful blaze of light and swinging doors, he could understand somewhat the attractions that such places must present to the men and women with a comfortless home and a scanty cupboard. All honour, he thought, to such institutions as the Crèche, that help the well-disposed poor to help themselves, and build around their offspring a wall of defence against the fiery darts of this rum devil, that is empowered by the law, and encouraged by the social customs of Christian England, to drag its never-ending procession of victims down to a drunkard's grave and a drunkard's hereafter.

MR. W. NOBLE IN EDINBURGH.

UNDER the auspices of the Edinburgh Gospel Temperance Union, Mr. William Noble has conducted a series of three meetings in Edinburgh. The meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday were held in the Free Assembly Hall, and were presided over by Mr. Charles J. Guthrie, Advocate, and Mr. Robert Lockhart, President of the Union. The Thursday night meeting was held in the Barclay Church, when the chair was filled by Dr. J. H. Wilson.

The audiences at all the meetings were large and were (as was expected) mostly composed of Christian workers drawn from all the Churches. Mr. Noble's eloquent exposition of the principles, aims, and methods of Gospel Temperance, was closely followed by his critical, but highly appreciative audiences, and it is already apparent that the immediate result of his visit will be a large addition of Gospel Temperance workers and a general stimulus given to the good work all round. Wm. Davidson.

55, Montgomery-street, Edinburgh.

On Jan. 16 Mr. Noble, before a large audience at Galashiels, gave an earnest and telling exposition of the principles of Gospel Temperance.

A PENNY SUPPER was given last week by Dr. and Mrs. Norman Kerr to the poor of Lisson-grove, to illustrate cheap and wholesome fare, in the Perseverance Hall, Charles-street. A harricot stew was the leading dish, and was greatly relished by the guests, who received printed directions how to prepare it. Nearly 250 were present.

A PILGRIM SONG.

OUR God is faithful! Time moves on, to find us
Still singing of the mercies left behind us;
Still taking, as we sing, of some fresh store;
And looking trustfully for those before.

How can we doubt, with memories to cheer us?
How can we sorrow, with his love so near us?
How can we faint, while He has strength to give,
And we, by faith, his proffered grace receive?

Like as a father, pitying, He leads us,
And, daily, with some heavenly morsel feeds us;
Sees to our ailings, hushes our alarms,
And bears us, weary, in his loving arms.

He who has led thus far, will never leave us,
Until He at his heavenly home receive us;
There we shall see his face, and there adore,
And tune our harps to praise Him evermore.

A few more stages, on our journey going,
And we shall reach where Jordan's stream is flowing;
Our faithful God will cleave its swelling tide,
And land us safely on the other side.

There Ebenezers shall be lost in joy for ever,
Where sorrow, sin, and want can enter never,
Where, in a day that knows no coming night,
We'll bless the faithfulness that kept us right.

Thomas E. Reynolds.

BOW COMMON.

DEAR SIR,—We are having continued blessing upon the preaching of the Gospel in the large warehouse taken by us for Mission purposes in the Devons-road, Bow-common. Week by week fresh instances of spiritual awakening and salvation cheer us in our work. Last Lord's Day four souls were given us to our knowledge. On a week evening recently a poor woman tried to force her way in as the door was being shut, asking if there were not someone who could direct her in her efforts to find peace. She was soon joined by two or three of our good sisters, and by their instrumentality was led to the Saviour of sinners and sent happy on her way.

We have till now been using the first floor for our meetings, pending sufficient help to effect the structural alterations necessary to convert the ground floor into a Gospel Hall. These will cost quite £200, which will provide us a most serviceable building. However, we regret to say that, from a notice we have received from the district surveyor, we are unable to delay this expenditure longer, judicial proceedings being threatened if the alterations are not commenced forthwith. Under these circumstances we have told the builder to commence, in the fervent hope that the help necessary will be quickly forthcoming.

We are thankful for this opportunity of laying these few facts before the readers of The Christian, and would only further say, any sums for this work would be gratefully received and acknowledged if sent to the local treasurer, D. H. Fry, Plashet House, E., or to yours in the Gospel, William Chorley,

Supt. N.E. London Gospel Mission.

2, Marquess-road, Canonbury, N.

THE SOMERS TOWN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH held their annual meeting last week, and it was stated that they had a most successful year. The membership now stands at over 800.

CLAPHAM.—Mr. Gray, of the Boys' Home, 65, High-street, Clapham, writes:—"We are starting what is much wanted in many parts of London, a register for charwomen. Only well-recommended and deserving cases will be entered on the books, and employers will have to give a very small fee to pay any expenses. I find that one great cause of much misery amongst the poor is that of not knowing where work can be got, and by making this a centre for help we trust to do them a real benefit."

For the Young.

WHAT BOYS CAN DO FOR JESUS.

A BOY named Samuel was in the habit of inviting every child he saw who did not attend Sunday-school to go with him. One day, meeting with a little boy who was lame and could not walk, he asked him if he would like to go to the Sunday-school. The boy replied "Yes; but I am lame, and cannot walk. My father is dead; my brother has gone to sea; and I have no one to carry me." "Oh," said Samuel, "I will carry you, every Sunday, and bring you back again. I should like to do it. I can carry you on my back, you are not very heavy, and I would a great deal rather do it than not." So every Sunday Samuel was seen carrying the lame boy to school.

One day a little boy gave a religious tract to a Grenadier Guardsman who was on duty at Windsor Castle. The soldier did not know the boy, nor has he heard of him since. He put the tract into his pocket, and when off duty read it. It deeply impressed his mind, and led him to think of the salvation of his soul. He had been living a careless and wicked life; now he was alarmed at the danger he saw he was in, and began to ask, "What must I do to be saved?" Afterward he met with some good young men, who told him that the way of salvation was through Jesus Christ, who died for him. He prayed to Jesus, and became very happy through trusting in Him. Having found the Saviour for himself, he wanted others to find Him too, and to feel as happy as he was. He talked to his companions, told them what God had done for him, and asked them to seek salvation, because God was able and willing to hear and save anyone who asked Him.

On one occasion, as a Primitive Methodist minister was preaching in the open air at Tunbridge Wells, a little boy was seen standing at the outskirts of the crowd. A gentleman who was passing stepped up to him, and said, "My little boy, I will give you a penny if you will tell me the way to such a place." "Yes, sir, I will; and if you give me another penny, I will tell you the way to another place." "What place is that, my boy?" "Heaven, sir." "What, do you know the way to heaven?" "Yes, sir; and if you like I will tell you." "Yes, my man, do so." "If you have a New Testament, and will turn to John, the fourteenth chapter, and read the sixth verse, you will know all about it. Jesus says, 'I am the Way.'" The gentleman was so pleased with the boy that he gave him sixpence. The lad afterwards went to a booksellers' shop to buy sixpenny worth of tracts. When he took out the sixpence to pay for them, the shopkeeper, feeling somewhat surprised at his having sixpence, asked how he came by it. "In this way," said he, and then he told him how he got it. The shopkeeper was so pleased with the boy that he gave him sixpence also. "Now, sir," said the boy, "please let me have a shilling's worth of tracts." He was supplied with them, and went his way to distribute them among the people.

Dear young reader, you see what these dear boys did for Jesus, and how useful they were; and is there nothing you can do for Him? Think how much He loves you; how good, kind, and tender He has always been to you; how much He has done for you, and what good things He has given you. Try and think what you can do for Him.

E. B.

TWO TREES.

I wonder if you have ever heard of the curious tree known as the Judas-tree? Long before the leaves appear upon the branches, the gorgeous blossoms ornament them, and they look like scarlet sun-gleams caught amongst the boughs, and held prisoners by their interlacings. The brilliant beauty of the crimson flowers attract thousands of tiny insects, and the wild bees seek to draw honey from their exquisitely shaped cups. But every insect, bee or butterfly, that ventures to rest upon the edge of its blossom is overcome by a fatal, curious sort of opiate, or sleeping-draught, which the flower-juice contains, and drops dead upon the ground beneath! If you were to walk round the tree with me, you would see the soft grass strewn with dead and dying bright-winged insects! The Judas-tree reminds you and me of sin. Sin may look bright, pleasant, and attractive to our eyes; we may think it "no harm" to indulge in it. But lurking behind "the pleasures of sin" is a fatal poison. Even a dear little child may be led to taste the deadliness of sin, and its beautiful, pure soul be slain by it! All round the Judas-tree of sin we see the dead and dying souls of men.

What is to be done for them?

Ah! there is only one remedy.

Come with me up a steep, bleak hill, and when we have climbed it and stand upon its summit, we see another tree. How strange it looks! No leaves, no blossoms; only the bare, rough boughs on which a dying one hangs, with bowed head and outstretched arms. What tree is this? It is the Tree of Calvary. The soft green grass around is stained with blood; the summer breeze sings softly as it kisses that royal Sufferer's thorn-crowned brow. O Jesus! it is Thou! We know Thee. Why art Thou hanging on the tree?

And I think I hear Him say, dear children, "All this I did for thee."

Yes, Jesus died for you and me. The "leaves of the Tree of Life" that grow upon Calvary can bring to life again the poor, dead souls that have lost their life through the poison of sin. Jesus is sin's remedy.

Next time that you wander through the woods, or in the garden, and gather the sweet, shy violets, or pale peeping primroses from their hiding-places under the gnarled roots of the great forest trees, think of what I have told you. Think of the "two trees," of sin and Calvary, and remember that the poisonous scarlet blossoms of sin are only made harmless by the crimson blood that fell like dew from Jesus upon Calvary's tree.

It takes crimson blood to wash out scarlet sins. And when the sins are blotted out, live bright lives of loving thankfulness for the dear Lord Jesus.

Eva Travers Evered Poole.

ANSWER TO LAST ACROSTIC.

Kezia —Job xlii. 14, 15.

Kishon	1 Kings xviii. 40.
En-hak kore	Judges xv. 19.
Zenas	Titus iii. 13.
Irpeel	Josh. xviii. 27.
Agate	Exodus xxviii. 19.

Answers received from I.R. M.S. E.L. C.J.B. E.A.S. M.F. J.M.S.

Additional answers to Acrostic Methuselah have been received from E.A.S. C.S. E.M. H.C. J.P.B. J.M. J.T. J.H. N.S. D.F.L. C.S. H.C. S.B. P.W. G.R. R.A.S.

REV. F. W. MACDONALD, of Handsworth College, proposes to conduct short mid-day services for business men in Birmingham, similar to those conducted by Dr. Parker at the City Temple.

VISITING IN ST. GILES'.

"WELL! to be sure; who would have thought of seeing you?" said Mrs. C——, as her friend told her who had come into her room.

"How are you, Mrs. C——?"

"Oh! I'm well, praise the Lord. I've got so much—a score of mercies."

"Just tell me some of them," I said, as I sat down beside this poor old woman, bed-ridden, almost blind, and partly paralysed. One hand was quite useless, the fingers buried deeply in the palm of her hand. Her face brightened up as she told her story.

"Tell you some of my mercies, dear? Why, the Lord has given me so much. There's my mind, and my memory, and many kind friends—and then," she added, after a moment's pause, "He's given me such thoughts. Yes, dear, it's wonderful. I was converted fifty years ago. I remember it well; but I know more now than I knew then. Just to think of it, 'He loved me,' and that long, long ago afore the mountains stood forth."

Our next visit was to a sick wife, whose husband is now in prison for manslaughter. He and his wife often fought with each other, and lately their little child crept between them, and pleaded for peace. The blow meant for the mother caused the death of the little peacemaker, and six months in prison is the father's punishment. The wife now lies ill in a most wretched room, almost destitute of furniture, and in a terribly dirty condition. A baby about three years old is propped up in front of the fire, laughing gaily while she plays with an old doll. Another baby, born since the father went away, lies crying on the bed. The man returns home (?) this week.

With sad hearts we pass down the streets and up some dark stairs to a room where two old women live. They are sisters, and both suffer from internal diseases. One cannot work at all. The younger woman, who is over sixty-nine years old, earns a few shillings now and then by needlework. It takes a long time, and, as she expressed it, it means putting in "thousands of stitches" to earn eighteenpence, besides many rough words from her employers. So these two old women live out their sad life.

"Why, it's my angel again," said our next friend, as we stumbled down unsteady stairs, and along a dark passage to an underground kitchen, the light coming in through the street grating. "To think of you coming again, and oh! I'm so low and weak to-day;" and the poor sufferer could not restrain her tears. Here she was, all alone, and very ill. "My lease is expired," she said, laughing the next moment, "though my frame is still standing." The Doctor from the Mission came to see her, and then sent the nurse, "My dear angel," as she called her, and changed her home "into a palace" by seeing that she was supplied with warm clothing and pillows, for she had had none before. "But Christ makes me happy even here," she said.

We heard a poor woman struggling for breath as we opened her door, and walked in. Poor creature! She was sitting up in bed, unable to lie down night or day, and seemed in great distress and pain. She is dying from heart disease; the Doctor has just told her that she has only a few days to live. Her husband, who has been out all day seeking work, sits by the fire saddened by his failures.

The woman is not a Christian. One of us tells her of the Saviour's love, while another fills bottles with hot water for her frozen feet, and chafes her cold hands.

Who will help to lighten these sorrows, to clear and relieve these afflicted ones? Hearts are breaking, and sin is reigning in many homes. Christ's words spoken, and deeds of kindness done will avail much.

S. E. S.

London Medical Mission,
47, Endell-street, St. Giles, W.C.

FINSBURY PARK.—On the first Sabbath of this year, the Rev. G. Snashall (pastor) welcomed 13 new members into fellowship, making altogether 42 in eight months.

AT STRATFORD A YEAR AFTER.

TWELVE short months ago the populous eastern suburb of Stratford was the scene of a real and remarkable religious awakening. In none of the districts where Messrs. Moody and Sankey's moving Tabernacles were pitched did their labours create a greater or more widespread interest. And now, within a stone's throw of the spot where the great iron hall was planted, there stands a building which is by far the finest visible memorial of their London Mission of 1883-4. This Conference Hall, which also includes premises for a Y.M.C.A., was opened last Friday under the most auspicious circumstances. When the crowd thronged down West Ham-lane at the close of the evening gathering, it seemed to us, for all the world, as if we had been transported back to the memorable times of a year ago. Nothing was wanting to complete the supreme interest of the occasion but the presence of the American Evangelists themselves. If they knew the date of the opening meetings, we may be sure they were there in spirit.

The hall is a handsome structure, "designed in a free Italian manner," and as it stands apart from all other erections its graceful proportions are seen to advantage. The lower portion comprises two small halls, rooms for the Y.M.C.A., offices, lavatories, kitchen, &c. The upper half forms the large Conference Hall, which is seated to contain 1900 persons, including a fine choir platform with accommodation for 250 singers. On Friday evening this was well filled by members of the Stratford Evangelistic Choir, the Gospel Male Choir, and the Mizpah Band, all of which are the direct outcome of the Mission last January.

Two meetings were held on the opening day. In the afternoon Mr. J. G. Barclay presided, and among the others who took a leading part in the proceedings were Canon Scott, Rev. Dr. D. Bevan, of Highbury, Hon. A. F. Kinnaird, Mr. Robert Paton, Messrs. T. and E. Denny, besides the Chairman, Treasurer, and Secretary of the Council. The gathering was large, and a liberal contribution was made towards the extinction of the debt remaining on the building.

At the evening meeting the spacious hall was well filled, a goodly proportion of those present evidently being from the industrial class, which it is chiefly desired to reach. Mr. George Williams presided, with all his accustomed grace and geniality. After a jubilant song of praise, the reading of Psalm cxxxii. by Mr. Wilkinson, and prayer by Mr. Servanté, a brief statement was made by Mr. Burnett Tabrum, Chairman of the Council. He recounted the progressive steps that had been taken since the project was mooted, during the holding of the late Mission, making special reference to the gift of the site by Miss Eccles at Highbury. There had been difficulties to be overcome, but everything was begun and continued in the spirit of prayer, and God had guided them in a way that was unmistakable. Before sitting down, Mr. Tabrum said: Working men of Stratford, this is your hall. We want you to feel it so, and to make it so, and it is your own fault if you do not do it. Young men of Stratford, there are good rooms down below, and we want you to make them yours. Our secretary, Mr. Butlin, will be there to welcome you, and there will be plenty of work for you to do.

A suitable exhortation followed from the Chairman, on the words, "The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty; He will save thee; He will rejoice over thee with joy." The power of God, he said, which had already transformed the lives of working men, infidels, and drunkards in Stratford, was at their disposal for all that was to be done in connection with the new building. Our hearts swell with thanksgiving as we see this beautiful place and think of all that the mighty God is going to do here. Of course, Mr. Williams was duly and properly enthusiastic about the Y.M.C.A. department of the work. I hope, he said, you will gather in young men by the hundred. Every young man in Stratford ought to be identified with it in some way or another.

Next came an address from Dr. Bevan, who specially spoke, by request, to the working men. He did not believe that as a class of the community working men—i.e., those who live by manual toil—were more generally estranged from true Christianity than any other class. He proceeded to show that upon no class could Christ's Gospel have a greater claim, as He was Himself a working man, and therefore knew the deep necessities of their life. Those He gathered about Him as his first followers were working men. Further, his teaching was that which related to common work-a-day life. Many of his miracles even were evidently wrought that He might show how He sympathised with the daily toil and trials and joys and sorrows of common life. A third point was that real Christianity all through its history had glorified and dignified honest work. On this point Dr. Bevan showed very forcibly that if Christianity did not make its professors better workmen and better men and women in all the common relations of life, their profession was vain. It is to be hoped that his practical words will not be forgotten by those who listened to him with the deepest attention.

In his financial statement, Mr. C. Boardman had a tolerably encouraging account to give. The total cost of site, building, furniture, &c., would be about £6660. That morning the balance remaining due was £2120; at the afternoon meeting donations or promises were made amounting to £710, leaving £1410 still to be subscribed. A number of contributions were subsequently announced, but there is still a considerable sum due, so that, we may observe, any reader who has the ability and is generously disposed can find a good investment for his money. Mr. Boardman was so concerned about the spiritual part of the work that he turned aside in the midst of his statement to refer to it. Their great aim, he said, would be to supplement the regular work of the churches. During the Week of Prayer a brother had very happily expressed the matter when he prayed that the new hall might be the means of emptying the public-houses and filling the churches and chapels. They would need helpers, but they only asked for those whose hands were not already full in other ways. They could do with 200 workers who would be willing to go out to the highways and byways, and into the public-houses and compel the people to come under the sound of the Gospel. He hoped many who would hear the sweet strains of the Gospel—"Christ receiveth sinful men"—as these were sung out by the choir at the street corners, would be led to believe that blessed truth to their salvation. As an evidence of what had already been accomplished since the Mission was held, Mr. Boardman desired that all who had received spiritual blessing within the past twelve months should stand. Quite a number boldly responded, and there were hearty exclamations of "Praise the Lord."

After some earnest remarks and announcements by Mr. Butlin, the usual vote of thanks to the Chairman was moved and seconded by Mr. Hind Smith and Hon. A. F. Kinnaird. Mr. Smith made an affectionate and urgent appeal to the young men present to decide for Christ without delay. Mr. Knaggs then offered prayer, and pronounced the Benediction.

We learn that a very hopeful beginning in the evangelistic work was made last Lord's day. Mr. Boardman, though suffering much bodily pain, was able to address the 1000 persons who attended in the afternoon. In the evening the hall was crowded, and an overflow-meeting held below. Dr. Barnardo preached in the large hall, and there were some decisions for Christ.

The meetings at Stratford this year in connection with the Week of Prayer were marked by large attendances, with much unity and fervour of spirit.

THE JEWS.—On Sunday week Dr. Saphir preached an eloquent sermon in Belgrave Church, in connection with Jewish Missions. He spoke of the past, present, and future history of Israel, and from information which he had received from Professor Delitzsch, of Leipzig, gave an account of the remarkable movement among the Jews in South Russia.

EVANGELISTIC WORK IN NICE.

DEAR SIR,—Having been a resident in Nice for nearly three months this season, as well as a short time last year, I have been able to see a good deal of the evangelistic work carried on among the Roman Catholics of this place. Allow me to mention a few particulars regarding it.

In addition to services conducted regularly in French by Rev. Mr. Meille, of the Waldensian Church, there are two evangelists who labour diligently in Nice. One does so among the Italian-speaking, the other among the French-speaking part of the population. At present I will speak only of the former. The evangelist is Rev. A. Muston, of the Waldensian Church. This is the third season that the work has been carried on in Nice.

Mr. Muston is a well-educated man, zealous and painstaking. He preaches in Italian with fluency and power. He conducts five public services a week—three of them at night. The attendance is generally from 150 to 200 persons, and about a hundred of these come regularly. A circulating library, not large, but consisting of well-selected books, has been much valued by those who can read. Mr. Muston's labours have not been without a blessing from on high. During the former two years fully twenty-six Romanists have joined the Evangelical Church, and quite as large a number are at present under instruction with a view to their admission as communicants.

The number of professed adherents would, no doubt, be still larger were it not for the opposition they have to meet. The Sunday-school seems especially an object of aversion to the priests. The persecution is often severe, and only a strong faith can hold out against it. We all know about the sore trials which have to be borne by those who, in a heathen land like India, "come out and are separate;" but I do not know that the opposition is less formidable in Italy or France. It would be easy to give you not a few touching narratives of fidelity to Christ in the midst of great affliction.

The proprietor of the hall in which Mr. Muston formerly held his "Conferences," yielding at last to strong pressure from without, a good many months ago gave warning that he could no longer allow the meetings to be held on his property. It was therefore necessary to provide another room, and "a modest chapel," sufficiently large and commodious, was built. It was opened for the regular meetings in the end of last September.

Considering the extent of accommodation the cost of the building has been wonderfully little—only 4650 francs, or say £186. More than half that sum has been already paid, but Mr. Muston is most anxious that the sum of £84, which is still due, should be cleared off this year.

It would greatly encourage a faithful minister of the Gospel, and materially advance a very important work, if some of your readers could aid in raising this sum. Contributions may be sent to Rev. A. Muston, Passage Gioffredo, Nice; or to me at L'Eglise Ecossaise.

(Rev.) J. Murray Mitchell.

CHARITY AND POVERTY.—A largely-attended public meeting to discuss the actions and expenditure of the Charity Organisation Society was held in Clerkenwell on Tuesday week. Mr. A. P. Barnard (Guardian), presided. The speakers included Mr. H. W. L. Grant, Secretary of the Charity Protection League; General Moberley, an official of the C. O. S.; Mr. William Catlin, Superintendent of the Cowcross Mission; Mr. T. Bowden-Green, Secretary of the National Thrift Society; Mr. F. W. L. Jones, Mr. W. Harral-Johnson, a sister-of-mercy, and others. The following resolution was carried unanimously: "That in the opinion of this meeting a committee in the confidence of the public should be appointed to inquire into the proceedings and expenditure of the Charity Organisation Society." A second resolution to the effect that Her Majesty the Queen be requested to withdraw her patronage from the society was also unanimously adopted. It is proposed to hold a series of similar meetings in various parts of the metropolis for the purpose of directing public attention to this matter.

Notes and Comments.

It will be seen that we commence in this issue a series of notes on the daily readings of Rev. Thomas Richardson's "Bible and Prayer Union." As the readings in the New Testament commence this day, a favourable opportunity is presented to those who have not as yet joined in this systematic and consecutive study of the Bible. We hope to give from week to week pointed and helpful notes on the passages under consideration.

It is pleasant to hear our Judges' testimony of the decrease of crime in the land. Lord Coleridge, in charging the grand jury at the Norfolk Assizes last week, said there had been a steady diminution of crime for the last ten years in England and Wales. The actual number of criminals in England now is somewhat less than it was forty or fifty years ago. In view of the facts that our population has increased by nine or ten millions, and that the detection of crimes is now more certain than formerly, this shows a wonderful improvement.

Mr. Justice Stephen, who has just been on assize in North Wales, has had a most remarkable experience as to the absence of causes for trial. At Dolgelly he was presented with the customary pair of white gloves, there being no cases for hearing. At Carnarvon there was only one indictment presented. It is said that for the whole twelve months not a single prisoner has been committed to the Assizes in Merionethshire.

My Dear Sir,—I have read with pain and indignation the following words in The Christian of the 15th, from the address of Mr. Hay Aitken:—"Without the slightest hesitation one is constrained to affirm that the Perfect Man could never have written some of those Psalms of David."

I shall be extremely anxious till I read some repudiation of a sentiment so shocking to all who believe in the Divine inspiration of these marvellous poems.

The rejection of one article of the Christian faith, which is fundamental, no doubt involves that of whole sections of Scripture, and this should, I think, be pointed out.—Yours very sincerely, Abbeylands, Ardfert. Geo. F. Trench.

We entirely sympathise with our correspondent in deprecation of the view expressed as to the "imprecatory Psalms." We commend to our readers the valuable paper on this subject by Dr. Kay ("The Psalms translated from the Hebrew, with Notes chiefly Exegetical"—Rivington's), which we quoted in extenso in our issue of Oct. 5, 1882. He observes: "David, in his personal transactions, was singularly free from vindictiveness." Witness his forbearance toward his malignant persecutor Saul. A simple key for unlocking the difficulty is supplied by 2 Chron. vi. 21—23: "Judge thy servants, by requiting the wicked and by justifying the righteous." David and Solomon wrote in the spirit of their Lord and King, the Just One, ruling in the fear of God.

At the annual meetings of the London Baptist Association, held last week at Upton Chapel, Lambeth, it was decided to form a fund for the support of Mission halls to be erected in different parts of the Metropolis. The new president of the Association is Rev. J. R. Wood, of Upper Holloway; Dr. Underhill being elected as vice-president. The returns from the churches gave a total membership of 45,656, an increase on the previous year of 1907.

Mr. Archibald Brown, pastor of the East-end Tabernacle, has published his annual report, prefaced by a remarkably good paper on "Cruel Cheapness," of which we shall have more to say in our next.

The following notes, taken from Dr. Pusey's Commentary on the Minor Prophets, interested us in our recent reading of Zech. vi.:—

Ver. 13: "And He shall bear the glory, and He shall sit and rule upon his throne; and He shall be a priest upon his throne."—"How just this is, it is easier to think than to express, that He should sit and rule all things, by Whom all things were made; and that He should be a Priest for ever, by whose blood all things are reconciled."

Ver. 13: "And the counsel of peace shall be between them both."—"I read in the book of some, that this, there shall be a peaceful counsel between the two, is referred to the Father and the Son, because He came to do not his own will, but the will of the Father; and the Father is in the Son, and the Son in the Father." (St. Jerome.) [So it is twice said of Abraham and Isaac, going to the mount of sacrifice, "They went both of them together." And Jesus said, "I am not alone, but I and the Father which sent me."]

Ver. 14: "And the crowns shall be to Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Jedaiah, and to Hen the son of Zephaniah, for a memorial in the temple of the Lord."—So the angel said to Cornelius, "Thy prayers and thine alms are come up for a memorial before God." "This is what we look for, that all the saints and friends of God, whom these signify, those crowns which they have made of their gold and silver for the Lord Jesus, shall be an everlasting memorial in the heavenly temple of the Lord." "There their offerings shall be for grace to those who dedicated them, and an occasion for doxology. For the piety of princes becomes to the rest a part of the love of God. But when Christ is crowned by us then shall also the multitude of the Gentiles haste to the knowledge of Him." [For when Jesus is glorified the Holy Spirit is given.]

Another Protestant place of worship has just been opened in Rome, this time in connection with the Presbyterian Church. It is situated in a leading thoroughfare, and is intended for use by the congregation under the pastoral charge of Rev. Mr. Gray. A crowded assembly attended the opening service, among those present being Father Gavazzi, of the Free Italian Church, and Signor Prochet, of the Waldensian Church.

The Church Quarterly Review devotes an article to the changes which it says are coming over Wesleyan Methodism, and which threaten to modify its attitude towards the Established Church. The power of Methodism as a religious system is undoubtedly immense, and may be inferred from the fact that it has in all parts of the world over 31,000 ministers, and more than four and a-half millions of members. A far more important point concerning the future of Methodism than that of its adherence to any system of church government, is the vitality of its hold on the Gospel of Christ, so earnestly preached by its great founder. Let this remain, and other points may be left to take care of themselves.

Few men of this generation are more worthy of being embalmed in the memory of their countrymen than the late veteran missionary, Dr. Moffat. A movement is on foot for erecting, at the village of Ormiston, in East Lothian, which was the place of his birth, a monumental memorial of his devoted missionary labours. Associated in historical records with John Knox, and Wishart the martyr, it is indeed an honoured spot, and it seems evidently fitting that some permanent mark of its connection with Moffat should be reared. Among the subscribers to the memorial are Lord Hopetoun, the Earl of Aberdeen, Mr. S. Morley, M.P., and many other eminent men. Subscriptions are invited from all parts of the kingdom, and may be sent to Mr. T. Fairgrieve, 46, Clerk-street, Edinburgh.

What a glorious outlook for the Church of God does the year 1885 seem to promise! Looking over the Mission field of heathen lands, we see Japan opening up everywhere to the Gospel. Rev. A. D. Grieg, of the Reformed Mission, there, wrote from Tokio before the close of last year:—

> "There is much opportunity for Christian work among the country people now. A great many Bibles and portions of Scripture have been sold for the last few years, and the people find they cannot understand the Word of God unless they have a teacher. Many are ready to hear, and willing to be led, if only there were persons here to carry the bread of life to them."

In Corea there is a door standing wide open for the entrance of the truth, and in Siam Protestant Missions are making good progress. China, India, and Burmah need the prayers of God's people, that his Name be glorified in his troubled children there. The work in Africa demands that we should praise Him for his faithfulness. Oh that many may be led to give themselves to God for the heathen, in this year of grace!

In his little work, entitled, "Thoughts and Questions about Holiness," the Bishop of Liverpool says:—

> "Let us all awake to a sense of the perilous state of many professing Christians. 'Without holiness no man shall see the Lord;' without sanctification there is no salvation (Heb. xii. 14). Then what an enormous amount of so-called religion there is which is perfectly useless! What an immense proportion of Church-goers and Chapel-goers are in the broad road that leadeth to destruction! The thought is awful, crushing, and overwhelming."

This is but too true, and suggests some practical and personal questions. Perhaps while we deplore declensions in our brethren we have overlooked the need to strengthen the kingdom of God by a personal holiness, a living faith, and a dead self. Not so much in pulling down the bulwarks of Satan, or in destroying the foundations of error, do we best serve our God; as in prayerful waiting upon Him for ourselves, and in building up the younger and weaker among the brethren.

We read in "The Gospel in all Lands":—"There is less liberty to Protestant work in Austria than in any other Papal country." Let us remember the faithfulness of Him whose word shall accomplish the purpose whereunto it is sent, by giving ourselves to earnest prayer on behalf of the Lord's true servants in Austria.

In a Note in a portion of our last issue with respect to infant mortality in Leek, Staffs., it was stated, on the authority of the Daily News, that the proportion of child deaths had increased from fifteen to 186 per thousand; in a subsequent issue that paper has stated that the figures should have been 156 instead of fifteen.

A North Country employer, after reading "Damaged Pearls," one of Miss Ellice Hopkins' White Cross Series (Hatchards), has ordered 10,000 copies for distribution.

Mr. Hudson Taylor left for China on the 20th inst., and will doubtless be followed by the prayers of many in this country. He joins the Paramatta at Suez. The complications in China caused by the present war call for increased prayer for our brethren and sisters in the interior. Notwithstanding the danger of residence and travel in the central provinces, so far no serious harm has been reported, but, on the contrary, cheering letters tell of conversions and progress.

Mr. Henry Stevens, Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, lately read a paper before the Cambridge Library Association on the question, "Who spoils our new English books?" He contends that in material, manufacture, and outward appearance, our book-making is declining, "slowly but surely becoming one of England's lost fine arts." In answering the question, Who is responsible for this? Mr. Stevens replies :—

> "First, the author, the extent of whose guilt is limited to insisting in some cases upon 'extremely crude ideas of form, comeliness, and style, against the better judgment of his printer and publisher;' secondly, the publisher; thirdly, printer; fourthly, the reader; fifthly, the compositor; sixthly, the pressman or machinist; seventhly, the papermaker; eightly, the inkmaker; ninthly, the bookbinder; and lastly, the consumer, 'who is often ignorant and careless of the beauty and proportions of his books.'"

Mr. Stevens, as one of the jurors in the Paris Exhibition in 1878, and well up in the question from an International standpoint, speaks with some authority. He indicates as the chief defects the facts that the paper-maker has to study cheapness rather than quality, and that in the manufacture of ink there is a great declension from former days. The inks produced are sallow, offensive to the sight and smell, and turning brown in a generation. The truth is in this department as well as in others, we are all suffering from "the sin of cheapness," and until the public learn that to buy cheap is not the summum bonum of trade to the purchaser any more than to the vendor, decline and adulteration are likely to be the order of the day in all departments of manufacture.

Miss Anstey, of the Colar Mission, who is in England for a few months, will be happy to give a narrative of her work at drawing-room meetings, if any friends should be able to arrange such for her. She is accompanied by Lakshman Row, a young native Christian. Letters may be addressed Miss L. H. Anstey, 23, Ely-place, Holborn, London, E.C.

The Committee of the Peace Society have issued a manifesto impeaching and protesting against the warlike policy of the British Government with respect to Egypt and the Soudan. The military element is so strongly represented in the Press of this country that such testimonies on behalf of the principles of peace are always needful. Into the circumstances that have led up to the present hostilities in the Soudan we do not propose to enter. We doubt if England has ever had a Government more averse to the arbitrament of the sword and the cannon than that over which Mr. Gladstone presides, but events seem to have been too strong for them. Every true disciple of Christ ought to labour and pray for the time foretold in prophetic vision, when nations shall so respect the just rights of others that they shall learn the horrible art of war no more.

There are some places where drawing-room meetings are very frequent, and the people well informed on most subjects of Christian interest. There are others in which meetings of this kind would be a new departure, and a means of introducing Missions of various kinds to those who have been hitherto unfamiliar with them—to their great interest, edification, and usefulness.

The Council of the Evangelical Alliance has issued a note to all its branches throughout the country, earnestly requesting special prayer for Madagascar, "that God in great mercy may interpose to preserve to the Malagasy people the independence of their country, and to deliver them from the present disastrous war; that the native Christians may be sustained and kept true and steadfast in their allegiance to Christ; and that the Government may continue to exhibit a spirit of forbearance at this crisis in their history."

The Fancy Fair, with its adjuncts, is a growing institution in connection with the professing Christian Church. The following is a specimen; where will it stop?

> "Each stall will have a separate distinguishing costume and colour.' Arrangements are being made to have 'a series of auxiliary attractions,' including amongst others—'Marionette performances, shooting gallery, gipsy grotto with fortune telling, magic fishing pond, and other interesting, instructive, and remunerative entertainments.'"

There is to be a lottery, but the announcement is ingeniously veiled by a euphemism: "Various handsome prizes will be disposed of on the Art Union principle; to be drawn for on Friday evening, at 10 p.m."

An article in The Standard of Friday last gives an excellent description of the truly Samaritan work carried on in connection with the Asylum for the Houseless Poor in Banner-street, St. Luke's. It is supposed to be the duty of our paternal Government to provide a place of refuge for those who, like the Master Himself, have nowhere to lay their heads. We are scarcely surprised, however, to learn that many of our city waifs and strays have a strong dislike to the casual ward, because they are compelled to pay for the night's shelter by some labour task which detains them till noon, and so lessens their chance of earning anything that day. In the Banner-street Asylum the fare is plain enough—bread and water—but the sleeping arrangements are good, and the morning brings freedom to go out and seek for such employment as can be found. This Asylum in St. Luke's ought to be well supported, and there is much to be said for the suggestion of the writer that shelters of the same description might be opened during the inclement winter months in various districts of London.

The ears of all the civilised world are ringing with the tidings of the horrible and murderous attempts of the dynamitard madmen upon our House of Commons and the Tower of London. At last America is waking up; the President of the Senate, immediately the news arrived, introduced a Bill to suppress conspiracies for assassination and destruction of property at home and abroad. All civilised Governments are likely now to combine for the extradition of such attempted or actual assassins. Meanwhile we must all recognise with heartfelt thanksgiving to God the Providence which has so wonderfully minimised the injury to life and property by these fiendish outrages.

But we must not at the same time shut our eyes to the fact that the implacable and cruel hatred of England in the Irish-American is the deadly fruit of England's cruel oppression of Ireland in the past. Even if it be said that these assassinations are planned by men like O'Donovan Rossa, who live by pandering to these revengeful feelings, the fact remains that if these did not exist there would be nothing for such monsters as Rossa to work upon.

Shall we learn wisdom from these troubles? Will not retribution come home to us from our own people, whom our insane desire for cheapness is screwing down to starvation point? Will not the Bitter Cry of Outcast London, which has entered into the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth, bring still further troubles upon us from the suffering masses? Will not also the crimes of rich debauchees against the poorer daughters of our people be avenged upon the nation by the righteous Lord who loveth righteousness?

The month that is now closing has been one of calamity and anxiety. Devastating earthquakes, disasters by snowstorms and avalanches, processions of men out of work in the streets of cities, war and mourning, with heavy cares of our Ministers of State. Surely the ignoring of God is being rebuked. As it looks on to other months, the nation needs to take up the language of Englishmen of old, "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble."

The Spectator of Saturday last says that the youths of the new generation lack strength to dominate circumstances. Recent examples might lead us also to add that some of them are the victims in an altogether new form of insane and morbid passions, and of murderous recklessness. The country might profitably inquire into the causes of this loss of self-control in its coming rulers.

Nothwithstanding provocation, the irritating tone of some of our influential journals towards foreign Powers is very much to be deplored. A heavy responsibility lies just now upon writers for the Press. When last Saturday we read in a morning paper the words, "If the Germans want a quarrel with us they will meet with no obstacles," we could not but recollect that aroused prejudices have often dragged nations into frightful wars. Statesmen are frequently more ruled by public opinion than able to guide it.

A new volume, THE REAPER AND THE HARVEST, has just been published (Morgan & Scott), which gives a very interesting account of the past evangelistic work of Rev. E. Payson Hammond in Scotland, America, and England. The record covers Mr. Hammond's labours for five-and-twenty years. The book contains over 500 pages, and is from the skilful pen of Rev. P. C. Headley, author of "Evangelists of the Church," &c. The volume has a striking portrait of Mr. Hammond.

LONDON CONGREGATIONAL UNION.—The sum received within recent months for work among the outcast poor amounts to over £2000.

GERMAN MISSION IN LONDON.—Christian friends are urgently requested to make known to Germans of their acquaintance the special addresses to be given by Dr. Ziemann, Dr. Badeker, and others, in German, every evening at 8 p.m. next week (2nd to 7th February), at St Andrew's Church, next door to Wicliff Chapel, Philpott-street, Commercial-road, E. (at the back of the London Hospital).

THE BIBLE CARRIAGE IN BRITTANY.

DEAR SIR,—A brief account of the work of our Bible carriage in France during the past year may not be uninteresting to your readers. Since it began running it has traversed the whole of the Empire, visiting each department. The work we had mapped out for it during the past year, however, has special reference to Brittany. Starting early in the year, M. Pointet called at Nice, Mentone and Monaco; in this last-named place he obtained permission from the authorities, a very unusual thing, and set to work. The police immediately ordered him to desist, and were evidently surprised to find him duly authorised. He relates with what pleasure he distributed 400 Gospels and sold fifty New Testaments in this hot-bed of gamblers.

From Monaco he worked his way in an oblique direction right into Brittany, and here the season's campaign really began. The Bretons are most superstitious and priest-ridden. It will therefore be easily surmised that our evangelist's experience was somewhat varied, his reception in some cases being the reverse of friendly. The following are short extracts from his monthly reports. Alluding to the past he writes:—

"From Mentone right through France I have been able to work freely and without obstruction. At Livaro I addressed the people as they left mass. This is a thoroughly bigoted town. The priest came on the scene, a most dignified individual. He said, 'My friends, do not accept these books, for they are Protestant.' He then took one and tore it in pieces. I told him he was the supposed representative of the truth, but that he uttered falsehoods, and calumniated my work. 'You are, no doubt, an honest citizen, but are under the rule of the Jesuits of Rome.' The word citizen put him in a violent passion. He said, 'Take care, for here comes the Mayor.' 'Well, if it is,' I replied, 'he is the man who holds authority here, and is a good citizen into the bargain.'

"In the hotel yard I was accosted by two men, one of whom said, 'I am a freethinker.' I replied, 'Well, you are not the whole locality; your belief is only fit for despair and the rope. I expect you were brought up under shelter of the priest's robes.' I talked a considerable time with him. The next morning a man said, 'I was pleased to see you give it to our Mayor as you did yesterday.' I was quite unaware to whom I had been talking.

"At one place I stopped at on the road it was with difficulty I got away uninjured. A lot of women, probably instigated by the friars who have a large seminary in the town, got up a regular demonstration against me. One of them heading the others came holding an open Testament at the head of a long stick, the pages of which were flaming in the wind. At the same moment some one in the crowd struck the already frightened horse a blow on the nose with a whip handle, and but for the angle of a house, both horse and man would undoubtedly have come to grief. I managed to jump out and quiet the poor animal. The police interfered, only to insult instead of to protect me. The crowd increased, and I found they still meditated mischief. A fierce looking woman and some men followed. She gave them her orders to burn me with the carriage. Their hands were full of matches, but fortunately the wind was against them. I jumped out and made for these incendiaries, but immediately I was hemmed in. A formidable cry came from the crowd; the horse was beaten and started off. By a great effort I freed myself and managed to overtake it, but with the strain the harness had given way, and the carriage was beating against the horse's legs. The police during this last proceeding had been carefully kept out of sight. I reached the high road at last, devoutly thankful at having escaped so well."

Thank God, all is not dark. Our friend is now again cheered with rays of sunshine, as the following incident, coming after the day's worry and excitement, will show: "Returning to the hotel an old man unharnessed the horse. He was complaining of one thing and another. I looked earnestly at him, and said: 'Courage, my friend. We shall all rise again.' He replied, 'Oh! tell me that again. Never have I heard a man speak as you do. Who are you?' Feeling weary I retired to my chamber. Soon the old man followed me: 'Oh, do tell me of those things again!' and he threw himself at my feet. I raised him, but at the third time I went down on my knees beside him, and asked for grace for this poor troubled soul. It was a touching time.

"At St. James I was greatly encouraged, and sold well; one lady bought largely; it required no questioning to see she was one of Christ's disciples. Although it is between eleven and twelve years since I visited these parts, I was recognised by many. At Vannes a young man said, 'I was only a child when you came here before; I still have the book you gave me.' A shoemaker, whose manner plainly showed the great interest he felt in the matter, asked if I had any engravings of the Prodigal Son? Another, 'Why do you not come among us oftener to instruct us?' The family at the inn said: 'You have not your big carriage this time; and where is the gentle lady who then accompanied you? You sold my poor father, who was such an invalid, a Bible. He is now at rest. He could not read himself, but he used to make my brothers and me read to him in the evening.' At Ré the Deputy Mayor said: 'I would give twenty francs if he would go to my home at Rochefort.'"

Notwithstanding the opposition he met with in various places, M. Pointet was able to distribute 14,000 Gospels in the Breton language, besides selling 644 Breton New Testaments; also several thousand Gospel portions, Testaments, &c., in the French language. Altogether, 68,000 Gospels were distributed from the Bible carriage during the year, not counting the large numbers of Bibles, Testaments, and illustrated papers sold.

The Bible carriage is now near Cherbourg. We ask the prayers of your readers that God will speed his servant, and send the help so much needed for the spread of his Word. Collecting boxes for the Bible Stand fund may be had on application to me.—Yours faithfully,

WM. HAWKE, Secretary.

Bible Stand, Crystal Palace, S.E.

◆

A Y.W.C.A. FLOWER MISSION.

HAVING been asked to undertake the work of distributing flowers in some of the many London workrooms, I appeal to friends living in the country to help us in this endeavour to brighten the lives of some of our sisters whose days are spent in constant work. The Flower Mission is only one branch of the great work of "The Young Women's Christian Association." Great as the work is, which has been, and is now being done through it, we cannot but feel that there are hundreds in London alone who have not yet been reached. It is our earnest endeavour to show these sisters that we have both their spiritual and temporal welfare at heart. This is what we hope by God's help to accomplish through the Flower Mission. We feel sure all will agree that it is a work deserving of help.

The difficulty of gaining admittance to the workrooms is very great, but it is found that when visitors go for the purpose of distributing flowers permission is often more readily granted; it also makes a way of access to the hearts of those we are trying to reach. We feel sure there are many young ladies who would gladly devote a little of their leisure time to the Master's service by gathering wild flowers, which will be most acceptable. Flowers should be sent off in time to be delivered on Tuesday evening at the following address, as Wednesday is the day fixed for distribution. We shall always be careful to return the hampers. (MISS) LAURA HEDLEY.

17, Old Cavendish-street, W.

KINGSGATE-STREET, HOLBORN.—At the New Year's meeting an unknown friend handed to the pastor, Rev. T. Henson, a note and a sovereign, expressing sympathy with the Church, in the words: "I know thy works and tribulation and poverty, but thou art rich."

GOOD TIDINGS FROM BASUTOLAND.

WE append some very encouraging extracts from a letter received by Miss Macpherson from the venerable Mrs. Dyke, who has been labouring for nearly fifty years in this corner of the great harvest field:—

It makes me happy to tell you that although political affairs make no progress toward a settlement, the work of the Lord is cheering, and gives great joy to his servants in many places. After a long season of deadness, indifference, and falling into sin by many members of the churches, and much opposition by the heathen to the preaching of the Word, the Spirit of the Lord appears to be working upon many souls.

Several missionaries report that the Lord is opening the hearts of many to receive the glad tidings of salvation. There is a good attendance at the services on their stations and out stations, and many of the heathen are being converted. Those who go out to evangelise are now well received everywhere. The villages hitherto closed, and where stern opposition was shown to the Gospel, are now open to them, and they find a welcome almost everywhere.

This cheers and comforts the labourers, as it shows the Master's presence in making the seed sown to spring up after many days' weeping, praying, and watching. May He still watch over it, and cause it to bring forth fruit to his own glory.

While we rejoice with great gladness over these signs of a good movement in some places, we mourn over the many that remain hard, and the much ground remaining unoccupied. In your meetings friends have often prayed for us, and many sin-hardened ones around us now praise God. Ask that these droppings may not cease, but go on until they become showers that will flood the whole land with blessing, and bring glory to the Master. Will you heartily thank those dear friends who so lovingly remember this country and its needs at the Throne of Grace. We are much helped and strengthened by them.

During this year many of the aged Christians have gone home to glory, rejoicing and giving us joy. There are still some of the first converts waiting in hope. They are very, very old. Every illness they have they think it is the call to go home, and are disappointed if they recover a little. They are so weary, and they want to be at home and at rest. Many of them have great bodily suffering and few earthly comforts, so that the prospect of relief and being with their Saviour is a wonderful and continual happiness to them. What gladness fills our hearts at their departure, to know that there is another safe at home in glory!

Tell your dear widows I often think of them with very deep sympathy, and hope to meet them in the home over there. . . .

Yours in the bonds of our loving Jesus,

Morija, Basutoland, M. J. DYKE.
South Africa, December, 1884.

The latest news from Basutoland seems to indicate that, politically considered, there are troublous times ahead. We trust Christians in this land of peace and privilege will not forget to pray for the preservation and continued prosperity of these far-off workers and their converts from among the heathen.

RAGGED SCHOOL UNION.—The Quarterly Record of this institution appears bound up with the fortieth annual report. An excellent portrait is given of the Earl of Shaftesbury, with full report of the presentation of the freedom of the City to his lordship. A most comprehensive and complete record of work done by the various branches is furnished in the Record, which may be obtained from the secretary, Mr. John Kirk, 12, Exeter Hall, E.C. The Union have also published, in separate form, price 1d., the excellent sermon lately preached on its behalf by Dr. Oswald Dykes.

THE RATCLIFF "BRIDGE OF HOPE."

THAT we are living in times when the strongest forces of good and evil are coming to the front, is a fact which impresses itself upon every thoughtful mind. Poverty, such as in our selfishness we have scarcely cared to think of; sin, which in its hideousness we have done our best to wrap up and hide away from sight, are now being revealed; and these revelations, whilst taxing the utmost resources of politicians, and calling out the deepest sympathies of philanthropists, demand that every one of us should consider our individual responsibility. "God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all." "Whatsoever doth make manifest is light." This is our confidence; only in its realisation are we saved from the despair and shielded from the harm which would otherwise follow the unveiling of such misery and poverty.

It is needful to live in this consciousness that we may be able in some measure to cope with the evils in Ratcliff-highway, for faith is often strained to the utmost by the phases of life with which we are brought into daily contact. The miserable, sordid poverty, hourly claiming from our hands help of one kind or another, would have weighed us down even before the beginning of this much-dreaded winter, but that we know by daily experience, our God is a God nigh at hand, and not afar off. How I wish I could bring home to the readers of THE CHRISTIAN what the misery around us is, without reiterating the nauseating stories, all seemingly alike in broad outline, but differing in detail—each poor suffering sinner, with her individual needs, calling for individual love, and thought, and prayer.

Since the opening of the new Refuge and Mission Hall in October, the increased work has made such heavy demands on our time and attention that we have had no opportunity for making known our growing needs. We find great comfort in having more room, and in working under more healthy conditions. The response of friends to our appeal for funds for building was most hearty and generous, and we are thankful to state that only about £150 is required to clear off the entire sum needed. Until this is raised one of the three houses will remain unoccupied, for we are most anxious to be free of all kind of debt. We trust we may be able to raise this sum during the next few weeks, and open the house, with accommodation for eight or nine sick girls, of whom so many are constantly coming to us for shelter.

Perhaps it is best to say a few plain words on this subject. All who have the slightest knowledge of rescue work know that the constant difficulty which presents itself is, how to deal with those suffering from diseases consequent on vice. When such apply for admittance our only alternative is to take them into the Refuge, thereby rendering it insanitary, and endangering the health of the other inmates, or to turn them adrift on the street to the greater danger of the community. The need that curative measures should go hand in hand with rescue work seems to me urgent. Very naturally Guardians object to receiving cases which have come to refuges from other parishes, whilst at the same time relief given in parish infirmaries is most inadequate. The medical treatment in general hospitals is, of course, more thorough, but the provision for such cases is so small that months sometimes elapse before a vacancy occurs. Besides this, the hospitals are schools of medicine, and what may be harmless to purer minds has a most baneful effect on these poor creatures. It can be readily understood that we have reason to dread many of the influences brought to bear upon young girls sent into these wards. It is a fact that many about whom we have been most hopeful have after hospital treatment gone back to the deepest sin. Although it will somewhat increase our expenses, I feel sure it will at the same time elicit greater sympathy that I have secured the services of a lady doctor, and also those of a good Christian nurse.

We have had much blessing in the house through sheltering a poor woman who came to us one cold, stormy night, hungry, desolate, and drenched to the skin. She became so ill that the doctor forbade her removal, and through many weeks of tedious illness we nursed her. Her sufferings seemed to draw out the tender sympathies of the other inmates, and her gratitude for every little service of love was most touching. Her testimony was most clear. I have never witnessed deeper sorrow for sin, nor a calmer and more simple trust in the Lord Jesus as the Saviour. Her almost invariable answer to our inquiries during the last week or two of her life was, "Waiting for the Lord; I shall see Him soon."

Some who were interested in our last little report will rejoice with us that the mother of the little girl whom we mentioned in it as rescued, and for whom much prayer was offered, came to us at twelve o'clock one night of her own accord. Although often meeting her I had scarcely seen her sober for years, but since that night she has steadily persevered. Do our friends at all realise the patient watchfulness and loving care daily expended upon one such poor wanderer, and how we rejoice over her with trembling?

Besides the rescue work, the Bridge of Hope, as is well known to many of our friends, is the centre of a considerable Mission amongst the very poor in the neighbourhood. The various meetings held in the Mission Hall, formerly an old dancing saloon, are deeply interesting, and many of them have been seasons of great blessing. The regular and eager attendance at the mothers' meetings is very marked, and opens doors for work in the families of the people amongst whom we live, giving us an influence with the young girls which we could gain in no other way. Besides Gospel services, we have been able, through the kindness of friends who have come from other parts of London, to give our poor neighbours some pleasant musical evenings, and thus help to empty the public-houses. The little children as well as the elder girls find our hall a happy place. We have helped them to our utmost, but our hearts often ache that we are not able to clothe and feed more of these naked and hungry little ones.

In the Preventive Branch, the work at the Industrial Training Home, in the Mile End-road, has been steadily carried on, and is one of the most cheering features in the Mission. Our aim is to give these poor young girls, who have been brought up under the greatest possible disadvantages, such instruction as will make them useful servants either at home or in the Colonies.

Will those who read this little article remember that we are bearing the burden and heat of the day, in the midst of very much that is very difficult and trying? Will they enable us, by some little sacrifice on their part, to carry on this work without pecuniary anxiety on account of the general funds of the Mission, which is just now pressing somewhat heavily upon us?

26 & 27, Prince's-square, MARY H. STEER.
St. George's-in-the-East, E.

RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY OF SCOTLAND.— The report of this Society for the past year states that through the generous support of friends the committee have circulated more literature than in the preceding year. The colporteurs now number nearly 200. 28,000 Bibles, 16,000 New Testaments, and 44,000 copies of the Penny Testament have been sold, beside a great deal of wholesome and instructive literature. Each colporteur is supplied with a parcel of tracts once a month for gratuitous distribution. The report says that many a bedridden saint looks forward to the tract as his fresh morsel of spiritual nourishment; it is also frequently blessed in leading sinners to a knowledge of the truth. A portion of the report consists of extracts from the journals of the Colporteurs. One says: "For more than two years I have visited occasionally an old man who is a Roman Catholic. It was some time before I dared to ask him to let me read the Scriptures and pray with him. He used to raise controversial points of difference between Catholics and Protestants. Now he is most glad for me to read the Scriptures and pray, and he tells me he is trusting solely in Christ." The general secretary of the Society is Rev. George Douglas, 18, South-street, Andrew-street, Edinburgh.

THE DIVINE COMFORTER.

ISA. lxvi. 13.

SEE yonder sleeping child! how deathlike seem
Its features in repose. What sight so fair!
Its face is wreathed in smiles that angels wear,
And when it wakes it falls asleep to dream
Again of Paradise; a sunny beam
Is loitering within its glossy hair,
And gentle grace is mirrored everywhere.

O what a subject for a poet's theme
Or painter's skill! But see! it starts with pain,
Some childish fancy causes sudden dread,
And it is crying, nor will sleep again
Until its mother hastens to its bed,
Her magic hand dispels the terror wild;
O happy mother! O most favoured child.

There's subtle magic in the tender wand
A mother holds. A touch will mesmerise,
While life and voice so gently exorcise!
We've felt it oft, yet fail to understand
The potent charm of that dear mother-hand,
Or see wherein its cunning secret lies.
Like zephyr that in summer evening sighs
In yonder grove, till it is gently fanned
With wooing breeze, refreshing all around,
Or, as a skilled musician lovingly
Takes each discordant strain and makes it sound
Anew, in strains of sweetest melody,
So she. O mother, what a sacred power
Is thine,—to guard in childhood's troubled hour!

But what a perfect Comforter is He
(Our Fellow-sufferer still) who sadly trod
Life's dark and arduous way! Each thorny road
His sacred feet have pressed. Can sorrow be Like his who drank its bitterest dregs? Go see
Again in dark Gethsemane the blood,
And view on Calvary an expiring God.
Once more we hear Him saying tenderly
These words of comfort, "I will give you rest."
"My peace I leave with you." and lo! a balm
Distils. We, too, would lean upon his breast,
And find, sweet-pillowed there, a perfect calm
Full satisfied till dawns the unending Day,
When God Himself shall wipe our tears away!

Pictou, Nova Scotia. A. W. HERDMAN.

PASTOR SCHNELLER'S SYRIAN ORPHANAGE.

I AM anxious to correct two errors which, through inadvertence, have crept into my short paper on the above excellent Institution. As stated at the commencement of my appeal, the Home is a few miles north of Jerusalem, and not at Bethlehem. Pastor Schneller, senior, is still at the head of the Institution, and I am glad to state prosecuting the labours with undiminished energy and vigour. His son, Pastor Schneller, junior, is pastor of a German-Arabic Congregation in Bethlehem, and the address, an extract of which I translated, was delivered at the induction into this pastorate.

I have received £8 10s. for the Orphanage, and have sent acknowledgments to the various donors. I trust some friend may send further help for this centre of philanthropic evangelistic work.

19, Lansdowne-road, W. A. SAPHIR.

We are requested by Miss Hue, Merton House, Teddington, S.W., to say that she is collecting old postage stamps of all countries to be sold on behalf of this orphanage. She will be glad to receive any packet of these stamps that our readers may send.

DR. PARKER has again consented to preach the Thursday noon annual sermon in aid of the Wesleyan Metropolitan Chapel Building Fund, and promised the use of the City Temple for the annual meeting in April next.

REV. A. M. W. CHRISTOPHER, rector of St. Aldate's, Oxford, says the correspondent of The Record, has returned to Oxford for the commencement of term, after spending some time in the Isle of Man for the recovery of his health. Although strictly a parochial clergyman, few men do more during term-time for the benefit of undergraduates, and it is to be hoped that the double work which will now fall upon willing shoulders will not prove too much to be borne. Anyone who knows Oxford intimately cannot fail to be aware of his unceasing and unselfish labour. A candid observer might wonder whether it receives due recognition from the powers that be.

OBITUARY.

MR. R. BARBOUR.

IN the death of Mr. Robert Barbour, of Bolesworth Castle, Cheshire, at the age of eighty-seven, the English Presbyterian Synod loses its oldest member, and the Church a princely benefactor. Mr. Barbour, at an outlay of £12,000, endowed a chair, which bears his name, in the Presbyterian College, and all through his long life has been a liberal supporter of English Presbyterianism.

MR. THOMAS BRAIN.

A well-known and much erteemed worker has passed away, in the person of Mr. Thomas Brain, in his eightieth year. He was connected with Islington Presbyterian Church, and was well known throughout England in connection with the Sunday-school movement. At the request of the Sunday-school Union, Dr. Thain Davidson preached a funeral sermon last Sunday evening, in his church at Colebrooke-row.

REV. W. G. LEWIS.

This well-known and greatly beloved servant of Christ has been removed by death. For many years he was pastor of Westbourne-grove Baptist Church. Recently he removed to St. Albans, where he died. Large-hearted in his sympathies, firm and unalterable in his attachment to evangelical doctrines, and faithful to his stewardship as a pastor, he leaves behind him a name which will long linger in the loving memory of his brethren and friends. His funeral at Kensal Green Cemetery last week was attended by hundreds of those who knew his worth, and lamented his decease.

MR. JOHN HOYES, EDINBURGH.

In our beautiful Dean Cemetery all that is mortal of this departed brother was laid on Tuesday, last week. Believing that he was but the trustee of the riches that God had bestowed upon him, he never ceased distributing with a princely hand and a pious heart. His sympathies embraced all Christians that were earnestly doing work for the Lord. With deep emotion I have often him say, "he felt thankful that the opportunity, and the means, and the desire were given to him, to have a share in advancing, both at home and abroad, the interests of the kingdom of his Lord and Master." He fervently prayed for union among the churches of his native land. The sons and daughters of not a few "Manses" he was the means of helping forward to fill important positions of life. In his travels in the East and in Jerusalem, his beautiful spirit and generous consideration and desire to be useful have made his name precious. To the young Jews coming to this country, to push their way up as teachers, as missionaries, or as medical students, he was ever ready to act as a father, not only with his counsel but with his substantial aid. He has left a widow, who lovingly entered into all his generous schemes of Christian benevolence. H. M. R.

◆

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

THE tour in Scotland of Mr. Radcliffe, accompanied by Messrs. Stanley Smith and C. F. Studd, has been a time of remarkable interest. It is believed that the cause of Foreign Missions has received a stimulus that will be felt throughout the churches for many days to come. In Edinburgh, on the evening of Sunday week, we learn that some 2000 students came together to hear these friends, and over 600 stayed to the after-meeting. This week they were to visit Manchester, Rochdale, Leeds, Liverpool, (this day); to-morrow they are at Eccleston Hall, S.W., Sunday next being given to Bristol. On Monday, Feb. 2, they will say farewell at Cambridge, and on Tuesday at Oxford.

The departure of the party for China has been delayed for one day, in order that they may address a mass meeting in the large Exeter Hall on Wednesday next, February 4, at 7.30 p.m. The outgoing party consists of Rev. W. W. Cassels, Messrs. Stanley Smith, C. T. Studd, D. E. Hoske, M. Beauchamp, Cecil Polhill-Turner and Arthur Polhill-Turner. All these gentlemen will address this final farewell meeting. Rev. Hugh Price Hughes has also promised to speak, and altogether the occasion will be one of unique and extraordinary interest. We hope to see the great Hall packed with an audience of young men and women.

A CONVERTED SALOON.

IN the City of Pittsburg Mr. Francis Murphy and his son Edward are making no small stir in connection with their labours on behalf of Gospel Temperance. The Pittsburg Despatch, of January 4, thus describes "a remarkable demonstration" in Braddock, one of the sections of the city, on the previous evening:—"Oskins Hall was packed with an enthusiastic audience, who listened with breathless attention to speeches by a number of pledge signers, after which Mr. T. E. Murphy delivered one of the most eloquent and impassioned addresses ever listened to in this vicinity. He seemed to be in his most happy mood, and his efforts were crowned with the utmost success. Mr. James K. Marvin, one of the prominent saloon-keepers, was among the converts, and he signed the pledge amidst the cheers and applause of the entire audience.

"After the meeting had adjourned, the audience, en masse, repaired to Mr. Marvin's place of business. After singing a Gospel song, Mr. Murphy mounted the bar and in a grand peroration dedicated the place to Gospel Temperance, and it will hereafter be kept as a temperance coffee-house. This incident has caused intense excitement, and praises of Mr. Murphy's work are upon every lip. Such success has very seldom been awarded to any Temperance advocate, and the sight of men signing the pledge of abstinence in a former drinking saloon is a novel one. The gas fixtures, liquor bottles, and also the doors have been neatly decorated with 'bows of blue,' and Temperance is now the watchword."

◆

THE EARTHQUAKES IN SPAIN.

AT Albuñuelas province of Granada the earth opened and swallowed up a church with its spire; four country houses with their inmates and all the cattle have disappeared in the crevasses. Miss B. writes from Malaga: "Ever since Christmas night, when the first shock occurred, no one here has undressed; everyone fled from their home. God has enabled me to remain on a second floor to rally others. My room has been a Bethel of prayer and praise, and his curtain around me as a royal tent. I do not know how I have stood through it all, considering my weak frame. The desolation and destruction are terrible, and people are still camping out in cold and storm. It grieves me to the heart, for I can do so little to help. I pray God to put it into Christian hearts to send me help. God was reserving all this for his greater glory, as the Spanish Protestants have behaved with faith and witnessed for Christ."

A Madrid paper says: "By the repeated blows of an unseen enemy, one of the most beautiful regions of Spain has become a desert, whole villages have been turned into heaps of ruins, hundreds of victims have been buried alive in these ghastly graves, and hundreds of families, homeless, half naked, and famishing, have been left to fly in terror from these heart-breaking scenes, or to camp out between the trembling earth and the inclement sky.

"Our unfortunate fellow-countrymen, hungry, homeless, and cold, terrified by the bitter memories of the horrors they have witnessed, and the misery they have suffered in moments of inexpressible agony, require at once, without delay, the rich man's largesse, the widow's mite, the artist's talent, the pen of the writer, the prayer of the woman, the work of the artisan, even the help of the beggar, to reconstruct their ruined dwellings, to reclothe their frozen limbs, to alleviate their horrible distress, and to bury their dead who still lie amidst the ruins of their homes."

We have already intimated that help towards the relief of these sufferers may be sent to our care.

UPTON CHAPEL, LAMBETH.—On a recent Sabbath evening the galleries were vacated to make room for strangers, and the chapel was crowded. The pastor, Rev. N. Williams, preached from Rom. v. 6, and at the close requested Christians to adjourn for prayer while inquirers remained for counsel. It was a season of great solemnity. On the following Tuesday, after a Gospel address, 600 poor were presented with a loaf and some fruit.

MR. MOODY AT WORK.

AT first, says the New York Evangelist of Jan. 15, it seems little short of presumption for Mr. Moody to hold a series of meetings in Washington so near the great event of a change of Administration. The current of thought and of conversation must be at such a time peculiarly "of the earth earthy," and certainly most preachers of experience and discretion would despair of being able to make head against the unwonted tide of curiosity, self-interest, and well-nigh universal excitement. But Mr. Moody is generally accounted wise and discreet as well as courageous. Hence he goes up to our seat of Government, at such a time as this, apparently nothing doubting. And it is a question if the battle which he proposes to set in order in the spacious Congregational Church to-morrow (Friday), and to continue for four days at the rate of three daily sessions, is so forlorn a hope as that which he waged successfully against the roystering students of the great English Universities.

He will carry with him the prestige of success even from Richmond. We hear that the series of meetings, which only closed there on Wednesday, was very fruitful. Among those who took a personal interest in their success was Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, who was present on several occasions. A little cloud of opposition at the start but contributed to their publicity, thus augmenting the eagerness of the immense crowds that frequently waited, lunch in hand, to secure sitting or even standing room. The coloured people were not overlooked, and on Sunday morning Mr. Moody preached in their great Ebenezer Baptist Church to the largest gathering of this population ever seen in Virginia.

◆

YOUNG MEN IN THE SOUTH-WEST.

THE Annual Meeting of the Fulham Young Men's Christian Association was held at St. John's Mission Hall, West Chelsea, on the 22nd inst. Rev. John Shaw presided. The Hall was well filled, and the meeting was of a most profitable character. The report for the past year showed a considerable increase in the membership, and much work done in the way of open-air services and tract distribution.

A very earnest address was given by Rev. H. W. Webb-Peploe on the danger of theatre-going. He fearlessly exposed the evils of the stage. Referring to the hankering which many professing Christians have for "pleasure," he pointed out that those who possess the Lord Jesus Christ have a joy far surpassing anything the world can give.

Rev. Alexander Campbell, of Montrose, chiefly referred to the great importance of "keeping holy the Sabbath-day." He stated that, previous to the meeting, a few friends from different places of worship around had arranged to form a Prayer Union, in order to observe a Week of Prayer in April, for the better observance of the Lord's day.

Messrs. F. A. Bevan and Donald Matheson also spoke, the former specially referring to the importance of the work of the Association. He expressed his great satisfaction at finding the work at the Fulham Branch to be of a thoroughly spiritual character. As soon as the way is opened, the Committee desire to build premises for the work, including a hall for evangelistic services. Such a hall is much needed in the district, and could scarcely be in better hands than in those of a Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association.

CROUCH-END, N.—Under the pastorate of the Rev. A. Rowland, the congregation has so increased as to render another enlargement of the Church necessary.

MR. W. FORBES conducted a six days' Gospel Temperance Mission last week at Chesham, Bucks, and upwards of one hundred new pledges were taken. On Sunday last Mr. Forbes began an eight days' Mission in the Corn Exchange, Melton Mowbray.

REV. E. P. HAMMOND IN LIVERPOOL.

"On New Year's Day, Rev. E. P. Hammond at the Y.M.C.A." "Yes, I should like to hear him." His name is familiar, as the name of a friend. As I enter the building in Mount Pleasant, the choir are singing one of the soul-stirring hymns from his Gems of Praise.

Mr. Hammond then reads and comments on 2 Samuel ix.

The divisions were: Mephibosheth resembles the sinner and his salvation :—

(1) He was an enemy to the king, not the king his enemy.
(2) Was sought in his indifference.
(3) Received in his deformity.
(4) Received for the sake of another.
(5) Received a rich inheritance.
(6) Received into daily fellowship with the king.

The inquiry meeting showed that many were solemnly impressed.

There was a meeting there again on Sunday evening at 8.15, for those who wanted to be present at their own places of worship, but also wished to hear Mr. Hammond. He had already led three meetings that day. I heard that a meeting for children, held in the afternoon at a local church, had gladdened the heart of Mr. Hammond and his helpers. But this evening meeting will not soon be forgotten by many who were present. The presence of the Lord was deeply felt. The Holy Spirit was working in the hearts of Christians and non-Christians, as the preacher portrayed the sufferings of Christ for us. As the Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. remarked, a wave of blessing passed over us, in the restoration of backsliders and conversion of sinners.

The next evening, too, showed signs of blessing, as Mr. Hammond and his fellow-workers moved about the hall at the after-meeting, weeping with those who wept, and rejoicing with those who rejoiced.

We had good reports of the children's meetings held in the afternoon of each day. On Tuesday between 60 and 70 gave in their names as being converted, many giving very good reason for the hope which was in them.

Sunday, January 11, at 8.10 p.m. finds a good number assembled, waiting for Mr. Hammond, who enters promptly, just coming from holding a service in a neighbouring church. He is weary in body, having had four services previously that day, besides having been awake at four o'clock in the morning praying for this meeting. His afternoon meeting for children had been large, 1000 being present. In speaking of these little ones, he said, "We have seen the changed lives of some prove that they really love Jesus, and have given themselves to Him. Parents testify to this." As they learn to serve the Lord in their childhood, their influence as they grow up will only be fully known in eternity. Praying children, will make praying men and women, who, as they become parents, will pray for their children and teach them to pray. I have noticed that most of those who have been converted in these services have said they have parents whose prayers are being answered in their conversion.

But to return to the evening meeting of Sunday, the 11th. Mr. Hammond asks the Christians present to uphold him in prayer. His subject is, "The punishment of the lost an expression of God's love." His arguments are most powerful and conclusive; surely everyone present must have been convinced that he was right.

The inquiry-meeting showed that many were so convinced they could not rest without Christ as their personal Saviour. It was a great joy to see one after another stand up and say they had come to Him that night. I saw one young man in trouble, but, as a worker showed him from the Word where peace and safety are found, I saw the clouds roll away and a look of gladness pass over his face. A fine-looking man, a soldier, stood up and confessed to a change of heart since he came into the hall. He was followed by a sailor confessing to a change. Then a young man on the other side of the hall, followed by the young man whom I had seen pass from death into life.

Then a young lady came forward, and told of her conversion during the previous week. Having been spoken to one night, she went home unhappy. She had been accustomed to read novels before going to bed; the night she was spoken to she took up the book as usual, but could not read it, and remarked to her sister, "I am sure the Christians are praying for me." She could find no rest but in Jesus.

I was at a children's meeting on Friday afternoon, held at the Wesleyan Chapel in Grove-street (Rev. H. W. Holland's). A large number of children were present, and listened most attentively to an address calculated to arrest their attention, interspersed freely with anecdotes, but not letting them lose sight of the great truth of Christ's atonement. It was pleasing to know that school teachers testified to a change for the better in the conduct of some children who were at the meetings.

There was an increased attendance at the Presbyterian Church in Prince's-road, on Friday night, as Mr. Hammond preached from Mark xv. 34; many persons afterwards showed conviction and also conversion.

At a children's meeting held last Sunday afternoon, I heard of pews full of children and young people weeping with a sense of sin. Several young ladies just converted then and there went to work among the weeping ones.

M. J. Winstanley.

Another correspondent writes:—"In these meetings the power of God's Spirit has been especially manifest. It has sometimes seemed as if nearly every person present, not before a Christian, had been brought under deep conviction of sin. Christians who came into the services only to look on, have become interested as they have come in contact with those burdened on account of their sins. The ministers who daily attend the services and work in the inquiry-meetings, have become greatly interested, and testify that a genuine work of God's Spirit is going on. One night we saw one of them weeping for joy over two of his children, who had just expressed their trust in Christ.

As the meetings have been held in sixteen places of worship and halls during Mr. Hammond's stay, it is impossible to estimate what the results have been; but it is evident many have been led by God's Spirit to trust in Christ. Numerous letters have been read, testifying to the work accomplished. Parents have stated that their children at home show by their conduct that a change for the better has been wrought upon them.

At the meeting in Rev. Patrick White's church on the afternoon of Sunday, January 18, many of all ages professed conversion. Mr. Hammond said it reminded him of the days in Annan, Glasgow, and Dumfries, in 1861. Whole seatsful testified that they accepted Christ. Rev. Mr. White said in the evening there had never been such a meeting in that church since he had been Pastor. Some teachers said they believed their whole classes had been led by the Spirit's power to repent and believe on the Lord Jesus. The whole of the great audience remained to the inquiry-meeting.

LEICESTER.

On Saturday evening Mr. Payson Hammond began a series of meetings in Leicester, when several hundred Christians met him in the Walker Memorial Hall. Rev. F. B. Meyer spoke of the great blessing he received when he was a boy in London, through Mr. Hammond's services at Rev. Baptist Noel's church. During the years since then, whenever he had seen Mr. Hammond's name he had read everything in connection with it, and he now rejoices greatly in having him in Leicester. He prayed that a work might be begun which should extend through the town.

Mr. Hammond told the Christians that they could not lead souls any nearer to Christ than they were themselves; he, therefore, urged all to consecrate themselves afresh to the work.

On Sabbath morning Mr. Hammond preached especially to believers at Melbourne Hall. In the afternoon the hall was crowded with about 1500 children and adults. At the close of the evangelist's address many remained, deeply concerned about their souls. At the end of each pew workers were seated to speak to all those who might desire conversation. Before the inquiry-meeting closed many professed to have received the Saviour.

In the evening the hall was packed in every part. Mr. Hammond preached a very earnest Gospel sermon. During the inquiry-meeting that followed, the choir continued to sing gently some of the sweet hymns from "Gems of Praise." We noticed that some who were weeping in the afternoon were in the evening gathered around the platform singing. Will the readers of The Christian join us in prayer for a rich blessing on these services?

W. S. H.

DR. SOMERVILLE IN THE EAST.

We have received the following interesting notes from a correspondent:—

After a very comfortable journey from the Piræus, passing many interesting historic islands, Dr. Somerville and his companions arrived in Smyrna. It has a small and artificially-protected harbour, and they were obliged to land in small boats. The boatman catches the passengers, gesticulating and screaming in a frightful way. Dr Constantine and several other ministers most kindly came to meet the party. The change in everything reminded the travellers that they were not only in another country, but on another continent. The veiled women, the camels in the streets, and everything else is Oriental. The party went into a grand mosque, a fine domed hall, rectangular, and finely decorated. The walls were gaily painted with pieces from the Koran. Some Turks sat around on the floor praying, bolt upright with their eyes shut. Outside the mosque rises a minaret, and from the balcony of this "the Muezzin" summons all faithful Moslems to prayer.

Smyrna lies partly on reclaimed land, on a plain at the head of the Gulf of Smyrna. The olive groves look beautiful with their soft dusky green, as also do the pampas grass and orange and lemon trees in the gardens. The plentifulness of oranges may be judged by the fact that they sell at five shillings the thousand.

A Special Committee had been arranging about the meetings. Dr. Somerville preached in Bournabat, about eight miles from Smyrna, on Sunday morning, January 4, there being quite a colony of English-speaking people; in the afternoon he preached in Smyrna. The following week he preached in the morning in the Dutch Church in English, and in the evening in the hall attached to the "Smyrna Rest." His addresses were translated into Greek by Dr. Constantine. The following week another missionary was to translate into Turkish.

At the time when our correspondent wrote (Jan. 8) some good fruits from the preaching had already been heard of. "Never before," he says, "have we seen so strongly the power of a Medical Mission. Dr. Scott has been here with his wife for three years, working specially among the Jews. The language of the Smyrnist Jews is so mixed with Spanish, Greek, Italian, Turkish, and Arabic that the only way to learn it is among the people. He took Dr. Somerville's party to visit a small Jewish synagogue and a school, also to some houses in the Jewish quarter, where they were most politely received. He does much for them medically and spiritually, and is evidently loved and respected. He has hope that some are converted, and that they may even come openly to confess Christ."

Dr. Somerville was to proceed from Smyrna to Constantinople; his postal address there will be British Office, Poste Restante.

SURREY CHAPEL.—At the recent annual meeting, the various reports showed the church to be in a healthy and prosperous condition.

FEMALE MISSIONARIES.—A meeting was held on Tuesday, January 6, at the residence of Miss Leycester, Wilton-crescent, to take leave of Miss Gertrude Smith, returning to Ningpo; Miss Magill, going out to Hong Kong; and Miss Turner and Miss Dalgarno, to Peelton, Kaffirland. Miss Turner and Miss Dalgarno sailed in the Roslin Castle on January 7.

Letters to the Editor.

A CORRECTION.

DEAR SIR,—Will you kindly correct an important error in your report of my address at the Centenary Hall, in the last CHRISTIAN (p. 18)? I did not say "that £140,000 was contributed annually by the City of London to Home and Foreign Missions," nor that this sum was "equal to that put into the boxes on Hospital Sunday." The first statement would probably be incorrect; the second certainly is so.

What I did say was this, that the amount contributed in "London" (not the City only) "by the Church of England" (not by all) to "Foreign Missions" (not Home) in one year, was "about £30,000," and that this sum was about equal to the Hospital contributions on one day.

The Hospital Fund, of course, is only one of hundreds of funds for home work of various kinds. Even if we doubled or trebled the amount given to Foreign Missions, in order to include Nonconformist and undenominational societies, it would still be clear that Foreign Missions get a very small relative share of the liberality of God's people. That was the point I wished to urge.—Faithfully yours,

Church Missionary Society, EUGENE STOCK.
Salisbury-square, London, E.C., Jan. 22.

HUNGRY "OVER-PRESSURE."

DEAR SIR,—Will you give me a corner for a few words upon a part of our work for which I am desirous to obtain the sympathy of the readers of THE CHRISTIAN?

We have in addition to our various Homes for Destitute Children, with which your readers are familiar, large and important free schools, where on Lord's days about 1500 little ones—the children of the poorest labouring folk—are lovingly told of the Saviour of men. On week days about 600 of these children are given an elementary education by qualified Christian teachers, who aim to make their schools at least as effective as the Board Schools are.

But the wide-spread distress among the lowest industrious classes tells sorely upon the children, and they, compelled as they are by law to spend so much time daily in school, often come in such a physical condition as makes all attempts at instruction either inoperative or real cruelty thinly disguised. Imagine one-third (out of a school of 600) to have come without breaking their fast at all, and another third of the whole number thankful because they had had one piece of bread that day! Add to this that 350, or more than one-half, expected no dinner! These were the facts revealed to careful inquiry suggested by the forlorn appearances of the children. Nevertheless, their poor clothing, though often thin and very inadequate, is nearly always neatly patched and clean, and marks of kindly care are not infrequent; but, oh! the poor, pale faces—the wan, pinched looks, and the quiet, dull eyes—what tales they tell of privations meekly borne, and of hunger that is never quite appeased! Yet the poor things love to come to school. It is at least warm there, and at home, poor mites, they are so much in the way that doubtless the weary mothers are glad to be rid of them for a while, not that there is much choice in the matter for they must come, whether hungry or not, or the dreaded visit of the School Board agent brings judicial retribution to view.

And what can they learn while half famished? What study can these enfeebled brains attempt? With such children "over-pressure" must be, not the exception but the rule, at least if by over-pressure is meant any "continued attempt to stimulate the brain and intellectual faculties beyond their capacity and power of endurance."

Whatever may be the differences of opinion as to stringency of the code, and the evils of the present system of education, as applied to ordinary well-fed and carefully-nourished children, there can, I think, be none as to their disastrous effects upon half-famished little creatures, in whom the process of "living-upon-as-little-as-possible" has been going on for a considerable time.

With these convictions, what could I do but try to feed before I taught them? So, four weeks ago, I opened a free breakfast table at the school, and as all the children and their parents are thoroughly well-known to our excellent schoolmaster and his wife, I left to them the task of selecting the most needy to be our guests.

Four hundred little children thereby had a hot, nourishing, cocoa breakfast each morning, at a cost of only about one-halfpenny each, making in all 9600 breakfasts to this date. A good nutritious dinner has also been given six times in the same period, or a total of 2,460 separate dinners at a cost of one penny each. Of the children fed, 120 would otherwise have had no dinner at all on these six occasions, and 284 would have had only a piece of dry bread!

The results every way are already most encouraging, a bit of colour and life having come back to many little faces and the work of instruction being proportionately easier. I want to continue this good work during the cold weather, but our general funds will ill bear the strain of even this slight additional expense. 17s. per. day will cover the cost of 400 breakfasts, or £5 2s. will spread our table for one week, and 34s. per day will pay for the dinners. These I would like to continue three times a week, which would cost £5 2s., so that £10 10s. would cover the total expense for both meals per week.

I will thankfully acknowledge any help for the Free Meal Fund sent to me as below.—I am, yours truly, T. J. BARNARDO.
18, Stepney-causeway, E.

CONTINENTAL AND FOREIGN NOTES.

ROUMANIA.—New laws are being made, whose aim is to oblige the Jews to quit the country en masse.

KABYLE MISSION.—Miss Tulloch, of Nairn, has left this country to join the ranks of this Mission at Tangier, Morocco.

BRAZIL.—It is reported that slavery reigns here more powerfully than ever. Acts of the greatest cruelty are exercised upon the poor negroes.

A GERMAN PROTESTANT CHURCH is about to be erected on the spot where stood the ancient hospital of the Knights of St. John, at Jerusalem. The site was given by the Sultan to the Prince Royal of Prussia in 1869.—Evangéliste.

MOLUCCA.—The Utrecht Missionary Society reports a revival in these islands. At Celebes the Mission has reaped its grandest triumphs. In Bouro, 358 natives were baptized in one day. Even those islands which have not been visited by missionaries are awakening.—Le Christianisme.

WEEK OF PRAYER IN PARIS.—The united meetings consisted of from 100 to 200 persons, and were addressed by Messrs. Theo. Monod, de Pressensé, Appia, &c. On the Saturday of the week Messrs. Morin and Mabille, who are going to Senegal as missionaries, were recommended to the prayers of the Church.

THE EMPRESS OF GERMANY has sent her yearly contribution of £5 to the "Evangelical Society." She also wrote a letter expressing her regret that through weakness of health she was unable personally to be present at their meeting, but that she has fullest sympathy with the objects of the society. —Anzeiger.

CUBA.—Religious liberty is now granted to natives and foreigners residing in Cuba. The State Religion in Roman Catholic. General Pedro Quarte having begun a Protestant Mission at Matauzas was sued at law by the Priest. The matter was referred to Madrid. The reply was that while the State Religion is Roman Catholic, every form of worship will be tolerated, and the worshippers will be protected from oppression. The door is therefore open in this island to evangelistic effort.—Wahrheitszeuge.

THE POPE.—At the Pope's Christmas reception of Cardinals his speech manifested the spirit which gave birth to the Inquisition, &c. He said: "It is a profound grief to us to see the impiety with which perfect liberty and impunity are shown here in Rome to the spread of Protestant heretical errors—Rome, the centre of the faith, and the seat of the Head of the universal and infallible Church. It grieves the heart to see heretical temples multiply under the protection of the public law; to think that there should be an open attempt in Rome to destroy the most precious Italian unity, namely, religious unity!"—Témoin de la Vérité.

CAIRO.—Miss E. J. Whately writes: "The effort I have made for establishing a European school in Cairo, after many and great difficulties is at last likely to bear fruit, though not exactly in the way at first contemplated. The Administrative Committee of the Railways at Boulac (a suburb of suburb of Cairo) had been very anxious to secure some education for the families of the railway employés, who all reside there; at their request I have transferred to them the services of the English lady I had brought over. She is now commencing a school there under favourable auspices, where many children of our countrypeople will receive training that must prove in every way a blessing. Meanwhile, a school for Levantine girls in connection with my sister's Mission schools is being established on a firmer footing, and will spread these blessings in another direction.

RUSSIA.—The Soleil, of January, reports a legal trial at the Court of Assize in Odessa. A Russian peasant, named Strigoun, one of the Stundists, is reported to have said that the Ikons, or holy images, are simply idols, and that those who pray before them are idolaters. The Judge found him guilty, and he was condemned to three years and nine months' confinement. The Stundists call themselves "Friends of God," and their heresy consists in recognising no other authority than that of Holy Scripture, and in refusing to worship images of the saints. God grant that this heresy may soon spread over the whole world.—Christianisme.

Requests for Praise and Prayer.

PRAISE.—For a great blessing on the Mission recently conducted in Wellington by Mr. Henry Thorne, which has resulted in a wonderful awakening.——That a son often prayed for has given up the use of intoxicants.

PRAYER.—For blessing on meetings now being held at Winton (Kirkby-Stephen), by Mr. Hall.——For great blessing on the special evangelistic effort to be made in connection with the Episcopal churches in the West and South of London, Feb. 8 to 16.——For a lady in deep distress of mind, owing to most harassing doubts and fears, and terribly sinful thoughts, which she longs to be released from. She is also suffering greatly from bodily ill-health. ——For blessing on a fortnight's meeting in the Gospel Hall, Boaler-street, Liverpool, commencing Feb. 1.——For much blessing on the Mission now being conducted at Portsmouth, by Mr. Henry Thorne.——Signora Rodcriguez writes us from Calle Pedro 3° Figueras, Spain: I write to entreat your prayers and those of the friends in England on behalf of my beloved husband, who is very ill with rheumatic fever, that his life, so precious to me and the Mission, may be spared.

Mission and other Appeals.

MR. J. A. STOOKE, 74, Stokes Croft, Bristol, who labours in the Gospel among children, appeals for pictures, texts, or designs of any kind that would be helpful in his addresses.

LIMERICK.—In this populous city there is no suitable hall available for holding non-sectarian Evangelistic services. Will some kind Christians give of their means to have such a building erected, large enough to hold from 500 to 1,000 persons About £2,000 is required; who will help to make up this sum? Subscriptions may be sent to W. A. BOYD, Westfield, Limerick, Ireland.

MISSION HALL, NEW CUT.—In view of the continued prevailing distress in this neighbourhood, and the large number of unemployed who are frequently appealing to us, we purpose having a series of free substantial meals provided at our Hall, and to use the occasion for short Gospel invitations by men of their own class. We earnestly appeal to our readers for help. J. ASHFORD, Hon. Sec., 45, Walcot-square, Kennington.

DOCK LABOURERS' MISSION.—Distress is very great among the unemployed labourers; hunger lately impelled three poor men to break open our Mission Hall, and take the fragments of food that remained from one of our tea gatherings, leaving all our machinery untouched. Will Christians kindly assist me in feeding the hungry? C. H. COLEMAN.
Children's Home, Boleyn-road, West Ham, E.

COW CROSS MISSION.—Our readers are aware that Mr. WILLIAM CATLIN had had the burden of arranging Services in the Sadlers Wells Theatre every Sunday through the winter. That much good has been accomplished by these meetings we have ample testimony; but while pledged to carry them on through February, there is not a penny in hand for expenses. Contributions may be sent to Mr. WILLIAM CATLIN, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, N.

SOUTHEND, Y.W.C.A.—The need of such an Association having been felt by some of the friends of young women in Southend, suitable rooms have been taken at a reasonable rent, but much is wanted to make them attractive and comfortable; therefore, the Committee of Ladies who have started the work would be very thankful for any useful presents, such as books, furniture, or money, &c. Parcels, &c. may be sent to the Rooms of the Y.W.C.A., care of Mr. BREWER, 21, Alexandra-street, Southend. Letters may be directed to the Secretary, Miss H. BAKER, Rosedale Villa, The Hamlet, Southend.

SYMPOSIUM ON MODERN SCEPTICISM.—An interesting assembly of clergy of various churches met last week at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Newman Hall, at Hampstead. In the course of the evening there was a conference on scepticism, in which there took part: Archdeacon Farrar; Drs. Stoughton, Allon, Gibson; Rev. Messrs. W. Arthur, E. White, Horton, Downes, Hughes, Hebditch, Urwick, Hastings, C. A. Fox; Mr. Samuel Morley, M.P., and others. Practical suggestions offered were as follows: The importance of exposition of Scripture as an antidote to the misconceptions and ignorance widely prevalent, especially among sceptical artisans; unhesitating declaration of positive Gospel truth as the great necessity of the human heart; separating mere human additions from the actual truth taught in the Bible—care in so doing not to minimise Christianity itself; more obvious unity between churches based on the same foundation; greater sympathy with the masses of the people; and true spiritual and godly life in Christian professors.—Nonconformist.

NOTES
ON
Bible & Prayer Union Readings.

JANUARY 29 TO FEBRUARY 4.
Matthew I. to VII.

THERE is no history or story in existence more charming than St. Matthew's memorial or memoirs of the birth, life, death, and resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ. A confluence of elements contributes to this charm. The personage pourtrayed is undoubtedly the principal source of the interest—Jesus, who was the Son of God as well as the Son of man—the ideal Son of man and Son of God. A mystery of Godliness and Godhead was about Him, and in Him. He was as St. Matthew expresses it—echoing the magnificent nomenclature of Isaiah—Immanuel, God-with-us. The there is, too, a charming peculiarity in the manner of its composition. The style is delightfully simple and unvarnished. You see through it at a glance to the object beyond. From beginning to ending of the memoirs all is transparency.—Dr. Morison.

JANUARY 29—CHAPTER I.

Verse 1.—"The book of the generation of Jesus Christ, the son of David, the son of Abraham.—These words define clearly the purpose for which the Gospel was written. The evangelist believed beyond doubt in the Messianic claims and dignity of Jesus, and wrote to assert and evidence them. As Godet says: "The author, recounting a history, purposes, while doing so, to lay the foundations of faith in the Person who is the subject of it. With this view he introduces Him as the Messiah promised to the Jews, and brings into special prominence through the whole of his narrative that harmony between the events and the prophecies by which Jesus is marked out as the Christ. He is that descendant from Abraham, 'in whom,' according to Moses, 'all the families of the earth were to be blessed.' He is that Son of David, who, according to Isaiah, was to 'establish his kingdom for ever.' He is then the expected Messiah, the King of Israel, and consequently also the Saviour of the world. The last words of the book correspond with this preamble, and exhibit this programme fulfilled in Jesus, as the result of all his conflicts and apparent defeats: 'All power is given unto Him in heaven and on earth; go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you.'"

Verses 3 to 6.—Chrysostom, in his Homilies on St. Matthew, says: "It is worth inquiry, wherefore can it be that, when tracing the genealogy through the men, he hath mentioned women also; and why, since he determined to do so, he hath yet not mentioned them all, but passing over the more eminent, such as Sarah and Rebekah, and as many as are like them, has brought forward them that are famed for some bad thing, as, for instance, a harlot, an adulteress, a mother by incest, and a stranger." Among other reasons may be cited the purpose of God to magnify the riches of his grace, which welcomes the vilest to salvation through his Son. Our blessed Lord was not dependent for greatness upon the character of his ancestry; unlike earthly kings and nobles who boast of honourable lineage, He, in his humanity, was essentially great: "higher than the kings of the earth," "fairer than the sons of men," and "chiefest among ten thousand." Men think much of being descended from great or good men and women; but when the Son of God condescended to our estate, and was made in the likeness of sinful flesh, the stoop was so great that it mattered not whether his actual ancestors were famous or infamous; the real humiliation was in the fact of being born into a fallen and sinful race.

Verses 7, 8.—Lord, I find the genealogy of my Saviour strangely chequered with four remarkable changes in four immediate generations.

(1) Roboam begat Abia; that is, a bad father begat a bad son.

(2) Abia begat Asa; that is, a bad father a good son.

(3) Asa begat Josaphat; that is, a good father a good son.

(4) Josaphat begat Joram; that is, a good father a bad son.

I see, Lord, from hence, that my father's piety cannot be entailed; that is bad news for me. But I see also that actual impiety is not always hereditary; that is good news for my son.

Thos. Fuller.

Verse 21.—"Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for He shall save his people from their sins." The word Jesus is equivalent to the Hebrew Jehoshua = Jehovah is our Salvation. The late lamented and scholarly Henry Craik, Bristol, says: "The precious name of Jesus is derived from a root-term that in its primary meaning denotes 'amplitude,' 'spaciousness.' It thence was employed in the sense of 'setting at large,' 'delivering from distress,' 'saving from every kind of evil.' We have in this name not only the work of Christ, but also the essential glory of his person. No stronger testimony to his proper Deity as well as humanity can be adduced than for the covenant name of God, given in its full revelation of its purpose and signification at the time of Israel's redemption from Egypt, to be thus ascribed to Him, demonstrating Him as the Son of God sent from heaven to bless men in turning them away from their iniquities."

Salvation is often understood to mean little more than deliverance from penalty, but it is far more than that; it is redemption from sin, and so conformity to the will of God. A man is saved only so far as he and sin have parted company. To have simply taken off punishment and not prepared for glory would, as Charnock puts it, "have been only a moiety of redemption, and not honourable for so great a Saviour."

JANUARY 30 CHAPTER II.

Verse 15.—"That it might be fulfilled . . ."—Professor Godet says, "This formula is like a refrain repeated in every page of the book. In the two first chapters we find five detached incidents of the childhood of Jesus, connected with five prophetic sayings. At the opening of the ministry in chap. iv. is a prophecy of Isaiah, which forms as it were its general text or motto, and announces that Galilee is to be the theatre of the Messianic work. In chapter viii., as the central point of a collection of miraculous incidents, we have a saying of the same prophet, revealing the moral significance of all these wonders: 'Himself took our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses.' The series of teachings given in chapter xii. is also connected with a prophetic saying: 'Behold my servant whom I have chosen . . . . he shall not strive nor cry. . . . a bruised reed shall he not break.' And so on, up to the account of the Passion, of which every feature is in some way designated as the fulfilment of a prophecy."

Verses 9, 10.—"Lo the star which they saw in the east. . ."—The star led the Magi to Christ, and was valued and rejoiced in on that account. Ministers and soul-winners are compared to stars (Dan. xii. 3; Rev. i. 16—20). Such may learn that their great work is to direct souls to Christ, and only as they do so will their labours result in joy and blessing to men. The star derived its brightness, and so its power to guide the Magi, from the sun; even so if we would lead souls to the Saviour we must be illumined by Him, who is the brightness of the Father's glory, and reflect his image in the world.

JANUARY 31—CHAPTER III.

Verses 8, 9.—"Bring forth therefore fruits meet for repentance . . . ."—Persons may make a profession, and yet have remaining about them much of the old leaven. Let me hence learn to put no confidence in any outward privileges or attainments. Let me learn not to think highly of myself, because of the opinion of others.

Verse 11.—"He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost. . . ."—The baptism with the Holy Ghost and with fire is not necessarily promised in these words to the very individuals so addressed. Although miraculous gifts did in the first ages accompany the baptism of the Holy Ghost, the essence of that baptism did, I think, consist in the graces and spiritual power communicated to the first believers. Let me labour after this baptism. To be overwhelmed, plunged, immersed into the fire of the Holy Spirit.

Verse 12.—Floor, his professed Church; wheat, his true followers; chaff, false professors; fan, a winnowing shovel, his Word; garner, heaven; unquenchable fire, hell.

Verse 13.—Why was Jesus baptised? That He might submit to every Divine appointment. That He might prefigure his bloody sufferings, death, burial, resurrection. That He might set an example to all his followers.—H. Craik.

FEBRUARY 1—CHAPTER IV.

Verses 1-11.—Who can be discouraged with the scantiness of friends or bodily provision when he sees his Saviour so long destitute of all earthly comforts, both of society and sustenance?

Why did Satan carry up Christ so high, but on purpose that his fall might be the more deadly? So deals he with us; he exalts us that we may be dangerously abased. He puffs men up with swelling thoughts of their own worthiness, that they may be vile in the eyes of God, and fall into condemnation. It is the manner of God to cast down that He may raise, to abase that he may exalt. Contrarily, Satan raises up that he may throw down, and intends nothing but our dejection in our advancement.

Temptations on the right hand are most dangerous. How many that have been hardened with fear have melted with honour. There is no doubt of that soul that will not bite at the golden hook. —Bishop Hall.

Verses 18, 19.—He called the fishermen from their fishing. There was nothing novel in the calling of men from a lowly condition to the performance of a high and holy task. No one was more highly esteemed than Moses, but he was sent from the minding of the sheep of Jethro in a far-off desert to stand before Pharaoh. And David had been taken from the hills of Bethlehem to the throne of Israel. Each one of these heroes made his election sure, and had to justify the ways of God to man by his ability and fidelity in life's service. . . . . The heavenly call comes to us all, both in our busier and quieter hours, and consoles or saddens us according as we obey or disobey.—J. Ogmore Davies.

FEBRUARY 2—CHAPTER V.

Verse 2.—"He opened his mouth and taught them."

Many points in the Sermon on the Mount are characteristic of this Gospel: the tone of authority throughout; the repeated, "I say unto you," where the letter of Moses is set aside to make way for a higher spirit; the special teaching, too, as to the connection of the law of Moses with the New Law, how the latter was not to destroy the law and the prophets, but to fulfil them; the doxology in the Lord's Prayer, with an allusion to "the kingdom," given here, but omitted in St. Luke. The repeated reference to a "kingdom," the character of which is remarkably implied in its distinctive title; in other Gospels "the Kingdom of God," here only the "kingdom of heaven," a peculiar expression, which occurs nearly thirty times in this Gospel; so too the marks of his subjects, among which "righteousness" is specially named. All this, not to speak of other points, is peculiar to St. Matthew, and is all characteristic.—Jukes.

FEBRUARY 3—CHAPTER VI.

Verse 2.—The boxes for charitable contributions in the Temple were trumpet-shaped, so we can understand the figurative allusion of Christ to demonstrative piety.

In the Court of the Women there were thirteen trumpet-shaped chests for pecuniary contributions, called "trumpets."

Verse 28.—The imagery of the Sermon on the Mount indicates that winter's rains and storms were just past. Under that sky Nature seems to meet the coming of Spring by arraying herself in a garb more glorious than Solomon's royal pomp. Almost suddenly the blood-red anemones, the grey tulips, the spotless narcissus, and the golden ranunculus, deck with wondrous richness the grass of the fields—alas! so soon to wither—while all trees push forth their fragrant promise of fruit. It adds interest to these Solomon-like lilies that the Mishnah designates one class of them, growing in fields and vineyards, by the name "royal lily." At the same time, the terms used by our Lord need not be confined to "lilies" in the strictest sense. It may represent the whole wild flora of spring, chiefly the anemones.

Verse 33.—An analysis of 119 passages in the New Testament, where the expression "kingdom" occurs, shows that it means the rule of God; which was manifested in and through Christ; is apparent in the Church; gradually develops amidst hindrances; is triumphant at the second coming of Christ; and, finally, perfected in the world to come —Edersheim.

FEBRUARY 4—CHAPTER VII.

In these two builders we have the Doer and the Dreamer in religion. The one rears an unsubstantial pageant, the other an imperishable deed.

I have met in the course of my travels with three distinct dreamers.

There is the Rationalistic dreamer. To him religion is a system of ideas, and no idea represents reality.

There is the Sentimental dreamer. He will talk to you for hours of the presence of God in nature. I do not laugh at that, but religion is not that, it is more than that.

There is the Pietistic dreamer. There is a form of church-going piety, which does not influence daily conduct—people whose religion is an impersonated sigh.

There is no salvation for the dreamer.

Rouse your imagination. Heaven is peopled by doers. In that country the Lord of the kingdom hails his new citizens with the cry, Well done! Well done!

How much thou hast to do! Begin a life of faith prayer, self-conquest! Let the inner work begin! Then begin the outer work!—schools, tracts, visitation. Work! Press on!—Paxton Hood.

Notices.

COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED WITH THANKS.—W.G. R.H. G.F.P G.C. C.S.B. B.H. H.P. A.D. A.G. H.G.W. H.C.F. E.A.P. E.B. T.H.O. D.B. G.V.G. M.B.G. T.F. J.M.M. G.H. H.M.R. H.E.B. L.C. J.E.M. H.B.H. G.K. J.S. E.S. D.S. W.B. A.M. T.B. J.G. S.A.G. S.E.S. C.I. E.W. F.S.H. C.H. M.H.S. T.D. Worker. J.H. A.L.S. B.B. W.E.G. W.F. L.A.B. T.J.A. W.S.H. F.C.W. C.W. J.L. J.W.S. S.S. S.N. M.G. P.W. E.P.H. A.J.B. J.B. J.E.C.

APPLICANTS FOR TRACTS.—G. Davey, 3, Black-hill-cottages, Lindfield, Sussex; W. McGowan, Scripture-reader, 40, Feversham-street, Middlesborough; A. McIntosh, 14, Sherdley-street, Liverpool; C. H. Connor, 126, Earl's-court-road, S.W.; F. Mustow, 9, Queen's-road, Bayswater; S. Sylvester, 45, Needham-road, Liverpool; W. Temple, 21, Maud-road, Plaistow, E.

[As it is found that infidels and others send tracts to the persons whose names are inserted here, it is most important that all books and papers received should be carefully read before being given away.]

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

FRAMLINGHAM.—Evangelistic services have been held during the present month, conducted by Rev. G. Hollier, of Rendham, Rev. W. Ockleford, of Saxmundham, and Rev. F. Bracey, of Wickham.

BOLTON.—United evangelistic services were held last week at the Temperance Hall in this town. By way of preparation a communion service was held in Wesley Chapel, at which about 800 communicants were present.

REV. THOMAS HARRISON, the boy-preacher of America, has been holding special services in Elm-street Methodist Church, Toronto, through which, it is said, more than a thousand souls have been hopefully converted.

KIRKBY STEPHEN.—A series of very good Gospel meetings have been held in the Wesleyan Chapel here by Mr. Gawthrop. A number have professed conversion, and Christians have sought greater holiness of life. B.

ANDOVER.—A week of special services has been held at the chapel conducted by Rev. J. B. Tinling, of Eastbourne. Bible readings and prayer meetings were also held each day at noon, from which much good has resulted.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY WIGGAN have been holding evangelistic services in Lincolnshire during the present month. At Coningsby the chapel was crowded, the members greatly revived, and between twenty and thirty persons professed conversion.

GRANTHAM.—A fortnight's Mission has just been concluded at Commercial-road Wesleyan Chapel. Gospel and Temperance meetings were held every evening, and some afternoon services for women only. As the result ninety-five pledges have been taken, and a number have professed to be saved.

MR. CHARLES INGLIS has been holding special services during the past three weeks in Norwich and Portsmouth. The afternoon Bible lectures have not only been largely attended, but have proved seasons of great refreshing to God's children, while the meetings held nightly for the unsaved have been blessed to numbers of precious souls.

LIMEHOUSE.—Mr. C. King (better known as Fred. Wilson, assisted by his wife) has been conducting Gospel services in Coverdale Congregational Church every evening for three weeks, with most blessed results. On Tuesday, Jan. 13, a free tea was given by Mr. Fells, to about 250 dock labourers. A public meeting followed, presided over by Mr. R. Paton. Addresses were given by Messrs. King, Fells, Stephens, and Heath. Many of these rough men signed the pledge, and some we trust gave their hearts to God.

ATHERSTONE, WARWICKSHIRE.—Mr. Thomas Eyres, of the Children's Evangelistic Mission, London, has concluded a successful week's Mission to children and young people in the Albert Hall in this town. Hundreds of children flocked to the services night after night, and seemed much interested. Many inquirers waited to be spoken with after each meeting, and it is believed that not a few are now trusting Jesus. Arrangements have been made to follow up the Mission, by holding a weekly special service for children.

TOTTENHAM.—A number of Christians formed themselves into an auxiliary of the Open Air Mission and have sought by means of open air preaching to reach the many working men in this neighbourhood who would not otherwise hear the Gospel. God has owned the testimony given; crowds of men have listened with profound attention, even in wet and cold weather. Several have professed Christ as their Saviour. On the 13th inst. a free tea was given to the unemployed in Brook-street Chapel, when more than 200 men sat down to tea, many being turned away. After tea a Gospel service was held. Short addresses by working men, interspersed with sacred solos, were listened to with rapt attention, many staying for the after-meeting.

BLACKHILL, CO. DURHAM.—An error in your last issued in the notice of the Mission here materially alters the sense. The semicolon which is after the word ages should have followed the word seventy. It ought to have read, "all ages from ten to seventy; infidels brought their books to be burned." I may add that, though in one or two instances, when there were many anxious inquirers, the meetings were not closed till midnight, I am informed that they mostly concluded long before that unseemly hour. In other respects I can corroborate the truth of the paragraph, having seen and conversed with many of the converts. The work has certainly been of a very remarkable character. The same good work is now going on in the neighbouring village of Shotley Bridge. C. W.

Forthcoming Meetings.

EVANGELISTIC.

THE EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send Evangelists to any part of England, Scotland, and Wales on due notice. Apply Hon. Sec., 21, Surrey-street, Strand, W.C.

THE IRISH EVANGELISATION SOCIETY will send Evangelists to any part of Ireland on due notice. Apply to Mr. J. Barton, Hon. Sec., Dundalk, Ireland.

THE METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE EVANGELISTS' ASSOCIATION will send lay preachers and Evangelists to any chapel or hall of any Evangelical denomination in London. Apply Hon. Sec., 30, Surrey-square, S.E.

THE CHILDREN'S EVANGELISTIC MISSION will send Evangelists to any part of Great Britain to conduct Missions for children and young people. No charge. Apply T. Eyres, Hon. Sec., 253, Southampton-street, Camberwell, S.E.

REV. W. H. AITKEN.—February 8 to 20, St. Stephen's, Hampstead; 22 to March 9, Parish Church, Marylebone; 15 to 30, St. Paul's, Burslem; April 12 to 27, Eaton Chapel, S.W.

MESSRS. FULLERTON AND SMITH.—February 1 to 15, Exeter; 22 to March 5, St. Helen's, Lancashire; 8 to 26, Folkestone; 29 to April 19, Southampton; May 3 to 24, Huddersfield; August to December, London.

MESSRS. EDWARD HURDITCH AND F. C. SPURR.—To February 6, Bishop's Teignton; 8 to 22, Gunnislake, Cornwall; 24 to March 8, St. Ives; 10 to 23, St. Agnes; 24 to April 5, Wadebridge, Cornwall; 12 to 26, Falmouth.

MR. J. M. SCROGGIE.—February, Greenock; March, Dunfermline; April, Blackheath.

MR. W. SPENCER WALTON.—January 29, Town Hall, Beckenham; 31, Prince's Hall, Piccadilly; February 14 to March 3, Countess of Huntingdon's Church (Rev. J. B. Figgis), Brighton; 4 to 10, Connaught Institute, Brighton; 15, Mildmay Conference Hall.

MR. F. E. MARSH.—February 1 to 22, Withorn, N.B.; March 22 to April 12, Kilbarchan, N.B.

MR. JAS. J. SCROGGIE.—To February 1, Bethnal Green; 3 to 6, Potter's Bar; 8 to 15, Home of Industry, Spitalfields; 22 to March 1, Offord, Huntingdon.

MR. HENRY THORNE.—To February 9, Portsmouth; 13, Derby; 16 to 23, Sheffield; 28 to March 1, Walsall; 2 to 4, Wolverhampton; 7 to 16, Sunderland; 21 to 30, Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

MESSRS. MATEER AND PARKER.—February 1 to 15, Luton; 16 to 18, Brockhurst; 19 to 25, Gosport; 26 to March 8, Ashford, Kent; 9 to 18, Godalming; 23, and onwards, Newport (Mon.)

MR. and MRS. C. KING.—February 1 to 14, People's Hall, Bow-common; 15 to 23, Bethel, Gorleston, Great Yarmouth; March 1 to 8, Wood-green.

MR. WM. NOBLE.—Reading and district, February 3, 4, 5, and 6; Birchwood, Dedham, Essex, 12; Barnstaple, 16, 17, 18, and 19; Watlington, Oxfordshire, 26.

MR. EYRES.—January 26 to February 6, Leyton Hall, Leyton; 7 to 21, Frodsham, Cheshire.

EVANGELISTIC MISSION (under the direction of Mr. C. Russell Hurditch):—Bignold Hall, Bignold-road, Station-road, Forest Gate, Mr. John Topping, Sunday, 7 p.m.; Wednesday, 8 p.m. Dalston, Bible Depot, 103A, Dalston-lane (temporarily), Mr. W. Harper, Sunday, 7 p.m.; Tuesday and Thursday, 8 p.m. Hammersmith, Upper Mission Room, 130, King-street, Major F. L. Michael (late 11th Hussars), Sunday, 7 p.m.; Tuesday and Thursday, 8 p.m. Kilburn Hall, Kilburn-gate (not Town Hall), Mr. W. R. Lane, Sunday, 7 p.m.; Wednesday, 7.30 p.m. Malden Hall, Kentish Town, Mr. E. Glenny, Sunday, at 7 p.m.; Thursday, 8 p.m. Oxford Music Hall, 6, Oxford-street, W., Mr. Russell Hurditch, Sunday, 7 p.m. Messrs. Edward Hurditch and F. C. Spurr, January 28 to February 6, Bishop's Teignton; 8 to 22, Gunnislake, Cornwall; 24 to March 8, St. Ives; 10 to 23, St. Agnes; 24 to April 5, Wadebridge, Cornwall; 12 to 26, Falmouth.

BIBLE READING, Thursday, February 5, 3 p.m., at 102, Regent's park-road. Address by Mr. Denham Smith on "The Second Coming of our Lord." All are welcome.

STEPNEY MEETING HOUSE.—Mrs. G. S. Reaney gives an address every Sunday at 3 p.m.

AGRICULTURAL HALL, Islington, N.—Sunday, February 1, Rev. G. D. Wyatt, 3.30 p.m.; Mr. G. E. Elvin, 7 p.m.

CHRIST CHURCH, Endell-street, St. Giles'.—February 8 to 18, Mission preacher, Rev. J. T. Butlin, of Birmingham; Sundays, 11 and 7; week days, at 8. The Christian Life, every day at 3. The Gospel Male Choir from Exeter Hall week evenings, at 7.40.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SERVICE MISSION.—Mr. J. Spiers and Mrs. Westall, Pembroke: Mr. G. Banaster, Ipswich, January 24 to February 3; at Redlands, Bristol, February 12 to 19; Mr. H. Hankinson, Heston, February 11, 12, and 13; Messrs. E. T. M. Dennes and J. L. Field, St. James', Bermondsey, February 9 to 13; Mr. E. Arrowsmith, St. George's, Croydon, February 8.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MR. DENHAM SMITH, St. George's Hall, during February; Sundays, at 11 and 7. Wednesday evenings, 8 p.m., at Burlington Hall, Savile-row.

UPPER NORWOOD, Stafford House, Tudor-road.—Drawing-room meeting, at 3 p.m., every Thursday. A young women's meeting on the same day at 8 p.m.

OPEN AIR MISSION.—Pastor Frank H. White will lecture on "Sermons in Trees," with dissolving views, at Talbot Tabernacle, Talbot-road, Westbourne-park, at the quarterly meeting on Monday, February 2, at 7.15 p.m.

HOUSE OF REST, 8, Cambridge-gardens, Kilburn-park, N.W.—Friday, January 30, at 7 p.m., subject, "What is meant by 'The Kingdom of Heaven?'" tea at 6. The Tuesday morning Bible readings will be resumed February 3, at 11.30 a.m.

MEETINGS FOR THE DEEPENING OF SPIRITUAL LIFE, Stafford Rooms, Titchborne-street, Edgware-road.—January 30, "Grace for Grace" (John i. 16), Rev. C. A. Fox; February 6, "Rest: its Conditions" (Matt. xi. 28—30), Rev. W. Haslam.

STRANGERS' REST, 163, St. George-street, Ratcliff-highway, E.—Monthly workers' meeting, Friday, February 6, tea at 6; meeting at 6.45. Mr. Denham Smith will give an address, subject, "Probable Speedy Coming of Christ."

BRIXTON AND CLAPHAM CHRISTIAN UNION.—Meeting, on Tuesday, February 3, at Miss Snowdon's, 4, The Lawn, Brixton-rise, 7.30 p.m.; address by Rev. Canon Hussey. Tickets from W. H. Thompson, Hon. Sec., 16, Kirkstall-road, Streatham-hill, S.W.

Y.M.C. ASSOCIATIONS.

61, GRACECHURCH-STREET, E.C.—Daily prayer meeting, 1.15 to 2 p.m. (Sat. excepted). Bible study in Isaiah each Tuesday, at 6.15 p.m. Youths, alternate Wednesdays, 6.30 p.m. Soldiers, each Friday, 7 p.m. Tea and Gospel addresses to a hundred poor men, by members, at George-yard, Whitechapel, Friday, 30th inst., 8 p.m.

THE PRIORY, 198, Upper-street, Islington, N.—Thursday, January 29, at 8.30 p.m., devotional meeting; Saturday, 31, at 8 p.m., Bible study; Sunday, February 1, at 9.30 a.m., fellowship meeting; 3.15 p.m., special address, Rev. J. W. Drury, M.A.; 8.15 p.m., evangelistic meeting; Wednesday, 6 to 10 p.m., anxious inquirers and strangers.

EXETER HALL.—Daily Prayer Meeting (Saturday excepted), 1 to 2 p.m. Strangers' meeting, Monday, 8 p.m. Evangelistic meeting, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, 8 p.m. Bible reading by Colonel Puget Saturday, 8 p.m. Special Bible addresses, by Rev. Chas. A. Fox, Thursdays, January 29, February 5 and 12, 8 p.m.

HAMPSTEAD BRANCH, 31, High-street, Hampstead, N.W.—Thursday, February 5, social meeting, 7.30 p.m.; address by Mr. Russell Hurditch, 8.15 p.m., young men in the N.W. district heartily welcomed.

Subscriptions received by Messrs. Morgan & Scott to Saturday Morning, January 24, 1885.

 Donations should be sent by Cheque or P.O. Orders, not by stamps. Cheques to be drawn in favour of Morgan and Scott, and crossed City Bank; P.O.O.'s payable to Morgan and Scott, at G.P.O.

 Will donors oblige us by giving explicitly and fully the titles of the Missions to which they wish their donations to be applied? Mistakes which sometimes arise will thus be obviated. Will they also bear in mind that our Donation List is made up for the Printer on Saturday morning? Any amounts received afterwards will be acknowledged in the subsequent week's number.

	£	s	d.
Dock Labourers' Mission—T. R. £2; R. £5; (Free Lodgings) Miss R. 10s.; J. W. M. 5s.; Two Young Ladies, 2s. 6d.; (Free Meals) T. R. £1	8	17	6
Sufferers from the Earthquake in Spain—Mr. and Mrs. E. R. £2; A. M. £5; M. W. 10s.; W. P. 5s.; Richmond, 10s.; L. E. B. 2s. 6d.; Miss B. £10; T. A. H. £1; G. N. 2s. 6d.; F. M. W. £2; M. A. R. 5s.	21	15	0
Dr. Barnardo's Homes—S. H. P. 5s.; E. and A. K. C. 9s. 6d.; J. H. W. 3s. 6d.; R. A. £1; E. H. 5s.; E. S. £1 1s.	3	4	0
Mr. Fegan's Boys' Home—J. H. W. 5s.; R. A. £1 3s. 3d.; A. R. £5; H. B., jun. £2 10s.; E. S. £1 1s.	9	19	3
Syrian Orphanage in Bethlehem—E. H.	3	0	0
St. Giles' Christian Mission—M. B. G. £3 19s. 5d.; F. M. W. £2; E. H. 5s.	6	4	5
Thames Church Mission—M. B. G. £3 19s. 5d.; R. £10 ..	13	19	5
Bridge of Hope, Ratcliff—M. B. G. £3 19s. 5d.; In Memoriam, R. W. S. £2; E. S. 16s.	6	15	5
Home for Deserted Mothers, 35, Great Coram-street—M. B. G.	3	19	5
Cow-cross Mission—E. H. £2; Believer, 2s. 6d.; (Children's Dinners) S. D. £1; M. J. 1s.; J. H. S. 10s.	3	13	6
Mr. Geo. Smith, of Coalville—Mrs. G. £5; E. S. £1 1s. ..	6	1	0
Mrs. Hilton's Creche and Orphan Home—M.	0	10	0
Friendless and Fallen—Gloucester	1	0	0
Luther Memorial Home—A. T.	1	1	0
British Society for the Propagation of the Gospel among the Jews—(Bibles, &c., Russia) H. R. £5; F. M. W. £2	7	0	0
Free Distribution of the Scriptures—H. R.	5	0	0
Miss De Broen's Work, Paris—R.	10	0	0
Rev. McAll's Work, Paris—R.	10	0	0
Rescue Society—R.	10	0	0
Tower Hamlets Mission—R. £5; (New Hall) X. L. £25 ..	30	0	0
North-east London Gospel Mission (Mr. Chorley)—R. ..	5	0	0
London Samaritan Society and Homerton Mission—R. ..	5	0	0
Golden-lane Mission—R.	5	0	0
Working Lads' Institute, Whitechapel (Mr. Hill)—R. ..	10	0	0
Seaman's Christian Friend Society—R.	10	0	0
Rev. Archibald G. Brown's Mission Work—R.	5	0	0
Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland—R. £5; A. R. £1	6	0	0
Latymer-road Mission—R. £5; A. R. £5	10	0	0
Relief of Poor (Rev. J. F. Kitto)—R.	3	0	0
Christian Community (Mr. Atkinson)—R.	5	0	0
Home of Industry—E. S. £1 1s.; (Widows) R. £5; F. L. E. 5s.	6	6	0
Aldershot Mission Hall—R.	10	0	0
Turkish Mission Aid Society—R.	10	0	0
George-yard Ragged Schools—E. F. 5s.; Believer, 1s. ..	0	6	0
Irish Church Missions—A. R.	1	0	0
Hospital for Women, Soho-square—S. A. W.	1	0	0
Mr. Payson Hammond's Mission in Liverpool—M. E. ..	5	0	0
China Inland Mission—G. J. £40; F. M. W. £5	45	0	0
Mildmay Mission to the Jews—Orphan's mite	0	2	6
Hospital for Paralysed and Epileptic—L. L. H.	0	5	0
London City Mission—L. L. H	0	5	0
British Home for Incurables—L. L. H.	0	5	0
Bristol Orphan Houses—L. L. H. 8s. 6d.; F. M. W. £2; (Missions) F. M. W. £3	5	8	6
Robins' Dinners—F. L. E.	0	5	10
Sermon-lane Mission—G. N.	0	1	0
Spitalfields Gospel Mission—G. N.	0	1	0
Watercress and Flower Girls' Mission—G. N. 1s. 6d.; E. H. 5s.; Mema, 10s.	0	16	6
Sailors' Rest, St. Helena (Mr. St. Quintin)—G. N.	0	1	6
Moravian Missions (London Association)—F. M. W. ..	2	0	0
East London Training Institute (Rev. H. G. Guinness)—F. M. W.	2	0	0
Gratuitous Circulation of THE CHRISTIAN—Y.W.C.A., Douglas, 2s. 6d.; A. E. H. 3s. 6d.	0	6	0
Free Meals for Poor (Miss R. Child)—F. P.	2	0	0
Gray's-yard Ragged Church and Mission—E. H.	0	5	0
Mildmay Conference Hall—H. B., jun.	3	0	0
Bitter Cry of Outcast London—Believer	0	[illegible]	6
	£321	17	[illegible]

[ADVERTISEMENTS.]

Bethnal Green Free Library, E.—Mrs. M. £1 1s.; C. F. 5s.

Dr. Barnardo's Homes—E. D., Askridge, Bedale, 10s.; M. S. 5s.

G. D. Shipley's Poor Stewards' Fund—E. C. D. 10s; C. F. 5s.; Two Friends at Ilford, 7s. 6d.

Thames Church Mission—One comforter, one pair of cuffs, and contribution of 10s. from Weston S. M.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for the ensuing week:—Feb. 1, Matt. vi. 19—34; Feb. 2, vii. 1—14; Feb. 3, vii. 15—29; Feb. 4, viii. 1—17; Feb. 5, viii. 18—34; Feb. 6, ix. 1—13; Feb. 7, ix. 14—16.

SCRIPTURE READERS' SOCIETY FOR IRELAND.

President, The Rt. Hon. the Earl of SHAFTESBURY, K.G.
ESTABLISHED 1822.

For the purpose of employing humble Christian men well versed in the Scriptures to visit and read the Bible from house to house throughout the country. The Scripture Readers are invariably placed under carefully selected Christian Superintendents, and are also employed by the Society in the large towns and cities, such as Dublin, Belfast, Waterford, &c., as City Missionaries, and visit all classes and denominations, where permitted so to do. Irish-speaking Readers are sent to Irish-speaking districts when required, but are now seldom or ever asked for. The work is carried on in a spirit of love, and not of controversy.

The Scripture Readers also visit amongst the Sailors in seaports and hold Bethel Meetings on board Ships, at hours not to interfere with the usual Public Services. The Society is supported by voluntary contributions.

OFFICES:

27, LOWER PEMBROKE STREET, DUBLIN;
AND 9, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

Full particulars, reports, &c., can be obtained post free on application to the Secretary, Capt. JAMES KEARNEY WHITE, or by the Proprietors of this paper.

NOTE.—Subscriptions or Donations may be sent to the above addresses, or will be received by the Proprietors of "THE CHRISTIAN."

Friends will please notice the exact title "Scripture Readers' Society for Ireland," and not "Irish Scripture Readers' Society."

REDUCED GENTLEWOMEN.

IN aid of the funds of the proposed LUTHER MEMORIAL HOME received One Hundred and Fifty-nine Shillings from "Appeal," per CHRISTIAN. Many thanks. Several friends have requested to have Shilling Collecting Cards forwarded. Will kindly readers extend this easy method of helping the quiet poor? Included in the above 159s. is One Pound each, from Mrs. B., Mrs. G., and D. H.

Hon. Sec., JULIA CORKE.
1:0, Ledbury road, Bayswater, W.

The Anchorage.

HEBREWS vi. 19.

To shelter respectable Young Women in Trouble.

FOR rules of admission to the Anchorage House, and full particulars of the work of the Anchorage Mission, and for trained servants, apply (by letter only) to Mrs. H. STUART-WORTLEY, Rosslyn House, Grove End-road, N.W., London.

Many of the young women admitted being mothers or about to become so, the extra care they require, and (when friendless) the help that the Mission must give towards paying for their infants at nurse during the first few months of the mother's return to service or other occupation, causes the work to be unusually costly, and subscriptions are much required, sent either to Mrs. H. Stuart-Wortley (President of the Ladies' Committee) at her private address as above, or to Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

GIFFORD HALL MISSION,

GIFFORD-STREET, CALEDONIAN-ROAD,

Is urgently in need of funds to continue, and develop, its numerous agencies.

Amongst those in active operation are the Sunday-school, the largest in the North of London, over 800 scholars. Separate services for Children. Young Men's Christian Union. Young Women's Christian Union. Senior and Junior Bands of Hope. Infant's Play Room.

Children's Fresh-air Mission, for sending convalescent or delicate little ones to the country.

Mission Church, 150 members, Week evening Services and Prayer Meeting; Men and Women's Week evening Bible Classes. Cottage Prayer Meetings. Gospel Temperance Society, with Refreshment Hall and Goose Club.

Mothers' Meetings, with Clothing, Boot, and Coal Clubs, 150 members. Penny Bank, over 1,000 depositors.

Loan Blanket Society, Soup Kitchen, Sick Club.

At the Mission, PENNY DINNERS on self-supporting basis were first distributed. Over 1,000 dinners per week have been lately provided, but it has been necessary to give away a large number of tickets to Board School Children who their teachers know to be half starved. Contributions are earnestly needed, and will be gratefully acknowledged by either of the undersigned.

Superintendents: Mr. BENJAMIN CLARKE, Hampden House, Crouch End; Mr. B. HITJER, Tenby Cottage, Archway-road, N.
Secretary: Mr. H. FORBES CLARKE, Camden House, Hungerford road, N.

MY REDEEMER.

NEW ILLUMINATED WALL TEXTS.

14 by 10½ inches. Twelve in Packet. 2s. post free.

⁂ This is the cheapest and most effective set of Illuminated Texts ever issued.

List of Texts on application.

London: J. EN G. WHEELER, 88, Mildmay-park, N.

BY THE REV. JAMES STALKER, M.A.

Just published, in Crown 8vo., price 3s. 6d., a New Edition, in Larger Type, and Handsomely Bound.

THE LIFE OF JESUS CHRIST.

"As a succinct, suggestive, beautifully-written exhibition of the Life of our Lord—so far as we know it and can form a conception of it—we are acquainted with nothing that can compare with it. . . . With an exquisite felicity of style and a concentration of thought which is very rare, Mr. Stalker has produced a really remarkable little volume. We commend it not only to ministers and teachers who have the charge of Bible-classes, but to all Christian people. It is in its way a gem; and none who read it thoughtfully can fail to appreciate its worth."
Christian World.

Uniform with the above, New Edition, price 3s. 6d.

THE LIFE OF ST. PAUL.

"Mr. Stalker has the gift of vivid writing; he sketches and colours with words; he does more, he vivifies persons and scenes by his inspiring sentences. Those who wish to pursue the subjects of study suggested by the noble career of Paul will here find ample guidance for their more thorough research. We have not often seen a handbook more completely to our mind."—Sword and Trowel.

Edinburgh: T. & T. CLARK; London: HAMILTON, ADAMS & Co.

JUST READY.

THE REAPER AND THE HARVEST:

Scenes and Incidents in connection with the Work of the Holy Spirit in the Life and Labours of

REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND, M.A.

Edited by Rev. P. C. HEADLEY, Author of "Evangelists in the Church," &c. With an Introduction by Rev. A. H. BURLINGHAM, D.D., District Secretary American Baptist Missionary Union.

Cloth Boards, 550 Pages; with Engraved Portrait of Mr. Hammond (a striking likeness), 4s. 6d.

Extract from Introduction.

"This book, so well prepared by the distinguished Author, and so well put forth by the well-known publishers, as a record of some of the wonderful labours and successes of this honoured servant of the Lord, I most heartily commend to all lovers of Christ with the prayer and in the hope that it will prove helpful to thousands of reapers in the harvest-field."—A. H. BURLINGHAM.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE CONVERSION OF CHILDREN.

Being Narratives of Children's Conversions; and Records of Spiritual Work amongst the Little Ones.

By Rev. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

Tinted Covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Limp, 2s.; Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 2s. 6d.

"Many remarkable facts are here given, which deserve the attention of those especially who are incredulous as to the early age at which children may begin to live consciously a Christian life."
Evangelical Christendom.

"We commend the book very heartily to the prayerful attention of all parents and teachers.—The Freeman.

"We are quite sure that this book is well calculated to encourage effort and stimulate the Church to diligence in this direction."—The Methodist.

"We devoutly wish that by some means or other a copy could be placed in the hands of every Sunday school superintendent and every pastor of a church."
Penuel.

"A careful perusal of the testimony here given must convince every unprejudiced mind that in our days, as in the days of old, God perfects praise out of the mouths of babes and sucklings."
Woman's Work.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

NEW EDITION, 474 PAGES.

THE TABERNACLE, THE PRIESTHOOD, AND THE OFFERINGS.

WITH THE SPIRITUAL LESSONS DERIVED FROM THE RITUAL AND CEREMONIES OF THE OLD DISPENSATION.

BY HENRY W. SOLTAU,

Author of "The Holy Vessels of the Tabernacle," "The Soul and its Difficulties," &c.

With FOUR BEAUTIFUL COLOURED ILLUSTRATIONS and numerous smaller Engravings.

The Morning Lessons selected by the Sunday School Union for the first six months of the present year are founded upon the Exodus: Israel's Journeying through the Wilderness—The Tabernacle and the Offerings—The Scape-Goat—The Cities of Refuge—The High Priest, &c., &c. From Mr. Soltau's valuable book great help can be obtained by the Teacher in his or her preparation for this course of Lessons.

Handsomely Bound in Cloth Boards, 5s.; Cloth Boards, Gilt Edges, 6s.; CHEAP EDITION, without the Coloured Plates, 3s.

"The book is full of teaching, spiritual and far-reaching; and we have much enjoyed reading it. The work is a good five shillings' worth."—Rev. C. H. SPURGEON, in The Sword and the Trowel.

"It is an elaborate work, conveying a great deal of information concerning the Mosaic dispensation, and indicating very deep and reverent Bible study. It is full of Christian teaching of a suggestive character."—Sunday School Chronicle.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, PATERNOSTER-BUILDINGS, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

(Continued from page 3.)

SEASIDE RETREAT, for the reception of a limited number of Gentlemen under the HABITUAL DRUNKARDS' ACT, or privately, where Christian influence, home comforts, and experienced treatment, combined with the advantages of the Act, can be relied upon.—Q. N., Chas. Tayler's Advertisement Offices, 164, Fleet-street, London.

A CONGREGATIONAL MINISTER can highly recommend Lodgings for two young men in a Christian home. Within two miles of the City. No children.—Apply by letter to Rev. W. EVANS, 164, Richmond-road, Dalston.

DIPSOMANIA. — A successfully established private Home at the seaside for six, suffering from excess of morphia, chloral, absinthe, stimulants, or Nervous Debility. Christian care and influence. Judicious supervision and home comforts.
MEDICUS, 9, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

A NONCONFORMIST Minister and his Wife offer a comfortable home to a Christian Lady or Gentleman.—Mrs. CHEYSE, Post-office, High-road, Lower Clapton, E.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS are again earnestly invited to write to EVANGELIST,
Rom. v. 8; 2 Cor. v. 20. Clapham, S.W.

TO LADIES AND GIRLS.—Any desiring Spiritual Help are invited to write to HELPER, Grosvenor House, 139, Greenwich-road, S.E. Communications made will be received in confidence. Any wishing for personal conversation must write for appointment to the same.

A MEDICAL MAN, residing in Surrey, within 45 minutes of London, has a vacancy for a gentleman patient. An imbecile child would not be objected to. Good references given and required.—M. B., care of Newton, Bateman, Esq., 62, Pall Mall, S.W.

TO THE MEMBERS of Bible and Prayer Union (Rev. T. Richardson's).—St. Matt. i. commences on Jan. 29. Monthly "Subjects for thought" in connection with the chapters, according to the above Plan, are prepared by Rev. Canon Trotter, M.A., vicar of Alnwick, who will supply copies at ½d. each, or 6d. per dozen, prepaid. Postage is charged in addition, unless three or more copies can be sent under one cover, when they are sent post free. A specimen copy can be had post free on receipt of 1d. stamp.

SET OF HIGHLY superior Dissolving View Slides on 'Pilgrim's Progress' wanted.
A. S., 21, Marne-street, Queen's-park, S.W.

LATE ABODE OF FAITH.—Mrs. DALBY receives troublesome Young Ladies of neglected education, and little children to train for the Master.
BETHEL, 21, Norfolk-road, St. John's-wood.

AMERICAN ORGAN. — Magnificent, genuine 35-guinea Instrument, 12 stops, sub-bass, octave coupler, full organ and grand organ knee swells. Warranted as new. £17 17s. Approval.
A., 96, Wynford-road, Islington, London.

OLD PERIODICALS, &c.—A Christian tradesman, who strongly objects to circulating bad literature in any form, would be glad to hear of some source from whence he could obtain waste paper at a moderate price for business purposes.
E. I., 27, West Ham-lane, Stratford, Essex.

DISSOLVING VIEWS, LANTERNS, &c. — Buy of the maker, WILLIAM CATLIN, original slide producer, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London. Monthly catalogue gratis. Exhibitions (Gospel) town or country. Slides on hire, 1½d. each.

IRON CHURCHES, &c., erected at lowest possible cost, by A. CHOPPING, Derby-road, West Croydon, Surrey. Illustrated designs and estimates free.

ASTHMA. — Persons suffering from Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, &c., are invited to try (free of charge) a remedy for affording immediate relief.
C., Mr. G. A. Keyworth, Hastings.

FURNISH ON NORMAN & STACEY'S Hire-Purchase System. Deposit not necessary. True economy on sound commercial principles. Strictly private. 1, 2, or 3 years. 60 wholesale firms to select goods from.—Offices, 79, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., and 121, Pall Mall, S.W.

VIOLIN FOR SALE; rare, antique-looking drawing-room instrument, labelled inside, Stradiuarius faciebat Cremona, 1721. Suit Lady or Professor. Price only 30s., with good bow and case. Sent on approval, willingly.—CLARA, 37A, Theobalds-road, London, W.C.

WASHING WANTED, by an experienced laundress with every convenience. Terms moderate. Highest references. Good drying grounds.—Mrs. HUNT, 2, Vine-cottages, Lower St. James-road, Notting-hill, W.

BOOT REPAIRING required.—Repairing done to any amount for Homes, Schools, Charities, &c., at very low prices. Good leather and workmanship.—Send for full particulars to BENJAMIN ILLING, 282, Lower-road, Deptford, S.E.

A LADY WANTS to purchase Left-off Garments for a Charity. Please answer. Particulars and references from W. W. W., Chronicle Office, Bath.

LIMITED PARTNERSHIP.—£100 wanted by a Christian man, who is connected with a safe and profitable business, dealing with a speciality. Would constitute a good business investment. Fullest scrutiny invited.—A. O. D., care of Housekeeper, 13, Rose-street, Newgate-street, E.C.

CHEAP PRINTING. — Send full particulars and stamped addressed envelope, and estimate will be returned. 5,000 2 pp. tracts, 17s. 6d.; 5,000 4 pp., 30s.; 5,000 8 pp. (folded and stitched), 75s.; 10,000, £7.
W. R. KING, Crown Printing Works, Luton.

VISITING CARDS. — 50 ladies' best for 1s. 6d., 100 for 2s. 3d.; 50 gents' best 1s. 3d., 100 2s. Post free. 250 tea tickets, 2s. 6d.
W. R. KING, Crown Printing Works, Luton.

THE "MOUNTAINS OF BREAD" Series of little Books and Leaflets, by the late Georgiana Thompson, are copyright. Profits for poor aged, suffering Christians. Are still supplied by addressing, Miss A. THOMPSON, care of Dr. Cranage, Old Hall, Wellington, Salop.

Just Published.

"THE FOUR WARNINGS." By R. H. M. JACKMAN. London: S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co., 9, Paternoster-row. Price One Penny.

ABOUT JESUS. 100 Poems, Large Type. By WM. LUFF. Cr. 8vo. limp, 1s. ex. cloth, gilt edges, 1s. 6d.

The Way Home Series. Six 16-page little books with pink covers. By Lady HOPE. Packet of 12 assorted, 6d.

Gospel Leaves. Thirty-two 2-page Tracts. Illustrated. By CHEYNE BRADY. Packets 1 and 2 (each 100 assorted of 16 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

Words of Life. Sixteen 4-page Tracts, Illustrated. Packet of 75 assorted, 6d.

Acorn Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By Rev. A. A. RAMSEY. Packets 1 and 2 (each 50 copies assorted of 12 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

Salem Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By H. K. WOOD ("A Glasgow Merchant.") Packets 1 and 2 (each 50 assorted of 8 Numbers). 6d. per packet.

St. Mark's Series. 8 pp. Illustrated Booklets, tinted paper. By Rev. G. EVERARD, M.A. Packet of 50 copies assorted of 12 Numbers, 6d.

With Our Cards. Seasonable Poems for enclosure with New Year Cards. By WM. LUFF. Extra satin paper. 6d. per packet.

Books with Chromo Covers, suitable for enclosure in letters.

The Master's Knock. By Rev. GEORGE EVERARD, M.A.

Consecrated Influence. By Rev. A. R. M. FINLAYSON.

Be Wise. (For the Young.) By J. F. MONCRIEFF.

Can you say "My"? By Rev. GEORGE EVERARD, M.A.

No Refuge but Jesus. By the Same.

"Bruised for our Iniquities." By Rev. H. BONAR, D.D.

Saving Faith. By Rev. A. R. M. FINLAYSON.

Inconsistency. By Rev. E. HERBER EVANS.

The above 8 Books, 32 pp., 1d. each, or 1s. per dozen.

DRUMMOND'S TRACTS DEPOT, Stirling, N.B.
London: S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co.

"FEUILLES EVANGELIQUES."—Sixteen French Tracts, illustrated. By CHEYNE BRADY. Sixpence per 100.—DRUMMOND'S Tract Depot, Stirling; S. W. PARTRIDGE & Co., London.

Terms for Advertisements.

(PREPAID.)

Miscellaneous Advertisements in small type are charged at the following rates:—

Not exceeding 30 Words	....	3	0
" 39 "	....	3	9
" 48 "	....	4	6

And 9d. for every additional line of nine words or under, the address being in all cases charged for.

Scale for larger Advertisements sent on application.

Advertisements sent by Post must be accompanied by Post-office Order, not by Stamps, as the risk in transit is very considerable.

Now Ready.
THE ANNUAL VOLUME OF
"The Christian" for 1884.
Handsomely Bound in Cloth, price 7s. 6d.

Also the February Part of THE CHRISTIAN, containing the whole of the January Numbers, in neat wrapper, price 10d. Post free, 1s.

This part contains the Title and Index for last Year's Volume.

London:
MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

BAGSTER'S BIBLES.

Extra flexible, silk sewed, in best Bagster morocco, kid-lined, elastic band. With full helps. Prices from 20s.

In French morocco, projecting edges, elastic band. From 4s.

SAMUEL BAGSTER & SONS, LIMITED, 15, Paternoster-row London.

SCRIPTURE TEXTS.

Published by MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be had of any Bookseller.

From the late AGNES ELIZABETH JONES, Lady Superintendent of Nurses at the Liverpool Workhouse.

"The Lady Superintendent of Nurses begs to acknowledge the receipt of the parcels of Texts as ordered. She more and more feels their value. The patients lying in their beds can read the words—the print is so distinct.

"As she is going to undertake the charge of several hundred more patients, she wishes to give other Wards the advantage of these Texts on the wall."

In very large type, printed in blue ink, size 31 in. by 20 in., 70 different Texts, 3d. each.

Mounted on canvas, varnished, and with eyelet holes, 9d. each.
Mounted on rollers and varnished, 1s. 6d. each.

LIST OF THE TEXTS

1. "Choose you this day whom ye will serve."
2. "The wages of sin is death."
2.* "The gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord."
3. "Repent ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out."
4. "Repent and turn to God, and do works meet for repentance."
5. "The soul that sinneth, it shall die."
6. "In whom we have redemption through His blood, the forgiveness of sins."
7. "All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God."
8. "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."
"The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon Him; to all that call upon Him in truth."
10. "Behold the Lamb of God, who taketh away the sin of the world."
11. "The Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."
12. "The Lord is good to all; and His tender mercies are over all His works."
13. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge; but fools despise wisdom and instruction."
14. "Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered."
15. "When we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly."
16. "Ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus."
17. "Whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."
18. "Now in Christ Jesus ye, who sometime were far off, are made nigh by the blood of Christ."
19. "Seek ye the Lord while He may be found; call ye upon Him while He is near."
20. "Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the Just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God."
21. "Herein is love: not that we loved God, but that He loved us, and sent His Son to be the propitiation for our sins."
22. "God commendeth His love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."
23. "As by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so, by the obedience of One, shall many be made righteous."
24. "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain, to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing."
26. "The just shall live by faith."
31. "As many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God."
32. "The blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin."
33. "Through this Man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins."
34. "Thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by Thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation."
35. "God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through Him might be saved."
36. "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life."
37. "He that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him."
38. "Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."
39. "God so loved the world, that He gave His only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."
40. "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by Me."
42. "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus."
43. "This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."
44. "Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."
45. "Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not."
46. "He shall gather the lambs with His arm, and carry them in His bosom."
47. "Children, obey your parents in all things: for this is well-pleasing unto the Lord."
48. "I love them that love Me; and those that seek Me early shall find Me."
51. "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth."
52. "Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for Him."
53. "Casting all your care upon Him; for He careth for you."
54. "The Eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms."
55. "He hath said, I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."
56. "I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content."
57. "As thy days so shall thy strength be."
58. "In all their afflictions He was afflicted."
59. "Whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth."
60. "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved."
61. "Whosoever shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God."
62. "He is despised and rejected of men; a Man of Sorrows and acquainted with grief."
63. "He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities."
64. "The chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed."
65. "All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way."
66. "The Lord hath laid on Him the iniquities of us all."
67. "Look unto Me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth."
68. "Ho every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters."
69. "If any man thirst, let him come unto Me, and drink."
70. "If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."
71. "It is the blood that maketh atonement for the soul."

The eight following are in Extra Large Type.

25. "Jesus only."
27. "Now."
28. "God is love."
29. "Behold, He cometh."
30. "Have faith in God."
41. "Prepare to meet thy God."
49. "Thou God seest me."
50. "Be ye kind one to another."

Nos. 45 to 51 inclusive are specially suited for Children.
Two Specimen Texts sent free for Six Stamps.

Gift Books Published by Morgan & Scott.

FORTY-FIFTH THOUSAND.

DUNCAN MATHESON. THE SCOTTISH EVANGELIST. By Rev. J. Macpherson. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We are right glad to see so worthy a memorial of so worthy a man."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, in The Sword and Trowel.

SECOND EDITION.

HENRY MOORHOUSE. THE ENGLISH EVANGELIST. By Rev. J. Macpherson. With lithographic portrait. Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"A well-written account of a fruitful life, which we commend to the earnest study of all."—Footsteps of Truth.

BIBLE READINGS. By Henry Moorhouse. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

"Every page is full of thought, expressed in words that tell of the Author's earnest and devout spirit."—Lay Preacher.

NOTES FOR BIBLE READINGS. A collection of over Six Hundred Subjects, carefully compiled and arranged. By S. R. Briggs and John H. Elliott. Suitable for Bible Readings, Sabbath School Lessons, &c. Tinted covers, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.

"This is a book which every Bible student should possess."—Christian Progress.

P. P. BLISS: His Life and Work. Edited by Major Whittle and Rev. W. Guest. Cloth extra, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"A most interesting and invaluable book, both for the young and the aged."
Midland Gazette.

CHRIST LIFTED UP. Meditations on the Death, Resurrection, and Ascension of our Lord Jesus Christ. By Rev. Robert Gilchrist. Cloth, bevelled boards, 2s. 6d.

"It is quite refreshing to turn to Mr. Gilchrist's profitable meditations on the crucifixion."—The Record.

CHRIST AND THE SCRIPTURES. The Living Word and the Written Word. By Rev. Adolph Saphir, D.D., B.A. Twenty-eighth Thousand. Cloth extra, 3s.; with gilt edges, 3s. 6d. Cheap edition, tinted covers, 1s.; cloth neat, 1s. 6d.

"It is the old truths to which we listen; but the old truths clothed in a living language, set in new lights, and drawn out in fresh applications."—Weekly Review.

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES. In order to Abiding Communion with God. Also Suggestions for Bible Readings and Study. By Dr. J. Anderson, Graduate of King's College, Aberdeen, and M.R.C.S. London. Second Edition. Cloth, bevelled boards, 3s. 6d.

"A very valuable work, in which attention is drawn to the necessity for quiet, thoughtful Bible reading, as a means of promoting abiding communion with God."
The Rock.

◆

BY D. L. MOODY.

GRACE, PRAYER, AND WORK. A Volume suitable for Presentation or for the Library, containing

SOVEREIGN GRACE,
PREVAILING PRAYER, AND
"TO THE WORK! TO THE WORK!"

Specially printed and bound together in one volume, Roxburgh binding, 5s.

CONVERSION, SERVICE, AND GLORY. By D. L. Moody. A Volume suitable for Presentation or for the Library, containing

THE WAY TO GOD,
POWER FROM ON HIGH, AND HEAVEN.

Specially printed and bound together in one volume, Roxburgh binding, 5s.

◆

PUNROOTY; or, The Gospel winning its way among the Women of India. By Clara M. S. Lowe. Cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"A deeply interesting account of Mission work among the women of India."
Fountain.

BOGATZKY'S GOLDEN TREASURY OF TEXTS FOR THE CHILDREN OF GOD. A Series of Scripture Texts and Meditations for every Day in the Year. Cheap Edition. Cloth back, 2s.; Toned Paper, Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d. Presentation Editions.—Leather Back, Leatherette Sides, Gilt Edges, 3s. 6d. Whole bound in Leather, Gilt Edges, 5s.

"Bogatzky's Golden Treasury" has been translated into nearly all European languages, and has obtained an enormous circulation in Germany and Great Britain. In this country very few books except the 'Pilgrim's Progress' have been so largely circulated or so widely read."

THE BRISTOL ORPHAN HOUSES. The Rise and Progress of the Orphan Homes, Ashley Down, Bristol, under the direction of Mr. George Müller. With Five Illustrations of the Homes. By W. Elfe Tayler. Paper covers, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"A most full and complete narrative is given of the great work, which has been in itself and in its results the reward of Mr. Müller's faith, and the answer to his prayers."—The Record.

Just Published. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.

BIRDS OF THE BIBLE. Chats with the Children about Bible Birds. By James Bowker, F.R.G.S.I. With very attractive Coloured Frontispiece, and Twenty-nine other Illustrations. Beautifully printed on toned paper, with carmine Borders. An elegant Gift Book.

◆

BY REV. DR. PENTECOST.

"OUT OF EGYPT." A Series of Addresses and Bible Readings on the Exodus of Israel, and its Spiritual Lessons. Tinted covers, 2s.; Cloth limp, 2s. 6d.; Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

Parchment binding (suitable for Presents), 5s.

"Dr. Pentecost's power as a teacher and expositor of the Word is anow displayed in these Addresses."—Word and Work.

EIGHTH EDITION.

"IN THE VOLUME OF THE BOOK;" or, The Profit and Pleasure of Bible Study. By Rev. Dr. Pentecost. With Introductions by Revs. Joseph Cook and J. H. Vincent, D.D. Tinted covers, 1s. 6d.; cloth limp, 2s.; cloth boards, 2s. 6d.

"We have read this work with unusual pleasure. It is full of healthy thinking."
Baptist Magazine.

◆

CHOICE SAYINGS. Being Notes of Exposition of the Scriptures. By Robert C. Chapman. Cloth limp, 1s.; cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s.; morocco, gilt edges, 3s.

"We expect to gather many discourses while studying this little book. A dew from heaven rests upon Mr. Chapman's expositions."
Rev. C. H. Spurgeon in The Sword and Trowel.

◆

BY REV. J. CULROSS, D.D., M.A.

"BEHOLD, I STAND AT THE DOOR AND KNOCK." Christ's Message to the Church at Laodicea. With Chromo-Lithographic Frontispiece. Cloth Boards, 2s. 6d. Cheap Edition. Tinted Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.

"All who admire Dr Culross' insight, his delicacy of perception, his curious felicity of language, his broad and tender sympathies, his grasp of great truths, will welcome this volume, and hope for like expositions of the preceding six Epistles."
The Freeman.

"THY FIRST LOVE." Christ's Message to the Church at Ephesus. With Chromo-Lithographic Frontispiece. Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 2s. 6d.

"This work is instructive, suggestive, full of spiritual force, and at the same time strong and manly."—Sunday School Chronicle.

JOHN, WHOM JESUS LOVED. A Sketch of the Character, Writings, Theology, and Influence, of the Beloved Disciple. Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 3s. 6d.

"It is altogether without reserve that we commend the work before us. It is not a bottle of milk for babes, but a portion of meat for men. A half-dozen readings will only make it more interesting to those who meditate upon what they read."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, in The Sword and Trowel.

◆

THE HERALD OF MERCY. Volume for 1884. Attractively bound. Price 1s. Contains telling articles, stirring narratives, choice extracts, poetry, children's pages, &c. With Eighty-nine Illustrations.

"We have been both surprised and delighted with the wealth of its attractive pages."—Irish Congregational Magazine.

THE LARGE TYPE QUARTO EDITION OF

SACRED SONGS AND SOLOS. Containing 441 Pieces. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 16s. 6d. In Morocco, gilt edges, 30s.

"Would form a nice present for a musical friend. Every organist should have it."—Christian Progress.

◆

BY ANNA SHIPTON.

THE BROOK IN THE WAY. Hymns and Poems illustrative of the Christian Life. Elegantly bound in cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"A string of pearls such as a true Christian only could give us."
Evangelical Christendom.

WHISPERS IN THE PALMS. A Volume of Hymns and Poetic Meditations. By Anna Shipton. Elegantly bound in cloth boards, gilt edges, 3s. 6d.

"The pieces are more than a hundred in number; and many of them are very touching and beautiful."—Christian World.

WAYMARKS OF MY PILGRIMAGE. A Volume of 79 Original Poems. By Anna Shipton. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 2s. 6d.

"Those who prize Anna Shipton's writings will be glad to obtain his volume. A trustful, loving spirit breathes through the verses."—The Friend.

THE SURE MERCIES OF DAVID; or, God's Dealings in the Sanctuary. By Anna Shipton. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt edges, 4s. 6d.

"The 'Sure Mercies of David' is a very valuable book. It sets forth most beautifully the rich blessings which are treasured up in Christ for the believer."
Christian Era.

Cheap Edition, cloth, 2s. 6d.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

ON

CONSUMPTION,

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS,

AND ALL OTHER

CHEST DISEASES.

READ

MR. CONGREVE'S NEW WORK,

SIXPENCE, POST FREE,

Or LARGE EDITION (cloth), for 1s. 3d.

TWELFTH SERIES

OF WEEKLY CASES.

NOTICE TO THE READERS OF "The Christian," WHO MAY BE personally or relatively INTERESTED IN THIS MATTER.

Mr. Congreve will give ONE RECENT CASE, NOT PUBLISHED BEFORE, in this Journal EVERY WEEK.

CASE FOR THIS WEEK.

HŒMOPTYSIS—YOUNG MAN at BATH.

Mrs. S. Skinner, of Wattle-cottage, Charlcombe, Bath (who has herself found great benefit from my medicine), wrote me, September 11, relative to a young man suffering from severe spitting of blood, with all the appearances of decided Consumption. He had then had two supplies of medicine, at reduced price, to meet his circumstances, the result of which she tells me:—"It did him great good. He is all right now. It was Mrs. Winslow,* of Beaufort West, who so much wished him to try it."

* This lady, a very old friend to my treatment, having proved it in her own family, has recommended many to me.

CONSUMPTION—LETTER from Mr. C. RUDD, Jun., of 8, Alcombe-terrace, NORTHAMPTON.

Writing me for some of my books, Mr. Rudd says:—"I was very pleased to see my brother's name and case in print, and can testify that his was a perfect cure. Several others at Carlton and Harrold, Beds. whom I know, were also restored, of whom the medical men attending them gave no hopes of recovery. You have treated this dreadful complaint with such extraordinary success, I always recommend anyone suffering to apply to you."

NOTE.—Days of Consultation.—TUESDAY, THURSDAY, and SATURDAY MORNINGS ONLY, at Coombe Lodge, Peckham. Patients from any long distance should choose either of the two former days.

Ready, Four Pages 4to. Price 2s. per 100; 18s. 6d. per 100.

A NEW YEAR'S GIFT FOR 1885.

CONTAINING

- "Tit for Tat." An excellent Story by Rev. C. J. WHITMORE. With full-page Illustration.
- POEM: "Begin with the New Year."
- "Honour thy Father and thy Mother." By D. L. MOODY.
- "Don't Swear." An Incident from the life of Howard the Philanthropist.
- "Cut off by the Tide." A New Year's Warning.
- "Remember the Sabbath Day; or, Does Sunday Labour Pay?

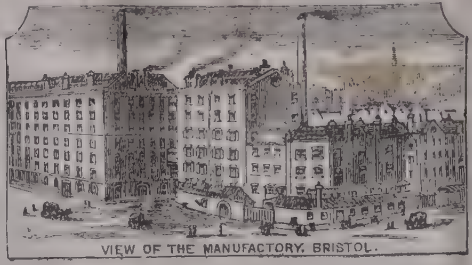
With several Engravings, and an appropriate selection of Scripture Texts.

Christians will find the NEW YEAR'S GIFT an excellent medium for sending to unconverted friends a few seasonable words of Gospel truth and exhortation; and very attractive for gratuitous distribution.

LONDON: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

Gold Medal, Calcutta Exhibition, 1884.



VIEW OF THE MANUFACTORY, BRISTOL.

Fry's Cocoa

ASK FOR

FRY'S COCOA EXTRACT

absolutely Pure Cocoa only.

NINETEEN PRIZE MEDALS awarded to J. S. FRY & SONS.

ANNUAL SALE OF OVER HALF A MILLION.

McCALL'S

PAYSANDU OX TONGUES.

A DELICACY FOR BREAKFAST, LUNCHEON, OR SUPPER.

TO BE HAD AT ALL GROCERS.

WRIGHT & BUTLER'S LIMITED.

PATENT

OIL HEATING STOVES

13 YEARS CONTINUOUS AND INCREASING SALE

ABSOLUTELY WITHOUT SMOKE OR SMELL. THEY ARE FREE FROM DIRT AND ARE MANAGED WITH THE LEAST POSSIBLE TROUBLE. THEY ARE PERFECTLY PORTABLE. CAN BE MOVED FROM ONE ROOM TO ANOTHER THEY GIVE OFF NO VAPOUR INJURIOUS TO EITHER VEGETABLE OR ANIMAL LIFE. THEY ARE THE BEST DESIGNED, MOST SUBSTANTIAL AND THOROUGHLY EFFICIENT AND ECONOMICAL OIL STOVES MADE

CAN BE HAD AT PRICES RANGING FROM 3/9 TO 7 POUNDS

INVALUABLE FOR HEATING GREENHOUSES BEDROOMS ETC

PARTICULARS AND PRICE LISTS FROM ANY IRONMONGER OR LAMP DEALER

In Neat Packet, Price Sixpence Post Free.

SMALL BOOKS

BY

DR. G. F. PENTECOST.

Suitable for Enclosing in Letters and for General Distribution.

CONTENTS.

The Japanese Student.	"I Dreads de Process."
"Peace for the Likes of Me."	"Let me see that."
"I Want to be Gooder."	"Sons of God."

Any one of the six above mentioned can be obtained, price 6d. per dozen, or 3s. 6d. per 100.

The Witness of the Spirit.
The Two Sisters.
The Precious Blood of Christ.

The above-mentioned books may also be had separately, price 1s. per dozen, or 7s. per 100.

The following Small Books are also ready.

"I am Trying to Believe!" 6d. per dozen; 3s. 6d. per 100.
Consecration; or, Practical Holiness. 6d. per dozen; 3s. 6d. per 100.
The Christian and the Modern Dance. Price 2d.; 2s. per dozen.
"I gets Sulky when I'm Spoke to." Price 1d.; 1s per dozen.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

New and Enlarged Edition. Post Free, 2s 6d.

ON PARALYSIS, LOSS OF POWER in the Muscles or Joints, Locomotor Ataxy, Epilepsy, Neuralgia. Sciatica, Neurasthenia, and obscure affections of the Brain and Spinal Cord. A Practical Treatise explaining the Causes, Treatment, and Cure of these Diseases; with Directions for Diet. By S. BERRY NIBLETT, Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians. Published by Mr. Williams, 10, Oxford-terrace, Hyde-park, London.

Ask for

Allen & Hanburys'

TRADE MARK.

A.D. 1715.

"Tasteless"

Castor Oil.

The Safest and Best Aperient.

Sold everywhere at 6d., 1/., 1/9 & 3/-

It is guaranteed to be pure Castor Oil, of full medicinal activity, and is absolutely free from odour and unpleasant taste.

"It possesses all the advantages claimed for it."—Lancet.

"The Christian" will be sent by the Publishers post-free to any address in the United Kingdom, for 12 months, for 6s. 10d., including Double Numbers.
"The Christian" (weekly) and the HERALD OF MERCY (monthly) will be sent to the United States or Canada, for 12 months, for $2, which may be remitted by a Two-Dollar Bill.

The Christian:

A WEEKLY RECORD OF CHRISTIAN LIFE, CHRISTIAN TESTIMONY, AND CHRISTIAN WORK.

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED "THE REVIVAL."

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster Buildings, E.C.] [Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

No. 784.] THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1885. [ONE PENNY. POST FREE, 1½d.

CONTENTS.

Cruel Cheapness 5
"Scientific Theology." 6
Messrs. Mateer and Parker 7
Job.—2 8
Englishwomen in Spain 8
Poetry—Communion 8
Young Women in Chelsea 8
For the Young 9
Progress in Colar 10
A Story of Bible Distribution 10
The Destitution in East London 10
Rev. E. Payson Hammond 11
East London Sewing-class Fund .. 11
Notes and Comments 12
Naples after the Cholera 14
Messrs. Fullerton and Smith 14
A London Night School 15
Poetry—The Morning Star 15
Mr. Moody in Virginia 15
Deep-Sea Fishermen 16
Young Women in the West-End 16
Temperance Notes 16
Evangelical Education in Italy 17
The Cry of the Poor 17
Evangelistic Notes 17
Notes on Daily Readings 19
Messrs. Hurditch and Spurr 19
Mr. Thorne in Wellington 20

JUST PUBLISHED.

Music and Words—Paper Covers, 1s.; Cloth Limp, 1s. 6d.
Words only—Paper Covers, 1d.; Cloth Limp. 2d.

Gems of Praise.

A Choice Selection of Hymns and Tunes (228 Pieces) suitable for Gospel Services, Prayer Meetings, Sabbath Schools, Christian Associations, and Family Worship.

EDITED AND COMPILED BY

REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

A Large Number of both Hymns and Tunes are Original.

NOW READY.

In Tinted Covers, 6d.; Limp Cloth, 1s.; Cloth Boards, 1s. 6d.
With Numerous Illustrations.

Gathered Lambs.

Showing how Jesus, the Good Shepherd, laid down His life for us; and how Little Children have been gathered into the Fold.

BY

REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

I. Jesus, the Good Shepherd.
II. Trust in Jesus.
III. Christ's Love towards Children.
IV. "Do you Love Him?"
V. A Story for Little Christians.
&c., &c.

JUST READY.

Cloth Boards, 550 Pages; with Engraved Portrait of Mr. Hammond (a striking likeness), 4s. 6d.

The Reaper and The Harvest.

Scenes and Incidents, in connection with the Work of the Holy Spirit, in the Life and Labours of Rev. E. Payson Hammond, M.A.

EDITED BY

REV. P. C. HEADLEY,

Author of "Evangelists in the Church," &c.

With an Introduction by Rev. A. H. BURLINGHAM, D.D., District Secretary American Baptist Missionary Union.

Extract from Introduction.

"This book, so well prepared by the distinguished Author, and so well put forth by the well-known publishers, as a record of some of the wonderful labours and successes of this honoured servant of the Lord, I most heartily commend to all lovers of Christ, with the prayer and in the hope that it will prove helpful to thousands of reapers in the harvest-field."—A. H. BURLINGHAM.

NEW EDITION, JUST READY.

Tinted Covers, 1s. 6d.; Cloth Limp, 2s.;
Cloth, Bevelled Boards, 2s. 6d.

The Conversion of Children.

Being Narratives of Children's Conversions; and Records of Spiritual Work amongst the Little Ones.

BY

REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

A Few Notices of the Press.

"We devoutly wish that by some means or other a copy could be placed in the hands of every Sunday school superintendent and every pastor of a church." Penuel.

"Many remarkable facts are here given, which deserve the attention of those especially who are incredulous as to the early age at which children may begin to live consciously a Christian life."—Evangelical Christendom.

"We commend the book very heartily to the prayerful attention of all parents and teachers."—The Freeman.

"We are quite sure that this book is well calculated to encourage effort and stimulate the Church to diligence in this direction."—The Methodist.

London: MORGAN & SCOTT, 12, Paternoster-buildings, E.C.; and may be ordered of any Bookseller.

GEORGE YARD RAGGED SCHOOLS, &c., Whitechapel, E.

George Holland thankfully acknowledges receiving from C. A. M. £5, for Clothing; From Scotland, Clothing,

Poor Women's Sewing Class, Wednesday Afternoon at 3. The Day Nursery opens at 7.30 a.m. Free Ragged Day Schools, morning at 9 a.m., afternoon at 2 p.m. Sewing Classes for Rough Boys on Tuesdays at 6 p.m. Classes and Meetings for Elder Girls and Young Women, Sundays 3 p.m., Mondays, 8 p.m., Wednesdays, 8 p.m., Thursdays, 8 p.m., Saturdays, 4 p.m. Temperance Meeting, Monday at 8.15 p.m. Men's Bible Class, Friday at 8 p.m. Mission to Inebriate Women, Thursdays at 3. Evangelistic Services, Sundays at 7 p.m.

Friends are invited to visit the Institution any day but Saturday.

Post-office Orders should be made payable at 68, High-street, Whitechapel, E. Letters and Parcels should be addressed to George Holland, The Ragged Schools, George-yard, High-street, Whitechapel, London, E.

THE BENEVOLENT OR STRANGERS' FRIEND SOCIETY.

Treasurer, Alderman R. N. Fowler, M.P. (Ex-Lord Mayor); J. H. Anderson, Esq., Chairman; Mr. Ex-Sheriff Clarence Smith, Hon. Secretary.

For ninety-nine years this Institution has visited and relieved the destitute sick, by an entirely unpaid agency, consisting of over 280 Christian men and women. Many sad cases have constantly to be passed over from want of funds.

The Committee will be thankful for the Society being remembered in the testamentary arrangements of the benevolent.—Office of the Society, 52, Finsbury-pavement, E.C.

B. H. Gerrans, Secretary.

THE COMMITTEE of the Ladies' Samaritan Society of the National Hospital for the Paralysed and Epileptic, 25, Queen-square, Bloomsbury, earnestly plead for contributions in aid of the poorer patients and their families. The smallest gifts in money or clothing will be thankfully acknowledged by the Committee.

HOME FOR BLIND CHILDREN, College Avenue, Hackney.—Subscriptions are much needed to maintain the children, and to pay off the small debt upon the Home. Contributions will be gratefully received by Miss S. Rye, or Messrs. Morgan & Scott.

CHRISTIAN MEDICAL MISSION for the Sick Poor.—The Gospel the Message; Healing the Means. None of the workers paid. Prospectus free for stamp.—Registrar, Christian Medical Mission, Southend, Essex.

COW CROSS MISSION.—Gospel Services, Sadlers' Wells Theatre.—Glo'ster Hall, Clerkenwell, "Ragged London in centre." Dinners to destitute children, &c. Funds urgently needed.—William Catlin, General Superintendent, 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville.

GEE-STREET Christian Mission and Ragged School, Goswell-road, earnestly solicits donations to continue the good work of preaching, teaching the Gospel, temperance, and relieving deserving poor.—Bankers, Barclay & Co., 54, Lombard-street; Treasurer, Robert Baxter, Esq., 6, Victoria-street, Westminster; Hon. Secretary, Rudgley, 82, Wood-street, Cheapside.

ANXIETY OF SOUL.—Any to whom the way of salvation is not clear, are invited to communicate, either personally or by letter, to W. S., care of Evangelistic Secretary, Exeter Hall, Strand, W.C.

THE CONVALESCENT HOME, Broadwater, Worthing, for Children of the Poor, is in need of a quiet, strong Horse, of 16 or 17 hands. Would any of the Lord's people like to supply this want?—Aulay Macaulay, Hon. Secretary, Latymer Road Mission, Blechynden-street, Notting-hill, W.

LIVERPOOL BETHSHAN Faith Healing Home, 161, Islington. Meetings for Holiness, Healing, and Testimony, Tuesdays, 3 p.m.; Thursdays, 7.30 p.m.

For further particulars, apply Miss Gibbs.

PRIVATE HOME-HOSPITAL, 9, Lupus-street, St. George's-square, South Belgravia, for Ladies and Children (medical, surgical, and obstetrical cases). Situation most healthful.—For terms, apply to the Lady Superintendent at the Hospital, enclosing stamped envelope.

ZENANA AND MEDICAL MISSION, School and Home, 58, St. George's-road, S.W. Christian ladies trained for Foreign Medical Mission Work, by two years' curriculum. Ladies so desirous may attend midwifery alone. Dr. Griffith, Hon. Sec. Treasurer, G. J. Green, Esq., L. and C. Bank, 3, Victoria-street, S.W.

Funds urgently needed.

£200 URGENTLY REQUIRED to complete the building of Mission Chapel and School, in very promising rural district near Enniskillen, Ireland. An appeal is now made to the readers of The Christian for assistance, local resources being exhausted. Contributions will be gratefully received and acknowledged by Mr. S. B. Humphreys, Fair View, Enniskillen, Ireland.

RESCUE WORK IN POPLAR.—Manor Cottage, Kersey-street, Poplar, E. Founded by Mrs. Wilkes, 1878. Treasurer, Henry Green, Esq., Blackwall, E. Miss Cooke, 68, Mildmay-park, will also receive contributions for this work of mercy. Mrs. Wilkes at home Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, to see friends and give information respecting this effort to seek and save the lost.

FAITH-HEALING and Power for Service.—Meetings conducted by the Rev. John Allen or his helpers. Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney, London, E., Sundays, 8 p.m., Mondays, 7 p.m. The Hall, Horsley-street, near Camberwell-gate and Walworth-road station, Tuesdays, 7 p.m. The Hall, 110, Shoreditch, Thursdays, 7 p.m. Special: Fridays, 7 p.m., Trinity Church, Triangle, Hackney: Baptism of the Holy Ghost and Power for Service.

CRIPPLED BOYS' HOME, Kensington, W.—Instituted in 1865 to feed, clothe, educate on Christian principles, and teach a trade to crippled boys between 12 and 18 years of age. 80 boys now in the Home; accommodation for 100, if funds allowed. Several candidates waiting admission. Funds urgently needed.

H. R. Knipe, Hon. Sec.

BARBICAN EAST CENTRAL MISSION TO THE JEWS.—The extra expenses recently incurred in fitting up and furnishing our new Reading-room, which is frequented by Jews daily, and the two additional workers engaged in this growing Mission, necessitates us to appeal to the Lord's people for their prayerful and practical sympathy at this trying time. The Reading-room over the Albion Hall, London-wall, is open daily from 3 till 8 p.m. Meetings for Jews and Jewesses are held regularly, which, together with the distribution of Bibles and tracts, and house to house visitation, have proved a blessing to many sons and daughters of Abraham. As many heart-rending cases of distress and misery are constantly witnessed by us all in the work, we hope the more confidently that the Lord's stewards will strengthen our hands in our extended efforts. Free-will offerings will be gratefully acknowledged, and an Annual Report forwarded by the Missionary Superintendent, Paul Warschawski, 16, Farleigh-road, Stoke Newington, N.

THE GOSPEL ALL NIGHT in the Streets of London Mission, conducted by Mr. Pye, 324, Fulham-road. An individual effort which has been owned and blessed by God for many years.—The Twelfth Annual Public Meeting will be held (D.V.) in the Large Room of the Rose and Crown Coffee Palace, Knightsbridge (kindly lent for the occasion), on Tuesday, February 10, when an appeal will be made on behalf of the unfortunate wanderers nightly dealt with on the streets, and interesting details given by friends of the work. Chair to be taken at 8 o'clock. Meeting for Prayer and Praise at seven.

HOLINESS and Faith-Healing Meetings are held at 68, Glassford-street, Glasgow. Sabbaths, Holiness 11, Healing, 7. Tuesdays, Holiness, 8. Wednesdays, Healing, 3. Fridays, Healing, 8. Saturdays, Praise and Thanksgiving, 7.—Letters addressed, Walter Dalrymple, 22, Taylor-street, Glasgow.

THE BETHNAL GREEN FREE LIBRARY, E.—The Christian, Jan. 15, contains a letter describing the work in connection with above by Christians of East London, and appealing for £250. Received: Per Bankers, £10; J. B. £10 10s.; J. S. £2 2s.; Mrs. M. £1 1s.; C. F. 5s.—F. A. Bevan, Esq., Treasurer, 54, Lombard-street, E.C.

Educational.

WATERLOO HOUSE SCHOOL, Leamington.—Principal, the Rev. Arthur Sewell, M.A. (Author of "Daily Thoughts for Schoolboys"). Preparatory for public schools. Terms moderate.

BETHANY HOUSE SCHOOL, Goudhurst, Kent, near Tunbridge Wells.—The object of the Principal is to thoroughly educate his pupils, and to carefully train them up in the love and service of Jesus. For prospectus, together with the testimony of the late Sir George Jessel, address, Rev. J. J. Kendon.

OAK HOUSE SCHOOL, Bexleyheath, Kent (12 miles from London). Principal—George E. Oxley, M.A., assisted by first-class Masters (Graduates). A thorough education, with every comfort and careful supervision. Five acres of meadow land for cricket, football, &c. Prospectuses on application.

MARLBOROUGH COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES, Larkbeare, Exeter, Devon (for Resident Pupils only). Established 25 years. Miss Bamber and Miss Churton, assisted by an efficient staff of resident certificated teachers and visiting professors, offer every educational advantage to parents seeking a Christian training for their daughters. Pupils always accompanied to and from London. Unexceptionable references to parents of present pupils. In association with the above is Clarendon House, Topsham, offering the same educational advantages, with pure, bracing sea-air, especially adapted for girls of delicate habit.

CLARENCE HOUSE, Pellatt-grove, Wood-green.—Mrs. Silvester, assisted by efficient teachers and visiting professors, receives a few Boarders, to whom she offers educational advantages, with the comforts of a home and very careful training. References kindly permitted to Mr. R. C. Morgan, 12, Paternoster-buildings, and parents of pupils.

SEASIDE, Southport.—Superior School for Young Ladies. Conducted by a member of the Church of England (Evangelical), assisted by English and foreign governesses, and eminent visiting professors. Pupils prepared for Trinity College examinations.—Miss Poole, Eagley Bank, Southport. Referees, Rev. Canon Clarke, Southport, and Rev. John Burbidge, Everton-road, Liverpool.

EDUCATION.—Fraulein von Grieshiem, Diez a.d. Lahn, near Ems, receives a limited number of pupils. Resident French and German governesses. Music, piano, violin, singing, painting. Lawn tennis. Highest references.

MONTREUX, Switzerland.—Madame Dolmatoff. Christian home for young Ladies. French and German taught. Other branches of education if required. Reference, Rev. Denham Smith, 38, York-terrace, Regent's-park, London.

HOLLAND HOUSE, Clarence-parade, Southsea.—School for the Daughters of Gentlemen. Special educational advantages, with home comforts and care. Indian charges received. References kindly permitted to the parents of present and former pupils. Prospectus on application to the Principal.

BEDFORD.—Howard College.—Principal—Mrs. J. C. Burnett. A Boarding School for Girls. Modern methods. Very superior education. Careful Christian training. Report and full particulars sent by return of post.

MT. RADFORD SCHOOL, Exeter.—During the last ten years pupils have obtained upwards of 150 certificates in the Oxford, Cambridge, College of Preceptors', and London University Examinations. Of these, twenty-two passed in honours, and twelve obtained prizes. The Word of God is made the sole basis of a careful Christian training. References to parents of past and present pupils.

Principal, E. H. Vine.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL for Little Boys, near Brighton. Locality healthy. Home comforts, Christian training. Special attention to delicate, backward boys. Separate beds. Visiting masters. Twenty guineas.—Lady Principal, Hamilton Lodge, Hurstpierpoint, Sussex.

MORAVIAN EDUCATION.—Fulneck, near Leeds. Established 1750. Terms for Boys' School, apply to the Rev. W. T. Titterington; for Ladies' School, to Miss Shawe. School reopened January 21.

DURBAN-HOUSE SCHOOL, Lansdowne-road, Lee, Blackheath, S.E.—An old-established Preparatory School for the Sons of Gentlemen, conducted by a Lady, assisted by Masters and Governesses. Careful training. Home comforts. References to clergymen and parents.—The Principal.

HASTINGS.—Wellington College for Ladies.—The object of the Council is to provide in this seaside healthy town an education of the best possible kind, based on Christian principles. An excellent gymnasium is attached, also Kindergarten.—For prospectus, apply to the Secretary, the Rev. F. Leaver, Chalvington Rectory, Sussex, or 4, Wellington-square, Hastings.

HOME EDUCATION.—Two little Girls can be received, to be educated with one or two others, in a healthy London suburb. Terms moderate and inclusive. Careful training and home comforts. References given and required.—Miss Tweedie, 24, Josephine-avenue, Brixton-rise, London, S.W.

LONDON.—First-class Education for the Daughters of Gentlemen in an establishment of long standing, conducted by members of the Church of England, occupying a spacious house in a most healthy locality in the West-end. The pupils have the advantage of loving care and safe training while pursuing their studies under first-rate Professors—their health, individual temper, and disposition carefully and tenderly watched over, and the whole system based on Christian principles.—Delta, Boddington's Library, Notting-hill-gate, W.

BELLE VUE, Ambleside.—Good School for Girls.—Having increased accommodation, Mrs. Fleming can now receive six additional Pupils. House well and healthily situated, with large rooms, garden, tennis ground. Careful Christian training, and thorough teaching. Distinguished success in Cambridge Examinations, which are optional. Resident foreign and English governesses. Visiting masters. 50 to 60 guineas.

COUNTRY VICAR, married, can receive three or four gentlemen's sons under fifteen, to educate with the Patron's son. Situation highly recommended. Orphans and children whose parents live abroad can have a permanent home. Good references. Prospectus on application.—Rev. Edward Miller, Lindsell Vicarage, Chelmsford.

EDUCATION for Young Ladies, near Torquay. Masters. Certificated Governess. Every care. Home comforts. Pupils prepared for Local Examinations. Highest references. Terms inclusive.

Mrs. Brenton-Carey, Tramore, Brixham, Devon.

FRANCE.—Rheims (Marne).—Protestant Institution for Young Ladies. Sciences. Arts. French spoken only. Home comforts. Moderate terms. Lady boarder received. References. Prospectus on application. Principal, Mdlle. Benech. (Two diplomées.)

ENGLISH LADY, evangelical, certificated, 13 years' experience, seeks engagement after Easter. French, German (continental), English, elementary Latin, good music. Pupils under 14 preferred.

B., Mertoun House, St. Boswells, Scotland.

A YOUNG GERMAN LADY (diplômée) desires re-engagement in a Christian family. Acquirements: English, German, French (grammatically), very good music. High references. Moderate terms.

Fräulein S., Haslar Hospital, Gosport.

GOVERNESS, young children.—English (thorough), French and German acquired on Continent, music, and drawing. Excellent recommendations. Views evangelical. Salary less object than kind Christian home.

S., 118, Newington-green-road, N.

A GERMAN LADY (diplomée), who has for eleven years occupied the post of head governess in the Church Missionary Children's Home, is desirous of re-engagement. Thorough English (certificated), fluent French, German, music.

M. K., 25, Beresford-road, Canonbury, N.

NURSERY GOVERNESS or Mother's Help wanted.—German; Christian; good needlewoman; domesticated. Moderate salary. Also Christian NURSE for four children. Must be neat, cleanly, and early riser. Wages £12. Family Open Brethren.

Mrs. J. Harold Moor, West Cross, Swansea.

LADY OFFERS Christian Home, combining educational advantages, to Girls under 16, as Companion-Pupils. Healthy situation. Personal supervision. Vacancy for Articled Pupil, premium 20 guineas.

Principal, Clifford, Chertsey-road, Clifton.

GOVERNESS.—Wanted, for a Clergyman's family, an efficient English Governess. A thorough knowledge of English, French, and German. The eldest pupil 16.—Mrs. Causton, Powyscourt, Park-hill-road, Croydon.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Wanted.

MISSIONARY seeks re-engagement, many years' experience; or Companion or Attendant to invalid Gentleman. First-class references. Can come at once. Urgent.

F. B. R., 13, Chelsea-road, Southsea.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY or Mission Superintendent, by a Christian man of business habits. Earnest abstainer, good correspondent, successful evangelist. Highest references.—R. S., Hemingford House, Hemingford-road, Barnsbury, London, N.

SCRIPTURE READER desires re-engagement. Seven years in present place. Could act as Organist and Choirmaster. Successful visitor. Experienced in Mission work. Age 34. Evangelical. Highest references.

Lay Reader, 2, Russell-terrace, Leamington.

AN EARNEST CHRISTIAN MAN wants an engagement as Scripture Reader. Highest testimonials from ministers. Knows town well.—Address, by letter, to F., care of Tedd, 1, Berridge-terrace, Upper Norwood.

EVENING EMPLOYMENT is earnestly desired by a young married Clerk, to increase his scanty income. Knowledge of French and book-keeping. Disengaged at 5.30.

B. C., 1, Bridge-road, Hammersmith, W.

FANCY STATIONERS. No salary required.—Young Lady wishes to learn business in good old House. Premium paid.

A. C. W., St. Clement's House, Clement's-lane, E.C.

YOUNG MAN (27) seeks employment, any sphere Christian service. Experience in visiting, speaking to anxious inquirers, &c. Or would be glad of commercial employment, having eleven years' experience in City. Remainder of time could be devoted as above. No objection mission-hall keeper.

Ebenezer (1349), 167, Fleet-street.

AS GROOM OR COACHMAN, by a Young Man, age 21. Total abstainer. Good references.

W. H., 90, Cathnor-road, Shepherd's-bush, W.

YOUNG MAN (21), Christian, abstainer, seeks a place where confidence is required. Used to gardening, but prefers a change. Good reference.—H. Lawrence, Pedigree Rose Nursery, Shepperton, Walton-on-Thames.

BUTLER.—Christian, Abstainer. Well experienced. Medium height. Married aged 34. Or any similar position.

Butler, 42, New Peploe-street, Chester.

URGENT.—Employment wanted, as chapel or caretaker, by a Christian. Active; writes neat hand; could teach a little; some knowledge of music; could assist a builder; do accounts; strong; thoroughly trustworthy. Age 70. Wages about £1 per week. Only self and wife.—C. H., Messrs. Deacon's, 154, Leadenhall-street, E.C.

AS COACHMAN (thorough).—Age 39 years. Total abstainer. Married, one child, 14. Leaving through death. Four years' good character present place, 12 previous place.

C. W., Finches Lodge, Lindfield, Sussex.

GARDENER (Head), or Good Single-handed (23). Eight years' experience of stove and greenhouse plants, melons and cucumbers, flower and kitchen garden. Good reference. Christian abstainer; single at present.—G. B., care of Mr. Thompson, 107, Highgate-road, London, N.W.

GARDENER (Head Working), Married, age 31, two children, desires engagement as above. Thoroughly experienced. 18 years' practical experience. Good references. Christian and abstainer.—Gardener, Effingham Park, Crawley Down, Sussex.

GARDENER (Head), where one or two more are kept. Christian abstainer. Married, no family. Wife poultry if required. Ten and a half years' good character.—F. P., The Cottage, Tower-road, Cross Deep, Twickenham.

WANTED TO PLACE a Youth, age 17, fair draughtsman, with a Godly Engineer. Small premium or time given.—V. W., Mr. A. Richards, Lyn Cliff-terrace, Lynmouth, N. Devon.

TO PRINTERS and others.—Can anyone give the Advertiser information as to where a young woman, aged 23, could be employed as Compositor? Been at the work seven years.

Miss Onslow, Alresford, Hants.

CAN ANY CHRISTIAN FRIEND help a Christian man to a situation as Indoor Servant, Waiter, or any place of trust where he could make himself useful? Town or country. Age 43, not tall; total abstainer. Good English and foreign references.

Charles Bisschop, 28, Finsbury-square, E.C.

WANTED, by a young Man, aged 21, a member of a Christian church, well educated, a post as Assistant Secretary to a Young Men's Christian Association.

T. R. M., Y.M.C.A., Mount Pleasant, Liverpool.

JUNIOR OR LIMITED PARTNERSHIP. — A Christian worker (34), with large business experience, desires joining an established concern. Capital small; not afraid of work. Excellent references.
Correspondence, "Daily Press," Bristol.

THE DAUGHTER of a highly-esteemed schoolmaster desires a situation as Mother's Help or Confectioner's Assistant. Seventeen years of age. Has been a pupil-teacher.
Miss Carr, 9, Borden-road, Sittingbourne.

RE-ENGAGEMENT as Working Housekeeper wanted, by thoroughly trustworthy competent person, Scotch. Wages £20 and all found. Christian and abstainer.
Mrs. Cameron, 88, Blackfriars-road, S.E.

HOUSEKEEPER, experienced, 35, seeks engagement in Widower's family. Fond of children. Good needlewoman. Musical. Nonconformist. Abstainer. Good references. Salary £20 to £25.—Alpha, 147, Elgin-crescent, Kensington Park, London, W.

A LADY can recommend a young person as Mother's Help, or to wait on an invalid. Aged 19. Could act as Reader and Amanuensis. Small salary, in a comfortable Christian home, would be accepted.
Miss Onslow, Alresford, Hants.

AN APPOINTMENT wanted, by a Christian man and wife, elderly, as Caretaker or otherwise. Is an experienced accountant. References unexceptionable, and also to Eliot Howard, Esq., Walthamstow.
R. W. H., 36, Park-terrace, South Acton.

AS COMPANION, Nursery Governess, or Mother's Help, by an experienced person. Good references can be given.—Miss F. North, Clare Bank, Clare-hill, Huddersfield, Yorks.

A LADY recommends as Under Lady's-maid, a very respectable young person, 18. Clean, tidy, excellent needlewoman, and decided Christian. Free February 21.
C., 43, Hertford-street, Mayfair, W.

WANTED, TO PLACE Girl of 17 with widow, or elderly person without family, who would exercise Christian care. Services in return. No salary.
J. W., Stationer, 485, New City-road, Glasgow.

AS USEFUL MAID to Elderly Lady or invalid. Good plain needlewoman. Age 21. Good reference.—E. A., Wood Cottage, Maize Hill, Three Mile Cross, Reading.

A CHRISTIAN HOME, with kind management, is earnestly sought for a motherless Girl, 14 years of age, who could help with children, or in light housework.—Information gladly given by E. W., The Oaks, Sutton St. Edmund, Wisbech.

UNDER HOUSEMAID.—A Lady wishes to recommend a very respectable girl of 16, as Under Housemaid; or as Single Housemaid where a Lady is willing to train. Has been out before. Can wait at table; is quick, willing, and strong.—Mrs. Causton, Powyscourt, Park-hill-road, Croydon, Surrey.

AS NURSE to a mental or invalid Lady, or any place of trust.
E. J., 165, Tachbrook-street, Pimlico, S.W.

A LADY REQUIRES a re-engagement as Lady-Housekeeper, Companion, or Useful Help. Five years in last situation. Good references.
L. M. W., Green Farm, Eythorne, near Dover.

A LADY HIGHLY recommends a Widow, as superior Housekeeper, Companion, or Amanuensis in a Christian family. Thoroughly domesticated, economical, cheerful, musical, and good needlewoman.
Beta, 3, Haselrigge-road, Clapham, S.W.

USEFUL COMPANION, Lady Housekeeper, for small or motherless family. Single, active, domesticated; handy at needlework. Abstainer. 30 years' experience. Excellent references. — L. M., 47, South-hill-park, Hampstead, London, N W.

A RE-ENGAGEMENT required by a Widow Lady (sister of a Clergyman), as Lady-Housekeeper, Companion, or Secretary and Reader to Gentleman, or Gentlewoman. Refined home chief consideration. High testimonials.
M., The Rookery, Dilham, Norwich.

WALTER PENROSE, formerly a Coster, is open for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday nights only, round about London.—Costermongers' Cottage Mission, Vinegar Ground, City-road, E.C.

A WIDOW LADY, age 45, desires an engagement as Housekeeper, where one servant is kept. Very domesticated, careful manager. Excellent references. Small salary required. Must be in Brighton.—Apply, by letter only, to C. M. S., Stirling House, Port Hall-road, Brighton.

Appointments, Situations, &c., Vacant.

A CHRISTIAN MARRIED COUPLE wanted, without family, pledged abstainers, good business habits, to take the entire charge, and do the work of a small British Workman, in a pleasant provincial town.
C. W., 1, Mountfort-terrace, Barnsbury, N.

CANADA.—A gentleman farmer in Manitoba is prepared to take a pupil, who must be a total abstainer.—For further particulars apply to General Donne, Greystones, County Wicklow.

LAUNDRYWOMAN (working) of experience and unexceptionable character required immediately, for a small public institution.
37, Tindal-street, Balsall Heath, Birmingham.

ARCHITECT of long practice, M.Inst.B.A., will take a well-educated young man, with taste for art, into his office. Moderate premium. Will be thoroughly instructed in every branch.—Architect, care of Z., West View, Clifton, Bristol.

MISS WESTON will be very glad to hear from any Christian Ladies desiring to help her in her work. They must be earnest Christians and total abstainers, active, and energetic. No salary given, board and lodging provided.
Miss Weston, Sailors' Rest, Portsmouth.

SOLDIERS' HOME, DOVER. — Wanted, a man and wife, of middle age, without children, to undertake the household work, and Temperance Bar. Must be total abstainers, and well recommended.—Miss Wright, Lady Superintendent, 22, Castle-street, Dover.

MEDICAL MISSIONARY wanted, for the Church of Scotland Mission, Blantyre, East Africa. Salary, £300 per annum. Full particulars can be obtained from J. T. Maclagan, 6, North St. David-street, Edinburgh, to whom applications, stating age, professional qualification, and Church connection, should be addressed.

COMPANION and Nurse wanted for young invalid Gentleman. Elderly widow, cheerful, active, strong. Quiet home, travelling expenses. Moderate salary. — Sigma, care of Howard, Stationer, Green-lanes, Stoke Newington, London.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a trustworthy, good-tempered Nurse, for one little boy, two years old? Must be clean, tidy, and cheerful. A good needlewoman. Also in Clergyman's school, as head servant, a good Plain Cook, not under 30. Kitchenmaid kept. Church of England. Good wages.—Mrs. Blackman, Elm-grove, Dawlish, South Devon.

NURSE WANTED for a little boy under two years of age. Must be trustworthy, efficient, and have good personal character. — Apply, giving particulars, Mrs. Gibson, 26, Kidbrooke Park-road, Blackheath, S.E.

A CHRISTIAN WOMAN, about 24, wanted about Feb. 19, to take charge of four young ladies out of school hours, and to do a little housework. Must be kind, intelligent, well-mannered, and a good needlewoman. Wages £20. No beer.—H., 43, Hertford-street, Mayfair.

DISTRICT NURSE required. — Evangelical; hospital training desirable. Board, lodging, uniform, and salary provided.—Apply personally, to A. P., Kingsland Institute, Ridley-road, Dalston, Friday, February 6, at 11.30, or by letter.

NURSERY GOVERNESS. —Wanted, experienced Christian Lady. English, French, and music to children under 10. To assist in training and general management. Must be good needlewoman. Will be treated as one of the family. Salary about £20 and laundress.—Mrs. B., care of Mrs. Springbelt, Oak-hill, Beckenham.

A YOUNG WOMAN wanted, age 21 to 23, as second Nurse, where four are kept. Christian and Churchwoman. Good character indispensable. Good needlewoman; truthful. Total abstainer preferred. — Mrs. White, Clarence House, East Cowes Park, Isle of Wight.

A GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, for quiet family in the country. Willing to help in washing. No dairy or baking. Wages £18 to £20.—Mrs. Bishop, Tittensor, Stoke-on-Trent.

A THOROUGHLY GOOD COOK and Manager wanted in a Gentleman's family in the country, where the lady is partly her own housekeeper. Age about 40. Member of the Church of England.
Mrs. Courthope, Whiligh, Hawkhurst, Kent.

WANTED FOR THE COUNTRY, a respectable, trustworthy, Christian young woman, not under 24, as Plain Cook. Must be strong and active, with a good personal character.
Mrs. Sampson, Painswick, Gloucestershire.

A GOOD PLAIN COOK wanted, in a small quiet family (a little housework). Two other servants kept. Christian, abstainer. Not under 25.
M., 2, East-ascent, St. Leonards-on-Sea.

MRS. HENRY FORD BARCLAY requires a Cook Housekeeper. She must be an efficient manager, first-rate cook, and one who will make her fellow-servants comfortable. —Apply by letter, Woodford, Essex.

PARLOURMAID or House and Parlourmaid wanted, at once. Two in family. Good needlewoman.—Apply by letter, L. M., Fairwood, Sydenham-hill.

CAN ANY LADY recommend two respectable girls, one as General Servant, the other Young Nursemaid to assist in little light housework? Must have good characters, and be early risers. Wages £12 and £8.
K. E., 36, Bickerton-road, Highgate, N.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted, family of three. Wages according to age and experience. Also young NURSE GIRL, thoroughly trustworthy, and industrious, for little baby. Abstainers preferred.
C. P. S., Stanford's, 55, Charing Cross, S.W.

GENERAL SERVANT, for two Ladies, wanted. Comfortable situation for steady girl. Abstainer.—Address, with particulars and wages, A. B., 15, Ramsden-road, Balham.

SECRETARY.—Young Lady required for afternoon and evening work. Good writing and knowledge of accounts necessary.—A., Kingsland Institute, Ridley-road, Dalston, Friday, February 16, at 11.30, or by letter.

GENERAL SERVANT wanted immediately. Good plain cook. Early riser. Good personal character. Quiet family. Comfortable home.—Apply, for address, to Mr. Glover, Baker, Newland-terrace, High-street, Kensington.

A LADY REQUIRES a useful French or Swiss Nursery Governess. Industrious and good needlewoman. Accomplishments not necessary. Small salary and comfortable home. —Mrs. F. Horsford, 33, Canynge-square, Clifton, near Bristol.

CAN ANY LADY recommend a Housemaid, not under 20, for a small, private family? A Christian and abstainer desired.
Mrs. S., Heatherlea, Red-hill.

HOUSEMAID wanted, in a small, quiet family. Age 18 to 30.—Apply, after 5 in the afternoon or by letter, to W., 6, Warwick-road, Upper Clapton, London, E.

AGENTS wanted, for the sale of Edgar Wetton's Curative Magnetic Appliances. Liberal commission. — For full particulars address, Edgar Wetton, 36, Vicarage-road, Stratford, London.

AGENTS (male and female) required in every town and village to sell our pure Teas and Coffees. Our Ceylon and Darjeeling Teas show extraordinary value. We allow 6d. per lb. commission, and deliver free. Special terms for cash. Agents can earn between 20s. and 30s. weekly.—Write for samples free to The United Tea Growers' Association, 9, Union-court, E.C.

£6 MONTHLY may be added to income by selling our celebrated Teas in packets, French Coffees, and Cocoa. Write for particulars to Oliver, Oliver & Co, 332, Southgate-road, London.

To Let, Apartments, &c.

PERCY'S HOTEL, LONDON.

40, Bedford-place, Bloomsbury-sq., W.C.

This First-class Private Hotel is highly recommended by readers of The Christian from all parts of the world. The Bishop of Algoma writes: "The comfort, perfect order, and attendance at Percy's Hotel, render it all that can be desired as a central place of sojourn in this great city." Beds from 1s. 6d. Tea, 1s. 3d. Tariff on application.

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA Boarding Establishment. The home of a Minister's daughter. Established 11 years. Mansion replete with every comfort. Fine sea view.
Miss Newbury, Cavendish House, Warrior-square.

BRIGHTON.—Sussex House Boarding Establishment, pleasantly situated in the Old Steine, having a sea view, and the beautiful Steine Gardens in front. Near to Pavilion, Aquarium, and piers. Liberal table, with every home comfort.—Mr. & Mrs. Box, 58, Old Steine.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Board and Residence, with home comforts and every attention. House pleasantly situated in one of the healthiest parts. Terms moderate.—Miss Searl, or Miss Hutteman, Loughtonhurst, West Cliff-gardens.

HASTINGS HYDROPATHIC ESTABLISHMENT. — Charming winter Residence. Beautifully situated. Purest air. Abundant sunshine. Turkish baths, with sea water plunge. Droitwich, Ozone, and all other baths, with skilled attendants. Moderate charges.—For prospectus, apply the Secretary.

BOURNEMOUTH. — First-class Boarding House, delightful situation, full south aspect, facing the sea. Close to the Pier, next to "The Baths" and Sydenham's Library. Liberal table. Every effort made for the comfort of visitors, who pay half-price for sea-water baths. Spacious drawing, dining, and smoking rooms.—Terms, apply Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Roberts, Marlborough House.

BRIGHTON (West).—Comfortable Apartments.—Miss Sophia Burgess can recommend above. South aspect, cheerful; three minutes from sea. Moderate terms.—Domus, Clarke's Library, 7, Western-road, Hove.

BRIGHTON. — Board and Residence in a comfortable, superior residence, near the sea, West Pier, and Esplanade. Terms from 30s. Large front room now vacant, 2½ guineas.
Miss Biddulph, 3, Brunswick-road, Hove.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Ladies can have comfortable Lodging and be well boarded on very reasonable terms, in a healthy part.—Mrs. Morris, Beverley House, Southcote-road, Bournemouth.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Comfortable winter Apartments, board if required, close to pleasure gardens, few minutes' walk from sea; in centre of the Pines. Home comforts, good cooking. Terms moderate.
Cheltenham, Crescent-road, Bournemouth.

BOURNEMOUTH. — Board and Residence, including home comforts and every attention. Good house. Pleasant and sheltered position, and sunny aspect. Moderate terms.
R., Leigh-road, Cambridge-road.

RAMSGATE. — A well-furnished Drawing-room to Let, with two or three Bedrooms. House pleasantly situated, splendid sea view. Terms moderate.
Mrs. W., 3, Wellington-crescent.

UPPER NORWOOD. — Superior Board and Residence in Christian family of position. Would suit married couple or others. Home comforts. Near Evangelical church. Terms moderate.
R., Oakdene, Vermont-road, Central-hill.

EASTBOURNE.—A Widow Lady offers comfortable Apartments, near the sea, with board if required, on very moderate terms, with drawing, dining, and good bed-rooms, let together or separately. Excellent references.
E. H. A., Handel House, Compton-street.

ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA.—A Lady having a larger house than she requires, wishes to receive two boarders. Home comforts.—Vigo, care of Mrs. Duff, Highbury House, St. Leonards, Sussex.

KENTISH COAST.—In favourite watering place, most comfortable, compact House. Superior modern furniture, £260, or heavy part only need be purchased, £160. Three sitting, five bed-rooms, garden, conservatory. Rent £40. Opportunity rarely met with.
M. R., 8, Queen-street, Ramsgate.

BECKENHAM, Kent.—To be Sold, a Residence with 14 rooms, besides bath-room, store-room, kitchen, and offices, and with a large garden.
B. A. Heywood, Esq., Banner, Beckenham.

BOARD AND RESIDENCE for Lady or Gentleman, English or foreign, in small Christian family, residing in delightfully situated and healthy neighbourhood, close to church and railway station. Terms moderate. References exchanged.—Oaqo, Post-office, Sidcup, Kent.

HOME OFFERED. — A Lady having a pretty semi-detached Villa at Weston-super-Mare, commanding a sea-view, wishes to meet with one Lady or two sisters, to live with her. References exchanged.
L. M., Robbins' Library, Weston-super-Mare.

COMFORTABLE HOME offered Lady or young Lady; also children of parents abroad. Permanent or daily boarders for St. Paul's Schools.—Mrs. W., 63, Sinclair-road, West Kensington-park, London, W.

A LADY HIGHLY recommends the undermentioned, with whom her sister boarded for some years, who now would receive two boarders in her comfortable home.
Miss Taylor, 7, Park-terrace, Penge.

BOARD AND RESIDENCE offered in small family of country vicar (Evangelical), to one or more Ladies, or to a Gentleman. No objection to boys requiring tuition. Large house and grounds. Use of carriage. Healthy and pleasant situation, in home county. Terms moderate.—Rev. F. S. Swindell, 32, Broad-street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

AN OFFICER'S WIDOW wishes to meet with a Lady to reside with her. Healthy locality. Evangelical ministry. References exchanged.—For terms, apply to M. C., Mr. Padwick, Red Hill Pharmacy, Red Hill.

APARTMENTS.—A Lady wishes to receive into her home a Lady (or sisters) of quiet habits. Bath-room. Drainage perfect. Healthiest locality in Clapham. Close to Evangelical churches, Conference Hall, rail, tram.—Miss B., care of Mr. Knox, 40, Walford-road, Stoke Newington.

IMMEDIATE. — Will any quiet people care to occupy a small country house in Beds. for three months? Use of garden and cow. In return, board and wages of two servants. Pony carriage extra.
Miss Moore, Landseer, Bournemouth.

APARTMENTS and Rooms, Furnished, with board if required. Terms moderate.—Mons. Paten Jackson, Avenue Carnot 25 (Ternes), Près l'Arc de Triomphe de l'Etoile, Paris.

TO CHRISTIAN PARENTS wishing to have their sons under Christian influence, a home is offered in the family of a Gentleman, seven miles from London.
Sigma, Montrose, The Drive, Walthamstow.

SEASIDE RETREAT, for the reception of a limited number of Gentlemen under the Habitual Drunkards' Act, or privately, where Christian influence, home comforts, and experienced treatment, combined with the advantages of the Act, can be relied upon.—Q. N., Chas. Tayler's Advertisement Offices, 154, Fleet-street, London.

DIPSOMANIA. — A successfully established private Home at the seaside for six, suffering from excess of morphia, chloral, absinthe, stimulants, or Nervous Debility. Christian care and influence. Judicious supervision and home comforts.
Medicus, 9, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

Miscellaneous.

ANXIOUS INQUIRERS are again earnestly invited to write to Evangelist,
Rom. v. 8; 2 Cor. v. 20. Clapham, S.W.

TO LADIES AND GIRLS.—Any desiring Spiritual Help are invited to write to Helper, Grosvenor House, 139, Greenwich-road, S.E. Communications made will be received in confidence. Any wishing for personal conversation must write for appointment to the same.

CHARGE of a little child (over 3 years old), wanted, by a Lady, to bring up with her own child. Would have a mother's care and attention. Terms reasonable. References exchanged.
L., 3, St. Andrew's Villa, Church-road, Watford

(Continued on page 22.)

By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.

DEEDS WEIGHTIER THAN WORDS.

Earnest Thoughts on the Temperance Question.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

OUR CHRISTIAN MOTHERS AND SISTERS.

Showing the effect of Home Influence.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE CRUELTIES OF HOSPITALITY.

Plain Words to Christians.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WHAT TIES THE TONGUE.

Showing the importance of Christian Total Abstinence.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

FACTS STRONGER THAN THEORIES.

A Series of Narratives showing what one glass often leads to.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE POWER OF SILENT EXAMPLE.

By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

HOME-LIFE RESPONSIBILITIES.

Showing the influence one life has upon another for good or evil, in strengthening or weakening, everywhere, but most of all in our home life.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WHAT OUR SERVANTS MAY DO.

Being instances of good that has been done by Christian Servants; and how homes have often been blessed by their influence.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

CHILDREN'S PARTIES.

A Few Friendly Words suitable for the Present Season.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

EVENING PARTIES.

Being Instances of Harm arising from the Practice of Wine-drinking at Parties.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

THE WORTH OF COMMON SENSE.

"Pity it is that Christian sympathy without Christian common sense often misleads, misguides, and hinders. How jealous should the servants of the Master be to follow to the fullest His example who went about 'doing good.'"—Extract.

By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WHAT WE GAIN AND WHAT WE LOSE.

Do we Gain or Lose Influence by the Position we take in regard to the Total Abstinence Question?
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Price 6d. per dozen; or 3s. 6d. per 100.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

◆

OUR HOMES.

A Series of 12 Small Books on Christian Temperance, described above.
By Mrs. G. S. REANEY.
Assorted Packet containing one of each sort, price 6d.
These Small Books are specially adapted for enclosure in the modern square envelope.
London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

WILLIAM HUNT & CO.'S LIST.

THIS DAY. Third Edition, extra cloth, 3s. 6d.

CHIEF WOMEN; or, Deeper Life in High Places. With New Introductory Chapter on the Deeper Christian Life. By Mrs. Gordon, Author of "Home Life of Sir David Brewster."

ALSO BY SAME AUTHOR.

THOUGHTS ON THE CHRISTIAN LIFE. By the late Hetty Bowman. Ninth Edition, 3s. 6d.

STUDIES IN THE CHARACTER OF OUR LORD, as our Example. By A. Nicholls. With Introduction by the Bishop of Sodor and Man.

SMALL BOOKS ON IMPORTANT SUBJECTS.
BY THE LORD BISHOP OF LIVERPOOL.

THOUGHTS AND QUESTIONS ABOUT HOLINESS. Its Nature and Questionable Modern Ideas examined. Tinted cover, 4d.; limp cloth, 8d.

THOUGHTS ON THE SUPPER OF THE LORD. Tinted cover, 3d.; cloth, 6d.

THOUGHTS ON BAPTISM. Tinted cover, 3d.; limp cloth, 6d.

THOUGHTS ON SICKNESS. For Invalids and their Friends. Paper, 3d.; cloth, 6d.

THOUGHTS ON IMMORTALITY. Limp cloth, 1s.

SIMPLICITY IN PREACHING. A few Short Hints on a Great Subject. Extra cloth, 1s.

BIBLE INSPIRATION: its Reality and Nature. With Notes. Enlarged Edition, 1s. 6d.

Suitable for Mission Services.

Tracts in Large Type of four and eight pages, by the Lord Bishop of Liverpool. Classified in packets, 1s. each. Also Seed-corn Handbills. Forty-eight varieties, each 6d. per 100. (Lists on Application.)

BY THE LATE BROWNLOW NORTH, B.A.

OURSELVES. A Picture, sketched from the History of the Children of Israel. Cloth, 1s. 9d.

YES! or NO! or, God's Offer of Salvation. Cloth boards, 1s. 9d.

Series of large-type Books for distribution. Limp cloth, 6d.

- Earnest Words, New and Old. A Series of Addresses, with Prayers and Hints.
- Words for the Anxious.
- Gathered Leaves.
- Think! Earnest Words for the Thoughtless.
- Wisdom: Her Cry. Proverbs i. 21—33.
- Wisdom: Who has it?
- The Grace of God.
- Christ the Saviour.—Christ the Judge.
- God's Way of Salvation.
- The Good Physician.
- Leaves. A Packet of Fifty Large-type Tracts of four pages each, for general distribution. 6d.

London: William Hunt & Co., 12, Paternoster-row.

HODDER & STOUGHTON'S LIST.

Now Ready, a SECOND EDITION of

A BRIGHT SUNSET. Recollections o the Last Days of a Young Football Player. Four Illustrations, cloth, 1s. 6d.

FULNESS OF JOY IN THE TRUE KNOWLEDGE OF THE WILL OF GOD. With Preface by Rev. CHARLES A. FOX, Incumbent of Eaton Chapel. Handsomely bound, 3s. 6d.

THE SCEPTIC'S CREED: Can it be reasonably Held? Is it Worth the Holding? By Nevison Loraine, Vicar of Grove Park West, Lond Fcap. 8vo., 2s. 6d.

THE CONQUEST OF CANAAN: Lectures on the First Twelve Chapters of the Book of Joshua. By Rev. A. B. Mackay, of Montreal, Author of "The Glory of the Cross." Crown 8vo., 7s. 6d.

TWO CHOICE GIFT BOOKS FOR CHRISTIAN FAMILIES.

THE CHILDREN OF CHINA. Writte for the Children of England. By the Author "The Children of India." Numerous Illustrations a Map. Gilt edges, 5s.

THE STORY of the LIFE OF JESUS TOLD IN WORDS EASY TO READ AND UNDERSTAND. By Charles Foster, Author of "The Sto of the Bible," &c. Forty Illustrations. 3s. 6d.

By REV. DR. BROOKES, of St. Louis, U.S., Auth of "Life through the Living One," &c.

SALVATION: The Way Made Plain Sewed, 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

DR. CUYLER'S BOOK FOR THE BEREAVED

GOD'S LIGHT ON DARK CLOUD Words of Sympathy and Cheer for the Despondent and Bereaved. By T. L. Cuyler, D.D. 1s. 6d., clot

BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

WAYSIDE SPRINGS FROM TH FOUNTAIN OF LIFE. 1s. 6d.

Mr. Spurgeon on Dr. Cuyler.—"For sentences th strike and stick, gems that gleam and glow, a thoughts that thrill, commend us to our Americ friend."

LIFE IN A LOOK. By the Right Re M. S. Baldwin, D.D., Bishop of Huron. Cloth,

London: Hodder & Stoughton, 27, Paternoster-row.

BY THE REV. JAMES STALKER, M.A.

Just published, in Crown 8vo., price 3s. 6d., a New Edition, in Larger Type, and Handsomely Bound.

THE LIFE OF JESUS CHRIST.

"As a succinct, suggestive, beautifully-written exhibition of the Life of our Lord—so far as we know it a can form a conception of it—we are acquainted with nothing that can compare with it. . . . With an exqui felicity of style and a concentration of thought which is very rare, Mr. Stalker has produced a really remark little volume. We commend it not only to ministers and teachers who have the charge of Bible-classes, but to Christian people. It is in its way a gem; and none who read it thoughtfully can fail to appreciate its worth."
Christian World.

Uniform with the above, New Edition, price 3s. 6d.

THE LIFE OF ST. PAUL.

"Mr. Stalker has the gift of vivid writing; he sketches and colours with words; he does more, he vi persons and scenes by his inspiring sentences. Those who wish to pursue the subjects of study suggested by noble career of Paul will here find ample guidance for their more thorough research. We have not often seen handbook more completely to our mind."—Sword and Trowel.

Edinburgh: T. & T. Clark; London: Hamilton, Adams & Co.

MY REDEEMER.

NEW ILLUMINATED WALL TEXTS.
14 by 10½ inches. Twelve in Packet. 2s. post free.

⁂ This is the cheapest and most effective set of Illuminated Texts ever issued.

List of Texts on application.

London: John G. Wheeler, 88, Mildmay-park, N.

Pocket size. In Neat Wrapper, 2d. In Cloth, 6d.

COMING OF THE LORD.

AN ADDRESS BY

Rev. NEWMAN HALL, LL.B.

"Only a small essay on this most glorious theme, but we welcome it from the pen of our brother, who has kept his thoughts largely to Scripture, letting the Word of God attest its own truth. It might most profitably be circulated."—Footsteps of Truth.

"A little treatise on the Second Advent, showing the mistakes in the popular mind respecting it, and what should be the action of professing Christians in looking and preparing for it."—Christian World.

London: Morgan & Scott, 12, Paternoster-buildings;
And may be ordered of any Bookseller.

SCHOOL AND HOME TEACHING.

Cassell's New Educational Catalogue w b of much service to Heads of Schools select Works for Class Teaching, and to Parents seek suitable Works for Home Teaching, the Catalog being carefully classified according to subjects. copy will be sent post free on application.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION.

Those engaged in Elementary Teaching are invited apply for a Specimen Book of

Cassell's Modern School Series, wherein th will find full particulars and Specimen Pages Valuable and Popular School Books, adapted the latest regulations of the Education Departme

Cassell & Company, Limited, Ludgate Hill, Lond

FROM THE BEGINNING TO THE GLOR

Or, Scripture Lessons for Bible and Sunday-sch Classes. By Lady Beaujolois Dent. Price 3s.

"Full of expository teaching and light."—The Christia

"Teachers, and even preachers, will get many a l son and many an outline of a sermon from this."
Life of Faith.

"Of an unusually high order. . . . We commend t work highly."—Sword and Trowel.

London: J. NISBET & CO, 21, Berners-street, W.

The Christian.

CRUEL CHEAPNESS.

By ARCHIBALD G. BROWN.

"CHEAP!" "Very cheap!" "Remarkably cheap!" "Astonishingly cheap!" Who has not read or heard these words times without number? To many there must be music in this one-syllable word, for it flows so glibly, so gladly from the lip. To say that anything is "cheap" is counted the highest commendation that can be uttered. The article at once becomes invested with a charming attractiveness; peculiar pleasure is experienced in its purchase, and yet greater pleasure in telling of the skilful bargain. The "cheap" house is praised to the skies, and patronised from far and near. Omnibus fares are gladly paid; miles of shops—that are only respectable, but not cheap—are passed without a glance, that the emporium of cheapness may be reached, and its treasures secured. "Cheap!" It is the peroration of many a laudation. The garment is not only "well cut, well made, and well finished, but is so cheap." This is a climax. It were folly to try and add another word. What more can anyone want?

This style of doing business is contagious, and when a few have caught the infection, it becomes compulsory with the many. One cannot afford to let the other out-bid him. A war of prices is carried on. Every lowering of figure in one house is answered by a similar reduction in the other. Competition becomes keener, and the houses do what is called a "cutting" trade—in other words, "cutting their own and their neighbours' throats at the same time." Many who read these lines will doubtless reply, "True; but the public reaps the benefit by everything being cheap." Who is this "public," so distinct from every trade and class you can mention, which profits by others' losses? There is no such body. We are all so linked in social life that no one class can isolate itself, and look upon the rest as making up the public. The social body is not one member, but many. It takes all to make the public. In the body politic no one member can say, "I have no need of thee." Indeed, those members of the body which seem to be more feeble are most necessary. The "public" can never gain by others' losses, whatever individual schemers may do. I confess to a growing hatred to the word "cheap." So far from being an angel of mercy, it often appears to my eyes as a blood-stained tyrant. Let those who find comfort in things being cheap make a little inquiry, and find out how it is that they are so. Their comfort will soon depart, and their present solace become their sorrow.

A few lines back I spoke of the cutting trade, and the ever lowering prices ticketed upon the goods. Does my reader know what that means? Has he ever looked into the well set-out window, read the bold figures, and thought what a mercy things are so cheap? I tell him that, if he knew all, he would turn with shuddering from figures that ought to be written with blood—and in heaven's sight are. He only sees the victory of Cheapness; he does not behold the battle-field that has won it.

Each fierce charge in the war of competition which has succeeded in forcing back the prices, has only won by forcing down the wages of the workers, who make a large portion of the public supposed to be benefited by the reduction. The pressure of that forcing down is passed on from class to class. The poor bid against the poorer, and the hungry against the starving. The complacent purchaser says, "It is cheap." The frenzied woman, with her tattered children, cries, "It is death."

I write that I do know, and see, and hear.

I charge also the word "cheap" with being a lie. If the money paid were all the article cost, perhaps the purchaser might congratulate himself on having obtained it cheaply. But, when boasting of his bargain, let him remember that others have paid a price which must be added to his money. The real price of the article is what he gave for it, plus what others suffered for it. Ticket it rightly, and it will stand—"So much money and so much misery. So much cash and so much life-blood. So many shillings and so many sighs. So many pence and so much prostitution."

Start not, and close this book in anger! It is simply true. I am only telling a fact. It is no alliterative fancy. Ruined girlhood must be reckoned in the price. The child's suit, with its careful braiding, does not look so cheap when you add this item. No, nor shirts and jackets, and baby hats, and lawn tennis aprons, and children's frocks, and a host of other things beside. The true value of any article is what it costs, not what it fetches. How much "buying on the cheap" is responsible for fallen virtue, only God knows. The marvel to me is, not that there are so many seeking a livelihood upon the streets, but that so many, in spite of want and hardship, still hold with tenacious grip the innocence of childhood. Nothing is cheap that is bought at the cost of misery, weariness, hopelessness, and virtue.

Having thus written, I wish it distinctly to be understood, that I do not level any charge against manufacturers, nor insinuate that low wages are the result of heartless greed, and a desire for exorbitant profits. I deeply regret that some have, by their unguarded utterances, rather more than insinuated such an explanation of affairs. While such examples are doubtless to be found, I believe them to be exceedingly rare. The fact is, that employers, as well as employed, are sufferers. It is a vicious circle in which both are working. Through the smallness of profits, the manufacturer has to do two or three times as much trade as he had a few years ago, in order to realise the same income. He naturally tries to do it: so do all the rest. The consequence is enormous over-production. This reduces prices still further. Thus, cheapness demands quantity, and quantity produces greater cheapness. They act and re-act on one another. In the fierce fight of competition, without any deliberate intention, the weak are trodden down. This is grievous, and ought not to be, for it is a violation of Christ's law; but let us not impute motives or judge harshly. Thousands of employers are being carried along in a rush they have no power to stem.

I have dwelt on this aspect of the prevailing distress, not because it covers the whole question, but because in my judgment it has not been sufficiently taken into account. There has been a tendency to shunt the whole matter on to the "drink," and make that the one explanation. We have read and heard that "nine-tenths" of the misery is through drunkenness, and that "one-room life" would cease were total abstinence only general.

While sorrowfully acknowledging that drunkenness is responsible for an awful mass of poverty, I boldly affirm that such statements as those I have referred to are a cruel slander upon tens of thousands. Every day of my life I see them refuted. No one thing is the cause, and no one thing can prove the remedy. We have a huge mass of unskilled labour abounding in our large towns, which just keeps body and soul together by two or three days' work in the week. Nearly half the earnings goes for rent, and necessitates —drink or no drink—a life of squalid misery. This miserable population multiplies at an abnormal rate. The birth-rate of the slums is far higher than the birth-rate of the suburbs.

To quote the words of Mr. Samuel Smith, M.P., who has devoted much study to this great social question: "The responsibility of bringing human beings into existence seems not to cross the minds of these sunken creatures. That they cannot feed or clothe their children is no hindrance to matrimonial or other alliances, and, were it not for the vast infantile mortality, the numbers of the destitute classes would double or treble every twenty-five years. It may be truly said that nothing but starvation prevents this portentous increase." And again: "I am deeply convinced that the time is approaching when this seething mass of human misery will shake the social fabric unless we grapple more earnestly with than we have yet done."

The last quotation expresses an opinion I have long held, though its utterance is always received with incredulity and attributed to a morbid view of affairs. Something must be done—done quickly, and on a large scale! What is that something? This is a question hard to answer. It is always far easier to see a difficulty than point a way out of it. Yet is there one remedy I venture to suggest. It is one I have frequently advocated and hold by more strongly than ever: "LET TEACHING A TRADE BE CONSIDERED A NECESSARY PART OF THE NATIONAL EDUCATION OF A LAD." It was so with the Jewish nation. "To the Greeks and Romans all mechanical trade appeared mean, vulgar, contemptible, and was therefore left to slaves. The Jews, with a truer and nobler wisdom, enacted that every boy should learn a trade." (Farrar's "Life of Christ," vol. i. page 82.)

The education of our Board Schools, good in itself, fails in teaching a boy how to earn his livelihood with his hands—a most important piece of knowledge. It is the mass of unskilled labour that fills our slums and constitutes a national danger and disgrace, and this will never be removed by mental training only. Last week a child of thirteen stood in the doorway of a house near by. It was filthy, dirty, ragged in garments, with toes looking through the rotten shoes. In answer to the question, "What are you doing at school?" the reply was, "Decimal fractions, please, sir." Poor little creature! it looked a decimal fraction itself. Would it not be striking at the very root of the evil, if, with the decimal fractions, we taught the use of saw, chisel and file, &c.?

Let men earn remunerative wages, and their wives would be taken from the female labour market. This would do more than anything else to cure the cruel competition we have deplored. A married woman whose husband earns a little, can afford to do work at a price which is starvation for the single or the widow. But would not this glut the "skilled labour market"? Yes, doubtless, even as the present arrangement is glutting "the clerk market," but add to this State-directed Emigration, and the danger would be avoided. At present, those we want to emigrate are just the ones other countries have no wish to receive. A man who cannot turn his hand to anything is a loss everywhere. No countries can be expected to welcome to their shores ship-loads of human helplessness. Before we can export, we must manufacture an article it will pay other countries to import. This can only be done by giving an education to hands as well as heads. The huge mass of unskilled labour found in all our large cities is as unfitted for emigration as it is for anything else that is profitable.

I have little hope of anything being done with the fathers and mothers, but we may save their children from sinking into the slough after them. Teach them a trade and then give them an opportunity of carrying their trained hands to where they are needed. Trade Education, combined with State-directed Emigration, would, in my judgment, go far to eradicate the evil. Granted the former, and I heartily endorse the closing paragraph of Lord Brabazon's article in The Nineteenth Century of November last:—"Whether the Government like it or not, they will have to take into their serious consideration how best to relieve this deplorable congestion of population in our large towns, and the adoption of some well-considered scheme of State-directed Emigration appears to me the only remedy for effectually dealing with a social malady, which if allowed to continue unchecked, must inevitably end in some fatal national catastrophe."

Thus have I attempted, in this fifth "Record of Service," to give expression to a few thoughts concerning one phase of the great problem of Outcast London. While denouncing drunkenness and deploring thriftlessness, let there be tender pity for the victims of a cruel cheapness. There are many, and among them can be found some of the gentlest, most heroic and patient sufferers that heaven's sun shines on, or human sympathy can succour.

It is recorded of Christ that, in helping the helpless one, "He took him by the hand." There are thin, tired hands all round us. Let them feel our grasp.

"SCIENTIFIC THEOLOGY."

By Rev. WILLIAM GUEST, F.G.S.

THE perils that surround the truth in these days ought not unduly to awaken surprise. There is no gift or gain of man that has not been used to work evil. Wealth, beauty, power, and every human appetite, have been perverted. Corruptions and "new guises" have entered into the house of God.

There is one marked peculiarity of our times. If modern writers who disbelieve, would, like the sceptics of the past, honestly set forth their reasons; if they would in plain language offer grounds for rejecting the authority of Christ; if they would give evidence in opposition to the Christian belief—which is, that the Epistles of Apostles could not by any possibility have been written, or accepted at an enlightened era, unless the Son of God had appeared—their unbelief could be met. They will not do these things. They sneer at Christianity. They make light of considerations that have weighed with the very master intellects of the human race. They ignore the cumulative force of Christian evidences that weigh powerfully and irresistibly with men who are among us of the widest culture, of the most practical wisdom, and of the very highest scientific attainments. But of argument from them that disputes the proof and claims of our holy religion, there is next to none.

This seems a consummate stratagem of the Evil One. It is utterly unworthy of literary sceptics, but with the coming generation it is very effective, and it is working mischief, which, if not averted, will tell most disastrously upon the last years of this century.

When, however, this new phase of intellectual scepticism begins to preach a religion of science, the servants of God are bound to examine these pretensions. Physical Science has, during recent years, conferred benefits upon the world that no pen of man can worthily describe; it is at this hour wondrously unveiling the infinitely numerous, subtle, and correlative forces and interworkings, on behalf of his creatures, of the Great Creator; it is preparing the way for a future of a humanity worthy of Him who is the head, centre, and coming King of a redeemed human family; but its conclusions are at present immature. Many which have been thought adverse to revealed religion are now disproved. Painful to say, these mere premature deductions have driven not a few of late years on to an abyss of hopelessness. Let us note the following:—

Thirty years or so ago "The Vestiges of Creation" alarmed the faith of many by attributing the order and life of the visible universe to the potency of nebulous matter. "Now," says Dr. Temple, in the Bampton Lecture for 1884, "all the evidence we possess negatives the opinion that life is a mere evolution from inorganic matter."

Formerly the origin of man was put back as far as the geologic era, called Miocene. Now the origin of man and his antiquity are regarded by eminent palæontologists as open questions.

Flint implements were put forward as irrefutable proof of man's extreme antiquity; but now there is a growing feeling of the mystery which surrounds the origin of palæolithic implements.

Not long ago man was confidently classified with the ape; now it is maintained that to the present time not a fossil skull of an ape, or an anthropoid ape, has been found that could have belonged to the progenitor of man.

The doctrine of Evolution has been supposed to discredit the supernatural. Now confidence in this doctrine has been seriously shaken; it is admitted that it does not explain the origin of life; leaves the stages and links between the lowest and highest forms of life, altogether incomplete; offers no evidence of the origin of language but what is totally inadequate; is without any evidence of one species having passed into another during the period of human record; completely fails to account for the freedom of the human will; is, in the opinion of no lower an authority than that of Dr. Archibald Geikie, attended with palæontological difficulties which no skill or research has been able to remove; and in the words of one of the first of European naturalists, has no scientific basis. In an able obituary notice of Mr. Darwin in the Times, April 21, 1882, these significant words were used:—"Darwin himself did not latterly seek to maintain his great theory in all its original integrity. As has been suggested, some greater law may yet be found which will cover Darwinism and take a wider sweep."

And it is for such conclusions, so premature, so hypothetical, and so negatived, that we are asked to set aside our Christianity, secularise our Sabbaths, break up our Sunday-schools, close all our churches, abolish our world-wide schemes of Christian benevolence, and burn our Bibles! For the sake of these modern apostles of culture we are summoned to forsake the apostles of the Son of God!

The author of Scientific Theology—a treatise to which reference was made last week—informs us that "One of the signs of the times now prominently paraded, is the idea put forward by a certain section of scientists, that scientific teachings will supersede revelation, and teach men a new gospel." The distinguished author of Natural Religion, who is also the writer of Ecce Homo, sets forth, in the words of a writer in the Nineteenth Century, that "The one ambition of the vast school of crusaders of the fashionable scientific world, is to destroy religion," and that it is "Christianity they hate, and would substitute for it a religion free from any suspicion of the supernatural."

A Judge on the Bench,* after showing that neither the philosophy of Mr. Herbert Spencer, nor that of Mr. Frederick Harrison, will suffice for men, and that while religion would die without theology, and that if the Apostles' Creed goes, the Sermon on the Mount must go too, adds—as apparently his own personal conviction—"but I think we could live very well without religion." "We can get on very well without one, for though the view of life which science is opening up to us gives us nothing to worship, it gives us an infinite number of things to enjoy." "The world seems to me a very good world if it would only last. It is full of pleasant people and curious things."

What must believers say to these things?—that this new religion of culture and modern science is baseless, would not work if it should prevail, and is likely to be as transient as the fashion of a court lady. It must, however, be observed that just now it has a sway beyond all thought. In certain sections of society you cannot meet with two young persons but you will find one who professes the new scepticism. With the word "culture" on their lips they pronounce Christianity effete, and are in profound ignorance of the rich treasures of Christian literature. The tone of society in many places is approaching that which prevailed in Roman cities previous to the Decline of the Empire.

---

* Mr. Justice Stephen, in The Nineteenth Century for June, 1884.

The question, however, is respecting the duty of faithful Christian men in relation to this new religion. It must be this first—there must be no compromise. The question is between a Father God, and a black Atheism. It is between a future of magnificent hope, and a lawless anarchy of which men have never so much as dreamt. We must not therefore lower the doctrines of Scripture to conciliate. The men of the last century essayed to meet infidelity half way. They kept back objectionable truths. Never was there a greater blunder made; both parties suffered and England was saved from a soulless age by nothing but the complete Scripture teaching of the Methodist and Evangelical Revival. "The weapon of Jesus in his temptation," said Adolphe Monod, "was the Word of God." Three times tempted, three times he repels the temptation by a simple quotation from the Scriptures without note or comment. "It is written," tells upon the tempter like a powerful discharge upon an assaulting battalion. "It is written;" the devil withdraws the first time. "It is written;" he withdraws a second time. "It is written;" the devil gives up the contest.

Further, there must be no unlearned abuse of natural science. There are distinguished scientists who all but loathe the pretentiousness of the new school. But let not men press scientific analogies too far. Science passes beyond its province when it takes the place of theology.

The noble province of natural science is the investigation of phenomena, then legitimate deductions, and then the manifold applications; Theology has to do with the enlightened interpretation of that which the Infinite has revealed through accredited messengers. Science is the knowledge of relations in the perceivable; Theology has to do with strengthening faith in things not yet known nor seen, in order that man may be in right relations with God and a future life. The student of science must possess high gifts of intellect; the student of Christianity must possess a child-like spirit of ingenuousness.*

As to the utterance of Sir James Stephen in the article quoted above, that "the world is a very good world if it would only last," the statement, coming as it does from a gentleman whose daily life is to determine what to do with injustice and crime, is strangely mysterious. The context of the passage shows that the reference is to the world in its secular life, its pleasures and interests. Think of such a world if you dare: Its unutterable vices, blasphemies, and wrongs; the wars among among men, tearing down homes and vineyards, filling the green-sward with mangled corpses and trenches with blood, and at this hour hanging on Europe the crushing annual incubus of hundreds of millions sterling to keep millions of men ready for the carnage. Think of hypocrisies, calumnies, and lies, that spread over the lives of men a worse than Egyptian darkness; of hatefully selfish lust, that fills chambers with remorse, and graves with prey; of besotted drunkenness, with its fruits of cruelty, degradation, poverty, and indescribable miseries. Forget not that half the race is plunged in heathenism, and that the "sufferings of a cab-horse" may teach us that the world, through some awful fall, "groans and travails in pain." Even in society which is called polite, if you could lift the veil you would see horrors and hear groans of anguish. And yet we are told by an English Judge that it "is a good world, and full of pleasant people and curious things."

And told, too, that "Science gives us an infinite number of things to enjoy." "Love, friendship, ambition, science, literature, art, politics, and a thousand other things, will go on equally well, whether there is or is not a God, or a future state." Ah! here is the essential, the radical, the fundamental difference between Christian men and the men of this new school. We scorn and reject the idea that our anxiety is to be to "enjoy" ourselves in a world full of tears. We are disciples of Him who came from his Father into the world that He might redeem it. We are lovers of a Book, the key to which is the word SALVATION.

On the other hand, if enjoyment is not man's "destined end or way," the believers on Christ do not know the melancholy which a high medical authority tells us is the mark of modern society. The Bible is above all other volumes the Book of Hope. Its students learn that while the Lord God has a wondrously large respect for human freedom, he is the supreme Controller. They know that the name of man's Deliverer is "Mighty to save." In his own sorrows Christ spoke of "My joy;" and that joy, of a grand outlook into the future, He gives to his faithful followers.

And if, as we are told, the new teachers "hate" Christianity, there is nothing left for us but to bow our heads and mourn in shame, that men should thus feel who know the course of English history, and how Christianity has been an underlying force of the greatest civilisation the world has ever known, that has shaken off evil after evil, and has inspired the noblest lives of patriots, martyrs, and philanthropists. Nay, men would not hate it, if they knew a thousand-thousandth part of what Christianity is doing in these days in inspiring sweet charities, and in rescuing, restraining, elevating, and consoling men in every part of the world. But, in this matter, the disciple must not be other than as the Master.

This, and the last week's article, must be closed with words that have become a painful necessity. It is clear that the lines between two parties in the professing Christian world must soon become very sharply marked. There is a party in sympathy with the "Scientific Theology," which is to be the new religion. There is another party, who, taught by all the lessons of the past, are certain that the new religion will bring men to a gulf of negation, whose bottomless depth is one of Atheism and blackness. The one talk about "inevitable deductions from scientific discoveries," the other hold that the "deductions" of science are only in process of being worked out, and that the final result will be something altogether different. The one are taken with this modern idol of culture; the other are sure that this modern idol will, in many of its developments, ere long be called Nehushtan (2 Kings xviii. 4), and they cleave to Him and his inspired Apostles, in whose unfathomable words are the way to life eternal. The one say they have changed their theology, because they "cannot shut their eyes to the advance of Bibical criticism;" the other maintain that there is nothing that so marks the advocacy of the new theology as the absence of defence of it on Biblical lines, or with adequate Scripture proof and exegesis. The one would have a religion that shall "exercise an influence on the outside world," and this is too often done by assimilation with its habits and pleasures; the other hold that the world will be best influenced by those who are Jesus Christ's observing, in their purity, the precept, "Be ye separate."

Between these two parties there must come a division. On the latter of them lies a heavy burden of very anxious responsibility. They will be called narrow and intolerant; terms always applied to religious men who are firm. The summons to them, however, is to maintain the steadfastness which is at once the root and outcome of faith. Companions in the endurance of Jesus Christ, they will, in days when error and evil are driving a desperate game, hear the words of the Comforter in their hearts whispering "courage," and His watchword of confidence not to be "soon shaken in mind, or be troubled."

Ling Holme, Tunbridge Wells.

MESSRS. MATEER AND PARKER.

THESE brethren have completed a fortnight's Mission at the Baptist Chapel, Milnsbridge. Previous to the commencement of the Mission special prayers had been offered, and a band of Christian workers had canvassed the place from door to door inviting the people to attend the services. The sphere was a very hard one to work. No such services had previously been held in the chapel. Wickedness and religious indifference prevailed to an enormous extent.

The evangelists, by their earnestness and fervour, soon made themselves felt on the mass of indifference around them. The people gathered together in increasing numbers as the Mission proceeded, and at the final gathering on Sunday, January 18, the chapel was filled to its utmost capacity. The Lord's converting blessing was given from the very beginning, and sinners continued to come out seeking and confessing Christ each day. Many backsliders who had been specially prayed for have been restored. About fifty adults in all have given in their names as having found Christ, some of whom are striking cases. About eighty children out of the Sunday and day schools have also given in their names. The Christian workers have been most astonished at the intelligent grip the children have of Gospel truth. The children's testimony and prayers have been affecting. One little girl, when asked how long she intended to serve Christ, replied, "Until every hair of my head is grey."

The Church has been revived and quickened and a good work begun, which, it is hoped, will continue in freshness and power for many days to come. PASTOR H. C. FIELD.

7, Wood-street, Longwood, near Huddersfield.

ROSE AND CROWN MISSION COFFEE PALACE.—The annual tea and public meeting in connection with this Coffee Palace in Knightsbridge, was held on Thursday week. The room was well filled with workers and friends. Mrs. Malan took the chair and gave a very interesting account of the good work carried on during the last eight years. Cheering addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Steward, Vicar of the parish, Mr. W. Davis (Hon. Sec. Open-air Mission), Mr. Pye, Mr. F. Duck, and others.

---

* Professor Henry Drummond, in his article, "The Contribution of Science to Christianity," No. 1 of the New Series of The Expositor, has taken ground which may or may not be maintained. He uses the doubtful phrase "Scientific Theology," and states among other evidences of his line of argument, that, "the Reformation was largely a revolt against intermediaries, an appeal to facts." This is but partially correct. "The intermediaries" as well as the Reformers accepted the great Christian "facts;" they clothed them, however, with puerile and priestly meanings. The Reformation swept away these perversions. It disentangled accepted facts from the falsehood of centuries, and restoring to them the Divine Spirit's interpretation showed that "therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith."

In the excellent February number of The Expositor, there is a second paper on Science and Theology, by the same eminent Christian Naturalist. In the face of not a few of the most gifted minds in Europe and America, who hold that Evolution in itself has failed to account for the origin and intellectual nature of man, many persons will regret that the writer of the article has come to the unqualified conclusion that "Evolution is the method of creation."

JOB.—2.

THE PASSING AWAY OF THE ECLIPSE.

"HE knoweth the way that is with me; when He hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold."

(1) "He knoweth." Like one awaking from some horrid nightmare and finding that the dreadful which was just about to happen had no existence but in a troubled dream, so Job awakes to the conviction that he has been worrying himself with imaginings that have no existence in fact. Forsaken of God? No, no. The scales have fallen from his eyes; he looks up, and lo! the Lord is looking upon him, and in thankful wonderment he calls out, "He knoweth the way that is with me." "He knoweth—He knoweth!" This conviction, like a beam of light from heaven, struck through the solid darkness that lay upon his soul and splintered it to pieces. "He knoweth!" Then there is not a link in the chain of my circumstances; not a square inch of earth on which my foot has trod; not a single line in the history of my sorrows; not a pang that has rent my heart: but He knows it all. My hard thoughts and dark suspicions have wronged a gracious Father. I know not the why or the wherefore of my affliction, but "He knoweth."

"And 'tis enough that God knows all."

"He knoweth" is music to my soul, and just as David's minstrelsy charmed away the evil spirit from Saul, so this sweet assurance shall calm and cheer my troubled spirit; and though all things seem to be against me, I will sing (Rom. viii. 28), "All things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose."

(2) "He hath tried me." The ray of light that heralded the dawn was the recognition of the fact that all his condition and circumstance was known to God. Now, the dawn brightens into day as he comes to see that his trials are not the unexplainable outcome of conspiring circumstances—not accidents, but of the Lord's ordering. Across the forehead of every loss, every pain, and every sorrow, he sees inscribed "This is the Lord's doing." "He hath tried me." When we can see God's hand in our trouble, even though his hand lies very heavy upon us, we may be sure that He is near to us, and the burden will be lightened when we know "He hath done it."

Why does God so try his people? There is no doubt that special acts of discipline are exercised in special cases to produce special results; but the general principle which underlies his dealings with his people is made known to us (Hebrews xii. 11). "Chastening yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby." Not for his pleasure but (ver. 10) "for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness." "Wherefore lift up the hands that hang down, and confirm the feeble knees," and let your heart be comforted by these gracious assurances. Isa. l. 10: "Who is among you that feareth the Lord, that obeyeth the voice of his servant, that walketh in darkness, and hath no light? Let him trust in the name of the Lord, and stay upon his God."

(3) "When He hath tried me, I shall come forth." "When." He limiteth a certain time. He has a purpose to be accomplished: "He performeth the thing that is appointed for me;" "He is of one mind, who can turn Him?" This purpose is the perfecting of our character.

When He hath tried me. The trial is severe, its heat scorches like a furnace, but it is not to last for ever, there will come an end to it; 1 Peter i. 6: "Though now for a season, if need be, ye are in heaviness;" Heb. xii. 11: "The present grievous; . . afterward it yieldeth." O thou tempest tossed and not comforted, be assured that your present troubled circumstances are only a dark passage into the brightness beyond.

"I shall come forth." Now the sun has reached the zenith. The eclipse is over, not a cloud flecks the sky, and his experience is bright from horizon to horizon. He is certain of deliverance when God's time shall come, and that glad day will be reached so soon as God's purposes of grace and love are accomplished.

(4) "As gold." Poor afflicted child of God, you won't come out of your trial as you went into it. When God put you in the furnace you were a lump of black dross streaked with yellow veins; then, through the action of his fire, you will come out gold. The "trying" will have purified and refined you, and the difference between dross and fine gold is the difference between the Christian tried and the Christian untried. When out of the furnace you come forth as gold, you will be fitted for honourable place and service. Gold is the most precious of the precious metals, and God's golden ones are precious in his sight and meet for his service, on earth or in heaven.

◆

ENGLISHWOMEN IN SPAIN.

DEAR SIR,—An effort has been put forth since April of last year for the help of needy Englishwomen resident in Spain. All are familiar with the blessing which has attended Miss Leigh's Homes for Englishwomen in Paris, but all do not know that a like need, though on a smaller scale, exists in Madrid, and indeed throughout the country, which the "Home for Governesses and others" in Madrid is intended to supply. Since the opening of this Institution many have found refuge therein, who, but for this help, would have been almost or quite without resource, and exposed to all the dangers which in Continental cities beset unprotected women.

The help of friends, sought and obtained privately, has sufficed to carry on the Home from its establishment, but the unlooked-for entrance of sickness, and the serious expenses attendant thereupon, has caused a deficit at the beginning of the year which a strenuous effort is now being made to liquidate. The recent terrible earthquakes in Andalusia, among other sad consequences, have thrown many governesses and others out of employment. Already such have applied for and obtained admission to the "Home," and more are to be looked for from day to day. While the ordinary subscriptions, chiefly of friends on the spot, may suffice for ordinary expenses, will the friends in England send us a little help to meet the extraordinary strain? Mrs. E. Reeves Palmer, care of the British and Foreign Bible Society, 46, Calle de Preciados, Madrid, will be glad to hear from any friend. The best form of remittance is that of cheque payable in England.

E. Reeves Palmer.

A RAGGED CHILDREN'S TEA was given on Tuesday week to a large number of poor children in the neighbourhood of Mint-street, Borough, by ladies of the Nine Elms Mission. During the evening the magic lantern was introduced, and the readings of Christie's Old Organ given by Rev. Henry Geake. Miss Cassin, daughter of Rev. B. Cassin, would be glad of similar parties in other parts of the large parish of St. George's, Southwark. Each boy and girl were presented on leaving with oranges or sweets, and small papers or books. The expenses were borne by a lady who every year gives a similar tea-party in connection with this Mission.

COMMUNION.

"SON, thou art ever with Me, and all that I have is thine;"
Out from the starry thousands, two glittering jewels shine;
Promise of sweetest Communion, for time and eternity mine,
"Embarras de richesses" and glory, for "All that I have is thine."

Lord, I am ever with Thee, and all that I have is thine,
Mingled and humbling confessions with this blest assurance entwine:
Helplessness, ignorance, folly, with sins of omission combine,
Yet Lord, I am ever with Thee, and all that Thou hast is mine.

Mine by appropriation, all, all that is thine by right,
If only I'm "ever with Thee," walking (in cloudless light)
The hidden path of Communion, unreached by the bird's swift flight,
But revealed to the "willing-hearted," who walk by faith, not sight.

Lord, am I ever with Thee? Grant that it may be so,
"With Thee" in service or suffering; "with Thee" wherever I go;
Heart to heart consciously beating, while self in the dust lies low,
My life with thine intertwining, in one glad ceaseless glow.

Lord, Thou art ever with me, and all that Thou hast and art
Freely and fully Thou gavest—thy love, thy life, thy heart;
But Jesus, how oft have I grieved Thee, pierced Thee as with a dart,
By refusing thy "royal bounty" or accepting only a part.

Only a part of God's offering, the Lamb for me once slain,
Tho' clearly his voice has spoken, "Let nothing of it remain
Until the morning." Saved one, say, shall God plead in vain?
Nay, claim a whole Christ to-day, or loss eternal thou wilt sustain.

A. F. S.

◆

YOUNG WOMEN IN CHELSEA.

WHEN the old "Tryon House," 115, Sloane-street, had to be given up last March, Miss Ellis and Miss Bamber little knew the trials of faith which were to meet them. But after nine months of difficulty and trouble they have found another spot, 8, Durham-place, Chelsea-gardens, and the new Tryon House was opened on Saturday, Jan. 24. We began with the hymn, "To God be the glory," for it was indeed his working that they are now happily housed. They start with the debt completely cleared, through the liberality of several friends and the generous gifts and collections of the girls, who gathered no less than £60.

The little gathering on Saturday week was to dedicate the new house to the Lord, to praise for the past, and to trust for the future. Mr. Herbert Tritton presided, and Rev. C. A. Fox spoke on John ii., how "waiting wants" invite and attract Christ, and conduce to household Epiphanies, and how it had been proved in this case. Then he dedicated the house in prayer, asking for many souls to be won to Christ here. Miss Ellis gave a short account of the waiting time, and what her work had been, and Miss Bamber thanked in the name of "our girls" all who helped.

The new house will accommodate ten girls, and is in a most attractive situation, looking into the open space before Chelsea Hospital. Let all our friends praise with them, and sustain them in their work.

For the Young.

A CHRISTMAS PARTY IN JAMAICA.

ONE afternoon last Christmas time a buggy and two carts, filled with bright and happy people, were seen driving from one of our villages in Jamaica, to the residence of a missionary, just three miles from where they started. The missionary was my husband: the "bright, happy people" belonged to my Bible-class, and were coming to spend an evening with us.

At half-past four they arrived, and were warmly welcomed; we had seats arranged under the trees in our garden, a large heap of cocoa-nuts on the grass, and a man standing by with a sharp cutlass, waiting the word of command to open the nuts and supply us with the cool, refreshing beverage they contained.

Picture us, then, under a large mango tree, the women and girls seated, the boys standing round, as if it were far beneath their dignity to sit down—all glad to be under the shade of the thick, green foliage, for the day had been scorchingly hot. While they are engaged with the cocoa-nuts, let us take a look round. Just opposite is a pinguin hedge separating us from the road, and a capital hedge it is, for the sharp, spiked leaves of the pinguin grow so thickly as to prevent even a goat from venturing through. That tree, so peculiar looking, in the centre of the garden, is a Jerusalem candlestick—a little distance from it a wide-spreading lignum vitæ—those purple flowers growing in such profusion at the top do not belong to the tree, but to a plant which has found its way right up through the branches until it has succeeded in getting even higher than the tree itself, teaching us a beautiful lesson of perseverance.

Behind us is the house, which we must now enter, for the time has passed quickly. Divested of hats of various shapes, colours, and sizes, all are soon seated in the large square dining-room, which our boys have made to look as much like Christmas as possible by decorating the pictures with green leaves, and putting on one side of the room in large coloured letters on a white ground, "A Merry Christmas," and opposite to it, "A Happy New Year."

The familiar words, "Be present at our table, Lord," &c., have been given out and sung most heartily by all; but on the table is no appearance of tea, nor a vestige of anything save a large pyramid of flowers! However, very soon two servants came in with trays filled with cups of tea, which were soon handed round. Bread and cheese, tarts, cake, biscuits, &c., followed. No one was asked to take a "second cup;" that is not the way in Jamaica! Glasses of iced water were more acceptable, and were given to all.

When the glasses were removed the ice was indeed broken, and we all felt what the Salvation Army might call "free and easy." How to spend the evening so that it might be pleasant and profitable was a problem soon solved. It was suggested that one of the elder girls should sing a verse of some familiar hymn, and the others join in the chorus. One dear girl began at once with "Safe in the arms of Jesus." Another followed with "Sowing the Seed," &c. All joined in the chorus of that, too, and so we went on until most of the elder girls and boys had each sung one verse. Then the little ones repeated verses of Scripture and of hymns, the elder women, too, following each other in quick succession. One little six years' old darling, named Amanda, whose head and heart had been well stored, gave us the whole of that beautiful poem of Mrs. Hemans, "I hear thee speak of a better Land."

I wish some of you dear English boys and girls could have seen and heard your little black sister just then. I am sure you would have felt as we did, that we must give her a good hearty clap, which we did in real English style, the ladies joining, too, and little Amanda clapping most vigorously, perfectly unconscious that she was doing honour to herself.

After all who had courage had sung or spoken, refreshments were again handed round, then two of our own children gave us some music, and as we listened to the sweet notes of the organ-accordion, we thought of the dear lady who presented us with it before leaving England, to whom we are still indebted, for by every mail we receive from her copies of THE CHRISTIAN and many other periodicals, which we greatly prize over here in our West Indian home.

But I am running away from my Bible-class. After a little music my husband told a most interesting anecdote. We then adjourned to the drawing-room. One of the young people went to the piano, sang and played "I left it all with Jesus long ago." Oh! how sweet and beautiful it was. Then all sang together, "Master, the tempest is raging," and two or three other sweet hymns of praise to Jesus. Then refreshments, after which one more hymn; all were then commended to God in prayer, and soon in the bright moonlight the buggy and carts were again filled. Three hearty cheers given for the gentlemen who had lent their conveyances, and all drove rapidly away, singing as they went, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow;" and so ended a very happy evening with my Bible-class. A. M. B.

Jamaica, Jan. 9.

NOTES ON THE
SCRIPTURE UNION READINGS.

FEB. 5.—MATTHEW VIII. 18–34.

VERSE 21.—"Suffer me first to go and bury my father."—Piety to God must be preferred before piety to parents, though that is a great and needful part of our religion. The Nazarites under the law were not to mourn for their own parents, because they were holy unto the Lord (Numb. vi. 6—8); nor was the high priest to defile himself for the dead, no, not for his own father (Lev. xxi. 11, 12). And Christ requires of those who would follow him that they hate father and mother (Luke xiv. 26); love them, that is, less than God.—M. Henry.

FEB. 6.—MATTHEW IX. 1–13.

Probably this palsied one was but a youth, for Jesus called him τεκνον, child (son), and it may have been that youthful sins had caused his affliction. If so, it is another proof that Jesus has special tenderness and love for the young, and is always ready to welcome and save them. It is said in 1 John ii. 12: "I write unto you little children, because your sins are forgiven you for his name's sake." What a blessing it is to have friends who can bring us to Jesus by prayer, and who labour to teach us the way of salvation.

FEBRUARY 7.—MATTHEW IX. 14–26.

VERSE 15.—Jesus is the Bridegroom, his Church is the Bride, and there is room in it for little children as well as for older people. Children may be united to Jesus by faith.

VERSE 18.—We are told in Luke viii. 42, that the daughter of Jairus was only twelve years old, so that here we have another child sought after, and blessed by Jesus Christ. Let little girls learn how ready He is to give them life eternal if they trust in Him.

FEBRUARY 8.—MATTHEW IX. 27–38.

Blindness is far more common in the East than with us. Various causes account for the fact, as, for instance, the perpetual glare of light, the fine dust and sand which is driven by the wind, the effect of dews during night to those who sleep on the house-tops. There is a blindness of the soul which prevails everywhere alike, Jesus can cure this. See Acts xxvi. 18; 2 Cor. iv. 4-6.

FEBRUARY 9.—MATTHEW IX. 1–15.

"The kingdom of heaven is at hand."—The kingdom of which Christ is the king, all who love and serve him the subjects, and his Word the laws. See xviii. 3, 4.

Frederic William IV., King of Prussia, was a great friend of the children. He was very fond therefore of going occasionally into a school and examining them a little himself. Once when he was in the Island of Ruegen, he went to a village school, and tried the children in Natural History. Showing them a stone, he asked, "To what kingdom does this belong?" The children shouted, "To the mineral kingdom." "And the bird out there which flies?" "To the animal kingdom." "But these flowers?" "To the vegetable kingdom," was the unanimous answer. "Now, children," said the noble Prince, "to which kingdom do I belong?" There was perfect silence; the schoolmaster had forgotten to teach them what category man was in. But at last one little fellow raised his hand, and said, "I know." "Well, to what kingdom do I belong then?" said the King. "You belong to the kingdom of heaven," was the child's answer. And we are not surprised to read that the King took him up in his arms and kissed him.—Pastor Funcke.

FEBRUARY 10.—MATTHEW X. 16–31.

"I send you forth as sheep among wolves."—One evening Gotthold met a shepherd walking behind his flock, and carrying in his arms a lamb that had just been dropped in the field. The sight at once reminded him of the good Shepherd, Jesus Christ, and he thought of Isaiah's prediction concerning Him: "He shall gather the lambs with his arm." He then exclaimed, "My Saviour! we are thy sheep and lambs, shy and timid, silly, weak, and helpless creatures; but thou art a faithful Shepherd, and seest, knowest, and art able to do for us all things. Indeed, wert Thou to withhold thy care, who could save us from destruction? Lift up, then, my weary soul, O Shepherd, and carry it in thy arms. Let thine eye be over me, that I fall not behind in the way; and for this I will thank and praise Thee through eternity."

FEBRUARY 11.—MATTHEW X. 32–42.

VERSE 33—"Whosoever shall deny Me."

The evil thought which tells of sin
Unconquered, lurking still within;
The hasty speech, the churlish word,
In Jesus' teaching never heard;
The deed unrighteous, such as He,
Our holy pattern, loathes to see:
These grieve the faithful, pleading Guide;
By these the Master is denied.
And they who thus deny their Lord,
And mock and spurn his gracious Word
E'en to the end, He will disown
Before his holy Father's throne.

L. Squire.

Many expositions and true narratives illustrating the daily portions of the Scripture Union will be found in the pages of Our Own Magazine (48, Paternoster-row, 1d. monthly).

BIBLE ACROSTIC.

The initials give the name of one who was severely condemned both for his words and his deeds.

(1) A Patriarch's son. [Paul.
(2) A town memorable in the history of
(3) A bird without maternal affection.
(4) Part of the high priest's breast-plate.
(5) The sign of a covenant between God and man.
(6) A place named after a certain fruit that grew there.
(7) A wilderness where dwelt a youth who became the father of a great nation.
(8) One of seven who attended on a heathen king.
(9) A New Testament false prophet. [do.
(10) What Christians are strictly forbidden to

Additional answers to Acrostic—KEZIA—received from G.H.C. E.J.M.S. A.H.D. L.M.H. W.M. A.J.M. F.M. J.G. J.E.A. M.K.B. P.W. A.M.C. E.E.W. L.H.G. E.M.G. A.H.J. E.M. H.C.A. S.P.A. E.M.C. E.M.B.C. J.E.P. L.J. E.M.F. W.F. W. and D.I. M.J.B.

[As some of our young friends complain that their answers have not been acknowledged so soon as they expected, we think it well to say that in order to find acknowledgment in any number, replies must reach our office not later than the first post on Monday morning.]

LODGING-HOUSE MEN.

ON Thursday evening last the "Strangers' Rest" in Ratcliff-highway was the scene of a very interesting gathering, in addition to the ordinary activities nightly carried on there. Some 250 men from the lodging-houses in the neighbourhood (which are visited weekly by workers from the "Rest") were entertained to tea. After the bodily cravings were satisfied, an earnest effort was made to awaken and minister to the spiritual appetites of the men, who listened most attentively to some stirring words of appeal and some bright singing of Gospel hymns.

Mr. Godfrey, of the North Evangelistic Choir, had the conduct of the meeting. He was assisted by several ladies of the choir, and by a select party of male voices, who sang very effectively some of the male chorus songs. Mr. Godfrey, Mr. Foulger, Mr. Morris, and Mr. Matthews gave short addresses, and there were signs of many hearts being touched by the Gospel message so earnestly reiterated. Several remained behind to sign the pledge and converse further about salvation.

This was the second of these gatherings, and the friends at the "Rest" purpose continuing them if the needful funds are provided.

◆

PROGRESS IN COLAR, INDIA.

DEAR SIR,—To-day two of our young men have received baptism on profession of their "repentance toward God and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ." One of them, a most interesting case, was not trained in this orphanage as a boy, but ran to us for shelter from his heathen relatives, who persecuted him when he began to be exercised about his soul and Jesus Christ as his Saviour. He has come out very clearly on the Lord's side since coming here, and his walk has been most exemplary. May God graciously preserve them both from the evil one, who reigns in heathen darkness in this country!

We have been favoured by having among us several servants of Christ this season—a great rarity for us in this out-of-the-way native town. We were much helped and cheered by a visit for a few days from Mr. and Mrs. Bowden, just arrived from England en route to their fields of labour in the Godavery district. Then a brother in Christ who laboured here for eleven months previously came for a day, and the children and he wept for joy at seeing one another again. His visit helped to brighten the children's Christmas very much.

Then on Monday last we had the great privilege and honour of entertaining that servant of Christ, Lord Radstock. His son, Hon. Granville Waldegrave, and Major Wylie, C.S.I., accompanied him. He had just the word we needed, and how much we did need it just then! During the day Lord Radstock, though feeling weak, spoke at two meetings; one in the house, for our fellow-labourers, and a meeting, through interpretation, to the public in the Mission Hall. Before the first meeting several of us had a short time of prayer to ask the Lord to grant his servant strength for his work. The Lord heard prayer, and I am glad to say that before leaving at night his lordship was quite revived and well. Lord Radstock values the prayers of fellow-saints, and I am sure he would be glad if this reference to him led others to join the list of loving hearts who are praying for him in England. Travelling all over India, and constantly preaching, is arduous work.

It will be generally known by your readers that our sister Miss Anstey, is now in England. We stay here to care for the work till her return; then we hope to move out into a dark district where the Gospel is yet unknown. We ask the prayers of fellow-believers—we much need them.

Yours very faithfully,
W. ALFD. REDWOOD, Missionary.
Kolar, Mysore Territory, India.

P.S.—I would again thank the dear friend who sends me your excellent paper.

HOMES FOR WORKING GIRLS IN LONDON.—The Drapers' Company have given a donation of twenty guineas, the Merchant Taylors' Company ten guineas, and the Armourer and Braziers' Company a donation of three guineas to the funds of these Homes.

A STORY OF BIBLE DISTRIBUTION.

BY MRS. M. E. ROBERTSON.

I WAS leaving a happy home of many years, in order that it might become a Training College for Home and Foreign Missionaries. When taking my Sunday-school class for almost the last time, with mingled feelings of love for the work so soon to be given up, and intense longing to know in what way the great Master would find work for the future, the direction came like a voice and quite as distinctly, "Go and give away Bibles in Rome." This was literally fulfilled in less than a year. The dream of a lifetime had been to see Rome, and the entrance of the Italian troops only a few months before had just left the Seven Hilled City free for evangelistic work.

A second visit to Italy, three years afterwards, gave opportunities for further distribution, during which many interesting incidents occurred. Having been furnished with a good supply of Gospels, we were giving them to those we met at the railway stations. A gentleman in the carriage between Florence and Rome seeing the anxiety of the people to get the Scriptures, said, "Excuse me, is this your work?" "Yes, and very happy work too." To the next question, which I cannot exactly remember, I replied, "If you mean to ask whether I am paid for it, certainly not." Immediately he handed me a napoleon, saying, "Will you add this to your funds, for I am sure it must be doing good?" Thanking him, I asked if I might spend it in New Testaments. "Anything, so that it is the pure Word of God."

Seeing the way in which these Testaments were received, I could no longer feel happy in giving only the small portions when we ourselves had the whole book. One man in the museum at Naples, to whom we had given little books, came and said he had asked several gentlemen for a Bible, but had never been able to obtain one. Great was his joy on receiving a Testament. He said, "Now I will give you back the other books, for this contains everything." He was delighted when told to keep them all. At Pompeii one of the custodians to whom we gave a Testament, asked for one for each of his four brothers. After that we bought as many as we could, and gave them to eager recipients.

On our return to England the uppermost thought in my mind continually recurring, was how the many millions, who are still in darkness, could be supplied with the Lamp of Light. Many were the letters written to those who would be likely to take an interest in supplying this pressing need. These called forth answers of encouragement in many cases, but that did not accomplish the end in view. Consulting with Mr. Moody and other friends on the subject, during the first visit of the former to England, a remark made by our friend Mr. Robert Paton struck me: "Mrs. Robertson, that is your work." All my idea had been to get some one else to take it up. One night, unable to sleep, I rose, and, pacing up and down the room, could not help crying in bitterness of spirit, wondering how the poor creatures could be reached, and how the Words of Eternal Life could be sent to them. On lying down again, the words came to me clear and distinct, "Mrs. Robertson, that is your work." A great calm and peace came to me as I resigned myself into the Lord's hands, willing to be or do anything as He might direct.

Writing after this to several Christian friends, explaining to them the object to be attained, they sent various sums, which were placed in the Bank. An article in THE CHRISTIAN brought replies from workers abroad, stating the great help it would be to them to be able to give Bibles or Testaments to many who, through poverty, indifference, or superstition, would never purchase them. Since that time, Bibles, Testaments, and Gospels have been sent into France, Spain, Germany, Italy, Russia, Austria, Greece, Turkey, Transylvania, Pomerania, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Denmark, Cyprus, Armenia, Syria, Persia, India, Kashmir, Japan, Burmah, Madeira, Cape Verd Islands, Nicaragua. Brazil, Mexico, Natal, Jamaica, Guiana. They have been distributed in prisons, hospitals, at railway-stations. Soldiers, policemen, cabmen, servants at hotels, and many others have been supplied as the opportunities have presented themselves. Christians located in the different countries are only too glad to have the pleasure of presenting the gifts, and are amply recompensed by the joy of the recipients, who are sometimes overwhelmed with gratitude.

The means for sustaining the work have been sent by the Great King Himself, through his stewards, in answer to prayer. Many of the kind friends, who have united by sympathy and prayerful assistance to lay this tribute of love at the Master's feet, have expressed their joy in doing so. May all who read this little sketch (written and published by request) unite, according to their opportunity, in this much-needed service.

1, Oak-hill-park, Hampstead, N.W.

◆

THE DESTITUTION IN EAST LONDON.

SIR,—Shall the people starve? It is coming very close to that question with not a few in East London. The respectable poor are feeling the pinch terribly, perhaps more than those more accustomed to very short commons. I can speak for myself, that cases of genuine distress, thoroughly deserving of help, are crowding upon me, so that I scarcely know what to do.

As we visit weekly some 20,000 persons, we are always in contact with large numbers who, through misfortune, sickness, or other causes, are in need, but the present pressure is unprecedented in my experience of eight years in East London. The sufferings of the ill-clad and miserably fed are extreme, and with the continued depression in trade the spirit of the people is broken. Ought not assistance to be given to honest, sober, and industrious people, who would be only too glad to work if they could get any to do? A few comforts for a month or two would take many over their difficulties, and then we may hope things will be better. I appeal to the well-to-do, to help, and to help at once, their suffering, poverty-stricken brethren and sisters.

My heart sickens daily over the misery and woe. One is almost driven to distraction at not being able to help with any efficiency. I shall be most happy to receive gifts of money, blankets, packages of tea, oatmeal, rice, potatoes, orders for coal, left-off clothing. Every case we examine carefully; we have no inclination to encourage loafers or drunkards, but we are cut to the heart by the starving little children, distracted mothers, and broken-down husbands and fathers.—Your obedient servant,

W. EVANS HURNDALL, Minister of
Harley-street Congregational Church.
16, Cottage-grove, Bow, London, E.

THE WELFARE OF YOUNG MEN.—A letter, signed by the Duke of Westminster, Mr. W. H. Smith, M.P., and Archdeacon Farrar, issued by the London Diocesan Council for the Welfare of Young Men, states: It has been ascertained that although various institutions for young men and boys exist, they are altogether inadequate to the need, and a very general conviction has been formed that more is wanted and more may be attained. The Council is striving to do all it can for the strengthening of institutions for the benefit of young men in London, on whose behalf a Register of Lodgings has been opened at this office, from returns furnished by the clergy of various parts of the diocese. If in all cases in which young men and lads leave their homes in the provinces to settle in London, the clergy of the places they quit will give a note of recommendation to the Council, many might, on arrival, be referred to suitable lodgings, and, by introduction to the parochial clergy or to institutions, be protected from danger, and brought under influences for good. All information respecting the work of the Council will be gladly supplied on application to the Secretary, Northumberland-Chambers, Charing Cross, W. C.

REV. E. PAYSON HAMMOND.

THE LIVERPOOL WORK.

A striking case in connection with an afternoon children's meeting occurred in the Presbyterian Church in Shaw-street. A sea-captain was passing the church, when he was accosted by a worker, whom he told he was on his way to a drinking saloon. The worker invited him into the meeting. There the Holy Spirit arrested him, while listening to Mr. Hammond's address, which was mostly to young converts. Two Christians who dealt with this man were convinced that he went away really converted, not to spend the evening over the drunkard's bowl, or to sing the drunkard's song, but to sing the songs of Zion.

The gathering of the young converts at the closing meeting was a touching occasion. It was interesting to hear the various causes for thanksgiving which were mentioned. With many it was for being converted that week, most on Sunday afternoon. Others thanked God for conversion on New Year's Day, some long ago, and some for the conversion of relatives. A mother gave thanks for the conversion of her little girl, her youngest, and for her two elder daughters having been much quickened during these meetings. A pastor gives thanks for many of his flock having been drawn out as earnest workers.

During the after-meeting valuable though short addresses were given by the ministers present. Rev. P. White, of the Presbyterian Church in Islington, gave valuable exhortations to the young converts. He exhorted them to read their Bibles, and to secure a portion every morning, before going out to daily duties, that they might have something to feed upon and to strengthen them. He told of his own mother, who was always most particular that no room in her house should be without a Bible. He also exhorted them to continue in prayer, for those who neglect this cannot grow or remain steadfast. It was something to thank the Lord for, he said, that Mr. Hammond's visit had been the means of bringing himself and other ministers into close and happy union.

On Saturday, January 24, a large company met at the station to say farewell to Mr. Hammond. After he had got into the railway carriage he told us how a similar gathering had been the means of the conversion of an infidel, who was convicted of the reality of the love of Christ, as he saw manifested the love of the young converts and older Christians. M. J. W.

The following letter from Rev. Patrick White was read at an afternoon meeting in Leicester. It indicates something of the extent of the work in his Liverpool congregation:—

My Dear Brother,—I hasten to communicate to you glad tidings. I visited my afternoon Congregational Sabbath-school yesterday, to ascertain if any good fruits could be found of our united Saturday-school meeting on the preceding Lord's Day. What I discovered was to me marvellous! I never heard or saw in any Sunday-school such testimonies given of decision for Christ. I went from class to class, first cautioning them not to say what before God they did not know to be true, and then asked them if they had given themselves to the Lord Jesus as their Saviour. In every class, of a school numbering close on 400, there were some to rise and say they had accepted Christ; not one class was excepted.

The numbers varied from one to twelve. In one instance a whole class of intelligent girls (not children) fearlessly confessed Christ. In several, five, six, eight, and in a double class twelve, acknowledged the Lord Jesus to be their Saviour. Twenty in the infants' class said they loved Jesus. In my sister's Bible-class (the senior class for young women), either six or eight boldly confessed the Lord Jesus with countenances beaming with joy, yet eyes full of tears. Some of them astonished me, but all made my heart full of love and gratitude to God.

In the young men's Bible-class the "tall young man," whom you may remember having come to Jesus in our schoolroom, stood up and thankfully confessed Christ as his Saviour. He was at that afternoon meeting where the Holy Spirit was felt with such mighty power.

The teachers have been greatly quickened and refreshed. One good man is exulting over the worst conducted boy in the school, whom often he was inclined to expel, who came to disturb Band of Hope, Sacred Music-class, and every gathering held for the good of the youth connected with us; yesterday he was calm, attentive, bright, and happy—the wonder of both teacher and scholars—exulting in Christ. "The Lord has done great things for us, whereof we are glad." Your brother in Christ,

Patrick White.

The Manse, Islington, Liverpool, January 26.

LEICESTER.

The work in connection with Mr. Hammond's labours here has proceeded in a most encouraging manner. Three meetings during the past week were held each day. One for Christians at eleven o'clock has been called a "Bible reading, prayer, praise, and inquiry-meeting." It has indeed been one of rich blessing; each day some portion of Scripture has been expounded. Earnest prayer has been offered, and inquirers have been pointed to the Lamb of God. The young converts have sometimes told of the great change which has been wrought upon them. One woman said that her father and mother (now over eighty years of age) had been praying for her for forty years; last evening in the inquiry-meeting she said: "Thank God their prayers are now answered; I never knew what happiness was before." She said she had spent a portion of her life in Africa, and now deeply regrets that she was not a Christian at that time, as she might have done so much good among the heathen.

The meetings last week were held in the Melbourne Hall and St. Stephen's Presbyterian Church. This week they are to be held in five different localities. The pastors who have united in this effort are very earnest, and long for a rich blessing upon their churches in Leicester; two of them were greatly blessed during Mr. Hammond's meetings held in London seventeen years ago.

CHILDREN'S MEETINGS.

These meetings have been of extraordinary interest to the great crowds that attended every evening at six o'clock. Mr. Hammond has been greatly interested to find numbers of those who give evidence of having been converted at previous meetings held here for children; these have taken deep interest in leading their friends to Christ. One of these boys, on returning from the service last Sunday morning, having heard Mr. Hammond tell how children sometimes lead their little friends to Christ, said: "Mother, you know that I am a Christian, and if there are any children anxious about their souls this afternoon, if you will take me to them, I will tell them how I found Jesus, and pray for them." Sure enough in that meeting, in which so many were inquiring the way of life, that little boy did what he could to help on the work.

In the daily meetings Rev. F. B. Meyer has told touching incidents which have come under his observation. He rejoices greatly in seeing so many of his Sunday-school scholars coming to Christ.

Mr. Hammond has received a great many letters from children and young people; some of these have been read at the meetings; one is as follows: "I came to Melbourne Hall with some more boys for the purpose of making fun, but when you told the story of a man who came to one of Dr. Nettleton's meetings in the United States for the purpose of injuring the preacher and disturbing the meeting, it set me thinking. I saw that I had a black heart, but now by hearing you preach of Christ it has been cleansed. I came home and thanked God that I had been converted. While I knelt down my younger brother followed my example, and now he is craving to be converted too. Four out of the six who came with me that night have been brought to Christ in these meetings."

The children's meetings have increased in interest and numbers during the week, and yesterday the meeting was largest of all. Will the readers of The Christian still pray for a blessing on this closing week of the Mission? Next Sabbath he begins at Dublin. That God's blessing may go with him there will be the prayer of many here. A Worker.

◆

EAST LONDON SEWING-CLASS FUND.

THE depression in trade, the scarcity of work, and the consequent great distress amongst the working classes at the present time, are sad facts that are only too well known. It is, therefore, felt that little need be stated to show how important it is that some Sewing-classes should be opened as quickly as possible, in order that the suffering may be lessened which is being patiently endured in many poverty-stricken homes. The small sum earned in the Sewing-class often decides the question whether bread or firing can be afforded.

In addition to the temporal relief, many a weary woman is soothed and rested by working for a few hours weekly in a quiet warm Mission-room, during which seasons she hears in simple words of the love and compassion of a Mighty Saviour. The reading of the Bible, the singing of hymns, and the prayers offered, all raise the poor women's hearts to higher, holier thoughts, even whilst they are earning money to help their families.

Mr. George Holland, whose blessed work in Whitechapel is well known, writes:—

"I shall indeed be thankful to have the Sewing-class in operation again. There is scarcely any employment, and it is said that more than 20,000 men are out of work between London-bridge and Silvertown. They are waterside and dock labourers—the 20,000 possibly represent some 80,000 souls—and although bread is so cheap many have not the money to purchase it. Thus very many poor women will be thankful to earn sixpence to buy food for their little ones. Many who come here feel the cold weather most keenly, and long to get into the Sewing-room where it is warm. Last year a large amount of good was done. The women worked and received their sixpences, friends came and read to and sympathised with them, and some were thus won to Christ. I think I may safely say that there are from forty to fifty connected with the class whose precious souls the Lord has won to Himself."

From one East-end parish a request for a Sewing-class this winter has been sent by the clergyman's wife. Her letter states:—

"There are more than 10,000 in this parish—all so poor that I only know of two families that keep a servant. This is our sixth winter here, and the real distress among our people is greater than we have ever yet known. There are now hundreds of men out of employment, and our Scripture-reader found, in visiting this week, several families of really decent people where parents and children had been without any food since the previous day. I do indeed trust that you may be able to help us. I am certain there are numbers to whom the class would be a very great help, and I feel it would indeed be another opportunity for them to hear of the great love of Jesus."

Another earnest worker writes:—

"I have had already many timid but anxious inquiries as to the prospect of a Sewing-class. It is always a boon, and was never more needed than just at present. The existing depression which has thrown so many working men out of employ makes itself felt in every department; some of the poor women were glad to earn a few pence at this season doing odd jobs of mending, &c. for the dock labourers; but, alas! these, too, have failed now. It is not simply a little temporal relief by earning a few pence that is thus secured. The influence of these gatherings is like the leaven of which our Lord spoke, and it is one of our great encouragements to watch its silent working."

It is earnestly hoped that subscriptions may be sent in so quickly that some of the troubled women may at once be gathered into Sewing-classes. Every £1 subscribed gives real help to one woman by letting her earn 1s. 6d. weekly, and so tide over the winter, and every £15 provides for a class of fifty for one month. Subscriptions may be sent to The Lady Hobart, 15, Eccleston-square, S.W.

THE MERCHANT TAYLORS' COMPANY have given a donation of ten guineas to the funds of the Ragged School Union.

Notes and Comments.

IT is gratifying to observe in such a newspaper as The Guardian strong recommendations of "after meetings," which are pronounced by a competent authority as the "most powerful engines of a Mission." It is also urged that not merely the clergy, but spiritually-minded men and women, should direct the inquirers, and that in some cases, instead of asking, "Are you saved?" it would be better to begin the conversation with the inquiry, "Can I help you?" There is, happily, no appearance of sacerdotalism in these recommendations.

The Bishop of Rochester draws attention in his Annual Charge to the fact that candidates for confirmation have not increased during the past year in proportion to the increase of such services. It is to be feared that the tone of superciliousness towards Christianity in certain circles is affecting the new generation. Men talk nowadays, who in the expressive language of St. Paul, "understand neither what they say, nor whereof they confidently affirm."

Rev. William Arthur, says The Methodist Times, has completed the first part of a new work, entitled, "Religion without God." It consists of two sections, the first being "Positivism and Mr. Frederick Harrison," the second, "Agnosticism and Mr. Herbert Spencer." It will be followed in due course by the second part, to be entitled, "God without Religion," under which head Mr. Arthur will treat of "Deism and Sir James Fitzjames Stephen." It is intended to publish each part separately. Mr. Arthur has been giving his attention for many years to the momentous theme of this new book.

The following missive, daintily lithographed, has reached us. If Northfield were within "measurable distance" of London, we are afraid the capacities of Marquand Hall would be severely taxed by the invasion of Britishers on this auspicious occasion. Many on this side the Atlantic, who cannot be there in the body, will undoubtedly be present in spirit. In the name of our readers we send our heartiest greetings and congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Moody and their honoured parent:—

> "1805—1885.
>
> "Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Moody would like the pleasure of your company at the eightieth birthday anniversary of their mother, Mrs. Betsey H. Moody, who will receive her friends at the New Marquand Hall, Northfield Seminary, in Northfield, Mass., between the hours of three and eight o'clock, p.m., Thursday, February 5, 1885. 'Her children arise up and call her blessed.'"

"A record of the fruits of prayer would be a catalogue of the grandest victories and noblest virtues of the race."

The World, in briefly commenting on the departure of Messrs. C. T. Studd and Stanley Smith as Christian Missionaries, says:—"Probably no missionary has ever set forth into savage wilds with so many good wishes as will 'C. T.' next week." We are glad to hear of such a tribute from such a source, but surely the remark about "savage wilds" is hardly applicable to China; if it were, the evangelisation of the Celestials would probably be less difficult than it is.

The Monthly Record of the Peace Society quotes from the Daily News, of January 2, the following information from Khartoum:—

> "General Gordon, having learned that the Bedouin Arabs came during the night to the wells, sent armed boats to stop the practice, thus causing much suffering among the rebels, many of whom died of small-pox and dysentery. The Mahdi, in consequence, withdrew his army to Jabbara, two days' journey from Omderman."

Whereon the Record says:—

> "The annals of modern warfare do not contain an instance of more heartless cruelty than this. Because we choose to regard the Soudanese as 'rebels,' we think it right to resort to every form of cruelty in putting down their 'rebellion,' even going so far as to deprive them of the bountiful supplies of Providence, without which life cannot exist in those tropical climes. Surely there is something wrong here, and it behoves the true Church to protest vigorously against such a degradation of the religion of Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, who came 'not to destroy men's lives, but to save them.' General Gordon may be a conscientious man, and may even believe that he is doing God service, but he is not a Christian of the New Testament type."

The Christians of the New Testament type are fewer than angels' visits. The Sermon on the Mount, if it were believed and acted on, would turn us all inside out, and we should turn the world upside down. See Rom. xii. 20, 21.

A Peace Conference was held at Darlington on January 29. At the close of a lengthy address on the work of the Peace Society, Mr. Henry Richard, M.P., said:—

> "Some think that salvation from the war system must come from Parliament; but I own I have more hope from the people—at least, until Parliament itself becomes more fully and faithfully an echo of the people's voice. We have already done something in that direction. We have brought forward the subject of Arbitration, and the proportional reduction of armaments, and the necessity of curbing the irresponsible conduct of men who, in distant lands, act in our name, but without our authority. We have made many attempts to diminish our enormous and constantly-increasing military expenditure. I think we are prepared to act again, and, we trust, with more prospect of success, if you will send, as we have good hope you will, a body of men to support us, less interested in upholding our warlike establishments than many of those who now represent you, and more intent upon saving the life and money of the people of this country. Rely upon it, the cause of peace will not lack men to stand up for its promotion and defence in the Parliament of England."

We should think the friends and supporters of the Charity Organisation Society will find it no easy task to rebut the charges brought against it in the first article of the current number of Eastward Ho! (6d. Wells Gardner & Co.) After presenting an analysis of the balance-sheet of the Society for the year 1883 the writer proceeds—

> "The total amount swallowed up by officialism was £16,771 3s. 1d., while the amount devoted to relief in any form would be £3,322 19s. 1d. The startling conclusion to be derived from these figures is, that only a small decimal over one-fifth of the enormous income of the Society raised for charitable purposes has been, or will be, applied to charity. It would be all very well for the Society to allege that organising is as truly charity as giving away money, if the figures we are dealing with amounted to only a few hundred pounds; but I may state a fact which will carry conviction as to the disproportionateness of an expenditure of, say, deducting the cost of the central staff engaged on 'operations' connected chiefly with institutions, fourteen thousand pounds in round numbers . . . . There can, surely, be no justification for such enormous waste of charitable resources."

We humbly commend to the studious attention of the Charity Organisation Society the words of our Lord in Matt. vii. 1—5. Among the other papers in Eastward Ho! of special interest, are Mrs. Heckford's "True East-end Romance" and "Angel Visits."

The correspondent of The Times, who described the ceremony by which the southern portion of New Guinea was taken possession of by Great Britain, speaks of—

> "Messrs. Lawes and Chalmers, the well-known missionaries, whose services have been gratefully appreciated by every visitor, and the result of whose labours astonishes every person who comes to this part of the world."

And of—

> "Mrs. Lawes, a lady who has done more to win the natives of New Guinea to Christianity and civilisation than would be thought possible by anyone who has not seen what she has effected."

He again refers to—

> "The Rev. J. Chalmers, whose extraordinary influence over the natives and the mode in which it is exercised are convincing proofs of the good that a single-minded, energetic missionary can do, and the Rev. W. G. Lawes, whose name and merits are known far beyond the limits of his present field of labour."

Times correspondents have not always spoken so respectfully of missionaries, but perhaps in these cases they were not so well informed as the writer from the antipodes.

One of our readers—referring to a Note in our issue of the 22nd ult. relating to "The Shop Hours' Labour League"—suggests that Christians would do well to carry out the golden rule of doing unto others as they would be done unto. They should avoid making purchases in the later part of the day, and should not unduly press for work to be done within a limited time. One of the rules our correspondent lays down in connection with his household arrangements is that all shopping shall be done in the forenoon if possible, in order that the shopkeepers and their assistants may be at liberty (so far as he is concerned) to cease from business at an early hour, so that they may be able to spend the evening at their own firesides with their families. Such of them as are parents can only thus have an opportunity of training their children in paths which lead to honour in this life, and to glory in the life to come.

This is a most admirable rule; if all Christians would carry it out, and induce their friends to do the same, the work of the Shop Hours' League would be greatly reduced. Our young friends would then have many opportunities for spending their evenings in their own happy homes; shopkeepers and their families would be greatly helped, and society generally would be benefited.

Mr. Spurgeon has sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to have left for his sojourn in the South of France. He is expected to make a stay of three months in that sunny clime, and will, meanwhile, let us hope, be gathering a large stock of renewed strength and power for future service. Though sorely missed at the Tabernacle, his work is not likely to cease. Mr. Spurgeon has not only the ready tongue, but also "the pen of a ready-writer," and by this means his voice will no doubt be heard from time to time during his absence.

Mr. Spurgeon arrived at Mentone with his three travelling companions on Saturday evening, having halted two days in Paris. There are about 360 British visitors in the town, but the paucity of the numbers that attend the Scotch Church services has led the committee to discontinue them for the rest of the season. Thus the Nonconformists are without any services in the place if they do not understand French.

We very much regret to see that Dr. Clifford, of Westbourne Park, has issued a sermon entitled "Abraham's Mistakes in the Offering of Isaac." Why is not this "mistake" pointed out in the Epistle to the Hebrews (xi. 17—19), where we have an evident approval of the patriarch's action? Was James also under a mistake when he asked, "Was not Abraham our father justified by works when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar?"

The following editorial note appears in The Christian World, in reply to a correspondent who had apparently written concerning ourselves:—

> "'A. B.' is quite mistaken. We think very highly of our contemporary, THE CHRISTIAN. Dislike of its Theology does not prevent our recognising the ability with which it is conducted, and the Christian spirit it rarely fails to display in any matter of controversy. In this respect it is a model for us all. Its philanthropic work, moreover, is beyond all praise."

We appreciate and acknowledge the editor's courtesy, while fairness obliges us to return his compliment with interest, and to note the eminent ability with which The Christian World is carried on, and the good service which it renders on social and philanthropic questions. The dislike of our Theology, on the one hand, and the regret and apprehension with which we regard our contemporary's advocacy of "modern thought" on the other, necessitate no departure from personal respect and Christian kindness in the expression of our views. Indeed, in the conflict of opinion which is daily deepening and sharpening, we trust that this spirit will be increasingly cultivated and maintained.

In consequence of the illness of Rev. Morlais Jones, who was to have taken the post of Merchant's Lecturer during this month, Rev. J. Guinness Rogers is continuing through February his discussion of the theme he took up last month. In his last week's lecture the following suggestive passage occurs:—

> "It is supposed apparently by some that the Gospel is meant to be merely a channel of forgiveness, a message of peace, a proclamation of reconciliation with God. This is true in a sense. But it is intended to have an influence upon the heart and character. And we may be perfectly sure that the verdict of the world in relation to the Gospel will go very largely to the extent to which it proves its capacity to discharge this function. The holy life of a holy man does more to form the public opinion of society at any time in relation to the kingdom of Christ than the treatises of learned divines or the eloquence of the most gifted preacher. This is continually lost sight of. We must reproduce the character of Christ if we are to have a power in the world in inducing it to accept the Gospel."

It seems to us that if all the churches did their part as bravely and as persistently as Mr. Archibald Brown and his helpers of the East London Tabernacle, there would be little or no need for Mission-halls and free lances. What with the constant domiciliary visitations—20,460 visits by the missionaries last year—the granting of temporal relief in the shape of food and clothing, the Orphan Home and the Sea-side Home, not to speak of the regularly recurring spiritual work of the pastor and congregation, a never-ending stream of good work is flowing out, and proving the reality of the Church's faith. In a preceding page we have reproduced Mr. Brown's trenchant article on "Cruel Cheapness." We cannot reproduce the rest of his "Record of One Year's Service," but we counsel Christians to get it, read it, ponder its facts, and appropriate some of its many suggestions. Copies can be had at this office, 1d. each; cloth, with list of donors, 4d., postage 1d. extra.

Many English Christians were startled one day last week on reading of the telegraphic news of The Daily Telegraph that Rabbi Rabinowitch, of Kischeneff, had been assassinated. Inquiry was made from London by telegram as to the truth of the report, and a reply was received that M. Rabinowitch was quite well. We sincerely trust that this contradiction of the report will be confirmed. The following interesting paragraph also appeared last week in The Daily News:—

> "The Kischeneff local papers contain accounts of the opening service on Christmas Day (O.S.) of the newly-organised Jews of the New Testament in their own synagogue. The leader and organiser of the reformed movement, Josef Rabinowitch, delivered a long and earnest address to a large congregation of Jews and Lutherans; the latter crowding into the synagogue on the completion of the Christmas service in the neighbouring Evangelical church. The founder of the sect confined himself chiefly to a denial of the accepted Jewish belief in the future coming of the Messiah, who, he declared, had already appeared in the sacred person of Jesus Christ, and begged his hearers to reject the old belief. The pastor of the neighbouring Evangelical church, who had accompanied his congregation to the synagogue, addressed the mixed assemblage at some length in German, and bore testimony to his thorough belief in the sincerity and principles of the founder."

A remark was made last week by Commander Cameron in the course of a lecture on African Exploration, which it would be well if all European colonists and explorers would take to heart. Says the report:—

> "He enforced the duty of peaceful exploration, and urged that however anxious we might be to extend the sphere of our knowledge, we had no right to force our way into another man's country."

If this principle were honestly acted out we should probably never hear of nine-tenths of the quarrels that too often end in devastating wars and unjust annexations.

The evils of "cruel cheapness" in the labour market are manifesting themselves on the other side of the Atlantic as well as on this:—

> "A typical case reported in New York is that of three adults, who worked almost continuously for thirteen days, and received from the owners of the factory for whom they worked the sum of six dollars fifty-three cents (about 27s.) for the 291 shirts made by them during that period of time. In a neighbouring city little girls crochet zephyr hoods for twopence apiece, and with the utmost exertion can finish only two or three a day."

These, remarks the New York Observer, are starvation wages, and the fact that they are tolerated is a shame and a reproach to a Christian public.

Whatever authority Mr. Oscar Wilde may have as an art critic, from a professional standpoint, it seems to us that he spoke with much good sense the other evening when he described fashion as a form of ugliness so unbearable that we have to alter it every six months. "Egyptian dress lasted for two thousand years, and Greek dress nearly a thousand years, and wherever dress has been beautiful and rational it has lasted for a long time. The texture and colour may have altered, but the dress has remained the same. The amount of money spent on dress in England was something appalling. If he told them the amount spent on bonnets alone, one half of them would be filled with remorse and the other half with despair." Of all modern tyrannies, that of fashion in dress seems to be about the most tyrannical and indefensible.

The "evangelistic campaign," says The World, does not meet with unanimous approval at the West-end. The clergy of several important churches will hold entirely aloof.

At a recent licensing court in Dublin the City Recorder, in refusing a license, said the public-houses were manufactories of garotters; their prosperity represented the misery of the people. If all our licensing authorities in the past had taken this too truthful view of the case our country would have been in a very different case to-day.

The friends of Temperance in America are strong on "Prohibition." It is a definite word, clearer and more thorough than "Local Option." While there are to be found those who may seek to evade the law, it is on the whole working well. Considering the prevalence of drunkenness in our midst, not to speak of its increase in Germany and Switzerland, ought not the cry of the Christian patriot to be, "Prohibition everywhere in regard to the demon, drink"?

The two latest of the Present Day Tracts, published by the Religious Tract Society, are "The Hindu Religion: a Sketch and a Contrast," by Rev. J. Murray Mitchell, and "Modern Pessimism," by Rev. J. Radford Thomson. They are of immediate interest in view of the present current of modern religious or irreligious thought.

The youthful Prince Albert Victor opened a Boys' Club in Leman-street, Whitechapel, last Saturday, and acquitted himself well. If the boys who heard his pithy and pointed advice to do every right thing in the best possible fashion, and to do nothing they knew to be wrong, will but act it out, they will have good cause to remember their royal visitor and monitor.

We have received more than one communication expressing the desire that a day should be fixed for humiliation and prayer, with reference to the recent outrages in London, as well as the general position of national affairs. It is asserted that many in Ireland and Scotland, no less than in England, would readily unite in praise for past and present mercies, and in supplication for God's guidance and blessing. We fear governing classes in both Houses of Parliament are becoming more and more indisposed thus to recognise the hand of God, and to appoint such a day; but so much the more should all Christians unite in continuous prayer, though no opportunity should be afforded for a day of national humiliation.

The recent Episcopal appointments appear to have been made on the principle of pleasing the three great parties in the Establishment. Dr. Temple, of Exeter, who is elected to the See of London, would, we suppose, be claimed by the Broad Church party, though we believe he has not shown any extreme leanings in that direction since his elevation to the Episcopate. Canon King, of Christchurch, who becomes Bishop of Lincoln, in place of Bishop Wordsworth, who has retired from the post, is said to be a High Churchman. Evangelicals will certainly rejoice in the elevation of Dean Bickersteth (late of Hampstead) to the See of Exeter, about to be vacated by Dr. Temple. We pray that all three may be granted the wisdom and fidelity to truth that they sorely need in these perilous times.

NAPLES AFTER THE CHOLERA.

THE following letter, written by Mrs. Meuricoffre, a sister of Mrs. Josephine Butler, gives a vivid glimpse of the present condition of Naples, which has so recently been visited by cholera:—

I wish to tell you about a very interesting day I have spent with our good Methodist Minister, Mr. Jones. He felt that this calamity which overtook the city of his adoption was a direct call from God. He has responded very nobly to this call, and his family have seconded him as only those who work for the love of Christ can do. During all the cholera time they were ready night and day to go wherever they could bring help, without respect to whether the sufferers were members of their church or not.

There was one very touching instance of a woman who had attended the Methodist church, while her husband and children were still firm Romanists. She sent for Mr. Jones to administer the sacrament to her. When he arrived he found the room dressed with innumerable wax lights—as the custom is here for the dying—and crowded with friends and neighbours. The poor woman, who was sinking fast, turned to her friends, and said she wished to give her testimony that she died happy in the faith of Jesus as our one and only Saviour, by whom alone we come to God for acceptance. Mr. Jones explained to those present the different understanding we have of the Sacrament, and told them they might get into trouble by remaining, or might feel troubled in their own minds; but they chose to remain, and hastened to prepare with their own hands the little table with the fair linen cloth. Of their own accord they knelt down while the dying woman received, as Jesus commanded, the cup of the fruit of the vine which she was so soon to drink anew with Him in his Father's kingdom.

From this and many other signs of life in the midst of death, which God granted him, Mr. Jones was led to begin a City Mission which is to be a simple carrying of the good news of salvation without polemics, or any work of destruction. As he said to me, if he were one of these people, and one came to him and began by attacking the things he had been taught from childhood to hold dear, it would set up all his bristles like a porcupine; but let them once taste of the joy of belonging to the Saviour in the midst of their poverty and suffering, then all the rest would fall off like withered leaves. I felt this to be true.

We left the carriage at Bassoporto, as the streets after that were too narrow to allow it to pass, and Mr. Jones and I made our way through Purgatorio, Sedile del Porto, Orifici, Pendino, Bassa Mercati, Divino Amore, La Giudeca, or Jews' quarter, all historical names, which, with the aspect of the streets, seemed to transport one back into the middle ages; the massive arched entrances into the old Pallayyos, which could easily withstand a raid of Saracen pirate fleets, the funny little shops all along the ground floors, each street occupied by one trade as in the times of the ancient trades guilds. The Orifici consists of several streets with a pretty little square in the centre, entirely devoted to the manufacture of pearl jewels for the contadine, or peasant women.

The Bassa Mercati is a narrow street swarming with life, and continually traversed overhead by arches to prevent the houses from falling against each other. Here there are little dens of shops where they sell pieces of rich old silks and brocades, embroideries and lace, from altars and priests' garments. The shopkeepers are quite supine and indifferent. If you ask for some article, they shrug their shoulders and wave their hands, and expect you to rummage for it yourself. One is here on the threshold of the East and of dignified laziness. It would be a breach of manners to press you to buy. It is only the central street (the "Regent-street") of each quarter which contains these shops. The side and cross-streets are beyond description squalid and depressing; some were so narrow that two foot-passengers must go sideways to pass each other.

After going through them it seemed quite cheery to come out into the street leading to the Divino Amore, entirely occupied by the workshops of the makers of church ornaments in gold and silver and brightly-painted figures of saints, the gold and silver catching here and there the sun's rays between the high houses, and reflecting back a borrowed brilliance. The Sedile del Porto is a fine place, a long massive gateway suggesting familiar words, of the elders sitting in the gate (Sedile means a stone bench or seat); of Mordecai sitting in the gate, and overhearing the plot; and of poor old blind Eli, when the news reached him that Hophni and Phinehas were slain and the ark of the Lord taken.

I have dwelt on the local features of these quarters because the decree has gone forth to demolish these dens of picturesqueness and pestilence. In a few years they will be remembered only in name, and replaced by wide streets, up which the sea breezes can blow, and where we shall be blinded by the scorching, searching, wholesome sun. It was in the Pendino that during the worst days of cholera they could not bury the dead quickly enough, and they were piled at the corners of the streets. One day there were 1200 deaths, when the burial register only gave 500. It was here that the splendidly-made young marinari, boatmen and fishermen, gathered in from the Marinella, and walked the streets in religious procession all day, with naked feet, carrying heavy crosses of wood on their backs, and wearing crowns of thorns, the blood trickling down from temples and cheeks, The shops were shut, and the streets forsaken, except for some despairing woman, who would rush out, tearing her hair and weeping for children, uncomforted because they were not.

The first woman Mr. Jones took me to see lived up a narrow staircase of rough stone, worn into holes, sloping, and slippery with mud; half the width of each landing was occupied by the rubbish heap swept out of the rooms opening on either side, heaps which made one hold one's breath. On the fourth floor we turned into a room containing six beds. A little girl showed us with pride the clothes she wore, which were a gift from the Methodist Ladies' Sewing Society, directed by Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Guttridge; Mr. Guttridge giving the stuff at cost price. A little crowd of poor, ill-fed women gathered round, and listened to the good and comforting words of Mr. Jones, addressed especially to one in bed whom he came to see.

In visiting the next family, we entered by a cow byre, containing a brown and a white cow, evidently the important personages of the family; besides the cows there was a handsome young woman nursing a baby, and a curly-headed child leaning against her knee; a living counterpart of so many pictures in Italian galleries of the stable at Bethlehem. Thence we went up to a second floor where were five beds, occupied by four families. The object of our visit was a dear old German lady in reduced circumstances. She and her family, consisting of her son, his Neapolitan wife and seven children, rented the best corner of the room. It was touching to see the little remains of refinement. In the corner a tiny toilette-table and little cracked looking-glass draped with a frail old muslin curtain. The rest of the furniture was an old arm-chair, from which the dear old lady rose with the dignity and courtesy of a duchess, telling one of her grandchildren to place an old straw chair for me, on which I had to sit circumspectly, as I felt that all its joints were dislocated. While the children hung affectionately about Mr. Jones, I had a chat with the grandmamma in French, which she spoke with a beautiful accent. She had all the sweet ceremonious dignity of a "grande dame." I could not question her on the causes of her impoverishment, but it seemed her son was rather weak in intellect. He makes little bird-cages of wicker, which he sells for twopence each, and that is all they have to live on. The old lady's one luxury was a pet thrush in a cage; her dress was of cotton, washed out and patched. The grandson had not gone to school lately because he had neither jacket nor shoes. One of the other three families, a husband and wife, were making cigarettes. I thought if some of the young loungers on the Chiaja, who were so terrified of cholera, could see where their cigarettes were made!

Another family lived very high up; it was like going up a church tower. The last story overtopped the surrounding houses, and we looked over a tract of flat roofs cut by what seemed narrow black ditches—these were the streets.

In going from street to street, curiosity prompted me to prowl into some of the dreadful Fondacci, courtyards surrounded by very high houses, the only access being a long, low, dank little tunnel. These places are very dark and dirty, the smells overpowering, and the dwellers there look at one with a kind of savage, sullen resentment. I do not wonder; it must seem to them a very offensive curiosity in prosperous people to come and spy out the nakedness of the land. I felt inclined to beg their pardon, and curbed my exploring propensities.

The aspect of the courtyard of one very high house I looked at haunts my memory. It was the size of a moderate-sized room. Half of it was occupied by the well, with a parapet round it, into which dangled six or seven ragged, knotted black ropes from the different stories, each story having its rope and bucket. The other half was a pool of green, stagnant, ill-smelling liquid, which one would have to cross to reach the foot of the common stair which was built on arches open on one side, innumerable rooms opening on to it, and obtaining the only light they had from the staircase; and all the refuse thrown out of them falling into the well or the filthy pool which filled the rest of the court. It was almost like looking up the shaft of a mine to strain one's neck back to see the square patch of sky at the top.

A woman passed me to go up the stairs—a comely looking woman—with a face perfectly clean, though quite bloodless and hollow-eyed. She asked what I wanted. I said I was only looking at the house; but I knew there were tears in my eyes, for she gave such a sick, wistful smile as she looked all round, and realised the impression it made on me, and made a kind of hopeless wave of the hand and apologising movement of the eyebrows, as if not to fail to do the honours of the place, such as it was. Mr. Jones spoke some kind words about the love of God brightening the darkest place. She looked all round it again with her wan, hopeless smile, never speaking a word, and not looking much persuaded. I thought how loving Jesus was in beginning by relieving hunger and pain and deformity, and so winning the heart and converting the soul.

The last of Mr. Jones' friends we visited lived on a fifth floor in a little upper chamber with some broken panes of glass in the window. She was a beautiful old woman, with delicately-cut features, as white as marble on her pillow; her splendid dark eyes dim from cataract; she could only see us as moving shadows between her and the window. She had a broken leg, and lay on a mattress of vegetable hair, all worn into bumps and hollows. She also had seen better days, and spoke beautiful Tuscan Italian. She expressed herself with passionate eloquence as she reiterated her faith in Jesus as her only Saviour; the soul's life and fire seemed to assert its own separateness and superiority to the poor, enchained body, which lay like a beautiful carved image on a tomb. Mr. Jones prayed with her most comfortingly in his fluent Italian, she often repeating the words after him. When we took leave she wound her fine, slender hands round my neck, and drew my face down and kissed me repeatedly and lovingly. I hope those beautiful blind eyes will soon open on the light and glory of Him in whom her soul trusted. Mr. Jones brought me home, telling me that on this day he had taken me to the aristocracy of his poor, and promising me another day with him amongst the more miserable, which I hope soon to claim.

MESSRS. FULLERTON AND SMITH.

THESE friends have concluded a three weeks' Mission in Weston-super-Mare. It is impossible to describe the impression they have made upon the inhabitants. It was a sight never to be forgotten to see the Congregational, the Wesleyan, and the Wadham-street Baptist Chapels filled to overflowing with eager, anxious throngs. It was estimated that at the service for men last Sunday afternoon there could not have been less than 1000 working men in the Congregational Church, and not less than 700 women.

There were numbers of anxious inquirers, and many profess to have found Christ at these evangelistic services. Backsliders have been restored, and God's own people refreshed and strengthened. It is said by many that Weston has never been so moved as it has been now, by the visit of these evangelists. It will be a great joy to Mr. Spurgeon, especially in his present illness, to hear this good news of the work carried on by his evangelists. God is of a truth blessing them, and making them, through preaching and singing the Gospel, a blessing to hundreds.

A delightful feature of the Mission has been the perfect unanimity and love which have prevailed among the different churches—not one jarring note—each striving to forward in every way the glorious work of the evangelists, so that a united front was presented to the world.

VICTORIA INSTITUTE.—A meeting of the Institute took place on Monday week, when a paper on the "Historical Evidences of the Abramic Migration" was read by Mr. W. Boscawen, who gave extracts from the new translations of some tablets which had been discovered by Mr. Rassam during his last visit to the East. These extracts contained a large number of names of persons and cities mentioned in the Bible record of the times to which they referred.

A LONDON NIGHT SCHOOL.

IT may interest your readers to hear something of a London Night School, and the way in which it is carried on. I will ask them, therefore, to accompany me after business hours and see what the work is like.

After going through more frequented and respectable streets, we turn down a dark street with few vehicles passing, and a good many people about. The houses are mostly warehouses, and are shut. The people we meet are mostly of the Bill Sykes and Nancy type; there is, however, a sprinkling of clerks and business men returning home, though it is late for these, as it is now nearly eight.

We pass two or three streets which are in darkness except for the few gas lamps. They are streets the houses of which have been pulled down by the Metropolitan Board of Works, but which were formerly rookeries where shame and decency were unknown. I believe model dwellings are to be built here, but in the meantime the people must go and make bad worse in other rookeries; even when the new abodes are built they will not house nearly all those who have been turned out.

We will turn down this street which the Board has for the present spared. We are no longer in the dark. There is plenty of light from the flaring oil-lamps and gas-lights, to see the want and wretchedness around us, as we pick our way between the squalid shops and the stalls or barrows which line the edge of the pavement amongst the crowd of dirty women and children. The footway and road are strewn with cabbage leaves and stalks and all manner of filth and garbage, and in wet weather are thick with black mud in addition.

The women in the crowd through which we must pass are mostly engaged in turning over various things on the stalls, in response to the cry of, "Will you buy, buy, buy?" which comes from the owners. It is a queer mixture that is for sale—oysters, tin pots, second-hand furniture, vegetables, old clothes, and crockery; while, from the smell, or rather one of the many smells, you would think every shop in the street was a fried-fish shop.

We turn again here by huge blocks of clean-looking buildings, which are the improved model dwellings for the poor. In a quiet street, most of the houses in which are of this description, we find our school; we turn in, and go upstairs. We are a little late, and the room is about half full of working men of all descriptions sitting at desks, some writing in copy-books, while some are at a table in the middle of the room learning shorthand. This writing they continue from eight until a quarter to nine, when some of them do arithmetic, others learn to read. Some of the more advanced will sit round the table and read English History in turn, and ask questions on it, which are sometimes rather embarrassing. However, at present they are writing, so let us go round and look at and talk to them.

Here is a man whose face I don't know—we shake hands and ask how he is. He tells us, and explains that it is his first night; he says he fears his writing is very bad—he has not done any since he was at school. However, we say we are very glad to see him, and hope we shall do so again; to which he answers he would come every night if he could. We wonder if he would, and think of the old saying about "new brooms."

There is an old friend over there beckoning to us to go and see him. He is a fair-haired man, with bright twinkling blue eyes, and better dressed than many of the others. He is a joiner by trade, and is what would commonly be called a superior man in his position in life. He has been to America, and has imbibed all sorts of socialistic views; as he is a great talker, he is very fond of airing them and extolling the superiority of American life and institutions over English. He at once attacks us to know the meaning of some word he has come across in his reading; it is probably a very simple thing, but he has got hold of the wrong end of the stick. However, he sees it as soon as explained.

Here is another man who works in a cardboard manufactory. He is a paster, and works in a room in a temperature of frequently over 100°. We ask after his wife and family, who it seems are well.

Here is a printer who is all dirty with ink, and when he is not writing is arguing with the man next to him, who is also a printer, on the merits of their respective machines.

The next man we come to is a hard-headed, shrewd man, with a great aptitude for figures, and who has picked up short ways of doing almost any kind of sum, but who cannot explain how he does them. If I cannot do a sum for one of the others I refer them to him.

However, we might go on for any length of time describing an almost infinite variety of character.

Some cannot read or write at all. I have known some come in who had never had a pen in their hands before, or who could not read a word. As a rule, these are the older men, who have not had the advantages of the School Board. They are very difficult to teach. Their fingers are stiff and clumsy, and won't hold the pen rightly, and in reading they are as bad, as they seem to have no idea of the sound of words. As it is now nearly ten o'clock we will break up the school, which is done by reading a chapter from the Bible. We then go our several ways. We are tired, perhaps, but the way the men shake hands and say "Good-night" more than compensates us for this.

The grandest part of it all is that the men pay something towards it themselves. Very few would come, I believe, if it was not so, as there is a dislike to anything approaching charity amongst the working men, that those who have not been among them would hardly believe. At the particular school of which I am speaking, they pay a penny a month for schooling, which goes towards expenses, and twopence for each copybook. There is a library in connection with the school, to which only those who have attended for a certain time can belong, and towards which they pay one penny each month. They constantly add to the library by presenting books to it themselves. They can take books out to read at home, and can keep them two weeks if they like. They manage the school themselves at a meeting held once a month, at which they elect new members to the sick benefit society, and make their own rules for the management of the school. They accept or refuse books presented to the library; fix when they will have their annual tea or excursion, and decide upon any question which may arise with regard to the school.

The men also meet from 8 to 10 o'clock on Sunday morning for reading and writing and to study the Bible together. They have a president elected for each class, but take by far the greater share in the proceedings themselves, taking turns to introduce the lesson. This Sunday morning school is seven or eight times as large as the one on the week night; and the lively interest the men who attend take in it shows that it is appreciated by them. They appoint visitors from among themselves to call on those members who are absent two Sundays in succession, besides visiting those who are ill or in trouble.

The success and blessing that have attended this school, which during the past year has about doubled itself and now numbers nearly 200, lead us to believe that those who wish to help the working classes in our large towns would find the above means a most successful one. There are similar schools on a smaller scale in Birmingham, Sheffield, Hull, and other places, which have been working for years. The motto adopted by the school is, "Let brotherly love continue," and to this, together with the earnest Christian spirit that exists among the working members, is largely due, under God's blessing, the success of the school. All who come are shown that they are welcome, and the hearty hand-shakes you receive from the members are enough to make you at once feel at home among them.

A Worker.

THE MORNING STAR.

TRAVELLER to the realms of glory,
  Leave earth's flickering lights afar,
Tread the narrow way before thee,
  Yonder beams the Morning Star!

Lo! He moves o'er Jacob's dwellings,
  With a radiancy sublime,
Stretching forth his golden sceptre,
  Soon to touch the hills of time.

See, alone from out the darkness,
  Forward rolls his chariot bright;
Whilst behind his folded curtains,
  Gather all the sons of light.

Ah! methinks that yonder mountains
  Were too bleak, and stern, and cold,
For the Son, the First-begotten,
  There to rear his Father's fold.

Weep no longer clouds of morning,
  Thinner grows the curtained night;
See, the Royal Priest is standing
  At the threshold of the light.

Jacob's sons shall find the chamber,
  Whence their brother ruled from far;
Gentile hosts would wait no longer:
  Crown, O crown, the Morning Star!

Ah! my soul, wouldst thou be yonder,
  Shall these cloudy billows stay
Thine approach, when such a loadstar
  Casts his beams upon the way?

No! for thou hast heard thy Father
  Calling down from heaven afar,
"See, my child, I hold thy treasure;
  Thou shalt have the Morning Star."

Hy. Joy Browne.

◆

MR. MOODY IN VIRGINIA.

A DESPATCH to a Philadelphia paper, dated January 13, says with respect to the meetings held by Mr. Moody and his helpers in Richmond, Va.:—

If there were any doubt as to the probable success of the meetings they have now entirely melted away. From the first they were overcrowded. Mr. Moody's popularity and prestige had given him a standing, which brought all classes together to listen to his preaching. On January 8, he was joined by Mr. G. C. Needham, who took charge of all the overflow-meetings, and who is so well and favourably known in Richmond. Nine years ago Mr. Needham held protracted services in Richmond, and the Irish preacher has ever since had a warm place in the hearts of the people.

On Sunday the evangelists preached to nearly 13,000 people, Mr. Moody preaching in the Armory Hall three times, while Mr. Needham filled the pulpits of the largest churches in the city. They held seven services in all, besides inquiry meetings, &c. Thousands could not find accommodation. At the urgent request of leading pastors, Mr. Needham has decided to continue the work for a week or two longer. The evangelists are well pleased with their reception in the sunny South. Delegations from various cities more southern are seeking to induce them to hold Gospel services among their people, but Mr. Moody has engagements North and West which will prevent him from extending his efforts in the Southern States at present.

THE LONDON AGED CHRISTIAN SOCIETY for nearly sixty years has granted pensions of ten shillings per month to many needy Christian people sixty years of age and upwards. The offices of the Society are at 32, Sackville-street, Piccadilly.

CASTLECOMER, IRELAND.—Our good brother, Rev. W. D. Austin, says in a communication that appears to have been delayed: "We have enjoyed our week of united prayer here in this remote part of the British Isles. Every night we had from sixty to one hundred people gathered together, in and to the name of Jesus. Many have been comforted and built up in their most holy faith, and we have felt the presence and power of the Holy Spirit amongst us."

THE BETHESDA MISSION, SOUTHSEA.

IN our issue of October 30, 1884, it was regretted that Commander Key would be obliged to leave Southsea, and with it his much blessed work as Hon. Superintendent of the Bethesda Mission. It was hoped that some friend of independent means would come forward to undertake the work. This has not been the case, nor has Commander Key obtained the appointment he expected. The severe agricultural depression has so depreciated the value of his property that he is no longer able to give his time and services freely as heretofore.

A letter has therefore been sent to us, influentially and representatively signed, showing the necessity, in the interest of a very valuable and flourishing work, for the guarantee for a few years of £200 a year, in order to enable Commander Key to continue his services. They say, with much ground, that there are grave reasons why the retirement of Commander Key would be followed by disastrous consequences; and that a work which has grown up gradually under the hands of one man, could with great difficulty be transferred to other leadership. Friends desirous of aiding in this important work are invited to communicate with Rev. F. Baldey, vicar of St. Saviour's, Southsea; Captain George Cubitt, Fergus House, Waverley-grove, Southsea; Colonel H. B. Urmston, 38, South Parade; or Rev. J. C. Martin, minister of Circus Chapel, Landport.

◆

DEEP-SEA FISHERMEN.

DEAR SIR,—Will you kindly insert the following extract from the report of Captain D. H. Budd, touching the loss of two hands from the Mission Smack Edward Auriol? Some of your readers may recollect inspecting this vessel when she was in the Thames.—Yours faithfully,

E. J. Mather, Sec. Thames Church Mission.
31, New Bridge-street, E.C.

EXTRACT.

It is with deep sorrow I write to inform you of the loss of Frederick Moore and Joseph Pugh. On Monday morning, when in the Hull (Red Cross) fleet, they had put 28 packages in the boat, and were towing to the steamer astern of the Edward Auriol. All at once the boat's crew cried, "Skipper, haul us up! The boat was hauled alongside, though her stern was sunk; but at the moment when they would have been taken on board poor Pugh let go the painter which he was holding, and the boat immediately capsized and dropped astern. Four or five other boats instantly rowed to the spot, but only one hand—Barry—was rescued; the other two sank and were drowned. It appears they had shifted some of the packages too much to one side of the boat so that her stern went under the water and filled.

Moore I mourn as a brother, and all who knew him could but like him. He was an earnest Christian, whose inner life made itself manifest in his outward walk and conduct. From the time he first shipped with me in the Ensign until the day of his death he never had an angry word with anyone.

Pugh I did not know so well, but he has sailed in the Edward Auriol from the first. He was ungodly when he joined the vessel; but for several months (from the time of the Rev. Mr. Baker's trip with them last summer) he has known the love of God aad realised his acceptance in Christ as his Saviour. It was remarked by the crew that in a very earness prayer on the day preceding his death he thanked God for forgiving all his sins and washing his heart in the precious blood of Jesus.

GEORGE-YARD, WHITECHAPEL.—On Friday last, the members of Miss Brown's Friday Bible-class, numbering over a hundred of poor men, gathered together at the invitation of a few of the members of the Y.M.C.A. (Gracechurch-street Branch), who regularly help in the work at George-yard. After a substantial tea, and each having received some useful gifts from lady friends, the guests adjourned to the Mission Hall, where many men were already assembled. Short Gospel addresses were delivered by young men, followed by some thrilling testimony from over a dozen men, who testified to blessing received through the instrumentality of Mr. George Holland, of Miss Brown, and other fellow-workers. Friends are invited to visit the Bible-class referred to, which is held each Friday, between 8 and 10 p.m.

OBITUARY.

MR. KEMP-WELCH.

THE death is announced, in his 75th year, of Mr. John Kemp-Welch, who for many years rendered valuable service as treasurer of the London Missionary Society and the Orphan Working School. Last week, while staying in Bournemouth, he relapsed into unconsciousness, and after continuing in that state for two days, died on Saturday, January 24. The deceased had been for many years a member of the church in Grafton-square, Clapham. Among the mourners in attendance at the last rites were deputations from various Congregational Societies.

◆

YOUNG WOMEN IN THE WEST-END.

THE members and friends of the Young Women's Christian Association Central Institute held their annual meeting on Saturday last, at the Princes Hall, Piccadilly. Most hearty was the response on the part of the young women to the invitation to tea, several hundreds being assembled. A detachment of young men, mostly from the establishment of Messrs. Marshall and Snelgrove, rendered willing service at the tables. The programme included a selection of music, both vocal and instrumental.

Ample justice having been done to the tea and coffee, Mr. George Williams, the chairman for the evening, appeared on the scene, and the meeting commenced. Dr. Gilbart Smith, who represented the secretary, Miss Ely, interspersed humorous remarks with the reading of the report, and claimed for the Y.W.C.A. that it exactly met the need of the young women of London. Close on 300 members were added to the association last year, and nearly fifty had already joined this year. The institution had prospered in every way, and was still aiming to provide all that is needful for the spiritual and moral well-being of its members. Among its agencies there were a penny bank, benefit society, total abstinence society, social evenings, Bible-classes, prayer-meetings, Sunday services, and a Dorcas working party.

Nothing could have been better than the two addresses that followed, by Rev. Marmaduke Washington and Mr. Spencer Walton. The words, "Wilt thou go with this man?" and "Orpar kissed her mother-in-law, but Ruth clave unto her," suggested teaching, counsel, and appeal. An instance of too late repentance joined with terrible remorse, related by Mr. Walton, produced a deep impression on the meeting. "Look at me, sir," exclaimed the dying girl, as she raised her wasted arm, "I am dying as I have lived, without God and without hope!" The young women were warned against forming close friendship with unbelieving young men, and cases were narrated of good that had followed the courageous decision of young women to discontinue such friendship.

The meeting was bright throughout, and could not but be salutary in its influence; the Y.W.C.A. have every reason to thank God and take courage.

Y.M.C.A., BOURNEMOUTH.—Last week the anniversary meeting of the Y.M.C.A. was held in the Town-hall. Earl Cairns, who takes a deep interest in the Association, was prevented from presiding by the effects of his recent severe attack of bronchitis. The Earl of Lichfield was also debarred by other engagements. Two powerful addresses were given by Rev. Pelham Stokes and Canon Wilberforce. A large hall is to be built, in a part of which accommodation is to be provided for the Y.M.C.A.

MR. HENRY LAKIN IN GLASGOW.—During the past month Henry Lakin, of Burton, has had a Mission at Garscube Hall, Glasgow. The hall is situated in the midst of one of the most degraded parts of the city, in which drunkenness and all manner of iniquity abound. From the first the audiences were good, and towards the end the hall was frequently too small to contain the crowds who flocked to hear the message of life. Many of the most outcast were hopefully converted. A tea-meeting on Friday last brought the services to a close, the audience overflowing the hall. We would ask Christians who have been praying for us to unite in praising God for the great things He hath wrought. D. J. F.

Requests for Praise and Prayer.

PRAISE.—For answer to prayer, and blessing received by a young man, who had rebelled against his parents.——For answered prayer in regard to meetings held in Edinburgh last month by Mr. John M. Scroggie.——For deliverance from the slavery of besetting sins.——For an outpouring of the Spirit at Mr. Banasters' meetings at Ipswich, amongst the children.

PRAYER.—For an abundant blessing on the preaching of the Gospel in connection with the general Mission in South and West London.——That a brother at sea may be led to give his heart to God.——For a father now on a long and perilous journey, and for the family he leaves behind.——For much blessing upon the villages of Cambs.——For guidance to a family in great perplexity.——For a blessing to attend Gospel services at South Cerney Feb. 7—9; and at Randwick, near Stroud, Feb. 14—18.

◆

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

The Cologne Gazette says that 10,000 persons die of delirium tremens every year in Germany.

Boston (U.S.) merchants have recently exported hundreds of thousands of gallons of rum to West Africa.

Some American papers uttered a strong protest against the custom of offering wine to all callers on New Year's Day as utterly demoralising.

The New York Tribune states that one in twenty of the inhabitants of the United States are rendered dle and incapacitated for work through the liquor traffic.

The Canadian "Scott Act," which places the licensing in the hands of the electors, has been carried, and is in force in thirty-nine counties and two cities.

Twenty-one murders on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day in Kentucky were recorded; every one of these, save one, was committed by an intoxicated person.

No man but a total abstainer is allowed, under the laws of Michigan, to be employed as engineer, train-despatcher, fireman, brakeman, or other railroad servant.

Dr. Cuyler contrasts the apathy shown by Christians generally with regard to the evils produced by drink, and the zeal shown about less important matters.

Mr. W. Forbes has closed an eight days' Gospel Temperance Mission at Melton Mowbray. Many new pledges were taken, and hundreds put on the blue ribbon.

Truth refers to a case at Rugby where several public-houses were allowed to keep open beyond legal hours on a special occasion, but the like liberty was denied to a coffee tavern!

Sir E. Watkins, at a recent railway meeting, remarked on the increased civility and sobriety of third-class passengers; he attributed the change largely to the Salvation and Blue Ribbon Armies.

A Teetotal Vestry dinner was lately held at the London Central Club, when some sixty accepted the invitation of Mr. J. H. Lile, who is a member of the Lambeth Vestry. A good example which we trust will be widely followed.

A TEA TO THE BLIND POOR.—The twenty-second annual tea given to the blind poor of London by the Christian Blind Relief Society was held last week in the large schoolroom of the East London Tabernacle, Burdett-road. The guests consisted of over 500 blind men and women drawn from all parts of London, with their guides, making together a party of from a 900 to 1000 persons. Each afflicted guest on his or her departure was presented with a shilling and a bag of biscuits, the coin in question no doubt proving extremely useful to those who had come long distances.

BIBLE-CLASS UNION.—The annual meeting of this Union, composed of classes in London business houses, was held on Saturday week at the Stafford Rooms, Edgeware-road. The Report, read by Mr. Frank Ramsey, stated that many young men and women had been led to Christ during the year, while a great blessing had been granted to Christians. The number of business houses in which classes are held is nineteen. Representatives from these were present, and gave interesting details of the work in each house. The houses represented included the largest drapery establishments in London, in all which it was evident that godly men are found. From these Bible-classes go forth other agencies, evangelistic and others.

EVANGELICAL EDUCATION IN ITALY.

MANY ladies of high culture in Italy are now warring with the convent system, and ask for an evangelical system of higher female education to take its place.

Dr. William Clark, formerly President of the American Mission Theological Seminary in Constantinople, is now in London, seeking to interest ladies and teachers in establishing in Florence such a College for young Italian women. This endeavour has the warm support of Mrs. Garfield, widow of the late President of the United States, and many other influential people in America. The Hon. Arthur Kinnaird, Mr. George Williams, Rev. Newman Hall, Rev. R. S. Ashton, Secretary of the Evangelical Continental Society, and others in London, have also assured Dr. Clark of their personal interest in it.

A lady in America writes:—"It is a rare opportunity, presented to benevolent and Christian men and women of England and America, for doing a most noble work for Italian young ladies of the higher classes, to bring a high culture with a high moral and ennobling religious influence among those young women who have the destiny of Italy in their hands."

Another says:—"If the ladies of England and America can be instrumental in establishing such an institution or such schools, which shall be as entering wedges to elevate the moral structure of Europe and inaugurate new systems of education for her young girls, they will have aided in one of the many directions in which true missionary work is being done by Christian women all over the world."

Dr. Clark will be happy to explain his plans at any drawing-room meetings which he may be invited to address on the subject. He may be communicated with at the American Exchange, 449, Strand, or at this Office.

THE CRY OF THE POOR.

ONLY those who come to inquire closely into the facts can form any true idea of the widespread and painful character of the present distress among the unemployed. The London Samaritan Society are endeavouring to meet the need in various practical ways. Careful inquiry is, in all cases, made before help is given. Let us take a few cases from the visitor's report coming first to hand:—

B——, a bootlaster, has only earned five shillings since the week before Christmas; he has five children to support. T——, a bootmaker, has been out of work three months; has six children. R——, a cabinet maker, has been idle many weeks; has seven children. G——, a boot finisher, earned 2s. 9d. last week, first earnings for five weeks; has five children. Mrs. D——, a widow, matchbox maker, earns about 3s. 6d. per week; has three children to keep. M——, a widower, bootmaker by trade, earning during the past two months from three to four shillings per week; has three little girls to support. S——, a coal porter, but in weak health, has earned very little lately; has five children to keep.

These cases are typical of a very numerous class, and it is evident that children as well as parents must suffer sorely from pinching hunger and lack of clothing. One is glad to find in view of such things that the Society is giving free breakfasts, soup, and cocoa suppers; that it is providing free dinners for very many children who otherwise must simply starve; and that it is also supplying boots and clothing to really destitute children. From all parts of the Metropolis, from clergymen, ministers, missionaries, teachers, and visitors, come applications on behalf of the poor. For instance, one lady worker, well-known for her labours among the poor, writes: "Do give us cocoa suppers—the people are starving. The police come to us with the most wretched cases of starvation, hoping we may be able to feed them: do help us!" Another writes: "The poverty and distress in this neighbourhood is very great. I know many families who are literally starving, the children being frequently sent to school without bit or drop."

The deplorable extent of distress thus revealed and the daily appeals that reach him lead the director, Mr. J. J. Jones, to ask earnestly for more liberal help. Surely these facts only need to be known to ensure a willing response. Money help and gifts of clothing should be sent to Mr. H. H. Board, Secretary, London Samaritan Society, 59, Ludgate-hill, London, E.C.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Wootton, Oxon.—Mr. John Harris has concluded another three weeks' Mission here. The meetings have been well attended, and it is believed that not a few have been led to trust in Christ.

Rev. T. Waugh has just conducted a most successful twelve days' Mission in the Darlington-street Chapel, Wolverhampton. The names of 610 adults were taken in the inquiry-rooms.

Captain Dawson is doing a good work at Bournemouth. He holds an evangelistic service every Sunday afternoon in the Town-hall, which is crowded. Out of an audience of 600 to 700 recently, about seventy rose to express their desire for prayer that they might be saved.

Hunslet, Leeds.—A most successful Mission, conducted by Mr. W. J. Taylor, has been held in the United Methodist Free Church; much good has been effected. It is expected that the numerical condition of the Church will be strengthened by an addition of nearly seventy members, a great number of these having been gathered from a class who are seldom seen in churches and chapels.

The Church Army.—A new hall at Battersea, erected for carrying on Church Army work, was opened last week. The hall was crowded to the doors, and a large number of clergymen and laymen addressed the meeting. An earnest Mission spirit seemed to pervade the local workers. Missions of three months in connection with the Church Army are begun at Greenwich, Belfast and Salford; others will shortly take place at Paddington, Penzance, and other places.

Mr. Turnbull, the blind evangelist of Edinburgh, has been engaged at Bath-lane Church, Newcastle, for the last fortnight. A time of great spiritual refreshing has been felt; very many of the Sunday scholars have taken a decided stand, and are greatly rejoicing the hearts of their teachers. The meetings were continued for another week. Bath-lane Church, with its many organisations, has been the outcome of an evangelistic visit many years ago by Dr. Ratherford, now the pastor of the Church.

Vale of Leven.—The good work carried on by our Evangelistic Association continues to spread in a remarkable way. Seldom is there a meeting without conversions, while those who have got blessing willingly enter the ranks and serve in some section of our standing army. Lately we held a series of meetings for "the deepening of spiritual life," and these have been the means of great blessing. The meetings were brought to a close on Saturday by a conference of a most instructive and delightful character. J. Collins.

Free Manse, Bonhill, N.B.

Cork.—A week's evangelistic services have been held in the South Mall Hall, Cork, conducted by Mr. Thomas Houston, known as "The Blind Evangelist." He had visited the city about two years previously, when much blessing resulted from his labours. On this occasion the hall was crowded night after night, and the hearers seemed greatly impressed by the simple, earnest words of the speaker, many testifying in the after-meetings of their resolve to accept the Lord Jesus as their Saviour. Altogether, it has been a week of much blessing to Cork. B. H.

A most successful Mission, lasting fifteen months, has been carried on at Wilton-gardens Chapel, Masbro', in connection with the Congregationalists of that town, by Mrs. Horton and Miss Parker, evangelists. Over 2000 men and women have professed faith in Jesus. Many were forge men, and noted for their low, gambling, drinking habits. On Monday, January 26, a farewell meeting was held, when Mr. Stute, on behalf of the men and women (in whose salvation the ladies had been instrumental), presented Mrs. Horton and Miss Parker with a purse containing several pounds. Several friends testified of the great work which had been done during the past few months. Many regrets were expressed at the departure of the ladies, and many prayers offered for blessings to attend their various evangelistic services in the large manufacturing towns of Yorkshire.

Brooklyn, U.S.—A week's revival services have been held in the Tompkins-avenue Congregational Church. The pastor, Rev. George Pentecost, conducted the opening services, and his brother officiated on the following night. It is hoped, says the New York Evangelist, that the result will be a great spiritual awakening. The Sunday evening attendance was very large, and the pastor spoke in that earnest, yet easy manner that makes his preaching so popular.

Possilpark, Glasgow.—In connection with the services conducted at Possilpark by Messrs. Smith and M'Nab, there has been a remarkable work of grace among the inhabitants of that populous district. Not fewer than from twenty to thirty have each night found the Saviour. Those who have been hitherto terrors to the community appear quite transformed. Never has the desire for the tidings of the Gospel been so conspicuously manifested in the district before.—Christian Leader.

Stratford Conference Hall.—A correspondent reports favourably of the week's evangelistic services at the new Conference Hall. The Gospel of the Grace of God was fully and faithfully set forth, and the various church and chapel ministers served in the work, giving two fifteen minutes' addresses each night. The closing services of the series on Sunday, conducted by Mr. J. G. Watson, were truly impressive. The audiences have been large each diet of service, and the work of ingathering has been most encouraging. A fortnight's special Gospel meetings, conducted by Mr. William Taylor, of the Evangelistic Society, begin next Sunday; and prayer is desired that saving blessings may abound.

LONGNOR, BUXTON.—Rev. C. Strong, of Longnor Vicarage, writes:—"I have been much grieved to see the intemperance that prevails around me. We have only a population of 500 in the village, and yet six large public-houses are well supported, causing a vast amount of poverty, with ruin of body and soul to many. I have taken a house in order to start a coffee tavern and reading-room, in the hope that I may be able to benefit the people. I appeal to the friends of Temperance to help me."

BAND OF HOPE UNION.—The annual soirée of the United Kingdom Band of Hope Union took place last week at the Memorial Hall, Farringdon-street. Mr. Samuel Morley, M.P., presided, and the hall was crowded. The Chairman said he knew the misery and wretchedness which resulted throughout England from the prevalence of drinking habits, and anything which by God's help might tend to call public attention to the unmixed evil connected with drink must be a benefit to the country. He felt, both as a patriot and as a Christian, thankful that the number of those who were committing themselves to thorough abstinence was rapidly increasing. Subsequently Mr. J. H. Raper gave an address to the young, and prizes were presented.

STARVING CHILDREN IN CLERKENWELL.—Our School Board Inspector and Medical Officer of Health both report that "40 per cent. of the children of this parish are sent to school without breakfast or dinner." Here we are surrounded on all sides with cases of genuine distress, so that we are fairly bewildered, and scarcely know what to do. An old friend, Rev. C. Skrine, of Wimbledon, has collected and forwarded £10; with this sum in hand we shall enter into February, providing 600 meals per week for poor little children. Will not others who read this follow his example? Contributions may be sent to me at 17, Claremont-square, Pentonville, London, N. Any article of food or clothing will be thankfully received.

William Catlin.

SHOREDITCH IRON ROOM.—The Mission work referred to in the report before us has been carried on now for nearly a quarter of a century. Shoreditch, Bethnal Green, and Spitalfields are the three points of which cognizance is taken. Here a seething multitude of human beings numbering about a quarter of a million are found, nearly all of whom are sunk in poverty, and many, alas! sunk also in crime and sin. In the very midst of these centres the Gospel is regularly preached. "Sunday after Sunday," says Mr. Knowles, "we take our stand at an angle, and declare to the strange and motley crowd who visit the Bird Fair the unsearchable riches of Christ." As the result, many have been completely changed, and now preach to their old companions. Through the Mothers' Meeting many poor women and children are decently clothed who would otherwise be in rags. Those who are disposed to help on this good work may communicate with Mr. J. Knowles, 21, Benthal-road, Stoke Newington, N.

Letters to the Editor.

TEETOTALERS AND TOBACCO.

Sir,—Your remarks on this subject in a recent number express my views exactly. It is much more easy to inculcate upon others the duty of self-denial than to practise it ourselves.

The prevalence among teetotalers of the habit of smoking is sufficiently common to suggest a fear that, whatever else is implied in their abstinence from alcohol, in many cases there is not involved in it very much of the genuine virtue of "crucifying the flesh." We have in the world too much "compounding for sins we are inclined to."

Some time ago there was published and scattered broadcast a diagram showing the relative expenditure of the United Kingdom. On one side, towering to an Alpine attitude, stands the expenditure on strong drink, £136,000,000 sterling. At the other extreme is shown the amount expended on Missions to the heathen, £1,050,000 sterling. Between these are columns of various elevation, indicating the expenditure on bread, coals, cotton goods, and other merchandise. But we look in vain for a column representing the £16,000,000 sterling spent every year on tobacco—on smoke. Is the inconsistency upon which you have laid your finger the cause of this omission? S.

REFORM OF THE PRAYER-MEETING.

Sir,—Three years ago some papers were inserted in The Christian on this subject. It was a little time before the United Prayer-meetings, and it was suggested as the remarks had considerable reference to "the mode," that "the matter" was of such pre-eminent importance that persons' minds had better then be left undisturbed.

Three years' further experience and thought confirm my belief that matter and mode are very much wrapped up together, and that the combination affects the result very greatly; and I, therefore, now ask your permission to let me refer to one topic which I incline to think exists in the minds of thousands of persons.

The original idea, some twenty years agoI think, was to have meetings for united prayer all over the world at the beginning of a new year; and this has been, and is still being accomplished. But to the prayer-meeting, embracing as it does abundance of subjects for prayer, has become annexed the practice of giving, shall I say rather lengthy, or at once say lengthy addresses? These have so increased, in some places in number, and in some in length, that "the address" to man has encroached upon the prayer to God—at least such has been my experience. A correspondent writes me of one recent meeting: "Only Mr. A. B. spoke, and he occupied forty minutes altogether. There was only one prayer besides." This is perhaps an extreme case. Still I can personally bear witness that I have attended a meeting where the chairman occupied thirty minutes in various ways, and there were two addresses besides. And all in an hour, including the prayers. Perhaps another extreme instance. But proof by an individual is unnecessary. That a disproportionate amount of time is given to addresses is a truth abundantly experienced, and the pages of religious periodicals confirm the statement.

Some of the addresses are no doubt appropriate and in themselves profitable. But the question is, if the point admits of question, do they encroach upon the time which at the beginning of a new year and with numerous suggested topics of vast importance, might better have been spent in prayer?

There is another thought which may be to edification, and which I should like to express, and one which may be considered of weight in regard to the practice under review. Is there not a great difference in the state of mind which is engendered through listening to a few appropriate Scriptures intermingled with a few warm-hearted, even to the conscience, incisive remarks, and listening to a discourse? Does not the former stimulate prayerfulness? May not, does not, the latter use up the freshness of our mind, and deviate it into a different attitude? We need undistractedness and calmness of spirit for communion for ourselves; and for intercession, which requires an expansive meditativeness that can quietly embrace and feel for the sufferings, necessities, and condition of the universal flock of God, and of mankind at large, and view them in connection with the glory of God, his purposes of grace, his promises, and his kingdom. Then prayer will flow forth, prayerfulness of spirit will be nurtured, and other opportunities exist for giving or listening to instruction.

Perhaps another year (if, D.V., we meet) the above may be remembered. J. S.

THE TRAINING OF OUR GIRLS.

Sir,—The paper by Miss Hopkins in The Christian upon "Industrial Training for Girls," encourages me to say a few words upon the same subject. The formation of such cookery classes will, no doubt, go far to solve the problem of how to meet the crying need for the better training of our little women. But women need raising and refining in more ways than in this matter of the art of cookery. Methinks "English Hodge" would find it equally difficult to be "spiritually-minded," and a "come-out Christian," on "sparkling salad, tasty omelette, and savoury mess," if served up on a table covered with a dirty, ragged tablecloth, smeary knives, finger-marked plates, &c., placed on the table without any regard to order; perhaps made less inviting by unlimited tongue sauce.

Yes, with all my heart I echo the words, "Let us set vigorously to work to bring about a better state of things," but do not let us stop short at the education of "that central organ of our common humanity," but let our girls be trained to take more pride in household duties as a whole; let us aim at a coming generation of women not shrinking from the curse pronounced in Eden, but rather turning it into a blessing, a generation of good wives, good mothers, good women. For some time I have been working up a plan with this object in view; who will join me? A united effort will effect more than a number of disjointed efforts. Friends, funds, and little girls to train into a demonstration class is needed. M. E. Headdon.

The Villa, Bullo, Newnham-on-Severn.

WHO IS MY NEIGHBOUR?

Sir,—I had the pleasure of reading, some little time ago, Lady Hope's interesting and useful book, "Estella; or, Who is My Neighbour?" and it has suggested to me the following remarks:—

Are poor cabman, drunkards, and the destitute of the East-end our only neighbours? Is there not between them and the social position occupied by the Wrayburns and the Carlingfords, a class of people which has the same right to our sympathy? They may be our next-door neighbours; we meet them at church or chapel, we pass them in the street, and yet they get nothing from us but indifferent, cold, nay, proud looks. They are, perhaps, our equals by education, even by birth, poor connections, companions of earlier days; they are, at least, our brothers, our sisters, in the household of faith.

What is their fault? They have not got on in life; they do not keep pace with the fashions of the day; they have to toil for their living because their heavenly Father has given them but a scanty share of this world's goods. If they asked for money many purses would be opened to them, but it is only a warm grasp of the hand they want, a kind call, some friendly intercourse, and Christian fellowship. Wounded in their feelings, lonely and forgotten, their hearts get bitter in them, and maybe they drift out into the dark, away from heaven's sunshine, murmuring against the Father because of his children.

There is a great deal of profession around us, of holiness talk, meeting-going, and philanthropic enterprises. But does the religion of the Bible consist only in alms-giving, teaching, and Gospel preaching? "Be pitiful, be courteous, love as brethren" (1 Peter iii. 8; 1 Cor. xiii. 3; John xiii. 34; 1 John iii. 1—8).

How many Christians there are, even among those who take a leading part in the Lord's work, who neglect those simple commands of his, who are still under the power of caste feeling and social pride, wilfully or unconsciously refusing to answer this question, "Who is my neighbour?" turning the cold shoulder to their less favoured brethren. These must be kept at a distance, in their proper position; they must not be allowed to presume; and this is love, brotherly love! And this is the way Christians act, Christians who profess to follow the meek and lowly Jesus.

"My brethren, hold not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of Glory, with respect of persons. If ye fulfil the royal law . . . . thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself, ye do well; but if ye have respect of persons, ye commit sin" (James ii. 1, 8, 9; 1 John ii. 16). The pride of life is not of the Father (Ps. ci. 5).

It would be well if we gave a few minutes of prayerful consideration to such precepts when kneeling alone in our closet. What if we are slighting and neglecting our Lord Himself in the person of these humbler disciples of his? What if in them we are ashamed of Him? "Inasmuch as ye have done (or not done) it to one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done (or not done) it unto Me" (Mat. xxv. 40—46).

A Reader of "The Christian."

PRECEPT AND EXAMPLE.

Sir,—I enjoyed very much the article entitled "Chestnut Christians" in a late number of The Christian. How true it is that some of Christ's most earnest servants repel instead of attract!

One remarkably inconsistent thing I have noticed is, that very often those good people who exhort their fellow-Christians to be joyful in the Lord are those who seem to add an eleventh commandment, "Do not smile," or to read in their Bibles, "Be stern in the Lord." At a prayer-meeting one day lately the Chairman, speaking of the influence we have on each other, urged us to be joyful in the Lord. Another speaker, a very earnest worker, took up the same parable and spoke of us going about with a beaming face, &c; and yet another touched on this important subject. Yet each of these good men had a graver aspect than the other, and all looked as if there was little happiness to be had in being a child of God, or in serving our dear Master, whose service is perfect freedom and should be perfect joy. There was one speaker, however, who had a right to tell us to rejoice, as his bright, happy face was a powerful testimony to Christian joy.

Let us trust our Lord fully and leave our burdens on his shoulders, which are strong enough to bear them and us too. So we can face the world with a beaming countenance and joyful heart, and thus draw sinners to a loving Saviour, and help to send a ray of God's blessed sunshine into some lonely, weary soul, even by the wayside. L. A. B.

A HOME FOR METHODIST YOUNG MEN coming up to London is proposed. A limited liability company is in process of formation, and a good many shares have been applied for. That such work needs to be done, the experience of past years, with its tale of hundreds—nay, thousands—of young men from Methodist homes who have come up to this great city and have drifted away—who knows where?—only too sadly tells.—Methodist Times.

SOUTHSEA MISSION.—Mr. John Denning states in his last report that much blessing has attended the Gospel tent services on Southsea Common. In connection with Gospel efforts, the house to house visitation seems to be much appreciated by the townspeople. Four halls and rooms are in constant use for preaching. Mr. Denning will be thankful of help whether in money or garments. His address is Ebenezer Cottage, Inglis-road, Southsea.

SOCIAL PURITY.—In addition to lecturing, Mr. J. B. Wookey is prepared to preach special sermons to men. Are there not many ministers who will be glad to open their pulpits on Sunday afternoons, or at the close of Sunday evening services, to a man who can speak with force, delicacy, and authority on this difficult but momentous subject? We feel sure that all friends of Social Purity, whether they themselves can or cannot invite him, will unite their wishes and prayers that he may be abundantly blessed in his work to the full extent of his opportunities. Letters will find him if addressed to 31, Paternoster-square, London.—Sentinel.

PERSECUTED FOR RIGHTEOUSNESS SAKE. We have received from Mrs. R. B. Smyth, Bergamo, the details of a Romish persecution of a family of the name of Borgia, in Faran, Italy, by which they have been completely ruined. A false charge was trumped up against the head of the family, and he was imprisoned, while the efforts made by his wife to earn a livelihood by keeping a small shop were maliciously frustrated. No treatment seems too cruel for the devotees of Rome to extend to those who have embraced Protestant truth, and it behoves Protestants to show their sympathy with such persecuted brethren in a practical way. Any further details will be furnished, or help received for these suffering friends, by Mrs. Smyth, Bergamo, Italy.

WORKING WOMEN OF WESTMINSTER.—On the evening of Friday week the second annual social gathering of the members of "The Working Women's Dining Hall, at 57, Marshall-street, Westminster," took place under the presidency of its kind foundress, Miss Freeman, of 61, Belgrave-road, W. Upwards of 100 neatly-clad and respectable women were present, and regaled with a very plentiful supply of tea, coffee, cake, bread and butter, oranges and fruit. In addition to this, an agreeable surprise awaited the visitors, in the form of a very choice collection of pictures, and numbers of articles of vertu, sent in by Mrs. Freeman and her daughter. Rev. Mr. Trevelyan, rector of St. Matthew's, spoke a few words of kind encouragement to the women, and a most enjoyable evening was spent. This is the first dining hall for women alone that has been opened in London, we believe, and that it is valued may be gathered from the fact that 21,000 portions have been served in the dining hall in the past year.

Notes on Daily Readings.

MATTHEW.

FEBRUARY 5–CHAPTER VIII.

IN the three provious chapters we have had the words of our Lord, we are now called on to contemplate his works. To quote the words of Mr. Jukes: "Having published the laws of his kingdom, the Lord proceeds by acts of grace to bring 'the kingdom' nigh to his elect Israel. And what a kingdom! The strong man's house is spoiled. Death and disease flee away before the King's bidding. Lepers are cleansed, the dead are raised, the storms obey, the devils fear, and yet, though mercy rejoices against judgment, his people Israel will not receive their King."

VERSE 9.—"I also am a man under authority."—The word "also," omitted in the authorised version, but contained in the original, is of great importance. It indicates the Centurion's ideas of the authority of Christ as the sent One of God. He does not say, "I am a man in authority," but "under," and by comparison recognises in Christ, as Morison puts it, "The Lord High Commissioner of the Sovereign of the Universe, the Chief Captain of Salvation."

VERSE 22.—"Let the dead bury their dead."—He might need if he went to the funeral, to proceed, after the burial, to make inquiry about the will, and then about the distribution of the inheritance, and all the other things that follow thereupon; and thus waves of things after waves, coming in upon him in succession, might bear him very far from the harbour of truth. For this cause doubtless the Saviour draws him, and fastens him to Himself.—Chrysostom.

VERSES 23-27.—No need to fear when Jesus is at hand.

VERSES 28-34.—The Devil has no sovereignty, he can go no further than he is permitted. As Trapp quaintly says, "he could not make a louse, Exod. viii. 18; fire a house, Job i. 19; or drown a pig without Divine permission."

FEBRUARY 6.–CHAPTER IX.

VERSE 14,—"Go ye and learn what that meaneth."—In the history of Jonah, Christ found the mystery of his death, burial, and resurrection. Rest not in the shell of the Scriptures, but break it, and get at the kernel, as the sense is called (Judges vii. 15 margin). Stick not in the bark, but pierce into the heart of God's Word. Lawyers say, that the letter of the law is not the law, but the meaning of it. John never rested till the sealed book was opened. Pray for the spirit of revelation, plough with God's heifer, and we shall understand his riddles, provided that we wait in the use of all good means, till God irradiate both organ and object.—Trapp.

VERSE 18.—"Behold there came a certain ruler . . . ."—To be successful in our applications to God by prayer, four things are requisite, and this ruler teaches us what they are: First, a man should place himself in the presence of God—he came unto Him; secondly, he should humble himself sincerely before God—he fell down before Him, at his feet (Mark v. 22); thirdly, he should lay open his wants with a holy earnestness—he besought Him greatly (Mark v. 23); fourthly, he should have unbounded confidence in the power and goodness of Christ that his requests shall be granted—put Thy hand upon her, and she shall live. He who comes in this way to God, for salvation, is sure to be heard.—A. Clarke.

FEBRUARY 7.–CHAPTER X.

VERSE 18.—"And the Gentiles."—On this Bengel observes, with discriminating skill, "Hence this chapter has also a remoter reference, namely, to the Apostles' condition subsequent to the Ascension."

VERSE 42.—"Whosoever shall give to drink. . . ."—Water, the common element, and cold water, which cost them not so much as fire to warm it; for that, there is a torrent, and a very sea of all pleasures provided for thee to all eternity. God esteems men's deeds by their minds, and not their minds by their deeds. The least and cheapest courtesy that can be shown shall be rewarded. Therefore be not discouraged, weak Christians, though you should meet with hard measure from the world, though they should reward your weak services with reproaches, &c.; for the Lord will reward you: He will not despise the day of small things (Heb. vi. 10). What though, O precious soul, thy language be clipped and broken; what though thou canst but chatter like a crane; what though thou canst not talk for Christ so fluently and eloquently as others; what though thy hand be weak, so thou canst not do so much for Christ as others, nor so well for Christ as others; yet the Lord, seeing thy heart sincere, will reward thee. Thou shalt have everlasting rest for a little labour, and a great reward for a little work.—Brooks.

FEBRUARY 8.–CHAPTER XI.

VERSE 25.—"At that time Jesus answered . ." "At that time" when his servants doubted, and Israel mocked, and men despised Him; and who can tell what hosts of hell by all these circumstances now pressed against that loving spirit? "At that time Jesus answered, I thank thee, Lord. Even so, Father, for so it seemed good in thy sight." And then at once turning as if to others, He utters the well-known words, "Come unto Me, all that labour, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you—be now my subjects—and learn of Me, for I am meek and lowly of heart, and ye shall find rest." Here is indeed a kingdom which neither earth nor hell can move, "the peace of God, which passeth all understanding;" which can bear all, believe all, hope all, endure all: which out of apparent defeat can reap yet fresh glories. Here in the conscious enjoyment of such a kingdom, as now Lord of all—for it is here in the midst of this rejection—that He says, "All things are delivered unto Me of my Father;" while yet despised and doubted, He yet calls us to share his peace, in the kingdom which is not in creature blessings but in the Holy Ghost. This is indeed a kingdom, to live in the will of God; to lose all self-will even in good; to be glad when self-strength fails; when all self-glorying is utterly put from us; and yet to joy in God, in that his will is done, with an unfeigned "Even so Father, for thus it pleaseth Thee" . . . As revealing the kingdom this scene is perfect. As such St. Matthew gives it; while for the same reason it is omitted in the corresponding place in all the other Gospels.—Jukes.

FEBRUARY 9.–CHAPTER XII.

VERSE 31.—"The blasphemy against the Holy Ghost."—Many opinions have been advanced on this solemn subject. Dr. Morison well sums up the argument thus:—"The blasphemy against the Spirit is the scornful rejection of the Spirit as the only real Revealer of the holy propitiousness of God. It is the office of the Holy Spirit to reveal the holy propitiousness of God, to take of the things of Jesus, and to show them unto men. He who accepts the revelation accepts the heavenly tidings, and is saved. His heart gets into it the seed of everlasting bliss, and goodness, and glory. He who rejects the revelation, treating it as an imposture or a lie, blasphemes the Holy Spirit as an impostor and a liar; and thus shuts from his heart the only 'word,' message, news, or thought of God that could be in the sinner's heart the seed of everlasting bliss, goodness, and glory. It is thus the case that the cause of ultimate ruin is never a defect, but always in every case a defiance of heavenly grace. All sins shall be remitted that do not ripen into the blasphemy of the Spirit, that is, that do not deepen into the final rejection of the Gospel.

FEBRUARY 10.–MATTHEW XIII.

The seven parables of this chapter contain the unfolding of the mystery of that kingdom which was brought in upon the rejection of the Lord, and which is ruling during his absence for a season in consequence of that rejection.

The Sower presents a picture of Christ unfolding the truths of his Gospel, and committing them to men for universal proclamation. The seed is the Word of the kingdom.

The Wheat and Tares shows us the present state of the Church as seen in the world, a mixture of good and evil, to continue so until the harvest.

The Mustard Seed reveals "the outward form of the kingdom, a vast Gentile thing like Nebuchadnezzar's tree, in which birds of every wing—even those very birds which have plucked away the good seed—can find shelter."

The Leaven indicates the evil working of corrupt doctrine and practice introduced into the Church, and spreading throughout its whole extent.

The Treasure hid in the field declares "the value of the Church to Christ, who was content to take the field of this world for the sake of the treasure hid therein."

The Pearl of great price sets forth, some think, the peerless beauty of the treasure, Christ's estimate of the loveliness of his redeemed ones; others see in it rather the preciousness of Christ himself to those who receive Him, and who find in his righteousness their passport into his kingdom.

The Drag-net unfolds the final separating process of judgment, the good gathered, and the evil cast away, preparatory to the manifestation of the kingdom in its glory at the coming of the King.

VERSE 51.—"Have ye understood all these things?"—The disciples replied, "Yea, Lord;" but how deep was their need of further instruction, such as came to them when the Holy Spirit was poured out upon them! How precious to a believer, and how needful in order to his usefulness and growth, is acquaintance with these "mysteries of the kingdom." Observe that it is the "scribe instructed unto the kingdom of heaven" who is able to "bring forth out of his treasure things new and old."

FEBRUARY 11. CHAPTER XIV.

VERSES 1, 2, 3.—A wicked man needs no other tormentor, especially for sins of blood, than his own heart. Revel, O Herod, and feast, and frolic, and please thyself with thy pastimes, and dances, and triumphs; thy sin shall be as some fury that shall invisibly follow thee, and scourge thy guilty heart with secret lashes, and upon all occasions shall beget thine hell within thee.—Bp. Hall.

VERSE 30.—"Beginning to sink."—Oh painful sight, to see a disciple of Jesus sinking! The waters are already breast-high. Another moment and he is lost! But no, if the disciple had lost sight of the Saviour, the Saviour had not lost sight of the disciple. It is written: "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee, and through the floods they shall not overflow thee;" and Jesus will make it good. The Lord will let none of those who are given to Him by the Father be snatched out of his hand. If only the disciple does not himself choose to sink, if only a consciousness of his need and a desire for the Saviour's help are still alive in his heart; if he does but call out, like Peter, Lord, save me, the Lord hastens to him.

> The Heavenly Hero has prepared a way
> None knows but He;
> And rather than his faithful ones should sink,
> The very sea its raging floods shall link
> Into a pavement firm. He rules the wave,
> The Heavenly Hero, mighty still to save!
> Prof. Lehmann.

MESSRS. HURDITCH AND SPURR.

A MOST interesting and successful week of meetings, conducted by Messrs. Hurditch and Spurr, at the united request of the ministers and a committee of the Baptist, Independent, and Wesleyan churches of Melksham, has just been held in the respective chapels. From the first it was evident that a blessing was in store. The Gospel, spoken and sung, was blessed to many. At the inquiry-meetings held after the services each night many professed to have found peace, while there are many others who do not yet seem to have realised that blessing.

The "Bible Readings" in the afternoon were largely attended, and much enjoyed, and it is hoped an incentive was thereby given to a more thorough study of the Scriptures.

The closing meeting was held in the Wesleyan Chapel on Sunday evening, January 25, when the building was filled to excess. Nearly all stayed to the after-meeting. Mr. Spurr having expressed his great pleasure at the unity that existed between the churches, and his gratitude to God for the help and blessing afforded on behalf of Mr. Hurditch (who had left on the 23rd to begin a Mission in Cardiff) and himself, very warmly and feelingly thanked all the friends who had helped in various ways. Rev. J. Brown, on behalf of his brother ministers, Revs. M. Allen and J. A. Beard, and the churches they represented, stated that they thanked God for directing them to the town; and expressed the hope that God might very richly bless them wherever they might labour.

CHILDREN'S SCRIPTURE UNION.—Portions for the ensuing week:—Feb. 8, Matt. ix. 27-38; Feb 9, x. 1—15; Feb. 10, x. 16—31; Feb. 11, x. 32—42; Feb. 12, xi. 1—15; Feb. 13, xi. 16—30; Feb. 14, xii. 1—13.

CLERICAL AND LAY ASSOCIATION.—The next Conference is fixed for Tuesday and Wednesday, April 14 and 15, at Durham. The subjects chosen for discussion are: (1) The training and employment of lay helpers for evangelistic work among the masses; (2) the use and abuse of means in relation to personal holiness; (3) the best way of guarding the young from the assaults of sceptical and immoral literature; (4) Woman's work in the Church.

---

* These notes are on the chapters of Scripture arranged for daily reading by Rev. Thos. Richardson in his "Bible and Prayer Union," but they are not intended in any way to interfere with the "Monthly Notes" issued by him. Any of our readers who desire to become members of the Union should communicate with Rev. T. Richardson, St. Benet's Vicarage, Mile End Road, E.

Notices of Books, &c.

DRIFTING AWAY. By the Hon. PHILIP CARTERET HILL, D.C.L. 6d. Bemrose. A kindly-written but decidedly antagonistic review of certain parts of Professor Drummond's "Natural Law in the Spiritual World."

WHITE CROSS SERIES. For men only. Hatchards. 1d. each. In unmistakable and unequivocal language, the writers of this remarkable series lay the axe at the root of the deadly upas tree of social impurity which towers in our midst, and inflict withering blows upon the evils of the day, which are blighting and sapping the young life of our great cities.

In THE STORY OF A GREAT DELUSION, by WILLIAM WHITE (E. W. Allen), we have an arraignment, through more than 600 pages, of the theory and practice and legislative compulsion of child vaccination. It appears to us to be a subject on which much can fairly be adduced on both sides; those who are not fully posted up on the negative side will find in this portly volume ample material for their digestion.

NATIONAL TEMPERANCE LEAGUE'S ANNUAL, 1885. By ROBERT RAE. 337, Strand. The usual statistical matter is included in this year's annual. Two sketches, with portraits, are given of the late Samuel Bowly and Joseph Livesey. There is also a portrait of the Bishop of Exeter (Bishop of London elect), President of the League. The official police returns of Rev. J. W. Horsley will be read with painful interest.

THE CHURCH MISSIONARY GLEANER (volume for 1884) contains interesting records of work done on behalf of the teeming millions in our colonies and in heathen lands. It should be read with interest by all interested in work in the Mission field.—THE JUVENILE INTRUCTOR is well adapted to stimulate children to help by their offerings in the extension of the Saviour's kingdom. In many cases we trust its perusal will implant the first seeds of a desire to become a missionary (Mission House, Salisbury-square, E.C.)

